PREFACE.

This work is a revision of the author's Elementary Grammar, first published in 1869. Although many changes have been made, especially in the arrangement of topics, the author has kept steadily in view, in the work of revision, the aim he had in the preparation of the original treatise—to present the subject in a style neither too difficult for the beginner, nor too simple for the advanced student.

Part I consists of lessons in technical grammar, sentence-making, and composition. Great care has been taken never to define a term or to enunciate a principle without first preparing the mind of the pupil to grasp and comprehend the meaning and use of the term defined or the principle enunciated. Ideas are first developed by intelligent questioning and appropriate illustrations; then, clothed in words. The author would call special attention to the exercises in false syntax. The "Cautions," if intelligently taught and applied, will lead the pupil to avoid, as well as to criticise, the most common inaccuracies of expression.

Sentence-making and composition are, it is believed, presented in a natural and attractive manner. Words are given for the pupil to use in sentences. At first, all the words are given; then, a part of them. Having acquired some facility in the construction of sentences, the pupil is next taught to use groups of words, phrases, and clauses, as single words.

In composition, the pupil is first taught to tell what he sees in a picture, and to answer questions concerning the objects represented in it. The description and the answers following it make (iii) a composition. He is next taught to study a picture, and to exercise his inventive powers in writing short stories suggested by it. Experience has demonstrated that this is a natural method of instruction, and that pupils taught in this manner need practice only to enable them to describe scenery, as well as occurrences in actual life, readily and accurately.

This course of instruction is introductory to that given in Part II, which contains a concise yet exhaustive statement of the properties and modifications of the different parts of speech, carefully prepared models for parsing and analysis, rules of syntax, and plans for the description of single objects—a continuation of the composition work begun in Part I. Notes, remarks, and suggestions are but sparingly introduced, as they serve rather to confuse than to assist the learner.

Diagrams for “mapping” sentences are given in connection with the models for analysis. This is a new feature, introduced at the request of a large number of intelligent teachers.

It has been said that there is no royal road to geometry. The same may be said of grammar and composition. The meaning and application of technical terms must be learned, sentences must be analyzed, words must be parsed, before the student can comprehend the philosophy that underlies the correct use of any language. The labor necessary to acquire this knowledge, and the practice necessary to secure facility and accuracy in the use of one’s mother-tongue, may be made attractive, but it can not be dispensed with, neither can it be materially lessened. All that is claimed for this work is, that it shows how this labor should be expended to secure the best results.

GRAMMAR.

PART I.

ELEMENTARY COURSE.

1. OBJECTS.

1. The Senses.—We have five senses: seeing, hearing, feeling, tasting, and smelling.

When we see, feel, taste, or smell things, or hear sounds, we are said to perceive them.

I drop a book upon the floor. A force, called gravitation, draws it toward the center of the earth. We can not perceive this force, but we are conscious of it,—that is, we know such a force must exist.

We are conscious of many other things that we can not perceive; as, love, hatred, joy, sorrow.

All these things are called objects. What, then, is an object?

2. An Object is any thing we can perceive, or of which we may be conscious.

When we think, we think of objects; when we talk, we talk about objects; when we write, we write about objects.

When we talk or write, we use words to express our thoughts. What, then, is a word?

(7)
3. A Word is a syllable, or a combination of syllables, used in the expression of thought.

Questions.—How many senses have we? Name them. Name some things that we can perceive. Name some things that we can not perceive, but of which we may be conscious. What is an object? What is a word?

2. Definitions.

1. Language is the expression of thought by means of words.

   When we talk, we express our ideas by spoken words. This is called Spoken Language.

2. Spoken Language is the expression of ideas by the voice.

   When we write or print our thoughts, we use letters which represent sounds. This is called Written Language.

3. Written Language is the expression of thought by the use of written or printed characters.

4. Grammar treats of the principles and usages of language.

5. English Grammar teaches how to speak and write the English language correctly.

3. The Sentence.

   What is the color of chalk? It is white. Chalk breaks easily: is it tough or brittle? It is brittle. We can not see through it: hence we say it is opaque.
We will join the words white, brittle, and opaque with the word chalk, thus:

Chalk is white.
Chalk is brittle.
Chalk is opaque.

Each of these groups of words makes complete sense, and is called a Sentence.

1. A Sentence is a group of words making complete sense.

Each group is also called a Proposition.

2. A Proposition is a thought expressed in words.

In writing sentences, observe the following directions:

1st. Begin each sentence with a capital letter.
2d. Spell each word correctly.
3d. Place a period [.] at the end of every sentence that declares something, or makes a command.
4th. Place an interrogation point [?] at the end of every question.
5th. Never divide a syllable at the end of a line.

Questions.—What is a sentence? A proposition? Give the directions for writing sentences.

4. SENTENCE-MAKING.

1.

When I say, "The window is open," I state a fact, using what is called a Declarative Sentence.

1. A Declarative Sentence is a sentence used in stating a fact.
When I say, "Is the window open?" I ask a question, using an Interrogative Sentence.

2. An Interrogative Sentence is a sentence used in asking a question.

Form declarative sentences out of the following words:

1. Iceland, very, is, in, it, cold. 2. Lesson, an, this, easy, is. 3. June, cherries, in, ripe, are. 4. Is, house, our, hill, the, under. 5. Always, good, happy, are, scholars. 6. Cap, river, into, the, fell, boy’s, red, little. 7. Deep, our, is, lane, very, in, snow, the. 8. Corn, spring, the, in, plants, farmer. 9. Ice, the, smooth, when, I, skate, to, like, very, is.

Form interrogative sentences out of the following words:

1. Lemons, where, grow, do. 2. Is, sick, to-day, brother, John’s. 3. Cold, it, very, was, yesterday. 4. Aunt, does, the, toll-gate, live, your, beyond, river, the, over. 5. Writing, exercise, is, pleasant, a, not. 6. You, school, at, not, yesterday, were. 7. Pick, white, I, this, may, rose.

Note.—Write other groups, and require the pupils to arrange them into sentences. Use this exercise until the pupils can easily and readily construct sentences containing not fewer than fifteen words.

Questions.—What is a declarative sentence? An interrogative sentence? Repeat the directions to be observed in writing sentences.

II.

When I say, "Clarence, open the window," I make a command; and when I say, "Do forgive me!" I express an entreaty. In each instance I use an Imperative Sentence.

3. An Imperative Sentence is a sentence used in expressing a command or an entreaty.

When I say, "Oh, that window is open again!" I express some feeling or emotion, using an Exclamatory Sentence.
4. An Exclamatory Sentence is a sentence used in expressing some feeling or emotion.

An exclamation point (!) is usually placed after an exclamatory sentence.

Form imperative sentences out of the following words:

1. Go, your, seats, to, boys. 2. Home, go, once, at, Ponto. 3. Me, your, lend, book, Jane. 4. Minutes, lesson, ten, pupils, study, the. 5. Question, Susan, this, answer. 6. Skates, John, me, have, let, my. 7. Book, put, shelf, the, on, the. 8. Parents, obey, your, always. 9. Team, into, the, drive, the, Jonas, barn.

Form exclamatory sentences out of the following words:

1. Am, ha, ha, ha, I, it, of, glad. 2. Clock, four, hark, strikes, the. 3. Pretty, is, oh, she, how. 4. Don’t, it, ugh, like, I. 5. Alone, pshaw, me, let.

Tell the kinds of sentences in the following exercises:

Tell the kinds of sentences in your reading lessons. Change the form of these sentences from declarative to interrogative, etc.

QUESTIONS.—What is an imperative sentence? An exclamatory sentence? What mark is usually placed after an exclamatory sentence?

5. QUOTATION MARKS.

The man yawned, and said, “How sleepy I am!”

In this sentence, these marks (" ") are placed before the words that the man used, and these (" ") after them. They are called Quotation Marks.
Quotation Marks should be used, in writing, when we quote the exact language of another.

Such a quotation should begin with a capital letter.

When we state what another says, without using his exact language, the quotation marks should not be used. In this book, the answers supposed to be given by the pupils to the questions asked by the teacher, are usually not quoted.

Use quotation marks and capital letters properly in these sentences:

1. Did your mother send you, said the merchant, gruffly.
2. The general said, be ready to start at 5 A. M.
3. Will you come into my parlor, said the spider to the fly.
4. The pupils kept repeating, four times three are twelve, four times three are twelve, for at least three minutes.

Question.—When should quotation marks be used?

6. Parts of Speech.

"Scholars study." What word is here used instead of the names of the persons of whom we are speaking? "Scholars." What word tells what scholars do? "Study."

"Good scholars study." What word here describes scholars? "Good."

"Good scholars study diligently." What word here tells how good scholars study? "Diligently."

Words, then, not only have different meanings, but they are also used in different ways.

They can be divided into classes, according to their meaning and use. These classes are called Parts of Speech.

Parts of Speech are the classes into which words are divided according to their meaning and use.

It is necessary to know its meaning and use in order to determine to which class any word belongs.

Questions.—What are parts of speech? What is necessary in order to determine the class to which any word belongs?
THE NOUN.

7. ORAL LESSON

What are the words boy, girl, city, door, window, book, desk? They are names of objects.

That is correct. They are the names of objects, not the objects themselves. Because each word is a name, it is called a Noun, which means a name.

1. A Noun is a name; as, boy, John, railroad.

What are the words house, farm, garden, dog, horse, blacksmith, merchant? They are nouns. Why? Because they are names.

What are the words Mary, John, Washington, Chicago, Ohio, America? They are nouns. Why? Because they are names.

Can the name boy be applied to any boy in the school, or in the world? It can. It is a name, then, which is common to all boys; that is, it can be applied to each of them. So, also, the name girl is common to all girls; the name house, to all houses; the name city, to all cities. Objects of the same kind form what is called a class. The same name can be applied to each object belonging to the same class. The names boy, girl, house, and city are called Common Nouns, because they can be applied to any one of a class of objects.

2. A Common Noun is a name which may be applied to any one of a class of objects; as, bird, door, lightning.

Can the name John be applied to all boys? It can not. Why? Because boys have different names, such as Charles, Frank, Samuel, Clarence. Why are boys called by different names? In order to distinguish one from another, or to distinguish a particular boy from the rest of the boys in the school, or in the world.
Can the name city be applied to all cities? It can. Is the name Chicago applied to all cities? It is not. Why? Because it is the name of a particular city. That is correct; and the names given to particular objects to distinguish them from the rest of their class, are called Proper Nouns.

3. A Proper Noun is the name of some particular person, place, people, or thing; as, Susan, Rome, American, Mars.

What kind of noun is plow? It is a common noun. Why? Because it can be applied to all plows.

What kind of noun is New York? It is a proper noun. Why? It is the name of a particular city.

Rem. 1.—Proper nouns should commence with capital letters. A common noun should commence with a small letter, unless it is the first word of a sentence or is a word of special importance. The words I and O should always be capital letters.

Write the names of five kinds of fruit; of five kinds of grain; of three articles of clothing; of five games; of five bad habits; of six farming implements; of four trades; of six townships in your county; of six large cities; of five large rivers; of five mountains; of seven of your school-mates.

What are the words you have written? Why? Tell which are common and which are proper nouns.

Tell which are common and which are proper nouns in the following list:

Rem. 2.—Common nouns, when in a tabulated list of words as above, may begin with capital letters, as if each began a sentence.
Point out all the nouns in your reading lesson, and tell which are common and which are proper nouns, using the following model.

"Cicero was an orator."

Cicero is a noun; it is a name: proper; it is the name of a particular person. Orator is a noun; (why?): common; it may be applied to any one of a class of objects.

Questions.—What is a noun? How many classes of nouns are there? What is a common noun? Give examples. What is a proper noun? Give examples. Which class should commence with capital letters? When should common nouns commence with capital letters?

8. NUMBER.

Does the word fan denote one object, or more than one? It denotes but one object. Does the word fans denote one object, or more than one? It denotes more than one object. That is right. When a noun denotes but one object, it is said to be in the Singular Number.

1. The Singular Number denotes but one object.

When a noun denotes more than one object, it is said to be in the Plural Number.

2. The Plural Number denotes more than one object.

The last sound in the word fan readily unites with the sound represented by the letter s, and its plural is formed by adding s to the singular. The plural of any noun ending with a sound that will readily unite with the sound represented by s, is formed by adding s to the singular.

The plural of any word ending with a sound that will not readily unite with the sound represented by s, is formed by adding es to the singular, when the singular does not end with e; as, church, church-es; mass, mass-es.
These are two ways of forming plurals. —There are many other ways. Nouns ending in \( f \) or \( fe \) usually change those endings to \( ves \); those ending in \( y \), with a vowel before it, add \( s \); those ending in \( y \), with a consonant before it, change \( y \) to \( i \) and add \( es \); those ending in \( o \), with a consonant before it, add \( es \). A few nouns are alike in both numbers; as, sheep, deer, trout, vermin. Letters, figures, marks, and signs add 's; as, b's, 6's, *'s, ß's.

Write the plurals of the following nouns:

|-----|-------|-------|--------|---------|---------|

Note.—The teacher should assist the pupil in writing the plurals of some of these words. They ought not to be required to remember and apply a large number of rules. The plural forms must be learned by practice in writing them.

Questions.—What does the singular number denote? The plural number? Mention some of the ways of forming the plural number.

9. Abbreviations.

I.

"Dr. Vinton is a brother of Gen. Vinton, and the father of Mrs. Noble."

In this sentence, the first word is Doctor; but in writing it the first and last letters only have been used. This is a short way of writing a word, and is called an Abbreviation.

The word General is also abbreviated, the first three letters only being used. In abbreviating the word Mistress, all the letters are omitted except the first, the fifth, and the last.

A period should be placed after an abbreviation.

Rem.—Abbreviations generally begin with capital letters.

*Fair usage policy applies
Write the abbreviations for the days of the week.
Write the abbreviations for the months of the year.
Write the abbreviations for the States of the Union.

Note.—"A. M.," when placed after the name of a person, is equivalent to Master of Arts. "P. M.," when written or printed in a similar manner, is equivalent to Postmaster.

The abbreviations for weights and measures, as well as ult. and prox., should begin with small letters, unless they stand alone, or at the beginning of sentences. In some cases, small letters may be used as the abbreviations for forenoon and afternoon.

Make the proper abbreviations in the following sentences:

1. Take notice.—The train will leave at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. 2. Samuel Fish, Member of Congress, has removed to Buffalo, New York. 3. Send the books to Joel Elkins, Master of Arts, and collect on delivery. 4. My father left for Europe on the seventh day of the last month. 5. Send me four barrels of flour this forenoon. 6. I will pay you on the sixth day of the next month.

Questions.—What is an abbreviation? How are periods and capitals used in connection with abbreviations?

10. CONTRACTIONS.

"Do n't fail to come." In writing or printing do n't, a mark (') is used between n and t. It is called an Apostrophe. In an abbreviation or contraction like this, it shows that one or more letters are omitted.

Tell what letters are omitted in the contracted words in these sentences:

1. We're going home. 2. We'll not go with you. 3. I didn't know that you told 'em not to go. 4. I'll help you as soon as I've learned my lesson. 5. We came from o'er the sea. 6. They're both truants. 7. The corporal said, "'Bout face."
11. ELEMENTS OF A SENTENCE.

In the sentence, "Chalk is white," chalk is called the Subject, for it is that about which something is said, or affirmed.

1. The Subject of a proposition is that of which something is affirmed.

White is called the Predicate, for it is that which is affirmed of the subject chalk.

2. The Predicate of a proposition is that which is affirmed of the subject.

Is is called the Copula, for it is used to join the predicate to the subject, and the word copula means a link. The copula also affirms that the predicate belongs to the subject. It is sometimes a group of words; as, will be, shall have been, etc.

3. The Copula is a word, or group of words, used to join a predicate to a subject, and to make an assertion.

In the sentence, "Ice is cold," what is the subject? "Ice." Why? Because it is that of which something is affirmed. What is the predicate? "Cold." Why? Because it is that which is affirmed of the subject. What is the copula? "Is." Why? Because it is the word used to assert the predicate cold of the subject ice. Why is it called the copula? Because it links or joins the predicate to the subject.

