The letter of the Bible is the shrine of its spirit and the organism by which it comes into contact with the reader's mind. Hence the most spiritual of Bible students may well feel grateful to all who have toiled at the wearying task of preserving, and—where necessary and possible—restoring the true letter of the Sacred Text in its original tongues. All honour then to men who—like Ginsburg, Tregelles, and Westcott and Hort—have for long years laboured, chiefly that others might enter into their labours.

No English Bible can be more than a translation, since the Sacred Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments were originally written in Hebrew and in Greek. Hence it must be obvious to all, that just in proportion to the importance of these documents must be the obligation to translate them as accurately and adequately as possible; and since in the very nature of things no translation can be perfect, improvement is always possible. Even if no further improvement were attainable, various renderings for different classes of readers would still probably be of service. Besides, Divine favours are freely and widely bestowed; and the humblest individual translator may reasonably deem it possible to contribute something to the common stock of happy and effective renderings. Hence it may not be presumptuous to hope that a useful place will be filled by The Emphasised Bible.

Reverent faith and fearless criticism are not necessarily opposed. He that believes may usefully ask—What? and Why? It may be more imperative than some dream to put such questions, unless faith is to degenerate into superstition. Criticism itself may be subdivided and classified. There is the Lower, which deals with words and sentences, and employs grammar and dictionary to find out their sense and force. There is the Higher, which seeks to get behind the text, and to track the wellnigh hidden streams of origin, using for the purpose literary culture, comparison, conjecture and speculation—sometimes, indeed, to great good purpose, by laying down tracks along which to look for trusty emendation; at others, quite needlessly disturbing the common faith, by confounding editorship (which all books need) with authorship, and, worse still, by imagining ancient inventive liberties falling little short of forgery, without any necessity appreciable by common minds. And, finally, there is the Highest criticism, which springs from sympathy, insight, and experience in divine things; from claiming which modest men instinctively shrink; but which is a reality nevertheless, and is sometimes richly possessed by humble souls who, thoughversed in literary problems, know when broad conclusions wound their religious instincts, and whose unsophisticated judgment deserves respectful consideration before any general critical conclusions can be pronounced wholly satisfactory. It is devoutly to be wished that criticism may yet prove itself a greater aid to faith than it has done in the recent past. Its services hitherto must not be forgotten; and candour should be brought to its appreciation. The present Translator has striven to reach absolute freedom from prejudice; and feels constrained to record the seemingly paradoxical testimony—that the so-called higher critics have won the position of worthily occupying the very front rank of workers in the field of the lower criticism, where all learners must begin; and that among Hebrew Lexicons, none approaches—for thoroughness, accuracy, and resolute sobriety—the splendid monument of English, American, and Continental learning, now nearly complete, emanating from the Oxford Press.

The sacred joy experienced during the twelve years of hard work bestowed upon the production of The Emphasised Bible might excuse the vain desire that another life could be vouchsafed in which to reap the fruit of antecedent toil; but all this is sobered and subdued by the reflection that the fire itself, human and divine, must prove every man's work, of what sort it is.

It remains only to render hearty thanks to the Scholars whose labours have made this work possible; to the Reviewers whose encouragement has lightened a protracted though pleasant task; to the Printers and Correctors of the Press whose enterprise and patience have done much to make this Bible a pleasure to look on and an instrument to handle with facility; but first and last—especially in view of preserved life and eyesight and mental freshness—to Him from whom all blessings flow.

EXPOSITORY INTRODUCTION

TO THE EMPHASISED BIBLE.

CHAPTER I.

THE SPECIAL FEATURES OF THIS TRANSLATION.

That this purports to be an "Emphasised" Bible is naturally the first thing to be noticed. But as it seems desirable to devote an entire chapter to the subject of Emphasis, further discussion of this prominent characteristic may be conveniently deferred until it falls to be considered in due course. In the meantime there are other features which have grown up around this, which it will be of advantage to set forth in order.

1. The size of the page. It is with design that this has been made large; mainly for the purpose of bringing into one view connected portions, the constituent parts of which can be so much more easily grasped and remembered when readily seen in their relation to each other and to the whole, than when extended over several smaller pages. The familiar fifteenth chapter of the Gospel by Luke affords an excellent example; the whole chapter being here brought within two columns, in which its historical introduction and the three parables of which it is composed are at once taken in by the eye.

2. The varying indentations of the lines. These have been employed to serve several important purposes.

a. They mark the transition from Narrative to Speech. The first chapter of Genesis comes out into beautiful relief by this means. After a few introductory words, the arrangement of the lines seems like a commentary on the text "He spake, and it was done." "He spake"—and the words of the speech are distinguished by being set in; "and it was done"—the record of the fact is given as narrative, shown by the nearer approach of the lines to the left-hand margin. The effect is solemnly dramatic. Sometimes the deeper questions of criticism are thus brought to the surface, and the humblest reader is moved to consider whether, for example, the Speeches of Moses recorded in the Book of Deuteronomy were afterwards edited. It is tolerably plain they were; and the perception of the fact would appear to favour the genuineness of the Speeches themselves by the formal removal of objections. Sometimes, again, a subtle question of exegesis is brought very near to a solution by the mere process of rightly indenting the lines. For instance: Does the eighteenth verse of the second chapter of Galatians present a conclusion to which the Apostle Paul had for himself arrived—or is he still addressing his erring brother Peter, and delicately suggesting that Peter was now, at Antioch, "building up" an invidious distinction which, at Caesarea, he had "destroyed"? The cited-speech indentation appears to be correctly continued there; and the aptness of the words to describe Peter's inconsistency, coupled with the independent fact that there is nothing to show that his faithful brother had yet done addressing him, goes far to settle the true explanation.
INTRODUCTION.

b. The indentations indicate the existence of Speech within Speech. Thus: Moses in the land of Moab, in relating the desert experiences through which the Sons of Israel, with himself, had newly come, cites previous speeches made at the respective times to which he refers—what the people had said to him and how he had answered the people. And it is an undoubted gain to be vividly confronted with the inquiry, Would any historical romantacist have dared not only to put invented speeches into the mouth of Moses, but similar speeches into the mouth of God? "Speech within speech" is to be found in many places, and is sometimes discovered to be invested with great interest: as when Solomon, in his Dedicatory Prayer, cites Divine promises previously made to his father David; or as when the Apostle Paul, in addressing King Agrippa, quotes the very words in which the Risen Jesus had addressed him.

c. The indentations call attention to the existence of Poetic Parallelism. This special kind of parallelism is, of course, not to be confounded with parallel texts or parallel narratives, important though these both are in their own way. Poetic Parallelism is that beautiful, measured reduplication of thought, whereby the same sentiment or fact or promise is doubly expressed, the second time with a difference, still within the general scope of the first; the variation serving not only to cluster together beauties of speech, such as synonyms, contrasts, subservient natural images, and so forth, but to fix the general scope and outlook of the couplet or stanza, the one line hinting the limit to which the other may be assumed to submit, or defining the subject to which it also relates. From this point of view Parallelism steps in as a most graceful and useful handmaid to Exposition. But the charm of it, is what first is felt. "So God created man in his image": that sounds like prose, however weighty. But when Parallelism breaks in with its balanced couplet—

In the image of God created he him,
Male and female created he them,— then we know we are in the presence of Poesy—a most fitting place, surely, for her first appearance!

There the lawless cease from raging,
And there the toilworn are at rest, is so plaintive as to be like a mother's lullaby over her sick child.

SPECIAL FEATURES OF THIS TRANSLATION.

Another strain is touched when we read—

For a child hath been born to us, in which it may be noted that this and not the current rhythm is undoubtedly the true one; since this it is which, closely following the Hebrew, throws the emphasis in the right place—on "child" and "son." There lies our hope—in Him! These samples will suffice to point to the thousands of instances of Parallelism which, in this translation, lie before the reader. The present is not the place for discussing the many varieties of Parallelism to be found in the Bible. The subject is necessarily familiar in all treatises on Hebrew poetry. Better, however, than the perusal of any printed treatise will be the collating and classifying of instances by each student for himself. He can label his samples at pleasure, as "synonymous," "antithetic," "recurrent," "progressive," and so forth, provided he correctly describe them. It is uncertain whether due attention has generally been given to what may be described as semi-parallelism, not infrequently to be found in Isaiah. Its presence is intimated in this Bible, either by a couple of responding extra capitals, as in the following:—
A son hath been given to us.—*

I am sated
With ascending-offerings of rams,
And the fat of fed beasts.
So have I sworn—
Not to be vexed with thee,
Nor to rebuke thee;
or, when space has required it, by an extra line bestowed upon it, sooner than do it an injustice.
Thus—

And they shall call thee—
The city of Yahweh,
The Zion of the Holy One of Israel.
There is one especial form of Parallelism to which much interest attaches, if not by reason of any novelty in the attention given to it, yet at least by virtue of its inherently striking character and the help it occasionally renders to right reading and interpretation. Dr. R. Moulton terms it the Envelope arrangement of lines. Its simplest form is where the first line is responded to by the fourth, and the second is answered by the third. A single example will show what is meant:—

Let me see thy form,
Let me hear thy voice,—
For thy voice is sweet,
And thy form comely.*

Its bearing upon the correct reading of the original is seen in Isa. ix. 3; the much-needed emendation of which is reached by Dr. Ginsburg through a wholly independent process, dealing with questions of abbreviation and letter grouping. The result of his critical revision of the Hebrew text is strongly confirmed by the fact that thereby is produced this very special and beautiful form of parallelism:—

Thou hast increased the exultation.
Thou hast made great the joy,—
They joy before thee according to the joy of harvest,
As men exult when they distribute spoil.

INTRODUCTION.

How it touches exegesis may be discovered by turning to Mat. vii. 6; in explaining which we need no longer fear it as an undue liberty, to attribute to the "dogs" the "turning" and "tearing," and to the "swine" the "trampling underfoot."*

d. The indentations of the lines further present the results of Logical Analysis.

This is the case where, without any suspicion of poetry, the thought-relation of the clauses is more readily seen by means of the exact place assigned to the line-commencements; whether, for example, a second line is to be regarded as co-ordinate with the first—that is, of an equally leading character; or as subordinate, subservient, helping. An extremely simple instance may be found in the setting forth of Martha's reply to our Lord, who has just said, "Believest thou this?"

She saith unto him—

\[ \text{Yea, Lord! I have believed.} \]
\[ \text{That thou art the Christ, the Son of God,—} \]
\[ \text{He who into the world should come.} \]

Here, the first line of course is narrative. In the second, Martha confesses that she has faith, but the line stops short of saying what it is she believes; that being reserved for a new and further-indent ed line, so indented partly because thereby greater distinctness is given to the proposition which first defines her faith, and partly also because her answer appears to be, if not evasive, yet a little indirect. She, at any rate, does not say quite simply, "Yea, Lord! I believe this!" For some reason, she prefers to formulate her own faith. Why she did this may be worth inquiry. Was it that she felt the answer she gave fully endorsed the statements Jesus had just made: "Believing thee to be who and what thou art, I at once confide in the truth of whatsoever thou art pleased to tell me?" Or was it perhaps rather that she was diffident of herself, and hesitated to say whether she believed a revelation so lofty and of such a sweeping amplitude as that just disclosed; and therefore in her grief and perplexity preferred to fall back upon a more elementary truth, to which she felt she had already attained, and upon which she could still rely? The indentation of that line conducts the reader to this profoundly interesting psychological inquiry. Then the further pushing in of the last line is merely to point out—what is seen after a moment's reflection to be true—that this final line is subordinate to the one that precedes it, being of an explanatory character, as showing who and what the Christ, the Son of God, must be, and as indicating Martha's persuasion that in the sympathetic Teacher standing before her she saw Him whom the prophetic Scriptures had foretold and for whom the ages had waited. Now if all this food for thought is presented, in what may be termed a digestible form, by means of four lines of varying indentation, surely the average thoughtful reader can take the hint, and not deem "Logical Analysis" beyond him, but do a little of it for himself, just when he is analytically inclined; and, for the rest, can come to a working confidence in the Translator for having presented

*To these references may be added Job xxvii. 16, 17; Jer. ix. 4; x. 11; and especially Is. vi. 10, with Mat. xiii. 15, where the rhetorical movement is "heart—ears—eyes: eyes—ears—heart."
Scripture thoughts (which had to be presented somehow) after what appeared to him the most apt and helpful arrangement; about which no one is counselled to trouble himself prematurely or overmuch. This, however, is certain—namely, that a little perseverance will soon render it easy to the reader of this Bible to pay a profitable regard to the parentheses and digressions which so strikingly characterise the writings of the Apostle Paul. To a principal statement, he subordinates another; then, to that, another; and so on to such a degree that, although for a time we can comfortably indent more and more, yet at length the device of indentation comes perilously near breaking down; and to avoid being driven quite up to the right-hand margin, and so having no column at all left, we are constrained to use substitutionary initial capitals (as in Ephesians i. and Colossians i.) to indicate where further-indented new lines would begin if only there were room. Extreme indentation, as the initiated know well, is literally, in printing, an expensive luxury; but the student reaps the benefit, and his sense of triumph becomes a keen enjoyment as he watches the return of the great Evangelical Thinker to the point from which—a good while ago—he started. He confesses that his Guide has wandered; but he boasts that his Master never comes back empty. What, for example, though the entire Third of Ephesians is a parenthesis? The world would have been poorer without it. Furthermore, when industrious readers wake up to the gains which Logical Analysis promises to bring home, they may find themselves marking with the greatest interest the unexpected appearance of a similar Logical Idiom in the Book of Ezekiel to that which is found in the Book of Daniel—pursued to such a remarkable extent, in these two Books alone, as to give colour to the assumption that, after all, in spite of the contrary assertions of certain critics, the prophets Ezekiel and Daniel were very nearly contemporaries, just as the sacred history would naturally lead us to suppose they were.

c. The arrangement of the lines is occasionally used to set forth, in a becoming style, Divine Proclamations and certain obvious approximations to Divine Signature. For example: to centralise the words is simply to invoke the assistance of the eye to give to that formula the dominating force over the announcement which follows which by the intention of the prophet it should naturally have. And so again there are cases in the Pentateuch and in the Prophets in which the oft-recurring formula, "As Yahweh commanded Moses," or "Declareth Yahweh," can be more becomingly appended, and with better effect, as a line by itself drawn towards the right hand, after the manner of a signature, than in any other way.

3. Varieties of type.—These have been but sparingly resorted to, partly on the score of economy, but chiefly because continual changes of type soon become annoying and even distressing to the eye. For these reasons Emphasis, in particular, has not been thus indicated. At the same time the discreet employment of other than the ordinary type has been made to answer a few very serviceable ends.

a Exo. xl.  b Jer., Eze., Hag. ii., Zech. ii., viii., x., and often.
a. Refrains in the Old Testament have been distinguished by italic type. These naturally abound in the Psalms;* and there are few readers who will not be pleased to find them so made prominent throughout that favourite Book. The presence of "refrains" in the early chapters of Isaiah will surprise some readers; while the existence of them in the prophecies of Jeremiah will astonish still more, especially if we are allowed to classify under the heading of "refrains" the recurrence of a biting phrase, maggor missaviv ("terror round about"), which (after being found in chap. vi. 25, hurled by Jeremiah against his priestly persecutor Pashhur [xx. 3]), then seems to have been mockingly flung back on himself by a tell-tale populace (ver. 10); afterwards to be solemnly directed by Yahweh against Egypt (chap. xlii. 5) and against Kedar (chap. xlix. 29); strikingly enough to reappear, finally, in the plaintive dirge of the same weeping prophet (Lam. ii. 22), thereby, at last, well-nigh proving its claim to a place among actual refrains. Of course the most beautiful refrain in the Book of Jeremiah is the melodious couplet—which occurs in chaps. vii. 34; xvi. 9; xxv. 10; and xxxiii. 11—three times as a lament, as of something that was to cease; but, on the fourth and last occasion, reappearing as a lovely flower in a gay garland of joyful prophetic news. Not for ever, to Israel, is that fourfold voice to be hushed! If, however, we can tolerate the extension of the word "refrain" to the most inspiring recurrence of consolatory truth, apart from any further thought of poetic composition, then we may surely distinguish by that name the brightest promise of the Old Testament, which meets us in the form of an announcement by the Most High of his own character. Taking its rise in the Ten Commandments, it expands in volume on that later, momentous, re-instating occasion, when Yahweh caused "all his goodness to pass before" Moses, and when in answer to prayer He graciously restored Israel to covenant favour.* Further references will be found under the last-named passage; and whoever will take the trouble to look through those texts, and will thoughtfully note how this manifestation of "all the Divine goodness" forms the sheet-anchor of hope for after times, will probably admit the fitness of terming it, by way of eminence, The Refrain of the Old Testament.

b. Some peculiarities in the use of Divine Names are thereby (viz., by varieties of type) indicated. Concerning the especial proper name of God (Yahweh) the reader will naturally consult Chapter IV. of this Introduction. But the present is the fitting place for naming some further information which has been conveyed throughout the Old Testament part of this Bible by typographical means. It should be understood, then, that when the familiar word "God" is found printed in ordinary type, then the Hebrew is Elohim; when the same word is printed "God" (one capital and two small capitals), then the Hebrew is "El"; and when "God" is printed in Old English letter, then the

c Exo. xxxiii. 17; xxxiv. 6, 7.
Hebrew is Eloah (principally confined to the Book of Job). It is not, perhaps, to be assumed that these discriminations are of supreme importance; nevertheless, when connected with other things, they are certainly invested with considerable interest. For the word Elohim, see note on Gen. i. 1. Èl will be readily remembered as entering into the composition of proper names, such as "Beth-èl," "Immanu-èl," and many others. It may also be discovered—the evidence would seem to point that way—that in the use of the independent monosyllable Èl, just where the moral feeling is most intense, there Èl shows an aptitude to step in, in preference to Elohim. The ordinary reader can now judge of this for himself. Without imagining anything less sacred in Eloah than in its longer or shorter companions, this at least is clear, that Eloah—as compared with the most sacred Name (the Tetragrammaton—see Chapter IV.)—is held to be good enough for the controversial spirit which undeniably pervades all the middle portion of the Book of Job.

c. Quotations from the Old Testament in the New are by the italics rendered conveniently conspicuous. That it is of great convenience and of considerable practical utility to be able to see at once what portions from the Jewish Scriptures are quoted in the Christian, will not be denied by anyone who has given a fair amount of attention to the matter; nor can it be questioned that the employment of italic letter for the purpose is far more effective than the adoption even of quotation marks would have been. Thereby, for example, the reader perceives without any appreciable trouble how largely the Book of the "Revelation" is constructed out of Old Testament language and imagery. Thereby also he sees instantly how even a single word out of a citation becomes the pivot on which an argument is made to turn.

4. Section-headings, Footnotes, References, and Appendices.—These may be left to speak for themselves, when once two or three needful explanations have been offered.

a. It was not at first intended to insert Section-headings in the Prophetic Books, owing to the risk of needlessly determining or attempting to determine difficult questions of interpretation; but an experiment having been made, the result seemed to promise so much convenience and assistance to average readers that the hazard and the additional labour were accepted. In most cases it will be found that, where these headings appear most startling, they are expressly warranted by the very terms of the Sacred Text.

b. The Footnotes include both "alternative renderings" and "various readings," the difference between which, being partly technical, is worth a moment's attention. An "alternative rendering," then, comes of the process of translating, and merely expresses the translator's feeling that some other English word than that adopted in the text might have given the sense of the original nearly or quite as well; and that for the reader to know this may be of practical service. It is well for the reader to be aware that oft-times no one word wholly and absolutely and alone says precisely what is conveyed by the Hebrew or Greek. It is no question of variance between one copy of the original and another, but exclusively concerns the best way of representing what is admitted to be in the original. One rendering conveys the meaning more readily or more precisely than another, and to ring the changes on fair alternatives is often very helpful, supplying a breadth or an exactness which can be had in no other way. Sometimes a rendering is too literal for the text, yet not too literal for the margin. Questions of decorum and euphemism may be allowed some influence. Humorous translations may sometimes do good service in the margin which could never be tolerated in the text. Moreover, a freer rendering may the sooner be allowed in the text, provided a more literal one be placed at the foot of the page. So much for "alternative renderings." "Various readings" are a very different matter. They have sole regard to variations which, in the course of transmission from an earlier age, have crept into different copies of or witnesses to the original. Concerning these, more information will be found in Chapter III. of this Introduction.

c. References, as commonly understood, can readily be found elsewhere. Those here given have come into the Translator's hands mostly through special channels or as the result of personal study; and in any case, it is believed, will be found trustworthy and useful.

d. The Appendices present, in orderly collected form, matter which would have been suited for longer notes, but can be more conveniently studied as actually given. These appended notes mostly touch upon subjects of the highest importance, and are respectfully submitted in the hope that they will prove helpful to not a few readers of The Emphasised Bible.

CHAPTER II.

CONCERNING EMPHASIS

AS AUTHORITATIVELY INDICATED IN THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

1. "Strike, but hear me!" exclaimed an ancient orator to an infuriated mob; that is, "Strike, if you will; but hear me first." In reading aloud this citation, some little stress is instinctively laid on the two words "strike" and "hear," thereby assisting the ear to catch the plainly intended contrast. A few years since, the same saying was modified in sense by a change of emphasis. A trade strike was pending, when an illustrated paper, giving an imposing figure representing "Law," put beneath the figure the legend, "Strike, but hear me!" in this way not only investing the word "strike" with a modern significance, but suggesting, by the emphasis laid on the word "me," a timely contrast—as much as to say, "You have listened to other advisers: before you act on their counsel, hearken to me—consider whether your contemplated strike would be legal." This new point put into the old words would perhaps scarcely have been caught, even with the help of the symbolic figure of the cartoon, but for the outward and visible sign of emphasis attached to the closing word "me."

2. It is freely granted that context and circumstance, when known and considered, are in many cases alone sufficient to guide to correct emphasis, whether it be in ordinary literature or in the Bible. For example, the bold contrast made by Christ, in the Sermon on the Mount, between other teachers and himself would naturally prompt any reader of taste to lay stress on the pronoun “I” in the recurring formula—

Ye have heard that it hath been said . . . but I say unto you.*

3. Context and circumstance, however, are not always sufficient, because not always clear. We have therefore to be thankful that our Public Versions of the Bible furnish further guidance in the matter of emphasis by means of Idiom. The words are frequently so arranged as by their very order to indicate where the stress should be placed. Thus, in the history of Joseph, where “the butler,” in confessing his fault in forgetting Joseph, narrates the diverse fate of “the baker” and himself, he says—

And it came to pass, as he interpreted to us, so it was: me he restored unto mine office, and him he hanged.b

In this sentence it is at once felt that the pronouns “me” and “him” are as certainly emphasised by their mere position as if they had been printed in capitals. So, again, where the Apostle Paul, after thanking God that he spake with tongues more than any of the Corinthian Christians, proceeds to say—

Yet in the church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue,c it is easily seen from the context that the clause “in the church” governs the whole sentence, and should receive the leading stress. Nor is it by order of words alone that an emphatic idiom is constituted. Certain forms of circumlocution serve the same purpose:

But as for me, I shall behold thy face in righteousness,d is an altogether effective means of reproducing the force of the emphatic pronoun which opens the verse in the Hebrew. Or a simple repetition secures the result—

The living, the living, he shall praise thee, as I do this day.*

Or a qualifying word of a manifestly emphasising force is employed, like “surely” in the following:—

In the day that thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die;f or “certainly” in this place—

Could we certainly know that he would say, Bring your brother down?g

or “diligently” in this—

If thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God.b

4. Yet, varied as is the Emphatic Idiom of our Public Versions and numerous as are the examples which meet us in which that indication of stress has been turned to most admirable account, the pity is that it has not been resorted to ten times more frequently than is the case. For, be it observed, the Emphatic Idiom of the English is but a faint and fitful reflex of the Emphatic Idiom of the Hebrew and Greek.1 This fact is well-known to scholars, though scarcely dreamt of by the general Bible-reading public. A fact however it is, and one which can be substantiated just as conclusively as any law which governs language. The great point at present is that all this accession of force and guide to the sense is, in the Sacred Originals, secured simply by Idiom—order of words, fulness of expression, repetitions and the like—and is therefore both pervading and authoritative. It is "pervading": not, of course, as though all Scripture needed to be formally emphasised to the same degree—to imagine such a thing would be absurd; some styles of Sacred composition, instead of bristling with points, calmly flow on, keeping the even tenor of their way—but "pervading" in the satisfactory sense of being ever available when required. Whenever a point has to be made, a quiet contrast to be rather hinted at than expressed, a sharp and sudden home-thrust to be delivered, Idiom is at hand to accomplish it. From which, when the numberless living interests enshrined in the Bible are considered, it will be expected to follow—and follow it does—that a very large amount of indicated stress underlies almost every page of the Sacred Volume. And—does it need to be repeated?—Emphasis so conveyed is surely "authoritative": which is not the same thing as saying there is no room for misapprehension in this place or in that; nor is it the same as affirming that all scholars are absolutely agreed about every little point. But the emphasis is "authoritative," inasmuch as it is in the original—is a part of the original—is of the very spirit and essence of the original. And being in this way "authoritative," it is in all its main indications worthy of unspeakably more diligent heed in exposition than the most brilliant fancies of men who dream they may make what they please of Holy Writ. Sober students are bound by the laws of Grammar: they are equally bound by the laws of Emphasis.

5. It is one of the leading aims of The Emphasised Bible to do justice to the Emphatic Idioms of the original tongues, and thereby place all earnest Bible readers for practical purposes, on the same footing as that occupied by such as are familiar with Hebrew and Greek.

6. Mainly by Idiom has this been attempted. So that if all the artificial signs of Emphasis used in this Bible were swept away, an amount of Emphatic Idiom would remain far surpassing that to be found in any other version known to the Translator. Although emphatic inversion, for instance, is not infrequently discovered in our Public Versions: yet far more frequently and—if the expression may be pardoned—far more consistently does it appear in this translation. Take two examples out of thousands:

A.V. Wilt thou break a leaf driven to and fro? And wilt thou pursue the dry stubble?

Em. B. A driven leaf wilt thou cause to tremble? Or dry stubble wilt thou pursue?*

The latter rendering reproduces the idiom of the Hebrew, and therewith also more naturally shows where the primary stress should be laid.

A.V. And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them.

Em. B. As soon as all his own he putteth forth Before them he moveth on.b

The Idiom, the Emphasis, is in the Greek. It would be endless to cite examples of all the various forms which the Original Idiom takes for the sake of conveying

* Job xiii. 25.
  b Jn. x. 4.
emphasis. Suffice it to say: that in this Bible these forms have been sacredly reproduced whenever possible—so long, that is, as the English remained easily intelligible and was not too constrained.

7. But Idiom alone would have been utterly inadequate to the attainment of the object in view. In many instances the endeavour to preserve in English the order of the words in the original would have resulted in obscurity; or, worse still, would have conveyed the very opposite of the meaning intended. In the following passage from the Book of Lamentations, it could have been wished that, for the sake of preserving the exact rhythm of the Hebrew, it had been perspicuous English to say—

For this cause hath sickened our heart,
For these things have darkened our eyes:*

inasmuch as there is some little weight naturally resting on the paired words (ending words in the Hebrew) "heart," and "eyes," which, if that position could have been preserved in English, would have secured a fine cadence and a satisfying ending to each line of the couplet. But the construction would in two or three ways have been ambiguous—in fact a wrong meaning to some of the terms would have been favoured. Therefore, inasmuch as a clear conveyance of the sense is rightly the first requirement, the Hebrew arrangement can only in part be followed, and we have to be content with some such approximation as this—

For this cause hath our heart'sickened,
For these things have our eyes'darkened.

An acute accent on "heart" and "eyes" may be allowed as a slight compensation for loss of position; and, to anticipate for a moment, if our angular sign be then attached to the two opening phrases ("For this cause," and "For these things"), those words will be instinctively caught as adverbial clauses, strongly emphasised by their commanding position, and so gathering up into themselves the whole stream of the prophet's foregoing lament—

<For this cause> hath our heart'sickened,
<For these things> have our eyes'darkened.

This illustration may stand for thousands, and evince beyond a doubt the impossibility of mechanically giving idiom for idiom in translation: hopeless obscurity would frequently be the inevitable result. And as a sufficient proof that in some cases idiom for idiom would cause the translation to express the very opposite meaning to its original, it is enough to cite one instance.

Elijah calleth this man* is the order of the words in the Greek; yet "this man" is the nominative (that is, the caller) and "Elijah" the objective (that is, the person [supposed to be] called upon), and the true rendering is—

This man calleth Elijah;

though rightfully a decided stress should be laid, where indicated, on "Elijah."

8. That, notwithstanding this risk of overdoing, a very free use of Emphatic Idiom has been made in this Bible will soon appear upon examination. Few sympathetic readers will complain of this. Such readers will perceive and bear in mind that inversions in the language of The Emphasised Bible are always intentional—always

* Lam. v. 17.
* Mat. xxvii. 47.
according to the original—always expressive. They will go on to observe that an inversion which at first seemed harsh, especially if incautiously read, soon commends itself when tastefully uttered. Finally, the Translator's purpose will be remembered. It is due to himself to confess that he has deemed himself privileged, and therefore has carried the process of imitating the inversions of the originals to a degree scarcely tolerable in any version designed for public use. It is quite true that the larger number of the inversions here ventured would, as he conceives, adorn any translation, and because of their apt reflection of the Hebrew or Greek he honestly thinks they possess strong claims on general adoption; but not all of them. Speaking approximately, possibly in one case out of ten the Editor of The Emphasised Bible would have himself shrunk back from what he has actually dared, if he had been so presumptuous as to think of producing a competitive translation. His aim throughout has been to form a Companion Version; and he respectfully asks the measure of indulgence which that intention makes reasonable.

9. One thing at least is clear—namely, that English Idiom alone could never have expressed all the Emphasis enshrined in the originals. It follows that either numerous tokens of stress contained in the sacred tongues must have been lost, or else artificial means were necessary to give them effect. As for the best method of doing this, there is, of course, no accounting for individual preferences; and, given the necessity, some would have chosen varieties of type, not sufficiently considering, perhaps, how soon these annoy the eye when multiplied. Others, again, would have preferred the underscoring which was used in the first and second editions of the Translator's New Testament, unaware, probably, that the costliness of that method seemed prohibitive when thought of for the entire Bible. In favour of the plan now adopted, suffice it to claim economy, elasticity, and effectiveness. The signs here employed practically cost nothing, since the compositor can pick up a sign of emphasis as easily as he can pick up a comma. The elasticity springs from the combination of diverse signs: for example, an interposed accent can appear in the midst of an already emphasised clause. And the effectiveness is quite as great as was desired, seeing that delicacy of touch was also wished, and even a fitness to be temporarily disregarded—a quality commended to all who find the marks in the least perplexing. Such persons as would have been better pleased with some heavier and more obtrusive style of emphasising will kindly bethink them, that stress is mostly quite effective if laid on one syllable of a word, one word in a clause, and so forth; and that all the guidance the eye requires is to be enabled to take in at a glance the beginning and end of the word, the phrase, the clause within which the enhanced stress is to take effect.

10. One explanation further, and nothing will be needed for completing this chapter beyond a few annotated examples and the synopsis at the end, which will be convenient for reference both to the scholar and to the learner. The explanation is this: Idiom alone, it may be thought, might have been trusted to convey a portion of the emphasis indicated in the original, and artificial signs might have been restricted to the conveyance of the rest; instead of which (it may be objected), in this Bible, artificial signs, in point of fact, mostly accompany the idiom when present, as well serve as a substitute for it when absent. In fact, however, it was difficult to draw the line, especially as, in many cases, the signs of emphasis served as a species of magnification, for which reason it seemed better to go through with them. which, is it not sometimes welcome to hurried eyes to have pointed out to them what might have been discovered by unaided vision?

11. Now for a few Annotated Examples, before submitting which the hint is given that a glance at the Table of Signs placed at the end of this Introduction will here be found convenient.

Doth this cause you to stumble?*

The A.V. rendering of this passage leaves much to be desired; partly because of the wrong impression which the word “offend” conveys, as though Jesus feared He had hurt His disciples’ feelings to the degree of provoking their resentment; and partly because it leaves the point of the question uncertain. The R.V. obviates the wrong impression, by substituting “cause to stumble” for “offend,” but it fails to bring out the fine point seen by laying a little stress on “you.” “Doth this cause you to stumble”—you, My disciples, who might have known better? It is a clear case; for the Greek sets the noun governed before the verb that governs it (ep. post, Synopsis, A, b).

And he said,

I know not, <the keeper of my brother> am I??

How the point of Cain’s defence of his professed ignorance leaps to his lips! The arrangement, “Am I my brother’s keeper?” is tameness itself in comparison.

< What is right, what is right > shalt thou pursue.

In this place both A.V. and R.V. preserve the inversion which opens the verse, and for that we are thankful: “That which is altogether just shalt thou follow.” But why not have given it with the greater simplicity and vivacity of the original?—zi’dhek zi’dhek tirdif—it is all there. And why not have given the full force of the verb “pursue”—“pursue” with determination, and not merely “follow” with half-heartedness or from a dull sense of duty?

Then thou scarrest me with dreams,
And < by visions > dost terrify me:
So that my soul chooseth strangling,
| Death | rather than these my bones.a

Note here how parallelism and emphasis enhance the effect of each other. There being two synonymous couplets, constituting a duplicate expression for each thought (viz., first the Divine visitation, then the effect on the sufferer), emphasis steps in at the second line of each couplet, and strongly accentuates the closing word of the preceding line: “dreams—visions”; “strangling—death.” Note also how well the sharp expression which the word “death” draws to itself, prepares the way for the lingering and piteous lament over “these my bones.”

< Righteousness > I put on, and it clothed me,
< Like a robe and a turban > was my | justice |
< Eyes > became I to | the blind |
And < feet to the lame > was ||I||.

It would be difficult to name a passage more studded with the beauties of combined parallelism and emphasis than this. Observe that, here again, there are two couplets; then, that an emphatic inversion leads off in the first line of the first couplet—an accusative before its verb (Synopsis, A, b); next, that the thought of “clothing” oneself, given in the first line, is emphatically and rhetorically amplified in the second line,

"robe" and "turban" forming not merely clothing, but an adornment fit for any assembly; further, that the term "righteousness" at the beginning of the first line is answered by its synonym "justice" at the end of the second—a not infrequent device in Hebrew poetry, and that as the two substantives respond to each other and ending words also have a natural advantage (cp. Synopsis, A, f), a slight stress is marked on "justice." In line three, note how the word "eyes" at the opening comes into rhythmic relation with the term "blind" at the close, the verb "to become" being unemphatically thrown in between them, with no stress on the pronoun "I," which is merely implied in the verb; and how finally, in the last line, "feet" and "lame," instead of being parted like "eyes" and "blind" in the third line, are swiftly and unexpectedly welded into a single emphatic phrase at the head of the line, to be simply followed by the pronoun "I," which, though having primarily to serve, after Hebrew fashion, for the verb "to be," yet, with its long-drawn pausal vowel ('a'ni), lingers on the ear with an unspeakable pathos (Synopsis, B, a, last sentence).

See now that I am he,
And there are no' gods with me:
I kill—and make alive,
I wound, and I heal;
And there is none' who <from my hand> can deliver.*

The inquisitive will not begrudge the trouble of examining the context which leads up to this animated and impressive passage. It will be seen that, with keenest irony, idolatrous Israel has just been advised to apply in her extremity to the false gods of which she has boasted. "See now"—if haply ye have at length discovered how utterly vain is their help—"that I, I—emphatically repeated, as if to invite a penitent nation to fill in the blanks from the stores of reviving memories—"I"—your own, your real, your living God; "I"—your long forgotten, but yet faithful, loving God, still waiting, even now after all this, to be gracious. "See now, that I I am he;" or, "am the one, and the only one, that can help you." "And there are no' gods with me"—strong negative of the substantive verb, hence accent on "no'." "I kill"—separate nominative pronoun (Synopsis, B, a); hence strong emphasis on the pronoun. "And make alive"—nominative pronoun not repeated, hence none needed in English: the contrast between "kill" and "make alive" at this point suffices. "I wound"—again no separate nominative, and no emphasis on "I" this time permissible. But then finally, when bringing in the climax "I heal," there is a triumphant stress to be laid on the "I" (wa'a'ni 'erpd').—The Translator protests that, while he does real homage to the elocutionary instinct which is common to all men, and is well trained in most educated men, he considers it very unlikely that such instinct could ever, unaided, have divined the existence of such authoritatively indicated variations as these; of which, indeed, familiarity with the original idiom can alone give trustworthy information.

He was despised and forsaken of men,
A man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief,— Yea <like one from whom men turn away the face>
He was despised, and we esteemed him not.b

So far the discourse flows calmly on in description of the Suffering Servant, without any use for emphatic pronouns. But now an entire change of mood is felt. From a bare statement of the matter of fact, reflective Israel passes to a revised and deeper view of the cause of the Sufferer's sorrows:—

[Yet surely | <our griefs> ||he|| carried,
   And <as for our sorrows> he bare them, — where note what a break-up of the historical style occurs, and how the emphasising strokes come throbbing in: "Yet surely our griefs"—the real cause of the Servant's sufferings by bold inversion being set at the head and front of the sentence (the accusative before its verb: Synopsis, A, b). "He carried"—the pronoun is, indeed, implied in the verb (năšā'ī), but that is not enough, and so it is also separately expressed, in order that stress may be laid upon it (hu' năšā'ī)—cp. Synopsis, B, a).

He was our Substitute and bare our burden. That in this couplet the phrases "our griefs" and "our sorrows" are synonymous, is at once evident.

What, perhaps, we desiderate in the second line is that the pronoun "he" should have been again emphasised in like manner as in the line foregoing; and though it is absent from the Massoretic or traditional text, and therefore, according to rule, we can scarcely so mark it, yet we note with intense interest that there is a various reading relating to that very point, to the effect that some Hebrew written copies actually have the emphatic "he"; in which, moreover, the ancient Syriac and Latin versions keep them company (implying that the ancient Hebrew standards from which they were formed had the pronoun emphatic). And we are further informed that there are some existing Hebrew copies which, though they have not the emphatic hu' in the text, yet have it set down in the margin as a keri', that is, to be read, though not written. We have purposely expanded this short note of variance, bearing as it does on a point of much interest.

To return to the text:—

||We|| however, esteemed him—
   Stricken, smitten of God, and humbled.
   But ||he|| was Wounded for our transgressions,
   Bruised for our iniquities,
   |The chastisement for our well-being| was |upon him|,
   And <by his stripes> there is healing |fors|.

As much as to say: "We," however, away in the past, when the true light of the matter had not dawned upon us, esteemed him divinely chastised for some cause unknown. We then little thought how his sufferings were related to us; "But" we see it all now! And so on, until the ultimate explanation is reached—

But ||Yahweh|| caused to light upon him' the iniquity of us all.

YAHWEH did what none other had any right or power to do. Compare verse 10 where the same stress as in verse 6 is laid on the Divine Doer of the work of Salvation. And so we close our brief hints as to the expository value of the emphasis indicated throughout this wonderful prophecy; and we close them by respectfully claiming that it is not at all by the play of pious fancy, but exclusively by giving effect to a well-proved idiomatic law that we lay decided stress upon the Divine interposition through which there is healing for Israel and for Mankind. Before dismissing our notice of this example of emphasis in the famous Fifty-third of Isaiah, it may be worth reminding the reader that in at least three places in the New Testament do the words of this Prophecy re-appear, and each time with something of the significant emphasis with which the words were originally penned. In fact, speaking broadly, the emphasis of the Old Testament is the emphasis of the New: the main idioms are the same, their exegetical value is the same. When successfully rendered, the ancient tones and suggestions of the Hebrew are reproduced—in Greek in English. The language again lives.

A SYNOPSIS OF THE PRINCIPAL LAWS OF EMPHASIS DISCOVERABLE IN THE BIBLE ORIGINALS.

Words are emphatic—

A. By position.

a. Nominatives before verbs—always.*

b. Genitives, dative, and accusatives before verbs—always.

c. Verbs before nominatives—slightly; but able to command strong emphasis on reduplication, see below, b.

d. Adjectives before nouns—chiefly in N.T., and slightly.

e. Words brought into juxtaposition—sometimes, in prose, internal evidence occurring; more frequently in poetry, where the last word of one line is of varied and emphatically echoed by the first in next line.

f. Words postponed to end of sentence—sometimes in prose, sense concurring more frequently in lyric poetry, in which the last word is mostly weight and claims secondary stress.

B. By repetition.

a. Separate nominative pronoun. Prolific source of emphasis both in Hebrew, Greek, as the separate pronoun is independent of position. Always rich when construed with finite verb, which has the pronominal element also within itself. Sometimes also, when used instead of a verb, seems by association to lend itself to some little stress.

b. Reduplicated verb—chiefly in Hebrew, reappearing by quotation in! Always indicates lively emphasis. Infinitive verb generally set before its finite—then emphasis only; occasionally placed after its own finite—perhaps sometimes suggesting continuance or repetition of action.

c. Independent words, phrases, and sentences. The mere repetition of the one of the most simple and obvious devices for indicating stress.

C. By formal expression.

This chiefly applies to Hebrew particles. Owing to the extraordinary facility which the consecution of facts and thoughts can be carried forward by peg-letter mode, it follows that when more formal and precise connecting parts are employed, some emphasis can generally be felt. Hence springs the more or less vigorous, which in the Emphasised Bible is frequently used on such connectives as "now" (attah), "therefore" (laken), "for this cause (al ken)," and so on; in respect of which appeal is confidently made to the elocutionary instinct as to the validity of the result.

CHAPTER III.

THE ORIGINAL TEXTS.

For practical purposes it may be assumed that Hebrew and Greek are the original languages of the Bible. The small proportion of Aramaic embedded in the Hebrew Bible does not require formal consideration, just because this dialect is nearly allied to Hebrew, and the portions of the Old Testament written therein form integral parts of all Hebrew written copies and printed editions. With regard to the New Testament, the only question that could arise would be whether some parts of it were not first written in Syriac and then translated into Greek. But this is probably a purely academical inquiry, and inasmuch as the assumption of a Greek original for the whole of the New Testament does not exclude Syriac sources from contributing their quota towards evidence of genuineness and aids to textual purity, the question for the Translator is reduced to this: What Hebrew Bible and what Greek New Testament shall he employ for making his version? In a word—What Texts shall he translate?

It is a relief to think that no translator can be required first to construct his Hebrew and Greek texts before turning them into English. Life would not be long enough for one man or one set of men to explore the whole of the immense field; besides, the task is more likely to be efficiently done if its widely different departments are undertaken by departmental experts. The textual critic prepares the way for the translator, a consideration which makes this the convenient moment for stating that the textual critics followed in executing The Emphasised Bible are respectively Dr. Ginsburg in the Old Testament, and Drs. Westcott and Hort in the New. To understand the debt of gratitude we owe to these pioneers, it will be better to take separately the two leading divisions of our Holy Scriptures, and the more so as each division involves conditions inapplicable to the other.

I. THE ORIGINAL TEXT OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.

1. The Text itself.

In the Old Testament there seemed to be no choice but to take the received or current Massoretic text, unless one had been prepared to embark on the treacherous sea of Conjectural Criticism; and, in the first writing out of the MS. for this work, that text in its commonly printed form was implicitly followed. It was the singular good fortune of the present translator, however, to have only just completed his transcript when the Critico-Massoretic Hebrew Bible of Dr. C. D. Ginsburg appeared; and it was at once seen how greatly it would add to the value of The Emphasised Bible to compare the MS. throughout with Dr. Ginsburg's Hebrew text and to make and translate a selection from his priceless Various Readings. This additional labour was gladly undertaken; and it is deemed no small cause for gratitude to have been spared to finish the task. Respecting the Old Testament, therefore, the case now stands as follows:

The Hebrew Text used is the revised Massoretic Text edited by Dr. Ginsburg, subject to certain exceptions which will at once be explained, and which can scarcely fail to commend themselves as soon as they are understood. The exceptions are almost exclusively the confirmed and approved various readings to which Dr. Ginsburg has prefixed the formula, "It ought to be" so-and-so. These have been incorporated in the text of this version, and not merely inserted in the notes; for it was instinctively felt that what "ought to be" should be in a work of this kind. For Dr. Ginsburg's purpose, indeed, it was probably fitting that he should make no changes in his text other than any which might be required to render his edition a perfectly accurate reprint of the Received Massoretic recension, and that accordingly all the emendations he had to propose were wisely incorporated with his foot-notes, no matter with what degree of confidence advanced. This method was at once seen to be in the true Massoretic spirit, which changes nothing, reproduces everything, fences and guards everything. But as this translation of the Old Testament was intended to make straight for correct exegesis and was purely practical in its design, the contrary course was adopted with respect to the especial class of various readings now under consideration, and accordingly the resulting changes were boldly made in the text of this version, with the unvarying note appended in each case, "So it shd be," duly referring to Ginsburg's authority. It was quite otherwise where Dr. Ginsburg prefixed his other formula, "It appears to me" = "I think" it should be so-and-so. These conjectural variations have in the following pages been given (where given at all) in foot-notes, with the corresponding formula "Gt." = "Dr. Ginsburg thinks" the readings should be as follows, in the quoted words then cited. They are the conjectures of an expert, often of great value, and always worthy of respectful consideration, but not advanced into the text of this Bible, save in a very few exceptional cases distinctly notified in the margin. These isolated instances are limited to places in which it was felt that the internal evidence fully made up for any lack of external attestation.

2. The appended Various Readings.

A. Whence come these Various Readings? They are (i.) variations discovered in existing standard copies (Codices) or in early printed editions; (ii.) variations recorded in the Massorah itself as having formerly existed in documents now lost; (iii.) variations preserved in the Talmud or in the commentaries of ancient Jewish scholars; (iv.) variations proved by Ancient Versions, in cases where the changes cannot reasonably be attributed to freedom of translation, but assure us that the translator must have had before them a Hebrew Text materially differing from that which has been handed down to the present day.

B. What are the leading Characteristics of these Various Readings? (i.) Many of them are exceedingly minute: either resolving themselves into variations of spelling and accentuation, such as to make no difference in translation, and therefore passed by in silence in this Bible; or else making very little difference in English—i.e. being of no appreciable consequence whether Israel fell into the "hand" or "hands" of their enemies. Still, the collating of the smallest variations has some value as an education, showing how such changes came into existence, and what pains have been taken by copyists and textual critics to note them and guard against their multiplication. (ii.) At the same time, literal minuteness of variation is a very uncertain criterion of importance. Truth is not measurable by bulk, but by weight. The change of a single letter in one case may show nothing but a peculiar spelling of the same word, whereas in the very next instance it may indicate a totally different wor and make all the difference in the world to the sense. To mistake lo for lo' may bring in a negative and turn the sentence completely round. To write 'aḥar for 'aḥad (showing, in the Hebrew, a minuter difference than this) may turn "one" into "after" or "another." (iii.) Many variations are due to the most simple and obvious causes—mere mistakes of eye or ear, or the writing as one word what was meant for two, and vice versa. (iv.) More serious is the divergence of exemplars; the standard copies of one district having in course of time or under different editorship come to depart from the favourite standards of another region; the old standard becoming worn out or lost, and a new one having to be procured from a distance, bringing its own divergences with it, and propagating them on new soil. (v.) Still more serious is prejudice leading to the deliberate avoiding of certain exemplars, as favouring, say, the detested Samaritan or Septuagint recension. (vi.) Most serious of all is the deliberate intention to change the old reading for one more acceptable—never, perhaps, with wilful corruptness; on the contrary, with pious intentions and for greater edification; yet still displaying a freedom of editing which to us seems quite indefensible.

C. How may Dr. Ginsburg's Various Readings be Classified? (i.) Write, but read; or the official variations technically known as the K'thīv and the K'riʾ. "The margin of the [Hebrew] Bible exhibits a number of various readings of an early date, called K'riʾ (read), because in the view of the Jewish critics they are to be preferred to what stands in the text, and to be read instead of what is there written, hence called K'ṭhīv (written)."a So great a reverence for the ancient literal text, as it was handed down by tradition, was preserved among the Jews, that the Grammarians who made the new additions to the text left the written text still unchanged, even in cases where they believed it necessary to follow a different reading and interpretation."b Probably the general understanding amongst English students of Hebrew is that the K'riʾ are invariably to be preferred to the K'thīv. Dr. Ginsburg, however, does not endorse that view, for he says: "It is now admitted by the best textual critics that in many instances the reading exhibited in the text (K'thīv) is preferable to the marginal variant (K'riʾ), inasmuch as it sometimes preserves the archaic orthography and sometimes gives the original reading. The K'ṭhīv or textual reading, moreover, is in many instances not only supported by MSS. and early editions, but by the ancient Versions."c There are two features in Dr. Ginsburg's exhibit of these various readings which cannot fail to give lively satisfaction to the student. The first he states thus:—"I have in most cases given the MSS., the early editions, and the ancient Versions which support the K'ṭhīv and those which exhibit the K'riʾ."d The second is the claim thus expressed: "I have been able to give a larger number of K'riʾ and K'ṭhīv than those which are printed in any other edition of the Hebrew Bible."e On the strength of this last fact, as well as on the score of convenience, the K'riʾ cited in The Emphasised Bible are given as resting on Ginsburg's authority, without forgetting that many of them are to be found in other Hebrew texts. (ii.) A special class of various readings called Sərīr. These constitute a body of readings "of equal importance to the class of variants comprised in the official K'riʾ, though it has hardly been noticed by modern critics. Indeed in some respects it is more important than the alternative readings which have hitherto been so scrupulously given in the margin of our Bibles under the name of K'ri by modern editors, who have either entirely dankenished the Sevir from the margin or have on extremely rare occasions condescended to notice one of the numerous readings introduced by the name Sevir." As in the case of the K'ri, Ginsburg mostly states by what authorities the Sevirin are confirmed

A reading of this class will be found given in the notes of this Bible thus: "A sp. vr. (sevir)," followed by a translation of the reading, with the addition of any confirming authority. (iii.) Variants cited in the Masorah itself and underlined by Dr. Ginsburg.
When possible these have been given in italics. For instance, "(Sam., Sep., Vul.)" indicates that Dr. Ginsburg has found the Septuagintal reading in the Massoretic note of a Hebrew codex or edition. (iv.) Variations discovered by collation of existing MSS., early printed editions, and Ancient Versions, and recorded without editorial opinion. These must be left to speak for themselves. They are here passed on from the textual editor. (v.) Conjectural emendations. As before suggested, these should be received with the deference due to an expert, whose opinion takes into account not only internal evidence, but probably a shrewd suspicion as to the way in which an error may have crept in. Gt. = "Ginsburg thinks" is the sign distinguishing this class of reading in The Emphasised Bible. (vi.) Confirmed Emendations. These have already been considered, and reasons have been given for incorporating their purport in the text of this Translation.

D. How should these Various Readings be treated by an ordinary intelligent reader? (i.) They may very well lead to a suspense of judgment. Where a transcriptional variant of this kind comes into view, it is natural to eschew dogmatism. (ii.) Internal evidence may inspire a moral certainty as to which reading is correct. The reader can cautiously rely on this for his own satisfaction; and the controversialist may urge it—with becoming moderation. (iii.) Converging evidence may almost amount to demonstration as to which alternative is to be trusted. For example: Starting with internal evidence in favour of a Various Reading which is actually found in some Hebrew MSS. or printed editions, the reader discovers that that very reading is exhibited in the Samaritan Pentateuch—an independent line of transmission from an exceedingly ancient exemplar. Then he finds it handed down by the Septuagint—another line of transmission from a time almost equally remote. And finally, we will suppose, he discovers that the same reading has been preserved by the Vulgate. Internal probability—some existing Hebrew standards, Samaritan Septuagint, Vulgate—what wonder if (some counter evidence notwithstanding) th student yields his mind to a state of working confidence as towards the variant whic is sustained by such a superior array of proof?

II.—The Original Text of the New Testament.

There is the less need to enlarge on this, that information concerning it is by th time widely diffused. Few scholars nowadays would advocate the adoption of the s called Received Text of Erasmus and Stephens, published early in the sixteent century. The discovery and collation of Greek MSS. have since then made su enormous strides, and so many textual critics of supreme ability and industry—such as Griesbach, Scholtz, Lachmann, Tischendorf, Tregelles, and Westcott and Hort have laboured in this department, that it would appear an act of sheer madness to back to the critical apparatus of our great-grandfathers. Suffice it then to state in brief the general principles followed alike by Tregelles and by Westcott and Hort—with whom alone in the Christian Scriptures this work stands in immediate relation—and then to explain in a very few words why, for the present (the third) edition of the New Testament portion of The Emphasised Bible, the text of Tregelles was superseded by that of Westcott and Hort.

The fundamental principle common to the Greek texts of Tregelles and of Westcott and Hort is that in the construction of them, ancient authorities have been resolutely preferred, and the text in both cases has been determined rather by the weight than by the mere number of manuscripts. Ancient readings have been preferred in constructing the Greek texts of both these editions. It would perhaps be correct to say that Westcott and Hort gave more attention than did Tregelles to the lineage of manuscripts, and submitted to a more searching consideration the question how far divergent readings had sprung from common sources, so as to get behind the divergences to an earlier and more ancestral text. In particular their treatment of the two most ancient MSS., the Vatican and the Sinai, both as to their similarities and their differences, impresses the inquirer's mind with a sense of the scientific force with which inductive reasoning is carried; and how, under the converging light thrown backward by these great exemplars, in the hands of these editors, the student can almost see for himself what the Apostolic text must have been.

This allusion to the two greatest Greek Manuscripts of the New Testament opens the way for an explicit statement of the reason which led to the adoption of the later text of Westcott and Hort in preference to the earlier one of Tregelles, which had been employed for the present Translator's first and second editions of the New Testament. It was simply and solely because the later text was the later, that the change was made; for the lapse of time between them, though not great, enabled Drs. Westcott and Hort to do what had not been vouchsafed to their predecessor—viz., to keep the Sinai MS. steadily before them in the construction of their text of the Four Gospels. It was felt to be presumptuous to conjecture how far the readings of the Sinai Codex would have confirmed or modified Tregelles' previously formed conclusions; and, at the same time, very undesirable for the Translator to assume the functions of textual critic, functions imperatively demanding the practical skill of the expert, to which he could lay no claim. Better far to place himself under the guidance of such consummate masters of textual criticism as Drs. Westcott and Hort, judging, as they had done, so very nearly in the spirit and after the principles of Dr. Tregelles, on the fuller evidence then spread before them. Even in the Four Gospels the differences between the two texts are comparatively slight; while, in the later Books of the New Testament, it becomes a matter of sustained admiration to note how very generally the conclusions of the earlier editor (having the Sinai MS. before him at that stage of his work) are confirmed by his successors, when judging from substantially the same array of evidence.
CHAPTER IV.

THE INCOMMUNICABLE NAME.

As it might appear premature, at the outset of this chapter, to spell out that Divine Name which some regard as not only incommunicable but unpronounceable, it will be considerate to begin the present investigations by the aid of circumlocution and abbreviation, especially as no inconvenience will be occasioned thereby. The Tetragrammaton, or name of four letters (in allusion to the four letters Y H W H), is a technical term frequently employed by scholars, and will here, for a little, serve a useful purpose. Besides employing this term, we can reverently speak of “The Name,” or can set down the first letter only, “Y,” in the same way as critics are wont to use the Hebrew letter god as the initial of the Divine Name intended. This understood, we can intelligibly proceed. Our very first sub-division will indicate the serious turn which this inquiry necessarily takes.

I.—The Name Suppressed.

A. The Fact.

It is willingly admitted that the suppression has not been absolute; at least so far as Hebrew and English are concerned. The Name, in its four essential letters, was reverently transcribed by the Hebrew copyist, and therefore was necessarily placed before the eye of the Hebrew reader. The latter, however, was instructed not to pronounce it, but to utter instead a less sacred name—Adonay or Elohim. In this way The Name was not suffered to reach the ear of the listener. To that degree it was suppressed. The Septuagint, or ancient Greek version, made the concealment complete by regularly substituting Kurios; as the Vulgate, in like manner, employed Dominus; both Kurios and Dominus having at the same time their own proper service to render as correctly answering to the Hebrew Adonay, confessedly meaning “Lord.” The English versions do nearly the same thing, in rendering The Name as Lord, and occasionally God; these terms also having their own rightful office to fill as fitly representing the Hebrew titles Adonay and Elohim and El. So that the Tetragrammaton is nearly hidden in our public English versions. Not quite. To those who can note the difference between “Lord” and “Lord” and between “God” and “God,” and can remember that the former (printed with small capitals) do while the latter do not stand for The Name—such an intimation of the difference is conveyed. But although the reader who looks carefully at his book can see the distinction, yet the mere hearer remains completely in the dark respecting it, inasmuch as there is no difference whatever in sound between “Lord” and “Lord” or “God” and “God.” It hence follows that in nearly all the occurrences of The Name (some 7,000 throughout the Old Testament) the especial Name of God is absolutely withheld from all who simply hear the Bible read. “Nearly all,” for there are about half a dozen instances in the A.V., and a few more in the R.V., in which this concealment does not take place. In other words there are these very few places in which the Tetragrammaton appears as “Jehovah”; and although it may be asked, “What are they among so many?” still their presence has an argumentative value.
If it was wrong to unveil the Tetragrammaton at all, then why do it in these instances? If, on the other hand, it was right to let it be seen in these cases, then why not in all? With the exceptions explained, however, it remains true to say, that in our public versions the one especial Name of God is suppressed, wholly concealed from the listening ear, almost as completely hidden from the hastening or uncritical eye.

B. The Immediate Consequences of the Suppression.

These are—

(i.) Partly literary, though more than that. Reference is here made to the confusion into which many things are thrown through this abnormal state of things. "Baal" is "lord" and so is "Adon" (Adonay)—that is unfortunate; but why add to the embarrassment by rendering Y H W H (and Y H, the shorter form) also as "Lord"? Worst of all is the confusion when "Y" and Adonay occur together, as they do many times in the Book of Ezekiel. Inasmuch as to say, "Lord LORD" for "Adonay Y," was too grotesque and misleading (positively false to the ear), the new device had to be resorted to of rendering this combination by "Lord God"—"God" in this case, and not "Lord" at all, standing for The Name. Even Y H (the shorter form) and Y H W H (the full form) of the Tetragrammaton, coming together, caused a dilemma; though in these instances, the acuteness of the trouble compelled the adoption of a partial remedy, and "the Lord Jehovah" is the result. "Confusion," then, is a term not a whit too strong to apply to these varying devices. No wonder that even intelligent and educated people are continually forgetting what they have heard or read concerning so involved a matter.

(ii.) Partly practical. Is it too much to assume that The Name has about it something very grand or very gracious, or at least something very mysterious? Whichever conclusion is received, the question arises whether there is not something essentially presumptuous, however little intended, in substituting for it one of the commonest of titles, seeing that there are on earth "lords many," and the master of the humblest slave is his "lord"? There is surely nothing very grand or gracious or mysterious in that! It is therefore the most natural presumption that the suppression of The Name has entailed on the reader, and especially upon the hearer, irreparable loss.

C. The Reason for the Suppression.

The motive was good—let that be assumed. It was to safeguard the Divine Majesty in the minds of men. It was to prevent the inconsiderate mention of Him before whom seraphs veil their faces—though even so it is very difficult to see how one name should occasion irreverence and another not. Why not, then, leave Him altogether unnamed? Why not fear to allude to Him by any title that could definitely refer to Him? The passages commonly cited as furnishing good reason for the suppression surely cannot mean what is thus attributed to them, since there is a wide distinction between not taking His Name in vain, and not taking His Name into our lips at all, even for prayer or praise. In a word, the motive is respected; but the reverence is regarded as misapplied—the reason given is seen to be invalid.

* As in Is. xii. 2; and xxvi. 4.
II.—THE NAME RESTORED.

A. Why?

1. Because its suppression was a mistake. So grave a mistake cannot be corrected too soon. An unwarrantable liberty has been taken; the path of humility is to retrace our steps.

2. Because thereby serious evil may be averted. Men are saying to-day that "Y" was a mere tribal name, and are suggesting that "Y" Himself was but a local deity. As against this, only let The Name be boldly and uniformly printed, and the humblest Sunday School teacher will be able to show the groundlessness of the assertion.

3. Because solid advantage may be counted upon as certain to follow the restoration. Even if the meaning of The Name should not disclose itself, the word itself would gradually gather about it the fitting associations—and that would be a gain; and godly readers would be put on quest—and that would be a further gain; and if the true significance of the Tetragrammaton should be brought to light, there would be a trained constituency to whom appeal could be made—and that would be a yet greater gain.

A Plausible Objection Answered.—A plausible argument in favour of leaving The Name veiled, as it is now, may be based upon its concealment by the Septuagint. The plea takes the following form. The Septuagint conceals the Tetragrammaton under the common title Kurios, "Lord." Jesus used that version as it stood, notably in citing Psalm cx. 1. Therefore what was good enough for Him should be good enough for us. Answer First: Jesus Christ was not a scribe or literary critic: His mission was much higher. Answer Second: Jesus had to plead his Messiahship at the bar of the Scriptures as then current; and any criticism by Him of the nation's Sacred Documents might have placed a needless obstacle in the people's path. We thus conclude that the objection may and should be set aside as inconclusive, and so fall back on the reasons given why the Divine Name should be suffered uniformly to appear.

B. In What Form?

1. Why not in the form "Jehovah"? Is that not euphonious? It is, without question. Is it not widely used? It is, and may still be freely employed to assist through a period of transition. But is it not hallowed and endeared by many a beautiful hymn and many a pious memory? Without doubt; and therefore it is with reluctance that it is here declined. But why is it not accepted? There it is—familiar, acceptable, ready for adoption. The reason is, that it is too heavily burdened with merited critical condemnation—as modern, as a compromise, as a "mongrel," word, "hybrid," "fantastic," "monstrous." The facts have only to be known to justify this verdict, and to vindicate the propriety of not employing it in a new and independent translation. What are the facts? And first as to age. "The pronunciation Jehovah was unknown until 1520, when it was introduced by Galatinus; but was contested by Le Mercier, J. Drusius, and L. Capellus, as against grammatical and historical propriety." Next, as to formation. "Erroneously written and pronounced Jehovah..."
THE INCOMMUNICABLE NAME.

which is merely a combination of the sacred Tetragrammaton and the vowels in the Hebrew word for Lord, substituted by the Jews for JHVH, because they shrank from pronouncing The Name, owing to an old misconception of the two passages, Ex. xx. 7 and Lev. xxiv. 16. . . . To give the name JHVH the vowels of the word for Lord (Heb. Adonai) and pronounce it Jehovah, is about as hybrid a combination as it would be to spell the name Germany with the vowels in the name Portugal—viz., Gormuna. The monstrous combination Jehovah is not older than about 1520 A.D. From this we may gather that the Jewish scribes are not responsible for the “hybrid” combination. They intentionally wrote alien vowels—not for combination with the sacred consonants, but for the purpose of cautioning the Jewish reader to enunciate a totally different word, viz., some other familiar name of the Most High.

2. The form “Yahweh” is here adopted as practically the best. The only competing form would be “Yehweh,” differing, it will be observed, only in a single vowel—“e” for “a” in the first syllable. But even this difference vanishes on examination. It is true that “Yehweh” is intended to suggest the derivation of the noun from the simple (Kal) conjugation of the verb, and that some scholars take “Yahweh” as indicating a formation from the causative (Hiphil) conjugation; but, since other scholars (presumably because of the aspirate h) regard “Yahweh” itself as consistent with a Kal formation, thereby leaving us free to accept the spelling “Yahweh” without prejudging the question of the precise line of derivation from the admitted root hlyh, we may very well accept the spelling now widely preferred by scholars, and write the name—“Yahweh.”