Point out the subject, predicate, and copula in each of the following sentences:

1. Air is transparent. 2. Iron is heavy. 3. Nero was cruel. 4. Jane has been studious. 5. Walter will be tardy. 6. Mary should be kind. 7. Ellen is unhappy. 8. Martha was cheerful. 9. George should have been industrious.
Point out the nouns in these sentences, and tell which are common and which are proper nouns.

QUESTIONS.—What is the subject of a proposition? The predicate? The copula? What does the word copula mean?

12. THE PREDICATE.

In the sentence, "Man is mortal," the predicate mortal denotes a quality belonging to the subject man. Words which express qualities may be called quality-words.

Nouns may be used as predicates. When they are thus used, they denote kind or class.

In the sentence, "Horses are animals," what is the subject? "Horses." Why? What is the predicate? "Animals." Why? What does the word animals denote? It denotes the kind or class of beings to which horses belong. What part of speech is it? It is a noun. Why? What is the copula? "Are."

Model.—Eagles are birds.

QUESTIONS.—What are quality-words? Can they be used as predicates? Give example. Give an example of a noun used as a predicate.
13. ELEMENTS.

We have seen that a sentence is composed of parts. These parts are called Elements.

1. An Element is one of the distinct parts of a sentence.

2. The Subject and the Predicate are called Principal Elements, because no sentence can be formed without them. All other distinct parts of a sentence are called Subordinate Elements. The Copula is not called an element.

3. Analysis is the separation of a sentence into its elements. Any sentence can be so separated.

Analyze the following sentences, using this model.

"Iron is heavy."

This is a sentence, it is a group of words making complete sense: declarative, it states a fact.

Iron is the subject, it is that of which something is affirmed: heavy is the predicate, it is that which is affirmed of the subject: is is the copula, it joins the predicate to the subject.

Iron | is : heavy.

I. Indigo is blue. 2. Flies are insects. 3. Mary was tardy. 4. Boys will be playful. 5. Children should be careful. 6. Men may be imprudent. 7. John can be studious. 8. Roses are fragrant. 9. Julius should be diligent.

Point out the common and proper nouns in the above sentences.

Questions.—What is an element? What are the principal elements? Subordinate elements? What is analysis?
1. COMPOSITION.

Note.—The answers to the questions in this and similar exercises, should first be given orally, and then written on slates or slips of paper. The first answer should begin with the words, “I see.”

Look at the picture, and answer the following questions:

1. What do you see in this picture?
2. What are the boy and the girl doing?
3. Where is the bird’s nest?
4. Where is the bird?
5. Do you think the children will rob the nest?

Read what has been written.
II.

1. What do you see in this picture?
2. What is the dog doing?
3. How many rats has he killed already?
4. What are the rats trying to do?
5. Will the dog catch the one that is trying to climb the broom? Why?
6. Where do rats live?
7. What harm do they do?

Read what has been written.

Note.—Select other pictures, and ask questions concerning what is to be seen in them. Should a painting or chromo be used, call attention to the different colors; write their names, and compare them with similarly colored objects in the school-room—such as articles of dress, flowers, etc. This exercise may be used, with profit, at intervals during several years of school life; and it should not be dispensed with until pupils can use pictures, in composition work, without the assistance of a teacher.
THE VERB.

15. ORAL LESSON.

The predicate, then, can be affirmed of the subject directly; one word expressing both the copula and the predicate.

A word which can be used to affirm something of a subject, is called a Verb. It usually expresses action, being, or state; as, I run, denotes action; I am, denotes being; I sleep, denotes state.

A Verb is a word which expresses action, being, or state; as, George writes, I am, he dreams.

What is the word "trot" in the sentence, "Horses trot?" It is a verb. Why? Because it affirms action of the subject "horses."

What is the word "stand" in the sentence "Horses stand?" It is a verb. Why? Because it affirms state of the subject "horses."

Write sentences, using the following verbs as predicates:

— reap. — work. — recite. — whistle.

Model.—Birds sing.

Point out all the verbs in your reading lesson.

Questions.—What is a verb? What does it usually express? Give the directions for writing sentences. (See page 9.)

4. A Copulative Verb is used to join a predicate to a subject, and to make an assertion.

Ex.—"Lambs are playful." The verb "are" is used to join the predicate "playful" to the subject "lambs." It is, therefore, a copulative verb.

Write seven sentences containing transitive verbs.

Model.—John struck James.

Write seven sentences containing intransitive verbs.

Models.—Houses stand. Boys swim.

Write seven sentences containing copulative verbs.

Model.—The weather was warm.

Write sentences, using the following nouns as objective elements:

— cars. — grass. — books. — churches.

Model.—Fire burns wood.

Analyze the following sentences, using this

MODEL.

"Scholars learn lessons,"

This is a sentence; (why?): declarative; (why?).

Scholars is the subject; (why?): learn is the predicate, (why?). "Learn" is modified by lessons, an objective element.

CAUTIONS.

Point out the verbs in the following sentences, using these models.

I. "The nights are chilly."

Are is a verb; it denotes being: copulative; it joins the predicate to the subject.

II. "Corn grows."

Grows is a verb; (why?): intransitive; it does not require an object to complete its meaning.

III. "Horses draw wagons."

Draw is a verb; (why?): transitive; it requires an object to complete its meaning.

Point out the nouns in these sentences, and tell which are common and which are proper nouns.

17. INCORRECT LANGUAGE.

Caution I.—Do not use saw for seen, or went for gone, after has, have, has been, or have been.

Ex.—1. I have saw a fine horse to-day. 2. The little boy has went into the woods. 3. George has went there several times. 4. Have you saw Mr. Olds to-day?

Caution II.—Do not use see or seen for saw in expressing past time.
Ex.—1. Hiram see a flock of wild turkeys yesterday. 2. I seen a dog running after a fox. 3. I know John was whispering; I seen him. 4. It is the largest peach I ever see.

Caution III.—Do not use done for did, or come for came, in expressing past time.

Ex.—1. He done his work well yesterday. 2. My father come home last week. 3. I done my task before Eli come.

Caution IV.—Do not use is, was, or has been as the copula or predicate of a sentence whose subject denotes more than one object.

Ex.—1. The horse and the cow is in the stable. 2. Weasels was plenty around there. 3. Eliza and Sarah has been here. 4. We was very much surprised. 5. Are you sure that they was there?

Caution V.—Do not use was for were as the copula or predicate of a sentence whose subject is you.

Ex.—1. You was there, we know. 2. Perhaps you was trying to hide somewhere.

18. SENTENCE-MAKING.

In the sentence, "John and Silas went to town," two words are used as the subject—what are they? John and Silas. In the sentence, "John, Silas, and Ezra went to town," how many nouns are used as the subject? Three—John, Silas, and Ezra.

Observe that in the first sentence the two nouns used as the subject are joined by the word and. There is no comma (,) after the first word. Observe, also, that in the second sentence, there is a comma after the first two nouns—John and Silas.
When several words are used in the same way, they are said to be of the same kind, or rank, and they form what is called a series. When more than two words are thus used to form a series, they should be separated by commas. Write the following rules for punctuation on your slates, and commit them to memory:

Rule I.—Three or more words of the same kind, or rank, used together, should be separated by commas.

Rule II.—Two words of the same kind, or rank, used together, are not usually separated by commas, but are connected by and, or, or some similar word.

Rem.—When two words of the same rank, used together, are not connected by and, or, or some similar word, they are usually separated by commas.

Arrange the following words into sentences:

1. Houses, mills, build, and, bridges, mechanics.
2. Raise, wheat, corn, farmers, barley, and.
3. In, oranges, West Indies, lemons, grow, the, and, pine-apples.
4. Metals, gold, are, silver, precious, and.
5. Mary, Susan, cousins, are, Ada, and.
6. New York, cities, and, large, Philadelphia, are, San Francisco.

Note.—In writing these sentences, observe carefully the directions given in the two rules for the use of the comma.

Fill the blanks in the following exercises:

1. I have —— —— —— in my desk.
2. —— —— —— are wild animals.
3. A merchant sells —— —— ——.
4. I can buy —— —— —— of a grocer.
5. Have you seen —— —— ——?
6. —— —— —— are —— in Colorado.
7. I can see —— —— from my window.
8. Violets —— —— are —— flowers.
9. —— and four and —— and six equal ——.
Tell what these children are doing. Give them names. Tell whether the two standing together are at home, or at the home of the little girl holding the doll.

Tell how old you think the little girl is that has a basket on her arm. How much older is the little boy?

Write a story about three children that played at keeping shop one afternoon.

Write a story about a brother and a sister that spent a day with their cousin, who lived in the country. Tell what games they played.

Write a story about three little girls that were left alone at home one afternoon. Tell how they spent the afternoon, what books they read, what games they played, etc.

Write a description of your play-house at home. Tell how large it is, and what playthings are in it.
THE ADJECTIVE.

20. ORAL LESSON.

When quality-words are joined to nouns by copulas, they are said to be predicated of those nouns.

They may be written or printed in connection with nouns, without being joined to them by copulas; thus: white chalk, sour apples, a square table, good boys.

When thus used, they describe or restrict the meaning of nouns, but are not predicated of them.

Words that do not express quality may be used as modifiers of nouns. In the sentences, "This book is heavy," "That book is light," "Two boys were sick," "Three boys were idle," the words, this, that, two, and three, are modifiers of the nouns that follow them; but they do not express any quality. This and that point out the nouns to which they belong; two and three denote number.

Those words which modify nouns by expressing quality, pointing them out, or denoting number, are called Adjectives.

1. An Adjective is a word used to describe or define a noun.

2. There are two classes of Adjectives: Descriptive and Definitive.

All quality-words are Descriptive Adjectives.

3. A Descriptive Adjective describes a noun by expressing some quality belonging to it; as, good, white.

Pointing-out words and number-words are Definitive Adjectives.

4. A Definitive Adjective limits or defines a noun without expressing any of its qualities; as, this, few.
Rem.—Most adjectives derived from proper nouns, should commence with capitals; as, American cotton, French customs.

Place each of the following adjectives before a noun:

Dry — Dirty — Rough — Spanish —
Bad — Light — Round — Healthy —
Soft — Moist — Square — Pleasant —
Good — Warm — Smooth — Australian —

Models.—Smooth ice. Clean hands.

What kind of adjectives are these? Why?

Place each of the following adjectives before a noun:

That — Some — Latter — Yonder —
Four — Many — Either — Neither —
Such — These — Certain — Another —
Each — Those — Sundry — Fourfold —

Models.—Much money. Sundry books.

What kind of adjectives are these? Why?

Point out the adjectives in the following sentences, using this

MODEL.

“Fearful storms sweep over these islands.”

Fearful is an adjective; it is a word which modifies the meaning of a noun: descriptive; it denotes a quality. These is an adjective; definitive; it defines without denoting any quality.

1. Both horses are lame. 2. Ripe peaches are plentiful.
3. Large houses are expensive. 4. You may take either road.
5. That boy has a kind father. 6. Every man carried a square box. 7. This lesson is hard. 8. The brave soldier received a severe wound. 9. That large cat caught this beautiful bird.

Point out the nouns and verbs in the above sentences.

Point out the adjectives in your reading lesson.

Questions.—What is an adjective? A descriptive adjective? A definitive adjective? What adjectives should commence with capitals?

Use the proper articles instead of the dashes in the following sentences:

1. Such — law is — disgrace to any state. 2. Repeat — first four lines in concert. 3. Love took up — harp of life, and smote on all — chords with might. 4. — fox is cunning. 5. — days are calm. 6. — wise son maketh — glad father.

Point out the articles in your reading lesson, using this model.

"The man was riding in a wagon."

The is a definite article; it points out definitely the object which it restricts. A is an indefinite article; it restricts in an indefinite or general manner.

Questions.—What words are called articles? Which is the definite article? The indefinite article? When is a used? When is an used?

I.

Write sentences containing the following words, supplying words, where necessary, to make complete sense:

1. Flowers, the, garden. 2. Fishes, sea. 3. Nests, birds. 4. Winter, go, robins, where. 5. Quarts, how, gallon. 6. Five, thirty. 7. Columbus, Ohio. 8. Lion, man, the. 9. Let, book, me. 10. Dog, that, cross, is, ugly, and. 11. I, in, large, live, a, roomy, house, brick. 12. Col. Smith, prudent, man, brave, and, honorable, a, is. 13. Sugar, grocer, soap, coffee, a, sells.

Fill the blanks in these exercises, carefully choosing words.

1. ______ ______ America.
2. San Francisco ______ ______ California.
3. ______ ______ in the winter.
4. I have ______ ______ lesson.
5. ______ ______ when the ice is smooth.
6. Where do the birds ______?
Caution II.—Do not use a before vocal sounds, or an before subvocals and aspirates.

Ex.—1. An hundred cents make one dollar. 2. There should be an universal rejoicing. 3. This is a open country. 4. Henry is a honest lad.

Caution II.—Do not use these or those before a noun in the singular number.

Ex.—1. I don't like these kind of apples. 2. These sort of people are good neighbors. 3. Those yoke of oxen belong to me.

Caution III.—Do not use them for those; this here for this; or that 'ere for that.

Ex.—1. Look at them tramps. 2. Do you live in this here house? 3. That 'ere girl is not very handsome.
24. COMPOSITION.

What do you see in this picture? What can be seen through the window? Is the storm approaching the house where the girl is, or has it passed it? Why do you think so? Does the picture represent a morning or an evening scene?

Write a description of the prominent objects to be seen from the door of the school-house—also, a description of any thing that may occur while you are looking at these objects.

Describe what may be seen through the windows and doors of the sitting-room and parlor at home.

Describe what may be seen from various places near your home—also, what may have occurred during your visits to those places.
THE PARTICIPLE.

25. ORAL LESSON.

"James saw the man plowing."

What is the subject of this sentence? Why? What is the predicate? Why? What is the objective element? Why?

What words limit or restrict "man"? The words "the" and "plowing." What does the word "plowing" denote? It tells what the man was doing. Does it affirm any thing of man?

It does not: it modifies it like an adjective.

The word "plowing," then, partakes of the properties of both a verb and an adjective. Like a verb, it expresses action: like an adjective, it modifies a noun. Because it partakes of the properties of two parts of speech, it is called a Participle, which means partaking of.

1. A Participle is a word derived from a verb, and partakes of the properties of a verb, and of an adjective or a noun.

When we say, "The boy is writing," the participle "writing" denotes a continuance of the act: the boy is continuing to write.

When we say, "The letter is written," the participle "written" denotes a completion of the act: the writing of the letter is finished.

When we say, "Having written the letter, he mailed it," the words "having written" denote that the writing of the letter was completed before the time represented by the verb "mailed."

2. There are three Participles: the Present, the Perfect, and the Compound.
3. The Present Participle denotes the continuance of action, being, or state; as, loving, being loved.

The present active participle always ends in ing. This participle may be used as an adjective. It is then placed before the noun it modifies, as in the sentence, “Look at the twinkling stars;” and is called a participial adjective. It may also be used as a noun, as in the sentence, “I am fond of reading.”

4. The Perfect Participle denotes the completion of action, being, or state; as, loved, been, lived.

The perfect participle usually ends in d or ed, but frequently in n, en, or t. This participle is frequently used as an adjective, but never as a noun.

5. The Compound Participle denotes the completion of action, being, or state at or before the time represented by the principal verb; as, "Having learned the lesson, he recited it."

Rem.—The "principal verb" is the verb used as copula or predicate of the sentence in which the compound participle is found.

The compound participle is formed by placing having or having been before a perfect participle, or having been before a present active participle; as, having learned, having been learned, having been learning.

Give the present, perfect, and compound participles of the following verbs:

Point out all the participles in the following exercises, using these models.

I. "The boy, laughing, ran away."

Laughing is a participle; it is a word derived from the verb laugh, and partakes of the properties of a verb and of an adjective: present; it denotes the continuance of an act.

II. "The lesson, studied carefully, was recited."

Studied is a participle; (why?): perfect; it denotes completion.

III. "Having recited, we were dismissed."

Having recited is a participle; (why?): compound; it denotes the completion of an act before the time represented by the principal verb.

1. Look at Dash playing with Rose. 2. I send you this note, written in haste, hoping it will reach you before you leave town. 3. Here it comes sparkling, and there it lies darkling. 4. Having finished the task assigned me, I will rest awhile. 5. The boy passed on, whistling as before. 6. The fort, situated on a high hill, was captured at day-break. 7. I see men as trees, walking.

Questions.—What is a participle? The present participle? How does it end? The perfect participle? How does it usually end? The compound participle? How is it formed?

In the sentence, "I like skating," what part of speech is skating? It is a noun. Why? It is a name, the name of an action.

That is correct. It is a noun; but, as it expresses action, and is derived from the verb "skate," it is called a participial noun. A participial noun is also a common noun; but it need not be called such in parsing.
Point out the participial nouns in the following exercises, using this model:

"Miss Gray teaches writing."

This is a sentence; declarative.

Writing is a noun; (why?): participial; it is derived from the verb "write," and partakes of the properties of a verb and a noun.

1. He was in danger of losing his life. 2. Let there be no more running and jumping on the lawn. 3. These strawberries are of my own raising. 4. The two men commenced searching for a shelter. 5. They could not avoid being discovered.

Point out the participles and participial nouns in the following exercises:

1. John would have avoided meeting him, if he could have done so without being called a coward. 2. Looking over the wall, we saw a fox caught in a trap. 3. Seeing is believing. 4. The poor woman stood at the door, wringing her hands. 5. Who told you of my being here? 6. Do you see the teacher pointing his finger at us?

Read the following three times, then reproduce it from memory.

THE DOG AND THE PARTRIDGE.

As I was hunting with a young pointer, the dog ran on a brood of very small partridges. The old bird cried, fluttered, and ran tumbling along just before the dog's nose, till she had drawn him to a considerable distance, when she took wing and flew still farther off, but not out of the field. On this, the dog returned to me, near the place where the young birds lay concealed in the grass. The old bird no sooner perceived this, than she flew back to us, settled just before the dog's nose, and, by rolling and tumbling about, drew off his attention from her young, and thus preserved her brood a second time.

THE PRONOUN.

28. ORAL LESSON.

"John put John’s hat on John’s head."

Is this a correct sentence? It is not. What word is unnecessarily repeated? "John’s." How should the sentence be written? It should be written, "John put his hat on his head." What word is here used instead of John’s? "His."—This word is called a Pronoun, which means instead of a noun.

1. A Pronoun is a word used instead of a noun; as, he runs, she sings, they listen.

Point out the pronouns in these sentences:

1. He is your uncle. 2. His dog worried our cat. 3. She lost the book which he gave her. 4. Did you tell me who they are? 5. It can not find its way out. 6. Were you with them? 7. Yes; I was with them, and can tell you what they said. 8. It was the dog that died. 9. Sarah can not find her book. 10. Who will find it for her?

29. THE ADJECTIVE ELEMENT.

I.

In the sentence, "Small lakes are abundant," what word modifies "lakes"? The adjective "small."

In the sentence, "John’s hat is torn," what word modifies "hat"? The noun "John’s." In what manner does it modify "hat"? It denotes that it is the hat which John owns.

In the sentence, "Mr. Jones the mason is insane," what word modifies "Mr. Jones"? The noun "mason." In what manner does it modify "Mr. Jones"? It tells his trade, or business.

These modifying words are called Adjective Elements, because they modify nouns.
1. An Adjective Element is a word or group of words which modifies a noun.

In the sentence, "Ripe peaches are plentiful," what element is "ripe"? It is an adjective element. Why? Because it modifies the noun "peaches."

In the sentence, "This boy has six peaches," what elements are "this" and "six"? They are adjective elements. Why?

Write five sentences, modifying their subjects by descriptive adjectives.

Model.—Cold weather is unpleasant.

Write five sentences, modifying their subjects by definitive adjectives.

Model.—Both horses are lame.

II.

In the sentence, "John's hat is torn," the noun "John's" is called a Possessive, because it denotes ownership. A possessive always modifies a noun denoting a different object from itself, and sometimes denotes kind or authorship instead of ownership; as, Ray's Algebra.

1. A Possessive is a noun or pronoun used to modify a noun different in meaning from itself. When a noun or pronoun is used as a possessive, it is said to be in the possessive case.

Rem. 1.—The apostrophe (') is used to show that a noun is a possessive.

Rem. 2.—A possessive may be modified by another possessive and by an adjective. In the sentence, "John's brother's slate is broken," the possessive "brother's" is modified by "John's."

In writing the possessive case of nouns, remember that—

1st. When a noun denotes but one object, the letter s follows the apostrophe; as in John's, Moses's.
Rem.—The apostrophe only is used after a few words; as in conscience' sake, goodness' sake, Jesus' sake, etc.

2d. When the noun denotes more than one object, and ends with s, the apostrophe alone is used, as in ladies'.

3d. When the noun denotes more than one object, and does not end with s, the apostrophe is usually followed by s, as in men's.

Note.—Illustrate these rules by writing on the blackboard appropriate examples of plural nouns in the possessive case. The examples should always be used in that the apostrophe is never used

Model.—Eli's uncle is rich. His head is Write five sentences, modifying their subjects by possessives.

Point out the possessives in the following sentences:

1. Your father's brother is my uncle. 2. Mr. Eddy sells children's shoes. 3. Our farm once belonged to your grandfather. 4. Her doll's dress was soiled. 5. We met on the boys' playground. 6. Did you ride in the ladies' car? 7. The horse's foot is lame. 8. Have you read Andrews's Geology?

Correct the errors in the following sentences:

1. The flag was fastened to the ox' horn. 2. The canary is not in it's cage. 3. The vessels sail's are spread. 4. Alice' lesson is learned. 5. The hook caught in the boys' coat 6. We then went into the lady's parlor.

III.

In the sentence, "The nest of the bird is very small," what word may be used instead of the group "of the bird"? The word "bird's"? What is that word? It is a possessive.

That is correct. A group of words beginning with "of" may frequently be used instead of a possessive.
Substitute groups for the possessives in the following sentences:

1. I grasped the boy's hand. 2. Daniel was in the lion's den. 3. The vessel's owner was drowned. 4. Have you found the fox's den? 5. We were startled by the lightning's flash. 6. Were you at home when the barn's roof was blown off? 7. An owl's hoot was heard.

Substitute possessives for the groups beginning with "of" in the following sentences:

1. The head of the horse was hurt. 2. We loitered by the bank of the river. 3. The house of the squirrel was a hollow tree. 4. The hunters came to the den of a tiger. 5. The owner of the dog was much surprised.

IV.

In the sentence, "Mr. Jones the mason is insane," the noun "mason" is called an Appositive. An appositive always denotes the same object as that denoted by the noun it modifies, and usually expresses rank, office, or business.

1. An Appositive is a word or group of words used to modify a noun or pronoun by denoting the same object.

An appositive is usually placed after the noun or pronoun with which it is in apposition. Thus, in the sentence, "The emperor Nero was a cruel tyrant," "Nero" is in apposition with "emperor."

Rule.—An appositive is usually set off by a comma unless it is unmodified, or modified by the only.

Write five sentences, modifying their subjects or objects by appositives.

Models.—Mr. Tod the mason died yesterday. I have seen Mr. Smith the engineer.
Point out the appositive in the following sentences:

1. Mr. Whitcomb the lawyer is out of town. 2. Whang, the Chinese miller, acted foolishly. 3. Milton the poet was blind. 4. Stephenson, the celebrated engineer, lived in England. 5. Have you seen Mr. Hicks, the man who sells strawberries? 6. I am reading the speeches of the statesman, Webster. 7. Washington, the capital of the United States, is situated on the Potomac.

Analyze the following sentences, using these models.

I. "Sweet sounds soothe the ear."

This is a sentence; declarative.

Sounds is the subject; soothe, the predicate. "Sounds" is modified by sweet, an adjective element; "soothe," by ear, an objective element; "ear," by the, an adjective element.

II. "Frank's father is a merchant."

This is a sentence; declarative.

Father is the subject; merchant, the predicate. "Father" is modified by Frank's, an adjective element: "merchant," by a, an adjective element.

III. "Milton the poet was blind."

This is a sentence; declarative.

Milton is the subject; blind, the predicate; was is the copula. "Milton" is modified by poet, an adjective element; "poet," by the, an adjective element.

What is a possessive? Give the directions for writing possessives. What is an appositive? Give the rule for writing appositives.

30. PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

In the sentences, "I write," "You read," "They study," what are the words "I," "you," and "they?" They are pronouns. Why? Because they are used instead of nouns—"I," instead of the name of the person speaking; "you," instead of the name of the person spoken to; "they," instead of the names of the persons spoken of.

The name of a person speaking, or a pronoun used instead of that name, is said to be of the First Person.

1. The First Person denotes the speaker.

The name of a person spoken to, or a pronoun used instead of that name, is said to be of the Second Person.

2. The Second Person denotes the person addressed.

The name of a person or object spoken of, or a pronoun used instead of that name, is said to be of the Third Person.

3. The Third Person denotes the person or object spoken of.
Those pronouns which show by their form whether the nouns which they represent are of the first, second, or third person, are called Personal Pronouns.

4. Personal Pronouns both represent nouns and show by their form whether they are of the first, second, or third person.

Rem.—The personal pronouns are I, thou, he, she, it, we, our, us, my, mine, ye, you, your, thy, thine, thee, his, him, her, its, they, their, them, myself, himself, etc.

Point out all the personal pronouns in the following sentences:

1. Thou callest. 2. I come. 3. She studies. 4. I like her. 5. They are honest. 6. Her lesson was learned. 7. I borrowed his books. 8. They have sold their farms. 9. You should study your lesson. 10. Ye are the people. 11. It can not find its master. 12. Thy fame hath preceded thee.

Analyze the foregoing sentences, and point out the nouns and verbs, using these Models.

I. "It is he."

This is a sentence; declarative.
It is the subject; he is the predicate; is is the copula.

II. "He has lost his book."

This is a sentence; declarative.
He is the subject; has lost, the predicate. "Has lost" is modified by book, an objective element; and "book," by his, an adjective element.

III. "Their horses drowned themselves."

This is a sentence; declarative.
Horses is the subject; drowned, the predicate. "Horses" is modified by their, an adjective element, and "drowned," by themselves, an objective element.

31. POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

In the sentence, "This house is ours," what is the subject? "House." Why? What is the predicate? "Ours." Why? It is that which is affirmed of the subject. What is the copula? "Is."

What modifies "house?" "This," an adjective element. What words can be used instead of "ours?" Our house. What does the pronoun "our" denote? It denotes that we own the house.

"Ours," then, is used to denote both the possessor and the thing possessed. In this sentence, it represents both "our" and "house." Because it does this, it is called a Possessive Pronoun.

Possessive Pronouns are words used to represent both the possessor and the thing possessed. The possessive pronouns are mine, thine, his, hers, ours, yours, theirs, our own, etc.

In the sentence, "That book is his," what is the predicate? "His." Why? What does it represent? It represents the words his book. What is it? It is a possessive pronoun. Why? Because it represents both the possessor and the thing possessed.

In the sentence, "That is his book," what is the predicate? "Book." What modifies "book?" "His," an adjective element. What is "his?" It is a personal pronoun. Why is it not a possessive pronoun? Because it modifies the noun following it, and does not represent both the possessor and the thing possessed. It is a possessive, because it is used as an adjective element; but it is not a possessive pronoun.

Write five sentences, using possessive pronouns as subjects.

Model.—His is a hard lot.
Write five sentences, using possessive pronouns as predicates.

Model.—That desk is mine.

Analyze the following sentences, using these models.

I. "Ours is an easy task."

This is a sentence; declarative.

Ours is the subject; task, the predicate; is is the copula. "Task" is modified by an and easy, both adjective elements.

Ours is: task.

\begin{array}{c|c}
\text{easy} \\
\text{an} \\ \end{array}

II. "That factory is theirs."

This is a sentence; declarative.

Factory is the subject; theirs, the predicate; is is the copula. "Factory" is modified by that, an adjective element.

III. "This land is our own."

This is a sentence; declarative.

Land is the subject; our own, the predicate. "Land" is modified by this, an adjective element.

1. This book is hers. 2. Those apples are his. 3. Yours is a hard lesson. 4. Those marbles are mine. 5. This book is thine. 6. The evenings are our own. 7. The victory is ours.

Point out the possessive pronouns in these sentences, using this model.

"That book is mine."

Mine is a pronoun; possessive; it represents both the possessor and the thing possessed: it is equivalent to "my book."

Questions.—What are possessive pronouns? Name some of them.
32. RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

When we say, "A rich man owns that house," what element is the word "rich?" It is an adjective element. Why?

When we say, "A man who is rich, owns that house," what words do we use instead of "rich" to modify "man?" We use the words, "who is rich." What element do these words form? An adjective element. Why? Because they modify a noun.

What part of speech is "who?" It is a pronoun. Why? It is a word used instead of a noun. Instead of what noun is it used? The noun man.

This sentence, then, contains two propositions: "A man owns that house," and "who is rich." The second proposition is an adjective element modifying the subject of the first. These propositions are called Clauses.

The pronoun "who" is not only the subject of a proposition, but it also joins the modifying clause "who is rich" to the noun which it limits.

Those pronouns that represent preceding words or expressions, to which they join modifying clauses, are called Relative Pronouns.

A Relative Pronoun is a word used to represent a preceding word or expression, to which it joins a modifying clause. The relative pronouns are who, which, what, and that. As is also a relative after such, many, same, and some other words.

Rem.—The suffixes ever, so, and soever, are sometimes added to these pronouns; as, whoever, whoso, whosoever.

The word or expression represented by a relative pronoun, is called its Antecedent.
Point out the relative pronouns in the following sentences, using this model.

"A man who is industrious, will prosper."

Who is a pronoun; relative; it represents a preceding word, to which it joins a modifying clause. The word it represents is "man."

1. Tell me whom you saw. 2. Those who sow, will reap. 3. He that hateth, dissembleth with his lips. 4. This is the house which my father bought.
5. I gave him all that I had. 6. Judge ye what I say. 7. He will do what is right. 8. A kind boy avoids doing whatever injures others. 9. Whoever studies, will learn. 10. Whatever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do.

Substitute pronouns for the dashes in the following sentences:

1. Death lifts the vail — hides a brighter sphere. 2. Blest are the feasts — simple plenty crowns. 3. — God, in — trust. 4. The man — paid — the money, was the cashier. 5. The message — — sent, was received. 6. No one can tell — others may do. 7. — will do — is proper.

Questions.—What are clauses? What is a relative pronoun? Name the pronouns in this class. What suffixes are sometimes added to relative pronouns? What is an antecedent?

33. THE RELATIVE CLAUSE.

Clauses introduced by relative pronouns are called Relative Clauses.

A Relative Clause is a clause introduced by a relative pronoun.

Write five sentences, modifying their subjects by relative clauses.

Model.—The boy that studies, will learn.
Write five sentences, modifying their objects by relative clauses.

Model.—I have lost the knife which you gave me.

Analyze the following sentences, using these models.

I. “The fish which you caught, is a trout.”

This is a sentence; declarative.
Fish is the subject; trout, the predicate; is, the copula.
“Fish” is modified by the and the clause which you caught, both adjective elements.

\begin{array}{c|c}
\text{fish} & \text{is} : \text{trout.} \\
\hline
\text{The \ } \frac{1}{a} \text{ which you caught}
\end{array}

II. “I like a horse that is gentle.”

This is a sentence; declarative.
I is the subject; like, the predicate. “Like” is modified by horse, an objective element, which is modified by a and the clause that is gentle, both adjective elements.

\begin{array}{c|c}
\text{I} & \text{like} : \text{horse} \\
\hline
\text{a that is gentle.}
\end{array}

1. A kind old man who is wealthy, hires him. 2. I have a knife that has a white handle. 3. He who studies, will learn. 4. You have many blessings which you must enjoy. 5. Solomon, who was the son of David, built the temple. 6. He is a man that deserves respect. 7. The lord chastens him whom he loves. 8. They that forsake the law, praise the wicked.

Use adjectives instead of relative clauses in the following sentences:

1. I have an apple that is rotten. 2. A little boy who is lame, came to our house yesterday. 3. How far do you go with the rivers that flow? 4. I like people that are honest. 5. Will you buy me a knife that has four blades?
Use relative clauses instead of adjectives in the following sentences:

1. Industrious people always prosper. 2. There are many rich men in New York. 3. He has some counterfeit money. 4. A barking dog seldom bites. 5. The moldy paper was burned.

34. INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

In the sentences: "Who is that man?" "Which comes first?" "What is he?" what words are used instead of the answers to the questions? The words "who," "which," and "what."

Which and what, not used as modifiers, together with who, whose, and whom, when used in asking questions, are called Interrogative Pronouns.

The Interrogative Pronouns are who, whose, whom, which, and what, when used in asking questions.

Rem.—The words which and what are sometimes placed before nouns. They are then called Interrogative Adjectives.

Ex.—"Which road shall I take?" The word "which" is an interrogative adjective, modifying "road." "What noise is that?" The word "what" is an interrogative adjective, modifying "noise."

Point out the interrogative pronouns in the following sentences, using this MODEL.

*"Who visited your school yesterday?"

Who is a pronoun; interrogative; it is used in asking a question.

Point out the nouns, adjectives, verbs, participles, and personal pronouns in these sentences.

Analyze the foregoing sentences, using this

MODEL.

"Whom can you trust?"

This is a sentence; interrogative.
You is the subject; can trust, the predicate. "Can trust" is modified by whom, an objective element.

You | can trust | whom?

QUESTIONS.—Define a relative clause. What is an interrogative pronoun? What words are used as interrogative pronouns? Which of these are sometimes used as interrogative objectives?

35. INCORRECT LANGUAGE.

Caution I.—Do not use him, me, or her as the subject or the predicate of a sentence.

Ex.—1. Him and me were in the boat. 2. It was me. 3. Me and the doctor were there. 4. Him and you were tardy. 5. It is her. 6. You, and him, and me were boys together.

Caution II.—Do not use improper forms of pronouns.

Ex.—1. Is that book your'n? 2. No; it is his'n. 3. She took my shawl, and left her'n. 4. You'uns were not with us last night. 5. No; we'uns stayed at home. 6. Will you let us have your boat? we have sold our'n.

Caution III.—The pronoun you should precede he, she, or they; and he, she, or they should precede I or we.

The wind blew furiously."

Furiously is an adverb; it is used to modify a verb.

1. That vessel sails slowly. 2. He built a house there. 3. Emma is quite late. 4. Those mountains are very high. 5. We were agreeably surprised. 6. I will shortly return. 7. You will never see him again. 8. I would gladly pardon you. 9. So thought Palmyra. 10. He afterwards escaped.

Point out the nouns, verbs, pronouns, and adjectives in these sentences.

Point out the adverbs in your reading lesson.

Write seven sentences, modifying their predicates by adverbs.

Model.—We should walk quietly.

Write seven sentences, modifying their subjects by adjectives, and these adjectives by adverbs.

Model.—Very loud reports were heard.

Write seven sentences, modifying their predicates by adverbs, and those adverbs by other adverbs.

Model.—He walks quite slowly.

37. THE ADVERBIAL ELEMENT.

A word or group of words used like an adverb—that is, used to modify a verb, an adjective, a participle, or an adverb—is called an Adverbial Element.

An Adverbial Element is a word or group of words used to modify a verb, an adjective, a participle, or an adverb.
ADVERBIAL ELEMENTS.

Analyze the sentences in the preceding section, using these models.

I. "Our house is very small."

This is a sentence; declarative.

House is the subject; small, the predicate; is, the copula. "House" is modified by our, an adjective element; "small," by very, an adverbial element.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>house</th>
<th>is : small.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Our</td>
<td>very</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

II. "We should study our lessons carefully."

This is a sentence; declarative.

We is the subject; should study, the predicate. "Should study" is modified by lessons, an objective element, and by carefully, an adverbial element. "Lessons" is modified by our, an adjective element.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>We</th>
<th>should study</th>
<th>lessons</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

Questions.—What is an adverb? What do adverbs usually denote? What is an adverbial element?

38. THE ADVERBIAL CLAUSE.

In the sentence, "Flowers bloom when spring comes," what group of words tells when flowers bloom? The group "when spring comes." What element is this group? It is an adverbial element. Why? Because it modifies the verb "bloom."

Is this group a proposition? It is. Why? Because it contains a subject and a predicate. What is the subject? "Spring." Why? What is the predicate? "Comes." Why? The group is called an Adverbial Clause, because it contains a subject and a predicate, and is used as an adverbial element.
An Adverbial Clause is a clause used as an adverbial element.

Adverbial clauses begin with when, where, while, because, if, and a large number of other words.

Point out the adverbial clauses in the following sentences:

1. I left the spade where I found it. 2. John was whispering while you were talking. 3. The bear growled when he saw the hunter. 4. I can not go before my father returns. 5. Henry will play with you, if you desire it. 6. We traveled slowly, because we wished to see the country. 7. I can go now, for my task is finished.

Analyze the above sentences, using the following model.

"He trembles when it thunders."

This is a sentence; declarative.

He is the subject; trembles, the predicate. "Trembles" is modified by the clause when it thunders, an adverbial element.

\begin{array}{c|c|c}
\text{He} & \text{trembles} & \text{when it thunders.}
\end{array}

Questions.—What is an adverbial clause? With what words do adverbial clauses begin?

39. Incorrect Language.

Caution 1.— Do not use such expressions as, I don't see nothing, Don't tell nobody, etc.

Ex.— 1. I don't want nothing to-day. 2. Don't tell nobody nothing about it. 3. We didn't catch no fish. 4. John don't feel no better than he did yesterday.
Caution II.—Do not use adjectives as adverbs.

Ex.—1. I feel tolerable well. 2. Does not Mary dress neat? 3. Samuel speaks very distinct. 4. He was that cold he could n't move. 5. You ought to read slower. 6. I am exceeding glad to see you. 7. How careless Julia holds her pen! 8. You should always speak distinct.

Caution III.—Do not use adverbs as adjectives.

Ex.—1. I felt sickly yesterday. 2. We arrived safely at San Francisco last evening. 3. This flower smells sweetly. 4. Stand as nearly to me as you can. 5. The country looks beautifully after a shower. 6. Things look somewhat more favorably this morning. 7. The doctor said that his patient felt more comfortably.

40. COMPOSITION.

Read the following description three or four times, then reproduce it from memory.

THE LION.

A full-grown lion is nearly nine feet in length, and between four and five feet in height. The female, or lioness, is about three fourths as large as the male. The body of the lion is covered with hair of a tawny color. He has a long and thick mane, which he can erect at pleasure. A lioness has no mane.

The lion lives entirely upon the flesh of other animals. He usually crouches in a thicket, and watches until some animal passes within fifteen or twenty feet of him, when he leaps upon it, and generally seizes it at the first bound. Should he happen to miss his object, he returns to his hiding place, with a measured step, and waits for another opportunity. He most frequently hides near a spring or a river, that he may seize the animals which come thither to quench their thirst. He rarely attacks men, unless wounded or driven by hunger.
THE PREPOSITION.

41. ORAL LESSON.

What does the group of words “by our house” modify? It modifies the verb “rode:” it tells where he rode. What element is it? It is an adverbial element. Why? Because it modifies a verb.

The word “of” connects the noun “wealth” to the noun “man.” The word “by” connects the noun “house” with the verb “rode.” They are said to show the relations between the words which they connect, and are called Prepositions. The nouns which follow them are called their Objects.

A Preposition is a word used to show the relation between its object and some other word.

LIST OF THE PRINCIPAL PREPOSITIONS.

Point out the prepositions in the following sentences, using this model.

"He came from France to America."

From is a preposition; it shows the relation between its object and some other word. It shows the relation between "France" and "came." To is a preposition; it shows the relation between "America" and "came."

1. The old man was often in want of the necessaries of life. 2. The boy went through the gate into the garden. 3. Be not forward in the presence of your superiors. 4. He was not, at that time, in the city. 5. He drove over the bridge into the city. 6. He went to the doctor for advice. 7. The path brought them to the end of the wood. 8. She turned to the old man with a lovely smile upon her face. 9. The light came through the stained windows of the old church.

Point out the nouns, verbs, adjectives, and pronouns in these sentences.

Questions.—What is a preposition? What is the object of a preposition? Name the principal prepositions.

42. THE PHRASE.

I.

1. A group of words consisting of a preposition and its object is called a Phrase.

Phrases are most commonly used as adjective or adverbial elements.

Analyze the following sentences, using this model.

"Habits of industry will lead to prosperity."

This is a sentence; declarative.
Habits is the subject; will lead, the predicate. “Habits” is modified by the phrase of industry, an adjective element; “will lead” is modified by the phrase to prosperity, an adverbal element.

\text{Habits} \quad | \quad \text{will lead} \\
\text{of industry} \quad | \quad \text{to prosperity.}

1. Light moves in straight lines. 2. They went aboard the ship. 3. I differ from you on that point. 4. The two thieves divided the money between them. 5. The ship was driven upon the rocks.

6. Our sincerest laughter is fraught with some pain. 7. The young lambs are bleating in the meadows. 8. They came to the country of the free. 9. I will divide this farm among my three sons. 10. Man goeth to his long home. 11. The sleep of a laboring man is sweet.

* Substitute single words or clauses for the phrases in the following sentences:

Models.—I. “Henry studies his lessons with care” = “Henry studies his lessons carefully.” II. “Ice forms in cold weather” = “Ice forms when the weather is cold.”

1. The sailors weighed anchor at sunrise. 2. The enraged lion struggled in vain. 3. Flowers bloom in the spring. 4. Some seed fell on stony ground. 5. The face of the poor boy was disfigured. 6. Our schools should be the pride and boast of our country. 7. I have written this letter in haste.

II.

In the sentence, “To play is pleasant,” “to play” is the subject. Why? It is that of which something is affirmed. It is a form of the verb “play.” It expresses action, but does not affirm it. For this reason, it is called an Infinitive or an Infinitive Phrase.

III.

The meaning of a sentence may often be changed by changing the position of the single words, phrases, and clauses of which it is composed.

In the sentence, "John only studies algebra," "only" modifies "John." He is the only person that studies algebra. In the sentence, "John studies algebra only," "only" modifies "algebra." It is the only branch that John studies.

In the sentence, "A watch was found yesterday by a school-boy with steel hands," the phrase "with steel hands" modifies "school-boy;" but in the sentence, "A watch with steel hands was found yesterday by a school-boy," the phrase "with steel hands" modifies "watch." In the first sentence, the steel hands are represented as belonging to the school-boy; in the second, to the watch.

In the sentence, "He needs no spectacles that can not see," the clause "that can not see" is not intended to be used as a modifier of "spectacles," but of the word "he." It should be placed between "he" and "needs."

Rule.—Words, phrases, and clauses, used as modifiers, should be placed as near the modified words as possible.

Locate the phrases and clauses properly in these sentences:

1. The sled was bought by a boy going to school for a dollar. 2. Wanted.—A horse by an English gentleman, sixteen hands high. 3. A man was hanged yesterday with a blind eye. 4. Look at those two men fishing with sunburnt faces. 5. The book was dropped by a bad boy on my head. 6. I saw a dog bite a man with long ears and a white spot on his face. 7. Mr. Otis needs a surgeon, who has broken his arm. 8. A silver fruit knife was found by a child which has a broken back. 9. He wants no food that can not eat.

Questions.—What is a phrase? An infinitive? Give the rule for the placing of modifying words, phrases, and clauses.
THE CONJUNCTION.

43. ORAL LESSON.

In the sentence, "Ellen and Mary study botany," what two words are used as the subject? "Ellen" and "Mary." Why? Because something is affirmed of them: both Ellen and Mary study botany. What word connects the words "Ellen" and "Mary?" The word "and."

In the sentence, "Ellen or Mary studies botany," what two words are used as the subject? "Ellen" and "Mary." Are both represented as studying botany? They are not: if Ellen studies botany, Mary does not. What word connects the words "Ellen" and "Mary?" The word "or."

In the statement, "Ellen will study botany, if Mary studies algebra," how many clauses are there? There are two: "Ellen will study botany," and "Mary studies algebra." What word is used to connect these two clauses? The word "if."

The words "and," "or," "if," and all other words used merely to join words or groups of words, are called Conjunctions.

A Conjunction is a word used to connect words, phrases, clauses, and members.

Conjunctions merely connect words, phrases, clauses, and members; they do not express relations, like prepositions.

Point out the conjunctions in the following sentences, using this model.

"Eli and Silas will improve, if they study."

And is a conjunction; it is a word used to connect words: it connects "Eli" and "Silas." If is a conjunction; it connects the clauses, "Eli and Silas will improve" and "they study."
1. We moved along silently and cautiously. 2. I consent to the constitution, because I expect no better. 3. He heaped up great riches, but passed his time miserably. 4. He is both learned and wise. 5. I shall not go, if it rain.
6. Cold and hunger awake not her care. 7. They submit, since they can not conquer. 8. He has many faults, still he is very popular. 9. Emma or Susan will remain at home.

Questions.—What is a conjunction? What is the difference between a conjunction and a preposition?

. 44. Compound Elements.

"James and Samuel are kind, honest, and faithful." In this sentence, "James" and "Samuel" are the parts of what is called a Compound Subject; "kind," "honest," and "faithful," are the parts of a Compound Predicate.

Two or more similar parts of a proposition, connected by conjunctions, form a Compound Element.

A Compound Element consists of two or more similar parts of the same proposition connected by conjunctions.

Rem. 1.—The conjunctions may be expressed or understood. Any element of a proposition may be compound.

Directions for Writing.—When a compound element consists of more than two parts,
I. Place a comma after each part except the last.
II. Use the conjunction between the last two parts only.

When a compound element consists of two parts,
I. Connect them by a conjunction.
II. Or, omit the conjunction and use a comma in its stead.
Rem. 2.—When it is the intention of the writer to make the parts emphatic, the conjunction and the comma may both be used between any two of them.

Write five sentences, each containing a compound subject.
Model.—Ellen and Lucy are my sisters.

Write five sentences, each containing a compound predicate.
Model.—We run, jump, and talk at recess.

Write five sentences, each containing a compound objective element.
Model.—My father owns a farm and a factory

Write five sentences, each containing a compound adjective element.
Model.—Tray is a large, black, and cross dog.

Write five sentences, each containing a compound adverbial element.
Model.—We stopped then and there.

Analyze the following sentences, using these models.

I. “William and Henry study algebra.”

This is a sentence; declarative.
William and Henry is the compound subject; study, the predicate. “Study” is modified by algebra, an objective element.

II. “Mr. Edson buys and sells butter and eggs.”

This is a sentence; declarative.
Mr. Edson is the subject; buys and sells, the compound predicate, which is modified by butter and eggs, a compound objective element.
III. "The two boys moved along silently and cautiously."

This is a sentence; declarative.

Boys is the subject; moved, the predicate. "Boys" is modified by the and two, adjective elements; "moved," by along, an adverbial element, and by silently and cautiously, a compound adverbial element.

1. Exercise and temperance strengthen the constitution.
2. Mr. Mann owns and cultivates a large and valuable farm.
3. Two and two are four. 4. Duty and interest forbid vicious and wicked indulgences. 5. Your levity and heedlessness will prevent all improvement. 6. Forty pupils study arithmetic, grammar, and geography. 7. The wearied soldiers fought bravely and successfully.

QUESTIONS.—What is a compound element? Give directions for writing a compound element consisting of more than two parts. Of two parts only.

45. SIMPLE SENTENCES.

"Wheat is a vegetable." This sentence consists of a single proposition. It is called a Simple Sentence.

A Simple Sentence consists of a single proposition.

In the sentences, "I see a dog," "I see a boy," "I see a tree," "I see a house," "I see" is a part common to all of them. We may combine these, and form a single sentence, by using this common part but once; thus, "I see a dog, a boy, a tree, and a house."
Combine the sentences in the following paragraphs into single sentences:

1. I found a book. I found a pencil. I found a slate. I found a knife.
2. Apple trees grow thriftily. Apples grow in our orchard.
4. The horse was old. The horse was lame. The horse was blind.
5. The wind blew fiercely. The wind blew last night. The wind blew from the north.

Questions.—What is a simple sentence? How may several sentences be combined so as to form a single sentence?

46. Compound Sentences.

"Wheat grows in the field, and men reap it." This sentence consists of two propositions, each of which will make complete sense when standing alone. It is called a Compound Sentence.

1. A Compound Sentence consists of two or more connected sentences, each of which will make complete sense when standing alone.