3. The exact pronunciation claims a word to itself. “The true pronunciation seems to have been Yahwe (or Iahway, the initial I = y, as in lachimo). The final e should be pronounced like the French e, or the English e in there, and the first h sounded as an aspirate. The accent should be on the final syllable.” This statement gives rise to a question of rhythm, which is sure sooner or later to make itself felt. We are so used to the three syllables of the form “Jehovah,” with its delightfully varied vowels, that we shrink back dismayed in anticipation of the disturbing effect on our Psalmody of the substitution of Yahweh for Jehovah. Our apprehensions may be dismissed. The readjustment is mainly the business of our hymn-writers; and if it should prove literally true, that “new mercies” shall “new songs” demand, which shall enshrine a new accent in a new rhythm, then we may rest assured that sanctified genius and enthusiasm will prove equal to the occasion. The Translator of The Emphasised Bible has in his own humble province recast a good many lines in his rendering of “The Psalms” in consideration of the modified rhythm now required. As for the rest, it may with confidence be counted upon that increasing familiarisation and the silent growth of hallowed memories will ultimately render thrice welcome what was at first so strange.

III.—THE NAME EXPLAINED.

1. It certainly appears to be explained in Exodus iii. 14. It does not follow that the statements there made are rightly understood; nor can any compelling reason be assigned why a translator should be ready to expound everything which he has to represent in English. Nevertheless, the correct rendering of the above passage is so connected with the meaning of The Name, that, were it not for special reasons, the attempt now to be made might not have provoked the charge of presumption. As it is, the reproach of rashness cannot easily be escaped.

2. Confessedly it is very discouraging to find the editor of the Polychrome Bible declaring bluntly: "The meaning of JHVH is uncertain." That it is uncertain would appear to be the natural conclusion deductible from the varieties of meaning summed up in the Oxford Gesenius under the name "Yahweh."

3. As against this discouragement it may be considered whether the Old Testament does not strongly embolden us to hope that greater success and greater unanimity may yet be attained. Is not a hidden name almost a contradiction in terms? Does not "name" in the Bible very widely imply revelation? Men's names are throughout the Scriptures fraught with significance, enshrining historical incidents, biographical reminiscences, and so forth; and why should the Name of the Ever-Blessed be an exception to this rule? Does not the Almighty Himself employ this Name of His as though it had in it some self-evident force and fitness to reveal His nature and unfold His ways? His Name is continually adduced by Himself as His reason for what He does and what He commands: "For I am Yahweh." Israel and the nations are placed under discipline, says the Divine Speaker, "that they may know that I am Yahweh." Is it not probable, then, that His Name was intended to be understood? Thus encouraged, we proceed; only requesting that the exposition which follows may be regarded as—

(a) The conclusion formed may be thus expressed: The Name itself signifies, "He who becometh"; and the formula by which that significance is sustained and which is rendered in the Authorised Version "I am that I am," expresses the sense, "I will become whatsoever I please"; or, as more exactly indicating the idiom involved, "I will become whatsoever I may become." We amplify the "may," and more freely suggest the natural latitude which the idiom claims, by saying: "Whatsoever I will, may, or can become."

(b) The reasons for this conclusion are two: First, that it gives the simplest, most obvious, most direct force to the derivation of The Name itself, as generally admitted. Yahweh is almost always regarded as the third person, singular, masculine, imperfect tense, from the root hawah, an old form of the root hayah. The one meaning of hawah is "become." So that the force of yahweh thus derived, as a verb, would be "He will become"; or, as expressive of use and wont, "He becometh." Then, passing into use as a noun, it is—"He who becometh," "The Becoming One." That is precisely how any other Hebrew name would be formed and would yield up its inherent significance. Thus viewed, its human-like simplicity would be its great recommendation. If the Eternal would speak to man so as to be understood, we seem compelled to expect that He will speak after the manner of men. And if after the manner of men He pleases to take and bear a Name, it would seem the very perfection of condescension that His Name should be formed after the manner of men's names. Second, the sense of the formula given above is very simply and idiomatically obtained. The formula itself is 'ehyeh 'asher 'ehyeh, in which it should be noted that the verb 'ehyeh, "I will become," runs forward into a reduplication of itself; for it is that which constitutes the idiom. As a mere repetition, the assertion would be unmeaning. To escape this we must resort to mystery or imagination or—idiom. How if the mystery itself is imaginary; and where is imagination to end? how is it to be reduced to any trusty significance? Would it not be more humble and childlike to be prepared to find that the All-wise and All-loving is simply addressing us in an idiom of our own? We have many such idiomatic formulæ even in English: "I will speak what I will speak," and the like. Only, after the manner of our tongue, we avoid the semblance of meaningless repetition by emphasising the auxiliary verb: "I will speak what I will speak"—my mind is made up; or "I will speak what I can, may, must speak"—according to need and opportunity. Now, in Hebrew, the future (imperfect, or incipient) tense (the one used here) is freely employed to express mood; in other words, to convey those nicer shades of thought which in English are conveyed by such helping words as "will," "can," "may," "could," "would," "might," "must." The only question is whether we can assure ourselves that we are not acting fancifully in resorting to that principle of interpretation in the important statement before us. Have we any examples of such an idiom finding place where, as in Exo. iii. 1-4, a word is folded back upon itself? As a matter of fact, we have in the Old Testament at least three examples in which the recognition of this simple idiom brings out an excellent sense, and in which the Authorised Version leads the way (followed by the Revised) in so expressing the sense.

* F.B. Psalms, p. 164. For an encouraging contrast, see the explanation offered by Dr. A. B. Davidson, quoted, post, in the Note on Exo. iii. 14.

* Exo. iii. 14.
* O.G., 217.

Example I.—1 Samuel xxiii. 13, A.V. and R.V.: "And they went whithersoever they could go." Heb.: "wayyithhall'kuba'asheryithha/lahi." Freely: "And they wandered wheresoever they could, would, or might wander." The repetition is there, and the idiom, and the clear sense of it.

Example II.—2 Samuel xv. 20, A.V. and R.V.: "Seeing I go whither I may." Heb.: "um'ani holek 'al 'asher 'ani holék." Lit.: "And (or seeing) I am going whither I am going." Again the repetition, again the idiom, again the fit sense thereby conveyed.

Example III.—2 Kings viii. 1, A.V. and R.V.: "And sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn." Heb.: "w'guri ba'asher thighuri." In the first passage the auxiliary is "could"; in the second, "may"; in the third, "canst." Idiom is recognised in all, and through it the meaning is seized and well expressed.

We thus gain all needful countenance for the idiomatic explication of Exo. iii. 14:

I will become whatsoever I will—may—can—become.

The only difficulty is to suggest the suitable latitude, without multiplying words and without violating any known characteristic of the Speaker. Perhaps the best word on this momentous occasion is: "what I please," since we know that the Divine resources are infinite, and that God will please to become to His people only what is wisest and best. Thus viewed, the formula becomes a most gracious promise; the Divine capacity of adaptation to any circumstances, any difficulties, any necessities that may arise, becomes a veritable bank of faith to such as love God and keep His commandments. The formula is a promise, the promise is concentrated in a Name. The Name is at once a revelation, a memorial, a pledge. To this Name, God will ever be faithful; of it He will never be ashamed; by it He may ever be truthfully proclaimed and gratefully praised.

And ||this|| my memorial to generation after generation.*

Praise ye Yah.
For good' is Yahweh,
Sing praises to his name,
For it is sweet.b

Praise Yahweh, all ye nations,
Laud him, all ye tribes of men;
For his lovingkindness hath prevailed over us,
And the faithfulness of Yahweh is to times age-abiding.
Praise ye Yah.°

5. Whether the foregoing explanation is ever likely to be generally accepted or not, one thing appears to be more and more certain the more the evidence is considered, that the name Yahweh has some inherent meaning of great force and graciousness; at the very least a significance of sufficient peculiarity to make it more fitting to be employed on some occasions than on others. This conclusion, which on its own merits will scarcely be denied, invests the matter with a literary interest which it will be fair not to forget. It may deliver the most open-minded critic from a too ready resort to documentary hypotheses to account for the presence or absence of The Name in or from some verses, sections, and books. The use of previous documents may go some way to account for the appearance and disappearance of that Name; but internal fitness to be avoided or employed may be an equally feasible explanation. Leaving aside the interesting question whether the sudden appearance of the name Yahweh in combination with Elohim in Genesis ii. may not owe its presence to the tenour of the new section which commences at verse 4, in view of Man's coming upon the scene, there are some examples of the presence and absence of The Name to which any documentary hypothesis would appear to be altogether alien. For instance, is it not indicative of what we may call changed moral atmosphere that the prologue of the Book of Job (chapters i. and ii.) and the epilogue (chapters xxxviii.—xlii.) should be replete with the especially gracious proper name "Y," whereas throughout the whole of the doubting, questioning, arguing portion of the Book The Name should occur only once, chapter xii. 9, and then with uncertain attestation? It appears to be equally indicative of a most delicate sense of fitness, that, whereas The Name is employed on an average nearly once in each of the eight-versed sections of Psalm cxix.—a Psalm pervaded by the atmosphere of sustained communion with Yahweh—the one exception in which a less sacred divine name is used is the single instance in which the Psalmist's:

* Exo. iii. 15.
Ps. cxxxv. 3.
mind comes into contact with the colder air of disloyalty to the Gracious Being whom he himself delighted to worship:—

"Depart from me, ye evil-doers,—
That I may observe the commandments of my God."*

It is with a feeling of lively satisfaction that the materials for judgment concerning all such peculiarities of sacred usage are now clearly set forth in the pages of The Emphasised Bible.

The above Table may be put to an interesting special use. It will enable the merely English reader to trace the similarity of certain Hebrew letters, as the well-known cause of errors of transcription. For example, he can perceive how minute is the difference in form between daleth and resh, and so how easily "silenced" might creep in where "uplifted" should have stood, or vice versa, in Psalm cxxxvi. 2 (see note there); and similarly how readily kaph should have ousted be in Prov. xi. 19.

This invaluable key to the text of the Old Testament is called Massorah (tradition), because it was traditionally handed down by the authorised and professional scribes, who afterwards committed it to writing. No single MS. contains the whole. To obtain the whole Massoretic apparatus it was absolutely necessary to examine minutely all the accessible MSS. This work had never been done before, until forty years ago Dr. Ginsburg began the work. After twenty years of incessant labour he commenced printing the Massorah. He afterwards framed a text which embodied the results of his researches. This text—the Hebrew Bible edited by Dr. Ginsburg and accompanied by Hebrew Notes—was published by the Trinitarian Bible Society in 1894, thirty-three years after the work of collating was begun; hence the name &quot;The Massoretico-Critical edition of the Hebrew Bible.&quot; Jacob b. Chayim, editor of the Hebrew Received Text, had neither time nor opportunity to collate the different MSS. in the different parts of Europe. Hence that which he printed in the margin and at the end of his great Bible (1524-25) is not merely a small part of the Massorah, but is exceedingly incorrect. (Condensed from Dr. Ginsburg's &quot;Provisional&quot; Circular, issued in 1881, and re-issued in 1894.)</td>

TABLE III.

SIGNS OF EMPHASIS. (See ante, Introduction, Chapter II.)

The signs used in the Old Testament are the same as those employed in the New—namely, ’, |, ||, and < >.

Those most frequently adopted are the two which call for decided stress:—

(1) ||, when the English words appear in their usual, uninverted order, though the corresponding words are known to be emphatic in the Hebrew.

(2) < >, when there is an inversion in the English arrangement as well as in that of the Hebrew.—Sometimes the inverted and emphatically placed portion of the sentence is of some length, extending to a line or more. In such cases the angular marks frequently appear in darker type (thus < >), so as to be conspicuous, thereby also setting free the lighter marks to show a short inversion within a longer one (cp. Jer. vii. 5, 6). If it be remembered that a closing angular sign never completes a sentence, but always demands a sequel before the statement is finished, both mind and voice will be materially assisted.

(3) The two signs (’, and | |) are used almost indifferently to denote slight emphasis; the accent being generally preferred for single words, and the single upright lines for the inclusion of more than one word in the effect.

* * * Any simplification observable in this method, as compared with that followed in the New Testament, may be fairly set down to the simpler elements and structure of Hebrew composition. The principle throughout is the same.

1. <In the beginning> God 'created' the heavens and the earth.

2. Now the earth [emphasis added] had become waste and wild, and darkness was on the face of the roaring deep; but the Spirit of God was brooding, on the face of the waters. And God said—

And light was.

Or: "At first." The definite article in the rendering, "In the beginning," cannot be pressed, insomuch as the phrase may, as preferred by many expositors ancient and modern, be simply construed with what follows: "In the beginning of God's creating," &c.

Heb.: 'adam. 'Prob. a plural of quality="God's head."—Davies' H.L., p. 9.

It should be carefully observed that, although 'adam is plural in form, yet when, as here, it is conjoined with a verb in the singular, it is naturally singular in sense, especially since the "plural of quality" or "excellence" abound in Hebrew in cases where the reference is undeniable to something which must be understood in the singular number.

"Prop. "to cut" or "carve": hence," form," create"—"Davies' H.L., p. 108; "shape, create"—O.G.: not necessarily, nor generally, to make out of nothing, cp. verses 21, 27; chap. ii. 3; and Num. xvi. 30.

Seeing that, outside this passage, no example in the O.T. can be found where a name or a noun of the singular number is intentionally misused by the Heb., the reader who insists on that meaning was so does so on his own responsibility. The general introduction of difficulties should of course be avoided.

The emphasis on "the earth" in ver. 2 is quite regular. Cp. verses 8, 18, 19, 25, 31.

And light was.

Heb. 'adam se-otam. Evidently an idiomatic phrase, with a play on the sound "assonance." The two words occur together only in Is. xxxiv. 11; Jer. iv. 23; examples which favour the conclusion that here also they describe the result of previous overthrow. 'adam by itself is found in several other texts (Deu. xxiii. 10; Job xii. 24; Ps. cvii. 40; Is. xxv. 10; xxxiv. 11; etc.).

"Prop., to cut" or "carve": hence, "form," create"—Davies' H.L., p. 108; "shape, create"—O.G.: not necessarily, nor generally, to make out of nothing, cp. verses 21, 27; chap. ii. 3; and Num. xvi. 30.

Here grammatical exegesis steps in and claims its own. Two ways of explaining this striking "refrain" are conceivable—the one, unnatural and absurd; the other, at once living and luminous. Either this six-times-repeated statement is a mere extraneous patch of information, having no organic connection with the creative acts amongst which it is inlaid—which means here does so on his own responsibility. The general introduction of difficulties should of course be avoided.

The beautiful word "brooding" (and exact rendering of the Heb.—is most suggestive: since it vividly describes the cherishing of incipient life, as a preparation for its outburst. The participial form of such a word clearly denotes a process, more or less lengthened, rather than an instantaneous act. Standing where it does, it crowns the description of the condition of things on which the first creative mandate of the six days took effect.

The rendering above given of these two important verses may be paraphrased as follows: "In the beginning [of the present order of things] God created [that is, shaped or formed according to his own divine idea] the heavens [above] and the earth [below]."

"Now the earth [emphasised idiomatically for the purpose of singling it out for first remark] had been that it was [good],—and God divided [the light] from the [darkness]; 8 and God called [the light] [day], but <the darkness> called he [night].

So it was evening—and it was morning, [one day]."m

And God said,' Let there be an expanse in the midst of the waters,—and let it be a means of dividing, between waters and waters. 9

And God made the expanse, and it divided between the waters that were under the expanse and the waters that were above the expanse. And it was so. 8 But God called [the expanse] [heavens]. So it was evening—and it was morning, a second day.

And God said—

Let the waters under the heavens [be gathered together] into one place, and let the dry-ground appear.

And it was so.p

And God called [the] come waste and wild [probably by previous catastrophe]; and darkness emphasised as about to be dealt with] was on the face of the roaring deep; but [preparing the mind for a new order of things] the Spirit of God was brooding [with quickening effect] on the face of the waters. And [things being so; such being the state of the earth] God said [and thus the renewing, re-creating divine acts commence]."

1 Or: "became," "came to be." Connected with the opening word "so," the simple verb "was" has the same force.

By a well-attested Heb. idiom = "a first day."

dry-ground land, but <the gathering together of the waters> called he seas. And God saw that it was good.

And God said—

Let the land put-forth vegetation—herb yielding seed, fruit-tree bearing fruit, after its kind, whose seed is within it, on the land. And it was so. And the land brought-forth vegetation—herb yielding seed after its kind, and tree bearing fruit, whose seed is within it, after its kind. And God saw that it was good. So it was evening—and it was morning, [a third day].

And God said—

Let there be luminaries in the expance of the heavens, to divide between the day and the night,—and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days and years; yea let them be for luminaries, in the expance of the heavens, to give light on the earth. And it was so. And God made the two great luminaries,—the greater luminary to rule the day, and the lesser luminary to rule the night, [also the stars]. And God set them in the expance of the heavens,—to give light on the earth; and to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness. And God saw that it was good. So it was evening—and it was morning, [a fourth day].

And God said—

Let the waters swarm with an abundance of living soul, and [birds] shall fly over the earth, [over the face of the expance of the heavens].

And God created the great sea-monsters,—and every living soul that moveth with which the waters swarmed after their kind, and every winged bird—after its kind. And God saw that it was good. And God blessed them, saying,—

Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let the birds multiply in the land.

So it was evening—and it was morning, [a fifth day].

And God said—

Let the land bring forth living soul, after its kind, tame-beast and creeping thing and wild-beast of the land, after its kind. And it was so. And God made the wild-beast of the land, after its kind, and the tame-beast, after its kind, and every creeping thing of the ground, after its kind. And God saw that it was good. And God blessed them, saying,—

Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it,—and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the bird of the heavens, and over the tame-beast—and over all the land, and over every creeping thing, that creepeth on the land.

And God said—

Lo! I have given you—every herb yielding seed which is on the face of all the land, and every tree wherein is the fruit of a tree, yielding seed,—<to you> shall it be, for food; and to every living thing of the land—and to every bird of the heavens, and to every thing that moveth on the land, wherein is a living soul, [every green herb for food].

And it was so. And God saw every thing which he had made, and lo! it was very good. So it was evening—and it was morning, [the sixth day].

Thus were finished the heavens and the earth, and all their host.

Thus God finished [on the seventh day] his work which he had made, and rested, on the seventh day, from all his work which he had made. And God blessed the seventh day, and hallowed it,—because <therein> rested he from all his work which God [by creating] had made.

These are the generations of the heavens and the earth, when they were created,—in the day when Yahweh God made earth and heavens.

Now [no bush of the field] as yet—was in the God saw that it was good. And God said—

Let us make man* in our image, after our likeness,—and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the bird of the heavens, and over the tame-beast—and over all the land,* and over every creeping thing, that creepeth on the land.

And God created the man [in his own image],—

In the image of God> created he [him],—

Male and female created he [them].

And God blessed them, and God said to them—

Be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth, and subdue it,—and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the bird of the heavens, and over every living thing that moveth on the land.

And it was so. And God saw every thing which he had made, and lo! it was very good. So it was evening—and it was morning, [the sixth day].

1 Thus were finished the heavens and the earth, 2 and all their host. 2 Thus God finished [on the seventh day] his work which he had made, and rested, on the seventh day, from all his work which he had made. 3 And God blessed the seventh day, and hallowed it,—because <therein> rested he from all his work which God [by creating] had made.

earth, and "no herb of the field" as yet had sprung up,—because Yahweh God had not sent rain on the earth, and [man] was there none to till the ground; 6 but [a vapour] went up from the earth,—and watered all the face of the ground. 7 So then Yahweh God formed [of] the dust of the ground, and breathed in his nostrils the breath [of] life,—and man became a living soul.

And Yahweh God planted a garden in Eden, on the east,—and put there the man whom he had formed. 9 And Yahweh God [caused to sprout out] of the ground, every tree pleasant to the sight and good for food,—and the tree of life, in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. 10 Now [a river] was coming forth out of Eden, to water the garden,—and [from thence] it parted, and became four heads. 11 [The name of the one] is Pishon,—[the same] is that which surroundeth all the land of Havilah, where is gold; 12 moreover [the gold of that land] is good,—[there] is the bdellium, and the beryl stone. 13 And [the name of the second river] is Gihon,—[the same] is that which goeth in front of Assyria; and [the name of the third river] is Hiddekel; 14 and [the name of the fourth river] is Euphrates.

So Yahweh God took the man,—and placed him in the garden of Eden, to till it, and to keep it. 16 And Yahweh God laid command' on the man, saying,—

"Of every tree of the garden thou mayest eat;" 17 but [of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil] thou shalt not eat of it,—for [in the day thou eatest thereof] thou shalt [die].

And Yahweh God said',

"It is not good; that the man should remain alone,—I will make for him a helper, as his counterpart.

Now Yahweh God had formed [from] the ground every living thing [of] the field, and every bird of the heavens, which he brought in unto the man, that he might see what he should call it,—and [whatev]er the man should call it,—any living soul [that] should be the name thereof. 20 So the man gave' names to all the tame-beasts, [and] to the birds [of] the heavens, and to all the wild-beasts [of] the field,—but [for man] had there not been found a helper, as his counterpart. 21 So Yahweh God caused a deep sleep to fall on the man, and he slept,—and he took one of his ribs, and closed it up flesh instead thereof. 22 And Yahweh God builded [the] rib which he had taken from the man, into a woman, and brought her in unto the man. 23 And the man said,

"This one [now] is bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh!"

This one shall be called Woman," for [out of a man] hath this one been taken.

24 [For this cause] will a man leave his father, and his mother,—and cleave unto his wife, and they shall become one flesh.

And they were both of them naked, the man and his wife,—and put not each other to shame.

1 Now [the serpent] was more crafty than any living thing [of] the field which Yahweh God had made,—so he said unto the woman,

"Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?"

2 And the woman said unto the serpent,—

"Of the fruit of the trees [of] the garden we may eat;" 3 but [of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden] God hath said,

"Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it,—lest ye die.

4 And the serpent said unto the woman,—

"Ye shall not [die]." 5 For God doth know, that [in the day ye eat thereof] then shall your eyes be opened,—and ye shall become like God, knowing good and evil. 6 And [when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was desirable to the eyes, and the tree was pleasant to make one knowing] then took she of the tree thereof, and did eat,—and she gave to her husband also, along with her, and he did eat. 7 Then were opened the eyes of them both, and they knew that [naked] they were,—so they tacked together fig-leaves, and made for themselves girdles.
10. Genesis IV. 8—26; V. 1—10.

14 If thou dost not do so, I will smite thee, and thy brother; and he will rule over thee.

15 And God said unto Adam, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of any tree of the garden; in the day when thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die.

16 And the Lord God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken.

17 Therefore is the name of it called Eden; and there was a river, the river Gihon, the same encircled the garden of Eden; and he put forth the man Adam into Eden to till it and to keep it.

18 And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every living thing of the earth are you to eat; but of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, you shall not eat: for in the day that you eat thereof, you shall surely die.

19 And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it.

20 And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden, you may eat freely: but of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, you shall not eat; for in the day that you eat thereof, you shall surely die.

21 Then the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it.

22 And the Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him.

23 And in the evening it was, and it came to pass when the sun went down, there came a woman, which was a harlot, and she lay with the man; and he knew her.

24 And the man knew his wife, and she conceived, and bare a son, and called his name Seth: And the Lord said, Behold, the seed of Adam shall be as the seed of Cain, in the multitude of his blood.

25 And Adam again knew his wife, and she bare a son, and called his name Enos: Then was a beginning of men to call upon the name of the Lord.

§ 5. From Adam to Noah: a line of light amidst deepening gloom.

1 In the day when God created man, in the likeness of God made he him; male and female created he them.

2 And God blessed them, and called their name Adam, and blessed them, and said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

3 And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his likeness, after his image, and called his name Seth.

4 And Adam lived an hundred and twenty and seven years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Adam were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died.

5 And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and begat Enos.

6 And Seth lived an hundred and twenty and seven years, and begat sons and daughters: and all the days of Seth were nine hundred and ten years, and he died.

7 And Enos lived an hundred and twenty and eight years, and begat Kenan.

8 And Enos lived an hundred and forty and seven years, and begat Mahalaleel.

9 And Enos lived an hundred and forty and seven years, and begat Jared.

10 And Enos lived an hundred and fifty and three years, and begat Methuselah.

11 And Enos lived an hundred and sixty and nine years, and begat Lamech.

12 And Lamech lived an hundred and sixty and two years, and begat a son.

13 And Lamech lived an hundred and sixty and two years, and begat a son, and called his name Noah: And the Lord said, My covenant shall I make with him, and with his seed; and with every living creature that is with him in the land; and with every bird of the air; for continually in the land are they destroyed.

14 And God said unto Noah, I have surely found in thee righteousness in the land: and I will cause my covenant of mercy to be with thee, and with thy seed after thee; and with every living creature that is with thee, the fowl, and the cattle, and every beast of the earth; and I will multiply thee exceedingly.

15 And it came to pass, when Noah was six hundred years old, Noah began to build an ark.

16 And Noah went in, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him.

17 And the Lord saw the righteousness of Noah, and knew that he was upright in his generations.

18 And the Lord said, My Spirit shall not strive with man continually, for that he is also flesh; nevertheless his days shall be an hundred and twenty years.

19 And Noah built an ark of gopher wood; rooms were; the ark was three hundred cubits from the ground; the length of it was three hundred cubits, the breadth of it was fifty cubits, and the height of it was thirty cubits.

20 And he overlaid it within and without with pitch, and made doors for it; and overlaid it with pitch.

21 And the Lord said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for you are righteous before me; and of every living thing I have made two, of every beast, of every fowl, and of every thing that creepeth upon the earth.

22 And he brought his wife, and his sons, and his sons' wives with him into the ark; all the flesh that was upon the earth, of every flesh, with him were in the ark: he brought them in.

23 And the Lord shut him in the ark, and she was separated from the waters.

24 And the waters prevailed exceedingly on the earth; and all the high hills, which were under the whole heaven, were covered.

25 The deep increased, and the clouds dropped heavy rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights.

26 And all flesh died which moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beast, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man.

27 But Noah only was left, and those that were with him in the ark.

28 And the waters prevailed forty days and forty nights upon the earth; and all the places where the living soul was congregated, was drowned in the waters.

29 But Noah was left, and those that were with him in the ark, and the waters prevailed upon the earth a hundred and fifty days.

30 And it came to pass at the end of the days of the flood, that the earth was dry.
Kenan, eight hundred and fifteen years,—and begat sons and daughters; 11 and all the days of Enoosh were, nine hundred and five years,—and he died.

12 And Kenan lived seventy years,—and begat Mahalalel; 13 and Kenan lived, after he begat Mahalalel, eight hundred and forty years,—and begat sons and daughters; 14 and all the days of Kenan were, nine hundred and ten years,—and he died.

15 And Mahalalel lived, sixty-five years,—and begat Jared; 16 and Mahalalel lived, after he begat Jared, eight hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters; 17 and all the days of Mahalalel were, eight hundred and ninety-five years,—and he died.

18 And Jared lived, a hundred and sixty-two years, and begat Enoch; 19 and Jared lived, after he begat Enoch, eight hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters; 20 and all the days of Jared were, nine hundred and sixty-two years,—and he died.

21 And Enoch lived, sixty-five years,—and begat Methuselah; 22 and Enoch walked with God, after he begat Methuselah, three hundred years,—and begat sons and daughters; 23 and all the days of Enoch were, three hundred and sixty-five years; 24 and Enoch walked with God,—and was not for God had taken him.

25 And Methuselah lived, a hundred and eighty-seven years,—and begat Lamech; 26 and Methuselah lived, after he begat Lamech, seven hundred and eighty-two years,—and begat sons and daughters; 27 and all the days of Methuselah were, nine hundred and sixty-nine years,—and he died.

28 And Lamech lived, a hundred and eighty-two years,—and begat a son; and he called his name Noah, 29 saying,—This one shall give us rest from our work, and from the grievous toil of our hands, by reason of the ground which Yahweh hath cursed.

30 And Noah was five hundred years old,—and Noah begat Shem, Ham and Japheth.
thou make it. 17 And I behoved me!

18 bringing in the flood—even waters, upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the spirit of life, from under the heavens, everything that is in the earth shall cease to breathe: 18 therefore will I establish my covenant with thee, and thou shalt enter into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee. Moreover, of all the living creatures of all flesh—two of each shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep alive with thee, male and female. 19 Of the bird after its kind and of the beast after its kind, and of every creeping thing of the ground, after its kind shall two come in unto thee, for keeping alive. 20 But thou shalt take to thee of all food that is eaten, and gather it unto thee, and it shall be for thee and for them, for food.

1 And Noah did so, according to all that God commanded him. So did he.

8. The Entrance into the Ark.

1 And Yahweh said to Noah, Enter, thou and all thy house, into the ark, for I have seen righteous before me in this generation. 2 Of all the clean beasts shalt thou take to thee, by sevens, a male and his female, and of the beasts that are not clean, shall be two, a male and his female. Also of the bird of the heavens by sevens, male and female, to keep alive a seed on the face of all the earth. 4 For in seven days, more I am sending rain on the earth, forty days and forty nights, so will I wipe out all the living things which I have made, from off the face of the ground. 5 And Noah did, according to all that Yahweh commanded him. 6 Now Noah was six hundred years old, when the flood came, even waters on the earth. 7 So Noah entered, and his sons and his wife and his sons' wives with him, into the ark, from before the waters of the flood. 8 Of the beasts that were clean, and of the beasts that were not clean, and of the birds, and everything that creepeth on the ground, two and two went they in unto Noah, into the ark, male and female, as God commanded Noah.

10 And it came to pass, in the seven days, that the waters of the flood came on the earth. 11 In the six hundredth year, the year of the life of Noah, in the second month, on the seventeenth day of the month—on this day were burst open, all the fountains of the great roaring deep, and the windows of the heavens were set open. 12 And it came to pass, that the heavy rain was on the earth, forty days and forty nights. 13 On this selfsame day entered Noah, and Shem and Ham and Japheth, Noah's sons, and Noah's wife, and his sons' three wives with them, into the ark: 14 they, and all the wild-beasts after their kind, and all the tame-beasts after their kind, and all the creeping things that creep on the earth, after their kind, and all the birds after their kind, every bird of every wing. 15 So they entered in unto Noah, into the ark, two and two of all flesh, wherein was the spirit of life. 16 And they that entered (male and female of all flesh) entered, as God commanded him, and Yahweh shut him in round about.

10. Increase and Continuance of the Flood.

17 And it came to pass, that the flood was forty days on the earth, and the waters increased, and bare up the ark, and it was lifted high above the earth. 18 And the waters prevailed and increased greatly on the earth, and the ark went its way on the face of the waters. 19 Yet the waters prevailed very greatly on the earth, so that all the high mountains became covered, that were under all the heavens: 20 fifteen cubits upwards prevailed the waters, so that the mountains became covered. 21 And all flesh ceased to breathe that moved on the earth, of birds and of tame-beasts and of wild-beasts, and of all the swarming things that swarm on the earth, and all mankind, in whose nostrils was the breath of the spirit of life, of all that were on the dry ground, died. 22 Thus was wiped out all that existed on the face of the ground, from man unto beast, unto creeping thing, and unto the bird of the heavens, thus were they wiped out from the earth:—so that there was left—only Noah and they that were with him in the ark. 23 Thus prevailed the waters on the earth, a hundred and fifty days.

1 And God remembered Noah, and all the wild-beasts, and all the tame-beasts that were with him in the ark,—and God caused a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters subsided; and the fountains of the roaring-deep were shut, and the windows of the heavens, and the heavy rain was restrained from the heavens; and the waters returned from off the earth, they went on returning,—and so the waters decreased at the end of a hundred and fifty days. 4 And the ark rested, in the seventh 12 So it came to pass <at the end of forty days> that Noah opened the window of the ark that he had made; 7 and sent forth a raven,— and it kept going forth and returning, until the drying up of the waters from off the earth. 8 And he sent forth a dove, to see whether the waters had abated, from off the face of the ground; 9 but the dove found no resting-place for the sole of her foot, so she returned unto him into the ark, for < waters > were on the face of all the earth;* and he put forth his hand, and took her, and brought her in unto him, into the ark. 10 Then stayed he yet' seven days more,— and again sent forth the dove, out of the ark. 11 And the dove came in unto him at eventide, and lo! a newly sprouted olive-leaf in her mouth,—so Noah knew that the waters had abated from off the earth.* 12 And he stayed yet seven days more,— and sent forth the dove, but she returned not again unto him any more.

§12. The End of the Flood.

13 So Noah came forth,— and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives, with thee. 14 And Noah opened the window of the ark that he had made; 15 and sent forth the living creatures that are with thee of all flesh, and all the birds, and all the creeping things that creep on the earth,— bring forth with thee,— and they shall swarm in the earth, and be fruitful and multiply, on the earth. 16 And Noah builded an altar to Yahweh,— and took of all the clean beasts, and of all the clean fowls, and caused ascending sacrifices to go up on the altar. 21 And Yahweh smelled a satisfying odour, so Yahweh said to himself:* I will not again curse any more the ground, for man's sake, although the device of the heart of man be wicked from his youth,— neither will I again, any more, smite every living thing, as I have done. 22 <During all the days of the earth> seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease. 1 So God blessed Noah and his sons,— and said 9 to them, Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth; 2 and let the fear of you and the dread* of you be upon every living creature of the earth, and upon every bird of the heavens,— over everything that moveth along on the ground, and over all the fishes of the sea,— into your hand> have they been given. 3 <As for every moving thing that hath life> < yours shall it be,— for food,— Like the green herb> have I given you | all things|. 4 Yet < flesh with the life> thereof, the blood thereof> shall ye not eat; 5 And surely < your blood, of your lives> will I require, <From the hand of every living creature> will I require it,— and from the hand of man, <From the hand of each one's brother> will I require the life of man: 6 <He that sheddeth man's blood> by man shall his blood be shed,— For <in the image of God> made he man. 7 [Yea] therefore, be fruitful and multiply,— swarm in the earth, and multiply therein. 8 And God spake unto Noah, and unto his sons with him, saying: 9 [I] therefore, behold me! establishing my covenant with you,— and with your seed after you; 10 and with every living soul that is with you, of birds, of tame-beasts, and of all wild-beasts of the earth, that are with you,—of all coming forth out of the ark, even to all wild-beasts of the earth; 11 yes I will establish my covenant with you, so that all flesh shall not be cut off any more, by reason of the waters of a flood,— neither shall there be any more a flood, to destroy the earth. 12 And God said, [This] is the sign of the covenant, which I am granting betwixt me and you, and every living soul that is with you,— to age-abiding generations: 13 <My bow> have I set in the cloud,— and it shall be for a sign of a covenant, betwixt me and the earth; 14 and it shall be <when I draw a veil of cloud over the earth,— and the bow in the cloud appeareth> 15 then will I remember my covenant, which is betwixt me and you, and every living soul, among all flesh,— that the waters may no more become a flood, to destroy all flesh; so the bow shall be in the cloud,— and I will behold it, to remember an age-abiding

And Abram came on his way, according to that which Yahweh had spoken unto him, and Lot came with him, — now Abram was seventy-five years old, when he came forth out of Haran. 5 And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother’s son, with all the goods that they had gathered and the souls that they had gained in Haran, — and they came forth to go towards the land of Canaan, and came in to the land of Canaan. 6 And Abram passed along throughout the land, as far as the place of Shechem, as far as the ‘Teacher’s Terebinth,’ the Canaanite being then in the land.

And Yahweh appeared unto Abram, and said: To thy seed will I give this land,— and he built there, an altar, unto Yahweh who appeared unto him. And he moved on from thence toward the hill country on the east of Bethel, and pitched his tent,— with Bethel on the west, and Ai on the east, and built there an altar to Yahweh, and called on the name of Yahweh. Thus Abram brake up, again and again, toward the South. 8 And it came to pass that there was a famine in the land of Promise. — so Abram went down toward Egypt, to sojourn there, because the famine was the famine in Egypt. And it came to pass when he had come near to enter into Egypt, that he said unto Sarai his wife: Behold! I beseech thee, I know that a woman fair to look on thou art; 9 but will it come to pass when the Egyptians behold thee that they will say His wife this, and will slay me, while thee they preserve alive.

And so it was, when Abram entered into Egypt, the Egyptians behold the woman, that fair was she exceedingly. 11 And the princes of Pharaoh beheld her, and praised her unto Pharaoh, — so the woman was taken to the house of Pharaoh; 12 and with Abram > dealt he well for her sake, — so that he came to have flocks and herds, and he-asses, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and she-asses, and camels.

13 And Yahweh plagued Pharaoh with great plagues, also his house, — for the matter of Sarai, wife of Abram. 14 And Pharaoh called out to Abram, and said: What is this thou hast done to me? Wherefore didst thou not tell me, that she was thy wife? 15 Wherefore saidst thou, <My sister> she; and so I was about to take her to me, to wife? But, now I lo! thy wife, take her and go thy way.

20 And Pharaoh gave command concerning him unto certain men, — and sent him away, with his wife, and all that he had.
So Abram moved his tent, and came in and dwelt among the oaks* of Mamre, which were in Hebron,—and built there an altar to Yahweh.

§ 22. Abram pursues Four Kings: delivers Lot; is blessed by Melchizedek.

And it came to pass, in the days of Amraphel, king of Shinar, Arioch, king of Ellasar,—Chedorlaomer, king of Elam, and Tidal, king of Goim; that they made war with Bera, king of Sodom, and with Birsha, king of Goomorrah,—Shinab, king of Admah, and Shemeber, king of Zeboim,* and the king of Bela,—the same is Zoar. 2 All these joined together in the valley of the open fields: the same is the Salt Sea. 3 Twelve years had they served Chedorlaomer,—but in the thirteenth year they rebelled: 4 and in the fourteenth year had Chedorlaomer come in, and the kings who were with him, so they smote the Rephaim in Ashereth-karnaim, and the Zuzim in Ham,—and the Emim in Shaveh-kiriathaim; 5 and the Horites in their Mount Seir,—as far as El paran, which is by the desert. 6 So they returned and came in unto En-mishpat, the same is Kadesh, and smote all the field of the Amalekites,—and the Amorites also, that dwelt in Hazazon-tamar.

Thus then went forth the King of Sodom and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboim,* and the king of Bela,—the same is Zoar,—and set themselves in array against them for battle, in the valley of the open fields: against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goim, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar,—four kings against five. 10 Now the valley of the open fields, had many pits of bitumen, so the king of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell there,—while they who remained fled. 11 And they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their food, and went their way. 12 And they took Lot, Abram's brother's son, with his goods, and went their way,—the same being a dweller in Sodom.

Then came a fugitive, and told Abram the Hebrew,—he having his dwelling among the oaks of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol and brother of Aner, 14 they also having a covenant* with Abram. 15 So Abram hearing that his brother had been taken captive, drew forth his trained men, born in his house, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued as far as Dan. 16 And he divided himself against them by night, he, and his servants; and smote them,—and pursued them as far as Hobah, which was on the left of Damascus. 17 So he brought back all the goods,—yea Lot also his brother, with his goods did he bring back, and the women also, and the people.

Then came forth the king of Sodom to meet him, after his return from the smiting of Chedorlaomer, and the kings who were with him,—into the vale of Shaveh; the same was the vale of the king. 18 Now Melchizedek, king of Salem,* had brought forth bread and wine,—the being priest of God Most High. 19 So he blessed him, and said,—

Blessed be Abram, of God Most High, possessor of [the] heavens and earth;
And blessed be God Most High, who hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand.

So he gave unto him a tenth of all. Then said the king of Sodom unto Abram,—Give unto me the persons; but <the goods> take thou for thyself.

And Abram said unto the king of Sodom,—I have lifted up my hand unto Yahweh, God Most High, possessor of [the] heavens and earth:
That <not from a thread even unto a sandal-thong>—will I take anything that is thine,—Lest thou shouldst say, ||I enriched Abram!

Save only: what the young men have eaten, and the share of the men who went with me,—Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre, they may take their share.

§ 23. Abram's questioning faith confirmed as to the Seed and the Land.

<After these things> came the word of Yahweh unto Abram, in a vision, saying,—Do not fear, Abram, for I am a shield to thee, thine exceeding great reward.

And Abram said,—My Lord Yahweh, what canst thou give me, when <I> am going on childless,—and the heir of my house is Eliezer, of Damascus,*

And Abram said,—Lo, <to me> hast thou not given seed,—And lo! [a son of my household] is mine heir!

And lo! the word of Yahweh [came] unto him, saying, This one [shall not be thine heir]: But one who cometh forth of thy body—he shall be thine heir.

And he brought him forth abroad, and said—Look steadfastly, I pray thee, towards the heavens, and number the stars, if thou be able to number them; And he said to him, <Thus> shall be thy seed.
8 And he had faith in Yahweh,— so he reckoned it to him, as righteousness. 7 And he said unto him,—

And he said:

My Lord Yahweh, <whereby> can I know, that I shall inherit it?

9 And he said unto him, Take for me a heifer, three years old, and a she-goat three years old, and a ram three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon.

10 So he took for him all these, and divided them in the midst, and placed each piece over against its fellow,— but the birds divided he not. Then came down the birds of prey upon the carcases,—and Abram drove* them away.

11 And it came to pass when the sun was about to go in, and a deep sleep had fallen upon Abram, lo! a terror—a great darkness was falling upon him.

12 And he said to Abram— Thou must surely know that <sojourner> will thy seed become in a land not theirs, and shall serve them, and they will humble them,—four hundred years; moreover also, <the nation whom they will serve> shall I judge, and <after that> shall they come forth with great substance.

13 But thou shalt go in unto thy fathers, in peace,—thou shalt lie buried in a good old age.

14 And in the fourth generation shall they return hither,—for not complete is the iniquity of the Amorites as yet.

15 So it came to pass <when the sun had gone in, and a thick darkness had come on> that lo! there was a smoking hearth and torch of fire, which passed through between these pieces.

"In that day" did Yahweh solemnise with Abram a covenant, saying,— <To thy seed> have I given this land, from the river of Egypt, as far as the great river,—the river Euphrates:

let the Kenite, and the Kenizzite, and the Kadmonite; *° and the Hittite and the Perizzite, and the Kephaim; *° and the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Girgashite, and the Jebusite.

§ 24. Yielding to Sarai, Abram takes Hagar, who bears Ishmael.

16 But Sarai, Abram's wife, had borne him no children,—[she had, however, an Egyptian handmaid, whose name was Hagar.] 2 So then Sarai said unto Abram,

Behold, I pray thee, Yahweh hath restrained me from bearing, go in, I pray thee, unto my handmaid, peradventure I may be built up from her,—

And Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai. 3 So Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar the Egyptian, her handmaid, [at the end of ten years of Abram's dwelling in the land of Canaan, and gave her to Abram her husband, to be to him as a wife. 4 And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived,— and when she saw that she had conceived,—[lightly esteemed] was her lady, in her eyes.

5 Then said Sarai unto Abram:

"My wrong is on thee! I gave my handmaid unto thy bosom, and <when she seeth that she hath conceived> then am I lightly esteemed in her eyes!"

Yahweh judge betwixt me and her.* 6 And Abram said unto Sarai, Lo! thy handmaid is in thy hand, do to her what is good in thine eyes.

And she said:

<From the face of Sarai, my lady> am I fleeing.

9 And the messenger of Yahweh said to her, Return unto thy lady,—and humble thyself under her hands.

10 And the messenger of Yahweh said to her, I will greatly multiply thy seed—so that it shall not be numbered for multitude.

11 And the messenger of Yahweh said to her, Behold thee! with child, and about bearing a son—and thou shalt call his name Ishmael ["God hearkeneth"], for Yahweh hath hearkened unto thy humiliation.

12 But he will be a wild ass of a man, his hand against every one, and every one's hand against him—yet <in presence of all his brethren> shall he have his habitation.

13 And she called the name of Yahweh, who had spoken unto her,

Thou God of vision!

For she said,

Do I <even here> retain my vision after a vision?

14 <On this account> is the well called, The well of the life of vision,—lo! it is between Kadesh and Bered.

So Hagar bare to Abram a son,—and Abram called the name of his son, whom Hagar bare, [Ishmael.] 16 Now Abram was eighty-six years old,—when Hagar bare Ishmael to Abram.
§ 25 The Covenant-Sign of Circumcision. Abram becomes Abraham; and Sarai, Sarah.

17 And it came to pass that when Abram was ninety and nine years old, Yahweh appeared unto Abram, and said unto him, I am God Almighty,—Walk thou before me, and become thou blameless; that I may set my covenant betwixt me and thee, and may multiply thee exceedingly.

And Abram fell on his face,—and God spake with him, saying: As for me lo! my covenant is with thee,—So shalt thou become—father of a multitude of nations; and thy name shall no more be called Abram,—but thy name shall become Abraham,' for father of a multitude of nations have I appointed thee; and I will make thee fruitful exceedingly, and grant thee to be nations,—Yea kings, out of thee shall come forth; and I will confirm my covenant betwixt me and thee, to become to thee a God, and to thy seed after thee; and I will give, to thee and to thy seed after thee, the land of thy sojournings—all the land of Canaan, for an age-abiding possession,—And I will be to them, a God.

And God said unto Abraham, But as for thee! my covenant must thou keep, thou and thy seed after thee; to their generations:—This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, betwixt me and you, and thy seed after thee,—To circumcise to you, every male:

So shall ye be circumcised, in the flesh of your foreskin,—So shall it become a sign of a covenant, betwixt me and you.

And he that is eight days old shall be circumcised to you, every male to your generations,—He must surely be circumcised,-born of thy house, or bought with thy silver,—So shall my covenant be in your flesh, for an age-abiding covenant.

But as for the uncircumcised male who shall not be circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin> that person shall be cut off from among his people,—<my covenant> hath he made void.

And God said unto Abraham, As for Sarai thy wife> thou shalt not call her name, Sarah,—but Sarah is her name; and I will bless her, yea moreover will give from her—to thee, a son,—And I will bless her, and she shall become nations.

Kings of peoples, shall arise:—

And Abraham fell on his face, and laughed,—To one a hundred years old shall a child be born? And shall even Sarah, who is ninety years old, give birth?

And Abraham said unto God,—Oh that Ishmael might live before thee!

And God said—Truly Sarah thy wife is about to bear thee a son; and thou shalt call his name, Isaac,—and I will establish my covenant with him, as an age-abiding covenant, to his seed after him.

Yet <as for Ishmael> I have heard thee; lo! I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and multiply him exceedingly,—<twelve princes> shall he beget, and I will grant him to be a great nation; But <my covenant> will I establish with Isaac,—whom Sarah shall bear to thee, by this set time, in the next year.

And he left off speaking with him,—and God went up from Abraham.

So Abraham took Ishmael his son, and all born of his house, and all bought with his silver—every male among the men of the house of Abraham,—and circumcised the flesh of their foreskin, on this selfsame day, according to that which God had spoken with him. Now Abraham was ninety-nine years old,—when he was circumcised, in the flesh of his foreskin. And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. <On this selfsame day> was Abraham circumcised,—and Ishmael his son; and <all> the men of his house, born of his house, and bought with silver, from the son of a stranger, were circumcised with him.

§ 26. Three Messengers visit Abraham, who is promised a Son, and intercedes for Sodom.

And Yahweh appeared unto him, among the oaks of Mamre,—as he was sitting at the opening of the tent, in the heat of the day. And he lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! three men standing over against him,—so he looked, and ran to meet them from the opening of the tent, and bowed himself to the earth; and said,—

O My Lord! if I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes; do not, I pray thee, pass on from thy servant.

Let there be fetched, I pray thee, a little water, and bathe your feet,—and rest yourselves under the tree.

And let me fetch a morsel of bread, and stay ye your heart, <Afterwards> ye may pass on.

For <on this account> have ye passed by over against your servant. And they said, <Thus> shalt thou do, as thou hast spoken.

So Abraham hastened towards the tent, unto Sarah,—and said,

Hasten thou three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make hearth-cakes.

And <unto the herd> ran Abraham,—and took a calf, tender and good, and gave unto the young man, and he hastened to make it ready.

And he took butter, and milk, and the calf that he had made ready, and set before them,—while he was standing near them under the tree, they did eat.

And they said unto him,

As to Sarah thy wife, ...

And he said,

Lo! she is in the tent.

And he said,

I will surely return unto thee, at the quickening season,—and lo! a son for Sarah thy wife.

Now Sarah was hearkening at the opening of the tent, [it is] being behind him. But Abraham and Sarah were old, far gone in days,—it had ceased to be with Sarah after the manner of women. So then Sarah laughed within herself, saying:

<After I am past age> hath there come to me pleasure, [my lord]; also being old?

And Yahweh said unto Abraham,—Wherefore, now, did Sarah laugh, saying, Can it really and truly be that I should bear, seeing that I have become old?

Is anything too wonderful for Yahweh? <At the appointed time> I will return unto thee, at the quickening season, and Sarah shall have a son.

And Sarah denied, saying, I laughed not.

For she was afraid. And he said—

Nay! but thou didst laugh!

And the men rose up from thence, and looked out over the face of Sodom,—Abraham also going with them, to set them on their way.

Now Yahweh had said,—Am I going to hide from Abraham what I do, when [Abraham] shall surely become a great and mighty nation,—and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him? For I have become his intimate friend.* To the end that he may command his sons and his house after him, so shall they keep the way of Yahweh, by doing righteousness and justice,—To the end that Yahweh may bring in for Abraham, what he hath spoken concerning him.

So Yahweh said,

<The outcry of Sodom and Gomorrah, because it hath become great,—And their sin, because it hath become exceeding grievous> Let me go down, pray, and let me behold, whether <according to their outcry which hath come in unto me> they have done altogether, And if not, I must know!

And the men turned from thence, and went their way, towards Sodom,—but Yahweh was yet standing before Abraham. So then Abraham drew near, and said,— Wilt thou really sweep away, the righteous, with the lawless?

<Peradventure there are fifty righteous, in the midst of the city> Wilt thou really sweep away, and not spare the place, for the sake of the fifty righteous, which are therein?

Far be it from thee! to do after this manner, to put to death the righteous with the lawless; then should righteous and lawless be alike,—

Far be it from thee! Shall [the Judge of all the earth] not do [justice]?—And Yahweh said,

<If I find in Sodom fifty righteous, in the midst of the city>, then will I spare all the place for their sake.

And Abraham responded, and said,—Behold, I pray thee, I have ventured to speak unto My Lord, though [I am dust and ashes];

Peradventure there may lack, of the fifty righteous, [five], Wilt thou destroy for five [all the city]?—And he said—

I will not destroy, if I find there, forty and five.

And he added yet once more to speak unto him, and said, Peradventure there may be found there—forty. And he said—I will not do it, for the sake of the forty.

And he said: Let it not, I pray thee, be vexing to My Lord, but let me speak. Peradventure there may be found there—thirty. And he said, I will not do it, if I find there—thirty.

And he said, Behold, I pray thee, I have ventured to speak unto My Lord, Peradventure there may be found there—twenty. And he said, I will not destroy it, for the sake of the twenty.

And he said, Lot it not, I pray thee, be vexing to My Lord, but let me speak. Peradventure there may be found there—ten. And he said, I will not destroy it, for the sake of the ten!

And Yahweh went his way, when he had made an end of speaking unto Abraham,—Abraham also returned to his place.

§ 27. Lot delivered: Sodom destroyed: the Fate of Lot's Wife: Moab and Ben-ammi born.

19 So the two messengers went in towards Sodom, at eventide, Lot beholding seated in the gate of Sodom,—so Lot beheld, and rose up to meet them, and bowed himself with his face to the earth. And he said, Behold, I pray you, my lords, turn aside, I pray you, into the house of your servant,—and tarry the night, and bathe your feet, so shall ye rise early, and go on your way.

And they said, Nay, but <in the broadway> will we tarry the night. But he became exceeding urgent with them, so they turned aside unto him, and entered into his house,—and he made for them a banquet, <unleavened cakes> also did he bake, and they did eat. <Ere yet they lay down> the men of the city— the men of Sodom had come round against the house, from youth, even unto age,—all the people from every quarter. And they called unto Lot, and said to him,

Where are the men who have come in unto thee, to-night? Bring them forth unto us, and let us know them!

And Lot went forth and spake unto his sons-in-law who were about to take his two daughters, and said, Arise, come forth out of this place, for Yahweh is about to destroy the city. And it came to pass, that he was as one that laughed, in the eyes of his sons-in-law. But as soon as the dawn had sprung up the messengers hastened Lot, saying,—

Aries! take thy wife, and thy two daughters that are at hand, lest thou be swept away in the punishment of the city.

And he lingered—so the men laid hold of his hand, and of the hand of his wife, and of the hand of his two daughters, in the tenderness of Yahweh towards him,—and they brought him out, and led him forth outside the city. And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth outside that they said, Escape for thy life. Look not behind thee, neither stand still in all the vale,—<To the mountain> escape thou, lest thou be swept away.

And Lot said unto them,—No, I pray thee, My Lord!

Behold, I pray thee, thy servant hath found favour in thine eyes, so that thou hast now, bring [them] forth unto you, and do ye [to them] as may be good in your eyes,—

Only to these men> ye may do nothing; for on this account have they come under the shade of my roof.

And they said, Stand back, and they said, This one <by himself> hath come in to sojourn, and must always be acting the judge,—Now will we do more wickedly to thee, than to them. So they pressed sore upon the man—upon Lot—exceedingly, and drew near to break open the door. And the men thrust forth their hand, and brought Lot in unto them, into the house—and <the door> they closed: <the men also who were at the entrance of the house> smote them with blindness, from small even unto great, so that they weared themselves to find the entrance.

And the men said unto Lot, Whom besides hast thou here? <Son-in-law, and thy sons and thy daughters,> and all that thou hast in the city> bring thou forth out of the place;

For we are about to destroy this place,—for [great] is the outcry of them unto the face of Yahweh, so that Yahweh hath sent us to destroy it.

And Lot went forth and spake unto his sons-in-law who were about to take his two daughters, and said, Arise, come forth out of this place, for Yahweh is about to destroy the city. And it came to pass, that he was as one that laughed, in the eyes of his sons-in-law. But as soon as the dawn had sprung up the messengers hastened Lot, saying,—

Aries! take thy wife, and thy two daughters that are at hand, lest thou be swept away in the punishment of the city.

And he lingered—so the men laid hold of his hand, and of the hand of his wife, and of the hand of his two daughters, in the tenderness of Yahweh towards him,—and they brought him out, and led him forth outside the city. And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth outside that they said, Escape for thy life. Look not behind thee, neither stand still in all the vale,—<To the mountain> escape thou, lest thou be swept away.

And Lot said unto them,—No, I pray thee, My Lord!

Behold, I pray thee, thy servant hath found favour in thine eyes, so that thou hast magnified thy lovingkindness which thou hast performed with me, in keeping alive my soul.

But I cannot escape to the mountain, lest calamity overtake me, so shall I die.

Behold, I pray thee, [this city] is near, for fleeing thither.

And it is a little one,—let me, I pray thee, escape thither—is it not a little one?

That my soul may live!

And he said unto him,

Behold! I have lifted up thy countenance,* even as to this thing,—so that I will not overthrow the city, of which thou hast spoken.

Haste thee, escape thither, for I cannot do anything, until thou have come in thither.\[For this cause\] was the name of the city called Zoor;

When the sun had come forth on the earth || Lot had entered into Zoor.

And Yahweh rained, upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah, brimstone and fire,— from Yahweh, out of the heavens: so he overthrew these cities, and all the circuit,—and all the inhabitants of the cities, and the produce of the ground.\[But his wife looked from behind him,—and became—a pillar of salt.\]

And Abraham gat up early in the morning,— and called his name Moab,— || the same - is the father of Moab unto this day.

And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi,— || the same - is the father of the sons of Ammon—unto this day.

§ 28. Abraham and Abimelech in Gerar

1 And Abraham brake up from thence, towards the land of the South,* and fixed his dwelling between Kadesh and Shur,—so he sojourner in Gerar. And Abraham said of Sarah his wife:

My \[<sister>\] is she. So Abimelech king of Gerar sent, and took Sarah.

2 Then God went in unto Abimelech, in a dream of the night,—and said to him. Behold thee—dead! because of the woman whom thou hast taken, seeing that \[<she>\] is a married woman.

4 Now ||Abimelech\] had not come near unto her,—so he said.

O My Lord!* a nation—even a righteous one> wilt thou slay?

5 Had not ||he himself\] said to me, \(<My \text{ sister}>\) is she? and \[<even she herself>\] said, \(<My \text{ brother}>\) is he?

<In the integrity of my heart and in the pureness of my hand> have I done this!

6 And God said unto him in a dream.

I also knew, that <in the integrity of thy heart> thou didst this, so then \[<even I myself>\] withheld thee from sinning against me,—<for this reason> have I not suffered thee to touch her.

7 \[<In the way of all the earth>\] therefore, restore the man's wife, for \[\] is he, that he may pray for thee, and live thou,—

But \(<\text{if thou art not going to restore her}>\) know, that thou shalt die, || thou—and all that are thine.*

8 So Abimelech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and spoke all these words in their ears,—and the men feared greatly.

9 Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said to him.

What hast thou done to us? and wherein had I sinned against thee, that thou shouldest have brought in over me and over my kingdom, a sin so great?

9 Or: "accepted thee."
10 = "smallness."

* E.O.T. on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger,

Lo! I lay, last night, with my father,—let us cause him to drink wine [this night also], and go thou in—lie with him, that we may keep alive <from our father> a seed.

So they caused their father [on that night also] to drink wine,—and the younger arose, and lay with him, but he noticed not her lying down, nor her rising up. — This did ||the two daughters of Lot conceive' from their father.

And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name Moab,— ||the same - is the father of Moab, unto this day.

And \[<the younger>—she also\] bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi,— || the same - is the father of the sons of Ammon—unto this day.
And Abimelech said unto Abraham,— What hast thou done, that thou shouldst have done this thing?
And Abraham said,
Because I thought, surely there is no fear of God, in this place, therefore will they slay me for the sake of my wife. Moreover also <in truth> <my sister, daughter of my father> she is, only not daughter of my mother,—so she became my wife.
And so it came to pass <when the Gods> caused me to wander from my father's house> that I said to her,
"This is thy lovingkindness, wherewith thou shalt deal with me, — <into whatever place we enter> say of me,
"My brother" is he.
Then took Abimelech sheep and oxen, and menservants and maidservants, and gave to Abraham,—and restored to him Sarah his wife. And Abimelech said,
"Lo! my land is before thee,— wherever it may seem good in thine eyes", dwell.
And <to Sarah> he said,
"Lo! I have given a thousand of silver unto thy brother: Lo! that is for thee, as a covering of eyes," to all who are with thee,— And so <in every way> hath right been done.
And Abraham prayed unto God,— and God healed Abimelech and his wife, and his maid servants, so that they bare children. For Yahweh had restrained from bearing every female of the house of Abimelech,—because of Sarah, wife of Abraham.

§29. Isaac is born; and Hagar and Ishmael are dismissed.

Now ||Yahweh|| visited Sarah, as he had said,— And Yahweh did' for Sarah, as he had spoken.
So |Sarah| conceived and bare |to Abraham| a son, for his old age,—at the set time, of which God had spoken with him. And Abraham called the name of his son that was born to him,|whom |Sarah| bare
<to him ||Isaac||. And Abraham circumcised Isaac his son, when eight days old,—as God' commanded him. 5

Abraham was a hundred years old,—when Isaac his son was born to him. 6 And Sarah said,
"<A laughing> hath God made for me,— Everyone that heareth will laugh with me!"
And she said—
Who would have announced to Abraham,
Sarah hath suckled children? — yet have
I borne a son, for his old age!
And the child grew, and was weaned,—and Abraham made a great banquet, on the day of the weaning of Isaac. 9 And Sarah saw the son of Hagar the Egyptian woman, whom she had borne to Abraham, [laughing]! 10
So she said to Abraham, Cast out this bondwoman and her son,—for the son of this bondwoman must not inherit with my son ||with Isaac||.
And the word was very grievous in the eyes of Abraham,—on account of his son. 12 And God said unto Abraham,
Let it not be grievous in thine eyes concerning the boy and concerning thy bondwoman, <In all that Sarah may say unto thee> hearken to her voice,— For <in Isaac> shall there be called to thee—a seed.
Yet <even the son of the bondwoman> will I appoint to become ||anation||, because <thy seed> he is'.
So Abraham rose up early in the morning—and took bread and a skin of water, and gave unto Hagar,—putting them on her shoulder, and the child, and sent her forth,—so she went her way and wandered, in the desert of Beer-sheba.
And the water out of the skin was spent,—so she cast the child under one of the shrubs; and went and sat down over against him, at a distance like as of such as draw the bow, for she said,
Let me not look upon the death of the child,—
So she sat down over against him, and the boy lifted up his voice, and wept.' 17 And God heard the voice of the boy, and a messenger of God called unto Hagar out of the heavens, and said to her,
What aileth thee, Hagar?
Do not fear, for God hath hearkened unto the voice of the boy ||where he is||.
Arise, lift up the boy, and hold him up with thy hand,—for ||a great nation|| will I make him.
And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water,—and went and filled the skin with water, and gave drink unto the boy. 20 And it came to pass, that § 30. Abimelech obtains a Covenant with Abraham.

2 And it came to pass after these things, that Abimelech, with Phichol chief of his host, spake unto Abraham, saying, —

2 "God is with thee in all that thou art doing.

2 Now therefore, swear to me by God, here, that thou wilt not deal falsely by me, nor by my lord, nor by my descendants, —

2 according to the kindness wherewith I have dealt with thee shalt thou deal with me, and with the land wherein thou hast sojourned.

3 And Abraham said,

3 "I will swear.

3 But Abraham reproved Abimelech, — on account of the well of water, which the servants of Abimelech had seized. And Abimelech said, 3 "I know not, who hath done this thing, nor have I ever heard, save to-day.

3 And Abraham took sheep and oxen, and gave to Abimelech, — and they two solemnised a covenant. So then Abraham set seven young sheep of the flock, by themselves. And Abimelech said unto Abraham, —

3 "What then, mean these seven young sheep [here], which thou hast set by themselves?

3 And he said,

3 "The seven young sheep shalt thou take at my hand, — that they may serve as my witness, that I digged this well.

3 On this account was the name of that place called Beer-sheba [= oath well], — because there had they two sworn.

3 And when they had solemnised a covenant in Beer-sheba, — then arose Abimelech, with Phichol chief of his host, and returned unto the land of the Philistines. Then planted he a tamarisk tree in Beer-sheba, — and called there on the name of Yahweh, the age-abiding God.

§ 31. The Offering up of Isaac in the Land of Moriah.

1 And it came to pass after these things, that "God did prove Abraham, — and he said unto him,

1 "Abraham! And he said, "Behold me! And he said —

1 "Take, I pray thee, thy son, thine only one, whom thou lovest, even Isaac, — and get thee into the land of Moriah, — and cause him to ascend there, as an ascending-sacrifice, on one of the mountains, which I shall name unto thee.

1 So Abraham rose early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took two young men with him, and Isaac his son, — and clave the pieces of wood for an ascending-sacrifice, and mounted and went his way unto the place which God had named to him.

1 It was the third day, that Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw the place, afar off. And Abimelech said unto his young men —

1 "Tarry by yourselves here, with the ass, but I and the young men must go yonder, — that we may bow ourselves down, and return unto you.

1 So Abraham took the pieces of wood for the ascending-sacrifice, and laid them on Isaac his son, and took in his own hand, the fire and the knife, — and they went on their way [both of them, together].

1 Then said Isaac unto Abraham his father, — then said he:

1 "My father!

1 And he said, "Behold me, my son, — And he said,

1 "Behold — the fire, and the pieces of wood, — but where is the lamb, for an ascending-sacrifice?

1 Then they went on their way [both of them, together],

1 And they came into the place which God had named to him, and Abraham built there the altar, and laid in order the pieces of wood, — and bound Isaac his son, and put the fire and the knife in his hand, and said, —

1 "My son, Isaac, — Behold, the fire, and the pieces of wood, — but where is the lamb, for an ascending-sacrifice?

1 Then called out unto him the messenger of Yahweh, out of the heavens, and said, —

1 "Abraham, Abraham!

1 And he said, "Behold me!

1 Then he said,

1 "Do not put forth thy hand, unto the young man, — neither do to him anything at all, — for I know I that one who reverest God, thou art, when thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only one, from me.

1 And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! a ram, behind him, — caught in a thicket by his horns, — and Abraham went, and took the ram, and caused him to ascend as an ascending-sacrifice, instead of his son.

1 So Abraham called the name of that place,
Yahweh-yireh,—as to which it is still said to-day,
"In the mountain of Yahweh" will provision be made.
Then called out the messenger of Yahweh unto Abraham,—a second time, out of the heavens;
and said,
"By myself have I sworn is the oracle of Yahweh—"<Because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only one>
That I will richly bless thee, and abundantly multiply thee, as the stars of the heavens, and as the sand which is on the lip of the sea,—that thy seed may take possession of the gate of his foes:
So shall all the nations of the earth bless themselves in thy seed,—I will richly bless thee, and abundantly multiply thy seed, as the star of the heavens, and as the sand which is on the lip of the sea,—that thy seed may take possession of the gate of his foes:
So Abraham returned unto his young men, and they mounted, and went on their way together unto Beer-sheba,—and Abraham dwelt in Beer-sheba.

And Bethuel hath begotten Rebechah,—<These eight> hath Milcah born to Nahor, brother of Abraham.

The Death of Sarah, and her Burial in Machpelah.
And the life of Sarah came to be, a hundred and twenty-seven years,—"the years of the life of Sarah:" And Sarah died in Kiriath-arba, the same is Hebron, in the land of Canaan,—and Abraham went in to wait for Sarah, and to weep for her.
And Abraham rose up from over the face of his dead,—and spake unto the sons of Heth, saying;
"Give me a possession of a buryingplace with you,
That I may bury my dead, from before me.
And the sons of Heth answered Abraham, saying to him:

"If it is with the consent of your minds, that I should bury my dead from before me>
Heare me, and intercede for me, with Ephron son of Zohar:
That he would give me, the cave of Machpelah, which pertaineth unto him, which is within the bounds of his field,—
"For full silver" let him give it me, in your midst.
For a possession of a buryingplace.
Now Ephron was sitting in the midst of the sons of Heth,—so Ephron the Hittite responded to Abraham, in the ears of the sons of Heth, even all that were entering the gate of his city, saying:
Nay, my lord, hear me,
"The field" have I given to thee,
And the cave which is therein: to thee have I given it,—
"In the eyes of the sons of my people" have I given it thee.
Bury thy dead.
So Abraham bowed himself down, before the people of the land: and spake unto Ephron, in the ears of the people of the land, saying,
"Only if thou wilt hear me,—I have given the silver of the field.
Take it of me, That I may bury my dead here.
And Ephron responded to Abraham, saying to him,
"A prince of God" art thou in our midst,
"In the choice of our buryingplaces" bury thy dead,—Not a man from among us will withhold from thee, from burying thy dead.
And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron, and Abraham weighed out to Ephron the silver of which he had spoken in the ears of the sons of Heth,—four hundred shekels of silver, current with the merchant.
So was confirmed the field of Ephron, which is in Machpelah, which is before Mamre,—the field, and the cave which is therein, and all the timber which was in the field, which was in all the boundary thereof round about to Abraham as a purchase, in the eyes of the sons of Heth,—with all who were entering the gate of his city.
And after this did Abraham bury Sarah his wife, within the cave of the field of Machpelah, over against Mamre, the same is Hebron,—in the land of Canaan. So was confirmed the field, with the cave which was therein, to Abraham, for a possession of a buryingplace,—from the sons of Heth.

Abraham, sending his servant into Mesopotamia, obtains Rebekah, Nahor’s granddaughter, as wife for Isaac.

And the servant said unto him,
Peradventure' the woman may not be willing to follow me into this land,—
May I [take back] thy son, into the land from whence thou camest?
And Abram said unto him,— Beware, that thou do not take back my son thither!
So the servant placed his hand, under the thigh of Abraham, his lord,— and sware to him, over this thing.
Then took the servant ten camels, from among the camels of his lord, and went his way,—[all the goods of his master] being in his hand,—so he mounted, and went his way unto Mesopotamia, unto the city of Nahor.
And he made the camels kneel down outside the city, against the well of water,— at the time of evening, at the time of the coming forth of the women that went out to draw water.
And the young woman ran, and told the young man, and the servants of the family, and said,
Drink, and let them drink water:
And she said,
Drink, my lord,—
And she fastened, and lowered her pitcher on her hand, and let him drink.
And when she had done giving him drink,— she said,
For thy camels also will I draw, until they have done drinking.
So she fastened, and emptied her pitcher into the drinking-trough, and ran again unto the well, to draw,— and she drew for all his camels.
Now [the man] was eagerly watching her,— keeping silence, to see—whether Yahweh had prospered his way, or not.
And it came to pass [when the camels had done drinking]— that the man took a ring* of gold, half a shekel its weight,— and two bracelets, for her hands, ten of gold their weight; and said, Whose daughter art thou? I pray thee, tell me. Is there in the house of thy father, a place for us to tarry the night?
And she said unto him,
Daughter of Bethuel am I,—[Bethuel] son of Milcah, whom she bare to Nahor.
And she said unto him,
Both straw and fodder in plenty have we,— also a place, to tarry the night.
Then the man bowed his head, and bent himself down unto Yahweh; and said, Blessed be Yahweh, God of my lord Abra ham, who hath not withdrawn his loving kindness and his faithfulness, from my lord,—
—I—being in the way>, Yahweh led me unto the house of the brethren of my lord!
And the young woman ran, and told the household of her mother,—according to these words. Now [Rebekah] had a brother, [whose name] was Laban,—so Laban ran unto the man, outside, unto the fountain.
And it came to pass, [when he saw the ring,] and the bracelets on the hands of his sister, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister saying,
'Thus did the man speak unto me'> that he came unto the man, and lo! he was standing by the camels, near the fountain; and he said,
Come in, thou blessed of Yahweh,— Wherefore shouldst thou stand outside, when [I] have made ready the house, and a place for the camels?

But he said, I cannot eat, until I have spoken my words. And he said—

Speak!

Then said he, —

Servant of Abraham am I.

Now having blessed my lord exceedingly, and made him great,— and given him flocks and herds, and silver and gold, and men-servants and maidservants, and camels, and asses then did Sarah, wife of my lord, bear a son to my lord, after she had become old,— so he gave to him all that he had;

and my lord put me on oath, saying,— Thou shalt not take a wife for my son, of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I am dwelling; but unto the house of my father shalt thou go, and unto my family,— and take a wife for my son.

So I said unto my lord,—

Peradventure the woman will not follow me.

And he said unto me,—

Yahweh, before whom I have walked to and fro, will send his messenger with thee, so shall he prosper thy way, and thou shalt take a wife for my son out of my kindred, and out of the house of my father.

Then shalt thou clear thyself from mine oath, for thou shalt go in unto my kindred,— and if they will not grant her unto thee then shalt thou be clear from mine oath.

So I came in to-day, unto the fountain,— and I said, O Yahweh, God of my lord Abraham! if I pray thee, thou art prospering my way wherein I am going here am I stationed by the fountain of water,— so then it shall come to pass that the maiden that is coming forth to draw, and I shall say unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee, a little water out of thy pitcher; and she shall say unto me, Both thou and drink, and for thy camels also will I draw; the same shall be the woman whom Yahweh hath appointed for the son of my lord.

But I said unto mine heart, Lo! then Rebekah coming forth with her pitcher on her shoulder, and she went down to the fountain, and drew,— and I said unto her,

Let me drink, I pray thee!

So she hasted, and lowered her pitcher from off her, and said, Drink! and she drank, and to thy camels also will I give to drink,—

So I drank, and to the camels also she let drink.

Then I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? And she said, Daughter of Bethuel, son of Nahor, whom Milcah bare to him,— Then put I the ring upon her nose, and the bracelets upon her hands; and bowed my head and bent myself down, unto Yahweh,— and I blessed Yahweh, God of my lord Abraham, who had led me, in a way of faithfulness, to take the daughter of the brother of my lord, for his son.

Now therefore if ye are dealing in loving-kindness and faithfulness with my lord, tell me,— and if not, tell me, that I may turn unto the right hand, or unto the left.

Then an-nered Laban and Bethuel, and said, From Yahweh hath come forth the word,— we cannot speak unto thee, ill or well.

Lo! Rebekah is before thee. Take [her] and go thy way,— and let her become wife unto the son of thy lord, as Yahweh hath spoken.

And it came to pass, when Abraham's servant heard their words, that he bowed himself down towards the earth unto Yahweh.

Then the servant brought forth jewels of silver and jewels of gold, and raiment, and precious things gave he to her brother, and to her mother.

And they did eat and drink, he, and the men who were with him, and they tarried the night,— and when they arose in the morning, he said, Let me go unto my lord!

Then said her brother and her mother, Let the young woman remain with us some days, or rather ten,— after that she shall go.

And he said unto them, Do not hinder me, when Yahweh hath prospered my journey,— Let me go, that I may take my journey unto my lord!

Then said they, We must call the young woman, and ask at her mouth.

So they called Rebekah, and said unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I will go.

So they let go Rebekah their sister, and her Abraham marries Keturah. by whom he has Sons; his Death and Burial: the Prosperity of Isaac.

25 And Abraham took another wife, and her name was Keturah: 2 and she bare to him Zimran, and Yokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Ishbak, and Shuah. 3 And Yokshan begat Sheba and Dedan; and the sons of Dedan were Aftshurim and Letushim, and Leummim. 4 And the sons of Midian were Ephah and Epher, and Hanoch, and Abida, and Eldaah:—all these were the sons of Keturah. 5 And Abraham gave all that he had to Isaac; but to the sons of the concubines whom Abraham had—Abraham gave gifts—and then sent them away from Isaac his son, while he himself yet lived, eastward, unto the land of the east. 6 Now these are the days of the years of the life of Abraham, which he lived, a hundred and thirty-seven years. 7 And Isaac made entreaty unto Yahweh, in behalf of his wife, for she was barren;—and Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 8 And it came to pass, that Isaac was forty years old, when he took Rebekah, daughter of Bethuel the Syrian, to himself to wife. 9 So then Isaac made entreaty unto Yahweh, in behalf of his wife, for she was barren;—and Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 10 And the servant said—If so, wherefore now am I thus? And she went to seek Yahweh. 11 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 12 but the elder shall serve the younger. 13 And she went to seek Yahweh. 14 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 15 And the servant said—If so, wherefore now am I thus? And she went to seek Yahweh. 16 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 17 but the elder shall serve the younger. 18 And she went to seek Yahweh. 19 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 20 And the servant said—If so, wherefore now am I thus? And she went to seek Yahweh. 21 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 22 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 23 but the elder shall serve the younger. 24 And she went to seek Yahweh. 25 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 26 And the servant said—If so, wherefore now am I thus? And she went to seek Yahweh. 27 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 28 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 29 but the elder shall serve the younger. 30 And she went to seek Yahweh. 31 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 32 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 33 but the elder shall serve the younger. 34 And she went to seek Yahweh. 35 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 36 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 37 but the elder shall serve the younger. 38 And she went to seek Yahweh. 39 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 40 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 41 but the elder shall serve the younger. 42 And she went to seek Yahweh. 43 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 44 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 45 but the elder shall serve the younger. 46 And she went to seek Yahweh. 47 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 48 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 49 but the elder shall serve the younger. 50 And she went to seek Yahweh. 51 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 52 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 53 but the elder shall serve the younger. 54 And she went to seek Yahweh. 55 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 56 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 57 but the elder shall serve the younger. 58 And she went to seek Yahweh. 59 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 60 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 61 but the elder shall serve the younger. 62 And she went to seek Yahweh. 63 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 64 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 65 but the elder shall serve the younger. 66 And she went to seek Yahweh. 67 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 68 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 69 but the elder shall serve the younger. 70 And she went to seek Yahweh. 71 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 72 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 73 but the elder shall serve the younger. 74 And she went to seek Yahweh. 75 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 76 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 77 but the elder shall serve the younger. 78 And she went to seek Yahweh. 79 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 80 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 81 but the elder shall serve the younger. 82 And she went to seek Yahweh. 83 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 84 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 85 but the elder shall serve the younger. 86 And she went to seek Yahweh. 87 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 88 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 89 but the elder shall serve the younger. 90 And she went to seek Yahweh. 91 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 92 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 93 but the elder shall serve the younger. 94 And she went to seek Yahweh. 95 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 96 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 97 but the elder shall serve the younger. 98 And she went to seek Yahweh. 99 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 100 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 101 but the elder shall serve the younger. 102 And she went to seek Yahweh. 103 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 104 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 105 but the elder shall serve the younger. 106 And she went to seek Yahweh. 107 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 108 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 109 but the elder shall serve the younger. 110 And she went to seek Yahweh. 111 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 112 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 121 but the elder shall serve the younger. 122 And she went to seek Yahweh. 123 And Yahweh suffered himself to lie entreated by him, and Rebekah his wife conceived. 124 Then were fulfilled her days to bring forth, and she bare two sons unto Isaac; 125 but the elder shall serve the younger. 126 And she went to seek Yahweh.
And <when the youths grew up> it came to pass that [Esau] was a man skilled in game, a man of the field,—but [Jacob] was a ready man, dwelling in tents. And [Isaac] loved [Esau], because of the game [he put] in his mouth,— but [Rebekah] was a lover of [Jacob]. And Jacob had boiled potage,—when Esau came in from the field, being famished. So Esau said unto Jacob, Do let me devour some of the red—this red, for I am famished. For this cause, was his name called Edom. And Jacob said, Come sell, just now thy birthright, unto me. And Esau said, Here am I, on the point of dying,—wherefore, then, should I have thy birthright?

Then said Abimelech, What is this thou hast done to us? A little more and one of the people might have lien with thy wife, so shouldst thou have brought upon us guilt.

And Abimelech commanded all the people, saying,—He that toucheth this man or his wife, shall surely be put to death. And Isaac sowed in that land, and found, in the same year, a hundredfold,—seeing that Yahweh had blessed him. So the man waxed great,—and went on and on waxing great, until he had waxed exceeding great. So he came to have possessions of flocks, and possessions of herds, and a large body of servants,—and the Philistines envied him. And [as for all the wells, which the servants of his father dugged, in the days of Abraham his father] the Philistines stopped them up, and filled them with dust. And Abimelech said unto Isaac,—Get thee from us, for thou hast become far mightier than we.

So Isaac went from thence,—and encamped in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Isaac again digged the wells of water which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father, and which the Philistines stopped up after the death of Abraham,—and he called their names, after the names which his father called them. And Isaac’s servants digged in the valley,—and found, there, a well of living water. And he moved on from thence, and digged another well, and they disputed not for it,—so he called the name thereof, Kehoboth, For if now hath Yahweh made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land.

And he went up from thence, to Beer-sheba. And Yahweh appeared unto him the same night, and said, I am the God of Abraham thy father,—Do not fear, for with thee am I. And it came to pass <when the days had lengthened out to him there>, that Abimelech, king of the Philistines, looked out through the lattice of a window,—and he beheld, and lo! Isaac—laughing* with Rebekah his wife. So Abimelech called for Isaac, and said, But lo! she is thy wife! How, then, saidst thou, She is my sister? And Isaac said unto him, Because I said, Least I die on her account.

Then said Abimelech, What is this thou hast done to us? A little more and one of the people might have lien with thy wife, so shouldst thou have brought upon us guilt.

And Abimelech commanded all the people, saying,—He that toucheth this man or his wife, shall surely be put to death. And Isaac sowed in that land, and found, in the same year, a hundredfold,—seeing that Yahweh had blessed him. So the man waxed great,—and went on and on waxing great, until he had waxed exceeding great. So he came to have possessions of flocks, and possessions of herds, and a large body of servants,—and the Philistines envied him. And [as for all the wells, which the servants of his father dugged, in the days of Abraham his father] the Philistines stopped them up, and filled them with dust. And Abimelech said unto Isaac,—Get thee from us, for thou hast become far mightier than we.
And I will bless thee, and multiply thy seed, for the sake of Abraham my servant.

25 So he built there an altar, and called on the name of Yahweh, and spread out there, his tent, and the servants of Isaac cut out there, a well.

26 And Abimelech came unto him from Gerar, with Ahuzzath his friend, and Phicol, commander of his host. And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore have ye come in unto me, — seeing that ye hated me, and sent me away from you?

27 And they said, We saw plainly that Yahweh was with thee, so we said, Let there be, we pray thee, an oath betwixt us both, betwixt us and thee, and let us solemnise a covenant with thee:

28 That thou wilt not do wrong by us, according as we touched not thee, and according as we did by thee nothing but good, and then sent thee away in peace, who knowest art blessed of Yahweh!

29 So he made for them a banquet, and they did eat and drink,— 30 and rose up early in the morning, and took an oath, each man to his brother; so Isaac let them go, and they departed from him, in peace.

31 And it came to pass, on the same day, that the servants of Isaac came in, and told him concerning the well, which they had digged, — and said to him, We have found water!

32 So he called it Shibali. For this cause hath the name of the city been Beer-sheba, unto this day.

33 And when Esau was forty years old, he took to wife Judith, daughter of Beeri, the Hittite; and Basemath, daughter of Elon, the Hittite; and they became a bitterness of spirit, — to Isaac and to Rebekah.

§ 39. Jacob, at Rebekah's Instigation, defrauds Esau of the Birthright Blessing, leaving only an Inferior Blessing for his Elder Brother.

1 And it came to pass that Isaac was old, and his eyes became too dim to see, so he called Esau his elder son, and said unto him—

My son!

3 And he said, Behold, I pray thee, I am old, — I know not the day of my death.

4 Therefore, take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver and thy bow, and go out to the field, and catch for me game; and make for me dainty meats, such as I love, and bring in to me, that I may eat,— To the end my soul may bless thee, ere yet I die!

5 Now Rebekah was hearkening, when Isaac — a "Seven"—Davies: "swear," cp. chap. xxi. E.L. [Seven sacrifices, 31; seven witnesses; hence 57] spake unto Esau his son,—and Esau went his way to the field, to catch game, to bring in. — Rebekah therefore, spake unto Jacob her son, saying,— Lo! I heard thy father, speaking unto Esau thy brother, saying:

7 Bring in for me game, and make for me dainty meats, that I may eat; and let me bless thee in the presence of Yahweh, before my death.

8 Therefore, my son, hearken unto my voice,—in that which I am commanding thee:

9 Go, I pray thee, unto the flock, and fetch me from thence, two kids of the goats, fine ones,—that I may make of them dainty meats for thy father, such as he loveth;

10 Then shalt thou take them in unto thy father, and he shall eat,— To the end he may bless thee, before his death.

11 And Jacob said unto Rebekah his mother,— Lo! Esau my brother is a hairy man, whereas I am a smooth man: perchance my father might feel me, then should I be in his eyes, as one that mocketh,—and should bring upon myself a reproach, and not a blessing!

12 And his mother said to him, Upon me be thy reproach, my son,— only hearken unto my voice, and go fetch [them] for me.

13 So he went, and fetched [them], and brought them in to his mother,—and his mother made dainty meats, such as he father loved. Then took Rebekah the garments of Esau her elder son, the costly ones, which were with her, in the house,—and put them on Jacob, her younger son; and the <skins of the kids of the goats> put she upon his hands,— and on the smooth part of his neck; then placed she the dainty meats and the bread, which she had made ready,—in the hand of Jacob her son.

14 So he went in unto his father, and said— My father!

And he said, Behold me! who' art thou, my son?

19 And Jacob said unto his father, I am Esau thy firstborn, I have made ready, as thou didst bid me.

Rise, I pray thee, sit up, and eat thou of my game,

To the end thy soul may bless me.

20 Then said Isaac unto his son, How is it thou hast been so quick in finding, my son?

And he said, Because Yahweh thy God caused it so to fall out before me.

21 Then said Isaac unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my son,—whether thou thyself art my son Esau, or not.
So Jacob came near unto Isaac his father, and he felt him; then said he, The voice is the voice of Jacob; but the hands are the hands of Esau.

So he did not find him out, because his hands were hairy, — so he blessed him. And he said, Thou thyself art my son Esau? And he said, I am! So he said, Bring it near to me, that I may eat of the game of my son, To the end my soul may bless thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat, and he brought in to him wine, and he drank. Then Isaac his father said unto him, Come thou near, I pray thee, and kiss me, my son. So he came near, and kissed him, and he smelled the smell of his garments, and blessed him, — and said, See! the smell of my son, As the smell of a field, which Yahweh hath blessed; Then, may God give thee of the dew of the heaven, And of the fatness of the earth, — And abundance of corn, and new wine: Let peoples serve thee, And races bow down to thee, Become thou lord to thy brethren, And let the sons of thy mother bow down to thee, — He that curseth thee be accursed! And he that blesseth thee be blessed! And it came to pass <as soon as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob> — yea it came to pass <when Jacob had only just gone forth> from the presence of Isaac his father> that Esau his brother came in from his hunting. Then he too made dainty meats, and brought in to his father, — and said to his father, Let my father rise, that he may eat of the game of his son, To the end thy soul may bless me! And Isaac his father said to him, Who? art thou? And he said, I am thy son, thy firstborn, Esau.

When Esau heard the words of his father> then cried he out with an outcry loud and bitter, exceedingly, — and said to his father, Bless me also, O my father! Then he said, Thy brother came in, with deceit, — and took away thy blessing.

And he said, Is it because his name is called Jacob> that he hath tricked me, now twice? <My birthright> he took away, And lo! now! he hath taken away my blessing! And he said, Hast thou not reserved, for me, a blessing? Then answered Isaac, and said to Esau,— Lo!  have I appointed him unto thee, And <all his brethren> have I given to him as servants, And <with corn and new wine> have I sustained him, — And <for thee—now> what can I do, my son?

And Esau said unto his father, But one blessing hast thou, O my father! Bless me also, O my father! And Esau lifted up his voice, and wept. Then answered Isaac his father, and said unto him,— Lo! <of the fat parts of the earth> shall be thy dwelling, And of the dew of the heavens, above; And <on thy sword> shalt thou live, And <thy brother> shalt thou serve: But it shall come to pass <when thou shalt rove at large> Then shalt thou break his yoke from off thy neck. And Esau lay in wait 'for Jacob, on account of the blessing wherewith his father had blessed him, — and Esau said in his heart, The days of mourning for my father draw near, when I can slay Jacob my brother. Then were told to Rebekah, the words of Esau, her elder son, — so she sent and called for Jacob, her younger son, and said unto him— Lo! Esau thy brother; is consulting himself as touching thee, to slay thee. Now therefore, my son, hearken to my voice,— and rise, flee thou to Laban my brother, to Haran; And thou shalt dwell with him a few days,— until that the wrath of thy brother turn away: until the turning away of the anger of thy brother from thee, — and he forget what thou hast done to him, and I send and fetch thee from thence. Wherefore should I lose you both in one day? So then Rebekah said unto Isaac, I am disgusted with my life, because of the daughters of Heth, — Should Jacob be taking a wife of the daughters of Heth, like these, of the daughters of the land> wherefore' could I wish for life?

Heel-oateh*r. Or: "overreached" — O.G. Or: "away from." Ml: "flee in thine own interest." Ml: "Wherefore— to me — life?" Ml: "What good would my life be to me?"
Then Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him,— and commanded him, and said to him, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan.

Rise, go thy way to Padan-aram to the house of Bethuel, thy mother’s father,— and take thee from thence a wife, of the daughters of Laban, thy mother’s brother.

And “God Almighty” bless thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee,—so shalt thou become a multitude of peoples.

And may he give thee the blessing of Abraham, (to thee, and to thy seed with thee),— that thou mayest possess the land of thy sojournings, which God gave to Abraham.

So Isaac sent away Jacob, and he took his journey to Padan-aram,—unto Laban son of Bethuel, the Syrian, brother of Rebekah, mother of Jacob and Esau.

And Esau beheld that Isaac when he blessed Jacob, and sent him to Padan-aram,a to take himself from thence, (a wife) to himself to wife, in addition to the wives that he had.

And that Jacob hearkened unto his father, and unto his mother,—and took his journey to Padan-aram. So then Esau beheld that Isaac when he blessed Jacob, and sent him to Padan-aram, to take himself from thence, a wife> to himself to wife, (in addition to the wives that he had).

And this stone which I have put for a pillow, and put it for a pillar,—and poured out oil upon the top thereof; and called the name of that place—Beth-el, —[nevertheless] [Luz] was the name of the city, aforeso time.

Then will Yahweh prove to be my’ God,— And (this stone which I have put for a pillar) shall be the house of God,— And (of all which thou shalt give me) a tenth, I will tithe unto thee.

Then Jacob lifted up his feet,—and went his 20 way towards the land of the sons of the East. And he looked, and lo! [a well] in the field, and lo! [there] three flocks of sheep, lying down near it, for [out of that well] do they water the flocks,—but [the stone] is great, on the mouth of the well; so they gather together thither all the flocks, and roll away the stone from off the mouth of the well, and water the sheep,—and put back the stone upon the mouth of the well, to its place.

And Jacob said to them, My brethren, whence are ye? And they said, <From Haran> are we'. And he said to them, Know ye Laban, son of Nahor? And they said, We know [him].

And he said to them, Is it well with him? And they said, Well, but lo! [Rachel his daughter] coming in with the sheep.

And he said— Lo! the day is yet high, it is not time for gathering together the cattle,—water the sheep, and go feed.

And they said, We cannot, until that all the flocks are gathered together, and they roll away the § 42. There are born to Jacob eleven Sons and a Daughter.

31 And when Yahweh saw that Leah was hated, he granted her to be childbearing, — whereas Rachel was barren. So Leah conceived, and bare a son, and called his name, Reuben. — for she said, Because Yahweh hath looked upon my humiliation, For now! will my husband love me.

32 And she conceived again, and bare a son, and said, Because Yahweh heard that I was hated, he gave me this one also. So she called his name Simeon. — And she conceived again, and bare a son, and said, This time! will my husband be bound unto me, For I have borne him three sons, 33 And when Yahweh saw that Leah was hated, he granted her to be childbearing, — whereas Rachel was barren. So Leah conceived, and bare a son, and called his name Reuben; — for she said. Because Yahweh hath looked upon my humiliation, For now! will my husband love me.

34 And she conceived again, and bare a son, and said, This time! will I praise Yahweh, For which cause, she called his name Judah. — And she left off bearing.

1 And Rachel saw she had borne no children unto Jacob, so Rachel became envious of her sister, — and said unto Jacob. Come! give me children, or else | I die.|

2 Then kindled the anger of Jacob with Rachel, — and he said. Am I in the place of God || who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb?

3 And she said, Lo! my handmaid, Bilhah, Go in unto her, — that she may bear upon my knees, so that | I also | may be built up by her!

4 And she gave him Bilhah her handmaid, to wife, — and Jacob went in unto her; and Bilhah conceived, and bare unto Jacob a son; — and Rachel said. God hath vindicated me.

Moreover also, he hath hearkened unto my voice, and hath given me a son.

21 And Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and made a banquet. And it came to pass, | in the evening | that he took Leah his daughter, and brought her in unto him, — and he went in unto her. 24 And Laban gave her Zilpah, his handmaid, unto Leah his daughter, as handmaid. 25 And it came to pass | in the morning | that lo! it was Leah; — and he said unto Laban.

What! this! thou hast done to me? Is it not | for Rachel | I served with thee? Wherefore? then, thou deceit me!

26 And Laban said, Better that I give her to thee, than that I should give her to another man, — Abide with me!

27 And Jacob did so, and fulfilled the week of this one, — and he gave him Rachel his daughter, to wife. 28 And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter Bilhah, his handmaid, — to be hers, as a handmaid. So he went in unto Rachel also, and loved Rachel also more than Leah, — and he served with him | yet seven years more. ||

* * * To him," absent from most MSS. — U. N. MI: "he opened her womb." Prob.: " See ye a son." Or omit "because," as not needed in English. Cp. O.T. 471, b. 2 "A hearing."
<For this cause> called she his name |Dan.|
7 And Bilhah, Rachel's handmaid, conceived again, and bare a second son to Jacob.
8 Then said Rachel,
With wrestlings of God> have I wrestled with my sister.
Yea! I have prevailed.
So she called his name |Naphtali|.
9 Then saw Leah, that she had left off bearing,—so she took Zilpah, her handmaid, and gave her to Jacob, to wife.
10 And Zilpah, Leah's handmaid, bare a second son to Jacob;
11 and Leah said,
Victory hath come!
So she called his name |Gad|.
12 And Zilpah, Leah's handmaid, bare a second son to Jacob;
13 and Leah said,
For my happiness surely happy have my daughters pronounced me.
So she called his name |Asher|.
14 Then went Reuben, in the days of the wheat harvest, and found mandrakes, in the field, and brought them in unto Leah his mother,—and Rachel said unto Leah,
Pray give me, some of the mandrakes of thy son!
15 And she said to her,
Is it a small thing that thou hast taken away my husband?
And wouldst thou take away [even the mandrakes of my son]?
Then said Rachel,
Therefore! shall he lie with thee to-night, for the mandrakes of thy son!
16 And Jacob came in from the field, in the evening, so Leah went out to meet him, and said:
Unto me shalt thou come in, for I have hired thee, even with the mandrakes of my son.
And he lay with her that night.
17 And God hearkened unto Leah,—and she conceived, and bare to Jacob a fifth son.
18 Then said Leah,
God hath given my hire, in that I gave my handmaid to my husband.
So she called his name |Issachar|.
19 And Leah conceived again, and bare a sixth son to Jacob.
20 Then said Leah,
God hath dowered me, even me! with a hand-some dowry,
Now will my husband dwell with me, for I have borne him six sons.
So she called his name |Zebulon|.
21 And afterwards she bare a daughter,—so she called her name |Dinah|.
22 Then God remembered Rachel,—and God hearkened unto her, and granted her to bear.
23 So she conceived and bare a son,—and said,
God hath taken away my reproach;
27 Then heard he the words of the sons of Laban. And Jacob took him rods of young storax, and hazel and maple, and peeled in them white stripes, laying bare the white, which was on the rods. And he set the rods which he had peeled, in the channels, in the troughs of water,—where the flocks came in to drink, straight before the flocks, and the females of the flock used to be in heat when they came in to drink; and the males of the flock were in heat before the rods,—so the flocks brought forth ring-straked, speckled, and dappled.

28 The rams also did Jacob separate, and then set the faces of the flocks towards the ring-straked and all the dark-coloured, among the flocks of Laban,—and he put [his own] droves by themselves, and put them not with the flocks of Laban. So it came to pass <whenever the stronger of the flocks were in heat> that Jacob set the rods before the eyes of the flocks, in the channels,—that the females might be in heat among the rods; but <when the flocks were late in bearing> he did not set them,—and so the late-born were Laban’s, but the strong ones Jacob’s. Thus did the man break forth exceedingly,—thus came he to have flocks in abundance, and maidservants, and men-servants, and camels, and asses.

31 Then heard he the words of the sons of Laban, saying, Jacob hath taken away all that belonged to our father; Yea <out of what belonged to our father> hath he made all this wealth.

32 And Jacob looked upon the face of Laban,—and lo! it was not with him as aforetime,3 Then said Yahweh unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to the field, unto his flock; and said to him, Behold: am I the face of thy father, that it is not towards me as aforetime,—nevertheless [the God of my father], hath been with me; and ye know that <with all my vigour> have I served your father.

33 But your father hath deceived me, and hath changed my wages ten times,—yet God hath not suffered him to deal harmfully with me. If thus he saith, The speckled shall be thy wages,—then do all the flock bring forth speckled,—But <if thus he saith>, The ring-straked shall be thy wages,—then do all the flock bring forth ring-straked.

9 So hath God stripped away the herds of your father, and given them to me.

10 And it came to pass <in the season when the flock were in heat> then lifted I mine eyes, and beheld in a dream,—and lo! the he-goats that were leaping upon the flock were ring-straked, speckled, and dappled.

11 And the messenger of God said unto me in a dream, Jacob! and I said, Behold me! Then he said, Lift, I pray thee, thine eyes and behold, All the he-goats that are leaping upon the flock are ring-straked, speckled, and dappled,—for I have seen all that Laban has been doing to thee.

12 || I am the God of Beth-el, where thou didst anoint a pillar, where thou didst vow to me a vow,— || Now || rise, go forth out of this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred.

13 Then responded Rachel and Leah, and said to him,—Have we any longer a portion or an inheritance, in the house of our father? Are we not accounted aliens! to him, seeing that <having sold us> he hath then gone on,’ devouring’ our silver?

14 Surely <all the riches which God hath stripped off from our father> unto us, it belongeth, and unto our sons,—Now, therefore, whatsoever God hath said unto thee '<do>.

15 So Jacob arose,—and mounted his sons and his wives on the camels; and drave away all his herds, and all his goods which he had gathered, the gains he had gained,4 which he had gathered in Padan-aram; that he might go in unto Isaac his father, unto the land of Canaan.

16 Now || Laban || had gone, to shear his sheep,—so Rachel stole the household gods* that belonged to her father.5 Thus Jacob stole away unawares to Laban, the Syrian,—in that he had not told him that he was [about to flee]. So he fled, <he and all that he had>, and he arose, and passed over the River,—and set his face towards the mountain of Gilead.

17 And it was told Laban, on the third day,—that Jacob had fled. So he took his brethren with him, and pursued after him, a journey of seven days,—and overtook him in the mountain of Gilead. And God went in unto Laban the Syrian, in a dream of the night,—and said to him, Take heed to thyself, that thou speak not with Jacob, either good or bad.

28 So then Laban came up with Jacob,—having pitched his tent in the mountain,
And the rams of thy flock> have I not eaten,
<The torn> have I not brought in unto thee—
'I bare the loss,
At my hand> didst thou require it,—
Stolen by day, or stolen by night.
Thus have I been—
<By day> drought hath consumed me,
And {frost} by {night},—
So that my sleep fled away from mine eyes.
'This has been my lot twenty years, in thy house,—
I served thee fourteen years, for thy two daughters,
And six years, for thy sheep—
And thou didst change my wages ten times:—

But that the God of my father—
The God of Abraham, and the Dread of Isaac—Proved to be mine >
Surely' <even now> 'empty| hadst thou let me go!
<My humiliation and the wearing toil of my hands> God had seen,
And therefore gave sentence last night!

Then responded Laban and said unto Jacob—
|The daughters| are my' daughters,
And |the sons| are my' sons,
And |the sheep| are my' sheep,
And <all that |thou| beholdest>
|To me| doth it belong!
But <to my daughters| what can I do to these, this day, Or to their sons, whom they have borne?

Now therefore, come on!—
Let us solemnise a covenant |I and thou|,—
So shall it be a witness betwixt me and thee.
So Jacob took a stone,—and set it up as a pillar.
Then said Jacob to his brethren—
Gather stones.
And they took stones, and made a heap,—and they did eat there, by the heap.
And Laban called it, Jegar-sahadutha,—but [Jacob] called it, Galeed. a Then said Laban:
This heap| be witness, betwixt me and thee, to-day.
[For this cause] is the name thereof called, Galeed: b also The Watch Tower,* as to which it is said, Yahweh watch betwixt me and thee, when we are parted one from another.
If thou oppress my daughters, or if thou take wives besides my daughters>—|there may be no man with us|—see! |God| be witness betwixt me and thee!
And Laban said to Jacob—
Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have set betwixt me and thee:

A witness| be this heap, and  the pillar,—

* Or: "was on my side." (Aramaic).
Cp. Ps. cxviii. 6, 7.
* a = "witness-heap" (Heb.)
* b = "witness-heap" (Heb.)
* Heb.: Misph.
That I am not to pass, unto thee, over this heap,
And thou art not to pass, unto me, over this heap and this pillar (for harm).

53 The Gods of Abraham and the Gods of Nahor judge me— the Gods of their fathers. And Jacob sware by the Dread of his father Isaac, — and Jacob offered sacrifice in the mountain, and called on his brethren to eat bread. So they did eat bread, and tarried in the night. And Laban rose up early in the morning, and kissed his sons and his daughters, and blessed them; and Laban went his way and returned to his place.

§ 45. Jacob prepares to meet Esau: his Arrangements, Prayer and Wrestling.

1 When Jacob had gone on his way > there met him messengers of God. 2 And Jacob said, when he saw them,

The camp of God is this! So he called the name of that place, Mahanaim. 3 Then did Jacob send messengers before him, unto Esau his brother,— to the land of Seir, the field of Edom. 4 And he commanded them, saying,

Thus shall ye say to my lord, to Esau, Thus said thy servant Jacob, With Laban have I sojourned, and tamed until now: And I have oxen and asses, flocks and men-servants and maid-servants,

So I must needs send to tell my lord, that I might find favour in thine eyes. 6 And the messengers returned unto Jacob, saying,— We came in unto thy brother, unto Esau, moreover also he is on his way to meet thee, and four hundred men with him. 7 Then was Jacob greatly afraid, and in distress. So he divided the people that were with him, and the flocks and the herds and the camels into two camps. 8 And he said,

Should Esau come upon the one camp, and smite it, yet shall the camp that is left escape.

9 And Jacob said,

God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac,— Yahweh, who wast saying unto me,— Return to thy land and to thy kindred that I may deal well with thee;— I am too small for all the lovingkindnesses, and for all the faithfulness, which thou hast done unto thy servant,— For with my staff passed I over this Jordan, but now have I become two camps.

Deliver me, I pray thee, out of the hand of my brother, out of the hand of Esau,— for I am afraid of him, lest he come in and smite—mother, as well as* sons:

10 But (thou thyself) saidst,— I will deal well with thee,— So will I make thy seed as the sand of the sea, which is not to be counted, for multitude.

11 And he tarried there that night, and took of that which came to his hand, a present for Esau his brother:— She-goats, two hundred; Cows, forty; And he-goats, twenty; And bulls, ten; Ewes, two hundred; She-asses, twenty; And rams, twenty; And young he-asses, Milch camels, with ten.

12 And he gave them unto the hand of his servants, each drove by itself,— and said unto his servants— Pass over before me, and bring ye back to me Esau my brother.

13 And he commanded the first one, saying:

When Esau my brother shall fall in with thee, and shall ask thee, saying, Whose art thou? and whither wouldst thou go? and to whom' belong these before thee? Then shalt thou say, To thy servant Jacob: It is a present sent to my lord, to Esau; And behold he himself also is behind us. 14 And he commanded the second also, and the third, yea all that were going on behind the droves, saying,— According to this word shall ye speak unto Esau, when ye find him. Then shall ye say, Also, lo! thy servant Jacob is behind us. For he said: I must pacify him with the present that goeth on before me, And after that will I see his face: Peradventure he will accept me.

21 So the present passed over before him,— whereas he himself tarried that night in the camp. 22 And he arose in that night and took his two wives, and his two handmaids and his eleven sons,— and passed over the ford of Jabbok. So he took them, and sent them over the brook,— and sent over that which he had. 23 And Jacob was left alone,— and there wrestles a man with him, until the uprisings of the dawn. 24 And when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh,— and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was put out of joint, as he wrestled with him. The said he— Let me go, for uprisen hath the dawn. And he said: I will not let thee go,— except thou ha blessed me.

* Some cod. (w. Sam., Sep., Heb. cp. chap. i., n.): "and flocks" = "Two camps." — G. n.

* Comp. ver. 2.

Lit.: "over face."
Then he said unto him—

What is thy name?

And he said—

Jacob.

Then he said—

Not Jacob shall thy name be called any more, but [Israel].—For thou hast contended with God and with men, and hast prevailed.

Then asked Jacob and said,

Do, I pray thee, tell me thy name!

And he said—

Wherefore now, shouldest thou ask for my name?

And he blessed him there. So Jacob called the name of the place Peniel; For I saw God, face to face; and my soul was delivered.

And the sun rose on him as soon as he had passed over Penuel, and all the more was haltling upon his thigh. For this cause the sons of Israel eat not of the nerve of the large hip-sinew, which is by the hollow of the thigh, until this day, because he touched the hollow of the thigh of Jacob, in the nerve of the hip-sinew.

Then Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! Esau coming in,—and with him four hundred men. So he divided the children—unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids; and put the handmaids and their children first,—and Leah and her children next, and Rachel and Joseph next; but he himself passed over before them, and bowed himself to the earth seven times, until he had come near unto his brother. Then ran Esau to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck,—and they wept. Then lifted he up his eyes, and beheld the women and the children, and said,

What are these to thee?

And he said—

The children wherewith God hath favoured thy servant. Then came near Leah also, with her children,—and they bowed themselves. And afterward came near Joseph with Rachel, and they bowed themselves. Then said he,

What to thee is all this camp, which I have fallen in with?

And he said,—

To find favour, in the eyes of my lord.

Then said Esau, I have an abundance,—my brother, be thou also what thou hast!

Then said Jacob,

Nay, I pray thee, if I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes then thou wilt take my present at my hand,—For on this account hast my seeing thy face been like seeing the face of God, in that thou wast well-pleased with me.

Take, I pray thee, my blessing which hath been brought in to thee,—because God hath shewed me favour, and because I have everything.

So he was urgent with him, and he took it. Then he said,

Let us break up and go,—and let me go on before thee.

And he said unto him,

My lord is taking note, that the children are tender,—and the flocks and the herds are giving suck with me,—and should I overdrive them a single day then would all the flocks die.

Let my lord, I pray thee, pass over before his servant,—and let me lead on in my own easy way, at the pace of the cattle that are before me, and at the pace of the children, until that I come in unto my lord, towards Seir.

Then said Esau:

Let me leave, I pray thee, along with thee, some of the people who are with me!

And he said—

Why so? let me find favour in the eyes of my lord!

So Esau returned, that day, to his journey towards Mount Seir. But Jacob brake up towards Succoth, and built for himself a house, for his cattle made he places of shelter, for which cause the name of the place was called, Succoth.

And Jacob came in peace to the city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came in from Padan-aram,—and he encamped before the city. And he bought the portion of the field, where he had spread out his tent, at the hand of the sons of Hamor, father of Shechem,—for a hundred kesitahs. And he set up there an altar,—and called it, El-ełohe-Israel.

Dinah being defiled by Shechem, the Deed is avenged by her Brothers.

Then went forth Dinah, the daughter of Leah, whom she had borne to Jacob,—to see the daughters of the land. And Shechem, son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the land, saw Dinah, the daughter of Jacob, fair to see.
her,—so he took her, and lay with her, and humbled her. 2 And his soul clave unto Dinah, daughter of Jacob,—and he loved the young woman, and spake to the heart of the young woman. 3 Then spake Shechem unto Hamor his father, saying,—

Take me this girl, to wife!

Now Jacob had heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter, but his sons happened to be with his cattle, in the field,—so Jacob kept quiet, until they came in. 4 Then came forth Hamor, father of Shechem, unto Jacob,—to speak with him. 5 Now the sons of Jacob came in from the field, as soon as they heard, and the men were grieved, and it was vexing to them exceedingly,—for a disgraceful deed had he done with Israel, in lying with Jacob's daughter, seeing that it should not be done. 6 So then Hamor spake with them, saying—

As for Shechem my son, his soul hath become attached to your daughter,—I pray you give her to him, to wife.

And exchange ye daughters with us in marriage,—your daughters shall ye give to us, and our daughters shall ye take to you'.

And with us shall ye dwell,—and the land shall be before you, tarry, and go through it, and get possessions therein. 11 Then said Shechem unto Hamor, and unto her brethren, Let me find favour in your eyes,—and whatsoever ye may say unto me will I give: 12 Heap on me, exceedingly, dowry and gift, and I will give, just as ye may say unto me,—but give me the young woman, to wife.

And the sons of Jacob answered Shechem, and Hamor his father, deceitfully, and spake (because he had defiled Dinah their sister)— and said unto them—

We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to a man that is uncircumcised,—for a reproach it would be to us.

Only herein can we consent to you,—

If ye will become like us, by circumcising to us every male, even as they are circumcised.

Their herds, and their substance, and all their beasts shall not be ours.'

We must consent to them, that they may dwell with us.

And they hearkened unto Hamor, and unto Shechem his son, even all that were going forth out of the gate of his city,—and every male was circumcised, all that were going forth out of the gate of his city. 2 And it came to pass on the third day, when they were in pain, that two of the sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, took each man his sword, and came in upon the city, boldly,—and slew every male; 3 Hamor also, and Shechem his son, slew they with the edge of the sword,—and took Dinah out of the house of Shechem, and came forth. 4 The sons of Jacob came in upon the slain, and plundered the city,—because they had defiled their sister: 5 their flocks, and their herds, and their asses,—and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field they took; 6 and (all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their women) took they captive, and seized as plunder,—even all that was in their houses.

Then said Jacob unto Simeon and unto Levi—

You have troubled me, by making me odious among them that dwell in the land, among the Canaanites, and among the Perizzites,— 8 having only men that may be counted, they will gather themselves together against me, and smite me,—and I shall be destroyed, both I and my house.

And they said,—

As with a harlot was he to deal with our sister?

§ 48. The Covenant renewed with Jacob at Beth-el. 1 Then said God unto Jacob, Arise, go up to Beth-el, and dwell there,— 2 and make there an altar, to the God who appeared unto thee, when thou fleddest from the face of Esau thy brother. 3 And Jacob said unto his house, and unto all who were with him,—

Put away the gods of the alien which are in your midst, and purify yourselves, and change your garments; 4 And let us arise, and go up to Beth-el,—that I may make there an altar, to the God who answered me in the day of my distress, and was with me, in the way that I went.

So they gave unto Jacob all the gods of the alien which were in their hand, and the earrings which were in their ears,— and Jacob hid them under the oak, which was by Shechem. And they brake up,— and it came to pass that the terror of God was on the cities which were round about them, so that they pursued not after the sons of Jacob. And Jacob came in towards Luz, which was in the land of Canaan, [the same] is Beth-el,—[the] same and all the people who were with him. And he built there an altar, and called the place El-Beth-el,— because [there] God revealed himself unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother. And Deborah, Rebekah’s nurse died, and was buried below Beth-el, under the oak,— so the name thereof was called, Allon-bacuth.

And God appeared unto Jacob, again, when he came in from Padan-aram,— and blessed him. And God said to him— Thy name shall no longer be called Jacob,— But Israel shall be thy name. So he called his name Israel'. And God said to him— I am God Almighty! Be fruitful and multiply, ||A nation, and a multitude of nations shallspring from thee,— And kings out of thy loins shallcome forth; And <the land which I gave to Abraham and to Isaac> will I give it,— And <to thy seed after thee> will I give the land.

Then brake they up from Beth-el, and it came to pass when there was yet a stretch of country, to enter into Ephrath> that Rachel was in childbirth, and had hard-labour in her childbirth. So it came to pass when she was in hard-labour in her child-birth> that the midwife said to her— Do not fear, for this also of thine is a son. And it came to pass when her soul was going forth> that she called her name, [Ben-oni],— but his father called him, [Benjamin].

Then took Esau his wives, and his sons, and his daughters, and all the souls of his house, and his herds and all his beasts, and all his possessions whatsoever he had gathered in the land of Canaan,— and went into a land, away from the face of Jacob his brother,— For their substance had become too great, for them to dwell together,— neither could the land of their sojournings sustain them, because of their herds.

Then took Esau his wives, and his sons, and his daughters, and all the souls of his house, and his herds and all his beasts, and all his possessions whatsoever he had gathered in the land of Canaan,— and went into a land, away from the face of Jacob his brother,— For their substance had become too great, for them to dwell together,— neither could the land of their sojournings sustain them, because of their herds.

Then Israel brake up,— and spread his tent at a distance from Migdal Eder.

And it came to pass <while Israel inhabited that land> that Reuben went and lay with Bilhah his father’s concubine; and Israel heard of it.

And so the Sons of Israel came to be Twelve.

And the firstborn of Jacob, Reuben,— And Simeon and Levi and Judah, and Issachar and Zebulon:

Joseph, and Benjamin:

Eliphaz, son of Adah, wife of Esau,
Reuel, son of Basemath, wife of Esau.

11 Then came the sons of Eliphaz to be,— Teman, Omar, Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz.

12 Now Timna became the concubine of Eliphaz, son of Esau, and she bare to Eliphaz, Amalek.

These are the sons of Adah, wife of Esau.

13 And these are the sons of Reuel, Nahath and Zerah, Shammah and Mizzah,— These were the sons of Basemath, wife of Esau.

14 And these were the sons of Oholibamah, daughter of Anah, son of Zibeon, wife of Esau, she bare to Esau Jeush, Jalam, and Korah.

These are the sons of Oholibamah, daughter of Anah, wife of Esau.

15 These are the chiefs of the sons of Esau:—
The sons of Eliphaz, firstborn of Esau—
Chief Teman, chief Omar, chief Zepho, chief Kenaz; chief Korah, chief Gatam, chief Amalek.

These are the chiefs of Eliphaz, in the land of Edom, these the sons of Adah.

16 These are the chiefs of Reuel, son of Esau—
Chief Nahath, chief Zerah, chief Shammah, chief Mizzah.—
These were the sons of Reuel, in the land of Edom, These the sons of Basemath, wife of Esau.

26 And these are the sons of Dishon,— Hemdan and Esban, and Ithran and Cheran.

27 These are the sons of Ezer,— Bilhan and Zavan, and Akan.

28 These are the sons of Dishan,—
Us and Aran.

29 These are the chiefs of the Horites,—

31 These are the kings, who reigned in the land of Edom,—before there reigned a king of the sons of Israel:—
32 There reigned in Edom, Bela, son of Beor,—and the name of his city was Dinhabah. Then died Bela,—and there reigned in his stead, Jobab son of Zerah, from Bozrah. Then died Jobab,—and there reigned in his stead, Husham, from the land of the Temanites. Then died Husham,—and there reigned in his stead, Hadad, son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moab, and the name of his city was Avith. Then died Hadad,—and there reigned in his stead, Samlah, from Mareshah. Then died Samlah,—and there reigned in his stead, Shaul from Rohoboth of the River. Then died Shaul,—and there reigned in his stead, Baal-hanan, son of Achbor. Then died Baal-hanan son of Achbor, and there reigned in his stead, Hadar, and the name of his city was Pau,—and the name of his wife Mehetabel, daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezahab.

33 These then are the names of the chiefs of Edom, after their families, after their places, by their names,—
Chief Timnah, chief Alvah, chief Jethetha;
Chief Oholibamah, chief Elah, chief Pinon;
Chief Kenaz, chief Teman, chief Mibzar;
Chief Magdiel, chief Irani.

These are the chiefs of Edom—after their dwellings, in the land of their possession, the same is Esau, father of Edom.

34 These are the names of the sons of Seir, the Horite, who dwelled in the land,— Lotan and Shobal, and Zibeon and Anah; and Dishon and Ezer and Dishan,—
These are the sons of Seir, in the land of Edom.

Then came the sons of Lotan to be,
Hori and Hemam,—
And the sister of Lotan was Timna.
And these are the sons of Shobal,
Alvan and Manahath, and Esh—Shopho, and Onam.

And these are the sons of Zibeon:
Both Aiah and Anah,—
The same is the Anah that found the warm springs in the desert, as he fed the asses of Zibeon his father.

35 These are the chiefs of the Horites,—

These are the chiefs of the Horites, after their chiefs, in the land of Seir.

Then came the sons of Lotan to be,
Hori and Hemam,—
And the sister of Lotan was Timna.

39 These are the sons of Dishan,—
Us and Aran.

40 These are the chiefs of the Horites,—
Chief Lotan, chief Shobal, chief Zibeon, chief Anah; chief Dishon, chief Ezer chief Dishan.

These are the chiefs of the Horites, after their chiefs, in the land of Seir.

41 These then are the names of the sons of Esau, after their families, after their places, by their names,—
Chief Timnah, chief Alvah, chief Jethetha;
Chief Oholibamah, chief Elah, chief Pinon;
Chief Kenaz, chief Teman, chief Mibzar;
Chief Magdiel, chief Irani.

These are the chiefs of Edom—after their dwellings, in the land of their possession, the same is Esau, father of Edom.

§ 50. Joseph—envied, hated and sold by his Brethren—is taken down into Egypt.

So Jacob dwelt in the land of the sojourning of his father,—in the land of Canaan.

These are the generations of Jacob—
Joseph, when seventeen years old, was shepherding with his brethren among the flocks, and he being a youth was with the sons of Bilhah and with the sons of Zilpah, wives of

Or: to.

Heb. toledoth, here= "details of the family history."

Note the latitude of the his father,—so then Joseph brought in the talk about them—something bad, unto their father.

3 Now ||IsraelII loved Joseph more than any of his sons, because he was to him [the son of his old age],—and he had made him, a long tunic. 4 So his brethren saw that their father loved him more than any of his brethren,* and they hated him,—and could not bid him prosper. 5 And Joseph dreamed a dream, and told it to his brethren,—and they went on yet more' to hate him. 6 And he said unto them, —

Hear ye, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed:

7 Lo! then, |we!l were binding sheaves in the midst of the field, when lo! my sheaf rose up', yea and took its stand,—and lo! round about' came your sheaves, and bowed themselves down, to my sheaf.

8 And his brethren said to him, —

Shalt thou |!reign|; over us, shalt thouc ||have dominion ||over us ?

So they went on yet more' to hate him', because of his dreams, and because of his words. 9 Then dreamed he |yet another |, dream, and related it to his brethren,—and said:—

Lo! I have dreamed a dream |yet again', Lo! then, ||the sun and the moon, and eleven starsll were bowing themselves down to me.

10 So he related it unto his father, and unto his brethren,—and his father rebuked him, and said unto him,

What is this dream which thou hast dreamt ? Shall we indeed come inll <I. and thy mother and thy brethren> to bow our selves down to thee, to the earth?

11 Then were his brethren jealous of him,—but his father! marked the word.

12 And his brethren went their way, —to feed theirfather'sflockin Shechem. 13 So Israel said unto Joseph —

Are not ||thy brethren feeding the flock in Shechem ? Come on! and let me send thee unto them.

And he said to him—

Behold me !

14 So he said to him—

Go, I pray thee, look after the welfare of thy brethren, and the welfare of the flock, and bring me back word. And he sent him from the vale of Hebron, and he came in towards Shechem. 15 And a man found him, and lo! he was wandering about, in the field,—so the man asked him, saying—

What seekest thou ?

16 And he said,

<My brethren> am ||I: seeking,—do tell me, I pray thee, where they are feeding their flock.

17 And the man said,

They have broken up from hence, for I heard them saying—

Let us go our way towards Dothan. So Joseph went after his brethren, and found them in Dothan. 18 And they saw him, afar off,—and <ere yet he drew near unto them> they conspired against him, to put him to death. 19 And they said, each man unto his brother,—

Lo ! |[that master* of dreams yonder] coming in! 20 ||Now|| therefore, come! let us slay him, and cast him into one of the pits, and we will say—

||A cruel beast|| hath devoured him,— And let us see what will become of his dreams.

21 And Reuben heard it, and rescued him out of their hand,—and said—

Let us not smite him, so as to take his life !

22 And Reuben said unto them—

Do not shed blood ! Cast him into this pit, which is in the wilderness, but put not forth ||ahand ||against him ! that he might rescue him out of their hand, to restore him unto his father.

23 So it came to pass <when Joseph had come in unto his brethren> that they strait Joseph of his tunic, |[the long tunicc which was upon him], 24 and took him, and cast him into the pit,—but [the pit] was empty, there was in it |no water |. 25 And <when they had sat down to eat bread > they lifted up their eyes, and looked, and lo ! |a caravan of Ishmaelites|| coming in from Gilead,—and ||[their camels]|| were bearing tragacanth gum, and balsam and cistus-gum, they were going their way, to take them down to Egypt. 26 So Judah said unto his brethren,—

What profit, that we slay our brother, and conceal his blood! 27 Come, and letus sell him to the Ishmaelites ; but let not ||our handll be upon him, for ||our own brother, our own flesh, is he. 28 And his brethren hearkened. » And there passed by certain Midianites, travelling merchants, so they drew forth and uplifted Joseph out of the pit, and sold Joseph to the Ishmaelites, for twenty pieces of silver,—and they brought Joseph into Egypt.

29 And Reuben returned unto the pit, and lo ! Joseph was not’ in the pit,—so they rent his clothes; 30 and returned unto his brethren, and said,—

The ||lad|| is' not ! And |||| oh where can ||I || go ?

31 And they took Joseph'stunic,—and slaughtered a buck of the goats, and dipped the tunic in the blood ; 32 and sent the long tunic and brought it in unto their father, and said—

<Thia> have we found ! Examine, we pray thee, whether it is ||the tunic of thy son,|| or not !

* Heb: ba'al — note the word. "and" (or "even") the l.t.—G.n.
* Some cod.: "and" (or "even") the l.t.—G.n.
* Some cod.: "or shall thou."—G.n.
* Or: "speak to him for peace (or, welfare)."

22 So he examined it, and said—

The tunic of my son! || A cruel beast || hath devoured him,— <torn in pieces — torn in pieces> is Joseph!

24 And Jacob rent his garments, and put sackcloth upon his loins,— and mourned over his son many days. 25 And all his sons and all his daughters rose up to console him, but he refused to be consoled, and said—

Surely I will go down unto my son, mourning, to hades. 16

And his father wept for him.

§ 51. Judah, and his Family. Tamar bears Perez and Zerah.

38 1 And it came to pass <at that time> that Judah went down, away from his brethren,— and turned aside unto a certain Adullamite, whose || name || was Hirah. 2 And Judah saw there, a daughter of a certain Canaanite, whose || name || was Shua,— and he took her,

and went in unto her; 3 and she conceived, and bare a son,— and he called his name, Er.

4 And she conceived again, and bare a son,— and she called his name Onan. 5 And she || yet again || bare a son, and called his name, Shelah,— and || she || was at Chezib, when she bare him.

6 And Judah took a wife, for Er his firstborn,— and || her name || was Tamar. 7 And it came to pass that Er, Judah' af firstborn, was dis pleasing'1 in the eyes of Yahweh,— so Yahweh put him to death. 8 Then said Judah to Onan,

Go in unto thy brother's wife, and fulfil the duty of a brother-in-law unto her,— and raise up seed, to thy brother. 9 And Onan knew that the seed would not be his,— and so <although he did go in unto his brother's wife> yet made he waste upon the ground, so as not to give seed to his brother.

10 And it was displeasing 4 in the eyes of Yahweh, what he had done,— so he put him also to death. 11 Then said Judah to Tamar his dughter-in-law—

Remain a widow in the house of thy father, until Shelah my son grow up.

For he said,

Lest || he also || die, like his brethren.

So Tamar went her way, and remained in the house of her father.

12 And <when the days were multiplied> then died Shua's daughter, Judah's wife,— and Judah consoled himself, and went up unto his sheepshearers || he, and Hirah his friend the Adullamite || towards Timnah. 13 And it was told Tamar, saying,—

Lo! || thy father-in-law || is going up towards

Timmah, to the shearing of his sheep.

14 So she put off from her the garments of her widowhood, and covered herself with a veil, and wrapped herself up, and sat down in the entrance of Enaime, a which is by the way towards Timnah,— for she saw that Shelah had grown up, and || she || had not been given to wife. 15 And Judah, seeing her, reckoned her to be an unchaste woman,— for she had covered her face. 16 So he turned aside unto her, by the way, and said,

Grant it! I pray thee, let me come in unto thee!

For he knew not that she' was || his daughter-
in-law.|| And she said,

What wilt thou give me, if thou shouldst come in unto me?

17 And he said,

|| I will send a kid of the goats, from the flock. And she said,

Wilt thou give a pledge, until thou send it?

18 And he said—

What is the pledge that I shall give thee?

And she said—

Thy signet-ring, and thy guard, and thy staff that is in thy hand.

So he gave them to her, and came in unto her, and she conceived by him. 19 Then she arose and went her way, and put off her veil from her,— and put on the garments of her widowhood. 20 And Judah sent the kid of the goats, by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive the pledge, at the hand of the woman,— but he found her not. 21 So he asked the men of her place, saying,

Where is the devotee, || she' that was in

Enaime, by the way?|| And they said,—

There hath been, here, no devotee.

22 Then returned he unto Judah, and said—

I found her not,— moreover also, || the men of the place || said,

There hath been, here, no devotee.

23 And Judah said:

Thou must take it to her, lest we become a contempt,— lo! I sent this kid, and thou hast not found her.

24 And it came to pass that <about three months after> it was told Judah, saying—

Tamar thy daughter-in-law hath been guilty of unchastity, moreover also' lo! she hath conceived by unchastity '.

Then said Judah,

Bring her forth, and let her be burnt.

25 <When she || was about to be brought forth>

then she herself || sent unto her father-in-law,

saying,

<By the man to whom these belong> have

I' conceived!

And she said—

Examine, I pray thee, to whom belong the signet-ring, and the guard, and the staff—these.'

39 Now I, Joseph, was taken down to Egypt, —

And he knew her again (no more).

And it came to pass <at the time of her travail> that lo! [twins] were in her womb.

And it came to pass <when she was in travail> that one put forth a hand, — so the midwife took and bound upon his hand a crimson thread, saying —

"This" came first!

And so it was that <no sooner had he withdrawn his hand> than lo! his brother had come. And she said,

Wherefore hast thou made for thyself a breach?

So his name was called* Perez. 30 And <afterwards> came his brother, on whose hand was the crimson thread, — so his name was called* Zerah. 31

§52 Joseph, from Potiphar's House, is cast into Prison.

1 Now [Joseph] was taken down to Egypt, — and Potiphar, courtier of Pharaoh, chief of the royal executioners, an Egyptian, bought him, at the hand of the Ishmaelites, who had brought him down thither. 2 And it came to pass that [Yahweh] was with Joseph, so that he became prosperous, — and was in the house of his lord the Egyptian. 3 And his lord saw, that [Yahweh] was with him, — and that whatsoever he was doing [Yahweh] was causing to prosper in his hand. 4 So Joseph found favour in his eyes, and waited upon him, — and he made him overseer over his house, and <all that he had> gave he into his hand. 5 And it came to pass <from the time that he made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had> that Yahweh blessed the house of the Egyptian, for Joseph's sake, — yea it came to pass, that [the blessing of Yahweh] was with all that he had, in the house, and in the field; 6 so that he left all that he had in the hand of Joseph, and took note with him [of nothing], 7 save only the bread which [he himself] was eating. And so it was, that Joseph was comely in form and comely in countenance. 8 And it came to pass <after these things> that his lord's wife lifted up her eyes upon Joseph, — and she said —

Come! lie with me.