Rem.—The sentences of which a compound sentence is composed, are called Members.

In the sentence, "Exercise strengthens the constitution, and temperance strengthens the constitution," "exercise" and "temperance" are parts not common to the two members. The sentence may be changed to a simple one by uniting these, and using the common parts but once; thus, "Exercise and temperance strengthen the constitution."
2. A compound sentence containing common parts, may be changed to a simple one by uniting the parts not common to all its members, and using the common parts but once.

Write five compound sentences, each containing two members.

Change the following compound sentences to simple ones:

1. Behold my mother and behold my brethren. 2. I saw a man in a boat and I saw a boy in the water. 3. Washington was a warrior and Washington was a statesman. 4. The man you saw was sick, or he was in trouble. 5. The river was swift, and it was very deep.

Analyze the following sentences, using this model.

"The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork."

This is a sentence; compound. "The heavens declare the glory of God" is the first member; "the firmament showeth his handiwork," the second member; "and" is the connective.

Heavens is the subject of the first member; declare, the predicate. "Heavens" is modified by the, an adjective element; "declare," by glory, an objective element, which is modified by the and the phrase of God, adjective elements.

Firmament is the subject of the second member; showeth, the predicate. "Firmament" is modified by the, an adjective element; "showeth," by handiwork, an objective element, which is modified by his, an adjective element.

Rem. 1.—A complex sentence whose subject or predicate only is a clause, need not be separated into principal and subordinate clauses in analysis.

Rem. 2.—Some complex sentences are composed of many clauses. Each clause should be analyzed in the order indicated by its position.

MODELS FOR COMPLETE ANALYSIS.

I. "He that hateth, dissembleth with his lips."

This is a sentence; declarative; complex; it is composed of a principal clause and a subordinate clause. "He dissembleth with his lips" is the principal clause; "that hateth," the subordinate clause.

He is the subject of the principal clause: dissembleth, the predicate. "He" is modified by the clause that hateth, an adjective element, of which that is the subject, and hateth, the predicate. "Dissembleth" is modified by the phrase with his lips, an adverbial element; "lips," by his, an adjective element.

\begin{array}{c|c|c|c|c}
\text{He} & \text{dissembleth} \\
\text{that} & \text{hateth} & \text{with lips.} \\ \text{his} & \\ \end{array}

II. "That he is very sick, is evident."

This is a sentence; declarative; complex; its subject is a clause. That he is very sick is the subject; evident, the predicate; is, the copula. He is the subject of the subject clause; sick, the predicate; is, the copula. "Sick" is modified by very, an adverbal element. That is a conjunction used to introduce the subject clause.

\begin{array}{c|c|c|c|c}
\text{(That) he} & \text{is: sick} \\
\text{very} & \text{is: evident.} \\
\end{array}
III. "He never denied that the letter was lost."

This is a sentence; declarative; complex. "He never denied" is the principal clause; "the letter was lost," the subordinate clause. "That" is the connective.

He is the subject of the principal clause; denied, the predicate, which is modified by never, an adverbial element, and by the clause that the letter was lost, an objective element. Letter is the subject of the subordinate clause; was lost, the predicate. "Letter" is modified by the, an adjective element. That is a connective joining the clause "the letter was lost" to "denied."

\begin{array}{c|c|c}
\text{He} & \text{denied} & \text{the} \\
\text{| never} & \text{| (that) letter was lost.} \\
\end{array}

IV. "He builds a palace of ice where the torrents fall."

This is a sentence; declarative; complex. "He builds a palace of ice" is the principal clause; "the torrents fall," the subordinate clause. "Where" is the connective.

He is the subject of the principal clause; builds, the predicate, which is modified by palace, an objective element, and by the clause where the torrents fall, an adverbial element. "Palace" is modified by a and the phrase of ice, adjective elements; "torrents," by the, an adjective element; "fall," by where, an adverbial element.

\begin{array}{c|c|c|c}
\text{He} & \text{builds} & \text{palace} & \text{a} \\
\text{| torrents} & \text{| fall} & \text{of ice} & \text{the} \\
\text{| where} & \\

1. He that flattereth, deceiveth his neighbor. 2. The boy that you saw, is my younger brother. 3. He was frightened when he first saw a lion. 4. I can not study where pupils make so much noise. 5. I would pay you if I had the means. 6. That he will succeed, is uncertain. 7. The messenger reported that the brave general was dead. 8. He is a good man, though very eccentric. 9. Nature never did betray the heart that loved her.

10. The poor too often turn away, unheard,
   From hearts that shut against them, with a sound
   That shall be heard in heaven.—Longfellow.

Write five sentences, using clauses as subjects.

Model.—“Haste makes waste,” is a true saying.

Write five sentences, using clauses as objects.

Model.—I believe that the earth is round.

Write five sentences, using clauses as adjective elements.

Model.—The report that he is insane, is unfounded.

Write five sentences, using clauses as adverbial elements.

Model.—Our teacher is delighted when we are studious.

Analyze the sentences you have written.

II.

4. Complex sentences may often be reduced to simple sentences by using single words or phrases, instead of subordinate propositions, as modifiers.

Reduce the following complex sentences to simple sentences:

Models.—I. “A man who is wealthy, lives there” = “A man of wealth lives there,” or, “A wealthy man lives there.”

II. “We started when the sun rose” = “We started at sunrise.”

1. A pupil that is studious, will learn rapidly. 2. Men who are honest, are respected. 3. A boy, when he is at play, is happy. 4. An accident that was unavoidable, occurred at the factory this morning. 5. Franklin, who was a philosopher, was an American. 6. One soldier was not present w
5. Simple sentences may often be enlarged to complex sentences by using subordinate propositions, instead of single words or phrases, as modifiers.

Enlarge the following simple sentences:

Model.—"None think the great unhappy but the great" = "None think that the great are unhappy but the great."

1. A thing of beauty is a joy forever. 2. I went down to the river at ten o'clock. 3. Time wasted is existence; used, is life. 4. Thou hast uttered cruel words. 5. The poor must work in their grief. 6. They came here to see the country. 7. The wild beasts kept for the games, had broken from their dens. 8. Haste to cheer my father's heart.

Questions.—What is a complex sentence? A principal clause? A subordinate clause? Into what five classes may clauses be divided? How may complex sentences be reduced? How may simple sentences be enlarged?

THE INTERJECTION.

48. ORAL LESSON.

"Hurra! we have found him."

Is this a sentence? It is. What is the subject? The pronoun "we." What is the predicate? "Have found." What modifies the predicate? The pronoun "him," an objective element.

What does the word "hurra" denote? It denotes that the speaker or writer is highly pleased. Does it affirm or deny any thing? It does not: it simply implies a feeling or emotion of pleasure.
There are words, also, used to denote sorrow, grief, surprise, disgust, pity, hatred, etc.
All such words are called Interjections.

An Interjection is a word used to denote some sudden or strong emotion.

Rem.—Interjections usually, but not always, require an exclamation point [!] after them.

Point out the interjections in each of the following sentences, using this model.

"Hush! they are coming."

Hush is an interjection; it denotes some sudden emotion.

1. Ha! it freezes me. 2. Aha! you are a truant. 3. Ahem! I will think about it. 4. Hark! the clock strikes one. 5. Pshaw! I knew that yesterday. 6. Alas! we shall see him no more. 7. Tush! tush! man, I made no reference to you. 8. Ay, he is every inch a king. 9. Oh, what a noble mind is here o'erthrown! 10. Alas! they had been friends in youth. 11. Hark! hark! the lark at heaven's gate sings. 12. Alas! for the rarity of Christian charity.

Point out all the parts of speech in the above sentences.

Note.—Interjections may be omitted in the analysis of the sentences in which they are found. They may be placed before and a little above the first words in a diagram.

Questions.—What is an interjection? What should usually be placed after an interjection?
PART II.

SYNTAX.—COMPOSITION.

49. PROPERTIES OF THE NOUN.

To the noun belong Gender, Person, Number, and Case. These are called its Properties.

50. GENDER.

Objects are either male or female; as, boy, girl; or neither male nor female; as, apple. Their names, therefore, may be classified with regard to sex. This distinction is called Gender.

1. Gender is a distinction of nouns or pronouns with regard to sex.

2. There are four genders: Masculine, Feminine, Common, and Neuter.

3. The Masculine Gender denotes males; as, boy.

4. The Feminine Gender denotes females; as, girl.

Some words, as children, parent, etc., are used to denote either males or females. The gender of such words is said to be Common.

(79)
5. The Common Gender denotes either males or females; as, parent.

6. The Neuter Gender denotes neither males nor females; as, house.

7. There are three ways of distinguishing the masculine and feminine genders:

   1. By using different words; as, father, mother; brother, sister; boy, girl; gentleman, lady; Mr., Mrs.; Charles, Caroline; drake, duck; hart, roe.
   2. By different terminations; as, actor, actress; executor, executrix; hero, heroine.
   3. By joining some distinguishing word; as, man-servant, maid-servant; he-bear, she-bear; landlord, landlady; merman, mermaid.

Tell the gender of the following nouns:

Give the corresponding masculine or feminine for the following nouns:

Write five sentences, using masculine nouns as subjects.

Model.—John left his book on my desk.

Write five sentences, using feminine nouns as objects.

Model.—The teacher sent my sister home at recess.

Write six sentences, using nouns in the common or neuter gender as subjects or objects.

Model.—A beggar frightened me this morning.

52. NUMBER.

1. Number is that property of a noun or pronoun which distinguishes one from more than one.

2. There are two numbers, Singular and Plural. (See page 15.)

53. FORMATION OF THE PLURAL.

1. Nouns whose last sound will unite with s, form their plurals by adding s only to the singular; as, book, books; boy, boys; desk, desks.

2. Nouns whose last sound will not unite with s, form their plurals by adding es to the singular; as, bush, bushes; box, boxes.

3. Nouns ending in y preceded by a consonant, change y into i, and add es; as, mercy, mercies.

4. Some nouns ending in f or fe, change these endings into ves; as, knife, knives.

5. Most nouns ending in o, preceded by a consonant, add es; as, cargo, cargoes.

6. Nouns ending in o, preceded by a vowel, add s; as, folio, folios.

7. Letters, figures, marks, and signs add ’s; as, p’s and q’s; g’s and l’s; the ’s; the ’s and ’s.

8. Proper nouns usually add s only in forming their plurals; as, Mary, Marys; Sarah, Sarahs; Nero, Neros. The forms Marie, Neroes, etc., are sometimes used.

9. Most nouns from foreign languages change us to i; um and on to a; is to es or ides; a to æ or ata; and x to ces or ices; as, calculus, calculi; arcanum, arcana; phenomenon, phenomena; thesis, theses; ephemeralis, ephemeraldes.

10. Some nouns form their plurals irregularly, as, man, men; ox, oxen; mouse, mice.

11. A few nouns are alike in both numbers; as, sheep, deer, trout, yoke, hose, vermin, and others.
12. In compound words, the part described by the rest is generally pluralized; as, brothers-in-law, courts-martial, ox-carts.

13. Nouns ending in ful or full, form their plurals by adding s to the singular; as, handfuls, mouthfuls.

Write the plurals of the following words, letters, and signs:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Word</th>
<th>Plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Calf.</td>
<td>Clam.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>¶, †.</td>
<td>Folly.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hoe.</td>
<td>Rake.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vase.</td>
<td>Glory.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plow.</td>
<td>Tariff.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Write the singular of the following nouns:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Word</th>
<th>Plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Feet.</td>
<td>Geese.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mice.</td>
<td>Folios.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oxen.</td>
<td>Pence.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Genii</td>
<td>Strata.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Tell the number of all the nouns in your reading lesson.

Questions.—What is number? How many numbers are there? What is the singular number? The plural number? Repeat the rules for the formation of the plural.

54. CASE.

The sun is shining:” here “sun” is used as the subject of a proposition. “Every star is a sun:” here “sun” is used as the predicate. “The sun’s rays are warm:” here “sun” is used as an adjective element, modifying “rays.” “We saw the sun at noon:” here “sun” is used as an objective element, modifying “saw.” “Dear is thy light, O sun!” here “sun” is used absolutely—i. e., it is absoluted or separated from any grammatical connection with the rest of the sentence.

In no two of these sentences has the word “sun” the same relation to the other words.

These different relations are called Cases.
1. Case is the relation of a noun or a pronoun to other words.

Rem.—The term case is also applied to the form of a noun or a pronoun used independently or as a part of a sentence.

2. There are four cases: Nominative, Possessive, Objective, and Absolute, or Nominative Absolute.

3. The Nominative Case is the use of a noun or pronoun as the subject or the predicate of a proposition; as, Boys skate; Horses are animals.

4. The Possessive Case is the use of a noun or pronoun to denote ownership, authorship, origin, or kind; as, John’s hat, Ray’s Algebra, the sun’s rays, men’s clothing.

Note.—For rules for forming the possessive case, see pp. 43 and 44.

5. The Objective Case is the use of a noun or pronoun as the object of a transitive verb in the active voice, or of a preposition; as, “Indians hunt buffaloes;” “They ran over the bridge;” “John threw a stone at the dog.”

6. The Absolute, or Nominative Absolute, Case is the use of a noun or pronoun independent of any governing word; as, “Oh, my son!” “Soldiers, attention!” “Washington Irving.”

Rem.—A noun may be in the absolute case:

1. By direct address; as, “James, bring me a book.”
2. By exclamation; as, “Oh, my daughter!”
3. By pleonasm; i.e., by placing it before a sentence in which an affirmation is made concerning it; as, “Your fathers, where are they?”
4. With a participle; as, “The sun being risen.”

5. By position; i.e., by using it as the heading of a chapter, as the superscription to a letter, etc.; as, “The Noun,” “M. F. Jones.”

7. A noun limiting the meaning of another noun denoting the same person or thing, is, by apposition, in the same case; as, “Washington the general became Washington the statesman.”

55. DECLENSION.

The Declension of a noun is its variation to denote number and case.

Rem.—The nominative absolute case always has the same form as the nominative.

Example.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Nom.</td>
<td>Fly.</td>
<td>Flies.</td>
<td>Nom.</td>

<td>Fly’s.</td>
<td>Flies’.</td>
<td>Poss.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Obj.</td>
<td>Fly.</td>
<td>Flies.</td>
<td>Obj.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Questions.—What is case? How many cases are there? What is the nominative case? The possessive case? The objective case? The absolute case? How is the possessive case singular formed? The possessive case plural? In how many ways may a noun be in the absolute case? Give examples.

What is declension? Decline “boy,” “girl,” “farmer.”

56. PARSING.

Parsing consists (1) In naming the part of speech; (2) In telling its properties; (3) In pointing out its relations to other words; (4) In giving the rule for its construction.
57. ORDER OF PARSING.

58. MODELS FOR PARSING.

I. "Wheat is a vegetable."

Wheat is a noun; it is a name: common; it can be applied to any one of a kind or class: neuter gender; it denotes neither males nor females: third person; it is spoken of: singular number; it denotes but one: nominative case; it is used as the subject of the proposition. Rule I. "A noun or pronoun used as the subject of a proposition, is in the nominative case."

Vegetable is a noun; common; neuter; third person; singular number; nominative case; it is used as the predicate of the proposition. Rule II. "A noun or pronoun used as the predicate of a proposition, is in the nominative case."

II. "Henry's uncle, the sheriff, was wounded."

Henry's is a noun; proper; it is the name of a particular person: masculine gender; it denotes a male: third person; singular number; possessive case; it denotes possession, and modifies "uncle." Rule III. "A noun or pronoun used to limit the meaning of a noun denoting a different person or thing, is in the possessive case."

Sheriff is a noun; common; masculine gender; third person; singular number; nominative case, in apposition with "uncle," which it modifies. Rule IV. "A noun or pronoun used to limit the meaning of a noun or pronoun by denoting the same person, place, or thing, is in the same case."
III. "Samuel, study your lesson with care."

Samuel is a noun; proper; masculine gender; second person; it denotes the person addressed; singular number; it denotes but one: nominative absolute case; it is used independently. Rule V. "A noun or pronoun used independently is in the nominative absolute case."

Lesson is a noun; common; neuter gender; third person; singular number; objective case; it is the object of the verb "study." Rule VI. "The object of a transitive verb in the active voice, or of its participles, is in the objective case."