And he refused, and said unto his lord's wife, Lo! [my lord] taketh no note with me, as to what is in the house, — but <all that pertaineth to him> hath he delivered into my hand: 9 There is no' greater in this house than I, neither hath he withheld from me, anything, save only thyself, in that thou art his wife, — how then could I do this great wickedness, and sin against God? 10 And it came to pass, that <although she spake unto Joseph day after day> yet hearkened he not unto her, to lie beside her, to be with her. 11 And it came to pass, <when, on a certain day, he went into the house to attend to his business, — and there was no' man, of the household>, there, in the house, 12 that she caught him by his garment, saying —

Come! lie with me. Then left he his garment in her hand, and fled, and got forth outside. 13 And it came to pass <when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand, — and fled forth outside>, 14 that she cried out to the men of her house, and spake to them, saying, —

Look ye! he hath brought in to us a Hebrew man to insult us, —

He came in unto me, to lie with me, so I cried out with a loud voice.

And it came to pass <when he heard that I lifted high my voice, and cried out> then left he his garment beside me, and fled, and got forth outside. 17 Then spake she unto him, according to these words, saying, —

He hath been in unto me — the Hebrew servant whom thou didst bring in to us — to insult me.

And it came to pass <when I lifted high my voice, and cried out> then left he his garment beside me, and fled outside. 19 And it came to pass <when his lord heard the words of his wife, which she spake unto him, saying, <According to these words>>b hath thy servant done to me> Then was kindled his anger. 20 So Joseph's lord took him, and delivered him up to the prison, 21 the place where [the prisoners of the king] were imprisoned, — so he was there, in the prison. 22 And it came to pass, that [Yahweh] was with Joseph, and extended unto him lovingkindness, — and gave him his favour in the eyes of the chief of the prison. 23 So the chief of the prison delivered up, into Joseph's hand, all the prisoners who were in the prison, — and <of all that was doing there> [he] was the doer. 24 <After nothing> was the chief of the prison looking, of whatever was in his hand, — in that [Yahweh] was with him, and <whatsoever he was doing> [Yahweh] was causing to prosper.

1 And it came to pass <after these things> 40 that the butler of the king of Egypt, and the baker, had sinned against their lord, the king of Egypt. Then fell the wrath of Pharaoh upon his two courtiers,—upon the chief of the butlers, and upon the chief of the bakers; so he delivered them up into the ward of the house of the chief of the royal executioners, into the prison,—the place where Joseph was imprisoned. And the chief of the royal executioners charged Joseph with them, and he waited upon them,—and they were some days in ward. And they dreamed a dream—they two, each man; according to the interpretation of his dream,—the butler and the baker, who belonged to the king of Egypt, who were imprisoned in the prison. And Joseph came in unto them, in the morning,—and looked at them, and lo! they were sad. So he asked Pharaoh's courtiers, who were with him in the ward of his lord's house, saying,—Why are your faces troubled to-day? And they said unto him, A dream have we dreamed, but there is none to interpret it. Then said Joseph unto them—Is it not unto God that interpretations belong? Relate it, I pray you, to me. And the chief of the butlers related his dream to Joseph,—and said to him, In my dream then lo! I, a vine!! before me; and three shoots,—and the same, at sprouting time II had shot up her blossom, and her clusters had brought to perfection ripe grapes. Now the cup of Pharaoh being in my hand I took the ripe grapes, and pressed them out into the cup of Pharaoh, and set the cup upon Pharaoh's palm. And Joseph said to him, This is the interpretation thereof,—the three shoots are three days: in three days more will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree,—and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee. And it came to pass on the third day,—the birthday of Pharaoh> that he made a banquet for all his servants,—and uplifted the head of the chief of the butlers, and the head of the chief of the bakers, in the midst of his servants; and restored the chief of the butlers to his butlership,—so that he set the cup upon the palm of Pharaoh; but the chief of the bakers> he hanged,—as Joseph had interpreted unto them. Yet the chief of the butlers made no mention of Joseph, but did forget him.

§54. Joseph interprets Pharaoh's Dreams; is made Ruler of Egypt; marries; and provides for the coming Famine.

And it came to pass at the end of two years 41 days> that Pharaoh was dreaming, when lo! he was standing by the river (Nile); and lo! from the river were coming up seven heifers, comely in appearance, and fat in flesh,—and they fed among the rushes. And lo! seven heifers more coming up after them, out of the river, uncomely in appearance, and lean in flesh,—and they came and stood beside the heifers, by the lip of the river. Then did the heifers that were uncomely in appearance, and lean in flesh, eat up the seven fat heifers that were comely in appearance, and fat. So Pharaoh awoke. And he fell asleep, and dreamed a second time,—when lo! seven ears came up on one stalk, fat and good; and lo! seven ears, lean and shrivelled by an east wind, coming up after them. Then did the lean ears swallow up the seven fat and full ears. So Pharaoh awoke, and lo! it was a dream. And it came to pass in the morning> that his spirit became restless, so he sent and called for all the sacred scribes of Egypt, and all her wise men,—and Pharaoh related to them his dreams, but there was no one that could interpret them, to Pharaoh. So Pharaoh awoke, and lo! it was a dream.

For I was stolen out of the land of the Hebrews,—and had I done nothing, that they should have put me in the dungeon. Then the chief of the butlers, seeing that he had well interpreted>, said unto Joseph, I too> was in my dream, when lo! three wicker baskets of fine bread were on my head; and in the uppermost basket was some of every kind of food for Pharaoh, that a baker could make,—but the birds kept eating them out of the basket from off my head.

10 And Joseph responded, and said, This is the interpretation thereof,—the three baskets are three days: in three days more will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree,—and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

15 I pray you, to me. And the chief of the butlers related his dream to Joseph,—and said to him, In my dream then lo! I, a vine!! before me; and three shoots,—and the same, at sprouting time II had shot up her blossom, and her clusters had brought to perfection ripe grapes. Now the cup of Pharaoh being in my hand I took the ripe grapes, and pressed them out into the cup of Pharaoh, and set the cup upon Pharaoh's palm. And Joseph said to him, This is the interpretation thereof,—the three shoots are three days: in three days more will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree,—and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

18 And Joseph responded, and said, This is the interpretation thereof,—the three baskets are three days: in three days more will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree,—and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

21 And restored the chief of the butlers to his butlership,—so that he set the cup upon the palm of Pharaoh; but the chief of the bakers> he hanged,—as Joseph had interpreted unto them. Yet the chief of the butlers made no mention of Joseph, but did forget him.

24 And Joseph responded, and said, This is the interpretation thereof,—the three baskets are three days: in three days more will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree,—and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

27 And Joseph related his dream to Pharaoh,—and said to him, In my dream then lo! I, a vine!! before me; and three shoots,—and the same, at sprouting time II had shot up her blossom, and her clusters had brought to perfection ripe grapes. Now the cup of Pharaoh being in my hand I took the ripe grapes, and pressed them out into the cup of Pharaoh, and set the cup upon Pharaoh's palm. And Joseph said to him, This is the interpretation thereof,—the three shoots are three days: in three days more will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree,—and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

30 And, when Joseph awoke the second time,—when lo! seven ears came up on one stalk, fat and good; and lo! seven ears, lean and shrivelled by an east wind, coming up after them. Then did the lean ears swallow up the seven fat and full ears. So Pharaoh awoke, and lo! it was a dream. And it came to pass in the morning> that his spirit became restless, so he sent and called for all the sacred scribes of Egypt, and all her wise men,—and Pharaoh related to them his dreams, but there was no one that could interpret them, to Pharaoh. So Pharaoh awoke, and lo! it was a dream.

35 Then the chief of the butlers, seeing that he had well interpreted>, said unto Joseph, I too> was in my dream, when lo! three wicker baskets of fine bread were on my head; and in the uppermost basket was some of every kind of food for Pharaoh, that a baker could make,—but the birds kept eating them out of the basket from off my head.

38 And Joseph responded, and said, This is the interpretation thereof,—the three baskets are three days: in three days more will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and hang thee upon a tree,—and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

41 And it came to pass at the end of two years 41 days> that Pharaoh was dreaming, when lo! he was standing by the river (Nile); and lo! from the river were coming up seven heifers, comely in appearance, and fat in flesh,—and they fed among the rushes. And lo! seven heifers more coming up after them, out of the river, uncomely in appearance, and lean in flesh,—and they came and stood beside the heifers, by the lip of the river. Then did the heifers that were uncomely in appearance, and lean in flesh, eat up the seven fat heifers that were comely in appearance, and fat. So Pharaoh awoke. And he fell asleep, and dreamed a second time,—when lo! seven ears came up on one stalk, fat and good; and lo! seven ears, lean and shrivelled by an east wind, coming up after them. Then did the lean ears swallow up the seven fat and full ears. So Pharaoh awoke, and lo! it was a dream.
And <there with us>, was a young man, a Hebrew, servant to the chief of the royal executioners, and we related to him, and he interpreted to us, our dreams,— <to each man—according to his dream> did he interpret.

And it came to pass <as he interpreted to us> so it happened,— <me> he restored to mine office, but <him> he hanged.

Then sent Pharaoh and summoned Joseph, and they hastened him out of the dungeon,— so he shaved himself, and changed his garments, and came in unto Pharaoh. u And Pharaoh said unto Joseph,— <A dream > have I dreamed, but none can interpret it,— but I have heard say concerning thee, that <on hearing a dream > thou canst interpret it.

And Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, ||Not to me | doth it pertain ! May ||God| grant in answer, the prosperity of Pharaoh !

Then spake Pharaoh unto Joseph,— <In my dream > IIthere was IIIstanding on the lip of the river; When lo! <out of the river> were coming up seven heifers, fat in flesh, and comely in form,— and they fed among the rushes. And lo! [seven other heifers] coming up after them, poor, and very uncomely in form, and lean in flesh,— I had never seen such, in all the land of Egypt, [for uncomeliness].

Then did the lean and uncomely heifers |eat up| the first seven, fat heifers; and they passed into their stomach, yet could it not be known that they had passed into them, [their appearance] being uncomely, as at the beginning. So I awoke.

Then looked I in my dream,— And lo! [seven ears] coming up on one stalk, full and good ; And lo! [seven ears, withered, lean, shrivelled by an east wind] growing up after them.

Then did the lean ears |swallow up| the seven good ears.

So I told [these things] unto the sacred scribes, but there was none that could explain [them] to me.

Then said Joseph unto Pharaoh, "The dream of Pharaoh|| is |one|. <What God is about to do hath he showed unto Pharaoh. "The seven good heifers|| are |seven years|, and |the seven good ears|| are |seven years|,— the dream || is |one|."

And [the seven lean and uncomely heifers that were coming up after them] are |seven years|, and |the seven lean ears, shrivelled by an east wind], will turn out to be—seven years of famine.

a MI: "plh."

<The very word that I spake unto Pharaoh> <what ||God|| is about to do> hath he showed unto Pharaoh.

Lo! [seven years] coming in,—[of great plenty, in all the land of Egypt].

Then shall arise seven years of famine, after them, so shall be forgotten all the plenty in the land of Egypt,— and the famine shall consume the land; 31 neither shall the plenty in the land be discernible, because of that famine coming after,— for it shall be [very severe].

And <for that there was a repeating of the dream unto Pharaoh [twice]> it is because the thing [is established] from God, and God is hastening' to do it.

||Now||, therefore, let Pharaoh look out a man, discreet and wise,— and set him over the land of Egypt. 34 Let Pharaoh do this, that he may appoint overseers over the land,— so shall he take up a fifth of the land of Egypt, during the seven years of plenty.

And let them gather up all the food of these seven good years that are coming in,— and let them heap up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, as food in cities, so shall they keep it.

So shall the food become a store for the land, for the seven years of famine, which shall come about in the land of Egypt,— and the land shall not be cut off in the famine.

And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh,— and in the eyes of all his servants; and Pharaoh said unto his servants,— Can we find such a one, [a man in whom is the Spirit of God]?

So Pharaoh said unto Joseph, "After God hath made known unto thee all this> there is no' one discreet and wise like thee.

||Thou ||shalt be over my house, and <on thy mouth> shall all my people kiss,— <only as to the throne> will I be greater than thou.

And Pharaoh said unto Joseph,— See, I have set thee over all the land of Egypt.

So Pharaoh took his ring from off his hand, and put it upon Joseph's hand,— and clothed him in garments of fine linen, and put the chain of gold upon his neck; 42 and made him ride in the second chariot which belonged to him, and they* cried out before him.

Bow the knee !

thus setting him over all the land of Egypt. 44 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, "I am Pharaoh, <Without thee> therefore, shall no man raise his hand or his foot, in all the land of Egypt.

And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphe-
And the land produced, in the seven years of plenty. And Joseph went forth over the land of Egypt, and he gathered up all the food of the seven years in cities, and laid up food in cities,—the food of the fields of the city, which were round about it, laid he up within it. Thus did Joseph heap up corn like the sand of the sea, making it exceeding abundant,—until one hath left off reckoning, because it cannot be reckoned.

Thus came in the year of famine,—whom Asenath, daughter of Poti-pherah priest of On, bare to him. And Joseph called the name of the second born, EPHRAIM, for God hath made me fruitful in the land of my humiliation.

Then came to an end the seven years of the plenty,—which was in the land of Egypt; and the seven years of famine began to come in, according as Joseph had said,—and it came to pass that there was a famine in all the lands, but in all the land of Egypt there was bread. Yet was famine felt in all the land of Egypt, and the people made outcry to Pharaoh, for bread,—and Pharaoh said to all Egypt:—Go ye unto Joseph, that which he saith to you shall ye do.

Now the famine was over all the face of the land, so Joseph opened all [places] wherein it was, and sold corn to the Egyptians; and the famine laid fast hold of the land of Egypt. All the earth also came in to Egypt to buy corn unto Joseph,—because the famine had laid fast hold on all the earth.

Then said Joseph unto his brethren, Come near unto me; and they said, We come near unto thee. And he said unto them, Is there yet any bread in the house? And they said, There is none, but we are come to buy corn, because our money is spent. And he said, Except ye bring your youngest brother, I will not deal with you. And they said, Behold, we are come again down to buy food. Five of your brethren be still alive, and Benjamin your brother is not, for we told him, saying, We shall see thee no more. But ye said, Behold, there is corn in Egypt; go down, buy for us from thence, that we may live, and not die. And Joseph said, By this ye shall know also in the coming season of the year, whether it be good or bad; and it shall come to pass, when ye come to my word again, that I will make it a covenant between us; and bring your youngest brother unto me, and I will give you corn, and ye shall live, and not die. But they said, We have no corn. And Joseph said unto them, Even so, except there come in unto me one of your number, your brother, young as ye are, and I will know that ye are not viler than ye are; for ye are come to see the nakedness of the land. And they said, Behold, we are twelve brethren, the sons of one man, in the land of Canaan; and the youngest is with our father, and one is not.—And Joseph said unto them, My brethren, is it possible that ye are come to see the nakedness of the land? And they said, No, my lord; but thy servants are come to buy food. We are twelve brethren, the sons of one man, in the land of Canaan; and the youngest is with our father, and none is not. And Joseph said unto them, Thereby shall ye be proved;—By the life of Pharaoh ye shall not go forth from hence, save only by the coming in of your youngest brother, hither.

Send from among you one, that he may fetch your brother, but ye, hold ye as prisoners, that your words may be proved, whether truth is with you,—and if not,—by the life of Pharaoh ye shall not go forth from hence, save only by the coming in of your youngest brother, hither.

Send from among you one, that he may fetch your brother, but ye, hold ye as prisoners, that your words may be proved, whether truth is with you,—and if not,—by the life of Pharaoh ye shall not go forth from hence, save only by the coming in of your youngest brother, hither.

Thus did Joseph speak unto them. And they said, We are come again down to buy corn. And Joseph's brother, whose name was Benjamin, was with them; but Joseph knew him not. And Joseph said unto his brethren, Bring your youngest brother unto me, and I will give you corn; and ye shall live, and not die. But they said, We have no corn. And Joseph saith unto his brethren, Except there come in unto me one of your number, your brother, young as ye are, and I will know that ye are not viler than ye are; for ye are come to see the nakedness of the land. And they said, Behold, we are twelve brethren, the sons of one man, in the land of Canaan; and the youngest is with our father, and none is not. And Joseph said unto them, Thereby shall ye be proved;—By the life of Pharaoh ye shall not go forth from hence, save only by the coming in of your youngest brother, hither.
And they did so. 21 And they said, each man unto his brother—<Verily guilty> we are', respecting our brother, in that we saw the distress of his soul, when he appealed unto us for favour, and we hearkened not,—<therefore> hath come in unto us this distress.

And Reuben responded to them, saying—
Spake I not unto you, saying,
<His very blood> therefore, lo! it is required.

But [they] knew not, that Joseph was hearkening,—for [the interpreter] was between them. 24 So he turned away from them, and wept, — then came back unto them, and spake unto them, and took away from them, Simeon, and bound him prisoner before their eyes.

Then commanded Joseph that their bags should be filled with corn, and their silver be returned, each man's into his sack, and provision be given, for the journey,—and it was done to them thus.

So they lifted up their corn on their asses,—and went their way from thence. 27 And the first opened his sack, to give fodder to his ass, at the inn,—and beheld his silver, yea [there] it was, in the mouth of his sack! 28 So he said unto his brethren,
My silver hath been returned, yea verily. IIthere;itis.in my sack! 30 So they came in unto Jacob their father, to the land of Canaan,—and told him all that had befallen them, saying:

The man that is lord of the land, spake unto us harsh things,—and then delivered us up as spies of the land. 31 And we said unto him, Honest men are [we],—we are not spies!

Twelve brethren are [we], sons of our father,—the one isn't, and the youngest is this day with our father, in the land of Canaan.

Then said the man, the lord of the land unto us, <Hereby> shall I get to know that [honest men] ye are,—<One brother of you> leave ye remaining with me, and <corn> for the famine of your houses> take ye and go your way; And bring ye in your youngest brother unto me,
So must I get to know that ye are not spies, but are [honest men]:
<Your> brother will I give up to you, and <with the land> shall ye traffic.

And it came to pass <when> were emptying their sacks, then lo! [each man's bundle of silver] was in his sack,—and <when> they beheld their bundles of silver—they and their father> they were afraid. 35 And Jacob their father said unto them,
<Me> have ye bereaved,—
|Joseph> is not', and |Simeon> is not', and
|Benjamin> ye would take! 37 Then spake Reuben unto his father, saying, <My two sons> shalt thou put to death, if I bring him not unto thee,—Come, give him up upon my hand, and ||I|| will restore him unto thee.

And he said,
My son shall not go down with you,—For [his brother] is dead, and [he alone] is left, and <as surely as there befell him any mischief by the way wherein ye go> so surely shall ye bring down my grey hairs with sorrow unto hades.

§ 56. Jacob's Sons, with Benjamin, being sent to Egypt a second time, are entertained in Joseph's House.

1 But ||the famine|| was severe in the land. 2 So it came to pass <when> they had made an end of eating the corn which they had brought in out of Egypt > that their father said unto them,—Return, buy for us a little food.

3 Then spake Judah unto him, saying,—
The man [did protest] to us, saying—Ye shall not see my face, except [your brother] is with you.

4 <If thou art sending our brother with us> we will certainly go down, and buy for thee food; but <if thou art not sending him> we will not go down', for [the man] said unto us,
Ye shall not see my face, except [your brother] is with you.

6 And Israel said,
Wherefore did ye ill to me,—to tell the man, there yet remained to you. a brother? 7 And they said,
The man did ask concerning ourselves and concerning our kindred, saying—Is your father yet alive? Have ye a brother? 8 So we told him according to the tenor of these words. Could we [at all know] that he would say, Bringing down your brother?

9 Then said Judah unto Israel his father—
Come! send thou down the young man with me, that we may arise and go our way,—and live and not die, both [we and thou, and our little ones].

[1] <I> will be surety for him, [at my hand] shalt thou require him,—<as surely as I

GENESIS XLIII. 10—34; XLIV. 1—4.

... For if we had not lingered surely if now had we come back here a second time. Then Israel their father said unto them— If so then do this;— your brother also take ye,— and arise, go again unto the man. And God Almighty give you compassion and double silver take in your hand, — then Israel their father said unto them— So the men took this present, double silver, and went down into Egypt, and stood before Joseph. And Joseph saw also took they in their hand, and Benjamin,— because they had been brought into the house of the man brought the men into Joseph's house,— and slay meat, and make ready, for with me shall the men eat, at noon. So the men did as Joseph had said, and the man brought the men into Joseph's house. Then were the men afraid, and said, Is this your youngest brother, of whom ye spake? Is he yet' alive? And they said— It is well with thy servant our father, he is yet' alive. And they bent their heads, and bowed themselves down. Then lifted he up his eyes, and saw Benjamin his brother, son of his mother, and said— Is this your youngest brother, of whom ye spake unto me? And he said, God grant thee favour, my son! And Joseph made haste, for his compassions burned within him for his brother, son of his mother, and said— With me shall the young man come and be brought unto thee. And Joseph made haste, for his compassions burned within him, in his chamber, and wept there. Then bathed he his face, and came forth,— and restrained himself, and said, Set on bread! So they set on, for him— by himself, and for them— by themselves, and for the Egyptians that were eating with him— by themselves, for the Egyptians might not eat bread; with the Hebrews, for an abomination, had that been to Egyptians. So they took their seats before him, the firstborn according to his birthright, and the youngest according to his youth, and the men looked with amazement, each one at his companion. And he sent portions, from before him, unto them, and the portion of Benjamin exceeded the portions of them all five-fold. And they drank and made merry with him.

May it please my lord! We did indeed come down at the beginning to buy food. And it came to pass when we had entered into the inn that we opened our sacks, and lo! the silver of each man was in the mouth of his sack,— our silver in its full weight,— so we have brought it back in our hand! And more silver have we brought down in our hand, to buy food,— we know not where put our silver in our sacks. And he said— Peace to you, do not fear! Your God, and the God of your father, hath given you secret treasure, in your sacks, as for your silver, it came in unto me. And be brought forth unto them, Simeon.

city—they had not gone far, when Joseph said to him who was over his house, Rise, chase after the men, so shalt thou overtake them, and shalt say unto them,
Wherefore have ye required evil for good?* Is not this that in which my lord drinketh, and whereby he himself doth divine?
Ye have done evil, in what ye have done.
So he overtook them, and spake unto them these words. And they said unto him, Wherefore should my lord speak such words as these? Far be thy servants, from doing such a thing as this!
So he overtook them, and spake unto them these words. And they said unto him,
What is this deed which ye have done? Know ye not that such a man as I can even divine?
Then he said Judah—What shall we say to my lord, how shall we speak, and how shall we justify ourselves,—when God himself hath found out the iniquity of thy servants? Behold us! my lord's servants, both we, and he in whose hand the cup hath been found.
And he said,
Far be it from me, to do this thing! The man in whose hand the cup hath been found shall be my servant,
Ye yourselves know, that two did my wife bear to me, and the one went forth from me, and I said—Certainly he hath been torn in pieces!,—and I have never seen him since.
As surely as ye take this one also away from before my face, and there befal him any mischief>, so surely shall ye bring down my grey hairs, with misfortune, to hades.
Now therefore, as surely as I go in unto thy servant my father, and the lad is not with us,—seeing that his soul is bound up with the lad's soul,> then will I count myself a sinner against my father all the days.
Then Judah drew near unto him, and said—Pardon, my lord! Pray let thy servant speak a word in the ears of my lord, and do not let thine anger be kindled against thy servant,—for thus art thou, as Pharaoh!
It was my lord who asked his servants, saying,—Have ye a father, or a brother?
So we said unto my lord, We have an aged father, and the child of his old age, a youth,—<his brother> being dead> <the alone> is left of his mother, and <his father> loveth him.
So then thou saidst unto thy servants, Bring him down unto me,—that I may set mine eyes upon him.
And we said unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father,—<as surely as he leaveth his father> so surely will he die.
And thou saidst unto thy servants, <Except your youngest brother do come down with you> ye shall not again behold my face.
So it came to pass, when we had gone up unto thy servant, my father, that we told him the words of my lord.
Then said our father,—Go again, buy us a little food.
And we said,
We cannot go down, — <If our youngest brother be with us> then will we go down, for we cannot see the face of the man, if our youngest brother is not with us.
Then said thy servant my father, unto us,—Ye yourselves know, that two did my wife bear to me, and the one went forth from me, and I said—Certainly he hath been born in pieces!,—And I have never seen him since.
As surely as ye take this one also away from before my face, and there befal him any mischief>, so surely shall ye bring down my grey hairs, with misfortune, to hades.
Now therefore, as surely as I go in unto thy servant my father, and the lad is not with us,—seeing that his soul is bound up with the lad's soul,> then will I count myself a sinner against my father all the days.
For thy servant became surety for the lad, while away from my father, saying,—If I bring him not unto thee then will I count myself a sinner against my father all the days.

§ 59. Joseph makes himself known to his Brethren, and sends for his Father.

45 1 And Joseph could not restrain himself, before all who were stationed near him, so he cried out—

"Have forth every man from me! And there stood no man with him, when Joseph made himself known unto his brethren. Then gave he forth his voice, in weeping,—and the Egyptians heard, and the house of Pharaoh heard. Then said Joseph unto his brethren:

"I am Joseph, is my father [yet' alive]?

But his brethren could not answer him, for they were terrified because of him. Then said Joseph unto his brethren:

"Draw near, I pray you, unto me. And they drew near. And he said—

"I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt.

But [now] do not grieve, neither let it be vexing in your eyes, that ye sold me hither,—for <to save life> did God send me before you.

For these two years hath the famine been in the midst of the land,—and <yet five years> are there, in which there shall be neither ploughing, nor harvest.

So then God sent me before you, to plant for you a remainder, in the earth,—and to save you alive, by a great deliverance. Therefore, it was not [ye] who sent me hither, but [God] himself,—who also appointed me to be a father to Pharaoh, and a ruler over all the land of Egypt.

Haste ye, and go up unto my father, then shall ye say unto him — "Thus saith thy son Joseph, God hath appointed me lord to all Egypt,— come down unto me, do not delay: so shalt thou dwell in the land of Goen, and shalt be near unto me, [thou, and thy sons, and thy sons' sons,—and thy flocks and thy herds, and all that is thine]; so will I sustain thee, there, for there are yet five years of famine,—lest thou come to poverty—[thou, and thy house, and all who are thine]."

Now lo! [your own eyes] do see, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin,— that it is [my own mouth] that doth speak unto you.

<As soon as ye have told my father all my honour in Egypt, and all that ye have seen> so soon shall ye hasten, and bring down my father, hither.

Then fell he upon the neck of Benjamin his brother, and wept,—and [Benjamin] wept on his neck. Then kissed he all his brethren, and wept upon them,—and [thereafter] his brethren spake with him.

Now [the report] was heard by the house of Pharaoh, saying, The brethren of Joseph have come in. And it was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his servants. 17 So then Pharaoh said unto Joseph—

"Say unto thy brethren, [This] do,—lade your asses, and go, enter into the land of Canaan; [and] fetch your father and your households, and come in unto me,—that I may give you the best of the land of Egypt, and eat ye the fat of the land.

Then therefore, command them,—[This] do ye,— Take you, out of the land of Egypt, waggons for your little ones, and for your wives, so shall ye bring your father, and come in.

[Your eye] more, moreover, let it not look with pity upon your goods,—for [the best of all the land of Egypt] is [yours].

And the sons of Israel did so, and Joseph gave them waggons, at the bidding of Pharaoh,—and gave them provisions for the way: <to all of them> gave he, to each man, changes of raiment,—but <to Benjamin> he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and five changes of raiment. Moreover <to his father> sent he as followeth—ten he-asses, laden from the best of Egypt,—and ten she-asses, laden with corn and bread and nourishing food for his father, for the way. Thus sent he forth his brethren, and they departed,—and he said unto them,

Do not fall out, by the way. And they went up out of Egypt,—and came into the land of Canaan, unto Jacob their father. And they told him, saying— Joseph is [yet alive], yea, indeed [he] is ruler in all the land of Egypt.

And his heart became faint, 4 for he believed them not. 5 So they spake unto him all the words of Joseph, which he had spoken unto them, then saw he the waggons, which Joseph had sent to carry him,—and the spirit of Jacob their father revived. 6 And Israel said,

"Enough! Joseph my son is [yet alive]; I must go and see him before I die!"

§ 60. Jacob, encouraged by God, goes down into Egypt.

1 So Israel brake up, with all that he had, and came in to Beer-sheba,—and offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. 2 And God said to Israel, in the visions of the night, and he said— Jacob! Jacob! And he said— Behold me!

3 And he said:

"I am God himself,* the God of thy father,— Be not afraid of going down to Egypt, seeing that <for a great nation> will I plant thee there.

4 I will go down with thee to Egypt, and [I] will bring thee up, [yea wholly up]!"

So said he (W. Sep., Gen. 46:4). Mi: "began to cease beating." Regret."—O.G. Mi: "the fil." Mi: "upon the mouth."
So Jacob rose up from Beer-sheba, and the sons of Israel brought Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the wagons which Pharaoh had sent to bring him; and they took their cattle, and the gains which they had gained, in the land of Canaan, and came into Egypt,—Jacob and all his seed with him. Jacob, and all his seed with him, brought he with him into Egypt.

Now these are the names of the sons of Israel, who came into Egypt—Jacob and his sons,—

The firstborn of Jacob! Reuben:

And the sons of Reuben,— Hanoch and Pallu, and* Hezron and Carmi;

And the sons of Simeon,—

Jemuel and Jamin and Ohad, and Jachin and Zohar, and Shaul, son of the Canaanitess;

And the sons of Levi,—

Gershon, Kohath, and Merari;

And the sons of Judah,—

Er and Onan and Shelah, and Perez and Zerah,—but Er and Onan died, in the land of Canaan, and the sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul;

And the sons of Gad,— Zaphon and Haggi, Shunic and Ezbon,—Eri and Arodi, and Areli;

And the sons of Asher,—

Imnah and Ishvah and Ishvi and Beriah, and Serah their sister,—and the sons of Beriah—Heber and Malchiel.

These are the sons of Leah, whom she bare to Jacob, in Padan-aram, with Dinah also his daughter,—All the souls of his sons and of his daughters were thirty-three.

The sons of Gad,— Zaphon and Haggi, Shuni and Ezbon,—Eri and Arodi, and Areli;

And the sons of Asher,—

Imnah and Ishvah and Ishvi and Beriah, and Serah their sister,—and the sons of Beriah—Heber and Malchiel.

These are the sons of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to Leah his daughter,—so she bare these to Jacob,—all the souls were fourteen.

The sons of Rachel, Jacob's wife,—

Joseph, and Benjamin;

And were born to Jacob,—all the souls were fourteen.

And the sons of Dan,— Hushim;

And the sons of Naphtali,— Jahzel and Guni, and Jezer and Shillem.

These are the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban gave to Rachel his daughter,—so she bare these to Jacob,—all the souls were seven.

All the souls that came in with Jacob to Egypt, that had come forth of his loins, besides Jacob's sons' wives,—all the souls were sixty-six; and the sons of Joseph who were born to him in Egypt were two souls: All the souls of the house of Jacob that came into Egypt were seventy.

And he sent Judah before him unto Joseph, to direct his face to Goshen, so they came in towards the land of Goshen.

Then yoked Joseph his chariot, and went up to meet Israel his father, towards Goshen, and he appeared unto him, and fell upon his neck, and wept upon his neck a good while. Then said Israel unto Joseph,

I am ready to die at last, now that I have seen thy face, in that thou art yet alive.

Then said Joseph unto his brethren, and unto the house of his father,

I must go up, and must tell Pharaoh, and must say unto him, My brethren, and the house of my father, who were in the land of Canaan have come in unto me.

Now the men are feeders of flocks, for men of cattle they are,—and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have have they brought in.

So shall it come to pass when Pharaoh shall call for you,—and shall say—What is your occupation?

Then shall ye say—

Men of cattle have thy servants been, from our youth even until now, both we, and our fathers;

To the end ye may dwell in the land of Goshen, for is every feeder of a flock an abomination to Egyptians.

§ 61. Joseph introduces his Brethren and Father to Pharaoh, and relievesthe Distress of the Egyptians. Israel multiplies.

So then Joseph went in, and told Pharaoh, and said—

My father and my brethren, and their flocks and their herds and all that they have are come in, from the land of...
Canaan,— and there they are in the land of Goshen.

Moreover out of the whole number of his brethren he took with him five men,— and set them before Pharaoh.

And Pharaoh said unto the brethren of Joseph— What is your occupation?

And they said unto Pharaoh— Feeders of flocks are thy servants, both we and our fathers.

And they said unto Pharaoh— To sojourn in the land are we come in, for there is no pasture for the flocks which pertain to thy servants, for severe is the famine, in the land of Canaan.

Now therefore, let thy servants dwell, we pray thee, in the land of Goshen.

Then spake Pharaoh unto Joseph, saying,— Thy father and thy brethren are come in unto thee. I The land of Egypt is before thee, in the best of the land causeth thou thy father and thy brethren to dwell,—let them dwell in the land of Goshen.

If thou knowest that there are among them, men of ability thou settest them as chieftains of cattle, over mine.

So Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and caused him to stand before Pharaoh,— and Jacob blessed Pharaoh.

And Pharaoh said unto Jacob:

About how many have been the days of thy life?

And Jacob said unto Pharaoh,
The days of the years of my sojournings have been a hundred and thirty years,— Few and evil have been the days of the years of my life, neither have they attained unto the days of the years of the lives of my fathers, in the days of their sojournings.

And Jacob blessed Pharaoh,— and came forth from the presence of Pharaoh.

So then Joseph fixed the dwelling of his father and his brethren, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of Rameses,— as Pharaoh had commanded.

And Joseph nourished his father and his brethren, and all his father's house,— with bread, according to the need of their little ones.

But bread was there none, in all the land,— for the famine was very severe,— so that the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan, fainted by reason of the famine.

So Joseph gathered up all the silver that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they were buying,— and Joseph brought the silver into the house of Pharaoh.

And the silver was spent out of the land of Egypt, and out of the land of Canaan, so all the Egyptians came in unto Joseph, saying—

Do give us bread, for why should we die before thee, although silver hath failed?

Then said Joseph:

Give your cattle, and I will give you for your cattle,— if silver hath failed.

So they brought in their cattle unto Joseph, and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for the horses, and for the cattle of the flock, and for the cattle of the herd, and for the asses,— and he provided them with bread, for all their cattle, throughout that year.

When that year was ended, then came they unto him, in the second year, and said to him—

We will not hide from my lord, how that the silver, and the herds of beasts for my lord, are come to an end,— there is nothing left before my lord, save only our bodies, and our ground:

Wherefore should we die before thine eyes both we, and our ground? Buy thou us and our ground, for bread,— and we and our ground will become servants to Pharaoh, and give seed, that we may live, and not die, and the ground not lie waste.

So Joseph bought all the ground of the Egyptians for Pharaoh, for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine had laid fast hold upon them,— so the land became Pharaoh's.

And as for the people he brought them into bondage as servants,— from one end of the boundary of Egypt unto the other end thereof. Only the ground of the priests bought he not,— for the priests had a statutory-portion from Pharaoh, and they had been eating their statutory-portion, which Pharaoh had given them, for which cause they had not sold their ground.

And Joseph said unto the people, Lo! I have bought you this day, and your ground, for Pharaoh,— see, here is seed for you, so shall ye sow the ground; and it shall come to pass that, of the yield ye shall give a fifth to Pharaoh, but the four parts shall be your own—for seed for the field, and for your food, and for them who are in your households, and for food for your little ones.

And they said— Thou hast saved our lives! let us find favour in the eyes of my lord, so will we become Pharaoh's servants.

And Joseph appointed it for a statute— until this day, regarding the ground of Egypt, that the ground of the priests was theirs alone, it had not become Pharaoh's.

Thus Israel dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the land of Goshen,— and gained possessions therein, and became fruitful and multiplied, exceedingly.
§ 62. Jacob blesses Ephraim and Manasseh.

26 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years;—so it came to pass that the days of Jacob, the years of his life, were a hundred and forty-seven years. 28 And the days of Israel drew near that he must die, so he called for his son, for Joseph, and said to him—

"If I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes;—place, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh,—so shalt thou deal with me in lovingkindness and faithfulness—

Do not, I pray thee, bury me in Egypt. 30 When I shall lie down with my fathers then shalt thou carry me out of Egypt, and bury me in their buryingplace.

And he said:

"I will do according to thy word."

31 Then he said:

"Come, swear to me!"

And he sware to him. Then did Israel bow himself down on the head of the couch.

And it came to pass after these things that one said to Joseph,

"Lo! thy father is sick."

So he took his two sons with him, Manasseh and Ephraim. 44 And one told Jacob, and said—

"Lo! thy son Joseph coming in unto thee."

So Israel strengthened himself, and sat up on the couch. Then said Jacob unto Joseph,

"God Almighty appeared unto me in Luz in the land of Canaan,—and blessed me; and said unto me—Behold me! about to make thee fruitful, so will I multiply thee, and give thee to become a multitude of peoples,—so will I give this land to thy seed after thee, as an age-abiding possession."

Now therefore, thy two sons who were born to thee in the land of Egypt, before I came in unto thee in Egypt are mine! Ephraim and Manasseh shall be mine! But thou hast begotten after them thou shalt be, after the name of their brethren, shall be their inheritance.

But as for me, I came in from Padan Rachel died by me, in the land of Canaan, in the way, while yet there was a stretch of country to come into Ephrath,—so I buried her there, in the way to Ephrath, the same is Bethlehem. Then Israel saw Joseph's sons,—and said—

Who are these? And Joseph said unto his father, "My sons they are", whom God hath given me, in this place. And he said—

Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, that I may bless them.

Now the eyes of Israel had become dim from old age,—he could not see,—so he drew them near unto him, and kissed them, and embraced them. And Israel said unto Joseph,

"To see thine own face had I not thought,—and lo! God hath caused me to see even thy seed!"

And Joseph brought them out from beside his knees, and bowed himself down with his face towards the earth. And Joseph took them both,—Ephraim in his right hand, on Israel's left hand, and Manasseh in his left hand, on Israel's right hand,—and drew them near unto him. Then Israel put forth his right hand, and laid it upon the head of Ephraim, though he was the youngest, and his left hand, upon the head of Manasseh,—crossing his hands, although Manasseh was the first-born. Thus blessed he Joseph, and said—

"God himself—before whom walked my fathers, Abraham and Isaac, God himself—who hath been my shepherd, since I came into being until this day;—

The Messenger—who hath been my redeemer from all evil—bless the lads! And may there be called upon them, my name, and the name of my fathers, Abraham and Isaac; And may they swarm into a multitude in the midst of the earth!"

And Joseph saw that his father had laid his right hand on the head of Ephraim, and it was displeasing in his eyes,—so he took hold of his father's hand, to remove it from off the head of Ephraim, on to the head of Manasseh. And Joseph said unto his father—

"Not so, my father! for this is the firstborn, lay thy right hand upon his head."

And his father refused, and said—

"I know—my son, I know! He also shall become a people, and he also shall become great,—but nevertheless, his younger brother shall become greater than he, and his seed shall become a filling up of the nations."

And he blessed them on that day, saying—

"In thee let Israel bless himself, saying, God set thee as Ephraim, and as Manasseh!"

And Israelsaid unto Joseph:

"Lo! I am about to die,—but it shall come to pass that God will be with you, and will take you back into the land of your fathers."

But I will have given to thee one mountain-track, above thy brethren,—which I took out of the hand of the Amorite, with my sword and with my bow.

"And some cod. (w. Jom., Sep., Syr.) "lived"; also "wandered." Or: "land." "walked to and fro" =

"walked about."
§63. Jacob's Prophecy of the Future of his Sons.

1 Then called Jacob unto his sons,—and said—

"Gather yourselves together, and let me tell you, that which shall befall you in the afterpart of the days."

2 Assemble yourselves and hear, ye sons of Jacob,—

"And hearken, unto Israel your father!"

3 Reuben] <my first-born> thou',

"My vigour, and the first-fruit of my strength,—"

Re-eminence of elevation, and pre-eminence of power:

4 Boiling over like water, thou mayest not have pre-eminence,

Because thou didst mount the bed of thy father,—

"Then wast thou profane—"

"My marriage-bed" he mounted!

5 Simeon and Levi are brethren,—

"Instrumentsof violence" are their agreements:

6 Into their circle do not thou enter, my soul!

"In their convocation do not thou join mine honour!"

For <in their anger> they slew brave men,

And <in their wantonness>, they ham-strung oxen.

7 Accursed be their anger, because fierce,

And their wrath, because cruel,—

I divide them in Jacob,

And I disperse them in Israel.

8 Judah] <as for thee> thy brethren shall praise thee [when] "thy hand" is on the neck of thy foes,—

The sons of thy father [shall bow themselves down to thee]:

9 A lion's whelp is Judah,

"From the prey", my son, hast thou come up!

He hath stooped—hath crouched,

As a lion—or as a lioness.

Who shall rouse him?

10 The sceptre shall not depart from Judah,

Nor the commander's staff from between his feet,—

Until that he come in as a Shiloh,

And [his] be the obedience of the peoples:

11 Binding, to the vine, his ass,

And, to the choice vine, his ass's colt,

He hath washed, in wine, his raiment,

And, in the blood of grapes, his mantle:

12 Darker—his eyes, than wine,—

Whiter—his teeth, than milk!

13 Zebulon] <by a haven of seas> shall he settle down,—

14 Issachar] <an ass of strength,—couching between the pens;>

Then beholdeth he rest, that it is good,

And the ground, that it is pleasant,—

So he bendeth his shoulder, to bear,

And becometh a tributary servant.

15 Dan] shall vindicate his people,—as one of the tribes of Israel;

It cometh to pass that <Dan> is a serpent upon the way,

A horned viper, upon the path,—

That biteth the heels of the horse,

And his rider falleth backwards:

16 For thy salvation have I waited, O Yahweh!

17 Gad: "a troop shall troop on him,—"

But the shall troop on the rear.

18 Out of Asher] fatness, is his food,—

So he setteth forth dainties for a king.

19 Naphtali] is a slender hind,—

That putteth forth antlers of beauty.

20 A fruitful bough is Joseph,

A fruitful bough, over a fountain,—

Branches, creeping over a wall.

So they attack him, and have shot,—

So they enclose him, do the masters of arrows.

But abideth, as an enduring one, his bow,

And supple are the arms of his hands,—

From the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob,

<From thence> is the Shepherd, the Stone of Israel:

21 From thence is the Shepherd, the Stone of Israel:

22 The blessings of thy father have prevailed

Over the blessings of the perpetual mountains,

The charm of the age-abiding hills,—

They turn out to be, for the head of Joseph,

And for the crown of the head, of him who was set apart from his brethren."
GENESIS XLIX. 27—33; L. 1—23.

§ 57. Benjamin

27 A wolf that teareth in pieces, in the morning he eateth prey, and at evening he divideth spoil.
28 All these are the twelve tribes of Israel. This is that which their father spake to them, when he blessed them, each man severally according to the blessing wherewith he blessed them.

§ 64. Jacob charges his Sons to bury him in Machpelah. His Death, and his Burial in Canaan.

29 Then commanded he them, and said unto them— I am about to be gathered unto my people, bury me among my fathers, within the cave, that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite: in the cave, that is in the field of Machpelah, which is over against Mamre, in the land of Canaan, which Abraham bought, along with the field, from Ephron the Hittite, for a possession of a burying-place:—
30 There buried they Abraham, and Sarah his wife, and there buried they Isaac, and Rebekah his wife, and there buried I Leah;—
31 buying the field, and the cave that is there in, from the sons of Heth. So Jacob made an end of commanding his sons, and gathered up his feet, into the couch, and ceased to breathe, and was gathered unto his people.

50 And Joseph fell upon the face of his father, and wept upon him, and kissed him. Then Joseph commanded his servants, the physicians, to embalm his father;—and they fulfilled for him forty days, for so are they wont to fulfill the days of the embalmed, and the Egyptians wept for him seventy days. And when the days of weeping for him were passed, Joseph spake unto the house of Pharaoh, saying:

51 If, I pray you, I have found favour in your eyes, speak ye, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, saying:—
52 Thus shall ye say to Joseph— Ah now! do forgive, we pray thee, the transgression of thy brethren and their sin, in that with evil they requited thee. Now therefore, grant forgiveness, we pray thee, for the transgression of the servants of the God of thy father! And Joseph wept, when they spake unto him. And Joseph said unto them— Do not fear, although in place of God I am. Yea, indeed, planned against me evil, [God] planned it for good, for the sake of doing, as at this day, to save alive much people. Now therefore, do not fear! I will nourish you, and your little ones. Thus he consoled them, and spoke unto their heart.

55 And Joseph abode in Egypt, he, and his father's house, and Joseph lived a hundred and ten years. And Joseph saw Ephraim's sons of three generations,— moreover ||the sons of Machir, son of Manasseh|| were born upon Joseph's knees. 24 Then said Joseph unto his brethren, I am about to die,— but ||God|| will ||surely concern|| himself for you, so will he take you up out of this land, into the land, which he sware to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

Then Joseph made the sons of Israel swear, saying,— God will ||surely concern|| himself for you, So shall ye carry up my bones, from hence.*

So Joseph died, being a hundred and ten years old,— and they embalmed him, and put him in a coffin, in Egypt.

6 Then Joseph made the sons of Israel swear, saying,— God will ||surely concern|| himself for you. So shallye carry up my bones, from hence.*

28 Then Joseph died, being a hundred and ten years old,— and they embalmed him, and put him in a coffin, in Egypt.

Then arose a new king over Egypt,— who had not known Joseph. 9 So he said, unto his people,— Lo! ||the people of the sons of Israel|| are too many and mighty for us! 10 Come on! let us shew ourselves wise with regard to them,— lest they so multiply that it shall come to pass when war befalleth us,— that they also shall join themselves unto them who hate us, and shall make war upon us, and then go up out of the land.

11 So they set over them chiefs of tribute, to the end they might humiliate them with their burdens,— and they built store-cities for Pharaoh, even Pithom and Raamses. 12 But ||the more they were humiliating them|| ||the more|| were they multiplying, and ||the more|| were they breaking forth,— so they were filled with alarm, because of the sons of Israel. 13 And the Egyptians rigorously* made the sons of Israel serve; 14 and embittered their lives with harsh service, in clay and in bricks, and in all manner of service in the field,— all their service, wherein they rigorously* made them serve.

15 Then said the king of Egypt to the Hebrew midwives,— of whom |the name of the one|| was ||Shiphrah|| and |the name of the other|| ||Puah||;— then he said—

<When ye act as midwives unto the Hebrew women> then shall ye look out for the sex,—

<If it is ||a son||> then shallye killit,

But <if it is ||a daughter||> then shall it live.

But the midwives feared God, and did not as the king of Egypt spake unto them,— but suffered the male children to live. 17 Then called the king of Egypt for the midwives, and said to them—

Wherefore have ye done this thing,— that ye should let the male children live?

And the midwives said unto Pharaoh.

Because <not like the Egyptian women> are the Hebrew women,— for they are ||full of life||, <ere yet the midwife can come in unto them> they have given birth. 19 So then God dealt well with the midwives,— and the people multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty. 20 And it came to pass, <because the midwives feared God> that he made for them households.

THE BOOK OF EXODUS.

§ 1. The Sons of Israel in Egypt become a numerous People, notwithstanding Oppression and Peril.

1 Now lthese are the names of the Sons of Israel, who came into Egypt,— c with Jacob> did each man and his household come in:—

2 Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah ;
3 Issachar, Zebulon, and Benjamin ;
4 Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher.

And it came to pass that ||all the persons|| who were descended from ||Jacob|| were seventy souls,— but ||Joseph|| was already in Egypt. 6 So then Joseph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation. 7 But ||the sons of Israel|| were fruitful, and swarmed and multiplied and waxed mighty, with ||exceeding vigour||,— so that the land was filled with them.

Then arose a new king over Egypt,— who had not known Joseph. 9 So he said, unto his people,— Lo! ||the people of the sons of Israel|| are too many and mighty for us! 10 Come on! let us shew ourselves wise with regard to them,— lest they so multiply that it shall come to pass when war befalleth us,— that they also shall join themselves unto them who hate us, and shall make war upon us, and then go up out of the land.

11 So they set over them chiefs of tribute, to the end they might humiliate them with their burdens,— and they built store-cities for Pharaoh, even Pithom and Raamses. 12 But ||the more they were humiliating them|| ||the more|| were they multiplying, and ||the more|| were they breaking forth,— so they were filled with alarm, because of the sons of Israel. 13 And the Egyptians rigorously* made the sons of Israel serve; 14 and embittered their lives with harsh service, in clay and in bricks, and in all manner of service in the field,— all their service, wherein they rigorously* made them serve.

15 Then said the king of Egypt to the Hebrew midwives,— of whom |the name of the one|| was ||Shiphrah|| and |the name of the other|| ||Puah||;— then he said—

<When ye act as midwives unto the Hebrew women> then shall ye look out for the sex,—

<If it is ||a son||> then shallye killit,

But <if it is ||a daughter||> then shall it live.

But the midwives feared God, and did not as the king of Egypt spake unto them,— but suffered the male children to live. 17 Then called the king of Egypt for the midwives, and said to them—

Wherefore have ye done this thing,— that ye should let the male children live?

And the midwives said unto Pharaoh.

Because <not like the Egyptian women> are the Hebrew women,— for they are ||full of life||, <ere yet the midwife can come in unto them> they have given birth. 19 So then God dealt well with the midwives,— and the people multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty. 20 And it came to pass, <because the midwives feared God> that he made for them households.
Then gave Pharaoh command to all his people, saying—

"Every son that is born to the Hebrews shall into the river ye cast him; but every daughter shall ye suffer to live.

§ 2. Moses the Deliverer: his Birth, Rescue, Adoption by Pharaoh's Daughter. First Attempts to help his Kinsmen, and sudden Departure to Midian, where he dwells thenceforth.

And there went a man of the house of Levi,—and took a daughter of Levi. And the woman conceived, and bare a son,—and she saw him, that he was a goodly child, so she hid him three months. And when she could no longer hide him, she took for him an ark of paper-reed, and covered it over with bitumen, and with pitch,—and put therein the child, and laid it among the rushes, upon the bank of the river. Then did her sister stand at a distance,—to see what would be done to him.

So then the daughter of Pharaoh came down to bathe by the river, and her maidens were walking by the side of the river,—when she saw the ark in the midst of the rushes, and sent her handmaid and fetched it. And she opened, and beheld it,—even the child, and lo! a boy weeping,—so she took pity on him, and said—Of the children of the Hebrews is this.

Then said her sister unto Pharaoh's daughter,—Shall I go and call the nurse, of the Hebrew women,—that she may nurse for thee the child?

And Pharaoh's daughter said to her—

Go. So the maid went, and called the mother of the child. And Pharaoh's daughter said to her—

Take this child, and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. So the woman took the child, and nursed it. And the child grew, and she brought him in to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. And she called his name Moses, and said—For out of the water I drew him.

And it came to pass in the days when Moses grew up that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens,—and saw an Egyptian smiting a Hebrew of his brethren. So he turned this way and that, and when he saw that there was no man he smote the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand.

And he went out on the second day, and lo! two Hebrews striving together,—so he said to him that did the wrong, Wherefore shouldst thou smite thy fellow?

And he said—Who hath set thee' for a chief and a judge over us? To slay me art thou' thinking, as thou didst slay the Egyptian? Then was Moses afraid, and said—Surely the thing is known!

So Pharaoh heard this thing, and sought to slay Moses,—and Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian, and sat down by the well.

Now the priest of Midian had seven daughters,—and they came and drew, and filled the troughs, to water their father's flock. Then came the shepherds, and drove them away,—so Moses rose up, and succoured them, and watered their flock. Then came they in unto Reuel his father,—and he said, Wherefore have ye so early come in to-day?

And they said,—An Egyptian delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds,—Moreover also he drew for us, and watered the flock.

And he said unto his daughters—And where is he? wherefore is it that ye left the man? Call him, that he may eat bread.

And Moses was well-pleased to dwell with the man,—and he gave Zipporah his daughter to Moses. And she bare a son, and he called his name Gershom,—for he said, A sojourner I am, in a strange land.

§ 3. Moses commissioned from the Burning Bush to deliver Israel.

And it came to pass during those many days that the king of Egypt died, and the sons of Israel sighed by reason of the servitude, and lamented,—and their cry for help went up to God, by reason of the servitude. And God heard their groaning,—and God remembered his covenant, with Abraham, with Isaac and with Jacob; so then, God looked upon the sons of Israel,—and God regarded.

Now Moses was shepherding the flock of Jethro his father-in-law, priest of Midian,—so he led forth the flock behind the desert, and came in unto the mountain of God, to Horeb. Then appeared the messenger of God from the bush.
Yahweh * unto him, in a flame of fire, from the midst of the thorn-bush;—so he looked, and lo! ||the thorn-bush, burning with fire|| and yet ||the thorn-bush was not' consumed. 3 And Moses said,

Let me turn aside, pray, and see this great sight,—why the thorn-bush doth not burn up. 4 And Yahweh saw, that he turned aside to see,—so God called unto him, out of the midst of the thorn-bush, and said—

Moses! Moses! And he said—

Behold me! 5 And he said—

Do not draw nigh hither,—put off thy sandals from thy feet, for ||the place whereon thou' art standing|| is holy ground. 6 And he said—

I am the God of thy father, God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face, for he was afraid to look upon God. 7 Then said Yahweh,

I have seen the humiliation of my people, who are in Egypt,—and <their outcry> have I heard, by reason of their task-masters, for I know their pains; 8 therefore have I come down to deliver them from the hand of the Egyptians, and to take them up out of that land, into a land good and large, into a land flowing with milk and honey,—into the place of the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite. 9 Therefore, lo! ||the outtry of the sons of Israel|| hath come in unto me,—moreover also' I have seen the oppression, wherewith ||the Egyptians|| are oppressing them. 10 Therefore, come thou! that I may send thee unto Pharaoh,—and bring thou forth my people—the sons of Israel—out of Egypt.

11 And Moses said unto God,

Who am ||I , thatI should gounto Pharaoh,—and thatI should bringforth the sons of Israel, out of Egypt! 12 And he said—

I will be with thee, and ||this||<to thee> [shall be] the sign, that ||I|| have sent thee,—<When thou bringest forth the people out of Egypt> yeshalldo service unto God, upon this mountain. 13 And Moses said unto God—

Lo! ||as surely as ||I|| go in unto the sons of Israel, and say unto them, ||The God of your fathers' hath sent me unto you>

So surely will they say unto me—

What is his name?

What shall I say unto them?

And God said unto Moses,

I Will Become whatsoever I please. a And he said—

Thus shalt thou say to the sons of Israel, I Will Become hath sent me unto you.

And God said yet further unto Moses—

Thus shalt thou say unto the sons of Israel, Yahweh, b God of your fathers, God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you. 16 ||This|| is my name to times age-abiding, And ||this|| my memorial to generation after generation.

Go—and thou shalt gather together the elders of Israel, and shalt say unto them—

Yahweh, God of your fathers hath appeared unto me, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying,—

I am [concerned] for you, and for what is done to you in Egypt; 17 therefore do I say—

I will bring you up out of the humiliation of Egypt, into the land of the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite,—into a land flowing with milk and honey.

So will they hearken to thy voice,—and thou shalt go in—||thou, and the elders of Israel|| unto the king of Egypt, and ye shall say unto him—

Yahweh, God of the Hebrews hath fallen in with us, 19 therefore, let us go, we pray thee, a journey of three days, into the desert, that we may sacrifice to Yahweh, our God. But ||I|| know, that the king of Egypt will not suffer you to go,—not even by a firm hand.

So then I will put forth my hand, and smite Egypt, with all my wonders, which I will do in the midst thereof, and <after that> he will send you forth.

Thus will I give favour to this people, in the eyes of the Egyptians,—so shall it come to pass that <when ye do go> ye shall not go [empty] ; 20 but every woman shall ask of a To follow the weighty explanation subjoined, it should be borne in mind that the Hebrew in ver. 14 is, second line, 'ךְָּֽשָּֽׁהָֽבָּר 'ךָֽבָּלָּה' thenthen in the fifth line 'ךְָּֽשָּֽׁהָּר יְֽחָּרָֽשׁ only; then that 'ךְָּֽשָּֽׁהָּר יְֽחָּרָֽשׁ takes up the strain in ver. 15. "Ye shall come out, when ye be possessed", does not mean 'to be essentially or ontologically, but phenomenally. . . . It seems evident that in the view of the writer 'ךָּֽשָּֽׁהָּר יְֽחָּרָֽשׁ are the same: that God is 'ךָּֽשָּֽׁהָּר יְֽחָּרָֽשׁ . 'I will be,' when speaking of Himself, and 'ךְָּֽשָּֽׁהָּר יְֽחָּרָֽשׁ . 'He will be,' when spoken of by others. What he will be is left unexpressed—He will be with them, helper, strengthen'er, deliverer.' —Professor A. B. Davidson, in Hastings' Bible Dictionary, Vol. II: 199. [It will be seen by the discriminating that the above brief exposition of the meaning of the Divine Name 'Yahweh' is in essential accord with that offered in Chapter IV., of the Introduction to this Bible.

b 'He who becometh.' Cp. Intro., Chap. IV., p. 26 her neighbour, and of her that sojourneth in her house, jewels * of silver, and jewels * of gold, and mantles,—and ye shall put them upon your sons, and upon your daughters, so shall ye spoil the Egyptians.

4 Then responded Moses, and said,
   And lo! b they will not believe me, neither hearken to my voice,—for they will say,
   Yahweh [hath not appeared unto thee].

9 And Yahweh said unto him—
   What is this in thy hand?

10 And he said—
   A staff.

11 Then said Yahweh unto him, ye shall go and talk with Pharaoh, — and I will harden his heart, and Pharaoh shall not hearken to thee, so will I deliver My people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt.

12 Then said Moses, Lord, behold, I cannot speak well; for I am slow of speech, and of a slow tongue.

13 And Yahweh said unto him, who made man's mouth? or who giveth him speech? and who giveth him understanding and knowledge, and wisdom? and who giveth power and strength to any?'

14 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Moses, and he said—
   Is there not Aaron, thy brother, the Levite? I know that he can speak better.
   Moreover also! lo! the selfsame God is about to harden Pharaoh's heart, so that he will not hearken unto thee, according to all that I shall command thee.

15 Then shall thou say unto him, Yahweh, God of the heavens, God of the earth, the God of thy father, God of mine father, and God of mine mother, hath appeared unto me—

16 And said, And I will multiply more of My signs and My wonders that shall happen to the Egyptians: so that thou shalt do the thing which I say. And the Egyptians shall know that I am Yahweh, when I have stretched out My hand against this land, and against the Egyptians; and Pharaoh shall be hardened of heart, and will not hearken unto thee.

17 And Yahweh said unto Moses, But I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and Pharaoh shall not hearken unto thee; in very deed for I will multiply My signs and My wonders in the land of Egypt.

18 So Moses went and returned unto Jethro, his father-in-law, and said unto him—
   Go, return to Egypt, — for I have magnified thee before Pharaoh, and he will not hearken unto thee; but I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and will multiply My signs and My wonders in Egypt.

19 Then said Moses, I pray thee, show me a sign unto me, that I may go unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharaoh; and I will speak unto Pharaoh, that he may let the children of Israel go out of Egypt.

20 And Moses said unto his brother Aaron—
   Go, I pray thee, speak unto Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, saying, Let My people go, that they may serve Me.

21 And Moses and Aaron did all that Yahweh had commanded them; and they spoke unto Pharaoh, saying, Let My people go, that they may serve Me. But he would not hearken unto them; for Yahweh had hardened Pharaoh's heart, lest he should let them go.

22 Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Go in and speak unto Pharaoh, saying, Thus saith Yahweh, Let My people go, that they may serve Me.

23 And if Pharaoh will not hearken unto you, then shalt thou say unto him, Thus saith Yahweh, In the same manner that I brought thee up out of the water, in like manner shall I bring up this people out of the land of Egypt: and thou shalt do the sign wherewith I shall send unto thee; and thou shalt do it before Pharaoh: but I will harden Pharaoh's heart, that he will not hearken unto you; and I will smite Egypt with all My signs.

24 And when the king of Egypt shall say unto you, What is this which ye do? say, It is a matter of the gods of your father: for that which was before, saith Yahweh; because I spake unto your father Jacob.

25 Then said Moses, I pray thee, show me a sign unto me, that I may go unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharaoh; and I will speak unto Pharaoh, saying, Let My people go.

26 And he said, Thus saith Yahweh, In My hand shall be the blood of My people; for the Egyptians shall know that I am Yahweh, when I shall smite the waters of the river, the fountains, and the springs, with My sword; and there shall be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, and this shall be the sign unto thee: when I shall smite all the land of Egypt with the stroke of My sword, and the Egyptians shall know that I am Yahweh.

27 And God said unto Moses, I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and Pharaoh will not hearken unto you; as at first I hardened Pharaoh's heart so that he would not let the children of Israel go out of Egypt:

28 But I will harden Pharaoh's heart, that he will not hearken unto you, that My name may be called in all the land of Egypt, and that ye may know that I am Yahweh. And I said, I will go up and smite the Egyptians, and that ye may hear a tale of My name throughout all the earth. And it shall be unto thee a token unto the children of Israel.

29 And Moses and Aaron did all the signs which Yahweh had commanded them; and they did them in the sight of Pharaoh, and in the sight of his servants. And yet Pharaoh hardened his heart, and would not hearken unto them; as at the first.

30 And Yahweh said unto Moses, Why dost thou cry unto Me? speak not with a stumbling tongue; for I will not be patient with thee.

31 Then said Moses, Lord, I cannot speak well; for I am slow of speech, and of a slow tongue.

32 And Yahweh said, Look. Now therefore, I will put My words in thy mouth; and I will be with thee, and will deliver thee and Pharaoh, and will deliver the people of Israel, and will glorify My name in the Egyptians; and I will multiply more of My signs and My wonders in the land of Egypt.
behold I am going to slay thy son, thy firstborn.

24 And it came to pass <on the way, in the resting-place for the night> that Yahweh fell upon him, and sought to kill him. 25 So Zipporah took a sharp stone, and cut off the foreskin of her son, and cast it down at his feet, — and said—

Surely,  art thou to me!

26 So he let him go. ||Then it was that she said, A bridegroom by rites of blood— with regard to the rites of circumcision.

27 And Yahweh said unto Aaron,

Go thy way to meet Moses, towards the desert. So he went his way, and fell in with him in the mountain of God, and kissed him. 28 And Moses told Aaron, all the words of Yahweh, wherewith he had sent him, — and all the signs wherewith he had charged him. 29 So Moses and Aaron went their way, — and gathered together all the elders of the sons of Israel.

30 And Aaron spake all the words which Yahweh had spoken unto Moses, — and did the signs, before the eyes of the people. 31 And the people believed, — and when they heard that Yahweh had concerned himself for the sons of Israel, and that he had looked upon their humiliation— then bent they their heads and bowed themselves down.

§ 5. The First Interview with Pharaoh, and its Results.

1 And afterwards Moses and Aaron went in, and said unto Pharaoh,—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of Israel,

Let my people go, that they may hold a festival to me, in the desert.

2 Then said Pharaoh,

Who is Yahweh, that I should hearken to his voice, to let Israel go?

I know not Yahweh, and certainly Israel will not go!

3 And they said,

The God of the Hebrews hath met with us, — let us go, we pray thee, a journey of three days into the desert, and sacrifice to Yahweh our God, lest he fall upon us, with pestilence or with sword.

4 And the king of Egypt said unto them, Wherefore, O Moses and Aaron, should ye loose the people, from their works? Get you to your burdens.

5 And Pharaoh said,

Lo! <many—now> are the people of the land,— and are ye to make them rest from their burdens?

6 So then Pharaoh gave command, on that day, unto the taskmasters over the people, and unto their overseers— saying:

7 Ye shall no more give straw unto the people, for making the bricks, as heretofore: Let them go themselves, so shall they gather for themselves straw: 8 Nevertheless, <the fixed number of bricks, which they have been making heretofore> shall ye lay upon them, ye shall not diminish therefrom, — for <idle> they are, <on this account> it is that they are making an outcry, saying,

We must go our way, we must* sacrifice to our God.

9 The service must be made heavy on the men, that they may labour on it,— and let them not pay regard to words of falsehood.

10 Then went forth the taskmasters of the people, and their overseers, and spake unto the people,— saying,—

||Thus|| saith Pharaoh,

I am not* going to give you straw,

11 Ye yourselves go fetch you straw, of any ye can find,—yet hath there not been diminished from your service a single thing.

12 So the people dispersed themselves throughout all the land of Egypt,— to gather stubble for straw: 13||the taskmasters|| meanwhile, being urgent, saying,— Complete your works, <The task of a day> in its day, as when the straw was provided'.

14 Then were beaten the overseers of the sons of Israel, whom the taskmasters of Pharaoh had set over them, saying:

Wherefore have ye not completed your task for making bricks, <as heretofore> ||so also|| yesterday and to-day?

15 Then came in the overseers of the sons of Israel, and made outcry unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore shouldst thou do thus, to thy servants?

16 ||No straw|| is given to thy servants, yet <bricks>—they keep saying to us— make ye! And lo, ||thy servants|| are beaten—thou dost, therefore, wrong thy people.

17 But he said:

<Idle> ye are—<idle> <on this account> are <ye> saying;

We must take our journey, we must sacrifice to Yahweh.

18 ||Now|| therefore, go labour, but <straw> shall not be given you,—yet <the tale of bricks> shall ye render.

19 Then did the overseers of the sons of Israel see themselves to be in an evil case, when it was said,—

Ye shall not diminish from your bricks— <the task of a day> in its day !

20 So they fell upon Moses and upon Aaron, stationing themselves to meet them,— as they came forth from Pharaoh; 21 and they said unto them, Yahweh look upon you, and judge,—in that ye have made us odious* in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, putting a sword into their hand to slay us.

* Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Oak. MS., Sep.): Syr.—G.n. edn., Oak. MS., Sep.; Mi: "made loathsome our odour.'
22 And Moses returned unto Yahweh, and said,—

O My Lord, wherefore hast thou caused harm to this people?

Wherefore now didst thou send me? seeing that, from what time I came in unto Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done harm to this people, and thou hast not delivered thy people.

6 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

Now shalt thou see, what I will do to Pharaoh,—for with a strong hand shall he let them go, and with a strong hand shall he drive them out from his land.

§6. The Commission of Moses renewed.

1 And God spake unto Moses,— and said unto him:

I am Yahweh:

I appeared, therefore, unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, as God Almighty,—although by my name Yahweh was I not made known to them;

Moreover also I established my covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan,—even the land of their sojournings wherein they sojourned;

Moreover also I heard the groaning of the sons of Israel, whom the Egyptians were holding in servitude,—So then I remembered my covenant.

Therefore say thou to the sons of Israel—

I am Yahweh, Therefore will I bring you forth from under the burdens of Egypt, And will deliver you out of their service,—And I will redeem you with an outstretched arm, and with great judgments;

And I will bring you into the land as to which I uplifted my hand to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob,—and will give it to you as an inheritance:

I am Yahweh.

9 And Moses spake thus unto the sons of Israel—

I am Yahweh, Therefore will I bring you forth from under the burdens of Egypt, And will deliver you out of their service,—And will redeem you with a stretched-out arm, and with great judgments;

And will take you to myself, for a people, And will become your God,—And ye shall know that I am Yahweh, your God, who brought you forth from under the burdens of Egypt:

And I will bring you into the land as to which I uplifted my hand to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob,—and will give it to you as an inheritance:

I am Yahweh.

10 And Moses spake unto Moses—saying:

Go in, speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt,—that he let the sons of Israel go out of his land.

12 And Moses spake before Yahweh, saying,—

Lo! the sons of Israel have not hearkened unto me, how then shall Pharaoh hear, I also, being of uncircumcised lips.

13 Thus then did Yahweh speak unto Moses and unto Aaron, yea he gave them a charge unto the sons of Israel, and unto Pharaoh king of Egypt,—for the bringing forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

14 These are the heads of their ancestral house:

The sons of Reuben the first-born of Israel

Jemuel and Jamin, and Ohad and Jachin and Zohar, and Shaul, the son of a Canaanitess.

These are the families of Reuben.

Korah and Nepheg, and Zichri.

22 And the sons of Izhar.

Mishael and Elzaphan, and Sathi.

23 And Aaron took Elisheba, daughter of Amminadab, sister of Nahshon, to himself to wife,—and she bare to him—Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Itamar.

24 And the sons of Korah.

Assir and Elkanah, and Abiasaph.

These are the heads of the families of the Levites, by their families.

25 And Eleazar, son of Aaron, took to himself one of the daughters of Putiel, to himself to wife, and she bare to him Phinehas.

These are the heads of the fathers of the Levites, by their families.

26 The same Aaron and Moses,—to whom said Yahweh,

Bring ye forth the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, according to their hosts:

27 They who were to speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring forth the sons of Israel out of Egypt:

The same Moses and Aaron.

By this greater fulness of expression, wakening up the reader here to expect more details.

Note here, first, the solemn identification of Moses and Aaron as the crown of the previous genealogies; and, second,
Then said Yahweh unto Moses—

Go in unto Pharaoh, then shalt thou say unto him—

Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

Dull is the heart of Pharaoh,—he hath refused to let the people go.

Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning—lo! he is coming out to the waters, therefore shalt thou station thyself to meet him, on the bank of the river, and shalt thou take in thy hand. 16 Then thou shalt take in thy hand—

Yahweh, God of the Hebrews hath sent me unto thee, saying,—

Let my people go, that they may serve me in the desert,—And lo! thou hast not hearkened, hitherto.

§ 11. The Third Plague: Gnats.

16 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,
SAY UNTO AARON—Stretched forth thy staff, and smite the dust of the land, so shall it become gnats in all the land of Egypt.

17 And they did so, and Aaron stretched forth his hand with his staff, and smote the dust of the land, and there came to be gnats among men, and among beasts—all the dust of the land became gnats [in all the land of Egypt].

18 And the sacred scribes did in like manner, with their secret arts, to bring forth the gnats, but they could not. So there came to be gnats among men and among beasts.

19 Then said the sacred scribes unto Pharaoh,
The finger of God it is! But the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold, and he hearkened not unto them, as spake Yahweh.

20 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Rise thou early in the morning, and station thyself before Pharaoh, lo! he is coming forth to the waters, then shalt thou say unto him—

Thus saith Yahweh: Let my people go, that they may serve me. But if thou art not letting my people go, behold me sending forth against thee, and against thy servants, and against thy people, and against thy houses, the gad-fly, and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full of the gad-fly, moreover also the ground whereon they are: then will I make to differ, on that day, the land of Goshen, wherein my people do dwell, so that there shall not be, there's a gad-fly! in order that thou mayest know, that I, Yahweh am in the midst of the land; so will I put a separation betwixt my people and thy people.

By to-morrow shall come to pass this sign.

And Yahweh did so, and brought a grievous gad-fly unto the house of Pharaoh, and the houses of his servants, and in all the land of Egypt, and the land was laid waste, by reason of the gad-fly.

24 Then did Pharaoh cry out—unto Moses, and to Aaron, and said—Go your way, sacrifice to your God [in the land].

And Moses said:
Not meet is it, to do thus, for an abomination to the Egyptians we should sacrifice to Yahweh our God.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses, 27 A journey of three days must we go, in the desert,—then will we sacrifice to Yahweh our God, as ||Yahweh|| hath saidb unto us.

And Moses said: 29 And Moses said:

So Moses went out from Pharaoh,—and made entreaty unto Pharaoh, so will he take away the gad-fly— from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, to-morrow,—only let not Pharaoh again deceive, in not letting the people go, to sacrifice to Yahweh.

So Moses went out from Pharaoh,—and made entreaty unto Yahweh. 31 And Yahweh did's this thing, on the morrow, and took away the gad-fly, from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people,—there remained not one. 32 And Pharaoh made his heart dull, |this time also|,— and did not let the people go.

But <if |refusing| thou art'to let them go,— and still'art holding them fast> s lo !||the hand of Yahweh|| is coming on thy cattle, which are in the field, on the horses, on the asses, on the camels, on the herds, and on the flocks,—|a very grievous pestilence|; 4 and Yahweh will make a difference between the cattle of Israel, and the cattle of the Egyptians,—so that there shall not die from among all that pertaineth to the sons of Israel [a thing]! 5 And Yahweh appointed a set time—saying,—<To-morrow> will Yahweh do this thing, in the land.

Lo! ||I|| am going out from thee, and will make entreaty unto Yahweh, so will he take away the gad-fly, from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, to-morrow,—only let not Pharaoh again deceive, in not letting the people go, to sacrifice to Yahweh.

So Yahweh did's this thing, on the morrow, and took away the gad-fly, from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people,—there remained not one. 7 And Pharaoh sent, and lo ! there had not died of the cattle of Israel! |so much as one|.

He that feared the word of Yahweh, among the servants of Pharaoh, made his servants and his cattle flee, under shelter; but whose applied not his heart unto the word of Yahweh, left his servants and his cattle, in the field.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses—
Stretch forth thy hand over the heavens, that there may be hail, in all the land of Egypt,—on man and on beast, and on every herb of the field, in the land of Egypt.

So Moses stretched forth his staff over the heavens, and ||Yahweh|| gave forth thunders, and hail, and there came fire, towards the earth,—and Yahweh rained down hail, on the land of Egypt.

So there came to be hail, and fire catching hold of itself, in the midst of the hail,—exceeding heavy, such as had not been in all the land of Egypt, from the very time it became a nation.

And the hail smote, in all the land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beast,—and <every herb of the field> did the hail smite, and <every tree of the field> did it shiver.

Only <in the land of Goshen, where were the sons of Israel> was there no hail.

Then sent Pharaoh, and called for Moses and for Aaron, and said unto them—
I have sinned this time,—||Yahweh|| is the righteous one, and ||I and my people|| are the wrong-doers.

Make ye request unto Yahweh, and it shall be enough, without there being any more thunders, and hail, and rain, which I have brought upon the land of Egypt, for I know, that not yet will ye stand in awe of the word of Yahweh.

And Moses said unto him,
<As soon as I am gone out of the city> will I spread out my hands unto Yahweh,—<the thunders shall cease, and the hail shall come no more,—that thou mayest know, that <to Yahweh> belongeth the earth.

But <as touching thee and thy servants> I know, that not yet will ye stand in awe of Yahweh Elohim.

Now <the flax and the barley> were smitten, —for <the barley> was in the ear, and ||the flax> was in flower;—but <the wheat and the spelt> were not smitten,—for they were <not ripe>.

So Moses went away from Pharaoh, out of the city, and spread out his hands unto Yahweh,—then did the thunders and the hail cease, and <rain> was not poured out on the earth.

And <when Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders had ceased> he again sinned,—and made his heart dull, ||he.

and his servants. And the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold, and he did not let the sons of Israel go,—as spake Yahweh by the hand of Moses.

§16. The Eighth Plague: Locusts.

1 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,
Go in unto Pharaoh,—for ||I|| have suffered his heart to be dull, and the heart of his servants, that I may show these my signs, in their midst;—and that thou mayest recount in the ears of thy son, and thy son's son, what I did in derision of the Egyptians, and my signs, which I displayed among them,—so shall ye know that

||I|| am Yahweh.

3 And Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him—
<Thus> saith Yahweh, God of the Hebrews, How long hast thou refused to humble thyself before me?
Let my people go, that they may serve me.

4 But <if refusing thou art> to let my people go> behold me bringing in, tomorrow, a locust, within thy bounds; and it shall cover the eye of the land, so that one shall not be able to see the land,—and it shall eat the residue that hath escaped, that is left you from the hail, and shall eat up all the trees that sprout for you, out of the field;—and they shall fill thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians, such as thy fathers and thy fathers' fathers have never seen, from the day they came to be on the ground, until this day.

And he turned away, and came out from the presence of Pharaoh.

7 Then said the servants of Pharaoh unto him,
How long shall this [man] become to us a snare? Let the men go, that they may serve Yahweh their God.

<Not yet> knowest thou, that Egypt is ruined?

6 So Moses and Aaron were brought back unto Pharaoh, and he said unto them—Go, serve Yahweh your God,—<who> are they that are going?

9 And Moses said,
<With our young and with our old> will we go,—<with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds> will we go,—<for the festival of Yahweh> is ours.

10 Then he said unto them:
Let Yahweh ||so|| be with you, when I let go you and your little ones!

Look out, for ||harm|| is straight before your faces.

11 Not so! Go, I pray you, ye grown men, and serve Yahweh, for ||that|| is what ||ye|| were seeking.

And they were driven out from the presence of...
Pharaoh. 12 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—
Stretch forth thy hand over the land of Egypt, for the locust, that it may come up over the land of Egypt,—and may eat up every herb of the land, all that the hail hath left.

And Moses stretched forth his staff over the land of Egypt, and Yahweh caused an east wind to drive through the land, all that day, and all the night,—<when 'the morning' had come> the east wind had brought the locust. 14 And the locust came up over all the land of Egypt, and settled in all the bounds of Egypt,— very grievous, <before it> had not been such a locust [as that], neither <after it> should be one like it. 15 So it covered the eye of all the land, and the land was darkened, and it did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees, which the hail had left remaining,—so that there was not left remaining any green sprout in the trees, or in the herb of the field, in all the land of Egypt.

Then hastened Pharaoh, to call for Moses and for Aaron,—and said—
I have sinned against Yahweh your God, and against you.

Now therefore, forgive.* I pray you, my sin—only this time, and make entreaty to Yahweh your God,—that he may take away from me [at least, this death].

So he came out from Pharaoh,—and made entreaty unto Yahweh; 19 and Yahweh turned back a west wind, strong exceedingly, and carried away the locust, and cast it into the Red Sea,—there was not left a single locust in all the bounds of Egypt. 20 But Yahweh suffered the heart of Pharaoh to wax bold,*—and he was not willing to let them go.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses:
Stretch forth thy hand over the heavens, that there may be darkness, over the land of Egypt,—and that one may feel the darkness.

And Moses stretched forth his hand, over the heavens,—and there was thick darkness in all the land of Egypt,—and every man of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, was not able to find his hand. 24 Then Pharaoh called out unto Moses, and said—
Go, serve Yahweh, only* [your flocks and your herds] shall be left,—[even your little ones] shall go with you.

And Moses said,
Even thou thyself shalt give into our hands, sacrifices and ascending-offerings,—so shall we present offerings to Yahweh our God.

Moreover also* [our own cattle] shall go with us—there shall not be left behind [a hoof], for <thereof> must we take, to serve Yahweh our God,—[even we ourselves] cannot know wherewith we must serve Yahweh, until we have come in thither.

And Yahweh let the heart of Pharaoh wax bold,*—and he was not willing to let them go.

Get thee from me,—take heed to thyself—do not [any more] see my face, for <in the day thou dost see my face> thou shalt die.

And Moses said—
||Well] hast thou spoken,—[no more again] to see thy face.

§18. The Tenth Plague threatened: the Death of the Egyptian Firstborn.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses—
Yet one plague I will bring in upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt, <after that> he will let you go from hence,—<when he doth let you go> he will [[altogether drive]] you out from hence.

Speak, I pray you, in the ears of the people,—and let them ask—every man of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, articles* of silver and articles* of gold.

And Yahweh gave the people favour, in the eyes of the Egyptians,—even the man Moses himself was exceeding great in the land of Egypt,—in the eyes of Pharaoh's servants, and in the eyes of the people. 24 And Moses said,

Thus saith Yahweh,—
[About midnight] am I going forth in the midst of Egypt; 5 then shall every firstborn in the land of Egypt die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who is sitting on his throne, unto the firstborn of the handmaid who is behind the two mills, and every firstborn of beasts; 6 then shall there be a great outcry, in all the land of Egypt,—[such] as never was and [such] as shall not be again.

But against none of the sons of Israel shall a dog sharpen his tongue, neither against man nor beast,—that ye may know that Yahweh maketh a difference between Egypt and Israel.

So shall all these thy servants come down unto me, and bow themselves down to me, saying—
Go forth, ||thou, and all the people who are in thy footsteps,|| and <after that> will I go forth.
And he went forth from Pharaoh, in a heat of anger. 28 And Yahweh had said unto Moses, Pharaoh will not hearken unto you,—that my Then spake Yahweh, unto Moses and unto Aaron, in the land of Egypt, saying—

This month shall be unto you the beginning of months; ye shall reckon to you the months by the first month. 2 And you shall say, the Lord's passover is it. 3 And ye shall eat unleavened bread: for in the seven days ye shall eat unleavened bread, as I came unto you in the land of Egypt: for ye shall eat unleavened bread, because ye came forth haste out of the land of Egypt. 4 And every man shall stay at his place: no man shall go out of his place on the seventh day. 5 For the Lord shall pass through to smite the gods of Egypt: and ye shall go forth hastening; ye shall not delay. 6 And the Lord said unto Moses and Aaron, when ye go ye out from Pharaoh, speak ye to the children of Israel, saying, 7 Ye shall eat unleavened bread seven days: on the first day shall be a solemn assembly, and on the seventh day shall be a solemn assembly. 8 And ye shall come forth on the seventh day from the land of Egypt. 9 And the Lord will show unto all the gods of Egypt, what is in my hand. 10 And they shall say, the God of the children of Israel hath mete out evil upon us; the Lord hath mete out evil, and afflicted Egypt; for in one day the Lord did smite all the gods of Egypt. 11 And the children of Israel shall go forth in haste on the seventh day. 12 And he spake unto the children of Israel, that they should obtain their bread, which they should fetch for the solemn assembly, to offer an offering unto the Lord; and it shall be on the morrow after the Passover. 13 And Moses and Aaron spake unto the children of Israel, saying, 14 This day is the Passover of the Lord to make an end of all the gods of Egypt: for the Lord will have mercy on his people Israel. 15 And Moses spake, saying unto Aaron, Take a young bullock for a sin offering, and a ram without blemish for a burnt offering, 16 And speak ye unto the children of Israel, saying, Take every man the lamb according to his household, a lamb for a house. 17 And if there be too much for one family, then shall ye bring a lamb for a house. 18 And if there be too little for a family, to bring as a lamb for a house, then shall he bring as his offering for the sin offering a tenth part of a lamb. 19 And the lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year, and you shall whisper with it in the door of the tent of meeting. 20 And ye shall take the blood thereof, and put it upon the two door-posts, and upon the upper beam, which is over the door, 21 And they shall eat the flesh in the same night, roasted with fire, and with unleavened bread, and with bitter herbs. 22 And you shall not eat of it raw, nor boiled in water, but roast with fire. 23 And the flesh of the lamb thus shall ye eat: without brazen vessels, without the door-post, with his head, and with his legs, and with all fat. 24 And ye shall eat it with unleavened bread: for in unleavened bread hast thou come out of Egypt; and on this day came forth my strength. 25 And on the morrow after the Passover ye shall begin to remove the leaven; for until morning ye shall eat unleavened bread. 26 And ye shall remove the leaven out of your houses, for the Lord will come in to smite with the destroying angel, and the Lord will remove the leaven from your houses, so that he will not find it in you. 27 And it shall be for a memorial unto you, and ye shall observe this ordinance in your generations, as an everlasting statute. 28 And it shall come to pass, when ye go into the land of your habitation, that ye shall keep this passover. 29 And it shall be, when your children say unto you, what mean ye by this service? 30 Then ye shall say, it is the sacrifice of the Lord's passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. And ye shall remember his mystery, and observe it as an ordinance for you and your children. 31 And ye shall say, the Lord hath brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an outstretched arm, and with an hand of judgment. 32 For he hath shewed me his mercy, because I renewed the oath before the Lord, when I took it out of the hand of Moab; he hath been there a witnessing man unto me, saith the Lord. 33 This shall be an ordinance to thee and to thy sons for ever. 34 And it shall come to pass, when ye behold the blood, that ye shall remember the ordinance of the Lord when he delivered you out of the land of Egypt: for he is the blood of the covenant, which the Lord hath made with you. 35 And when one shall say unto you, What mean ye by this service? 36 Ye shall say, It is the sacrifice of the Lord's passover, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. And ye shall remember his mystery, and observe it as an ordinance for you and your children. 37 And it shall be, when ye shall be come into the land which the Lord will give you, according to all that he spake unto you, ye shall keep this service. 38 And ye shall say in your generations, the Lord did brought me out from Egypt, the house of bondage.
What is this your service? *>

Then shall ye say—

<A passover sacrifice> it is unto Yahweh, who passed over the houses of the sons of Israel, in Egypt, when he plagued the Egyptians, but <our houses> he delivered.

Then did the people bend their heads and bow themselves down.

And the sons of Israel went their way and did,—<as Yahweh had commanded Moses and Aaron> <so> did they.

§ 20. The Tenth Plague inflicted, and Israel urged forth.

And it came to pass [at midnight] that <Yahweh> smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sat upon his throne, unto the firstborn of the captive who was in the pit of his prison, and—every firstborn of beasts.

Then rose up Pharaoh by night, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there arose a great outcry throughout Egypt,—for there was not a house, where there was not one dead. So he called for Moses and for Aaron by night, and said—

Rise ye, go forth out of the midst of my people, both ye, and the sons of Israel;— and go, serve Yahweh, according to your word; also <your flocks and your herds> take ye, as ye spake, and go your way,—so shall ye bless, even me.

And the Egyptians became urgent with the people, to send them in haste out of the land,—for they said—

We all are dying.

So the people took up their dough, ere yet it was leavened,—with their kneading-bowls, bound up in their mantles, on their shoulders. And <the sons of Israel> did according to the word of Moses,—and asked of the Egyptians, articles of silver and articles of gold and mantles. And Yahweh gave the people favour in the eyes of the Egyptians, and they gave them gladly,—so they spoiled the Egyptians.

§ 21. The Exodus begun, and the Passover confirmed.

Then did the sons of Israel break up from Rameses, towards Succoth,—about six hundred thousand foot, of men grown, besides little ones.

Moreover also  came up with them,—flocks also, and herds, exceeding much cattle. Then baken they the dough which they had brought out of Egypt,—into round unleavened cakes, for it had not been leavened,—for they had been driven out of Egypt, and could not tarry, and indeed no provisions had they made ready for themselves.

†Ml: “What is this your service? *>

Ml: “in the house of his pit = his pit-house.”

Now <the time during which the sons of Israel dwelt in Egypt* was four hundred and thirty years. And it came to pass <at the end of four hundred and thirty years>—yes it came to pass <on this self-same day> that all the hosts of Yahweh had come forth out of the land of Egypt.

<A night of solemn observances> it is unto Yahweh, for bringing them forth out of the land of Egypt,—<this same night> pertaineth to Yahweh, for solemn observances, by all the sons of Israel, to their generations.

And Yahweh said unto Moses and Aaron:

This is the statute of the passover,—<No stranger> shall eat thereof; but <every man’s servant bought with silver>,—when thou hast circumcised him, shall he eat thereof: An alien or a hireling shall not eat thereof. <In one house> shall it be eaten, thou shalt not take thereof, out of the house, any of the flesh, outside; and a <bone thereof> shalt thou not break.

All the assembly of Israel shall keep it. And <when there may sojourn with thee> a sojourner who may wish to keep a passover to Yahweh> there must be circumcised to him every male, and <then> may he draw near to keep it, so shall he be as a native of the land,—but <no uncircumcised male> shall eat thereof. <One law> shall there be for the native,—and for the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst.

Thus did all the sons of Israel,—<as Yahweh had commanded Moses and Aaron> <so> did they.

And it came to pass <on this self-same day> that Yahweh brought forth the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, by their hosts.

§ 22. The Law of the Firstborn, and further Instructions as to the Passover.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Hallow to me every firstborn, that which any female first beareth, among the sons of Israel, among men and among beasts,—mine it is.

3 And Moses said unto the people—

[Ye are] to remember this day, on which ye came forth out of Egypt, out of the house of slaves, that <with strength of hand> did Yahweh bring you forth from hence,—there shall not, therefore, be eaten anything leavened. "Todays' are <ye> coming forth,—in the month Abib.

And it shall be, <when Yahweh> shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanite and the Hittite and the Amorite, and the Hivite.
...and the Jebusite, which he sware to thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey> then shalt thou serve with this service, in this month. 6 <Seven days> shalt thou eat unleavened cakes,—and on the seventh day > shall be a festival to Yahweh. 7 <Unleavened cakes> shall be eaten for the seven days,—neither shall there be seen with thee anything leavened, nor shall there be seen with thee leaven, within any of thy bounds. 8 And thou shalt tell thy son, on that day, saying,—This is because of that which Yahweh did for me, when he brought me forth out of Egypt.

10 And it shall be to thee for a sign upon thy hand, and for a memorial between thine eyes, in order that the law of Yahweh may be in thy mouth,—for <with a strong hand> did Yahweh bring thee forth out of Egypt. 11 So shalt thou observe this statute, in its appointed time,—from year to year. 12 And it shall be when Yahweh shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanite, as he sware to thee and to thy fathers,—and shalt give it thee> 13 that thou shalt set apart whatsoever is born first,d to Yahweh; and <of all firstlings of beasts which thou shalt have> ||the males|| shall pertain to Yahweh. 14 But <every firstling of an ass> shalt thou redeem with a lamb* or <if thou wilt not redeem it> then thou shalt break its neck,—but <every firstborn of men among thy sons> shalt thou redeem.

16 And it shall be when thy son shall ask thee, in time to come, saying,—What is this?—Then shalt thou say unto him: <With strength of hand> did Yahweh bring us forth out of Egypt, out of the house of slaves. 17 And it came to pass <when Pharaoh had shown himself too hardened to let us go> then did Yahweh slay every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of men, even unto the firstborn of beasts. <For this cause> shall the Egyptians know, that I am ||I|| Yahweh. And they did so.

§ 23. The Exodus completed; the Red Sea passed through; Pharaoh and his Host destroyed.

17 And it came to pass <when Pharaoh had let the people go> that God did not lead by the land-way of the Philistines, although it was near,—for God said—Lest the people be dismayed when they see war, and turn back to Egypt. 18 So God took the people round the desert-way of the Red Sea,—and the sons of Israel went up <armed> out of the land of Egypt. 19 And Moses took the bones of Joseph, with him,—for he had <taken an oath> of the sons of Israel, saying, God will surely visit you, so then ye shall carry up my bones from hence, with you. 20 And they brake up from Succoth,—encamped in Etham, at the edge of the desert.

21 Now ||Yahweh|| was going before them — <by day> in a pillar of cloud to lead them the way, and <by night> in a pillar of fire to give them light,—that they might journey day and night : 22 the pillar of cloud by day ceased not, nor the pillar of fire by night,—from before the people. 1 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: 3 Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they turn back and encamp before Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea,—before Baal-zephon, <cover against it> shall ye encamp, by the sea.

3 Then will Pharaoh say, of the sons of Israel, <Entangled> they are in the land,—the desert hath closed in upon them. 4 So will I let the heart of Pharaoh wax bold, and he will pursue them, that I may get me honour over Pharaoh, and over all his forces, and the Egyptians shall know, that I am ||I|| Yahweh.

And they did so.

8 And it was told the king of Egypt, that the people had fled,—and the heart of Pharaoh and his servants was turned against the people, and they said—What is this we have done, that we have let Israel go from serving us? 6 So he yoked his chariot,—and <his people> took he with him. 7 And he took six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt,—with warriors, in every one. 8 And Yahweh let the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt wax bold, and he pursued the sons of Israel,—when ||the sons of Israel|| were going out with a high hand.

9 So the Egyptians pursued them, and overtook them, encamping by the sea—all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his forces,—by Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-zephon.

10 Now <when ||Pharaoh|| had drawn near> the sons of Israel lifted up their eyes, and lo! the Egyptians moving along after them, and they feared greatly, and the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh. 11 Then said they unto Moses, Was it because there were no graves in Egypt, that thou didst fetch us, to die in the desert? What is this thou hast done to us, bringing us forth out of Egypt? 12 And it was told the king of Egypt, that the Egyptians were going back, and the heart of Pharaoh waxed bold,—he turned and went back to the people, with all the hosts of Egypt, and the chariots, and the horsemen.

13 So he hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he pursued the sons of Israel,—when ||the sons of Israel|| were going out with a high hand.

14 And Moses spake, saying: <What is this?> because ||I|| Yahweh brought us up out of Egypt. 15 For I spake unto thee in the desert, saying,—Go to the sons of Israel, and <say unto them> to bring off the congregation of Israel from the house of bondage. 16 And he hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he pursued the sons of Israel,—when ||the sons of Israel|| were going out with a high hand.

17 And it was told the king of Egypt, that the sons of Israel were gone out,—and hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he pursued the sons of Israel,—when ||the sons of Israel|| were going out with a high hand. Then said Moses unto the Lord, <What is this?> because ||I|| Yahweh brought us up out of Egypt. 18 For I spake unto thee in the desert, saying,—Go to the sons of Israel, and <say unto them> to bring off the congregation of Israel from the house of bondage.
12 Is not this the word which we spake unto thee in Egypt, saying,
Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians,—for it is better for us to serve the Egyptians, than to die in the desert?
13 And Moses said unto the people—
Do not fear, stand still, and see the salvation of Yahweh, which he will work for you to-day,—for as for the Egyptians whom ye have seen to-day> ye shall not again see them any more, to times age-abiding.
14 [Yahweh] will fight for you, and ye shall [forbear].
15 And Yahweh said unto Moses,
What outcry wouldst thou make unto me? Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they go forward; 16 and thou liftest high thy staff, and stretch forth thy hand over the sea, and cleave it asunder,—that the sons of Israel may enter into the midst of the sea, on dry ground; 17 and I behold me, letting the heart of the Egyptians wax bold, that they may enter after them,—that I may get me honour over Pharaoh, and over his chariots, and over his horsemen. 18 And the Egyptians shall know, that I am Yahweh,—when I have gotten me honour over Pharaoh, over his chariots, and over his horsemen.
19 And the messenger of God who was going on before the camp of Israel, removed, and came on behind them, — and the pillar of cloud removed from before them, and stood behind them; M so it came in between the camp of the Egyptians, and the camp of Israel, so it became a cloud and darkness, and yet lighted up the night,—so that the one came not near unto the other, all the night.
20 And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and Yahweh carried away the sea by a mighty east wind, all the night, and turned the sea into dry land,—and the waters were a wall, on their right hand, and on their left. M And the Egyptians pursuèd, and entered after them—all the horses of Pharaoh, his chariots, and his horsemen,—into the midst of the sea.
21 And it came to pass <in the morning watch> that Yahweh looked down into the camp of the Egyptians, through the pillar of fire and cloud, and confused the camp of the Egyptians; 22 and he took off the wheels of their chariots, a made them drive heavily,—so that the one came not near unto the other, all the night.
22 Then went the sons of Israel into the midst of the sea, on the dry ground, — and the waters were cloven asunder. 23 And the horses of Pharaoh and his train> hath he cast into the sea,—Yea, the choice of his warriors> were sunk in the Sedgy' Sea.
24 And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, — and the waters returned, and covered the chariots, and the horsemen, even all the forces of Pharaoh, that were entering after them into the sea,—there was not left remaining among them [so much as one]. 25 But [the sons of Israel] had gone their way on dry ground in the midst of the sea,—and the waters had been to them a wall, on their right hand and on their left.
26 Then did Yahweh on that day, save Israel, out of the hand of the Egyptians,—and Israel saw the Egyptians, dead on the shore of the sea.
27 And <when Israel saw the mighty hand wherewith Yahweh had wrought against the Egyptians> then did the people revere Yahweh,—and they put their trust in Yahweh, and in Moses, his servant.

§ 24. Israel's Song of Triumph.
1 ||Then|| sang Moses, and the sons of Israel, 15 this song unto Yahweh, and they spake, saying,—

I will sing to Yahweh, for he is exalted, exalted,— <The horse and his rider> hath he cast into the sea.
3 <My might and melody> is Yah, And he became mine, by salvation,— [This] is my God, and I will glorify him, The God of my father, and I will set him on high.
4 ||Yahweh|| is a warlike one,— <Yahweh> is his name.
5 <The chariots of Pharaoh and his train> hath he cast into the sea,— Yea <the choice of his warriors> were sunk in the Sedgy' Sea.
6 ||Roaring deeps|| covered them,— They went down, in the raging depths, like a stone.
7 ||Thy right hand||, O Yahweh, is splendid in power,— ||Thy right hand||, O Yahweh, dasheth in pieces a foe ;
8 And <in the greatness of thine exaltation > dost thou tear down thine oppressors,— Thou dost send forth thy wrath, it consumeth them, as straw ;
9 And <with the blast of thy nostrils> heaped up are the waters,

EXODUS XV. 9-27; XVI. 1—5.

<Sure strained like a mound> are the flowing waves,— Roaring deeps are congealed, in the heart of the sea.

9 Said the foe—
I will pursue—overtake, divide spoil,—
Take her fill of them—shall my soul,
I will bare my sword, root them out—shall my hand.

10 Thou didst blow with thy wind, they were covered by the sea,—
They rolled like lead, into the waters so wide.

11 Who is <like unto thee>, among the mighty, O Yahweh?
Who is <like unto thee>.
Majestic in holiness,—
To be revered in praises,
Doing a marvellous thing?

12 Thou didst stretch forth thy right hand, earth swallowed them up.

13 Thou hast led forth in thy lovingkindness, the people which thou hast redeemed,— Thou hast guided them in thy might, into the home of thy holiness.*

14 Peoples have heard, they tremble,—
A pang hath seized the dwellers of Philistia:
Then were amazed the chiefs of Edom, The mighty ones of Moab, there seizeth them, a trembling,— Melted away, have all the dwellers of Canaan:
There falleth upon them a terror and dread,<With the greatness of thine arm> are they struck dumb as a stone,— Till thy people pass over, O Yahweh,
Till the people pass over, which thou hast made thine own:
Thou bringest them in and plantest them, in the mountain of thine inheritance, Thy dwelling-place to abide in, which thou hast made, O Yahweh,—
A hallowed place, O My Lord,* which thy hands have established.

15 [Yahweh] shall reign, unto times age-abiding and beyond.

16 For the horses of Pharaoh, with his chariots and his horsemen, entered into the sea, Then did Yahweh bring back upon them the waters of the sea,—
But the sons of Israel had gone their way on the dry ground, through the midst of the sea.

17 Then took Miriam the prophetess, sister of Aaron, the timbrel in her hand,—and all the women came forth after her with timbrels, and dances. And Miriam responded to the men,*

Sing to Yahweh, for he is exalted—exalted,
<The horse and his rider> hath he cast into the sea.

§ 25. From the Red Sea to the Desert of Sin.

22 And Moses caused Israel to break up from the Red Sea, and they went out into the desert of Shur,—and journeyed three days in the desert, and found no water; 23 and, when they came in towards Marah, they could not drink the waters of Marah, for they were bitter,—<for this cause> was the name thereof called Marah.*

24 So the people murmured against Moses—saying, What are we to drink?

25 And he made outcry unto Yahweh, and Yahweh pointed out a tree, and he cast it into the waters, and the waters became sweet,—
<There> he appointed him b a statute and regulation, And <there> he put him b to the proof.

26 And he said:
<If thou wilt indeed hearken> to the voice of Yahweh thy God,
And <the thing that is right in his eyes> thou wilt do.
And so give ear to his commandments, And keep all his statutes>
None of the sicknesses which I laid on the Egyptians will I lay upon thee,
For ||I am Yahweh, thy physician.

27 Then came they in to Elim, and <there> were twelve fountains of water, and seventy palm-trees,—so they encamped there, by the waters.

1 Then moved they on from Elim, and all the assembly of the sons of Israel entered into the desert of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month, by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt.

2 Then did all the assembly of the sons of Israel murmur against Moses and against Aaron, in the desert; 2 and the sons of Israel said unto them—
Oh that we had died by the hand of Yahweh, in the land of Egypt, when we remained by the pot of flesh, when we did eat bread to the full,—for ye have brought us forth into this desert, to cause all this multitude* to die by famine.

4 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,
Behold me! raining down for you bread out of heaven,—and the people shall go out and gather, <the portion> for a day> on its day, that I may prove them, whether they will walk in my law, or not.

5 And it shall come to pass <on the sixth day> that they shall setle what they shall bring in,—and it shall be twice as much as they gather day by day.
So Moses and Aaron said unto all the sons of Israel,—

"At eventide then shall ye know that it was Yahweh who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt; and in the morning then shall ye see the glory of Yahweh, in that he hath heard your murmurings against Yahweh,—what then are ye? Not against us, do ye murmur against Yahweh.

And Moses said—

"In that Yahweh giveth you in the evening flesh to eat, and bread in the morning, to the full, in that Yahweh heareth your murmurings, wherewith ye are murmuring against him,—what then are ye? Not against us, do ye murmur against Yahweh.

And Moses said unto Aaron,

"Say unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, Draw near before Yahweh,—for he hath heard your murmurings.

And it came to pass, when Aaron spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, then turned they towards the desert, and lo! the glory of Yahweh had appeared in the cloud. Then spake Yahweh unto Moses—saying,

I have heard the murmurings of the sons of Israel,—speak unto them, saying—

"Between the two evenings shall ye eat flesh, and in the morning shall ye be filled with bread,—so shall ye know that Yahweh is your God.

And it came to pass, in the evening, that there came up quail, and covered the camp, round about the camp; and in the morning was the outpouring of dew, to the full, in that the camp was covered with dew, and on the face of the desert a thin flake, thin as hoar-frost, on the earth. And when the sons of Israel saw it, they said one to another—

"What is that?

For they knew not what that was. Then said Moses unto them,

"That is the bread which Yahweh hath given you to eat. This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, Gather ye thereof, each man, what he needeth for eating,—an omer a head, by the number of your souls, each man—for them who are in his tent shall ye take.

And the sons of Israel did so, and gathered, [some] more, and [some] less; and when they measured it with the omer he who had gathered more had nothing over, and he who had gathered less had no lack: each man, what he needed for eating,—did they gather.

And Moses said unto them,—

Let no man leave thereof, until morning.

But they hearkened not unto Moses, but certain men left thereof until morning, and it swarmed with worms, and became loathsome,—and Moses was wroth with them.

Thus then they gathered it, morning by morning, each man what he needed for eating,—and as soon as the sun waxed hot so soon it melted.

And it came to pass, on the sixth day, that they gathered food twice as much, two omers for each one,—so all the princes of the assembly came in, and told Moses. And he said unto them—

"That is what Yahweh spake.

The observance of a holy sabbath to Yahweh is to-morrow,—what ye would bake, and what ye would boil, boil, and all that is left over put by you, to keep until the morning.

So they put it by until the morning, as Moses had commanded, and it gave no unpleasant odour, neither was there a worm therein.

Then said Moses—

Eat ye it to-day, for this is a sabbath unto Yahweh,—to-day ye shall not find it in the field. Six days ye shall gather it, but on the seventh day, a sabbath, it shall not be therein.

And it came to pass, on the seventh day, that there went forth some of the people to gather,—but they found not.

Then said Moses unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel,—

"How long have ye refused to keep my commandments and my laws? See, because Yahweh hath given you the sabbath,—for this cause is he giving you on the sixth day food for two days,—abide ye every man in his place, let no man go forth from his dwelling, on the seventh day.

So the people rested on the seventh day.

And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna,—and the same was like coriander seed, white, and the taste thereof like flat-cake with honey.

And Moses said—

"This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, Fill an omer therefrom, as a thing to be preserved, to your generations,—that they may see the bread wherewith I fed you, in the desert, when I brought you forth, out of the land of Egypt.

So Moses said unto Aaron—

Take a single basket, and put therein an omer-full of manna,—and set it down before Yahweh, as a thing to be preserved, to your generations.

As Yahweh gave command unto Moses so did Aaron set it down before the testimony, as a thing to be preserved.

And the sons of Israel did eat the manna forty years, until they entered into the land wherein they were to dwell,—the manna they did eat..."
until they entered into the bounds of the land of Canaan. 31 Now an omer is the tenth of the ephah.

§ 27. Water from the Rock at Rephidim.

17 1 And all the assembly of the sons of Israel set forward out of the desert of Sin, by their removals, at the bidding of Yahweh, and encamped in Rephidim, and there was no water for the people to drink. 2 And the people found fault with Moses, and said—

Give us water, that we may drink. And Moses said to them, Why should ye find fault with me? Why should ye put Yahweh to the proof?

3 So the people thirsted, there, for water, and the people murmured against Moses, and said—

Wherefore hast thou brought us out of Egypt, to kill me and my sons and my cattle, with thirst? 4 And Moses made outcry unto Yahweh, saying, What am I to do with this people? Yet a little and they will stone me.

5 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—<Pass over before the people, and take, with thee, some of the elders of Israel,—thy staff also, wherewith thou didst smite the river> takethou in thy hand, so shalt thou go thy way. 6 Behold me standing before thee, there, upon the rock in Horeb, then shalt thou smite the rock, and there shall come forth therefrom water, and the people shall drink. And Moses did so, in the sight of the elders of Israel. 7 So he called the name of the place, Massah, and Meribah,—because of the fault-finding of the sons of Israel, and because of their putting Yahweh to the proof, saying, Is Yahweh in our midst, or is he not?

§ 28. War with Amalek.

8 Then came in Amalek,—and fought with Israel, in Rephidim. *And Moses said unto Joshua—

Choose for us men, and go forth, fight with Amalek,—am I stationing myself upon the top of the hill, with the staff of God in my hand. 9 And Moses said unto Joshua—

Choose for us men, and go forth, fight with Amalek,—to-morrow am I stationing myself upon the top of the hill, with the staff of God in my hand. 10 So Joshua did, as Moses had said to him, to fight with Amalek,—and Moses, Aaron and Hur went up to the top of the hill. 11 And it shall be when Moses shall lift on high his hands, then shall Amalek prevail.

but <when he shall let down his hands> then shall Amalek prevail.

13 But the hands of Moses were weary, so they took a stone, and put under him, and he sat thereupon, and Aaron and Hur upheld his hands—<on this side> one, and <on that side> one, and so his hands became steady, until the going in of the sun. 14 So Joshua overthrew Amalek and his people, with the edge of the sword. 15 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—

Write this as a remembrance in a book; and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua, that I will wipe out the remembrance of Amalek, from under the heavens.

16 And Moses built an altar,—and called the name thereof, Yahweh-nissi. And he said—

Because of a hand against the throne of Yah, I Yahweh hath war with Amalek,—from generation to generation!

§ 29. The Visit of Jethro, Moses' Father-in-law.

1 And Jethro, priest of Midian, father-in-law of Moses, heard all that God had done for Moses, and for Israel his people,—in that Yahweh had brought forth Israel out of Egypt. 2 So Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife,—after she had been sent home; 3 and her two sons,—of whom the name of the one was Gershom, 4 and the name of the other Eliezer, 5 for the God of my father was my help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh. 6 And Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, came in, with his two sons and his wife, unto Moses,—into the desert where he was encamping, the mountain of God; and said unto Moses, I thy father-in-law Jethro am coming in unto thee,—and thy wife, and her two sons, with her. 7 So Moses went forth to meet his father-in-law, and bowed himself down to him, and kissed him, and they asked each other of their welfare,—and came into the tent. 8 Then Moses recounted to his father-in-law, all that Yahweh had done to Pharaoh, and to the Egyptians, for Israel's sake,—all the hardship which had befallen them by the way, and how Yahweh had delivered them. 9 Then did Jethro rejoice, for all the good which Yahweh had done to Israel,—whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians. 10 And Jethro said—

Blessed be Yahweh, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh,—

Who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians:

||Now|| I know, that [greater] is Yahweh than all the gods,—
||Even in the thing wherein they were arrogant over them||.

Then took Jethro, father-in-law of Moses, an ascending-offering and sacrifices* to God,—and Aaron and all the elders of Israel came in, to eat bread with the father-in-law of Moses before God.

Now it came to pass <on the morrow> that Moses sat to judge the people,—and the people stood by Moses, from the morning, until the evening. 14 And <when Moses' father-in-law saw all that he was doing for the people> he said—

What is this thing which thou art doing for the people? Wherefore art thou sitting [alone], with [all the people] stationed by thee, from morning until evening?

And Moses said to his father-in-law,—

Because the people come in unto me, to seek God:

<When they have a matter> they come in unto me, then do I judge between a man and his neighbour,—and make known the statutes of God, and his laws.

Then said Moses' father-in-law unto him,—

||Not good! is the thing that thou art doing. Thou wilt get quite worn out! both thou, and this people that is with thee,—for the thing is [too heavy] for thee; thou canst not do it, [alone].

||Now|| hearken thou to my voice—let me counsel thee, and may God be with thee: Be [thou] for [the people] in front of God, so shalt [thou] bring the matters unto God; and shalt cause to shine upon them, the statutes and the laws,—and make known to them the way wherein they should go, and the work they should do.

||Thou thyself|| therefore, shalt look out, from among all the people,—men of ability, reverers of God, men of fidelity, haters of extortion,—and place [them] over them as rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

So shall they judge the people at any time,—<the hard matters> shall they bring in unto Moses, but <all the small matters> shall [themselves] judge.

And Moses sent forth his father-in-law,—and he went his way by himself, unto his own land.

§ 30. The Arrival at Sinai : Israel invited to enter into Covenant.

1 In the third month, by the coming forth of 19 the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt> ||on this day|| came they into the desert of Sinai:

2 then was it that they brake up out of Rephidim, and came into the desert of Sinai, and encamped in the desert,—yes Israel encamped there, before the mountain. 3 And <when Moses> had gone up unto God> then called Yahweh unto him, out of the mountain, saying,

||Thus shall thou say to the house of Jacob, And tell the sons of Israel:

4 ||Ye|| have seen, what I did unto the Egyptians,— And how I bare you upon wings of eagles, And brought you in, unto myself:—

5 ||Now||, therefore <if ye will ||indeed hearken|| to my voice, And keep my covenant>

Then shall ye be mine, as a treasure beyond all the peoples, For <mine> is all the earth; 6 But ||ye|| shall be mine, As a kingdom of priests, And a holy nation. ||These|| are the words, which thou shalt speak unto the sons of Israel.

7 Then came Moses, and called for the elders of the people,—and put before them all these words, which Yahweh had commanded him. 8 And all the people responded together, and said,

<All that Yahweh hath spoken> will we do. And Moses took back the words of the people unto Yahweh. 9 Then said Yahweh unto Moses:

Lo! ||I|| am coming unto thee in the veiling of cloud, in order that the people may hear when I speak with thee,|| moreover also|| that [in thee] they may trust* to times age-abiding.

Then told Moses the words of the people, unto EXODUS XIX. 10—25; XX. 1—15.

10 And Yahweh said unto Moses—

Go unto the people, and thou shalt hallow them to-day, and to-morrow,—and they shall wash their clothes; and shall be ready, by the third day. Then Moses went down unto the people, and said [these things] unto them. § 31. The Law of Ten Commandments.

11 And Yahweh said unto Moses—

Away, down ! then shalt thou come up, || thou and Aaron with thee;—but <as for the priests> and the people> let it not be that they press through to come up unto Yahweh, lest he break in upon them. 20 And God spake all these words, saying:— 12 Thou shalt not make unto thee an image, or any likeness, that is in the heavens above, or that is in the earth beneath,—or that is in the waters, beneath the earth: thou shalt not bow thyself down to them,—nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy servant, nor thy handmaid, nor thy beast, nor thy sojourner who is within thy gates. —For || I, Yahweh thy God;—I am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of fathers, upon sons, unto three generations, and unto four, of them that hate me; but shewing lovingkindness unto thousands || of them who love me, and keep my commandments. 21 Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Go down, adjure the people,—lest they press through unto Yahweh, to see, and so there fall from among them a multitude. 22 And Moses said unto Yahweh,—the people cannot come up into Mount Sinai,—for || thou thyself hast adjured us, saying:—

23 And Moses said unto him—

Set bounds to the mountain and hallow it. 24 And Moses went down unto the people,—and said [these things] unto them.

1. Thou shalt have no other gods, besides me. 4. Thou shalt not make to thee an image, or any form, that is in the heavens above, or that is in the earth beneath,—or that is in the waters, beneath the earth: thou shalt not bow thyself down to them,—nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy servant, nor thy handmaid, nor thy beast, nor thy sojourner who is within thy gates. —For || I, Yahweh thy God;—I am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of fathers, upon sons, unto three generations, and unto four, of them that hate me; but shewing lovingkindness unto thousands || of them who love me, and keep my commandments. 7. Thou shalt not utter the name of Yahweh thy God, for falsehood; for Yahweh will not let him go unpunished who uttereth his name, for falsehood.

8. Remember the sabbath day, To hallow it: —Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work; but || the seventh day || is a sabbath, unto Yahweh thy God,—thou shalt not do any work || thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy servant, nor thy handmaid, nor thy beast, nor thy sojourner who is within thy gates. —For || in six days || did Yahweh make the heavens and the earth, and the sea,—and all that is in them is, and rested on the seventh day,—<for this cause> Yahweh blessed the sabbath day and hallowed it.

9. Honour thy father, and thy mother,—that thy days may be prolonged upon the soil, which Yahweh thy God is about to give unto thee. 12. Thou shalt not commit murder.

14. Thou shalt not commit adultery.

15. Thou shalt not steal.
Thou shalt not testify against thy neighbour, with a witness of falsehood.

Thou shalt not covet, thy neighbour’s house, —thou shalt not covet, thy neighbour’s wife, nor his servant, nor his handmaid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything which belongeth unto thy neighbour.

§ 32. The People are terrified, and prevail on Moses to hear God in their stead.

And all the people were witnessing the voices and the torches and the sound of the horn, and the mountain, smoking, —so then the people were struck with awe and shrank back, and stood afar off. And they said unto Moses, Speak unto us, and we will hear, —but let not God speak with us, lest we die. And Moses said unto the people— Do not fear, for to the end he may prove to the actual life.

§ 33. Transitional Warnings against Idolatry, and Instructions as to Divine Worship.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses, ||Thou shalt say unto the sons of Israel,— ||Ye yourselves have seen that out of the heavens have I spoken with you. Ye shall not make aught beside me, —neither gods of silver, nor gods of gold shall ye make to yourselves. ||An altar of earth shalt thou make to me, ||and the mountain, smoking, —so then the people were struck with awe and shrank back, and stood afar off. ||Moses approached unto the thick gloom, where God was.

Now these are the regulations which thou shalt put before them.

16 Thou shalt not testify against thy neighbour, with a witness of falsehood.

17 Thou shalt not covet, thy neighbour’s house, —thou shalt not covet, thy neighbour’s wife, nor his servant, nor his handmaid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything which belongeth unto thy neighbour.

Hebrew > six years shall he serve,—but in the seventh he shall go out freely for nought. If by himself he came in > by himself he shall go out,—if he was married > then shall his wife go out with him. If his lord gave him a wife, and she have borne him sons or daughters > the wife and her children shall be her lord’s, and (the) shall go out by himself. But if the servant shall plainly say,

I love my lord, and my wife, and my sons,—I will not go out free> then shall his lord bring him near unto God, and shall bring him near unto the door, or unto the door-post,—and his lord shall pierce his ear with an awl, so shall he serve him all his life.

And when a man shall sell his daughter to be a handmaid > she shall not go out according to the out-going of the maidservants. If she is uncomely in the eyes of her lord, who hath not assigned her in marriage > then shall he suffer her to be redeemed: to a strange people shall he not have power to sell her, in that he hath dealt treacherously with her. And if to his son he assigneth her > (according to the custom for daughters) shall he do for her. If he take to himself another > her food, her clothing, and her marriage-right shall he not withdraw. But if these three shall he will not do for her > then shall she go out for nought, without silver.

He that smiteth a man, so that he die > shall surely be put to death. But he who hath not lain in wait, but God hath occasioned him to come to his hand > then will I appoint for thee a place, whither he may flee. But when a man shall act presumptuously against his neighbour, to slay him with guile > (from mine altar) shalt thou take him to die. And he that smiteth his father or his mother > shall surely be put to death. And he that stealeth a man of the sons of Israel and selleth him, or he be found in his hand > shall surely be put to death. And he that revileth his father or his mother > shall surely be put to death. And when men strive together, and one shall smite the other, with a stone or with... his fist,—and he die not, but shall fall to his bed;—19 if he rise, and shall walk abroad on his staff> then shall he that smote him be aequitted,—only, <for his loss of time> he shall pay, and <shall surely heal> him.

20 And <when a man smite his servant or his handmaid with a rod, and he die, under his hand> he shall <surely be avenged>; nevertheless <if <for a day or for two days> he continue> he shall not be avenged, for <his silver> he is.

21 And <when men strive together, and push against a woman with child, and she miscarry, but there is no other mischief> he shall <surely be fined>, according as the woman's husband shall lay upon him, but he shall give it through judges. 22 But <if mischief follow> then shalt thou give life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, brand for brand, wound for wound, stripe for stripe.

23 And <when a man smiteth the eye of his servant, or the eye of his handmaid, and destroyeth it> he shall send him forth <free> for his eye; 27 or <if <the tooth of his servant, or the tooth of his handmaid> he knock out> he shall send him forth <free> for his tooth.

24 And <when an ox goreth a man or a woman, and death ensueth> the ox shall <surely be stoned>, and his flesh shall not be eaten, and <the owner of the ox> shall be quit.

25 But <if the ox was wont to gore before that time> and it hath been attested to his owner, and he hath not proceeded to put him under guard, and he causeth the death of man or woman> <the ox> shall be stoned, and <his owner also> shall be put to death.

26 <If a sin-covering> be laid on him> then shall he give a ransom for his life, according to whatsoever may be laid on him; 21 <if a son> he gore, or  he gore; <according to this regulation> shall it be done to him; 22 <if a servant> he gore, or a handmaid> <thirty shekels of silver> shall he give to his lord, and <the ox> shall be stoned.

27 And <when a man openeth a pit, or when a man diggeth a pit, and doth not cover it, and there falleth therein an ox or an ass> 28 <the owner of the pit> shall make it good, <silver> shall he pay back to the owner thereof,—and <the dead beast> shall be his.

35 And <when the ox of one man thrusteth the ox of his neighbour, so that it dieth> then shall they sell the live ox, and divide the silver thereof, and <the dead ox also> shall they divide. 36 Or <if it was known that an ox was wont to gore before that time, and his owner proceeded not to put him under guard> he shall <surely make good>,—an ox for the ox, and <the dead one> shall be his.

1 <When a man stealeth an ox or a sheep, and slayeth it, or sell eth it> <with five of the herd> shall he make good—for the ox, or <with four of the flock> for the sheep.

2 <If in the place of breaking in the thief be found and is smitten so that he dieth> there is due for him no shedding of blood: 3 <should the sun have risen upon him> there would be shedding of blood due for him,—he is surely to make restitution; <if he hath nothing> then is he to be sold, for his theft. 4 <If the thing stolen is found in his hand> whether ox, or ass, or sheep, alive> he shall make restitution.

5 <When a man causeth a field or a vineyard to be depastured, or hath sent in his own cattle and stripped the field of another> he shall <surely make restitution> out of his own field, according to the yield thereof; or <if all the field> he depasture> with the best of his own field, or with the best of his own vineyard> shall he make restitution.

6 <When a fire breaketh out, and hath come upon thorns, and so there is consumed a stack of sheaves, or the standing corn, or the field> he that kindled the fire shall <surely make restitution>.

7 <When a man giveth unto his neighbour silver or jewelry, to keep, and it is stolen> then <the owner of the house be brought near unto God> shall come the affair of them both,—<the whom God shall condemn> shall make restitution of double, to his neighbour.

10 <When a man delivereth unto his neighbour, the words between "another" and "with the best" shall be added.

The third is, if so slain in cold an ase, or an ox, or a sheep, or any beast |to keep|,— and it dieth, or is fractured, or is driven away, no one beholding. 11 [the oath of Yahweh] shall come between them both, That he hath not laid his hand on the property of his neighbour,— then shall the owner thereof accept it, and he shall not make restitution. 12 But if it be verily stolen from him he shall make restitution to the owner thereof. 13 If it be verily torn in pieces he shall bring it in as a witness, for that which was torn, he shall not make restitution.

14 And when a man asketh aught of his neighbour, and it is fractured or dieth, [its owner] not being with it: he shall [surely] make restitution. 15 If [its owner] was with it he shall not make restitution,— if it is [hired] it cometh into its hire. 16 And when a man enticeth a virgin who is not betrothed, and lieth with her: he shall [surely] pay a purchase-price that she may be his wife. 17 If her father utterly refuse to give her to him [silver] shall he weigh out, according to the purchase-price of virgins.

18 A sorceress shall thou not suffer to live. 19 Whosoever lieth with a beast shall [surely] be put to death. 20 He that sacrificeth to the gods shall be devoted to destruction,— except he sacrificeth to Yahweh alone. 21 And a sojourner shalt thou not tread down, neither shalt thou drive him away;— for ye became in the land of Egypt. 22 Neither widow nor fatherless shall thou humble: 23 if thou [do humiliate] him: 24 when he in anyway crieth out unto me I will surely hear his outcry: 25 so shalt thou deal with thy vineyard, with your ass, with thine oliveyard.

26 If [silver] thou wilt lend unto my people— unto the humbled one by thee: thou shalt not be to him like one that lendeth on interest, thou shalt not lay upon him interest. 27 If thou [do take in pledge] the mantle of thy neighbour: [by the going in of the sun] shalt thou restore it to him; 28 for [that] is his only covering, [that] is his mantle, for his skin,— wherein shall he sleep? and it shall come to pass, 29 when he maketh outcry unto me then will I hear, because [gracious] I am. 30 [Thus] shalt thou do with thine ox, with thy sheep,— 31 seven days shall it be with its dam, 32 on the eighth day shalt thou give it to me.

21 Holy men > therefore shall ye truly become to me,— and flesh in the field torn to pieces shall ye not eat, 22 to the dogs shall ye cast it.

1 Thou shalt not utter a false report. Do not lay thy hand with a lawless man, to become a witness helping forward violence and wrong. 2 Thou shalt not follow multitudes to commit wickedness,— neither shalt thou answer in a quarrel, so as to turn away after multitudes, to mislead. 3 Even a poor man shalt thou not prefer in his quarrel.

4 When thou meetest the ox of thine enemy, or his ass going astray thou shalt [surely] bring it back to him.

5 When thou seest the ass of him that hateth thee, sinking down under his burden, and mightest have foreborne to unload him thou shalt [surely] help him to unload.

6 Thou shalt not pervert the vindication of thy needy one, in his quarrel.

7 From a matter of falsehood thou shalt keep far away,— and the innocent one and the righteous do not thou slay, for I will not justify a lawless man. 8 And a bribe shalt thou not take,— for the bribe blindeth the clear-sighted, and perverteth the words of the righteous. 9 And a sojourner shalt thou not drive away,— seeing that [eye yourselves] know the soul of a sojourner; for ye became in the land of Egypt.

10 And six years shalt thou sow thy land,— and shalt gather the yield thereof; 11 but the seventh year shalt thou let it rest and be still, so shall the needy of thy people eat, and [what they leave] shall the wild-beast of the field eat,— in like manner shalt thou deal with thy vineyard, with thin oliveyard. 12 Six days shalt thou do thy work, but on the seventh day shalt thou keep sabbath,— that thine ox may rest, and thine ass, and that the son of thy handmaid, and the sojourner, may be refreshed. 13 And in all that I have said unto thee shalt thou take heed to thyself,— and the name of other gods shalt thou not mention, it shall not be heard upon thy mouth.

14 Three times shalt thou keep festival to me, in the year. 15 The festival of unleavened cakes shalt thou keep,— seven days shalt thou eat unleavened cakes, as I commanded thee, at the appointed time of the month Abib; for therein camest thou forth out of Egypt,— and thy shall not see my face empty-handed. 16 And the festival of harvest, with the firstfruits of thy labours, which thou shalt sow in the field. And the festival of ingathering—at the outgoing of the year, when thou hast gathered in thy labours, out of the field. 17 Three times in the year shall all thy males see the face of the Lord Yahweh. 18 Thou shalt not offer <with anything leavened> the blood of my sacrifice, neither shall the fat of my festival-sacrifice remain until morning. 19 The beginning of the firstfruits of thy ground shalt thou bring into the house of Yahweh thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of its dam.

20 Lo! I am sending a messenger before thee, to guard thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared. 21 Take thou heed of his presence, and hearken to his voice—do not vex him, for he will not pardon your transgression, for my name is within him. 22 But if thou wilt indeed hearken to his voice, and wilt do all that I may speak then will I be an enemy to thine enemies, and an adversary to thine adversaries; for my messenger shall go before thee, and bring thee in—unto the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Canaanite, the "Hivite, and the Jebusite,—so will I destroy them. 23 Thou shalt not bow thyself down to their gods, neither shalt thou be led to serve them, neither shalt thou do according to their works, but thou shalt verily overthrow them, and completely break in pieces their pillars. 24 So shall ye serve Yahweh your God, and he will bless thy bread, and thy water,—and I will take away sickness out of thy midst. There shall be nothing casting its young or barren in thy land,—<the number of thy days> will I make full. 25 My terror will I send before thee, and will confound all the people, amongst whom thou shalt come,—and will deliver up all thine enemies unto thee as they flee.

26 And I will send the hornet, before thee,—and it shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee. 27 I will not drive them out from before thee, in one year,—lest the land should become a desolation, so would the wild-beast of the field multiply over thee. 28 Little by little will I drive them out from before thee,—until thou become fruitful, then shalt thou take possession of the land. 29 So will I set thy bounds from the Red Sea, even unto the sea of the Philistines, and from the desert unto the River (Euphrates),—for I will deliver into your hand the inhabitants of the land, so shalt thou drive them out from before thee. 30 Thou shalt not make, <with them or with their gods> a covenant: they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they cause thee to sin against me,—for thou mightiest serve their gods, verily! it would become to thee a snare!

§ 35. The Covenant finally ratified.

1 And unto Moses he said— Come up unto Yahweh—thou, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel,—so shall ye bow yourselves down, from afar. 2 And Moses alone shall draw near unto Yahweh, but they shall not draw near,—and the people shall not come up with him.

3 So Moses came, and recounted to the people all the words of Yahweh, and all the regulations,—and all the people responded with one voice, and said, <All the words which Yahweh hath spoken> will we do.

4 Then wrote Moses all the words of Yahweh, and rose up early in the morning, and built an altar, under the mountain,—and twelve pillars, for the twelve tribes of Israel; and he sent young men of the sons of Israel, and they caused to go up, ascending-sacrifices,—and slew peace-offerings to Yahweh, of oxen. 6 Then took Moses, half of the blood, and put it in basins, and <half of the blood> dashed he over the altar; 7 then took he the book of the covenant, and read in the ears of the people. And they said, <All that Yahweh hath spoken> will we do, and will hearken.

8 Then Moses took the blood, and dashed over the people,—and said, Lo! the blood of the covenant which Yahweh hath solemnised with you, over all these words.

The Massorites pointed so as to secure harmony with chapter xxiii. 30: «but passages like Exo. xxiii. 15: xxxiv. 20; Is. i. 12, which are most difficult to construe with the accusative, plainly show that the natural vocalisation of the verb in all these phrases is the kaw— as here rendered.»

9 Then went up Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel; and they saw the God of Israel,— and <under his feet>* like a pavement of sapphire, and like the very heavens,² for brightness;* and <against the nobles of the sons of Israel> put he not forth his hand,— so then they had vision of God, and did eat and drink.³

§36. By Divine Command, Moses, attended by Joshua only, ascends Mount Sinai to receive the Two Tables and further Laws; and remains in the Mountain forty Days and forty Nights.