Care is a noun; common; neuter gender; third person; singular number; objective case; it is used as the object of the preposition "with." Rule VII. "The object of a preposition is in the objective case."

Analyze the following sentences, and parse the nouns:

1. Borneo is a large island. 2. Our father lives in Washington. 3. John's dog bit Clarence. 4. Johnson's farm is mortgaged. 5. Mr. Trowel the mason is unwell. 6. O Helen! father is coming. 7. The statue fell from its pedestal. 8. Gad, a troop shall overcome him. 9. Jocko has stolen my spectacles. 10. Susan's mother is my aunt. 11. Is the doctor's office open?

12. Next to sincerity, remember still
   Thou must resolve upon integrity.
   God will have all thou hast; thy mind, thy will,
   Thy thoughts, thy words, thy works.—Herbert.

Correct the following sentences:

1. Jane has two brother-in-laws. 2. Storms are interesting phenomenons. 3. Three chimneys were on fire. 4. The Shaker's are industrious. 5. Did you attend Mr. Chance' lecture. 6. I called at Coleman's the jeweler's. 7. She is reading in her sister's Mary's book. 8. The boys coat is torn. 9. How many of the Johnson's were there? 10. The mens' wages should be paid to-day. 11. He has quartoes and folioses in his library.
59. COMPOSITION.

Write a description of a squirrel, using the following

Plan.—1. Size, as compared with some other small animal. 2. Form, noting particularly its teeth, claws, and tail. 3. Habits, nest, and food. 4. Its disposition, whether timid or bold, etc. 5. Different kinds, and their peculiarities. 6. Migrations. 7. Enemies.

Write descriptions of some of the following animals, using this

Rem.—The pupil should be permitted and encouraged to vary the order in which the topics are arranged in this plan, and to introduce such other topics as seem necessary to complete the description of any animal.

The dog. The shark. The turkey. The elephant.
The owl. The horse. The pigeon. The muskrat.
The bee. The crow. The mouse. The mosquito.

Parse the nouns in your compositions.

60. PROPERTIES OF THE PRONOUN.

To pronouns belong Gender, Number, Person, and Case.

61. PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

1. The Simple Personal Pronouns are I, thou, he, she, and it, with their declined forms we, our, us, my, mine, ye, you, your, thy, thine, thee, his, him, her, its, they, their, them.

63. ORDER OF PARSING.

64. MODELS FOR PARSING.

I. “I see them on their winding way.”

I is a pronoun; personal; it shows by its form that it is of the first person: its antecedent is the name, understood, of the speaker: — gender, first person, singular number, to agree with its antecedent. Rule IX. “Pronouns must agree with their antecedents in gender, person, and number.” Decline it: nominative case: Rule I.

Them is a pronoun; personal; its antecedent is the name, understood, of the person spoken of: — gender, third person, plural number: Rule IX. Decline it: objective case; it is the object of the transitive verb “see:” Rule VI.
II. "I myself told you so."

Myself is a pronoun; personal; compound: its antecedent is the name, understood, of the speaker: — gender, first person, singular number: Rule IX. Decline it: nominative case, in apposition with "I:” Rule IV.

Analyze the following sentences, and parse the nouns and personal pronouns:

1. You and he are my friends. 2. I saw them in their carriage. 3. The soldiers helped themselves. 4. Thou art the man. 5. You saved thy money for thee. 6. Your father knows us. 7. He himself hid your slate.

8. Where shall I see him? angels tell me where. You know him; he is near you; point him out. Shall I see glories beaming from his brow, Or trace his footsteps by the rising flowers?—Young.

Write the first two sentences of a composition on the Eagle, and parse the personal pronouns.

Finish the composition.

QUESTIONS.—What is a pronoun? A personal pronoun? What are the simple personal pronouns? The compound personal pronouns? What does "you" represent? How is "we" used? How is "it" sometimes used? Give examples of the use of these pronouns. When pronouns of different persons are used, how should they be arranged? Decline the personal pronouns. Repeat the order of parsing personal pronouns.

65. POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

1. The Possessive Pronouns are mine, thine, his, hers, ours, yours, theirs.

2. To denote emphatic distinction, my own is used for mine, his own for his, thy own for thine, our own for ours, your own for yours, their own for theirs.
66. ORDER OF PARSING.

67. MODELS FOR PARSING.

I. "That house is mine, not yours."

FIRST METHOD.

Mine is a pronoun; possessive; it represents both the possessor and the thing possessed: its antecedent is "house:" neuter gender, third person, singular number, to agree with its antecedent: Rule IX: nominative case; it is used as the predicate of the proposition: Rule II. Parse "yours" in a similar manner.

SECOND METHOD.

Mine is a pronoun; possessive; it is equivalent to "my house." Parse "my" as a personal pronoun in the possessive case, according to Rule III, and "house" as a predicate nominative, according to Rule II.

Analyze the following sentences, and parse the possessive pronouns:

1. That horse of yours is lame. 2. This sled is not yours: it must be hers. 3. The money is your own. 4. Friend of mine, you are welcome. 5. That garden of theirs is a very fine one. 6. This book is not mine; it must be his or hers. 7. She is an old friend of ours. 8. These books are yours, not theirs. 9. We love this land of ours. 10. The boy left his hat, and took mine. 11. You should study your own books, and not borrow hers.

QUESTIONS.—What is a possessive pronoun? Name the possessive pronouns. How is emphatic distinction denoted? Repeat the order of parsing possessive pronouns.
68. RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

1. The Simple Relative Pronouns are who, which, what, and that.

Rem.—That is a relative when who, which, or whom can be used in its place. As is used as a relative pronoun after such, many, and same.

2. The Compound Relative Pronouns are whoever, whoso, whosoever, whichever, whichever, whatsoever, and whatsoever.

3. Some relative pronouns not only connect clauses, but also comprise in themselves both antecedent and relative. These are called Double Relatives, and they may be either simple or compound.

In the sentence, "I got what I desired," what is a double relative, and is used instead of the thing which—"I got the thing which I desired." "Thing," the object of "got," is the antecedent, and is modified by "the" and "which I desired," both adjective elements.

In the sentence, "Tell what you know," what is a double relative, and is equivalent to that which—"Tell that which you know." "That," the object of "tell," is the antecedent, and is modified by "which you know," an adjective element.

In the sentence, "Whatever is, is right," whatever is a double relative, and is equivalent to that which—"That which is, is right." "That," the subject of the proposition, "That is right," is the antecedent, and "that," the subject, is modified by "which is," an adjective element.

In the sentence, "Whoever runs may read," whoever is equivalent to he who, or any person who—"He who runs may read." "He," the subject of the sentence, "He may read," is the antecedent of "who," and is modified by "who runs," an adjective element.
In the sentence, "Whichever road you may take, will lead to the city," whichever is equivalent to any which—"Any road which you may take," etc. "Any" and "which you may take" are adjective elements, modifying "road," the antecedent of "which."

70. ORDER OF PARSING.

71. MODELS FOR PARSING.

I. "Happy is the man that findeth wisdom."

That is a pronoun; relative; it represents a preceding word or phrase, to which it joins a limiting clause: its antecedent is "man:" masculine gender, third person, singular number; Rule IX: nominative case; it is the subject of the relative clause, "That findeth wisdom:" Rule I.

II. "Whoever perseveres will succeed."

Whoever is a pronoun; relative; it is equivalent to he who, or any one who—'he" being the antecedent, and "who" the relative. Parse "he" as a personal pronoun, subject of "will succeed," or "one" as an adjective used as a noun, subject of "will succeed," and "who" as a relative, subject of "perseveres," according to Rule I.
III. "I remember what you said."

What is a pronoun; relative; it is equivalent to that which—"that" being the antecedent part, and "which" the relative. Parse "that" as an adjective used as a noun, in the objective case after "remember."

Which is a pronoun; relative; its antecedent is "that:" neuter gender, third person, singular number: Rule IX: objective case; object of the transitive verb "said:" Rule VI.

Analyze the following sentences, and parse the pronouns:

1. He that hateth, dissembleth with his lips. 2. This is the child that was lost. 3. The dog which you bought, was stolen. 4. He will do what is right. 5. Ask for what you want. 6. That is the man whose house was burned. 7. This is the dog that worried the cat that killed the rat that ate the malt that lay in the house that Jack built.

Write the first two sentences of a composition on the Quail, and parse the nouns and pronouns.

Finish the composition.

QUESTIONS.—What is a relative pronoun? What are the simple relatives? The compound relatives? What are double relatives? To what is "what" equivalent? "Whatever?" "Whoever?" "Which-ever?" "Whoso" and "Whosoever?" Ans.—He who. Decline "who" and "which." Repeat the order of parsing a relative pronoun.

72. INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

1. The Interrogative Pronouns are who, which, and what, when used in asking questions.

2. The Subsequent of an interrogative pronoun is that part of the answer which it represents.

Rem.—An interrogative pronoun must agree with its subsequent in gender, person, and number. When the answer is not given, or clearly implied, its gender and person are indeterminate, and it is in the singular number.
Ex.—"Who is hurt?" The answer to this question not being given, it is evident that the gender and person of "who" are indeterminate.

"Who is hurt?—Silas." The answer to this question is given. "Who" is masculine gender, third person, singular number, agreeing with "Silas," its subsequent.

Apply Rule IX in parsing interrogatives, changing "antecedent" to "subsequent."

73. ORDER OF PARSING.

74. MODELS FOR PARSING.

I. "Who invented gunpowder?"

Who is a pronoun; interrogative; it is used in asking a question: its subsequent is not expressed: gender, person, and number indeterminate: nominative case; it is used as the subject of the proposition: Rule I.

II. "What is that man?—A lawyer."

What is a pronoun; interrogative; its subsequent is "lawyer;" masculine gender, third person, singular number: Rule IX: nominative case; it is used as the predicate of the proposition: Rule II.

Analyze the following sentences, and parse the pronouns:

1. Who came with you?  2. Whose horse ran away?  3. Whom did you call?—Mary.  4. What did you say?  5. What is that?—It is a velocipede.  6. Which will you have?—The large one.  7. Who told you how to parse "what?"

Questions.—What are the interrogative pronouns? What is the subsequent of an interrogative? With what must an interrogative agree in gender, person, and number? Repeat the order of parsing an interrogative.

Ex.—1. If you will go, I will take care of thy farm. 2. I hope you will put money into thy purse. 3. I will tell thee what we have, and which will suit you. 4. Learn thy lesson, then amuse yourself. 5. You may have my sled if you will lend me thy skates.

Review "Cautions" on pages 56 and 57.

Correct the following sentences by reference to Rule IX:

1. Every person should mind their own business. 2. Each day has their own anxieties. 3. If any one hasn't voted, they will rise in their places. 4. Many a youth have injured their health by keeping late hours.

Questions.—What is false syntax? Repeat the cautions.

77. DESCRIPTIVE ADJECTIVES.

Most descriptive adjectives, by change of form or the addition of modifying words, express quality in different degrees. This is called Comparison.

1. Comparison is a variation of the adjective to express different degrees of quality; as, rich, richer, richest.

2. There are three Degrees of Comparison: Positive, Comparative, and Superlative.

3. The Positive Degree expresses the simple quality, or an equal degree of the quality; as, "An old man;" "She is as good as she is beautiful."

Rem.—The suffix ish, and the words rather, somewhat, etc., express a small amount of the quality; as, saltish, having a little taste of salt; rather warm, somewhat awkward.

4. The Comparative Degree ascribes to one of two objects a higher or lower degree of the quality than that expressed by the positive; as, "An older man;" "Charles is more studious than Mary."

Rem.—The comparative of monosyllables is regularly formed by adding r or er to the positive: the comparative of adjectives of more than one syllable is formed by prefixing more or less to the positive; as, rough, rougher; more honorable, less honorable.

5. The Superlative Degree ascribes the highest or lowest degree of the quality to one of more than two objects; as, "The oldest man;" "The least fertile farm in the township."

Remarks.—1. The superlative of monosyllables is regularly formed by adding st or est to the positive: of adjectives of more than one syllable, by prefixing most or least to the positive; as, roughest, most honorable, least honorable.

2. Some adjectives are compared irregularly; as, good, better, best; bad, worse, worst.

3. Some adjectives can not be compared; as, square, infinite, supreme.

4. Adjectives should not be doubly compared.

Compare the following adjectives:

|------|-------|--------|---------|----------|

Tell the degree of comparison of the following adjectives:

|-------|---------|--------|--------------|--------------|

Questions.— What is comparison? How many degrees of comparison are there? What does the positive degree express? The comparative? The superlative? How are the comparative and superlative degrees formed?
78. DEFINITIVE ADJECTIVES.

1. Pronominal Adjectives are those definitives, most of which may, without the article prefixed, represent a noun understood.

   The principal pronominals are:
   1. The Demonstratives, this, that, these, those, former, latter, both, same, yon, yonder.
   2. The Distributives, each, every, either, neither.
   3. The Indefinites, all, any, another, certain, divers, enough, few, little, many, much, no, none, one, own, other, several, some, sundry, which, whichever, whichever, what, whatever, whatsoever.

   Rem. 1.—The phrases such a, many a, what a, but a, only a, etc., may be called pronominals, and be parsed as single words.
   Rem. 2.—Some pronominals can be compared like descriptive adjectives; as, few, fewer, fewest; much, more, most.

2. Numeral Adjectives are those definitives which denote number and order definitely; as, two, fourth, fourfold.

   There are three classes of numeral adjectives: Cardinal, Ordinal, and Multiplicative.
   1. Cardinals denote the number of objects; as, two, four, a thousand.
   2. Ordinals mark the position of an object in a series; as, second, fourth, thousandth.
   3. Multiplicatives denote how many fold; as, twofold, fourfold.

81. CAUTIONS.

Caution I.—Avoid double comparatives and superlatives.

Ex.—1. He is the most miserablest man in town. 2. No man can't be more neutraler than I on the temperance question. 3. He seems more cheerfuller to-day. 4. Always choose the lesser of two evils. 5. That is more preferable than to be imprisoned.

Caution II.—Omit the article before a word used as a title, or as a mere name.

Ex.—1. They gave him the title of an emperor. 2. A rascal formerly meant a servant. 3. Riches and honor are the gifts of fortune. 4. He is a better sailor than a soldier. 5. They elected him as a chairman.

Caution III.—Place ordinal adjectives before cardinals in most constructions.

Ex.—1. The four first houses on the right hand belong to me. 2. Sing the two first and two last verses. 3. Read the three first chapters.

Caution IV.—Plural adjectives should modify plural nouns; singular adjectives, singular nouns.

Ex.—1. I do not like these kind of apples. 2. These sort of people don't amount to much. 3. These yoke of oxen cost seventy-five dollars.

Write compositions on some of the plants named below, using the following

General Plan.—1. Size, as compared with some other plant. 2. Form, noting important parts. 3. Wild or cultivated—where found wild. 4. If useful, how protected or cultivated. 5. If worthless or noxious, how destroyed. 6. What parts are used for food or for manufacturing purposes.

The pine. The violet. The hickory. The rose-bush.
The tulip. The beech. The chestnut. The wheat-plant.
The daisy. The maple. The dogwood. The tomato-plant.

Repeat the cautions on page 102.

83. PROPERTIES OF THE VERB.

To verbs belong Voice, Mode, Tense, Number, and Person.

Let the pupil now review sections 15, 16, and 25.

84. VOICE.

A verb may represent its subject as acting or as being acted upon. In the sentence, “John struck James,” “John,” the subject, is represented as acting: in the sentence, “James was struck by John,” “James,” the subject, is represented as being acted upon. This property is called voice, and is peculiar to transitive verbs.
1. Voice is that form of the transitive verb which shows whether the subject acts or is acted upon.

2. Transitive verbs have two voices: an Active and a Passive Voice.

3. The Active Voice represents the subject as acting upon an object; as, "The boy wrote a letter."

4. The Passive Voice represents the subject as being acted upon; as, "The letter was written."

5. The Passive Voice is formed by prefixing some form of the verb to be to the perfect participle of a transitive verb.

Rem.—When a verb in the active voice is changed into the passive, the direct object in the active becomes the subject in the passive; as, "The cat caught the mouse" (active); "The mouse was caught by the cat" (passive).