13 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—

Come thou up unto me, in the mountain, and remain thou there,— for I must give thee tables of stone, and the law, and the commandment, which I have written, to direct them.⁶

12 And Moses rose up, and Joshua his attendant, and Moses went up into the mountain of God ; but <unto the elders> he said—

Tarry for us here, until we return unto you.

And lo! [Aaron and Hur]* are with you, [the that hath a cause]* let him draw near unto them'.

10 So then Moses went up into the mountain,— and the cloud covered the mountain. 18 And the glory of Yahweh rested upon Mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days,— then called he unto Moses, on the seventh day, out of the midst of the cloud. 17 And [the appearance of the glory of Yahweh] was like a consuming fire,¹ on the top of the mountain,— in the sight¹ of the sons of Israel. 19 And Moses entered into the midst of the cloud, and ascended into the mountain. And it came to pass that Moses was in the mountain forty days and forty nights.

§37. Moses is instructed to make a Sanctuary, and holy Garments; and to consecrate Aaron and his Sons to minister as Priests.

25 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Speak unto the sons of Israel, that they take for me a heave-offering,— <of every man whose heart urgeth him> shall ye take my heave-offering.

3 And [this] is the heave-offering which ye shall take of them,—gold and silver, and bronze; ⁴ and blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine linen, and goat's hair; ⁵ and rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins, and acacia wood; ⁶ oil for giving light,— perfumes for the anointing oil, and for fragrant incense; ⁷ onyx stones, and setting stones,— for the ephod and for the breastpiece:

8 So shall they make for me a sanctuary,— and I will make my habitation in their midst:

9 <according to all that I am shewing thee, the pattern of the habitation, and the pattern of all the furnishings* thereof> even so shall ye make it.

10 And they shall make an ark of acacia wood,— ²² two cubits and a half the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof. ¹¹ And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, <within and without> shalt thou overlay it,— and shalt make thereon a rim ⁸ of gold, round about. ¹² And thou shalt cast for it four rings of gold, and shalt put [them] on the four feet thereof,— even two rings on the one's side thereof, and two rings on the other'side thereof. ¹³ And thou shalt make staves, ⁹ of acacia wood,— and shalt overlay them, with gold. And thou shalt bring in the staves, into the rings, on the sides of the ark,— to bear ¹⁰ the ark thither. ¹³ <In the rings of the ark> shall remain the staves,— they shall not be removed therefrom. ¹⁴ And thou shalt put into the ark,— the testimony ¹⁷ which I will give unto thee. ¹⁷ And thou shalt make a propitiatory, ²° of pure gold,— ²² two cubits and a half the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof. ²² And thou shalt make two cherubim of gold,— <of beaten work> shalt thou make them, out of the two ends of the propitiatory. ²² And make thou one cherub out of this' end, and the other cherub out of that' end,— <out of the propitiatory> shall ye ²² make the cherubim, upon the two ends thereof. ²² And the cherubim shall be spreading out two wings on high,— making a shelter with their wings over the propitiatory, with their faces one towards the other,— <towards the propitiatory>²² shall be the faces of the cherubim. ²² And thou shalt put the propitiatory upon the ark, above,— and <in the ark> shalt thou put the testimony, which I will give unto thee. ²² And I will meet with thee there,¹ and will speak with thee therefrom off the propitiatory, from between the two cherubim, which are upon the ark of the testimony,— whatsoever I boards,—two sockets, under the one' board, for its two tenons, and two sockets, under the next board, for its two tenons. And <on the second side of the habitation, towards the north> twenty boards; and their forty sockets of silver,—[two sockets] under the one' board, and [two sockets] under the next’ board. And <for the hinderpart of the habitation, westward> shalt thou make six boards. And <two boards> shalt thou make, for the corners of the habitation,—in the hinderpart: that they may be* double beneath, and <at the same time> they shall be entire on the top thereof, into each' ring,—[thus] shall it be for them both, <for the two corners> shall they be. So shall they be eight boards, and [their sockets of silver] sixteen sockets,—[two sockets] under the one’ board, and [two sockets] under the next’ board.

And thou shalt make bars, of acacia wood,—[five] for the boards of the one' side of the habitation, [and five bars] for the boards of the other’ side of the habitation, and [five bars] for the boards of the side of the habitation, at the hinderpart, westward; with the middle bar, in the midst of the boards,—running along from end to end. And <the boards> shalt thou overlay with gold, and <their rings> shalt thou make of gold, as receptacles for the bars,—and thou shalt overlay the bars, with gold.

So shalt thou rear up the habitation, according to the fashion thereof, which thou wast caused to see, in the mount.

And thou shalt make a veil, of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine-twined linen,—<of the work of a skilful weaver> shall it be made,* [with cherubim]; and thou shalt hang it upon four pillars of acacia, overlaid with gold, with their hooks of gold,—upon four sockets of silver. And thou shalt hang up the veil under the margin of the tent, of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine-twined linen, the work of an embroiderer,—their pillars three, and their sockets three; 15 and <for the second side-piece> fifteen hangings,—their pillars three, and their sockets three; 16 and <for the gate of the court> a screen of twenty cubits, of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine-twined linen, the work of an embroiderer,—their pillars four, and their sockets four. 17 All the pillars of the court round about, to be joined with cross-rods f of silver, and their hooks of silver,—and their sockets of bronze. 18 [The length of the court] a hundred cubits, and [the breadth] fifty throughout, and [the height]... five cubits, of fine-twined linen,—and their sockets, of bronze. 19 All the utensils of the habitation, throughout all the service thereof,—and all the pins thereof, and all the pins of the court> of bronze.

20 Thou shalt therefore, shalt command the sons of Israel, that they bring unto thee — pure, beaten olive-oil, for giving light,— that the lamp may lift up its flame continually. 21 In the tent of meeting, outside the veil which is by the testimony > shall Aaron and his sons order it, from evening until morning, before Yahweh,— a statute age-abiding, to their generations, from the sons of Israel.

22 Thou shalt therefore, bring near unto thee— Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him, out of the midst of the sons of Israel, that they may minister as priests unto me,— Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, sons of Aaron. 23 And thou shalt make holy garments for Aaron thy brother,— for glory and for beauty. 24 Thou shalt therefore, shalt speak unto all the wise-hearted, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom,— and they shall make Aaron's garments, to hallow him for ministering as priest unto me. 25 These therefore, are the garments which they shall make—a breastpiece, and an ephod, and a robe, and a tunic of checkerwork, a turban and a girdle,— so shall they make holy garments, for Aaron thy brother, and for his sons, for ministering as priests unto me. 26 They themselves therefore, shall take the gold, and the blue, and the purple,— and the crimson, and the fine linen.

And they shall make the ephod,—of gold, blue and purple, crimson and fine-twined linen, the work of a skilful weaver. 27 Two joining shoulderpieces shall there be to it, upon the two extremities thereof, that it may be joined together. 28 And the curious band for fastening it, that is upon it, <like the work thereof, of the same> shall it be,—of gold, blue and purple and crimson, and fine-twined linen. 29 And thou shalt take two onyx stones,—and engrave upon them, the names of the sons of Israel: 10 six of their names upon the one stone,— and the names of the six that remain upon the second stone, according to their births: 11 with the work of a stone engraver, like seal-ring engravings > shalt thou engrave the two stones, after the names of the sons of Israel,— <to be encircled with settings of gold> shalt thou make them. 30 And thou shalt put the two stones, upon the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, as stones of memorial, for the sons of Israel,—so shall Aaron bear their names before Yahweh, upon his two shoulders, for a memorial. 31 And thou shalt make ouches of gold; 32 and two chains of pure gold, <like cord> shalt thou make them, of wreathein work,—and thou shalt put the wreathein chains on the ouches.

And thou shalt make a breastpiece for giving sentence, the work of a skilful weaver, <like the work of the ephod> shalt thou make it,— of gold, blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine-twined linen > shalt thou make it. 34 <Four-square> shall it be, a span' the length thereof, and a span' the breadth thereof. 35 And thou shalt set therein, a setting of stones, <four rows of stones>,— one row—a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald, <the first row>; and <the second row> a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a diamond; 36 and <the third row> an opal, an agate, and an amethyst; 37 and <the fourth row> a Turshish stone, a sardonyx, and a jasper,— <enclosed with gold> shall they be when they are set. 38 And <the stones> shall be, after the names of the sons of Israel— ||twelve, after their names,— <as the engravings of a seal-ring—every one, after his name> shall they be, for the twelve tribes. 39 And thou shalt make, upon the breastpiece, chains like cords, of wreathein work,— of pure gold.

And thou shalt make, upon the breastpiece, two rings of gold,— and thou shalt hang the two rings, upon the two ends of the breastpiece. 40 And thou shalt fasten upon the two ouches,— so shall thou hang them upon the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, in the forefront thereof. 41 And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastpiece— upon the border thereof, which is on the side of the ephod, inwards. 42 And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and place them upon the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod, beneath, on the front of the face thereof, over against its joining,— above the curious band of the ephod; 43 that they may bind the breastpiece, by the rings thereof, unto the rings of the ephod, with a cord of blue, so that it may remain upon the curious band of the ephod,— and the breastpiece not be removed from off the ephod. 44 So shall Aaron bear the names of the sons of Israel, in the breastpiece for giving sentence, upon his heart, when he goeth into the holy place,— for a memorial before Yahweh, continually.
And thou shalt make the robe of the ephod, wholly of blue; 39 and the opening for his head shall be in the midst thereof;— a border shall there be to the opening thereof round about, the work of a weaver, <like the opening of a coat of mail> shall there be to it, it must not be rent. 40 And thou shalt make upon the skirts thereof, pomegranates of blue and purple and crimson, upon the skirts thereof, round about;— and bells of gold in the midst of them, round about: a bell of gold, and a pomegranate, a bell of gold, and a pomegranate,— upon the skirts of the robe, round about. 41 And it shall be upon Aaron, for ministering,— so shall he be heard' the sound of him—when he goeth into the holy place, before Yahweh, and cometh out, and dieth not.<sup>6</sup>

And thou shalt make a burnished plate, of pure gold,— and shalt engrave thereupon, like the engravings of a seal-ring, Holiness to Yahweh. 42 And thou shalt put it upon a cord of blue, so shall it be upon the turban,— <upon the forehead of the turban> shall it be. 43 So shall it be upon the forehead of Aaron, when he goeth in before Yahweh, — a satisfying odour, an altar-sacrifice, it is'.

Then shalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour thereof upon Aaron, and on his garments, and upon his sons, to hallow them, that they may minister as priests unto me,— Take one young bullock, and two rams, without defect; 4 and bread unleavened, and cakes unleavened with oil poured over, and wafers unleavened, anointed with oil, <of fine wheaten meal> shalt thou make them; 5 and shalt place them in one basket, and bring them near in the basket,— and the bullock, and the two rams. 6 And thou shalt take the garments, and clothe Aaron— with the turban, and with the robe of the ephod, and with the breastpiece, and with the ephod, and with and the breastpiece,— and shalt gird him, with the curious band of the ephod; 7 and shalt put the turban upon his head,— and place the holy crown upon the turban. 8 Then shalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour upon his head,— so shalt thou anoint him.

And thou shalt bring near the bullock, before the tent of meeting,— and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullock; 11 then shalt thou slay the bullock before Yahweh,— at the opening of the tent of meeting; 12 and thou shalt take of the blood of the bullock, and place upon the horns of the altar, with thy finger,— and <all the remaining blood> shalt thou pour out at the foundation of the altar; 13 and thou shalt take all the fat that covereth the inner part, and the caul upon the liver, and the two kidneys, with the fat which is upon them, and burn as incense on the altar:<sup>4</sup> but <the flesh of the bullock, and its skin, and its dung> shalt thou burn up with fire, outside the camp.—  it is'.

<One 'ram also> shalt thou take,— and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands, upon the head of the ram; 16 then shalt thou slay the ram,— and take its blood, and dash upon the altar, round about; 17 but <the ram itself> shalt thou cut up into its pieces,— and shalt bathe its inner part, and its legs, and lay upon its pieces, and upon its head; 18 and shalt burn the whole ram as incense on the altar, <an ascension-sacrifice> it is' to Yahweh,—  odour, an altar-flame to Yahweh> it is'.

Then shalt thou take the second' ram,— and Aaron and his sons shall lean their hands, upon the head of the ram; 23 then shalt thou slay the ram, and take of its blood, and place upon the tip of the ear of Aaron, and upon the tip of the ear of his sons—the right ear, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot,—and shalt dash the blood upon the altar, round about. 21 Then shalt thou take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of the anointing oil, and sprinkle upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and the garments of his sons, with him:—so shall he be hallowed—he, and his garments, and his sons, and the garments of his sons, with him. 22 Then shalt thou take from the ram—the fat and the fat-tail, and the fat that covereth the inner part, and the caul of the liver and the two kidneys, with the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder,— for a ram of installation it is',— 23 and one round-cake of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer,— out of the basket of unleavened cakes, which is before Yahweh; 24 and shalt lay the whole, upon the hands of Aaron, and upon the hands of his sons, then shalt thou wave them to and fro, as a wave-offering, before Yahweh; 25 and shalt take them from their hand, and burn them as incense on the altar, upon the ascending-sacrifice,— as a satisfying odour, before Yahweh, <an altar-flame> it is to Yahweh. 26 Then shalt thou take the breast from the ram of installation, which is for Aaron, and shalt wave it as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,— so shall it be thy share. 27 And thou shalt hallow the breast of the wave-offering, and the shoulder of the heave-offering, which is waved to and fro, and which is heaved up,—from the ram of installation, from that which is for Aaron, and from that which is for his sons; 28 so shall it belong to Aaron and to his sons, for an age-abiding statute, from the sons of Israel, for a wave-offering:—it is',— and a tenth part of fine meal mingled with a fourth part of the hin of beaten oil, and <as a drink-offering> a fourth part of the hin of wine,— with the one lamb. 41 And <the second' lamb> shalt thou offer between the evenings,— according to the meal-offering of the morning, and according to the drink-offering thereof> shalt thou offer with it, for a satisfying' odour, an altar-flame, to Yahweh : a continual ascending-sacrifice, to your generations, at the opening of the tent of meeting, before Yahweh, — where I will meet with you, to speak unto thee, there. 42 So will I meet there, with the sons of Israel,— and it shall be hallowed by my glory. 43 Thus will I hallow the tent of meeting, and the altar,— and <Aaron and his sons> will I hallow, to minister as priests unto me. 44 Thus will I make my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel,— and will be their' God; 45 and they shall know that I—Yahweh am their God, who brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I might make their habitation in their midst,— 46 <I—Yahweh> their God.

1 And thou shalt make an altar, for burning incense,— of acacia wood shalt thou make it: 2 a cubit, the length thereof, and a cubit, the breadth thereof <four square> shall it be,— and two cubits, the height thereof, <of the same> [shall be] the horns thereof. 3 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, the top thereof, and the sides

14 And thou shalt make the staves, of acacia wood,—and thou shalt overlay them with gold. 6 And thou shalt place it before the veil, which is by the ark of the testimony,—before the propitiatory which is upon the testimony, where I will meet thee. 7 And Aaron shall burn thereon fragrant incense,—<morning by morning, when he lighteth the lamps>> shall he burn it; 8 and <when Aaron lighteth the lamps, between the evenings>> shall he burn it,—a continual incense before Yahweh, to your generations. 9 Ye shall not cause to ascend thereupon strange incense, nor an ascending-sacrifice, nor a meal-offering.—shall ye not pour out thereupon. 10 But Aaron shall put a propitiatory-covering upon the horns thereof, once in the year: <of the blood of the sin-bearer for propitiatory-coverings, once in the year> shall he put a propitiatory-covering thereupon, to your generations, <most holy> it is to Yahweh.

31 1 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses saying:

See, I have called by name,—Bezaleel, son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; and have filled him with the Spirit of God,—in wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship; 4 to devise skilful designs,—to work in gold, and in silver, and in bronze; 6 and in the cutting of stones for setting, and in the carving of wood,—to work in all manner of workmanship.

3 So I myself therefore, lo! I have given with him—Oholiab, son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, and, in the heart of every one that is wise-hearted, have I put wisdom,—so shall they make all that I have commanded thee:— 7 the tent of meeting, and the ark of testimony; and the propitiatory which is thereupon,—and all the utensils of the tent; and the table, and its utensils, and the pomegranate stand, and all its utensils,—and the incense' altar; and the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and all its utensils; 9 and the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and all its utensils,—and the laver, and its stand; 10 and the cloths of variegated stuff, and the holy' garments, for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, for ministering as priests; 11 and the anointing oil and the fragrant' incense, for the holy place,—<according to all which I have commanded thee> shall they do.

13 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses saying—

14 Thous therefore, speak unto the sons of Israel, saying—

Surely, shall ye keep,—for a sign it is'—betwixt me and you, to your generations, that ye may know that I, Yahweh, do hallow you.

Therefore shall ye keep the sabbath, for holy it is unto you,—thee that profanest it shall be surely put to death;' verily, whosoever doeth therein, any work that soul shall be cut off from the midst of its people: 15 <Six days> shall work be done, but <on the seventh day> is a holy sabbath—keeping of rest, unto Yahweh,—whoseover doeth work on the sabbath day shall be surely put to death. 16 Therefore shall the sons of Israel keep the sabbath,—by making it a Day of Rest to your generations, as an age-abiding covenant: 17 <between me and the sons of Israel> it is'—unto times age-abiding,—for <in six days> did Yahweh make the heavens and the earth, and <on the seventh day> he rested, and was refreshed.

18 Then gave he unto Moses, <as he finished speaking with him in Mount Sinai>—the two tables of the testimony,—tables of stone, written with the finger of God.

§ 38. Israel's Revolt into Idolatry, and their Restoration. Remarkable Episodes:—Breaking the Tables; Pitching a Temporary Tent outside the Camp; Yahweh's Proclamation of all his Goodness; Moses' Face shineth.

1 And <when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down out of the mount>, the people gathered themselves together unto Aaron, and said unto him—

Up, make for us gods, <as for this> Moses—the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt—we know not what hath befallen him.

And Aaron said unto them,

Break off the rings of gold, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters,—and bring them unto me.

And all the people of themselves brake off the rings of gold which were in their ears,—and brought them unto Aaron. 4 And he received [the gold] at their hand, and fashioned it with a graving tool, and made it a molten calf,—and they said—

These are thy gods, O Israel, who brought thee up, out of the land of Egypt.

And, when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it. And Aaron made proclamation, and said,< A festival to Yahweh> to-morrow! 6 So they rose up early, on the morrow, and offered ascending-sacrifices, and brought near peace-offerings,—and the people sat down, to eat and to drink, and then rose up—to make sport! 7 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses—

Go, get thee down, for thy people whom thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt have corrupted themselves. 8 They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them, they have made for themselves—amolten calf,—and have bowed themselves down thereto, and have sacrificed thereto, and have said—

These are thy gods, O Israel, who have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

9 So then Yahweh said unto Moses,—

I have looked on this people, and lo!  it is'.

10 Now, therefore, let me alone, that mine anger may kindle upon them, and that I may consume them, and may make thee' a great nation.

1 Or: "put them to shame as to coming down" etc. 2 Heb. "elohim"; but here construed with a plural verb, and therefore rightly rendered "gods" in the plural.

11 And Moses besought the face of Yahweh his God,— and said—

Wherefore, O Yahweh, should thine anger kindle upon thy people, whom thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt, with great might, and with a firm hand?

12 Wherefore should the Egyptians speak, saying—

<For mischief> hath he taken them forth, to slay them among the mountains, and to make an end of them from off the face of the ground?

Turn thou from the kindling of thine anger, and be grieved over the calamity to thy people.

13 Have remembrance of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Israel, thy servants, to whom thou didst swear by thyself, and didst speak unto them [saying],

I will multiply your seed, as the stars of the heavens,— and all this land of which I have spoken will I give to your seed, and they shall inherit it to times age-abiding.

14 So then Yahweh was grieved,— over the calamity,— which he had spoken of inflicting on his people.

15 And Moses turned, and went down out of the mount, with the two tablest of testimony b in his hand,— tables written upon, on both sides of them, <on this and on that> were they written.

Now as for the tables, <the work of God> they were',— and as for the writing, <the writing of God> it was', graven upon the tables.

16 And Joshua heard the noise of the people, as they shouted,— so he said unto Moses—

The noise of war, in the camp!

17 But he said—

<Not the noise of the cry of heroism, nor yet the noise of the cry of defeat,— the noise of alternatesong> do I hear.

18 And it came to pass <when he drew near unto the camp, and saw the calf, and the dancing>, that the anger of Moses kindled, and he cast out of his hands the tables, and brake them in pieces, at the foot of the mountain.

Then took he the calf which they had made, and burned it in the fire, and ground it till it became powder, — and strewed it on the face of the waters, and made the sons of Israel drink.

20 Then Moses said unto Aaron,

What had this people done to thee,— that thou shouldst have brought upon them a great sin?

21 And Aaron said unto Moses,—

<He hath mischievously> (or "maliciously") "taken them forth."
33 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses —

Get thee away, go up from hence, thou, and the people whom thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, into the land of which I sware to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying,

"To thy seed will I give it;"

3 And I will send before thee a messenger, and will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Jebusite, and the Amalekite; into a land flowing with milk and honey, for I will not go up in thy midst, in that thou art an inferior messenger, lest I consume thee, in the way.

And when the people heard these evil tidings, they afflicted themselves, and they put not any man his ornaments upon him. Then said Yahweh unto Moses —

Say unto the sons of Israel, "Ye are a stiff-necked people, in one moment—if I should go up in thy midst—should I make an end of thee, now therefore, lay down thine ornaments from off thee, that I may see what I must do with thee.

So then the sons of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments, and moved on from Mount Horeb.

4 And Moses proceeded to take a tent, and pitch it by itself outside the camp, afar off from the camp, and he called it, The Tent of Meeting, and so it came to pass that whosoever was seeking Yahweh went out unto the tent of meeting, which was on the outside of the camp.

And it came about, that when Moses went out unto the tent all the people used to rise up, and station themselves, every man at the opening of his tent, and they watched Moses, until he entered the tent. And it came to pass that when Moses entered the tent the pillar of cloud came down, and stood at the opening of the tent, and spake with Moses. And when all the people beheld the pillar of cloud, standing at the opening of the tent then all the people rose up, and bowed themselves down, every man at the entrance of his tent. Thus Yahweh used to speak unto Moses, face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend, and when he returned unto the camp, his attendant, Joshua, son of Nun, a young man, moved not from the midst of the tent.

12 Then said Moses unto Yahweh, —

See! thou art saying unto me —

Take up this people, and yet hast not let me know, whom thou wilt send with me, though thou thyself didst say —

I acknowledge thee by name, Yea, moreover, thou hast found favour in mine eyes.

13 Now therefore, if I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, lest I should go up in thy midst, but I beseech thee, thy way, that I may acknowledge thee to the intent I may find favour in thine eyes, see thou therefore, that this nation is thine own people.

14 So then he said, —

Mine own presence shall go on, thus will I give thee rest. And he said unto him, —

"If thy presence is not going on do not take us up from hence." Whereby, indeed, shall it be known, then, that I have found favour in thine eyes, and thy people. Shall it not be, by thy going on with us? So shall we be more distinguished, than any people that are on the face of the ground.

15 Then said Yahweh, unto Moses:

"Even this thing, which thou hast spoken will I do, — For thou hast found favour in mine eyes, and I have acknowledged thee by name.

16 And he said, —

Show me, I pray thee, thy glory. And he said —

"I will cause all my goodness, to pass before thee, and will proclaim myself by the name Yahweh, before thee, and will shew favour unto whom I may show favour, and will have compassion on whom I may have compassion.

17 But he said —

Thou canst not see my face, — For no son of earth can see me, and live.

21 And Yahweh said, —

Lo! a place near me, —

So then shalt station thyself upon the rock; And it shall be while my glory passeth by I will put thee in the cleft of the rock, and will cover thee with my hand, while I pass by.

23 Then will I take away my hand, and thou shalt see behind me, — But my face must not be seen.

1 And Jehovah said unto Moses—

Hew thee two tables of stone, like the first,— and I will write upon the tables, the words which were upon the first tables, which thou didst break in pieces; 2 and be thou ready by the morning,— and thou shalt come up in the morning, into Mount Sinai; then shalt thou station thyself for me there, upon the top of the mount; 3 and [no man] may come up with thee, and let no man so much as be seen, in all the mount,— and let not even [the flocks or the herds] feed, in front of that mountain.

4 So he hewed two tables of stone, like the first, and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up into Mount Sinai, as Jehovah had commanded him,— and took in his hand two tables of stone. 5 And Jehovah descended in the cloud, and took his station with him, there,— and proclaimed himself by the name Jehovah. 6 So Jehovah passed before him, and proclaimed,—

Jehovah, Jehovah,

A GOD OF compassion, and favour,—

Slow to anger, and abundant in lovingkindness and faithfulness:

7 Keeping lovingkindness to a thousand generations,

Forgiving iniquity, and transgression, and sin,

Though he leave not [utterly unpunished],

Visiting the iniquity of fathers

Upon sons,

And upon sons' sons,

Unto a third and unto a fourth generation. 8

Then Moses made haste,— and bent his head toward the earth, and bowed himself down; 9 and said—

If, I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes, 0 My Lord> I pray thee let My Lord go on, in our midst,— although <as a stiff-necked people> it is', so wilt thou pardon our iniquity b and our sin, 0 and take us as thine own.

10 And he said—

Lo ! [I] am about to solemnise a covenant,—

In presence of all thy people— will I do marvellous things, which have not been created in any part of the earth, nor among any of the nations,— so shall all the people in whose midst [thou] art, see the work of Jehovah, for < as a fearful thing> it is', which [I] am doing with thee.

11 Take thou heed what [I] am commanding thee this day,— behold me! driving out from before thee—the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite.

12 Take heed to thyself,

Lest thou solemnise a covenant with the inhabitant of the land, whereupon [thou] art about to enter,—

Lest he become a snare in thy midst;

For < their altars > shall ye smash,

And < their pillars > shall ye shiver,—

And < their sacred-stems > shall ye fell. 13 For thou shalt not bow thyself down to another God,—

For < as for Jehovah >

<Jealous> is his name,

<A jealous God> he is';

15 Lest thou solemnise a covenant, with the inhabitant of the land,—

And then < as surely as they go unchaste after their gods, and sacrifice to their gods >

So surely will he invite thee,

And thou wilt eat of his sacrifice; And thou wilt take of his daughters, for thy sons,—

And his daughters will go unchaste after their gods,

And will cause [thy sons] to go unchaste after their gods.

17 Molten gods> shalt thou not make to thee.

18 The festival of unleavened cakes> shalt thou keep, <seven days> shalt thou eat unleavened cakes, which I commanded thee, at the set time, in the month Abib,— for < in the month Abib > camest thou forth out of Egypt.

19 Every one that is the first to be born is mine,— and every one of thy cattle that is born a male, firstling of ox or sheep. 20 But < the firstling of an ass> thou mayst redeem with a lamb, and < if thou wilt not redeem it > then shalt thou break its neck. 21 Every firstborn of thy sons> shalt thou redeem, and he must not see my face b with empty hand. 22 <Six days> shalt thou labour, but < on the seventh day > shalt thou rest,— in plowing time and in harvest shalt thou rest.

make to thee, the firstfruits of the wheat harvest,—and the festival of ingathering, at the closing in of the year; 22 three times in the year, shall every one of thy males see the face of the Lord, Yahweh; the God of Israel. 23 For I will root out nations from before thee, and will enlarge thy borders,—and no man shall covet thy land, when thou goest up to see the face of Yahweh thy God, three times in the year.

119 Thou shalt not slay, along with anything leavened, the blood of my sacrifice,—neither shall remain to the morning, the sacrifice of the festival of the passover.

24 The beginning of the firstfruits of thy ground shalt thou bring into the house of Yahweh, thy God. Thou shalt not boil a kid, in the milk of its dam.

And Yahweh said unto Moses,

Write for thyself these words,—for according to the tenor* of these words I have I solemnized with thee, a covenant, and with Israel.

So then he was there, with Yahweh, forty days and forty nights, did he not eat, and wrote upon the tables, the words of the covenant, the ten words.

And it came to pass when Moses came down out of Mount Sinai, with the two tablets of testimony in the hand of Moses, when he came down out of the mount; that Moses knew not that the skin of his face shone, through his having spoken with him. 30 And Aaron and all the sons of Israel saw Moses, and lo! the skin of his face shone,—and they stood in awe of drawing nigh unto him. 31 So then Moses called unto them, and Aaron and all the princes in the assembly returned unto him,—and Moses spake unto them. 32 And <afterwards> came nigh, all the sons of Israel.— and he gave them in commandment all that Yahweh had spoken with him, in Mount Sinai. 33 And <when Moses had made an end of speaking with them> he put over his face, a veil; 34 but <as often as Moses went in before Yahweh> he put aside the veil, until he came out,—and <as often as he came out and spake unto the sons of Israel, that which he had been commanded> the sons of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone,—so Moses again put the veil over his face, until he went in to speak with him.

And Moses called together all the assembly of the sons of Israel, and said unto them,—

These are the things which Yahweh hath commanded, to do them.

Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day shall there be to you a holy sabbath-keeping, unto Yahweh,— whomsoever doeth work therein; shall be put to death. 3 Ye shall not kindle a fire, in any of your dwellings, on the sabbath day.

And Moses spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, saying,—

This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, saying,—

Take ye from among you, a heave-offering to Yahweh, every one whose heart is willing shall bring it in, even the heave-offering of Yahweh,—gold and silver, and bronze; and blue and purple, and crimson, and fine linen and goat's-hair; and rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins, and acacia wood; and oil for giving light,— and aromatic spices for the anointing oil, and for fragrant incense; and onyx stones, and setting stones,—for the ephod, and for the breastpiece.

And all the wise-hearted among you shall come in, that they may make, all that which Yahweh hath commanded;— the habitation, its tent, and its covering,—its coverings, its boards, and its bars, its pillars, and its sockets; the ark with its staves, the propitiatory,—and the screening veil; the table with its staves, and all its utensils, and the Presence-bread; the lampstand for giving light, with its utensils, and its lamps,—and the oil for giving light; and the incese' altar, with its staves, and the anointing' oil, and the fragrant' incense,— and the entrance' screen, for the entrance of the habitation; the altar for the ascending-sacrifice, and the bronze' grating which pertaineth thereto, its staves, and all its utensils,—the laver, and its stand; the hangings for the court, its pillars, and its sockets,— and the screen for the gate of the court; the pins of the habitation, and the pins of the court, and their cords; the cloths of variegated stuff, for ministering in the sanctuary,—the sacred' garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, for ministering as priests.

So all the assembly of the sons of Israel went forth and do the work of the Sabbath. 27 Why this reminder of the Sabbath here, but to say that, not even in constructing the sanctuary, were they to work on the Sabbath?

\(-\)brought in \(-\)bracelets and nose-ornaments, and rings, and buckles, all manner of jewels of gold, even every man who waved a wave-offering of gold unto Yahweh. \(^23\) And every man with whom was found \(-\)blue and purple and crimson, and fine linen and goat's-hair, and rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins brought them in. \(^24\) \(\text{Every one who would heave a heave-offering of silver, or bronze, or gold} \(-\)brought in the heave-offering of Yahweh, and \(\text{\(-\)}
\(-\)every one with whom was found scacia wood, for any construction for the service brought it in. \(^25\) \(\text{And all the women who were wise-hearted} \(-\)<with their hands> did spin, and brought in that which they had spun— the blue, and the purple, the \(\text{b crimson, and the fine linen.}

See! Yahweh hath called by name,—Bezaleel, son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; \(^31\) and filled him with the spirit of God,—in wisdom, in understanding and in knowledge, and in all manner of execution; to devise skilful designs,—to work in gold and in silver, and in bronze; \(^32\) in the cutting of stones for setting, and in the cutting of wood,—to work in any manner of skilful workmanship. \(^33\) To teach also hath he put in his heart, \(\text{[the heart of]} \) him, and of Oholiab—son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan; \(^34\) \(\text{and} \) filled them with wisdom of heart, to work all manner of workmanship—of cutter and deviser, and embroiderer, in blue and in purple, in crimson and in fine linen, and of the weaver, —workers of any manner of workmanship, and devisers of skilful designs. \(^35\) Thus shall Bezaleel and Oholiab work, and every man that is wise-hearted, in whom Yahweh hath put wisdom and understanding, to know how to work any manner of workmanship for the holy' service,—according to all that Yahweh hath commanded.

\(\text{§ 40. The Sanctuary is prepared.}\)

\(\text{So then Moses called upon Bezaleel, and upon Oholiab, and upon every man that was wise-hearted, in whose heart Yahweh had put wisdom,—every one whose heart lifted him up, to draw near unto the work, to do it.} \(^3\) \(\text{And they took, from the presence of Moses, all the heave-offering which the sons of Israel had brought in, for the work of the holy' service, to do it,—howbeit} \(-\)they \(-\)brought in unto him yet more free-will offerings, morning by morning. \(^4\) \(\text{Then came in all the wise men who were doing all the holy work,—man by man, from his work which they} \(-\)were doing;} \(^5\) \(\text{and} \) spake unto Moses, saying,

\(\text{More than enough are the people bringing in, [more] than is needed for the service pertaining to the work, which Yahweh hath commanded to be done.}\)

\(\text{So Moses gave commandment, and they passed a proclamation throughout the camp, saying,}

\(\text{Let neither man nor woman make any more material for the holy' heave-offering.}\)

\(\text{So the people were restrained from bringing in.}\)

\(\text{For the material was enough for all the work, to make it,—} \) and to spare. \(^7\)

\(\text{Then did all the wise-hearted among the workers of the material, make the habitation of ten curtains,—<of fine-twined linen, and blue and purple and crimson, with cherubim, the work of the skilful weaver> did he make them. \(^8\) The length of each' curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the breadth four cubits, for each curtain,—<one measure> had all the curtains.} \(^9\) \(\text{And he joined the [first] five curtains, one to another, and the [other] five curtains> joined he one to another.} \(^10\) \(\text{And he made loops of blue, upon the border of the first curtain, at the edge of the set, [thus] made he in the border of the other curtain, at the edge of the second set; \(^11\) \(\text{Fifty loops} made he in the first' curtain, and \(\text{fifty loops} made he in the edge of the curtain that was in the second' set, the loops being opposite one to another.} \(^12\) \(\text{And he made fifty clasps of gold, and joined the curtains one to another with the clasps, and so the habitation became [one].} \(^13\)

\(\text{And he made fifty clasps of} \)} bronze,—to join together the tent, that it might become one.

19 And he made a covering to the tent, of rams' skins, dyed red,—and a covering of badgers' skins [above].

20 And he made the boards, for the habitation,—of acacia wood, for standing up: 3 [ten cubits] the length of each board,—and [a cubit and a half] the breadth of each board: 2 [two tentons to each board, united one to another,—thus] made he for all the boards of the habitation. 3 and [forty sockets of silver] made he, under the twenty boards,—[two sockets] under the first board, for its two tentons, and [two sockets] under the next board, for its two tentons. 2 And [for the second side of the habitation, to the north quarter] made he twenty boards; 26 and their four sockets of silver,—[two sockets] under the first board, and [two sockets] under the next board. 27 And [for the hinder part of the habitation, westward] made he six boards;

21 And he made the boards for the habitation,—[twenty boards] for the south side southwards;

and [two boards] made he for the corners of the habitation,—in the hinderpart. 29 Thus were they to be double beneath, and [at the same time] should they be entire, at the top thereof, into each ring,—thus did he for them both, for the two corners. 30 Thus were there to be eight boards, and [their sockets of silver] were sixteen sockets,—two sockets apace under each board.

31 And he made bars, of acacia wood,—five for the boards of the first side of the habitation, and five bars for the boards of the other side of the habitation,—and five bars for the boards of the habitation b at the hinderpart westward.

32 And he made the middle bar,—to run along in the midst of the boards, from end to end.

33 And <the boards> overlaid he with gold, and <their rings> made he of gold, as receptacles e for the veil,—and he overlaid the bars with gold.

34 And he made the veil, of blue and purple and crimson, and fine-twined linen,—of the work of a skilful weaver> made he it, with cherubim: 36 And he made for it—four pillars of acacia, and overlaid them with gold, their hooks of gold,—and cast for them, four sockets of silver.

35 And he made a screen for the opening of the tent, of blue and purple and crimson and fine twined linen, the work of an embroiderer; 39 and these pillars thereof, and their hooks, and these pillars their capitals and their cross-rods, 4 with gold, but [their five sockets] were of bronze.

37 And Bezaleel made the ark, of acacia wood,—two cubits and a half the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof; 3 and he overlaid it with pure gold, within and without,—and made for it a rim of gold, round about; 4 and he cast for it four rings of gold, upon the four feet thereof,—even [two rings] on the one side thereof and [two rings] on the other side thereof; and he made staves of acacia wood,—and overlaid them with gold; 5 and he brought the staves into the rings, upon the sides of the ark,—for lifting the ark.

6 And he made a propitiatory b of pure gold,—two cubits and half the length thereof, and [a cubit and a half] the breadth thereof; 7 and he made two cherubim, of gold,—of beaten work—did he make them, out of the two ends of the propitiatory; 8 [one cherub] out of this end, and [one cherub] out of that end,—out of the propitiatory itself> made he the cherubim, out of the two ends thereof: 9 and the cherubim were spreading out their wings on high, making a shelter with their wings over the propitiatory, with [their faces] one towards the other,—towards the propitiatory were the faces of the cherubim. 5

10 And he made the table, of acacia wood,—two cubits the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof. 11 And he overlaid it, with pure gold,—and he made thereto a rim of gold, round about; 12 and he made thereto a border of a handbreadth, round about,—and he made a rim of gold to the border thereof, round about; 13 and he cast for it, four rings of gold,—and placed the rings upon the four corners, which pertained to the four feet thereof: 14 <near to the border> were the rings,—as receptacles for the staves, for lifting the table; 15 and he made the staves of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold,—for lifting the table; 16 and he made the utensils which were to be upon the table—its dishes, and its pans, and its bowls, and its basins, for pouring out therewith,—of pure gold.

17 And he made the lampstand, of pure gold,—of beaten work—made he the lampstand—its base and its shafts, its cups, its apples and its blossoms were of the same; 18 with six branches coming out of its sides,—three branches of the lampstand out of its one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of its other side: 19 three cups like almondflowers in the one branch—apple and blossom, and three cups like almondflowers in the next branch, apple and blossom,—for the six branches, coming out of the lampstand; 20 and in the lampstand itself> four cups,—like almondflowers, its apples and its blossoms; 21 with an apple under the two branches of the same, and an apple under the next two branches of the same, and an apple under the next two branches of the same,—for the six branches coming out of the same; gold. 25 And he made the lamps thereof, seven,—with its snuffers and its snuff-trays, of pure gold. 24 Of a talent of pure gold made he it,—and all the utensils thereof.

And he made the incense' altar, of acacia wood,—[a cubit] the length thereof, and [a cubit] the breadth thereof, [four cubits], and [two cubits] the height thereof, <of the same> were the horns thereof. 26 And he overlaid it with pure gold—the top thereof and the sides thereof round about, and the horns thereof,—and he made thereto—a rim of gold, round about. 27 And <two rings of gold> made he thereto—beneath the rim thereof, upon the two corners thereof, upon the two sides thereof,—as receptacles for the staves, to lift it therewith. 28 And he made the staves of acacia wood,—and overlaid them with gold.

And he made the holy anointing oil, and the pure fragrant incense,—the work of a perfumer.

38 And he made the altar for the ascending-sacrifice of acacia wood,—[five cubits] the length thereof, and [five cubits] the breadth thereof, [four cubits], and [three cubits] the height thereof. 2 And he made the horns thereof, upon the four corners thereof, <of the same> were the horns thereof,—and he overlaid it with bronze. 3 And he made all the utensils of the altar—the pans and the shovels, and the sprinkling bowls, the flesh-hooks and the fire-pans,—<all the utensils thereof> made he of bronze. 4 And he made to the altar a grating, of network of bronze,—under the margin thereof beneath, as far as the midst thereof. 5 And he cast four rings in the four corners, to the grating of bronze,—as receptacles for the staves. 6 And he made the staves of acacia wood,—and overlaid them with bronze. 7 And he brought the staves into the rings, upon the sides of the altar, to lift it therewith,—<hollow with boards> did he make it.

And he made the laver of bronze, and the stand thereof of bronze,—with the mirrors of the female hosts who did service at the opening of the tent of meeting:

And he made the court,—<on the south side southward> the hangings of the court, of fine twined linen, [a hundred cubits]; 10 their pillars twenty, and their sockets twenty, of bronze,—the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods of silver: 11 and <on the north side> a hundred cubits, their pillars twenty, and their sockets twenty, of bronze,—the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods of silver. 12 And <on the west side> the hangings fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their sockets ten,—and the hooks of the pillars and their connecting-rods of silver. 13 And <on the east side towards the dawn> fifty cubits: 14 the hangings, fifteen cubits, for the side-piece,—their pillars, three, and their sockets three; and <for the second’ sidepiece, on this side and on that, of the gate of the court> the hangings, fifteen cubits,—their pillars three, and their sockets three. 15 All the hangings of the court, round about, were of fine twined linen. 17 And the sockets for the pillars were of bronze, [the hooks of the pillars, and their connecting-rods] of silver,—and [the overlaying of their capitals] was silver,—and [they themselves] were filleted with silver, even all the pillars of the court. 18 And [the screen of the gate of the court] was the work of an embroiderer, blue and purple and crimson, and fine twined linen,—and twenty cubits in length, and [the height, according to the breadth], of five cubits, to match the curtains of the court; 19 and [their pillars] were four, and [their sockets] four, [of bronze],—[their hooks] of silver, and [the overlaying of their capitals, and their connecting-rods] of silver. 20 And all the pins for the habitation, and for the court round about, were of bronze.

<As for all the gold that was used for the work, in all the construction of the sanctuary> it came to pass that [the gold of the wave-offering] was nine-and-twenty talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary. 25 And <the silver of them who were numbered of the assembly> was one hundred talents,—and one thousand, seven hundred, and seventy-five shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary; 26 a bekah per head, that is a half shekel, by the shekel of the sanctuary, for all that passed over to them who had been numbered, from twenty years old, and upwards, for six hundred and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty. 27 And it came to pass, that [the hundred talents of silver] were used for casting the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the veil,—one hundred sockets with the hundred talents, a talent for a socket. 28 And with the thousand, seven hundred and seventy-five made the hooks, for the pillars,—and overlaid their capitals, and united them with connecting-rods.

And [the bronze of the wave-offering] was seventy talents,—and two thousand and four hundred shekels. 30 And he made therewith, the sockets for the opening of the tent of meeting, and the altar of bronze, and the grating of bronze which pertained thereto,—and all the utensils of the altar, and the sockets for the court round about, and the sockets for the gate of the court,—and all the pins for the habitation, and all the pins for the court, round about.

39 1 And of the blue, and the purple, and the crimson> made they cloths of variegated stuff, for ministering in the sanctuary,—and they made the holy garments which were for Aaron,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

2 So he made the ephod,—of gold, blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine twined linen, and they did beat out the plates of gold, and proceeded to cut them into threads,* to work into the midst of the blue, and into the midst of the purple, and into the midst of the crimson, and into the midst of the fine linen,—with the work of a skilful weaver. 4 <Shoulder-pieces> made they thereto for joining,—<at its two edges> was it joined. 5 And <as for the custom of fastening girdle which was thereon>: <of the same> was it according to the working thereof, gold, blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine twined linen,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

6 And they wrought the onyx stones, enclosed in ouches of gold,—graven with the engravings of a seal-ring, after the names of the sons of Israel. 7 And he put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, as stones of memorial, for the sons of Israel,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

8 And he made the breastpiece, the work of a skilful weaver, like the work of the ephod,—of gold, blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine twined linen. 9 <Foursquare> it was, <doubled> made they the breastpiece,—ina span was the length thereof, and [a span] the breadth thereof, [doubled]. 10 And they set therein, four rows of stones,—one row a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald, the first; row; and 'the second row',—a carnelian, a sapphire, and a diamond; 12 and [the third row],—an opal, an agate, and an amethyst; 13 and [the fourth row],—a Tarshish stone, a sardonyx, and a jasper,—enclosed in ouches of gold, [when they were set]. 14 And <as for the stones>: <after b> the names of the sons of Israel> they were ['twelve], after their names,—with the engravings of a seal-ring, [each one] after b his name, [for the twelve tribes]. 15 And they made, upon the breastpiece, chains like cords, of wheaten work,—of pure gold. 16 And they made two ouches of gold, and two rings of gold,—and they placed the two rings, upon the two ends of the breastpiece; 17 and they placed the two wheaten chains of gold, upon the two rings,—upon the ends of the breastpiece; 18 and <the other two ends of the two wheaten chains> placed they upon the two ouches,—and placed them upon the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, in the forefront thereof. 19 And they made two rings of gold, and put on the two ends of the breastpiece,—upon the border thereof, which is towards the ephod, inwards. 20 And they made two other rings of gold, and placed them upon the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod, below, on the front of the face thereof, to match the joining thereof,—above the curious girdle of the ephod. 21 And they bound the breastpiece by the rings thereof, into the rings of the ephod, with a cord of blue, that it might remain upon the curious girdle of the ephod, and the breastpiece not be removed from upon the ephod,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

22 And he made the robe of the ephod,—wholly of blue; 23 with the opening b of the robe in the midst thereof, like the opening of a coat of mail,—a border to the opening thereof round about—it might not be rent open. 24 And they made, upon the skirts of the robe, pomegranates—of blue and purple and crimson,—twined. 25 And they made bells of pure gold,—and placed the bells in the midst of the pomegranates, upon the skirts of the robe, round about, [in the midst of the pomegranates]: 26 a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, upon the skirts of the robe, round about,—to minister in,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

27 And they made the tunics of fine linen, the work of a weaver,—for Aaron, and for his sons; 28 and the turban of fine linen, and the ornamental caps of fine linen,—and the linens' drawers, of fine twined linen; 29 and the girdle of fine twined linen, and blue and purple and crimson, the work of an embroiderer,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

30 And they made the burnished plate of the holy crown, of pure gold,—and wrote thereupon a writing, with the engravings of a seal-ring holy unto Yahweh. 31 And they placed thereupon a writing, with the engravings of a seal-ring, after b the names of the sons of Israel, <for the twelve tribes> thus did the sons of Israel, <according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses>: so did they.

§ 41. The Work is brought in to Moses.

32 And they brought in the habitation, unto Moses, the tent, and all its furniture,—its clasps, its boards, its bars, and its pillars and its sockets; 24 and the covering of rams' skins dyed red, and the covering of badgers' skins,—and the screening veil; 36 the ark of the testimony, with its staves, — and the propitiatory; 37 the pure lampstand, the lamps thereof, the lamps to be put in order, and all the utensils thereof, — and the oil for giving light; 38 and the altar of gold, and the oil of anointing, and the fragrant incense, — and the screen for the opening of the tent; 39 the altar of bronze, and the grating of bronze which pertaineth thereto, the staves thereof, and all the utensils thereof, — the laver, and its stand, 40 the hangings of the court, its pillars and its sockets, and the screen for the gate of the court, its cords, and its pins, — and all the utensils for the service of the habitation, for the tent of meeting; 41 the clothes of variegated stuff, for ministering in the sanctuary, — the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, for ministering as priests. 42 According to all that Yahweh commanded Moses did the sons of Israel make all the work.

And Moses looked upon all the structure, and lo! they had made it, as Yahweh had commanded, so had they made it, — and Moses blessed them.

§ 42. By express Divine Command the Holy Habitation is at length set up, and is filled with Yahweh's Glory; yet not so as to deprive Israel of the Guiding Pillar of Cloud and Fire by Day and Night in all their Journeyings.

Then spake Yahweh, unto Moses, saying:

<On the first day of the month, in the first month> shalt thou rear the habitation, of the tent of meeting; 3 and thou shalt put therein, the ark of the testimony, — and shalt screen the ark, with the veil; 4 and thou shalt bring in the table, and set in order what is to be arranged thereupon, — and thou shalt bring in the lampstand, and mount the lamps thereof; 5 and thou shalt place the altar of gold, for incense, before the ark of the testimony, — and put up the screen for the opening of the habitation; 6 and thou shalt place the altar for the ascending sacrifice, — before the opening of the habitation of the tent of meeting; 7 and thou shalt place the laver between the tent of meeting, and the altar, — and shalt put therein, water. 8 And thou shalt put up the court, round about, — and hang up the screen of the gate of the court. 9 And thou shalt take the oil of anointing, and anoint the habitation, and all that is therein, — and shalt hallow it, and all the furniture thereof, so shall it be holy.

And thou shalt anoint the altar of ascending sacrifice, and all its utensils, — and hallow the altar, so shall the altar be most holy: 11 and thou shalt anoint the laver, and its stand, — and shalt hallow it. 12 And thou shalt bring near Aaron, and his sons, unto the opening of the tent of meeting, — and shalt bathe them in the water; 13 and thou shalt clothe Aaron with the holy garments, — and shalt anoint him, and hallow him, so shall he minister as priest unto me. 15 His sons also shalt thou bring near, — and shalt clothe them with tunics; 16 and shalt anoint them, as thou didst anoint their father, and they shall minister as priests unto me, — so shall their anointing remain to them, for an age-abiding priesthood, to their generations.

And Moses did, — According to all that Yahweh had commanded him did he.

Thus came it to pass <in the first month, in the second year, on the first of the month>, that the habitation was reared. 18 Yea Moses reared the habitation, and placed its sockets, and fixed its boards, and fastened its bars, — and reared its pillars. 19 Then spread he abroad the tent upon the habitation, — and put the covering of the tent upon it, above.

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And he took and placed the testimony, within the ark, and put the staves upon the ark, — and placed the propitiatory upon the ark [above]; 21 and brought in the ark into the habitation, — and put up the screening veil, and screened over the ark of the testimony, —

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And he placed the table, in the tent of meeting, — on the side of the habitation [northward], — outside the veil; 22 and set in order thereupon the arrangement of bread, before Yahweh, —

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And he put the lampstand, in the tent of meeting, over against the table, — on the side of the habitation, southward; 25 and mounted the lamps, before Yahweh, —

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And he put the altar of gold, in the tent of meeting, — on the side of the habitation, — under the veil; 27 and burned thereupon the fragrant incense, —

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And he put up the screen of the entrance pertaining to the habitation; 29 and <the altar

<Or: “with.”> of ascending-sacrifice> put he at the entrance of the habitation of the tent of meeting,—and he caused to ascend thereupon, the ascending-sacrifice, and the meal-offering,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And he put the laver, between the tent of meeting, and the altar,—and therein water, for bathing; 21 and Moses, and Aaron, and his sons, thenceforth bathed therein,—their hands and their feet; 22 when they were entering into the tent of meeting, and when they were drawing near unto the altar> then used they to bathe,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And he reared the court, round about, to the habitation and to the altar, and put up the screen of the gate of the court,—and Moses finished the work. 23

Then did the cloud cover the tent of meeting,—and the glory of Yahweh filled the habitation; 24 and Moses was not able to enter into the tent of meeting, because the cloud had made its habitation thereupon,—and the glory of Yahweh filled the habitation. 25 And whenever the cloud ascended from off the habitation> then did the sons of Israel set forward,—in all their journeyings; 26 but if the cloud did not ascend> then did they not set forward,—until the day when it did ascend. 27 For <the cloud of Yahweh> was upon the habitation, by day, and  came to be, by night, therein,—in the sight of all the house of Israel, in all their journeyings.

§ 1. Of various kinds of Offering.

Then called he unto Moses,—and Yahweh spake unto him, out of the tent of meeting, saying:

Speak thou unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them—

When any man <would bring near from among you an oblation, unto Yahweh> from the beasts, from the herd or from the flock> shall ye bring near your oblation.

i. The Ascending-Sacrifice (A.V. and R.V. “Burnt-Offering”).

a. Of the Herd (bullock).

If <an ascending-sacrifice> be his oblation—of the herd>  shall he bring near,—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting> shall he bring it, for its acceptance, before Yahweh. 3 Then shall he lean his hand, upon the head of the ascending-sacrifice,—and it shall be accepted for him, to put a propitiatory covering over him; 4 and he shall slay the young bullock before Yahweh,—and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall bring near the blood, and shall dash* the blood against the altar, round about, [even the altar] that is at the entrance of the tent of meeting.

Then shall he* flay the ascending-sacrifice,—and cut it up into its pieces. 7 And the sons of Aaron the priest* shall place fire, upon the altar,—and arrange wood, upon the fire. And the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall arrange the pieces, the head and the fat,—upon the wood, that is on the fire, that is on the altar. 8 But <its inwards and its legs> shall they* bathe with water,—then shall the priest make, of the whole, a perfume at the altar, an ascending-sacrifice, an altar-flame of a satisfying’ odour unto Yahweh.

b. Of the Flock (Sheep or Goat).

But <if <of the flock> be his oblation,—of the sheep or of the goats, for an ascending-sacrifice>  shall he bring near. 11 And he shall slay it on the side of the altar, northward, before Yahweh,—and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall dash* its blood against the altar, round about. 12 And he shall cut it up into its pieces, and its head, and its fat,—and the priest shall arrange them upon the wood, that is on the fire, that is on the altar. 13 But the inwards and the legs shall he bathe in water,—then shall the priest bring near the whole, and make a perfume at the altar, an ascending-sacrifice it is', an altar-flame of a satisfying* odour, unto Yahweh.

c. Of Birds.

14 But if of birds be the ascending-sacrifice of his oblation unto Yahweh then shall he bring near, of the turtle-doves or of the young pigeons, his oblation. 15 And the priest shall bring it near unto the altar, and its blood shall be drained out upon the wall of the altar. 16 Then shall he take away its crop with its plumage,—and cast it beside the altar, eastward, into the place of fat ashes; 17 and he shall cleave it in its wings—he shall not divide it asunder, so shall the priest make a perfume therewith, at the altar, an ascending-sacrifice it is', an altar-flame of a satisfying* odour, unto Yahweh.

ii. The Meal-offering (A. V. "Meat-offering": Heb. minhah.)

a. Of Fine Meal.

2 But when any person would bring near as an oblation a meal-offering unto Yahweh <of fine meal> shall be his oblation,—and he shall pour out thereon oil, and place thereon, frankincense; 3 so shall he bring it in unto the sons of Aaron, the priests, and he shall grasp therefrom a handful of the fine meal thereof and of the oil thereof, besides all the frankincense thereof,—and the priest shall make a perfume with the memorial thereof, at the altar, an altar-flame of a satisfying* odour, unto Yahweh. 4 Moreover when thou wouldst bring near, as an oblation of a meal-offering, something baked in an oven <round, unleavened cakes of fine meal, overflowed with oil> [shall it be], or unleavened wafers anointed with oil.

c. From the Girdle.

5 But if a meal-offering on a girdle be thine oblation <of fine meal, overflowed with oil, unleavened> shall it be; 6 <parting it into pieces> then shalt thou pour thereon oil,—  it is'.

d. From the Boiler.

7 But if a meal-offering of the boiler be thine oblation <of fine meal, with oil> shall it be made. 8 Then shall thou bring in the meal-offering that is made of these, unto Yahweh,—and one shall bring it near, unto the priest, and he shall take it near, unto the altar. 9 Then shall the priest uplift out of the meal-offering, a memorial thereof, and make a perfume at the altar,—an altar-flame of a satisfying* odour, unto Yahweh. 10 But [the remainder of the meal-offering] pertaineth to Aaron and to his sons,—most holy, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh.

11 None of the meal-offerings which ye bring near unto Yahweh shall be made into anything leavened,—for <of no leaven, and of no syrup> may ye make a perfume, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh.

e. Of First-fruits.

12 <As for an oblation of first-fruits ye shall bring them near, unto Yahweh,—but <unto the altar> they shall not take them up, as a satisfying odour.

13 And every meal-offering oblation of thine <with salt> shalt thou season, and thou shalt not suffer to be lacking the salt of the covenant of thy God, from upon thy meal-offering,—upon every oblation of thine shalt thou offer salt.

f. Of First-ripe Corn.

14 But if thou wouldst bring near a meal-offering of first-ripe corn, unto Yahweh <of green ears, roasted in fire, crushed grain of garden-land> shalt thou bring near thy meal-offering of first-ripe corn. 15 And thou shalt place thereon oil, and oil shalt put thereon, frankincense,— it is'. 16 Then shall the priest make a perfume, with the memorial thereof,—from the crushed grain thereof, and from the oil thereof, besides all the frankincense thereof,—an altar-flame, unto Yahweh.

iii. The Peace-offering.

a. Of the Herd.

1 But if a peace-offering be his oblation <if of the herd> he himself shall bring near,—whether male or female <without defect> shall he bring it near, before Yahweh. 2 Then shall he lean his hand upon the head of his oblation, and slay it at the entrance of the tent of meeting,—and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall dash* the blood against the altar, round about. 3 Then shall he bring near, out of the peace-offering, an altar-flame unto Yahweh,—the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the loins,—and the caul upon the liver, <upon the kidneys> shall he remove it. Then shall the sons of Aaron make thereof a perfume, at the altar, upon the ascending-sacrifice, which is on the wood, which is on the fire,—[an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh].

b. Of the Flock.

But <if <out of the flock> be his oblation, for a peace-offering unto Yahweh> <whether male or female—without defect> shall he bring it near. If  [the himself] be bringing near as his oblation> then shall he bring it near, before Yahweh. <And he shall lean his hand upon the head of his oblation, and shall slay it, before the tent of meeting,— and the sons of Aaron shall dash* the blood thereof against the altar, round about. Then shall he bring near, out of the peace-offering, an altar-flame unto Yahweh, the fat thereof, the fat-tail thereof entwined to the backbone shall he remove it,—and the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; and the two kidneys, with the fat that is on them, which is on the loins,—and the caul that is on the liver, <on the kidneys> shall he remove it. Then shall the priest make a perfume, at the altar,—[the food of an altar-flame, unto Yahweh]. But <if > be his oblation> then shall he bring it near, before Yahweh. <And he shall lean his hand upon its head, and shall slay it, before the tent of meeting,— and the sons of Aaron shall dash* the blood thereof against the altar, round about. Then shall he bring near therefrom, as his oblation, an altar-flame unto Yahweh,—the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards; and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is on the loins,—the caul upon the liver, <on the kidneys> shall he remove it. Then shall the priest make a perfume, at the altar,—[the food of an altar-flame, for a satisfying odour,—all the fat—unto Yahweh]. An age-abiding statute to your generations, in all your dwellings,—<none of the fat nor of the blood> shall ye eat.

§ 2. Of various kinds of Offences, and the Offerings appointed for them.

Then shall the priest take of the blood thereof with his finger, and put upon the horns of the altar of ascending-sacrifice,— and <all the remaining blood thereof> shall he pour out at the base of the altar; and <all the fat thereof> shall he remove, as the fat of the lamb is removed, from the peace-offering, and the priest shall make a perfume therewith at the altar, upon the altar-flames of Yahweh,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, on account of his sin which he hath committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

is upon the hearth, upon the altar, all the night until the morning, and the fire of the altar shall be kept burning therein. So then the priest shall put on his upper garment of linen, and breaches of linen shall he put on over his flesh, then shall he take up the fat-ashes, whereof the fire consumeth the ascending-sacrifice on the altar, and shall put them beside the altar. Then shall he put off his garments, and put on other garments, and shall carry forth the fat-ashes, unto the outside of the camp, unto a clean place. And the fire on the altar shall be kept burning therein; it shall not be suffered to go out, but the priest shall kindle up thereon pieces of wood, morning by morning, and shall set in order thereupon the ascending-sacrifice, and shall make a perfume thereon, with the fat-pieces of the peace-offerings; and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincense which is upon the meal-offering, and shall make a perfume thereon, with an altar-flame of a satisfying odour shall the memorial thereof be, unto Yahweh. And the remainder thereof shall Aaron and his sons eat, as unleavened cakes; shall it be eaten, in a holy place, within the court of the tent of meeting, shall they eat it. It shall not be baked into anything leavened, as their portion have I given it from among the altar-flames of Yahweh, and most holy it is, like the sin-bearer, and like the guilt-bearer. Any male among the sons of Aaron may eat it, an age-abiding statute to your generations, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh, every one that toucheth them shall be hallowed. And this is the oblation of Aaron and his sons, which they shall bring near unto Yahweh in the day when he is anointed, The tenth of an ephah of fine meal, as a continual meal-offering, half thereof in the morning, and half thereof in the evening; in a pan, with oil shall it be made, when well mingled shall thou bring it in, in baked portions, as a meal-offering in pieces shall thou bring it near, as a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh. And the priest that is anointed in his stead among his sons shall prepare it, it is an age-abiding statute, that unto Yahweh shall a perfume of the entire gift be made: yet every meal-offering of a priest shall be entrenced; it shall not be eaten. And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying— Speak unto Aaron and unto his sons, saying—

This is the law of the sin-bearer. In the place where the ascending-sacrifice is slain shall the sin-bearer be slain, before Yahweh, most holy it is. The priest who maketh it a sin-bearer shall eat it, in a holy place shall it be eaten, in the court of the tent of meeting. Every one who toucheth the flesh thereof shall be hallowed; and when one sprinklemeth some of the blood thereof upon a garment that wherein it was sprinkled, shall thou wash in a holy place. But the earthen vessel wherein it is boiled shall be broken, or if in a vessel of bronze it hath been boiled, then shall [the vessel] be scoured and rinsed in water. Any male among the priests may eat thereof. But no sin-bearer whereof any of the blood is taken into the tent of meeting to make a propitiatory-covering in the sanctuary shall be eaten, with fire shall it be consumed.

And this is the law of the guilt-bearer. In the holy place it is! In the place where they slay the ascending-sacrifice shall they slay the guilt-bearer; and the blood thereof shall one dash against the altar, round about; and as for all the fat thereof one shall bring near therefrom, the fat-tail, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the two kidneys, with the fat that is upon them, which is upon the loins, and the caul upon the liver, shall he remove it. And the priest shall make a perfume with them at the altar, an altar-flame unto Yahweh, a guilt-bearer it is. Any male among the priests may eat thereof, in a holy place shall it be eaten, most holy it is. As the sin-bearer so the guilt-bearer, one law for them, the priest who maketh a propitiatory-covering therewith to him shall it belong. And for the priest who bringeth near the ascending-sacrifices of any man, the skin of the ascending-sacrifice which he hath brought near, to the priest himself shall it belong. And as for any meal-offering that may be baked in an oven, or anything that hath been prepared in a boiler or on a girdle, to the priest that bringeth it near to him shall it belong. And as for any meal-offering overflowed with oil, or dry, unto all the sons of Aaron shall it belong, to one as much as to another. And this is the law of the peace-offering which one may bring near unto...
And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—

 Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—

 No fat, of ox or sheep or goat shall ye eat:
 and though the fat of what dieth of itself and the fat of that which has been torn in pieces; may be used for any other service; yet shall ye in no wise eat it.

 Nay, as touching any one who eateth the fat of any beast, wherefrom he might bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh: then shall the person that eateth be cut off from among his kinsfolk.