Tell which verbs are active and which passive in the following exercises:

1. The girl sings. 2. Fire burns. 3. The mail was robbed. 4. Truants will be punished. 5. A meteor was seen. 6. He should have told the truth. 7. Children love play. 8. He has found his knife. 9. A watch was found in the street. 10. The burglar might have been arrested. 11. The bad boy was whipped for stealing apples.

Questions.—What is a verb? A transitive verb? An intransitive verb? A copulative verb?

What is a participle? The present participle? How does the present participle always end? What is the perfect participle? How does it usually end? What is the compound participle? How is it formed?

What belong to verbs? What is voice? How many voices have transitive verbs? What is the active voice? The passive voice? How is the passive voice formed? How is a verb in the active voice changed into the passive? Give examples.

dare, feel, help, let, make, need, see, and a few others; as, "Let them [to] come on;" "See him [to] run;" "Bid them [to] come."

Rem. 2.—The indicative and potential modes may be used in asking questions; as, "Is he honest?" "Has she arrived?" "May I go home?"

Tell the mode of the verbs in the following sentences:

1. The army encamped by the river. 2. Run for some water. 3. You must recite your lesson. 4. I will recite my lesson, if I can. 5. I like to play. 6. Hope thou in God. 7. Do let me go to the picnic. 8. He should have come home. 9. Lift up your heads, O ye gates! 10. Were I rich, I would purchase that property.

Write a description of the oak, and tell the modes of the verbs used.

Questions.—What is mode? How many modes are there? Name them. What is the indicative mode? What is the subjunctive mode? What is the potential mode? What are the signs of the potential mode? What is the imperative mode? The infinitive mode? What is the sign of the infinitive mode? What modes are used in asking questions?

86. TENSE.

1. Tense denotes the time of an action or event.

2. There are six tenses: the Present, the Present Perfect, the Past, the Past Perfect, the Future, and the Future Perfect.

3. The Present Tense denotes present time; as, "I write;" "The wind is blowing."

4. The Present Perfect Tense represents an action or event as past, but connected with present time; as, "I have written;" "The wind has been blowing."

5. The Past Tense denotes past time; as, "I wrote;" "The wind blew."
6. The Past Perfect Tense represents an act as ended or completed in time fully past; as, "I had written;" "The bridge had fallen before we reached it."

7. The Future Tense denotes future time; as, "I shall write;" "The lion shall eat straw like the ox."

8. The Future Perfect Tense represents an act as finished or ended at or before a certain future time; as, "I shall have written the letter before the mail closes."

87. SIGNS OF THE TENSES: ACTIVE VOICE.

Write a description of the Currant-bush, and parse the verbs.

QUESTIONS.—What is conjugation? What are the principal parts of a verb? What is the synopsis of a verb? Give the synopsis of "to be." Of "to love," in both the active and the passive voice. How is the passive voice formed? What are the coördinate forms of conjugation? What is the progressive form? The emphatic form? The interrogative form? Give the synopsis of each form.

95. REGULAR AND IRREGULAR VERBS.

1. A Regular Verb forms its past indicative and perfect participle by adding d or ed to the present indicative; as, love, *love-*d, *love-*d; count, *count-*ed *count-*ed.

2. An Irregular Verb is one which does not form its past tense and perfect participle by adding d or ed to the present indicative; as, go, went, gone; see, saw, seen; do, did, done.

For list of Irregular Verbs see Appendix.

96. DEFECTIVE AND REDUNDANT VERBS.

1. Defective Verbs are those which want some of the principal parts. They are beware, from be and aware, ought, quoth, quod, wit, and its derivatives, wot, wis, weet, wist, wote.

2. Redundant Verbs are those which have more than one form for their past tense or perfect participle; as, cleave, clove, or clave; cleft, cloven, or cleaved.

Correct the following sentences, using this model.

"The man threwed a stone."

This sentence is incorrect. The word "thowed" should be "threw," the past indicative of the verb "throw." The sentence should read, "The man threw a stone."

1. I have saw some fine cattle to-day. 2. He ought to have went home. 3. The beads were stringed on a silk thread. 4. He has brung some snow into the school-house. 5. The cloth was weaved by hand. 6. 19. May is a pious fraud of the almanac, A ghastly parody of real spring, Shaped out of snow and breathed with eastern winds.—Lowell.

Write the first two sentences of a composition on Lazy Boys, and parse the verbs.

Finish the composition.

100. FALSE SYNTAX.

Caution I.—Never use will for shall, nor would for should.

Ex.—1. I was afraid I would be hurt. '2.' If I would try, I would learn fast. 3. I shall go; no one will prevent me. 4. I would be very careless if I would leave my books at home. 5. Should I be punished if I would play truant?
Caution II.—Tense-forms should express time in harmony with that indicated by other parts of the sentence.

Ex.—1. They have visited us yesterday. 2. You may take a walk after you finish your task. 3. He was tardy every day this week. 4. I would help you, if you can’t get some one else to do so. 5. He was under obligations to have assisted me.

Caution III.—General truths should be expressed in the present tense.

Ex.—1. I have heard that each star was a sun. 2. I always thought that meteors were falling stars. 3. What did you say was the capital of Indiana? 4. I should think it was time for school to be dismissed. 5. I always thought that dew fell.

Caution IV.—Do not use the perfect participle to express past time, nor the past tense form instead of the perfect participle.

Ex.—1. He come here last week. 2. He done it: I seen him. 3. The tree had fell, and it was broke in two. 4. The squirrel had ran up a tree. 5. He set down on a log. 6. I have saw the man.

Caution V.—Avoid the inelegant use of participles in place of other forms.

Ex.—1. Going to Congress is no evidence of greatness. 2. I do not like being punished. 3. He neglected the plowing of his land. 4. Boys, be ashamed of being found in bad company.

Caution VI.—Do not use is n’t or aint for is not, have n’t or haint for have not, ’tain t for it is not, might of for might have, etc.
Ex.—1. 'Taint one swallow that makes a summer.  2. Jane haint got her lesson.  3. Aint you going to the concert? 4. Samuel might of done his task long ago.  5. He should of taken the accommodation train.  6. Is n't it beautiful?

Correct all inaccuracies in the use of verbs you may observe in your own language or in that of your school-mates.

Correct the following sentences by reference to Rules XIII and XIV:

1. Henry and Charles was very much disappointed.  2. You was there, I suppose.  3. The yoke of oxen were sold for a hundred dollars.  4. Ellen are not at school to-day.  5. The scissors is dull.  6. The fleet were seen off Hatteras.  7. Time and tide waits for no man.

101. THE ADVERB.—CLASSES.

1. Adverbs are divided into five classes: Adverbs of Time, Place, Cause, Manner, and Degree.

2. Adverbs of Time answer the questions, When? How long? How often?

Ex.—After, again, always, early, never, frequently, hereafter, lately, immediately, now, often, seldom, then, when, etc.

3. Adverbs of Place answer the questions, Where? Whither? Whence?

Ex.—Above, below, hither, here, there, herein, whence, somewhere, far, yonder, forth, aloof, away, backwards, first, etc.

4. Adverbs of Cause answer the questions, Why? Wherefore?

Ex.—Wherefore, therefore, then, why?

5. Adverbs of Manner answer the question, How?

Ex.—Amiss, anyhow, well, badly, easily, sweetly, indeed, nay, no, perhaps, peradventure, perchance, etc.

104. MODELS FOR PARSING.

I. "The soldiers fought bravely."

Bravely is an adverb; it is used to modify the meaning of a verb: compared, pos. bravely, com. more bravely, sup. most bravely; it modifies "fought." Rule XVII. "Adverbs modify verbs, adjectives, participles, and adverbs."

II. "I will go whenever you wish."

Whenever is an adverb; conjunctive; it connects two clauses; it modifies "wish:" Rule XVII.

Analyze the following sentences, and parse the nouns, pronouns, adjectives, verbs, and adverbs:

1. I saw him frequently. 2. You must call often. 3. How rapidly the moments fly. 4. He has been reproved again and again. 5. Perhaps he can te 6. Doubtless, he is a wise man. 7. Write the first two sentences of a composition on My Last Vacation, and parse the verbs and adverbs.

QUESTIONS.—What is an adverb? How many classes of adverbs? What are adverbs of time? Of place? Of cause? Of manner? Of degree? What is an adverbial phrase? What are conjunctive adverbs? Are adverbs ever compared? How are three adverbs compared? How are adverbs ending in ly usually compared? How are other adverbs compared? Repeat the order of parsing an adverb. Repeat the cautions.

106. THE PREPOSITION.

1. The relations between objects of thought are sometimes so obvious that they need no expression. This occurs when nouns denoting time, distance, measure, direction, or value follow verbs or adjectives; as, "He left yesterday;" "He lives south of this town." Such words are said to be in the objective case without a governing word.

2. The names of things following the passive forms of the verbs ask, lend, teach, refuse, provide, and some others are usually in the objective case without a governing word; as, "I was asked a question;" "I was taught grammar."

3. The words of some phrases need not be separated in parsing; as, in vain, on high, round and round, in general, etc. Such combinations may be parsed as single words.

4. Sometimes two prepositions are used together, forming a complex preposition; as, "He came from over the sea."

107. ORDER OF PARSING.

108. MODELS FOR PARISING.

"They went aboard the ship."

Aboard is a preposition; it shows the relation between its object and some other word: it shows the relation between "ship" and "went." Rule XVIII. "A preposition shows the relation of its object to the word upon which the latter depends."

Analyze the following sentences, and parse the nouns and prepositions:

1. A lark reared her brood amid the corn. 2. They wandered in throngs down the valley. 3. Emma came from the village, through the woods, to our house 4. We have seen the moon rising behind the eastern pines. 5. I came from beyond Richmond to-day. (Parse "to-day" in the objective case without a governing word, by Rule VIII.) 6. I went to Detroit yesterday. 7. John came home last night. 8. They allowed themselves no relaxation.

9. To me the meanest flower that blows, can give Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.—Wordsworth.

10. The locust by the wall Stabs the noon-silence with his sharp alarm. A single hay-cart down the dusty road Creaks slowly, with its driver fast asleep On the load's top.—Whittier.

Write the first two sentences of a description of Spruce Gum, and parse the prepositions.

Finish the composition.

QUESTIONS.—What is a preposition? Do the relations between objects of thought always need expression? When do they not need expression? What words are in the objective case without a governing word? What is a complex preposition? Can the words in all phrases be separated? How should such combinations be parsed? Repeat the order of parsing a preposition.

111. MODELS FOR PARSING.

I. "Ellen and Mary study algebra."

And is a conjunction; it connects words: coördinate; it connects words of the same rank or name: it connects "Emma" and "Mary." Rule XIX. "Conjunctions connect words, phrases, members, and clauses."

II. "Neither Ellen nor Mary learned the lesson."

Neither . . . nor . . . are conjunctions; correlative; one refers or answers to the other: "neither" introduces the sentence, and "nor" connects "Ellen" and "Mary:" Rule XIX.

Analyze the following sentences, and parse the conjunctions:

1. Cold and hunger awake not her care. 2. He came and went like a pleasant thought. 3. Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom. 4. We can not thrive unless we are industrious. 5. Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him. 6. He was not only proud, but vain also.

112. COMPOSITION.

Read the following description three or four times, then reproduce it from memory:

IRON.

Iron is a heavy, solid, incombustible metal, of a white color when pure. Its most useful property is its hardness, which is greater than that of any other metal. It can be made into steel, which is next in hardness to the diamond.

Like most other metals, iron is rarely found in a pure state, being associated with oxygen, sulphur, and other substances. The mixture is called iron ore, and varies much in quality and value. It is found in all countries, and is very abundant in the United States, where valuable deposits of it are found in the neighborhood of coal.
In the manufacture of iron, the ore is first roasted, usually in the open air. Many of the substances associated with the metal are driven off by this process. It is next subjected to a very great heat in a blast furnace. This process is called smelting. The metal is melted by the intense heat, and is drawn off from the bottom of the furnace into channels made in sand. It is then called pig iron.

Pig iron is converted into wrought iron by being again smelted and stirred; after which, while still hot, it is hammered and rolled into bars. Wrought iron is the strongest and the most tenacious of all metals, and is therefore used where great strain has to be resisted. Separate pieces can also be welded, or beaten into one mass, better than pieces of any other metal.

Parse all the conjunctions in three sentences of your reading lesson.

QUESTIONS.—What is a conjunction? Into how many classes are conjunctions divided? What are coördinate conjunctions? Subordinate conjunctions? Correlative conjunctions? How should as if, not only, etc., be parsed?

Repeat the order of parsing a conjunction.

113. THE INTERJECTION.

1. Interjections are expressions of emotion only. They are called interjections because they are thrown in between connected parts of discourse, though generally found at the commencement of a sentence.

2. Most words when used as exclamations may be treated as interjections; as, "What! are you mad?" "Revenge!" cried he.

114. ORDER OF PARSING.

115. MODEL FOR PARSING.

"Eh! are you sure of it?"

Eh! is an interjection; it denotes some sudden emotion. Rule XX. "An interjection has no dependence upon other words."

Parse all the words in the following sentences:

10. Don't you hear? Don't you see?
   Hush! look! In my tree
   I'm as happy as happy can be!

QUESTIONS.—What is an interjection? Why is it called an interjection? Repeat the order of parsing an interjection.

116. COMPOSITION.

Write a description of Lead, using the following

Plan.—1. Properties—weight, color, etc. 2. Describe its ore. 3. Where found in our country. 4. How obtained. 5. How prepared for use. 6. Uses. 7. Describe the manufacture of small shot.

Describe some of these substances, using the following

General Plan.—1. Properties—color, weight, transparency, opacity, etc. 2. Where found. 3. With what associated. 4. How obtained. 5. How prepared for use: separation of a metal from its ore, refining, alloying, etc. 6. Uses.

MODEL FOR ANALYSIS.

"Forward!"

This is a sentence; exclamatory. Its subject and predicate are omitted by ellipsis. It is equivalent to "March ye forward." Ye is the subject; march, the predicate, which is modified by forward, an adverbial element.

QUESTIONS.—What is ellipsis? When are words said to be understood? What parts of a sentence may be omitted?

118. ABRIDGMENT.

1. Complex Sentences are often changed into simple ones by abridging their subordinate clauses.

Rem.—This is done by dropping the subject or changing its case, and by changing the copula or verbal predicate to an infinitive, a participial noun, or a participle.

2. A subordinate clause thus changed is called an Abridged Proposition.

Rem.—When the copula or principal verb is changed to the infinitive mode, a noun or pronoun used as subject or predicate is changed to the objective case.

Ex.—"I knew that it was he" = "I knew it to be him."

3. When the copula or principal verb is changed to a participial noun, the subject is changed to the possessive case, but a noun or pronoun used as the predicate, remains unchanged in the nominative.

Ex.—"I was not aware that it was he" = "I was not aware of its being he."

4. When the copula or principal verb is changed to a participle, the subject is put in the nominative case absolute with it.

Ex.—"The fair was not held, because the weather was unfavorable" = "The weather being unfavorable, the fair was not held."
ABRIDGMENT.

MODELS FOR ANALYSIS.

I. "I knew it to be him."

This is a sentence; declarative; simple.

I is the subject; knew, the predicate, which is modified by the abridged proposition it to be him, equivalent to that it was he, an objective element. "It" is modified by "to be him," an adjective element.

\end{array}

II. "I was aware of its being he."

This is a sentence; declarative; simple.

I is the subject; aware, the predicate; was, the copula. "Aware" is modified by the abridged proposition of its being he, equivalent to that it was he, an adverbial element. "Being" is modified by "its," an adjective element.

\begin{array}{c|c|c|c|c|c|c|c}
I & was : aware & of being he. & \\
\hline
\end{array}
\]

III. "The snow being deep, we could not proceed."

This is a sentence; declarative; simple.

We is the subject; could proceed, the predicate, which is modified by not, an adverbial element, and by the abridged proposition the snow being deep, equivalent to because the snow was deep, an adverbial element. "Snow" is modified by "the" and "being deep," both adjective elements.

Analyze the following sentences:

9. I wished him to be a farmer. 10. His being a foreigner is no disgrace. 11. No rain having fallen, the crops were destroyed. 12. There is no danger of his falling. 13. The storm continuing, we dropped anchor. 14. Having led an active life, he could not endure confinement. 15. Being human, he is not perfect. 16. Honor being lost, all is lost.