 And And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—

 Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—

 If he bring it near, then shall he bring near, with the thanksgiving sacrifice, perforated cakes, unleavened, overflowed with oil, and wafers, unleavened, anointed with oil; and of fine flour moistened, perforated cakes overflowed with oil. With perforated cakes of leavened bread shall he bring near his oblation, with his peace-offering of thanksgiving. Then shall he bring near, therefrom, one of each oblation, a heave-offering unto Yahweh,— to the priest who dasheth against the altar the blood of the peace-offering,— to him shall it belong.

 But as for the flesh of his peace-offering of thanksgiving, on the day of bringing it near shall it be eaten,— he shall not leave thereof, until morning. But if a vow or a freewill offering be his sacrifice of oblation,— in the day he bringeth near his sacrifice shall it be eaten,— and on the morrow then may the remainder thereof be eaten; but as for the remainder of the flesh of the sacrifice,— on the third day,— in fire shall it be consumed.

 And if any of the flesh of his peace-offering,— be at all eaten,— on the third day he that brought it near shall not be reckoned to him, unclean;— and the person who shall eat thereof shall bear his iniquity.

 And the flesh that toucheth anything unclean shall not be eaten, in fire shall it be consumed,— but as for the other flesh, any one who is clean may eat flesh. But as for the person who shall eat flesh from the peace-offering, which pertaineth unto Yahweh, while his uncleaness is on him then shall that person be cut off from among his kinsfolk. Yes, as for any person whenever he shall touch anything unclean— the uncleanness of man, or an unclean beast, or any unclean disgusting thing,— and then eateth of the flesh of a peace-offering that pertaineth unto Yahweh then shall that person be cut off from among his kinsfolk.

 This is what pertaineth to the anointing of Aaron, and to the anointing of his sons out of the altar-flames of Yahweh,— granted in the day when he brought them near, to minister as priests unto Yahweh: which Yahweh commanded Moses, in Mount Sinai,— in the day when he commanded the sons of Israel to bring near their oblations unto Yahweh, in the desert of Sinai.

 The Installation of Aaron and his Sons in the Priesthood.

 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

 Take thou Aaron, and his sons with him, and the garments, and the anointing oil,— and the sin-bearing bullock, and the two rams, and the fat, of ox or sheep or goat shall ye eat: and though the fat of what dieth of itself and the fat of that which has been torn in pieces; may be used for any other service; yet shall ye in no wise eat it.

 Nay, as touching any one who eateth the fat of any beast, wherefrom he might bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh: then shall the person that eateth be cut off from among his kinsfolk. And And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—

 Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—

 No fat, of ox or sheep or goat shall ye eat: and though the fat of what dieth of itself and the fat of that which has been torn in pieces; may be used for any other service; yet shall ye in no wise eat it.

 Nay, as touching any one who eateth the fat of any beast, wherefrom he might bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh: then shall the person that eateth be cut off from among his kinsfolk. And And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying—

 Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—

 No fat, of ox or sheep or goat shall ye eat: and though the fat of what dieth of itself and the fat of that which has been torn in pieces; may be used for any other service; yet shall ye in no wise eat it.

 Nay, as touching any one who eateth the fat of any beast, wherefrom he might bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh: then shall the person that eateth be cut off from among his kinsfolk. And

 As touching any one who eateth the fat of any beast, wherefrom he might bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh: then shall the person that eateth be cut off from among his kinsfolk.
and the basket of unleavened cakes; and called together, the entrance of the tent of meeting.

And Moses did, as Yahweh commanded him, and the assembly was called together, the entrance of the tent of meeting. Then said Moses unto the assembly,—

¶ This is the thing, which Yahweh hath commanded to be done.

So Moses brought near Aaron and his sons, and bathed them with water, and put upon him the tunic, and girded him with the band, and clothed him with the robe, and put upon him the ephod, and girded him with the curiously-woven band of the ephod, and bound it to him therewith; and he put upon him the breastpiece, and placed in the breastpiece, the Lights and the Perfections; and he put the turban upon his head, and put upon the turban, on the forehead thereof, the burnished plate of gold—the holy crown.

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the habitation, and all that was therein, and hallowed them; and he sprinkled thereof upon the altar, seven times, and anointed the altar, and all the utensils thereof, and the laver and its stand, to hallow them; and he poured of the anointing oil, upon the head of Aaron, and anointed him, to hallow him.

And Moses brought near the sons of Aaron, and clothed them with tunics, and girded them with bands, and wrapped round for them turbans.

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

Then was led near the sin-bearing bullock,— and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the sin-bearing bullock. Then it was slain, and Moses took of the blood, and put thereof upon the horns of the altar, round about; and put upon the head of the sin-bearing bullock, and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the sin-bearing bullock; and Moses made a perfume at the altar upon the ascending-sacrifice,— an installation they were, for a satisfying odour, an altar-flame it was unto Yahweh.

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

Then was brought near the second ram, the ram of installation,— and Aaron and his sons leaned their hands upon the head of the ram; and it was slain, and Moses took of the blood thereof, and put upon the tip of Aaron's right ear,— and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. Then were brought near the sons of Aaron, and Moses put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot,— and Moses dashed the blood against the altar, round about. And he took the fat and the fat-tail, and all the fat that was on the inwards, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat,— and the right shoulder; and out of the basket of unleavened-cakes that was before Yahweh took he one round unleavened-cake, and one round oil-cake, and one wafer, and put them upon the fat portions, and upon the right shoulder; and placed the whole upon the opened palms of Aaron, and upon the opened palms of his sons,— and waved them as a wave-offering, before Yahweh. And Moses took them from off their opened palms, and made a perfume at the altar upon the ascending-sacrifice,— an installation they were, for a satisfying odour, an altar-flame it was unto Yahweh. And Moses took the breast, and waved it as a wave-offering, before Yahweh,— of the ram of installation unto Moses it belonged, as a portion.

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And Moses took of the anointing oil, and of the blood that was upon the altar, and sprinkled upon Aaron, upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon the garments of his sons, with him,— and hallowed Aaron, his garments, and his sons, and the garments of his sons, with him. And Moses said unto Aaron and unto his sons,

Boil ye the flesh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting, and there shall ye eat it, and the bread which is in the basket of installation, as I have been commanded, saying, ¶ Aaron and his sons, shall eat it.

But that which is left of the flesh, with the bread shall ye consume. And from the entrance of the tent of meeting> shall ye not go forth, for seven days, until the day that filleth up the days of your installation,—because <for seven days> will be install you: 34 <as hath been done this day> [so] hath Yahweh commanded to be done, to put a propitiatory-covering over you. 35 <Even at the entrance of the tent of meeting> shall ye abide, day and night, for seven days, and shall keep the watch of Yahweh, and shall not die,—for [so] am I commanded.

And Aaron and his sons did all the things which Yahweh had commanded through the mediation of Moses.

§ 5. Aaron begins to officiate in the Priesthood, and the Glory of Yahweh appears.

1 And it came to pass, <on the eighth day> that Moses called for Aaron, and for his sons,—and for the elders of Israel; 2 and said unto Aaron—Take for thyself a choice calf, as a sin-bearer, and a ram for an ascending-sacrifice, each without defect,—and bring them near before Yahweh; 3 and <unto the sons of Israel> shalt thou speak, saying,—Take ye a he-goat, as a sin-bearer, and a calf and a young sheep, each a year old, without defect, for an ascending-sacrifice; 4 and an ox and a ram for peace-offerings, to sacrifice before Yahweh, and a meal-offering overflowed with oil,—for <today> doth Yahweh appear unto you.

5 So they brought that which Moses commanded, before the tent of meeting,—and all the assembly drew near, and stood before Yahweh. 6 And Moses said—This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded that ye shall do,—that the glory of Yahweh may appear unto you.

7 And Moses said unto Aaron—Draw near unto the altar, and offer thy sin-bearer, and thine ascending-sacrifice, and a calf and a young sheep, each a year old, without defect, for an ascending-sacrifice; and an ox and a ram for peace-offerings, to sacrifice before Yahweh, and a meal-offering overflowed with oil,—for <today> doth Yahweh appear unto you.

8 So Aaron drew near unto the altar,—and slew the sin-bearing calf, which was for himself; 9 and the sons of Aaron brought the blood unto him, and he dipped his finger in the blood, and put [thereof] upon the horns of the altar,—and <the [remainder of the] blood> poured he out at the base of the altar; 10 and <with the fat and the kidneys, and the caul> of the liver; 11 and they put the portions of fat upon the breasts,—and he made a perfume with the fat at the altar; 12 but <the breasts and the right shoulder> did Aaron wave as a wave-offering, before Yahweh, as Moses commanded.

13 Then Aaron lifted up his hands towards the people, and blessed them,—and he came down from offering the sin-bearer, and the ascending-sacrifice, and the peace-offering.

14 And <when Moses and Aaron had entered into the tent of meeting,—and had come forth, and blessed the people> then appeared the glory of Yahweh unto all the people; 15 <yes, there came forth fire from before Yahweh, and consumed, upon the altar, the ascending-sacrifice,—and the sons of Aaron presented the blood unto him, and he dashed it against the altar, round about; 16 and the portions of fat, from the ox,—and from the ram, the fat-tail, and the covering, and the kidneys, and the caul of the liver; 17 and they put the portions of fat upon the breasts,—and he made a perfume with the fat at the altar; 18 but <the breasts and the right shoulder> did Aaron wave as a wave-offering, before Yahweh, as Moses commanded.

§ 6. Aaron's Sons, Nadab and Abihu, offer Strange Fire and are consumed.

1 Then Aaron's sons, Nadab and Abihu, took each man his censer, and placed therein fire, and put thereon incense,—and brought near before Yahweh, strange fire, which he had not commanded them. 2 Then came there forth fire from before Yahweh, and consumed them,—and they died before Yahweh. 3 Then said Moses unto Aaron—"Thy very thing" that Yahweh spake, saying—

Lit.: "by the hand." Mi. "took" or "fetched." See O.T. Ap. art. "sin-offering = sin-bearer."
LEVITICUS X. 4--20; XI. 1-10.

In them that draw near to me, must I be hallowed. And before the faces of all the people, must I get myself honour. And before the face of all the people, must I get myself honour,—And Aaron was dumb.

Then called Moses unto Michael and unto Elzaphan, sons of Uzziel, uncle of Aaron,—and said unto them—Draw near, bear away your brethren from before the sanctuary, unto the outside of the camp.

So they drew near and bare them away, in their tunics unto the outside of the camp, as spake Moses. Then said Moses unto Aaron and to Eleazar and to Ithamar, his sons—Your heads ye may not bare and your garments ye shall not rend, so shall ye not die, neither against all the assembly will he be wroth,—but let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, bewail the consuming fire with which Yahweh hath consumed. But from the entrance of the tent of meeting shall ye not go forth, lest ye die, for I the anointing oil of Yahweh is upon you.

And they did according to the word of Moses.

§ 7. Further Instructions for the Priests.

Then spake Yahweh unto Aaron, saying:

Wine and strong drink thou mayest not drink,—thou nor thy sons with thee: when ye enter into the tent of meeting, so shall ye not die,—an age-abiding statute, to your generations;

That ye may make a difference, between the sacred and the common,—and between the unclean, and the clean;

And may teach the sons of Israel,—all the statutes which Yahweh hath spoken unto them, by the mediation of Moses.

Then spake Moses unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar, his sons—Take ye the meal-offering that is left, of the altar-flames of Yahweh, and eat it unleavened, beside the altar,—for most holy it is; therefore shall ye eat it in a holy place, for thine by statute, and thy sons' by statute; it is, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh,—for so I am commanded. And the wave-breast, and the heave-shoulder shall ye eat in a clean place, thou and thy sons and thy daughters with thee,—for as thine by statute, and thy sons' by statute have they been given, from among the peace-offerings of the sons of Israel. The heave-shoulder and the wave-breast, upon the altar-flames of the fat portions shall they bring in, to wave as a waving-offering, before Yahweh,—so shall they be thine, and thy sons' with thee, by an age-abiding statute, as Yahweh hath commanded.

§ 8. Aaron's Justification for not eating the Sin-offering.

Now as for the sin-bearing goat, Moses diligently sought it, but lo! it had been burnt up,—then was he wroth against Eleazar and against Ithamar, the sons of Aaron that were left, saying:

Wherefore did ye not eat the sin-bearer in the holy place? for most holy it is,—and the same, hath he given you, that ye may bear the iniquity of the assembly, to put a propitiatory-coversing over them, before Yahweh. Lo! the blood thereof had not been taken into the holy place, within,—ye should have indeed eaten it in a holy place, as I commanded.

Then spake Aaron unto Moses—Lo! this very day, when they had brought near their own sin-bearer, and their own ascending-sacrifice, there befell me such things as these,—if, then, I had eaten of the sin-bearer this day, would it have been well-pleasing in the eyes of Yahweh?

And when Moses heard that, then was it well-pleasing in his eyes.

§ 9. Concerning Clean and Unclean Beasts.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying unto them,—These are the living things which ye may eat, of all the beasts which are upon the earth:

Whatsoever parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, and cheweth the cud, among beasts, shall ye eat. Nevertheless, these shall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, and of them that part the hoof,—The camel because though he cheweth the cud yet the hoof he parteth not, unclean he is to you;

And the coney because though he cheweth the cud yet the hoof he parteth not, unclean he is to you;

And the hare because though she cheweth the cud yet the hoof she parteth not, unclean she is to you;

And the swine because though he parteth the hoof and is cloven-footed yet the cud he cheweth not, unclean he is to you;

Of their flesh shall ye not eat, and of their carcase shall ye not touch, unclean they are to you.

These may ye eat, of all that are in the waters,—all that have fins and scales, in the seas and in the rivers, they may ye eat. But all that have not fins and scales, in the seas and in the rivers, of all that swarm in the waters, and of all the living souls that are in the waters; an abomination; they are' unto you; and an abomination; shall they remain to you; of their flesh ye shall not eat, and their carcases shall ye abhor. Whatsoever hath not fins and scales, in the waters; an abomination; it is' unto you.

"The coney is undoubtedly Hyrax Syriacus", Hastings' D.B. Cp. P.B. note on this place.

13 And these shall ye abhor of birds, they shall not be eaten, an abomination; they are',—the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the osprey; and the vulture, and the falcon, after its kind; every raven, after its kind; and the female ostrich, and the male ostrich, and the sea-gull, and the hawk, after its kind; and the pelican, and the gannet, and the bittern; and the swan and the vocating pelican, and the little vulture; and the stork, and the parrot, after its kind,—and the mountain-cock, and the bat.

20 Every creeping thing that flieth, that goeth on all-fours; an abomination; it is' unto you. Nevertheless these may ye eat, of all creeping things that fly, that go on all-fours,—such as have one legs above their feet, to leap therewith, upon the earth; these of them may ye eat: the swarming-locust after its kind, and the devouring locust after its kind,—and the chargol-locust after its kind, and the chagol-locust after its kind.

23 But every [other] creeping thing that flieth, which hath four feet; an abomination; it is' unto you; and for these shall ye count yourselves unclean.—whosoever toucheth the carcase of them shall be unclean until the evening; and whosoever beareth away the carcase, aught of the carcase of them, shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening.

26 For every kind of beast which though it parteth the hoof, yet is not cloven-footed, nor cheweth the cud; unclean; they are' unto you,—every one who toucheth them shall be unclean. And all that go upon their paws, among all the living things that go on all-fours; unclean; they are' unto you,—whosoever toucheth the carcase of them shall be unclean until the evening. And he that beareth away the carcase of them, shall wash his clothes, and shall be unclean until the evening,—unclean; they are' unto you.

29 And these; unto you shall be unclean, among the creeping things that creep upon the earth,—the weazel and the mouse, and the lizard after its kind; and the ferret and the chameleon, and the wall-lizard,—and the winding lizard, and the mole. These are they which are unclean to you, among all that creep,—whosoever toucheth them when they are dead; shall be unclean until the evening; and wheresoever any of them shall fall when they are dead; shall be unclean—of any articles of wood, or cloth, or skin, or sack-cloth, any article wherewith any work is done shall be put in water and shall be unclean until the evening, and then be clean. And as for any earthen vessel whereinto any of them may fall; everything therein shall be unclean, and the vessel itself shall ye break in pieces.

Of all the food that may be eaten, that wheresoever shall come water shall be unclean,—and all drink which might be drunk in any [such] vessel, shall be unclean. And everything wherewith shall fall any part of the carcase of them shall be unclean, [even fire-range] it shall be destroyed, unclean; they are',—and unclean shall they remain to you. Notwithstanding a fountain or cistern wherein is a gathering of waters shall be clean,—but he that toucheth the carcase of them shall be unclean. And when any part of the carcase of them shall fall upon seed for sowing, which is to be sown, the same is clean. But when water shall be put upon seed, and there shall fall thereon any part of the carcase of them; unclean; it is' to you. And when any of the beasts which are yours for food shall die, he that toucheth the carcase of it shall be unclean until the evening. And he that eateth of the carcase of it shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening.—he also that carrieth away the carcase thereof; shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening.

And any creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth; an abomination; it is'—it shall not be eaten. Everything that goeth upon the belly, and everything that goeth upon all-fours, even to everything having many feet, as regardeth any creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth ye shall not eat them, for an abomination; they are'. Do not make your persons abominable, with any creeping thing that creepeth,—neither shall ye make yourselves unclean with them, that ye should become unclean thereby.

For I—Yahweh; am your God, therefore shall ye hallow yourselves and remain holy; for holy am I, therefore shall ye not make your persons unclean, with any creeping thing that crawleth upon the earth; for I—Yahweh; am he that brought you up out of the land of Egypt, that I might become your' God, therefore shall ye be holy, for holy am I.
§ 10. Laws for Women after Childbirth.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

"Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying, when a woman conceiveth seed and giveth birth to a male child then shall she be unclean seven days, according to the days of her removal in her sickness she shall be unclean. And on the eighth day shall the flesh of his foreskin be circumcised. And if a female child she bear then shall she continue in the blood of purification, a month. And when the days of her purification are fulfilled, whether for a son or for a daughter she shall bring in a lamb, the choice of its year, as an ascending-sacrifice, and a young pigeon or a turtledove, as a sin-bearer, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, unto the priest; and he shall put a propitiatory-covering over her, and she shall be clean from her bleeding of purification. This is the law for her that hath given birth, to a male child or to a female. But if her hand findeth not sufficiency for a lamb then shall she take two turtle doves or two young pigeons, one for an ascending-sacrifice, and one for a sin-bearer, so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over her, and she shall be clean.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying—

"When the plague of leprosy cometh to lie in any human being then shall he be brought in unto the priest; and the priest shall take a view, and lo! if there is a white rising in the skin and the same hath turned the hair white, and there be a wound of raw flesh in the rising, so far as appeareth to the eyes of the priest then shall the priest take a view, and lo! if the scab have spread in the skin then shall the priest pronounce him unclean—leprosy it is. But if the leprosy cometh quite out in the skin, and the leprosy covereth all the skin of him that was plagued, from his head even unto his feet, so far as appeareth to the eyes of the priest then shall the priest take a view, and lo! if the leprosy hath covered all his flesh then shall he pronounce him unclean, he shall not shut him up, for unclean he is. But if the leprosy be preferred to "spot" in its appearance, then shall the priest shut up the plagued one seven days. And the priest shall view him on the seventh day, and lo! if the spot hath stayed to his night, and the spot hath not spread in the skin then shall the priest shut him up seven days, more. Then shall the priest view him, on the seventh day, a second time, and lo! if the spot is faint, and the spot hath not spread in the skin then shall the priest pronounce him clean—it is a scab, and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean. But if the scab have spread in the skin then shall the priest pronounce him unclean—leprosy it is."

"Or if the leprosy cometh in unto Aaron the priest, or unto one of his sons the priests; and the priest shall view the spot in the skin of his flesh if the hair in the plague have turned white and the appearance of the spot be deeper than the skin of his flesh then the priest shall view him, and pronounce him unclean. But if the bright spot, though white in the skin of his flesh, is not deeper in appearance than the skin, and the hair hath not turned white then shall the priest shut up the plagued one seven days. And the priest shall view him on the seventh day, and lo! if the spot hath stayed to his night, and the spot hath not spread in the skin then shall the priest shut him up seven days, more. Then shall the priest view him, on the seventh day, a second time, and lo! if the spot is faint, and the spot hath not spread in the skin then shall the priest pronounce him clean—it is a scab, and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean. But if the scab have spread in the skin then shall the priest pronounce him unclean—leprosy it is."

"Which is better than "mark" is worse than "spot" with reference to divine infliction; and 2 "spot" is better than "mark" with reference to a person, though "mark" is to be preferred to "spot" when applied to a house, as in chap. xiv. 34. "Plague" throughout would be too heavy, and would require qualification. The translation here has therefore been lightened in places, yet so as to keep the reader in mind of the main facts and the literal association with them. Lit.: "the plague-spot," in its appearance. Or: "a second time." Need not—1 B. That is the change is undoubtedly; there is no need of confinement to wait for further proof.
LEVITICUS XIII. 17—46.

19 And when any one's flesh hath, in the skin thereof, a boil,—and then it is healed; but in the place of the boil is a white rising or a bright spot, reddish white; then shall it be shown unto the priest. And the priest shall take a view, and lo! if the appearance thereof is lower than the skin, and the hair thereof hath turned white; then shall the priest pronounce him unclean,—<the plague-spot of leprosy> it is'. But if in its place the bright spot stayeth, than the skin, and the hair thereof hath turned white; then shall the priest pronounce him clean,—<the plague-spot of leprosy> it is'.

20 Or when any one's flesh hath in the skin thereof, a fiery burning,—and then the priest shall view it—and lo! if the hair is turned white in the bright spot, and the appearance thereof is deeper than the skin,—<leprosy> it is', broken out [in the burning], so the priest shall pronounce him unclean,—<the plague-spot of leprosy> it is'. But if in its place, the bright spot stayeth, than the skin, and the appearance thereof is not deeper than the skin,—<leprosy> it is',—and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

And when in a garment there is a plague-spot of leprosy, whether in a garment of wool, or a garment of flax; or either in warp or in weft, made with flax, or with wool, or in a skin, or in anything wrought of skin; and the spot cometh to be of a greenish yellow or reddish in the garment or in the skin, whether in warp or in weft, or in any utensil of skin, the plague-spot of leprosy it is, and shall be shown unto the priest; and the priest shall view the spot, and shall shut up him that is plagued, seven days; then shall he view the spot on the seventh day; if the spot hath spread in the garment, whether in warp or in weft, or in the skin, or in anything which may be made of skin for service, the spot is a fretting leprosy; and it is. Then shall he burn up the garment, whether it be in the warp or the weft, in wool or in flax, or any utensil of skin, wherein shall be the plague-spot, for a fretting leprosy it is, in fire shall it be burnt up.

But if the priest shall take a view, and lo! the spot has not spread, in the garment, whether in warp or in weft, or in any utensil of skin, then shall the priest give command, and they shall wash that wherein is the spot, and he shall shut it up seven days more; then shall the priest take a view, after the plagued garment hath been washed, and lo! if the spot hath not changed its look, then though the spot hath not spread yet it is, in fire shall thou burn it up, a sunken spot it is, in the back thereof, or in the front thereof.

And if the priest hath taken a view, and lo! the spot is faint since it hath been washed, then shall he rend it out of the garment, or out of the skin, whether out of the warp or out of the weft; and if it appear still in the garment—either in the warp or in the weft, or in any utensil of skin—a breaking out it is, in the fire shall thou burn up that wherein is the plague. But as for the garment—whether the warp or the weft, or any utensil of skin which thou shalt wash, and the plague shall depart therefrom—then shall it be washed a second time, and shall be clean.

This is the law as to the plague-spot of leprosy, in a garment of wool or of flax, whether in the warp or the weft, or in any utensil of skin.

To pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.
And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying: 34 When ye enter into the land of Canaan which I am about to give you, for a possession,—and I put a plague-mark of leprosy in a house, of the land of your possession,—then shall he that owneth the house come in, and tell the priest, saying,—

A kind of plague-mark appeareth to me in the house; and the priest shall give command, and they shall empty the house, ere yet the priest cometh in to view the mark, so that he do not pronounce unclean all that is in the house,—and after this shall the priest come in to view the house: then shall he view the mark, and lo! if the mark is in the walls of the house, with sunken places, greenish yellow, or reddish,—and they appear to be lower than the [surface of the] wall>, then shall the priest come forth out of the house, unto the entrance of the house,—and shall shut up the house, seven days; and the priest shall return on the seventh day,—and take a view, and lo! if the mark hath spread in the walls of the house>, then shall the priest give command, and they shall pull out the stones, wherein is the mark,—and cast them forth outside the city, into an unclean place; and <the house itself> shall he cause to be scraped on the inside, round about,—and they shall pour out the mortar which they have scraped off, outside the city, into an unclean place: and shall take other stones, and put in the place of the stones,—and <other mortar> shall he take, and plaster the house. But if the mark again breaketh out in the house, after the taking out of the stones,—and after the scraping of the house, and after the plastering>; then shall the priest come in, and take a view, and lo! if the mark hath spread in the house> a fretting leprosy it is in the house, unclean it is; and he shall pull down the house,—the stones thereof, and the timber thereof, and all the mortar of the house,—and shall carry them forth outside the city, into an unclean place. * And

15 And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

2 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and ye shall say unto them,—

<When any man whatsoever hath a flowing from his flesh> [his flux] is unclean. And [this] shall be his uncleanness in his flux,—<whether his flesh is running with his flux, or his flesh hath closed from his flux> [his uncleanness] it is. 4 All the bed whereby he that hath the flux lieth shall be unclean,—<and every piece of furniture whereon he sitteth> shall be unclean. 5 And whosoever toucheth his bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. And [he that sitteth on that> [whereon he that hath the flux hath sat] shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. 7 And [he that toucheth the flesh of him that hath the flux] shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. 8 And [when he that hath a flux spitteth on him] that is clean> shall then shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. 9 And [every saddle whereon he that hath the flux rideth] shall be unclean. 10 And [whosoever toucheth anything that was under him] shall be unclean, until the evening; and [the that carryeth them] shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. 11 And [whosoever he that hath the flux toucheth, not having rinsed his hands in water] then shall he wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. 12 And [the earthen vessel which he that hath the flux toucheth] shall be broken in pieces,—and [every vessel] of wood shall be rinsed in water.

13 And [when he that hath the flux becometh clean from his flux> then shall he number to himself seven days for his cleansing, and wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and be clean. 14 And [on the eighth day> he shall take for himself two turtle doves or two young pigeons,—and come in before Yahweh, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, and give them to the priest; 15 and the priest shall offer them, one as a sin-bearer, and the other as an ascending-sacrifice,—so shall the priest put a propitiatory-covering over him, before Yahweh, because of his flux.

16 And [when there goeth out from any man an outflow of seed> then shall he bathe all his flesh in water, and be unclean until the evening. 17 And [in the case of any garment or any skin whereupon there shall come to be an outflow of seed> shall then be washed in water, and be uncleanness until the evening. 18 Also a woman with whom man lieth carnally> then shall they bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.

19 And [when a woman hath a flux, and her flux in her flesh is blood> <seven days> shall she continue in her removal, and whosoever toucheth her shall be unclean until the evening; 20 and [whatsoever she lieth upon in her removal] shall be unclean, and [whosoever she sitteth upon] shall be unclean; and [whosoever toucheth her bed] shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening.

the evening; 22and [whosoever toucheth any thing* whereon she sitteth] shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening; 23and [whether on her bed it is, or on any thing whereon she hath been sitting, when he toucheth it] he shall be unclean until the evening; and [if man shall even lie with her, and her cause for removal be upon him] then shall he be unclean seven days, and [all the bed whereon he shall lie] shall be unclean. 24And [when any woman’s] flow of blood lasteth many days, outside the time of her removal, or when it floweth beyond her removal: all the days of her unclean flow she shall be as in the days of her removal—unclean she is. 25All the bed whereon she lieth during all the days of her flow (like her bed in her removal) shall be to her, and every thing whereon she sitteth shall be unclean, like the uncleanness in her removal; and [whosoever toucheth them] shall be unclean, and shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. 26But [if she be clean from her flow] then shall she count herself clean, like the uncleanness in her removal; and [whosoever toucheth them] shall be unclean, and shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening. 27And [of him whose flux floweth, And of him from whom goeth an outflow of seed, making unclean thereby; for the male, and for the female,— By reason of their making unclean my habitation which is in their midst. 28] This is the law— Of him that hath a flux,— And of him from whom goeth an outflow of seed, making unclean thereby; 29And of her that is unwell with her cause for removal, And of him whose flux floweth, For the male, and for the female,— And for a man who lieth with her that is unclean.

§ 13. The Great Day of Propitiation: Once a Year.

161 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, after the death of the two sons of Aaron,—when they had offered strange fire before Yahweh, and died. 2And Yahweh said unto Moses—within the veil,— and do with its blood, as he did to the blood of the bullock, and shall sprinkle it, upon the propitiatory, and before the propitiatory: 16 so shall he put a propitiatory-covering over the holy place, because of the uncleanness of the sons of Israel, and because of their transgressions, to the extent of all their sins,— and so shall he do for the tent of meeting, which abideth with them, in the midst of their uncleanness. 17 And no human being shall be in the tent of meeting, when he cometh in to make a covering by propitiation in the holy place, until he goeth out,— so shall he put a propitiatory-covering about himself and about his household, and about all the convocation of Israel. 18 Then shall he go out unto the altar which is before Yahweh, and shall put a propitiatory-covering thereupon,— and shall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put upon the horns of the altar, round about; 19 and shall sprinkle it, of the blood, with his finger seven times,— and shall cleanse it and hallow it, from the uncleannesses of the sons of Israel.

* Or: "just at any time"; 4 For note on Azazel, see O.T. Ap. "The Escape (Goat)."

And when he hath made an end of covering by propitiation the holy place, and the tent of meeting, and the altar, then shall he bring near the living goat. And Aaron shall lean his two hands upon the head of the living goat, and confess over him, all the iniquities of the sons of Israel, and all their transgressions, to the extent of all their sins,— and shall put them upon the head of the goat, and then send him away, by the hand of a man appointed, towards the desert: so shall the goat bear upon him all their iniquities, into a lone’ land, and he that hath burned them shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water,— and after that shall he come into the camp.

And it shall become unto you, a statute age-abiding,— In the seventh month, on the tenth of the month> Shall ye humble your souls, And ye shall do, The homeborn, Or the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst: For on this day shall a propitiatory-covering be put over you, to cleanse you,— From all your sins before Yahweh shall ye be clean. A sabbath of sacred rest it is unto you, Therefore shall ye humble your souls. A statute age-abiding.

Therefore shall the priest who shall be anointed, and installed, to minister as priest in the stead of his father, make propitiation,— So then he shall put on the linen garments, the holy garments; And make propitiation for the holy sanctuary, And for the tent of meeting, and for the altar shall he make propitiation,— Over the priests also, and over all the people of the convocation shall he put a covering by propitiation. So shall this become unto you an age-abiding statute,— to put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel, because of all their sins, Once in the year. And he did As Yahweh commanded Moses.

§ 14. Sacrifices to be offered unto Yahweh, not unto Demons: Blood not to be eaten.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:—

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

This is the thing which Yahweh hath commanded, saying:—

3 What man soever there be of the house of Israel, who slayeth an ox or lamb or goat, in the camp, or who slayeth it outside the camp; and <unto the entrance of the tent of meeting> bringeth it not in, to present [it as] an oblation unto Yahweh, before the habitation of Yahweh, [blood] shall be imputed to that man— <blood> hath he shed, therefore shall be carried forth, outside the camp,— and they shall burn up, in fire, their skins and their flesh, and their dung; and he that hath burned them shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water,— and after that shall he come into the camp.
that man be cut off from the midst of his people: 2 to the end that the sons of Israel may bring in their sacrifices which they are offering upon the face of the field, that they may bring them in unto Yahweh—unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, unto the priest,—and that so <as peace-offerings unto Yahweh> they may offer them. 6 Then shall the priest dash the blood against the altar of Yahweh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting,—and shall make a perfume of the fat, as a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh; so shall they no more offer their sacrifices unto demons, after whom they are unchastely going away,— <as a statute age-abiding> shall this be to them, unto their generations. 8 Wherefore <unto them> shalt thou say:

<What man soever there may be of the house of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst,—who causeth to go up an ascending-offering, or a sacrifice; and <unto the entrance of the tent of meeting> doth not bring it in, to offer it unto Yahweh> then shall that man be cut off from among his kinsfolk.

And <what man soever there may be of the house of Israel or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst, that partaketh of any manner of blood> then will I set my face against the person that partaketh of the blood, and will cut him off from the midst of his people. 11 For <as for the life of the flesh it is, therefor have I given it unto you upon the altar, to put a propitiatory-covering over your lives,—for the blood of all flesh> it is, which <by virtue of the life> maketh propitiation. 12 <For this cause> have I said unto the sons of Israel, "Not a person from among you shall partake of blood,—Even <the sojourneth that sojourneth in your midst> shall not partake of blood. And <what man soever> there may be, of the sons of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in their midst, who taketh by hunting any wild-beast or bird that may be eaten> then shall he pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with dust; 14 for <as for the life of all flesh> <the blood thereof> <for the life thereof> standeth, therefore have I said unto the sons of Israel—

"Of the blood of no manner of flesh shall ye partake.

For "the life of all flesh" is <the blood thereof>; whose partaketh thereof, shall be cut off.

And <in the case of any person who wasteth that which died of itself or was torn in pieces, whether he be home-born, or a sojourn> then shall he wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be unclean until the evening, and then be clean. But <if he wash them not, and <his flesh> he do not bathe> then shall he bear his iniquity.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

"|— Yahweh! am your God:—
1 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

For the life of all flesh is the blood thereof; whoso partaketh thereof shall be cut off.

8 But if he wash them not, and his flesh he do not bathe then shall he bear his iniquity.

11 And the sojourneth that sojourneth in your midst shall not partake of blood.

13 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

"|— Yahweh! am your God:—
1 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

|— Yahweh! am your God:—
3 After the doings of the land of Egypt wherein ye dwelt— shall ye not do,—
And <after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I am bringing you in> shall ye not do,
And <in their statutes> shall ye not walk:—
5 Therefore shall ye observe my statutes, and my regulations,
Which <if the son of earth shall do them> Then shall he live in them,—
6 No person whatsoever: <unto any of the near kin of his own flesh> shall approach, to uncover the parts of shame,—
1 The shame of thy father, even the shame of thy mother: shalt thou not uncover,—thy mother she is, thou shalt not uncover her shame.
2 The shame of thy father's wife shalt thou not uncover,—thy father's shame it is.
3 The shame of thy sister, daughter of thy father, or daughter of thy mother, born at home or born abroad: thou shalt not uncover their shame.
4 The shame of the daughter of thy son, or the daughter of thy daughter: thou shalt not uncover their shame,—for thine own shame they are.
5 The shame of thy father's sister shalt thou not uncover,—thy father's near of kin she is.
6 The shame of thy mother's sister shalt thou not uncover,—thy mother's near of kin she is.
7 The shame of thy father's wife, born to thy father, she being thy sister: thou shalt not uncover her shame.
8 The shame of thy father's sister shalt thou not uncover,—thy father's shame it is.
9 The shame of thy sister, daughter of thy father, or daughter of thy mother, born at home or born abroad: thou shalt not uncover their shame.
10 The shame of the daughter of thy son, or the daughter of thy daughter: thou shalt not uncover their shame,—for thine own shame they are.
11 The shame of the daughter of thy father's wife, born to thy father, she being thy sister: thou shalt not uncover her shame.

14 The shame of thy father's brother shalt thou not uncover,—thy son's wife she is'.

15 The shame of thy daughter-in-law shalt thou not uncover,—near of kin she is'.

16 The shame of thy brother's wife shalt thou not uncover,—thou shalt not uncover her shame.

17 The shame of a woman, and of her daughter shalt thou not uncover,—neither daughter of her son nor daughter of her daughter shalt thou take, to uncover her shame, near of kin they are', wickedness it is.

18 And unto a woman during her removal for uncleanness shalt thou not approach, to uncover her shame.

19 And with mankind shalt thou not make carnal knowledge, to commit uncleanness there with,—neither shall woman present herself to a beast to couch down thereto,—confusion it is'.

20 Do not make yourselves unclean, in any of these things,—For in all these things have the nations made themselves unclean, whom I am sending out from before you.

21 Therefore hath the land become unclean, and I have visited the iniquity thereof upon it,—and the land hath vomited her inhabitants.

22 Ye therefore, shall observe my statutes and my regulations, and have nothing to do with any of these abominations,—whether the home-born, or the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst;

23 For all these abominations have the men of the land done, who were before you;

24 And so the land hath become unclean:

25 Ye therefore, shall observe my statutes and my regulations, and have nothing to do with any of these abominations,

26 Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbour nor rob [him],—The wages of him that is hired § 16. Holiness enforced upon all the Assembly by a Variety of detailed Commands.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying : 19

2 Speak unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them—

3 Ye shall every one reverence his father and his mother

4 Do not turn unto things of nought, and molten gods shall ye not make to yourselves,

5 And when ye would offer a peace-offering unto Yahweh ye shall offer it that ye may be accepted;—On the day ye offer it shall it be eaten, and on the morrow, but that which remaineth until the third day in fire shall be consumed. And if it be eaten on the third day it is', it shall not be accepted. But he that eateth it his iniquity shall bear, because that which had been hallowed unto Yahweh hath he profaned,—so then that person shall be cut off from among his kinsfolk.

6 And when ye reap the harvest of your land thou shalt not wholly clear the border of thy field, in reaping,—nor shalt thou gather up the gleaning of thy harvest. And thy vineyard shalt thou not go over again, nor gather every single grape:—for the poor and for the sojourner shalt thou leave them'.

7 Ye shall not steal,—nor deceive nor lie, one man to another;

8 Nor swear by my name, falsely,—And so profane the name of thy God:

9 Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbour nor rob [him],—The wages of him that is hired

14 Thou shalt not curse the deaf, Nor <before the blind> place a stumbling-block,—
So shalt thou stand in awe of thy God, ||I|| am Yahweh.
15 Ye shall not act perversely in giving judgment, Thou shalt neither respect the person of the poor, Nor prefer the person of the great,—<In righteousness> shalt thou judge thy neighbour.
16 Thou shalt not go about talebearing, among thy people,* Thou shalt not b stand by, over the blood of thy neighbour: * ||I|| am Yahweh.
17 Thou shalt not hate thy brother, in thy heart,— Thou shalt faithfully reprove thy neighbour, and not countenance him, in sin: d
18 Thou shalt not take vengeance, neither shalt thou cherish anger against the sons of thy people, So shalt thou love thy neighbour, as thyself,— ||I|| am Yahweh.
19 <My statutes> shall ye observe, <Thy beasts> shalt thou not cause to breed in two kinds, <Thy field> shalt thou not sow with two sorts of seed,— And  shalt thou not suffer to come upon thee.
20 And <whosoever lieth carnally with a woman, she being a bondmaid, acquired for a husband, and neither |redeemed |nor |freedom| given her> ||inquisition|| shall be made, they shall not be put to death, because she was not free; but he shall bring in his guilt-bearer unto Yahweh, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting,— even a ram as a guilt-bearing: and the priest shall put a propitiatory-covering over him, with the guilt-bearing’ram, before Yahweh, on account of his sin which he hath committed,— so shall he have forgiven, from his sin which he hath committed.
21 And <when ye come into the land, and plant any manner of fruit-tree> then shall ye count as uncircumcised the fruit thereof, <three years> shall it be to you as if unclean,* it shall not be eaten. But <in the fourth year> all the fruit thereof shall be hallowed for a festival of thanksgivings unto Yahweh. 22 And <in the fifth year> shall ye eat the fruit thereof, that it may enrich you with its increase,—
||I||—Yahweh ||am your God.
23 Ye shall eat nothing with b the blood thereof,— Ye shall not practise divination, neither shall ye use magic.
24 Ye shall not shave in a circle around your head,—nor shalt thou disfigure the fringe of thy beard.

26 Do not profane thy daughter, by causing her to be unchaste,— lest the land fall to unchastity, and so the land be filled with wickedness,*
27 <My sabbaths> shall ye observe, And <my sanctuary> shall ye revere,— ||I|| am Yahweh.
28 Do not turn unto mediums, Nor <for oracles> make search, To render yourselves unclean with them,—
||I||—Yahweh ||am your God.
29 <Before a hoary head> shalt thou rise up, And shalt honour the presence of an elder,— So shalt thou stand in awe of thy God— ||I|| am Yahweh.
30 And <when there sojourneth with thee1 a sojourner, in your land> ye shall not oppress him: <As one home born from among yourselves> shall be unto you the sojourner who sojourneth with you. So shalt thou love him as thyself, For <sojourners> be ye in the land of Egypt,—
||I||—Yahweh ||am your God.

Therefore shall ye observe all my statutes and all my regulations, and do them, — I am Yahweh.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: Unto the sons of Israel therefore, shalt thou say,

What man soever there may be of the sons of Israel, or of the sojourners that sojourn in Israel, that giveth of his seed unto Molech, he shall surely be put to death. — the people of the land shall stone him with stones; I, also, will set my face against that man, and will cut him off out of the midst of his people, because of his seed hath he given unto Molech, seeing that he hath made unclean my sanctuary, even to the profaning my holy name. But if the people of the land do even hide their eyes from that man, when he giveth of his seed unto Molech, so as not to put him to death, then will I set my face against that man, and against his family, and will cut him off, and all that follow unchastely after him — in going unchastely after Molech — out of the midst of his people. The person also that turneth unto mediums and unto oracles, in going unchastely after them — then will I set my face against that person, and will cut him off out of the midst of his people.

Therefore shall ye hallow yourselves and be holy, — Because I — Yahweh — am your God. Therefore shall ye observe my statutes, and do them, — I — Yahweh, am he that is hallowing you. When any man whatsoever curseth his father or his mother he shall surely be put to death — his father or his mother hath cursed, his blood I shall be upon him himself.

And any man who committed adultery with the wife of any other man — the adulterer, and the adulteress. And any man who lieth with his father's wife — the shame of his father — hath he uncovered — their blood shall be upon themselves.

And any man who lieth with his daughter-in-law they both shall surely be put to death — their blood shall be upon themselves. And any man who lieth with mankind as with womankind — an abomination — have both of them wrought, — they shall surely be put to death — their blood shall be upon themselves.

And any man who taketh a woman and her mother — wickedness — it is, — in fire shall both he and they be consumed, that wickedness be not in your midst.

And any man who hath carnal knowledge of a beast shall surely be put to death, and the beast shall ye slay.

And any woman who approacheth unto any beast, to couche down thereto then shalt thou slay the woman and the beast, — they shall surely be put to death — their blood shall be upon themselves.

And any man who taketh his sister — his father's daughter or his mother's daughter, and vieweth her shame, and she vieweth his shame — a disgrace it is, — they shall therefore be cut off in the sight of the sons of their people, the shame of his sister hath he uncovered — his iniquity shall he bear.

And any man who lieth with a woman having her sickness, and uncovereth her shame — her fountain hath he exposed, also hath uncovered her fountain of blood — they shall therefore both be cut off out of the midst of their people.

And the shame of thy mother's sister, or of thy father's sister shalt thou not uncover, — for thine near of kin hath he exposed — their iniquity shall they bear.

And any man who lieth with his uncle's wife — the shame of his uncle hath he uncovered — childless shall they remain.

And any man who taketh his brother's wife — impurity it is, — the shame of his brother hath he uncovered — childless shall they remain.

Therefore shall ye observe all my statutes, and all my regulations, and do them, — So shall the land, whereinto I am bringing you to dwell therein, not vomit you forth! So shall ye not walk in the statutes of the nation which I am casting out from before you, — For all these things had they done, Therefore I abhorrered them. And said unto you — Ye shall possess their soil, Yes (I myself) will give it you to possess it,
A land flowing with milk and honey,—

Therefore shall ye make a distinction—Between the clean beasts, and the unclean,—
And between the unclean birds, and the clean,—
So shall ye not make your persons a baldness behind in their head,
And  shall they not take,—
And  shall they not take,
And <a woman that is unchaste or dis-
honoured> shall they not take,
And <a woman that is unchaste or dis-
honoured> shall they not take,
And <a woman that is unchaste or dis-
honoured> shall they not take,
And <a woman that is unchaste or dis-
honoured> shall they not take,
23 Only unto the veil shall he not come in, and unto the altar shall he not approach—because [a blemish] is in him, so shall he not profane my sanctuaries.

For I—Yahweh am hallowing them.

24 And Moses spake [these things] unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the sons of Israel.

25 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons. That they hold sacredly aloof from the holy things of the sons of Israel, so as not to profane my holy name,—in the things which [they!] are hallowing unto me—

I—Yahweh am Yahweh.

3 Say unto them—

Unto your generations, as touching any man who cometh near from among any of your seed, unto the hallowed things which the sons of Israel may hallow unto Yahweh, while his uncleanness is upon him then shall that person be cut off from before me—

I—Yahweh am Yahweh.

4 No man soever of the seed of Aaron, who is a leper, or hath a flux shall eat [of the holy things] until he be clean,—

And as for him who toucheth anything that is unclean by the dead, or a man whose seed goeth from him ; or a man who toucheth any creeping thing, which is unclean to him,—or [toucheth] any human being who hath uncleanness, to the extent of any thing that maketh him unclean.—

any person who toucheth any such shall then be unclean until the evening,—and shall not eat of the hal-loved things, unless he bathe his flesh in water.

When the sun goeth in then is he clean,—and thereafter he may eat of the hallowed things, for [his food] it is'.

That which dieth of itself, or is torn in pieces shall he not eat, to make himself unclean thereby,—

I—Yahweh.

9 Therefore shall they keep my charge, and shall not bear, for it, sin, and die therein, when they profane it,—

I—Yahweh am hallowing them.

10 And [no stranger] shall eat what is hallowed, neither [one who dwelleth with a priest, nor a hireling] shall eat what is hallowed.

But [when a priest] buyeth any person, as the purchase of his silver [the] may eat thereof, and [the children of his household] they may eat of his food.

And [when a priest's daughter] belongeth to a husband who is a stranger [she] of the heave-offering of the hallowed things may not eat.

13 But [when a priest's daughter] cometh to be a widow or divorced, and hath no seed, and so she returneth unto the house of her father, as in her youth <of the food of her father> she may eat,—but [no stranger] shall eat thereof.

And [when any man] esteth what is hallowed, by mistake then shall he add the fifth part of it thereunto, and give, unto the priest, the hallowed thing:

So shall they not profane the hallowed things of the sons of Israel,—which they heave up unto Yahweh; nor cause them to bear guilty iniquity, when they eat their hallowed things,—

For I—Yahweh am hallowing them.

18 Holiness further enforced on both Priests and People by Demand for Perfect Offerings.

17 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them —

What man soever of the house of Israel, or of the sojourners* in Israel, may bring near his oblation, as regardeth any of their vows, or any of their freewill offerings which they may bring near unto Yahweh, as an ascending-sacrifice, that ye may be accepted [it must be] a male without defect, of the beeves, or of the sheep, or of the goats:

whatsoever hath in it a blemish shall ye not bring near,—for it shall not be accepted for you.

And whosoever would bring near a peace-offering unto Yahweh, to consecrate a vow, or as a freewill-offering with a bullock or a sheep [without defect] shall it be, to be accepted, no blemish shall be therein. Blind, or broken, or rent, or having a running sore, or scurvy, or scab ye shall not bring these near unto Yahweh,—and no altar-flame shall ye present therefrom upon the altar, unto Yahweh.

Whether an ox or a lamb, long or short in limb  thou mayest offer it, but [for a vow] it shall not be accepted.

But [that which is bruised in the stones, or broken therein, or torn or cut] shall ye neither bring near unto Yahweh, and no altar-flame shall ye present therefrom upon the altar, unto Yahweh.

<Whether an ox or a lamb, long or short in limb> <as a free-will offering> thou mayest offer it, but [for a vow] it shall not be accepted.

But [that which is bruised in the stones, or broken therein, or torn or cut] shall ye neither bring near unto Yahweh, nor [on your own land] shall ye offer. [Even at the hand of the son of a stranger] shall ye not bring near the food of your God, of any of these,—for [their damage] is in them, [a blemish] is in them, they shall not be accepted for you.

I—Yahweh am Yahweh.
And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them:

When ye enter into the land which I am giving you, and ye reap the harvest thereof then shall ye bring in a sheaf of the first-ripe corn of your harvest, unto the priest; and he shall wave the sheaf before Yahweh, that ye may be accepted,—on the morrow of the sabbath shall the priest wave it.

And ye shall offer, on the day when ye wave the sheaf, a he-lamb without defect, the finest of its year, for an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh; and the meal-offering thereof shall be two-tenths parts of fine meal, overflowed with oil, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh, a satisfying odour, and the drink-offering thereof shall be mine, the fourth of a hin.

And neither bread nor roasted corn, nor garden-land grain shall ye eat, until ye have brought in the oblation of your God, an age-abiding statute unto your generations, in all your dwellings.

Then shall ye keep count to yourselves, from the morrow of the sabbath, from the day ye brought in the wave sheaf, until ye count fifty days, then shall ye bring near a new meal-offering unto Yahweh.

Out of your dwellings shall ye bring in two wave loaves of two-tenths of an ephah, shall they be, with leaven shall they be baked, first-fruits unto Yahweh.

Then shall ye offer one he-goat, as a sin-bearer, and two he-lambs, of the first-year, and one young bullock, and two rams, they shall be an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings, an altar-flame of satisfying odour unto Yahweh.

Then shall ye offer one he-goat, as a sin-bearer, and two he-lambs, of the first-year, and one young bullock, and two rams, they shall be an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings, an altar-flame of satisfying odour unto Yahweh.

And ye shall make proclamation on this selfsame day—a holy convocation shall it be unto you; no laborious work shall ye do, an age-abiding statute, in all your dwellings, unto your generations.

And when ye reap the harvest of your land thou shalt not wholly clear the border of thy field, when thou reapest, and the gleanings of thy harvest.
And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

33 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
34 Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying:

35 In the seventh month, on the first of the month shall there be unto you a sacred rest, a holy convocation: no laborious work shall ye do, but ye shall bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh.

36 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
37 Surely on the tenth of this seventh month is the Day of Propitiation, a holy convocation: Ye shall humble your souls, and bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh. For whatsoever be the person that shall not be humbled on this selfsame day then shall he be cut off from among his kinsfolk. And whatsoever be the person that shall do any work on this selfsame day then will I destroy that person from among his people.

38 No work shall ye do, an age-abiding statute, to your generations, in all your dwellings.

39 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
40 Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying:

41 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
42 Command the sons of Israel, that they bring unto thee pure oil olive, beaten for giving light, to causethelamptoburn up continually.

43 And Aaron shall order it, from evening until morning, before Yahweh, continually, as a statute, age-abiding, to your generations.

44 And Aaron shall order the lamps, before Yahweh, continually.

45 And thou shalt take fine meal, and bake it, in twelve cakes, of two-tenths shall each cake be.

46 And thou shalt set them in two rows, six in a row, upon the pure table, before Yahweh.

47 The Holy Assembly are the appointed seasons of Yahweh, which ye shall proclaim, as holy convocations, for bringing near, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh, an ascending-sacrifice, and a meal-offering, and a sacrifice and a drink-offering, each day's appointment on its own day:

§20. Provision for the Sanctuary, in Oil and Bread.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
2 Command the sons of Israel, That they bring unto thee pure oil olive, beaten, for giving light, to cause the lamp to burn up continually.

3 Outside the veil of the testimony, in the tent of meeting shall Aaron order it, from evening until morning, before Yahweh, continually, as a statute, age-abiding, to your generations.

4 Upon the pure lampstand shall he order the lamps, before Yahweh, continually.

5 And thou shalt put upon each row, pure frankincense, so shall it belong unto the bread as a memorial, an altar-flame unto Yahweh.

6 Sabbath day by Sabbath day shall he order it, before Yahweh, continually, from the sons of Israel, as an age-abiding covenant: so shall it be for Aaron and for his sons, and they shall eat it, in a holy place, for most holy shall it be unto him, from among the altar-flames of Yahweh, a statute age-abiding.

7 These are the appointed seasons of Yahweh, which ye shall proclaim, as holy convocations, for bringing near, as an altar-flame unto Yahweh, an ascending-sacrifice, and a meal-offering, a sacrifice and a drink-offering, each day's appointment on its own day:

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:
2 Command the sons of Israel, that they bring unto thee pure fine flour, to prepare unleavened cakes, to offer burnt offerings unto Yahweh. For Aaron and for his sons shall these be unto you a statute age-abiding.

3 And ye shall take the corn of the firstfruits of your dough, unleavened, as the offering of the firstfruits unto Yahweh, and shall offer it unto Yahweh as a Memorial.

4 Besides the sabbaths of Yahweh, and besides your presents, and besides all your freewill offerings which ye shall give unto Yahweh.

5 Surely on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the yield of the land shall ye celebrate the festival of Yahweh, seven days, on the first day a sacred rest, and on the eighth day a sacred rest. So then ye shall take you, on the first day, boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm-trees, and boughs of thick trees, and poplars of the ravine; and shall rejoice before Yahweh your God, seven days.

6 So shall ye celebrate it as a festival unto Yahweh, seven days in the year, a statute age-abiding, to your generations.

7 And ye shall rejoice before Yahweh your God, seven days.

8 And ye shall bring near an altar-flame unto Yahweh: on the eighth day—a holy convocation—shall there be unto you, a sacred rest; and ye shall do no laborious work.

9 And ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God, seven days.

10 And ye shall speak unto the sons of Israel, saying: In the year of the seventh, and of the tenth, and of the twentieth, and of the twenty-fifth year, in the seventh month, shall ye celebrate the feast of tabernacles.

11 Ye shall build you booths, each man of his dwelling place, to dwell therein, ye and your sons, and your daughters, and your in-laws, and your guests, and your hired servants, and your domestic servants.

12 And ye shall dwell in booths seven days; and ye shall offer an oblation unto the Lord, seven days.

13 On the first day shall be a holy convocation; and ye shall do no laborious work.

14 And ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God seven days, and shall dwell in booths; and ye shall celebrate it, and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God.

15 And ye shall dwell in booths seven days; and ye shall cause to dwell in booths all the home-born in Israel.

16 And ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God, seven days: ye shall dwell in booths; and ye shall celebrate it, and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God.

17 And ye shall ascend, and ye shall worship before the Lord your God, seven days: and ye shall celebrate it, and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God.

18 And ye shall dwell in booths seven days; and ye shall celebrate it, and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God.
And Yahweh spake unto Moses in Mount Sinai, saying—

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them:

When ye enter into the land which I give unto you:

Then shall the land keep a sabbath unto Yahweh. Then shalt thou sow thy field, and six years shalt thou prune thy vineyard, and gather the increase thereof; but in the seventh year a sabbath of sacred rest shall there be unto the land, a sabbath unto Yahweh: thy field shalt thou not sow, and thy vineyard shalt thou not prune; that which growth of itself of thy harvest shalt thou not reap; and the grapes of thine unpruned vines shalt thou not cut off: a year of sacred rest shall there be to the land. So shall the sabbath of the land be unto you for food: unto thee, and unto thy servant and unto thy handmaid, and unto thy hireling, and unto thy sojourners that are sojourning with thee; and unto thy tame-beasts, and unto the wild-beasts that are in thy land; shall belong all the increase thereof, for food.

And thou shalt count to thee seven weeks of years, seven years, seven times, so shall the days of the seven weeks of years become to thee, forty-nine years. Then shalt thou cause a signal-horn to pass through, in the seventh month, on the tenth of the month: on the Day of Atonement shall ye cause a horn to pass through, in the seventh month, on the tenth of the month. Then shall ye hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim freedom throughout the land, to all the dwellers thereof, — a jubilee shall it be unto you, and ye shall return, every man unto his possession, and every man unto his family shall ye return. A jubilee shall that fiftieth year be unto you, — ye shall not sow, neither shall ye reap the self-grown corn thereof, nor cut off the grapes of the unpruned vines thereof. For a jubilee it is, holy shall it be unto you, — out of the increase of the earth shall ye eat her increase.

In this same jubilee year shall ye return, every man unto his possession. And when ye sell anything to thy neighbour, or buy at thy neighbour's hand, do not overreach one another. By the number of years after the jubilee shalt thou buy of thy neighbour, — by the number of the years of increase shall he sell unto thee; according to the multitude of the years shalt thou increase the price thereof, and according to the fewness of the years shalt thou diminish the price thereof: because the sum of the increase it is that he selleth thee. Then ye shall not overreach one another; but thou shalt stand in awe of thy God, — for I—Yahweh am your God.

Therefore ye shall do my statutes, and my regulations shall ye observe, and do them,—so shall ye dwell upon the land with confidence; a and the land shall yield her fruit; and ye shall eat to the full, and shall dwell with confidence thereupon.

20 And if since ye may say,
What shall we eat in the seventh year?
Lo! we are not to sow, b neither are we to gather our increase! c

21 Therefore will I command my blessing upon you, in the sixth year, and it shall make the increase of three years: f and ye shall sow the eighth year, and eat of old store, — until the ninth year, until the coming in of the increase thereof — shall ye eat old store.

22 The land moreover, shall not be sold beyond recovery, for <mine> is the land, — for <sojourners and settlers> ye are with me. g And in all the land of your possession a right of redemption shall ye give to the land.

23 And when thy brother waxeth poor, and so selleth aught of his possession to then may his kinsman that is near unto him come in, and redeem that which was sold by his brother.

24 And when any man hath no kinsman,—but his own hand geteth enough, so that he findeth what is needed to redeem it, then shall he reckon the years since he sold it, and restore the overplus, to the man to whom he sold it, and shall return unto his possession.

25 But if his hand have not found enough to get it back unto him then shall that which he sold remain in the hand of him that bought it, until the year of the jubilee,—and shall go out in the jubilee, and he shall return unto his possession.

26 And when any man selleth a dwelling-house in a walled city then shall his right of redemption remain, until the completion of a year after he sold it,—<for [a year of] days> shall his right of redemption remain. h But if it be not redeemed before the end of a full year then shall the house that is in the city that hath walls be confirmed [beyond recovery], to him who bought it, unto his generations,—it shall not go out in the jubilee. i

27 But as for the houses of villages which have no wall round about them, <with the fields of land> shall it be reckoned,—a right of redemption shall belong to it, and in the jubilee it shall go out. j And as for the cities of the Levites, the houses of the cities of their possession > an age-abiding right of redemption shall pertain unto the Levites. k And if one of the Levites should not redeem l then shall the sale of the house and the city of his possession go out' in the jubilee; for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession, in the midst of the sons of Israel. m 28 But the field of the pasture-land of their cities shall not be sold,—for an age-abiding possession > it is unto them.

29 And when thy brother waxeth poor, and his hand becometh feeble with thee, then shalt thou strengthen him, <as a sojourner and a settler> so shall he live with thee. n

30 Do not accept from him interest or profit, but stand thou in awe of thy God,—so shall thy brother live with thee. p

31 And if he be found enough to get it back unto him, then shall that which he sold remain in the hand of him that bought it, until the year of the jubilee,—and shall go out in the jubilee, and he shall return unto his possession.

32 And when the hand of the sojourner and a settler shall be feeble with thee, then shalt thou strengthen him, <as a hired servant, as a settler> shall he remain with thee, <until the year of the jubilee> shall he serve with thee: q then shall he go forth from thee, <he and his sons with him>, and shall return unto his family, and <unto the possession of his fathers> shall he return. r

33 For my bondmen > they are, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt,—they shall not sell themselves with the sale of a bondman. s

34 Thou shalt not rule over him with rigour,—so shall thou stand in awe of thy God. t

35 And as for thy bondman and thy bondmaid which thou shalt have, <of the nations that are round about you—<from them> may ye buy bondman and bondmaid. u

36 Moreover also, <of the sons of the settlers who are sojourning with you> may ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they have begotten in your land,—so shall they become yours, as a possession; v and ye may take them as an inheritance, for your sons after you, to inherit as a possession, <unto times age-abiding> <of them> may ye take to be bondmen,—but <over your brethren the sons of Israel—a man over his brother> ye shall not rule <over him> with rigour.

37 And <when the hand of the sojourner and a settler shall be feeble with thee, then shalt thou strengthen him, <as a hired servant, as a settler> shall he remain with thee, <until the year of the jubilee> shall he serve with thee: then shall he go forth from thee, <he and his sons with him>, and shall return unto his family, and <unto the possession of his fathers> shall he return. For <my bondmen > they are, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt,—they shall not sell themselves with the sale of a bondman. Thou shalt not rule over him with rigour,—so shall thou stand in awe of thy God. And as for thy bondman and thy bondmaid which thou shalt have, <of the nations that are round about you—<from them> may ye buy bondman and bondmaid. Moreover also, <of the sons of the settlers who are sojourning with you> may ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they have begotten in your land,—so shall they become yours, as a possession; and ye may take them as an inheritance, for your sons after you, to inherit as a possession, <unto times age-abiding> <of them> may ye take to be bondmen,—but <over your brethren the sons of Israel—a man over his brother> ye shall not rule <over him> with rigour.

38 And <when the hand of the sojourner and a settler shall be feeble with thee, then shalt thou strengthen him, <as a hired servant, as a settler> shall he remain with thee, <until the year of the jubilee> shall he serve with thee: then shall he go forth from thee, <he and his sons with him>, and shall return unto his family, and <unto the possession of his fathers> shall he return. For <my bondmen > they are, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt,—they shall not sell themselves with the sale of a bondman. Thou shalt not rule over him with rigour,—so shall thou stand in awe of thy God. And as for thy bondman and thy bondmaid which thou shalt have, <of the nations that are round about you—<from them> may ye buy bondman and bondmaid. Moreover also, <of the sons of the settlers who are sojourning with you> may ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they have begotten in your land,—so shall they become yours, as a possession; and ye may take them as an inheritance, for your sons after you, to inherit as a possession, <unto times age-abiding> <of them> may ye take to be bondmen,—but <over your brethren the sons of Israel—a man over his brother> ye shall not rule <over him> with rigour.
settler with thee gettest possessions, and thy brother with him | waxeth poor |,—ami so he aelleth him to the sojourner, [who is] a settler* with thee, or to one who hath taken root, of the family of the sojourner > 48 <after that he hath sold himself> | a right of redemption| pertaineth to him, — || one of his brethren|| may redeem him; 49 or || his uncle, or his uncle's son || may redeem him, or || a near flesh-relation of his, of his family || may redeem him,—or || his own hand may have gotten enough|| and | so he may redeem himself|. 50 Then shall he reckon with him that bought him, from the year that he was sold to him, unto the year of the jubilee,—and the silver for which he was sold 51 shall be by the number of years, <according to the days of a hired servant> shall he be with him. 52 Or <if there is yet a multitude of years> <according to them> shall he return, as his redemption price, of the silver of him that bought him. 53 <If he be not redeemed in any of these ways> then shall he go out in the jubilee year, || he, and his sons with him||. 54 But <if he be not redeemed in any of these ways> then shall he go out in the jubilee year, || he, and his sons with him||. 55 For <unto me> are the sons of Israel |bondmen], <my bondmen> they are', whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt.

§ 23. After a brief Summary of Law, the Blessings of Obedience and the Evils of Disobedience are largely set forth.

26 Ye shall not make unto you idols,—<neither image, nor pillar> shall ye set up for yourselves, nor <sculptured stone> shall ye place in your land, to bow yourselves down thereunto,—

For ||—Yahweh|| am your God.

2 <My sabbaths> shall ye observe, and <my commandments> ye shall do, and <my holy convocation> ye shall keep. 3 <If <in my statutes> ye walk,— And <my commandments> ye will observe, and do them >

Then will I give your rains in their season,— And the land shall yield her increase, And || the trees of the field|| shall yield their fruit.