119. MODIFIED SUBJECT AND PREDICATE.

1. The Grammatical Subject of a proposition is the unmodified subject.

Ex.—“A great storm is raging.” “Storm” is the grammatical subject.

2. The Complex or Logical Subject is the grammatical subject taken with all its modifiers.

Ex.—“A great storm is raging.” “A great storm” is the logical subject. “He who runs may read.” “He who runs” is the logical subject.

3. The Grammatical Predicate of a proposition is the unmodified predicate.

Ex.—“The storm rages furiously.” “Rages” is the grammatical predicate.

4. The Complex or Logical Predicate is the grammatical predicate taken with all its modifiers.

with fear. The elements seem to be thrown into confusion, and the stability of nature to be destroyed.

The next morning's sun shines upon a scene of utter desolation. Fertile valleys have been changed to dreary wastes. Uprooted trees, branches torn from their trunks, dead animals, and the ruins of houses have been strewn over the land. In some instances, the destruction is so complete that planters are unable to distinguish the boundaries of their estates.

Write a description of an Earthquake, using the following

Plan.—1. Definition. 2. Cause. 3. Movements—horizontal, vertical, etc. 4. Duration of shocks. 5. Effects. 6. Where most frequent. 7. Connection with volcanic eruptions.

Describe some of these phenomena, using the following

General Plan.—1. Indications of occurrence. 2. Cause. 3. Progress from beginning to end. 4. Consequences or effects, of whatever character.

121. RULES OF SYNTAX.

1. Syntax is that part of grammar which treats of the construction of sentences.

Rem.—All the exercises in the formation of sentences, in this work, are exercises in syntax.

2. A Rule of Syntax is a statement of the manner in which words should be used in sentences.

Rule 1.—A noun or pronoun used as the subject of a proposition, is in the nominative case.
Rule II.—A noun or pronoun used as the predicate of a proposition, is in the nominative case.

Rule III.—A noun or pronoun used to limit the meaning of a noun denoting a different person or thing, is in the possessive case.

Rem. 1.—The limited noun is sometimes omitted; as, "We visited St. Paul's [church]."

Rem. 2.—The limited noun need not be plural because the possessive is plural; as, "Their intention was good."

Rule IV.—A noun or pronoun used to limit the meaning of a noun or pronoun denoting the same person, place, or thing, is in the same case.

Rem. 1.—A noun may be in apposition with a sentence, and a sentence with a noun; as, "He is dangerously ill—a fact that can not be denied;" "Remember Franklin's maxim, 'God helps them that help themselves.'"

Rem. 2.—A word in apposition with another, is frequently introduced by as or or; as, "As mayor of the city, I feel aggrieved;" "mayor" being in apposition with "I;" "Muize, or Indian corn, is extensively cultivated."

Rule V.—A noun or pronoun used independently is in the nominative absolute case.

Rule VI.—The object of a transitive verb in the active voice, or of its participles, is in the objective case.

Rem. 1.—Some verbs have two objects, one representing a person, the other a thing; as, "He asked me a question." When such verbs are used in the passive voice, if the thing is made nominative, the person is governed by a preposition, expressed or understood: if the person is made nominative, the thing is in the objective case without a governing word.

Rem. 2.—A noun or pronoun following the infinitive to be, is in the same case as a word which precedes it; as, "I did not think it to be him;” “him” is in the same case as “it;” “Whom do you take me to be?” “whom” is in the same case as “me.” See section 118.

Rule VII.—The object of a preposition is in the objective case.

Rule VIII.—Nouns denoting time, distance, measure, or value, after verbs and adjectives, are in the objective case without a governing word.

Ex.—“He came home yesterday.” Both “home” and “yesterday” are in the objective case without a governing word.

Rem.—Nouns and pronouns following the passive forms of certain verbs, may be said to be in the objective case without a governing word; as, “I was taught grammar;” “He was offered a situation.”

Rule IX.—Pronouns must agree with their antecedents in gender, person, and number.

Rem.—A pronoun used instead of a collective noun, denoting unity, should be in the neuter singular: one used instead of a collective noun, denoting plurality, should be plural, taking the gender of the individuals composing the collection.

Rule X.—A pronoun with two or more antecedents in the singular connected by and, must be plural.

Rem.—When the antecedents are the names of the same person or thing, the pronoun must be singular: when they are limited by each, every, or no, the pronoun must be singular: when the antecedents, taken together, are regarded as a single thing, the pronoun must be singular.

Ex.—“The patriot and statesman receives his reward;” “Each officer, each private, did his duty;” “Bread and milk was brought us, and we ate it.”

122. LETTER-WRITING.

Oral Lesson.—I have a letter in my hand. You may look at it. First, however, look at the superscription, or what is written on the envelope. You see that it looks like this:

![Envelope Image]

Mr. Jas. Johnson,
Madison,
Lake Co.,
Ohio.

This is a good form for the superscription of a letter; but other forms are allowable and in common use. Write the name and title of the person to whom the letter is to be sent, a little below the middle of the envelope. Below this, and a little to the right of the first letters of the name, write the name of the post-office. This is usually the name of some township, village, or city. The name of the county should be written below and a little to the right of the name of the post-office, and the name of the state in the lower right-hand corner of the envelope. The name of the county is sometimes written in the lower left-hand corner. If the letter is to be sent to a foreign country, the name of that country forms the last line of the superscription. A stamp should be placed on the envelope, in the upper right-hand corner, before a letter is sent to the post-office to be mailed.

I will now open my letter. You see that the name of the city in which the writer lives, and the day of the month on which the letter was written, are placed near the top of the page. This part of a letter is called the date. (See page 144.)

After writing the date, my friend wrote my name on the next line beneath, beginning about half an inch from the left side of the page, and the name of my post-office on the line below that, and about half an inch to the right. The words
"Dear Sir" were written next, beginning about an inch and a half from the left side of the page. This part of a letter is called the address. Some call "Dear Sir," etc., when written in this way, the introduction or the complimentary address. These words are, however, only a part of the address.

The body of the letter, which contains what the writer wished me to know, was then written; after that, the signature. The first word of the body of the letter was written under the last word of the address. Some begin this part of a letter farther to the right. The words "Yours truly" should begin a little to the right of the center of the line. Instead of these words, some prefer "Yours faithfully," "Very respectfully," etc. The signature, and, in fact, every part of a letter, should be written as legibly as possible. Avoid all attempts at "flourishes."

A letter introducing a friend or an acquaintance should not be sealed; and it is customary to write "Introducing
A. B., Esq.," or some similar expression, in the lower left-hand corner of the envelope.
(DATE.)

Boston, Mass., May 1, 1880.

 ADDRESS.)

Mr. Jas. Johnson,

Madison, O.

Dear Sir:

(BODY OF LETTER.)

I write this to inform you that it is my intention to travel for my health the coming summer, and that I shall probably see you soon in your western home.

Yours truly,

(SIGNATURE.)

Henry Times.

I have told you how to write a letter. When you have written one, bring it to me, and I will show you how to fold it and put it into an envelope. You may now write me a letter in which you shall tell me what you intend to do next Saturday afternoon.

When first on this delightful land he spreads
His orient beams, on herb, tree, fruit, and flower,
Glistening with dew.—Milton.

28. The day hath gone to God,—
Straight—like an infant’s spirit, or a mocked
And mourning messenger of grace to man.—Bailey.

29. It is a little thing to speak a phrase
Of common comfort, which, by daily use,
Has almost lost its sense; yet on the ear
Of him who thought to die unmourned, ’t will fall
Like choicest music.—Talfourd.

30. A song to the oak, the brave old oak,
Who hath ruled in the greenwood long;
Here’s health and renown to his broad green crown,
And his fifty arms so strong.—Chorley.

31. Labor is life! ’Tis the still water faileth;
Idleness ever despaireth, bewaileth;
Keep the watch wound, for the dark rust assaileth;
Flowers droop and die in the stillness of noon.—
Frances S. Osgood.
PART III.

PUNCTUATION.

124. DEFINITION.

1. Punctuation is the art of dividing written discourse into sentences and parts of sentences, by means of points and marks.

2. The principal marks used in punctuation are the following:

| Comma, . . . . ; | Exclamation Point, ! |
| Semicolon, . . . ; | Dash, . . . . — |
| Colon, . . . . : | Curves, . . . . () |
| Period, . . . . . | Brackets, . . . . [ ] |

125. THE COMMA.

The Comma denotes the slightest degree of separation between the parts of a sentence.

Rule I.—Two or more nouns, pronouns, adjectives, verbs, or adverbs, in the same construction, should be separated by commas.

Ex.—1. Spring, summer, autumn, and winter are called the seasons. 2. You, he, and I were boys together. 3. David was a brave, wise, and pious man. 4. In a letter, we may advise, exhort, comfort, request, and discuss. 5. Success depends upon our acting prudently, steadily, and vigorously.

Rule IX.—Nouns and pronouns in the nominative absolute case by pleonasm or direct address, should be separated from the rest of the sentence by commas.

Ex.—1. Our souls, how heavily they go, to reach immortal joys. 2. Take, O boatman, thrice thy fee!

Rule X.—Nouns in apposition, modified by other words than the, should be set off by commas.

Ex.—The butterfly, child of the summer, flutters in the sun.

Rem.—Nouns in apposition, introduced by or or as, should be set of by commas.

Rule XI.—A direct quotation should be set off by commas.

Ex.—Quoth the raven, “Nevermore.”

Rule XII.—Words repeated for emphasis should be set off by commas.

Ex.—Verily, verily, I say unto you.

126. THE SEMICOLON.

The Semicolon denotes a degree of separation greater than that denoted by the comma.

Rule I.—The semicolon should be used before as, namely, etc., introducing an example or an illustration.

Ex.—There are four seasons; namely, spring, summer, autumn, and winter.

Rule II.—Clauses having a common dependence should be separated by semicolons.

Ex.—Experience teaches us, that an entire retreat from worldly affairs is not what religion requires; nor does it even enjoin a long retreat from them.
Rule III.—Semicolons should separate the members of compound sentences, if the connective is omitted, or if their parts are separated by commas.

Ex.—1. Straws swim upon the surface; pearls lie at the bottom. 2. Philosophers assert that nature is unlimited in her operations; that she has inexhaustible treasures in reserve; that knowledge will always be progressive; and that all future generations will continue to make discoveries, of which we have not the least idea.

127. THE COLON.

The Colon denotes a degree of separation greater than that indicated by the semicolon.

Rule I.—The colon should precede an example or a lengthy quotation, and follow the introduction to a speech.

Ex.—The Scriptures give us an amiable representation of the Deity in these words: "God is love."

Rule II.—The members of a compound sentence, whose parts are set off by semicolons, should be separated by colons.

Ex.—We do not say that his error lies in being a good member of society; this, though only a circumstance at present, is a very fortunate one: the error lies in his having discarded the authority of God as his legislator; or, rather, in his not having admitted the influence of that authority over his mind, heart, or practice.

128. THE PERIOD.

The Period denotes the greatest degree of separation.

Rule I.—The period should be placed at the end of a declarative or an imperative sentence.
Ex.—1. Evil communications corrupt good manners. 2. Walk quietly.

Rule II.—The period should be used after every abbreviated word.

Ex.—H. G. Lloyd, Esq.; Mich., Ind., Ill.; Ps. lxxv, 6, 7; Chap. XIV.

129. INTERROGATION POINT.

The Interrogation Point denotes that a question is asked.

Ex.—1. Where is Singapore? 2. Do you own this farm?

130. EXCLAMATION POINT.

The Exclamation Point denotes passion or emotion.

Rule I.—The exclamation point should be placed after expressions denoting strong emotion.

Ex.—1. Alas, poor Yorick! 2. Fie on you!

131. THE DASH.

The Dash is a straight, horizontal line, placed between the parts of a sentence.

Rule I.—The dash should be used where a sentence breaks off abruptly, or where there is a change in its meaning or construction.

Ex.—1. Dim—dim—I faint—darkness comes over me. 2. If thou art he, so much respected once—but oh! how fallen! how degraded!

134. OTHER MARKS USED IN WRITING.

I. The Apostrophe ['] is used to denote the omission of one or more letters, or to mark the possessive case; as, "You're mistaken;" "The Queen's English."

II. The Hyphen [-] is used (1) to join the parts of compound words and expressions; as, "Nut-brown maid;" (2) to divide words into syllables; as, "con-fu-sion;" (3) after a syllable at the end of a line, when the rest of the word is carried to the next line.

III. Quotation Marks ['"] are used to show that a passage is taken verbatim from some author; as, "Shakespeare says, 'All the world's a stage.'"

IV. The Index [ä] and Asterism [* *] point out a passage to which special attention is called; as, "ä Be punctual in your attendance at school."

V. The Asterisk [*], the Obelisk, or Dagger [†], the Double Dagger [‡], the Section [§], the Parallels [∥], and the Paragraph [¶], refer to notes in the margin, or at the bottom of the page.

VI. The Brace [–—] connects a number of words with a common term.

VII. The Paragraph [¶] denotes the beginning of a new subject.

VIII. The Section [§] denotes the division of a treatise.

IX. The Caret [^] is used in writing to show that something has been omitted.

\text{Ex.—The sessions are alike in all of the same region.}

X. The Tilde [\textipa{fi}] annexes to \textit{n} the sound of \textit{y}; as, \textit{cañon}, pronounced \textit{canyon}: the Cedilla [\textipa{c}] gives to \textit{c} the sound of \textit{s}; as, \textit{façade}: the Macron [\textipa{-}] marks a long sound, as in \textit{töne}: the Breve [\textipa{~}], a short sound, as in \textit{tön}: the Dieresis [\ldots] separates two vowels into two syllables; as, \textit{æðiform}.

XI. The Acute Accent [\textipa{'}] commonly denotes a sharp sound; the Grave Accent [\textipa{`}] a depressed sound; the Circumflex Accent [\textipa{\n or \n}], a broad sound.

\textbf{Rem.}—In most reading books, the \textit{acute} accent denotes the rising inflection; the \textit{grave} accent, the falling inflection; the \textit{circumflex}, a union of the acute and the grave.

\textbf{Suggestion to Teachers.}—Require pupils to give rules for the use of all the points found in their reading lesson. Select passages from good authors, and pronounce the words in consecutive order, as in a spelling lesson, without indicating the grammatical construction by tone of voice or inflections. Let the pupils write these as pronounced, and separate them into sentences and parts of sentences by the proper points.

his personal appearance contributed to the attraction of his social intercourse his countenance frame expression and presence arrested and fixed attention you could not pass him unnoticed in a crowd nor fail to observe in him a man of high mark and character no one could see him and not wish to see more of him and this alike in public and private.

\textit{edward everett,}

\textbf{Questions.}—What is punctuation? Define the principal marks used in punctuation. Repeat the rules for their use.

What does the apostrophe denote? For what purposes is the hyphen used? The quotation marks? The index and asterism? The asterisk, etc.? What does the brace connect? What does the paragraph denote? The section?

For what purpose is the caret used? What does the tilde denote? The cedilla? The macron? The breve? The dieresis? What does the acute accent denote? The grave accent? The circumflex accent? What do these denote in most reading books?

UNIPERSONAL VERBS.

A Unipersonal Verb is one by which an act or state is asserted independently of any particular subject; as, "It snows;" "It behooves us to be watchful." In each of these sentences, "it" represents an indefinite subject. The term "unipersonal" need not be used in parsing.
CAPITAL LETTERS, ITALICS, ETC.

I. The first word of every sentence should begin with a capital letter.

II. The first word of every line of poetry should begin with a capital letter.

III. Proper names of persons, places, days, etc., should begin with capital letters.

IV. Titles of honor or distinction should begin with capital letters.

V. All appellations of the Deity should begin with capital letters.

VI. Words denoting races or nations should begin with capital letters.

VII. Most words derived from proper names should begin with capital letters.

VIII. Words of special importance may begin with capital letters.

IX. I and O, used as single words, should be capitals.

X. Emphatic words, phrases, and clauses are frequently printed in capitals.

Rem. 1.—Italicized words in the Bible are those supplied by translators to explain the original.

Rem. 2.—In manuscripts, one line drawn under a word indicates italics; two lines, small capitals; three lines, CAPITALS.