8 Then shall your threshing reach unto the vintage, And ||the vintage|| shall reach unto the seedtime,— And ye shall eat your food to the full; And shall dwell securely in your land. 9 And I will give peace* in the land, And ye shall lie down, and nothing shall make you afraid; And I will take away vicious beasts out of the land; And || the sword|| shall not go through your land. 10 And ye shall chase your foes,— And they shall fall before you, by the sword; 11 And ||five, of you shall chase' || a hundred And || a hundred of you shall put || ten thousand || to flight,— So shall your foes fall before you, by the sword. 12 And I will turn unto you, And make you fruitful,— And multiply you, And will establish my covenant with you. 13 And ye shall eat old store, well seasoned,— And <the old from before the new> shall ye put forth. 14 And I will set my habitation in your midst,— And my soul shall not abhor' you ; 15 But I will walk to and fro in your midst, And will be unto you' a God,— And || ye || shall be unto me a people. 16 ||—Yahweh|| am your God, who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye should not be their bondmen; so I brake in pieces the staves of your yoke, and caused you to walk freerc: 17 But || if ye will not hearken unto me, And will not do' all these commandments; And if <my statutes> ye refuse, And <my regulations> your souls shall abhor,— So that ye will not do all my commandments, But shall break my covenant> 18 ||I also|| will do this unto you— I will set over you <for terror> consumption and fever, Causing the eyes to fail, and the soul* to pine away,— And ye shall sow, in vain, your seed, for it shall be eaten by your foes. 19 And I will set my face against you, And ye shall be smitten before your foes,— And be trodden down by them who hate you, And shall flee when no one is pursuing you.

And if even with these things ye will not hearken unto me>
Then will I yet further correct you, seven times, for your sins.

So will I break your pomp of power,
And will set your heavens as iron, and your land as bronze;
And your strength shall be spent in vain,—
And your land shall not yield her increase,
And the trees of the land shall not yield their fruit.

< If, therefore, ye will go in opposition to me,
And not be willing to hearken unto me >
Then will I yet further plague you seven times, according to your sins;
And will send among you the wild-beast of the field,
And it shall rob you of your children,
And cut off your cattle,
And make you few in number;
And your roads shall be silent.

< If by these things ye will not be corrected by me,—
But will go in opposition to me >
Then will I also go in opposition to you,
And I will plague you seven times, for your sins;
And will bring in upon you a sword, that shall inflict the covenanted avenging:
So shall ye be gathered into your cities,—
Then will I send a pestilence into your midst,
And ye shall be delivered into the hand of an enemy.

When I have broken your staff of bread, then shall ten women bake your bread in one oven,
And give back your bread by weight,—
And ye shall eat, and not be filled.

< If with this, ye will not hearken to me,—
But will go in opposition to me >
Then will I go in a rage of opposition to you,—
And I will correct you seven times, for your sins;
And ye shall eat the flesh of your sons,—
Yea <even the flesh of your daughters> shall ye eat.

And I will destroy your high places,
And cut down your sun-pillars,
And cast your carcases upon the carcases of your manufactured gods,— Thus shall my soul abhor you.

* Some cod. (w. Sam. and Sep.) have: "of the field"—G.n.
* Lit.: "rounded or rolled things." Precise meaning uncertain; "piled-up heap or logs."—Davies, H.L.; "lops blocks; shapeless things; doll-images" (Ew.); "dingy things"—O.G. "As a contemptuous designation of an idol, fetish (i.e., densus factitius) is probably the nearest English equivalent"—P.B. 102.

And I will give your cities unto desolation,
And make your holy places* dumb,—
And will find no fragrance in your satisfying odour;
And I will make the land dumb,
And your foes that dwell therein shall regard it with dumb amazement:
< When even you I scatter among the nations,
And make bare, after you, a sword >
Then shall your land become an astonishment,
And your cities become a desolation.

< If then, ye shall be paid her sabbaths,
All the days she lieth desolate,
While ye are in the land of your foes,—
Then shall the land keep sabbaths,
And pay off her sabbaths:
< All the days she lieth desolate shall she keep sabbaths,—the which she kept not as your sabbaths, while ye dwelt thereupon.>

And <as for such as are left of you> Then will I bring faintness into their heart, in the lands of their foes,—
So that the sound of a driven leaf shall chase them,
And they shall flee as though fleeing from a sword,
And they shall fall, when no' one is pursuing;
And they shall stumble one upon another,
as from before a sword, when pursuer there is none';
And ye shall not have wherewith to stand before your foes;
And ye shall perish among the nations,—
And the land of your foes shall eat you up;
Ye also <in the iniquity of their fathers with them> shall they melt away.

Then shall they confess their iniquity,
And the iniquity of their fathers,
In their unfaithfulness wherewith they had been unfaithful towards me;
Yea moreover <because they had gone in opposition to me>
If also must needs go in opposition to them, and bring them into the land of their foes—
Save only that <if even then/> their uncircumcised heart shall be humbled,
And <even then/> they shall accept as a payment the punishment of their iniquity >
Then will I remember my covenant with Jacob,
And the land is conceived as a debtor"—P.B. Cp. also 2 Ch. xxxvi. 21.
So in some authorities; but the majority of MSS. (with some pr. edns. Sam., Sep. and Bry.) have: "their"—G.n.
* Lit.: "in their iniquity."
Yea moreover' <my covenant with Isaac> Yea moreover' <my covenant with Abraham> will I remember;
And <the land> will I remember.

For <the land> shall be left of them,
And shall be paid her sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them,
They also accepting as a payment the punishment of their iniquity,
Because, |yea because| <my regulations>
they refused,
And <my statutes> their soul abhorred.
And yet |even so|, when they are in the land of their foes;
I have * not refused them.
Neither have I abhorred them,
To make an end of them,
To break my covenant with them,—
For ||I—Yahweh|| am their God.
Therefore will I remember in their behalf,
the covenant of their ancestors,— Whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt, in the sight of the nations, that I might be their God— ||I—Yahweh||.

These are the statutes and the regulations and the laws, which Yahweh granted between himself, and the sons of Israel,— in Mount Sinai, by the mediation b of Moses.

§ 24. Concerning Vows, Things Devoted, and Tithes.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them—

<When |any man| would consecrate and pay a vow by thine estimate of lives unto Yahweh>: then shall <thine estimate be |for the male> from twenty years of age even to sixty years of age> yea thine estimate shall be—fifty shekels of silver, by the shekel of the sanctuary; 4 but <if it be |for a female|>
then shall thine estimate be thirty shekels.

And <if it be from five years of age, even unto twenty years of age> then shall thine estimate be—<for the male> twenty shekels,—and <for the female> ten shekels.

And, <if it be from a month old, even unto five years old> then shall thine estimate be—<for the male> five shekels of silver,— and <for the female> thine estimate shall be three shekels of silver.

And <if it be from sixty years of age and upwards> <if a male> then shall thine estimate be fifteen shekels,—and <for the female> ten shekels.

But <if he be |too poor| for thine estimate> then shall he present himself before the priest, and the priest shall estimate him,—

According to that which the hand of him who would vow can attain to> shall the priest estimate him. 9 And <if it be a beast whereof men may bring near an oblation unto Yahweh> ||all that whereof aught is given to Yahweh|| shall be holy. 10 He shall not alter it, nor change it,—good for bad or bad for good,—<but if he |do| change beast for beast> then shall ||both it| and what was given in exchange for it| be holy.

And <if it be any unclean beast, whereof men may not bring near an oblation to Yahweh> then shall he present the beast before the priest: 12 and the priest shall estimate it, whether it is good or bad,—<according to thine estimate, O priest|| shall it be.
But <if he |should please to redeem it> then shall he add the fifth part thereof unto thine estimate.

And <when |any man| would hallow his house to be holy unto Yahweh> then shall the priest estimate it, whether it is good or bad,—<as the priest shall estimate it|| shall it stand. 13 But <if he | halloweth it|| would redeem his house> then shall he add the fifth part of the silver of thine estimate thereunto, and it shall be his.

And <if |of the field of his possession| any man would hallow unto Yahweh> then shall thine estimate be according to the seed thereof,—||the seed of a homer of barley|| at fifty shekels of silver.

<If |from the year of jubilee| he would hallow his field> <according to thine estimate> shall it stand. 18 But <if he that halloweth it| would redeem his house> then shall he add the fifth part of the silver of thine estimate thereunto, and it shall be his.

But <if he that hath hallowed it |should be pleased to redeem|| the field> then shall he add the fifth part of the silver of thine estimate thereunto, and it shall be assured to him. 20 But <if he will not redeem the field, but have sold the field to another man> it shall be redeemable no longer; 22 |and the field, when it goeth out in the jubilee, be holy unto Yahweh, as a devoted, field,—<to the priest> shall belong the possession thereof. 22 If, however,  23 then shall the priest reconcil to him the amount of thine estimate, until the year of the jubilee,— and he shall give thine estimate, in that day, as holy unto Yahweh. 24 In the year of the jubilee> shall the field return unto him from whom he bought it, to him whose it was, as a possession in the land.

And every estimate of thine II shall be by the holy shekel,— twenty gerahs make the shekel.

Only' <the firstling which is born a firstling to Yahweh, among beasts> no man shall hallow it,— <whether ox or sheep> <unto Yahweh> it belongeth. 27 But <if it be among the beasts that are unclean> then shall he ransom it by thine estimate, and add the fifth part of it thereunto,— but <if it is not redeemed> then shall it be sold by thine estimate.

Only' <no devoted thing which any man shall devote unto Yahweh, of all that belongeth to him,—of man or beast, or of the field of his possession> shall be either sold or redeemed,—<as to every devoted thing> <most holy> it is unto Yahweh.

As touching any one devoted, who may be devoted from among men, he shall not be ransomed,—he must be surely put to death.

And <as for all the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land [or] of the fruit of the trees> <unto Yahweh> it belongeth,—<as something holy unto Yahweh>. 31 But <if any man should be pleased > to redeem <aught of his tithes> <the fifth part thereof> shall he add thereunto.

24 These are the commandments, which Yahweh commanded Moses, for the sons of Israel, — in Mount Sinai.

§1. The Numbering of the Hosts of Israel.

(Cp. §22).

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, in the desert of Sinai, in the tent of meeting,— on the first of the second month, in the second year, by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt, saying:

Beckon ye up the sum of all the assembly of the sons of Israel, by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, every male, by their polls; from twenty years old and upwards, every one able to go forth to war, in Israel,—ye shall number them by their hosts.

Reuel> Elizur, son of Shedeur; <of Simeon> Shelumiel, son of Zuri-shaddai; <of Judah> Nahshon, son of Amminadab; <of Issachar> Nethanel, son of Zuar; <of Zebulun> Eliab, son of Helon;

10 <Of the sons of Joseph> —

11 <Of Ephraim> Elishama, son of Ammihud;

12 <Of Manasseh> Gamaliel, son of Pedah-zur;

13 <Of Benjamin> Abidan, son of Gideoni;

14 <Of Dan> Ahiram, son of Enam;

15 <Of Naphtali> Ahira, son of Enan.

16 These are they who had been summoned by the assembly, being princes of the tribes of their fathers,—heads of the thousands of Israel.

17 So then Moses and Aaron took these men, who were distinguished by name; <all the assembly also> called they together, on the first of the second month,—and they declared their pedigree according to their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old and upwards, by their polls.

18 <As Yahweh commanded Moses> so he mustered them in the desert of Sinai.

19 And they were [as followeth]—

* Some cod. while writing this name as one word, preserve it in a v.r. as two—G.n.
The sons of Reuben, the firstborn of Israel, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, by their polls, every male, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Reuben forty-six thousand, and five hundred.

Of the sons of Simeon, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—such as were numbered of him, in the counting of names, by their polls, every male, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Simeon, fifty-nine thousand, and three hundred.

Of the sons of Gad, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Gad, forty-five thousand, and six hundred and fifty.

Of the sons of Judah, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Judah, seventy-four thousand, and six hundred.

Of the sons of Issachar, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Issachar, fifty-four thousand, and four hundred.

Of the sons of Zebulun, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Zebulun, fifty-seven thousand, and four hundred.

Of the sons of Joseph—

Of the sons of Ephraim, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Ephraim, forty-two thousand, and two hundred.

Of the sons of Benjamin, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Benjamin, thirty-five thousand and four hundred.

Of the sons of Dan, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Dan, sixty-two thousand, and seven hundred.

Of the sons of Asher, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Asher, forty-one thousand, and five hundred.

Of the sons of Naphtali, in their pedigrees—by their families, by their ancestral houses,—in the counting of names, from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; such as were numbered of them, as belonging to the tribe of Naphtali, fifty-three thousand, and four hundred.

These are they who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron, and the twelve princes of Israel did number, the princes acting each one for his ancestral house.

So then all they who were numbered of the sons of Israel, by their ancestral houses,—from twenty years old, and upwards, every one able to go forth to war; so then all they who were numbered were six hundred and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty.

But the Levites, by the tribe of their fathers, were not numbered in their midst. For Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: Only the tribe of Levi shall thou not number, nor shall thou reckoning up,—in the midst of the sons of Israel. But do thou thyself put the Levites in charge over the habitation of the testimony, and over all the furniture thereof, and over all that pertaineth thereto, they shall bear the habitation, and all the furniture thereof, and they shall attend thereupon; and round about the habitation shall they encamp. And when the habitation is to be pitched, it shall set it up, but the stranger that draweth near shall be put to death. So then the sons of Israel shall pitch their tents,—every man near his own camp, and every man near his own standard, by

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

"Every man— near his standard, with the ensigns belonging to their ancestral houses— shall the sons of Israel encamp, — at a distance round about the tent of meeting— shall they encamp.

And they who encamp eastwards, towards sunrise— shall be the standard of the camp of Judah, by their hosts, — even the prince of the sons of Judah, Nashon, son of Amminadab; 4 and his host, — even they who are numbered of them, — seventy-four thousand, and six hundred.

Then they who encamp by him, the tribe of Issachar, — even the prince of the sons of Issachar, Nethanel, son of Zuar; 6 and his host, — even they who are numbered of him, — fifty-four thousand, and four hundred.

The tribe of Zebulun, — even the prince of the sons of Zebulun, Eliab, son of Helon; 8 and his host, — even they who are numbered of him, — fifty-seven thousand, and four hundred.

All they who are numbered to the camp of Judah, a hundred and eighty-six thousand, four hundred, by their hosts:— shall first set forward.

The standard of the camp of Reuben southwards, by their hosts, — even the prince of the sons of Reuben, Elizur, son of Shedeur; 11 and his host, — even they who are numbered of him, — forty-six thousand, and five hundred.

Then they who encamp by him, the tribe of Simeon, — even the prince of the sons of Simeon, Shelumiel, son of Zuriahaddai; 13 and his host, — even they who are numbered of him, — fifty-three thousand, and four hundred.

The tribe of Gad, — even the prince of the sons of Gad, Eliashaph, son of Reuel; 16 and his host, — even they who are numbered of him, — forty-one thousand, and five hundred.

All they who are numbered to the camp of Reuben, — a hundred and fifty-seven thousand, and four hundred and fifty. 18 Then shall they set forward, every man at the side thereof, by their standards.

The standard of the camp of Ephraim, by their hosts, westwards, — even the prince of the sons of Ephraim, Eliashib son of Ammihud; 19 and his host, — even they who are numbered of them, — forty thousand, and five hundred.

Then by him, the tribe of Manasseh, — even the prince of the sons of Manasseh, Gamaliel, son of Pedah- zur; 21 and his host, — even they who are numbered of them, — thirty-two thousand, and two hundred.

Then the tribe of Benjamin, — even the prince of the sons of Benjamin, Abidan, son of Gideoni; 22 and his host, — even they who are numbered of them, — thirty-five thousand, and four hundred.

All they who are numbered to the camp of Ephraim, a hundred and eighty thousand, and eight hundred, and one hundred, by their hosts:— and they in the third rank, shall set forward.

The standard of the camp of Dan, northerly, by their hosts, — even the prince of the sons of Dan, Ahiezer, son of Ammi- shaddai; 26 and his host, — even they who are numbered of them, — sixty-two thousand, and seven hundred.

Then they who encamp by him, the tribe of Asher, — even the prince of the sons of Asher, Pagiel, son of Ochran; 28 and his host, — even they who are numbered of them, — forty-one thousand, and five hundred.

Then the tribe of Naphtali, — even the prince of the sons of Naphtali, Ahira, son of Enak; 31 and his host, — even they who are numbered of them, — fifty-three thousand, and four hundred.

All they who are numbered to the camp of Dan, a hundred and fifty-seven thousand, and six hundred:— in the hindmost rank, shall they set forward, by their standards.

These are they who were numbered of the sons of Israel, by their ancestral houses, — all they who were numbered of the camps, by their hosts:— were six hundred and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty.

But the Levites were not numbered in the midst of the sons of Israel,— As Yahweh commanded Moses.

Thus did the sons of Israel, — according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses:— so did they encamp by their standards, and so did they set forward, every one by his families, near his ancestral house.

The Numbering of the Levites as the Substituted Tribe.

Now these were the pedigrees of Aaron, and Moses, — in the day when Yahweh spake... with Moses, in Mount Sinai. 2 And the names of the sons of Aaron—
[the firstborn] Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.
3 These are the names of the sons of Aaron, the priests that were anointed, — who were installed to minister as priests.

4 But Nadab and Abihu died before Yahweh, when they brought near strange fire before Yahweh, in the desert of Sinai, and had they none,—so then Eleazar and Ithamar ministered as priests, in the presence of Aaron their father.

5 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying—
6 Bring near the tribe of Levi, and thou shalt cause it to stand before Aaron the priest,—so shall they wait upon him; 7 so shall they keep his charge, and the charge of all the assembly, before the tent of meeting, —to do the laborious work of the habitation; 8 so shall they have charge of all the furniture of the tent of meeting, even the charge of the sons of Israel,—to do the laborious work of the habitation. 9 Thus shalt thou give the Levites unto Aaron, and unto his sons,—<given, given> they are unto him, from among the sons of Israel; but unto Aaron, and unto his sons, shalt thou give oversight, so shall they keep charge of their priesthood,—and the stranger who cometh near shall be put to death.

10 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, in the desert of Sinai, saying—11 Number thou the sons of Levi, by their families,— 12 so shall they have charge of all the furni-

Some cod. cited in the Mass. itself, have simply: "among"; and so Sam. and Onk. MS. Cp. verse 40— G.n.

Cp. verse 41.
But they who were to encamp before the habitation, eastwards, before the tent of meeting, towards sun-rises, were Moses and Aaron and his sons, to keep the charge of the sanctuary, as the charge of the sons of Israel; and the stranger that came near was to be put to death.

All they who were numbered of the Levites, whom Moses and Aaron numbered at the bidding of Yahweh, by their families, every male, from one month old and upwards, were two and twenty thousand.

And Yahweh said unto Moses:

Number thou every firstborn male belonging to the sons of Israel, from one month old and upwards, and reckon up the number of their names; then shalt thou take the Levites for me, instead of every firstborn among the sons of Israel, also the cattle of the Levites, instead of every firstling among the cattle of the sons of Israel.

So then Moses numbered, as Yahweh commanded him, every firstborn among the sons of Israel. And it was so—that all the firstborn of the males, in the counting of names from one month old and upwards, of such as were numbered of them, were two and twenty thousand, two hundred and seventy-three.

42 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Take the Levites, instead of all the firstborn among the sons of Israel, and the cattle of the Levites, instead of their cattle, so shall the Levites' belong unto me, instead of the two hundred and seventy-three, who are more than the Levites, of the firstborn of the sons of Israel; thou shalt take five shekels apiece, by the poll, as the ransom of the sanctuary, shalt thou take it, twenty shekels to the shekel; and shalt give the silver to Aaron, and to his sons, as the ransom of them that are in excess over them.

43 So Moses took the redemption's silver from them who were in excess over them who were redeemed by the Levites; from the firstborn of the sons of Israel took he the silver, a thousand, three hundred, and sixty-five shekels, by the shekel of the sanctuary. And Moses gave the redemption's silver to Aaron and to his sons, at the bidding of Yahweh, as Yahweh commanded Moses.
must not put forth a touch unto that which is holy, else should they die,—these shall be the burden of the sons of Kohath, in the tent of meeting.

24 But the care of Eleazar son of Aaron the priest [shall be]—the light-giving oil, and the fragrant incense, and the perpetual meal-offering, and the anointing oil, the care of all the habitation, and all that is therein, both as to the sanctuary, and as to the furniture thereof.

25 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

18 Do not let the tribe of the families of the Kohathites be cut off out of the midst of the Levites. 19 This therefore, do ye for them, so shall they live, and not die, when they approach the most holy place,—Aaron and his sons shall enter and set them, man by man, over his labour, and unto his burden; 20 but they shall not enter to see, for a moment, that which is holy, else should they die.

21 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Reckon up the sum of the sons of Gershon: seven of them also,—by their ancestral house, by their families; 23 from thirty years old and upwards, even to fifty years, shalt thou number them,—all that may enter to take rank in the host, to do laborious work in the tent of meeting. 24 This shall be the labour of the families of the Gershonites,—in labouring and in bearing:—they shall bear the curtains of the habitation, and the tent of meeting, the covering thereof, and the covering of badgers' skin which is over above it,—and the screen, at the entrance of the tent of meeting; 26 and the hangings of the court, and the screen for the entrance of the gate of the court which is near the habitation, and near the altar, round about, and their cords, and all their articles of service, and all that is to be done to them, when they shall do their labour. 27 At the bidding of Aaron and his sons shall be all the labour of the sons of the Gershonites, to the extent of their every burden, and to the extent of all their labour,—so shall ye appoint unto them in charge, their every burden. 28 This shall be the labour of the families of the sons of the Gershonites, in the tent of meeting,—and the charge of them shall be in the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron, the priest.

29 As for the sons of Merari,—by their families, by their ancestral house shall ye number them; 30 from thirty years old and upwards, even to fifty years, shall ye number them,—all that enter into the host, to do laborious work in the tent of meeting. 31 And this shall be their charge of the burdens, to the extent of all their labour in the tent of meeting,—the boards of the habitation, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof and the sockets thereof; 32 and the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets and their pins and their cords, to the extent of all their articles, to the extent of all their labour,—and by names shall ye put under their care the articles of their charge of burdens.

33 This shall be the labour of the families of the sons of Merari, to the extent of all their labour in the tent of meeting,—in the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron, the priest.

Then did Moses and Aaron, and the princes of the assembly, number the sons of the Kohathites,—by their families, and by their ancestral house; 35 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old, all that might enter the host, to labour in the tent of meeting; 36 and they who were numbered of them, by their families, were found to be—two thousand, seven hundred, and fifty. 37 These were they who were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all that might labour in the tent of meeting,—whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh by the mediation of Moses.

And they who were numbered of the sons of Gershon,—by their families, and by their ancestral house; 39 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old,—all that might enter the host, to labour in the tent of meeting; 40 yes they who were numbered of them, by their families, by their ancestral house,—were found to be—two thousand, and six hundred, and thirty. 41 These are they who were numbered of the families of the sons of Gershon, all who might labour in the tent of meeting,—whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh.

And they who were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari,—by their families, by their ancestral house; 43 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old,—all that might enter the host to labour in the tent of meeting; 44 yea they who were numbered of them, by their families,—were found to be—three thousand and two hundred. 45 These are they who were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari,—whom Moses and Aaron did number, at the bidding of Yahweh, by the mediation of Moses.

All they who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron and the princes of Israel did number, even the Levites,—by their families, and by their ancestral house; 47 from thirty years old and upwards, even unto fifty years old,—all that might enter, to toil in the work of labouring and in the work of bearing burdens, in the tent of meeting; 48 yea, they who were numbered of
And the sons of Israel did so, and sent them forth unto the outside of the camp, — as Yahweh spake unto Moses; and they made not their campsunclean, in the midst whereof I have my habitation.

And the sons of Israel did so, and sent them forth unto the outside of the camp, — as Yahweh spake unto Moses; and they made not their campsunclean, in the midst whereof I have my habitation.

§ 5. Sundry Laws.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Command the sons of Israel, that they send forth out of the camp, every leper, and every one that hath a flux, — and every one that is unclean by the dead: whether male or female ye shall send them forth, unto the outside of the camp; shall ye send them, — that they make not their campsunclean, in the midst whereof I have my habitation.

3 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: When any man or woman shall do aught of any human sin, in acting unfaithfully against Yahweh, — and that person shall become aware of his guilt; shall he confess his sin which he has done, and he shall make good that wherein he is guilty, in the principal thereof, and the fifth part thereof shall he add thereunto, — and give to the priest, the principal thereof, and the fifth part thereof shall be the priest's, — besides the ram of propitiation, wherewith a propitiatory-covering is to be put over him. And every heave-offering, of all the hallowed things of the sons of Israel, which they bring near to the priest, unto him shall it belong. And every man's hallowed things shall be his own; — what any man giveth to the priest shall be his.

4 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: — When any man's wife shall turn aside, and commit against him an act of unfaithfulness; or if thou hast turned aside, in uncleanness, unto another instead of thy husband, be thou clear from this deadly water that causeth a curse. Then shall the priest put the woman on oath, and shall place upon her hands the reminding gift, it being a jealousy gift, — and in the hand of the priest shall be the deadly water, that bringeth a curse; and the priest shall put her on oath, and shall say unto the woman: — if no man hath lain with thee, and if thou hast not turned aside, in uncleanness, unto another instead of thy husband, be thou clear from this deadly water that causeth a curse. But if thou hast turned aside unto another instead of thy husband, and if thou hast made thyself unclean, — in that a man hath known thee carnally, other than thy husband — then shall the priest put the woman on oath, and the priest shall say unto the woman, Yahweh give thee up for a curse and for an oath, in the midst of thy people, — in that Yahweh shall give up thy thigh to fall away, and thy womb to swell: so shall this water that causeth a curse, enter into thy body, causing womb to swell and thigh to fall away. And the woman shall say, Amen, Amen.

5 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

6 Speak unto the sons of Israel: When any man or woman shall do aught of any human sin, in acting unfaithfully against Yahweh, — and that person shall become aware of his guilt; shall he confess his sin which he has done, and he shall make good that wherein he is guilty, in the principal thereof, and the fifth part thereof shall he add thereunto, — and give to the priest, the principal thereof, and the fifth part thereof shall be the priest's, — besides the ram of propitiation, wherewith a propitiatory-covering is to be put over him. And every heave-offering, of all the hallowed things of the sons of Israel, which they bring near to the priest, unto him shall it belong. And every man's hallowed things shall be his own; — what any man giveth to the priest shall be his.

7 But if one have no kinsman unto whom he may make good that wherein he is guilty; then wherein he is guilty, which is to be restored to Yahweh shall be the priest's, — besides the ram of propitiation, wherewith a propitiatory-covering is to be put over him. And every heave-offering, of all the hallowed things of the sons of Israel, which they bring near to the priest, unto him shall it belong. And every man's hallowed things shall be his own; — what any man giveth to the priest shall be his.

8 Then shall the priest write these curses in a scroll, — and wipe them out into the deadly water; and shall cause the woman to drink the deadly water that causeth a curse, — and the deadly water that causeth a curse shall enter into her. Then shall the priest take from the hand of the woman the jealousy meal-offering, — and shall wave the meal-offering before Yahweh, and bring it near unto the altar; and the priest shall take a handful from the meal-offering, a remembrancer thereof, and make a perfume at the altar, — and afterwards shall cause the woman to drink the water.
And <as soon as he causeth her to drink the water> then shall it be, that, <if she have fallen into uncleanness, and committed unfaithfulness against her husband>: <as soon as the deadly water that causeth a curse hath entered into her> so soon shall her womb swell and her thigh fall away,— thus shall the woman become a curse, in the midst of her people. 20 But <if the woman have not fallen into uncleanness, but is pure> then shall she be clear, and shall bear seed. 22 [This] is the law of jealousies,— when a wife shall turn aside [to another] instead of her husband, and fall into uncleanness; 23 or <when there passeth over ||a husband|| a spirit of jealousy, and he becometh jealous of his wife> then shall he cause the woman to stand before Yahweh, and the priest shall execute upon her all this law: 28 thus shall the man be clear of iniquity; but ||that woman|| shall bear her iniquity.

§ 6. The Law of the Nazir'.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

<When ||any man or woman|| would make the special vow of One Separate,> by separating himself unto Yahweh, <from wine and strong drink> shall he separate himself, <neither vinegar of wine, nor vinegar of strong drink> shall he drink,— and <no liquor of grapes> shall he drink, <no grapes fresh or dried> shall he eat. 4 <All the days of his separation> <of nothing that is made from the grape-vine, from the seeds even to the skin> shall he eat. 5 <All the days of his vow of separation> ||no razor|| shall pass over his head, — until the days are fulfilled for which he shall separate himself to Yahweh, <hallowed> shall he be, letting the locks of the hair of his head grow long. 6 <All the days for which he hath separated himself unto Yahweh> <to no dead person> shall he go in. 7 <Neither for his father nor for his mother, nor for his brother, nor for his sister> shall he make himself unclean— <because ||his separation|| unto God> is upon his head. 8 <All the days of separation> <hallowed> is he unto Yahweh. 9 But <if one that is dying should die by him in a moment, suddenly> then shall he count unclean his head of separation,— and shall shave his head, on the day he cleanseth himself, <on the seventh day> shall he shave it. 10 And <on the eighth day> shall he bring in, two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons,—unto the priest, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting; and the priest shall make, of one a sin-bearer, and of one an ascending-sacrifice, and so put a propitiatory-covering over him, for that he sinned in respect of the dead person, —thus shall he hallow his head on that day. 11 Then shall he separate unto Yahweh his days of separation, and shall bring in a he-lamb a year old, as a guilt-bearer,— and ||the first days|| shall be lost because his separation was made unclean. 12 And [This] is the law of the Separate One, 13 on the day when he fulfilleth his days of separation, he shall be brought in unto the entrance of the tent of meeting: 14 then shall he bring near, as his offering unto Yahweh, one he-lamb a year old, without defect, for an ascending-sacrifice, and one ewe-lamb a year old, without defect, for a sin-bearer,— and one ram, without defect, for a peace-offering; 15 and a basket of unleavened cakes—fine meal in round cakes overflowed with oil, and thin cakes of unleavened bread, anointed with oil,— with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings. 16 Then shall the priest bring [them] near before Yahweh,— and offer his sin-bearer, and his ascending-sacrifice; and ||the ram|| shall he offer as a peace-offering unto Yahweh, besides the basket of unleavened cakes,—and the priest shall offer the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof. 17 Then shall the Separate One shave, at the entrance of the tent of meeting, his head of separation,— and take the hair of his head of separation, and put upon the fire, which is under the peace-offering. 18 Then shall the priest take the shoulder for boiling from the ram, and one unleavened round cake from the basket, and one unleavened thin cake,— and place them on the hands of the Separate One after he hath shaved off his [hair of] separation; 19 and the priest shall wave them as a wave-offering before Yahweh, <hallowed> it is for the priest, besides the wave' breast, and besides the heave' leg,— and ||afterwards|| may the Separate One drink wine. [This] is the law of One Separate, 20 what he shall vow, his offering unto Yahweh with respect to his separation, besides what his hand may obtain: <as required by the vow that he shall vow> ||so|| must he do, with respect to the law of his separation.

And it came to pass on the day when Moses spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, saying, Thus shall ye bless the sons of Israel,—saying unto them:

Yahweh bless thee, and keep thee:

Yahweh cause his face to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee:

Yahweh lift up his face unto thee, and appoint unto thee peace.

Thus shall they put my name upon the sons of Israel,—and I myself will bless them.

And it came to pass on the day when Moses made an end of rearing up the habitation, and anointing it, and hallowing it, and all the furniture thereof, and the altar, and all the utensils thereof,—both of anointing them, and hallowing them—that the princes of Israel, the heads of their ancestral houses [made an offering]—they being princes of the tribe, they being the men who stood over them who were numbered—yea, then brought they in, as their offering, before Yahweh—six covered wagons, and twelve oxen, a wagon for every two of the princes, and an ox for each one,—yea they brought them near before the habitation.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Take [them] of them, so shall they be for doing the laborious work of the tent of meeting,—and thou shalt give them unto the Levites, to every man according to the need of his laborious work.

So Moses took the wagons, and the oxen,—and gave them unto the Levites: two of the wagons and four of the oxen gave he unto the sons of Gershon,—according to the need of their laborious work; and four of the wagons, and sight of the oxen gave he unto the sons of Merari,—according to the need of their laborious work, in the hand of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest: but unto the sons of Kohath gave he none,—because as to the laborious work of the sanctuary [which] pertained unto them <upon their shoulders> were they to carry it.

So then the princes offered for the dedication of the altar, on the day it was anointed,—yea the princes offered their obligation before the altar.

And Yahweh said unto Moses:

<Each prince on his appointed day> thus shall they offer their obligation, for the dedication of the altar.

And so it was, that the who <on the first day> offered his obligation,—was Nahshôn son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah; and his offering was—one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shkel of the sanctuary,—two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this was the offering of Nahshôn, son of Amminadab.

<On the second day> Nethanel, son of Zebulun, prince of Issachar, brought his offering.

He offered as his oblation—one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shkel of the sanctuary,—both of them full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; *and <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this was the offering of Nethanel, son of Zebulun.

<On the third day> the prince of the sons of Zebulun,—Eliazr, son of Helôn: this offering was—one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shkel of the sanctuary,—both of them full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon, of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; *and <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this was the offering of Eliazr, son of Helôn.

<On the fourth day> the prince of the sons of Reuben,—Elizur, son of Shohadar: this offering was—one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shkel of the sanctuary,—both of them full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; *and <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this was the offering of Elizur, son of Shohadar.

<On the fifth day> the prince of the sons of Simeon,—Sheuemiel, son of Zurishaddai: this offering was—one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one tossing bowl, of silver, seventy shekels, by the shkel of the sanctuary,—both of them full of fine meal overflowed with oil, as a meal-offering; one spoon, of ten [shekels] of gold, full of incense; one choice young bullock, one ram, one he-lamb of the first year, as an ascending-sacrifice; one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer; *and <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year,—this was the offering of Sheuemiel, son of Shohadar.
offering, one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one

And <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, —this was the offering of Abidan, son of Gideoni.

On the seventh day, the prince of the sons of Gad, — Eliasisph, son of Deuel: 42 his offering, one charger of silver,  the weight thereof, one

And <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, —this was the offering of Eliasisph, son of Deuel.

And <as a peace-offering> two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five he-lambs of the first year, —this was the offering of Abidan, son of Gideoni.
And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Speak unto Aaron, and thou shalt say unto him,—

3 And Aaron did so, —over against the front of the lampstand — shall the seven lamps give light.

4 Now [this] was the work of the lampstand—beaten work of gold <both in the shaft thereof and in the flowers thereof> was it ||beaten work || <according to the appearance which Yahweh caused to appear unto Moses> ||so|| made he the lampstand.

5 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

6 Take the Levites, out of the midst of the sons of Israel,— and thou shalt purify them.

7 And ||thus|| shalt thou do unto them, to purify them, sprinkle upon them sin-cleansing water,—then shall they cause a razor to pass over all their flesh, and shall wash their clothes, and so make themselves pure. 8 Then shall they take a choice young bullock, with the meal-offering thereof, even fine meal overflowed with oil,—and  shalt thou take, as a sin-bearer. 9 Then shalt thou bring the Levites near, before the tent of meeting,—and shalt call together all the assembly of the sons of Israel; 10 and shalt bring the Levites near before Yahweh,—and the sons of Israel shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullocks; then make thou of the one a sin-bearer, and of the other an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over the Levites.

9 The Priests are to light the Lamps. The Levites are consecrated in the place of all Israel.

8 1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto Aaron, and thou shalt say unto him,—

2 When thou lightest up the lamps <over against the front of the lampstand> shall the seven lamps give light.

3 And Aaron did so, —over against the front of the lampstand — lighted he up the lamps thereof,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

4 Now [this] was the work of the lampstand—beaten work of gold <both in the shaft thereof and in the flowers thereof> was it ||beaten work || <according to the appearance which Yahweh caused to appear unto Moses> ||so|| made he the lampstand.

5 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

6 Take the Levites, out of the midst of the sons of Israel,— and thou shalt purify them.

7 And ||thus|| shalt thou do unto them, to purify them, sprinkle upon them sin-cleansing water,—then shall they cause a razor to pass over all their flesh, and shall wash their clothes, and so make themselves pure. 8 Then shall they take a choice young bullock, with the meal-offering thereof, even fine meal overflowed with oil,—and  shalt thou take, as a sin-bearer. 9 Then shalt thou bring the Levites near, before the tent of meeting,—and shalt call together all the assembly of the sons of Israel; 10 and shalt bring the Levites near before Yahweh,—and the sons of Israel shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullocks; then make thou of the one a sin-bearer, and of the other an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over the Levites.

14 Upon the Levites; 11 and Aaron shall offer the Levites, as a wave-offering before Yahweh, from among the sons of Israel,—so shall they be for performing the laborious work of Yahweh. 12 And ||the Levites|| shall lean their hands upon the head of the bullocks; then make thou of the one a sin-bearer, and of the other an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, to put a propitiatory-covering over the Levites. 13 Thus shalt thou cause the Levites to stand before Aaron, and before his sons,—thus shalt thou offer them as a wave-offering unto Yahweh;—thus shalt thou separate the Levites out of the midst of the sons of Israel,—so that the Levites become mine. 14 And ||after that|| shall the Levites enter to do the labour e of the tent of meeting,—so shalt thou purify them, and offer them as a wave-offering. 15 For <given, given> they are'1 from among the sons of Israel> have I taken them unto me. 17 For <mine> is every firstborn, among the sons of Israel, among men, and among beasts,— <on the day when I smote every firstborn in the land of Egypt> did I hallow them unto me. 18 Therefore have I taken the Levites, — instead of every firstborn among the sons of Israel; 19 therefore have I given the Levites, as a gift unto Aaron and unto his sons, out of the midst of the sons of Israel, to do the laborious work of the sons of Israel, in the tent of meeting, and to put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel,—so shall there be, among the sons of Israel, no plague, by the coming night of the sons of Israel unto the sanctuary.

20 And Moses and Aaron and all the assembly of the sons of Israel did thus unto the Levites,—<according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses as touching the Levites> ||so|| did the sons of Israel unto them. 21 And the Levites accepted the cleansing from sin, and washed their clothes, and Aaron offered them as a wave-offering before Yahweh,— and Aaron put a propitiatory-covering over them, to make them pure.

22 And <after that> went the Levites in, to do their laborious work in the tent of meeting, before Aaron, and before his sons,—<as Yahweh commanded Moses concerning the Levites> ||so|| did they unto them.

§ 10. The First Commemorative Passover.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses in the desert of Sinai, in the second year by their coming forth out of the land of Egypt, in the first month, saying:

2 Let the sons of Israel, therefore, keep the passover, in its appointed season: 3 on the fourteenth day of this month, between the two evenings, shall ye keep it, in its appointed season,—according to all the statutes thereof, and according to all the regulations thereof—shall ye keep it.

4 Then spake Moses unto the sons of Israel, that they should keep the passover. 5 So they kept the passover, in the first [month], on the fourteenth day of the month, between the two evenings, b in the desert of Sinai,—according to all that Yahweh commanded Moses. 6 But so it was, that there were certain men who had become unclean, by a dead person, and could not keep the passover on that day,—therefore came they near before Moses and before Aaron, on that day. 7 Then said those men unto him, We are unclean by a dead person, wherefore should we become of lessestimate, for want of offering the oblation of Yahweh in its appointed season, in the midst of the sons of Israel?

8 And Moses said unto them,—Stay, and let me hear, what Yahweh shall command concerning you!

9 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

10 Speak unto the sons of Israel, saying,—

<as for the man who is clean, and no a journey> doth not chance to be, and yet faileth to keep the passover> that person shall be cut off from among his kinsfolk,—for the oblation of Yahweh hath he not offered in its appointed season, <his own sin> shall >that man bear. 11 <When, moreover, there may sojourn with you a sojourner, who would keep a passover unto Yahweh> <according to the statute of the passover, and according to the regulation thereof> <must he keep [it]>—<one statute shall there be for you, both for the sojourner, and for the native of the land.

15 Now <on the day the habitation was reared> the cloud covered the habitation, even the tent of the testimony,—and <in the evening> it was over the habitation like an appearance of fire, until morning. 16 Thus came it to pass continually, <the cloud> covered it, and an appearance of fire, by night; 17 but <at the bidding of the upgoings of the cloud from off the tent> then [after that] the sons of Israel set forward,—and <in the place where the cloud abode> [there] the sons of Israel encamped: 18 <at the bidding of Yahweh> the sons of Israel set forward, and <at the bidding of Yahweh> they encamped,—<all the days that the cloud abode upon the habitation> they remained encamped. 19 And <when the cloud lengthened out its stay upon the habitation, many days> then would the sons of Israel keep the watch of Yahweh, and would not set forward. 20 And <also it was> <when the cloud would be a few days> upon the habitation,—<at the bidding of Yahweh> they remained encamped, and <at the bidding of Yahweh> they set forward. 21 And <also it was> <when the cloud would be from evening until morning> <as soon as the cloud went up in the morning> so soon did they set forward: <whether by day or by night> <as soon as the cloud went up> so soon did they set forward. 22 <Whether for two days, or a month, or a year, the cloud lengthened out its stay upon the habitation, abiding thereupon> the sons of Israel remained encamped, and set not forward,—but <at the upgoings thereof> they set forward. 23 <At the bidding of Yahweh> they encamped, and <at the bidding of Yahweh> they set forward,—<the watch of Yahweh> they kept, at the bidding of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses.

§ 12. The Ordinance of the Silver Trumpets.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Make thee two trumpets of silver, <of beaten work> shalt thou make them,—and they... shall be unto thee for calling the assembly, and for setting forward the camps. 2 As soon as they blow therewith, so soon shall all the assembly assemble themselves unto thee, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting. 3 And if ye blow a second alarm then shall the princes, the heads of the thousands of Israel, gather themselves unto thee. 4 But when ye blow an alarm then shall set forward the camps that are encamped southwards,— 11 And so it came to pass in the second year, in the second month, on the twentieth of the month, that the cloud lifted itself up from off the habitation of the testimony; 12 and the sons of Israel set forward, by their removals, from the desert of Sinai,—and then the cloud abode in the desert of Paran. 13 Thus then did they set forward for the first time,—at the bidding of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses. 14 So the standard of the camp of the sons of Judah set forward first, by their hosts, and over his own host was Nahashon, son of Amminadab; 15 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Issachar Nethanel, son of Zuar; 16 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Zebulun Eliah, son of Helon.

17 Then was taken down the habitation,—and the sons of Gerahon and the sons of Merari set forward, bearing the habitation.

18 Then set forward the standard of the camp of Reuben by their hosts,—and over his own host Elizur, son of Shedeur; 19 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Simeon Shelumiel, son of Zurishaddai; 20 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Gad Eliaaph, son of Deuel.

21 Then set forward the Kohathites, bearing the sanctuary,—and so the habitation was reared by the time they came in.

22 Then set forward the standard of the camp of the sons of Ephraim, by their hosts,—and over his own host was Elishama, son of Ammihud; 23 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Maaseeh Gamaliel, son of Pedazur; 24 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin Abidan, son of Gideoni.

25 Then set forward the standard of the camp of the sons of Dan, bringing up the rear of all the camps, by their hosts,—and over his own host Ahiezer, son of Ammishaddai; 26 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Asher Pajiel, son of Ochran; 27 and over the host of the tribe of the sons of Naphtali Ahira, son of Enkan.

These were the settings-forward of the sons of Israel, by their hosts,—thus did they set forward.

29 Then said Moses to Hobab, son of Raguel the Midianite, father-in-law of Moses:

<Setting forward> are we unto the place of which Yahweh hath said,

<The same> will I give unto you,—Oh come with us, and we will do thee good, for Yahweh hath spoken good concerning Israel.

30 And he said unto him, I will not go,—but <unto my own land, and unto my own kindred> will I go.

31 Then said he: I beseech thee, do not forsake us,—for on this account hast thou come to know of our encamping in the desert, so shalt thou be unto us as eyes; 32 and it shall be if thou wilt go with us,—yea it shall be that with the very good wherewith Yahweh shall do us good we will do good unto thee.

33 So then they went forward, from the mountain of Yahweh, a journey of three days,—and the ark of the covenant of Yahweh was going before them, a journey of three days, to search out for them a resting-place. 34 And the cloud of Yahweh was over them by day,—when they set forward out of the camp. 35 And it came to pass when the ark set forward that Moses said:

* Y. R. in some ed.: "Ammi Shaddai" (2 words)—be thus named.

* Well might Mount Sinai be thus named.
Arise, O Yahweh! and scatter 'be thy foes,
Let them that hate thee flee before thee;

But <when it rested> he said,— Return, O Yahweh! unto thy myriads of the thousands of Israel.*

§ 14. The Murmuring of the People occasions the Satisfying (and the Smiting) of the Flesh, and the Wider Gift of the Spirit.

11 And it came to pass, that <when the people giving themselves up to murmuring> it was grievous in the ears b of Yahweh;—so Yahweh hearkened, and kindled was his anger, and the fire of Yahweh burned among them, and consumed the uttermost part of the camp.
2 Then did the people make outcry unto Moses,—and Moses prayed unto Yahweh, and the fire sank down.

Moreover ||the mixed multitude| that was in their midst concealed not their lustings,—and so even the sons of Israel fell away and wept,
and said:

Who will grant us to eat flesh?
We remember the fish that we did eat in Egypt, without money,—the cucumbers, and the water-melons, and the leeks and
the onions, and the garlic.

But <when the people> wept, and the fire of Yahweh burned among them,
3 So he called the name of that place,
Taberah [i.e. “A Burning”]—because there burned among them the fire of Yahweh.

4 Moreover ||the mixed multitude| that was in their midst concealed not their lustings,—and so even the sons of Israel fell away and wept,
and said:

Who will grant us to eat flesh?
We remember the fish that we did eat in Egypt, without money,—the cucumbers, and the water-melons, and the leeks and
the onions, and the garlic.

5 But <when it rested> he said,— Return, O Yahweh! unto thy myriads of the thousands of Israel."

6 §14. The Murmuring of the People occasions the Satisfying (and the Smiting) of the Flesh, and the Wider Gift of the Spirit.

7 Now ||the manna| was like coriander seed, and the appearance thereof like the appearance of bdellium.
8 The people used to go about and pick it up, and grind it with a pair of mill stones, or pound it in a pot, and make it into round cakes,—then was the taste thereof like the taste of a sweet cake made with oil.
9 So then Moses heard the people weeping by their families, every one at the entrance of his tent,—then kindled the anger of Yahweh fiercely, and <in the eyes of Moses> it was grievous.

10 And Moses said unto Yahweh—Wherefore hast thou let thy servant come to grief, and wherefore have I not found favour in thine eyes,—that thou shouldest lay the burden of all this people [upon me]?

12 Did I conceive all this people, or [I] beget them,—that thou shouldest say unto me,
Carry them in thy bosom,
as a nursing father carrieth a suckling, unto the soil which thou didst swear unto their fathers?

13 Whence should [I, have flesh to give to all this people,—for they keep weeping by me, saying,
Oh give us flesh, that we may eat!

14 §14. The Murmuring of the People occasions the Satisfying (and the Smiting) of the Flesh, and the Wider Gift of the Spirit.

15 Then said Yahweh unto Moses—Gather thou unto me seventy men, from among the elders of Israel, of whom thou knowest that they are elders of the people, and their overseers,—then shalt thou take them unto the tent of meeting, and they shall station themselves there, with thee.

16 Then will I come down, and speak with thee there, and will take of the spirit that is upon thee, and put upon them,—and they shall carry, with thee, the burden of the people, and thou shalt not carry it by thyself.

17 And <unto the people> shalt thou say:
Hallow yourselves by to-morrow, and ye shall eat flesh, for ye have wept in the ears of Yahweh, saying—
Who will grant us to eat flesh? for it was well with us in Egypt,— so then Yahweh will give you flesh, and ye shall eat.

18 <Not one day> shall ye eat, nor two days,—nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days: for a month of days, until it cometh forth out of your nostrils, so shall it become to you a loathsome thing,— because ye have refused Yahweh who is in your midst, and have wept before him,
saying,
Wherefore now, came we forth out of Egypt?

*Lit.: “him”—which,

21 And Moses said, <Six hundred thousand footmen> are the people in whose midst am I: yet thou hast said—

"Flesh" will I give unto them, and they shall eat for a month of days.

22 Shall <the flocks and herds> be slaughtered for them, that it may suffice for them? Shall <all the fishes of the sea> be gathered together unto them, that it may suffice for them?

23 Then said Yahweh unto Moses, Shall <the hand of Yahweh> fail? Now shalt thou see whether my word come to pass unto thee, or not.

24 And Moses went forth, and spake unto the people the words of Yahweh, and gathered together seventy men from among the elders of the people, and caused them to stand, round about the tent. Then Yahweh <came down> in the cloud, and spake unto him, and took <of the spirit that was upon him>, and gave unto the seventy men—the elders. And it came to pass, that <when the spirit rested upon them> they prophesied, and then did so no more. Now there were two men left behind in the camp—the name of the one was Eldad, and <the name of the other> Medad, so then the spirit <rested on them>—<they being among them> who were written, <though they had not gone forth unto the tent>,—but they prophesied in the camp. And there ran a young man, and told Moses, and said,—

Eldad and Medad <are prophesying in the camp!>

26 Then responded Joshua, son of Nun, the attendant of Moses from his youth, and said,—

My lord Moses, forbid them!

27 But Moses said unto him, Art thou jealous for me? Oh would that all the people of Yahweh were prophets! Yes, let Yahweh put his spirit upon them!

28 Then was Moses received back into the camp,—he, and the elders of Israel.

29 Now  had sprung up from Yahweh, and cut off quails from the sea, and let them lie round about the camp,—as it were a day's journey there, round about the camp,—<as it were two cubits> on the face of the land.

30 Then was Moses received back into the camp, —and as it were a day's journey here, and lo! . . . leprous! Then said Aaron unto Moses,—

Oh my lord, do not, I beseech thee, lay upon us sin, although we have made ourselves foolish, and although we have sinned.

31 Let her not, I beseech thee, remain like the still-born,—which <when it is born of its mother> has consumed the half of its flesh.

§ 15. Miriam and Aaron jealous of Moses.

1 And Miriam and Aaron spake against Moses, on account of the Cushite woman whom he had taken,—for  had he taken.

2 And they said:

Is it <only' and solely' with Moses> that Yahweh hath spoken?

<With us also> hath he not spoken?

And Yahweh heard it.

Now the man Moses was patient, exceedingly, above all the sons of earth, who were on the face of the ground.

4 Then said Yahweh, suddenly, unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out, ye three, unto the tent of meeting. And they three went out. Then Yahweh came down, in a pillar of cloud, and stood at the entrance of the tent,—and called Aaron and Miriam, and they both went forth. Then said he,

Hear, I beseech you, my words.

When ye have your prophet—

<As Yahweh, in a vision> will I make myself known unto him;

<In a dream> will I speak with him.

<Not so> my servant Moses, —

<In all my house> is he:

<Mouth to mouth> do I speak with him.

<Whon ye have your prophet> do I speak with him.

And plainly—not in dark sayings.

<In a dream> will I make myself known unto him;

And there ran a young man, and told Moses, and said,—

Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp!

28 Then responded Joshua, son of Nun, the attendant of Moses from his youth, and said,—

My lord Moses, forbid them!

27 But Moses said unto him, Art thou jealous for me? Oh would that all the people of Yahweh were prophets! Yes, let Yahweh put his spirit upon them!

Or: "a prophet among you."

Adopting this conjecture, we shall render: "Should there be <or rise> a prophet among you.

Yet even this must be understood so as not to contradict Ex. xxxiii.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

O God, I beseech thee, grant healing, I beseech thee, unto her.*

And Yahweh said unto Moses:

<If her own father had but spat in her face> would she not have acknowledged the shame for seven days?

Let her shut herself up for seven days, outside the camp, and <afterwards> let her be received back.

So Miriam shut herself up, outside the camp, for seven days,—and [the people] set not forward, until Miriam had been received back. Then <afterwards> did the people set forward from Hazereth, and encamped in the desert of Paran.

So Moses made outcry unto Yahweh. say

* Send for thee men, and let them spy out the land of Canaan,—and said unto them—

Go up, here, in the South,

Yea ye shall go up the mountain;

And shall see the land, what it is,—

And the people that dwell thereupon. Whether they are [strong] or [weak],

Whether they are [few] or [many];

And what is the land, wherein they dwell,

Whether it is [good] or [bad],—

And the cities within which they dwell,

Whether in camps, or in strongholds;

And what the land is,

Whether [fat] or [lean],

Whether there is timber therein, or is not'.

Then shall ye pluck up courage, and take of the fruit of the land.

Now the days were the days of the first-fruits of grapes.

So they went up, and spied out the land,—from the wilderness of Zin unto Rehob, at the entering in of Hamath.

Yea they went up in the South, and entered* as far as Hebron, and <there> were Ahiman, Sheshai and Talmai, descendants of the Anak. Now Hebron was built [seven years] before Zoan of Egypt. And they entered as far as the ravine of Eschol, and cut down from thence, a branch with one cluster of grapes, and bare it on a pole, between two,—also of the pomegranates and of the figs.

That place was called, The Ravine of Eschol [= "Cluster-ravine"]—on account of the cluster, which was cut down from thence by the sons of Israel. And they returned from spying out the land,—at the end of forty days. So they took their journey, and came in unto Moses and unto Aaron, and unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, into the wilderness of Paran, towards Kadesh,—and brought back word—unto them, and unto all the assembly, and showed them the fruit of the land. And they recounted unto him, and said,

We entered into the land whither thou didst send us,—and surely it doth* flow with milk and honey, and [this] is the fruit thereof. Nevertheless surely <mighty> are the people that dwell in the land,—and [the cities] walled in, exceeding great, moreover also, <the descendants of the Anak> saw we there.

||Amalek| dwelleth in the land of the South;

as the dead-born child, which when proceeding from our mother's [istema] womb the half of our flesh (b'far'Eu) is consumed. This was regarded as derogatory to the mother of the great lawgiver by depicting her as having given birth to a partially decomposed body. The simile was therefore altered from the first person plural into the impersonal "—";—Ginsburg's Intro., pp. 393-394.

30 And Caleb stillled the people unto Moses—and said unto them—

Let us go straight up and possess it, for we shall surely prevail against it.

31 But the men who went up with him said—

We cannot go up against the people, for they are stronger than we.

35 So they sent for a rumour of the land which they had spied out, among the sons of Israel, saying—

As touching the land through which we passed to spy it out, it is a land that eateth up them that dwell therein. And all the people that we saw in the midst thereof were men of great stature.

And there saw we the giants, sons of Anak, [descended of the giants;—] and we were as in our own eyes as grasshoppers, and as in their eyes.

1 Thendidall the assembly lift up and give forth their voice,—and the people wept throughout that night.

And all the sons of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron,—and all the assembly said unto them—

Oh that we had died in the land of Egypt! Or in this wilderness! oh that we had died! Wherefore then, is Yahweh bringing us into this land, to fall by the sword? Our wives and little ones will become a prey!

Would it not be well for us to go back towards Egypt?

And they said, one to another,—

Let us appoint a head, and let us go back towards Egypt.

Then did Moses and Aaron fall upon their faces,—before all the convocation of the assembly of the sons of Israel.

But Joshua son of Nun, and Caleb son of Jephunneh, of them who spied out the land; rent their clothes; and spake unto all the assembly of the sons of Israel, saying—

As for the land through which we passed to spy it out—

Is the land, exceedingly evil.

If Yahweh delight in us then will he bring us into this land, and give it unto us,—A land which doth flow with milk and honey.

Only against Yahweh do not rebel. Do not ye fear the people of the land, For our food they are,—Their shade hath departed from over them.

And Yahweh is with us. Do not fear them!

But when all the assembly bade stone them, with stones. the glory of Yahweh appeared, in the tent of meeting, unto all the sons of Israel.

Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

How long must this people despise me? And how long shall they not believe in me, in view of all the signs which I have done in their midst?

Let me smite them with pestilence, and disinherit them,—And make thee into a nation greater and more mighty than they!

Then said Moses unto Yahweh,—

So shall the Egyptians hear. For thou hast brought up, in thy might, this people, out of their midst;

And will tell it unto the inhabitants of this land:

They have heard That thou, Yahweh, art in the midst of this people,—That ye to eye is he seen—thou, Yahweh. And thy cloud is standing over them, And in pillar of cloud thyself art going on before them by day, And in a pillar of fire by night.

As soon, therefore, as thou hast put to death this people, as one man; so soon will the nations who have heard thy fame speak, saying:

Because Yahweh was not able to bring in this people into the land which he had sworn unto them therefore did he slay them in the desert.

Now therefore, I beseech thee, let the might of My Lord be magnified,—according as thou didst speak, saying:

Yahweh—slow to anger and great in loving-kindness,

Forgiving iniquity and transgression:

Though he will not leave wholly unpunished;

Visiting the iniquity of fathers upon sons, Upon a third generation, and upon a fourth.

Pardon, I beseech thee, the iniquity of this people,

According to the greatness of thy loving-kindness,—And according as thou hast forgiven this people, from Egypt, even thus far.

And Yahweh said,

I have pardoned, according to thy word;

Here again Moses appears as the bold and prevailing intercessor. Cp. Exo. xxxii. 11-14.

See note on Exo. xxxiv. 7.
Nevertheless <as I live,—and that all the earth may be filled with the glory of Yahweh>

Verily, <none of the men who have been beholding my glory and my signs, which I have done in Egypt, and in the desert,—and have put me to the proof these ten times, and have not hearkened unto my voice>; shall see the land, which I sware to their fathers,—yee, <none of my despisers shall see it.>

But <my servant Caleb>— <because there was another spirit with him, and he followed me fully,—therefore will I bring him into the land whereunto he entered, and <his seed shall possess it.>

Now <the Amalekites and the Canaanites are dwelling in the valley,—<to-morrow> turn ye away; and set yourselves forward towards the desert, by the way of the Red Sea.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

How long, <as regards this evil assembly> are <they> to be murmuring against me? <The murmuring of the sons of Israel, which ye have been murmuring against me> have I heard. <Say unto them:>

<As I live> is the oracle of Yahweh: Surely <as ye have spoken in mine ears> will I do unto you:

<In this desert> shall your dead bodies fall.

And <none of you who were numbered, in all your counting, from twenty years old and upwards,—who have murmured against me> shall enter into the land, as to which I uplifted my hand, to give you an abode therein,—save Caleb son of Jephunneh, and Joshua son of Nun; whereas <your little ones, of whom ye said, they should become prey> I will bring them in, and they shall acknowledge the land which ye refused.

But <your own dead bodies shall fall in this desert;> and <your sons shall be shepherds in the desert forty years, and shall bear your unchastities,—until your dead bodies are consumed in the desert.>

By the number of the days, wherein ye spied out the land,—<forty days> <each day for a year> shall they bear your iniquities—<forty years>,—so shall ye know my opposition.

Yahweh have spoken, Verily <this> will I do to all this evil assembly, who have conspired against me,— <In this desert> shall they be consumed And <there> shall they die.

Now <as for the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land,—who returned and caused all the assembly to murmur against him, by giving out a rumour against the land> they died—the men who gave out an evil rumour of the land,—<by the plague, before Yahweh.>

But <Joshua son of Nun, and Caleb son of Jephunneh remained alive—of those men who went to spy out the land.>

And Moses spake these words unto all the sons of Israel,—and the people were greatly depressed. <So they arose early in the morning, and went up into the top of the mountain, saying,—>

We are here— therefore will we go up into the place as to which Yahweh hath said, that we have sinned.

But Moses said, Wherefore is it that <ye> are going beyond the bidding of Yahweh,—since <that> cannot prosper?

Do not go up,

For Yahweh is not in your midst,—Lost ye be smitten down before your enemies.

For <the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, So shall ye fall by the sword,—For <inasmuch as ye have turned back from following Yahweh> Therefore will Yahweh not be with you.

But they presumptuously ascended into the top of the mountain,—though neither the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, nor Moses moved out of the midst of the camp. <So then the Amalekites and the Canaanites, that dwelt in that mountain, came down,—and smote them and routed them, even unto Hormah.>

§ 17. Legislation again.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—<When ye shall enter into the land of your dwelling-places, which I am giving unto you;> and ye would offer as an altar-flame unto Yahweh, an ascending-offering or a sacrifice, d for celebrating a vow or as a freewill-offering, or in your appointed seasons,—by way of offering a satisfying
And when ye shall make a mistake, and not observe all these commandments, which Yahweh hath spoken unto Moses; even all that Yahweh hath given unto you in command, by the hand of Moses, from the day that Yahweh gave command, and onward, unto your generations. Then shall it be— if from the eyes of the assembly it hath been done [by mistake] that all the assembly shall offer one choice young bullock for an ascending-sacrifice, as a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, with the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof, according to the regulation, and one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer.

And if any one person shall sin by mistake then shall he bring near a she-goat of the first year, as a sin-bearer; and the priest shall put a propitiatory-covering over the person who hath made the mistake, when he hath sinned by mistake before Yahweh, even put a propitiatory-covering over him, and pardon shall be granted unto him. But as for the person who acteth with a high hand—of the native born or of the sojourners—Yahweh himself shall he broken that person shall be surely cut off, his iniquity is in himself.

<While the sons of Israel were in the desert> they found a man gathering sticks on the sabbath day. And they who found him gathering sticks brought him near unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto all the assembly. And they put him in ward, because it was not clear what they should do unto him. Then said Yahweh unto Moses, The man shall be cut off out of the midst of his people.

So then all the assembly put him forth outside the camp, and stoned him with stones, and he died,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,

That they shall make them fringes on the corners of their garments, unto their generations — and shall put upon the fringe of the corner, a cord of blue: so shall they serve you as fringes, and when ye see then, then shall ye call to mind all the commandments of Yahweh, and shall do them,—and shall not spy out, after your own hearts, and after your own eyes, for things, after which ye are ready to go unchastely away: to the intent ye may call to mind, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God.

I Yahweh am your God — who brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to become your God,— § 18. The Conspiracy against Moses under Korah, Dathan and Abiram.

Then took Korah, son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi,—and Dathan and Abiram, sons of Eliab, and On, son of Peleth, sons of Reuben; and rose up before Moses, with certain men of the sons of Israel, two hundred and fifty,—princes of assembly, called to the stated meeting, men of renown; and gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron, and said unto them,

Too much for you when all the assembly are holy, and in the midst of them is Yahweh,—Wherefore, then, should ye set yourselves up, above the convocation of Yahweh?

And Moses heard it, he fell upon his face.

Then spake he unto Korah, and unto all his assembly, saying,

In the morning will Yahweh make known who is his, and who is the holy one, and will cause him to come near unto himself,—yes, him whom he shall choose, will he cause to come near unto himself.

This do,—Take to you censers, Korah, and all his assembly; and place therein fire, and put thereon incense, before Yahweh, to morrow.

So shall it be—that the man whom Yahweh shall choose shall be the holy one. Too much for you, ye sons of Levi!

And Moses said unto Korah,—

Hear, I pray you, ye sons of Levi! Is it too small a thing for you, that the God of Israel hath separated you from the assembly of Israel, to bring you near unto himself,—to do the laborious work of the habitation of Yahweh, and to stand before the assembly, to wait upon them? But having brought thee near, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee> must ye seek priesthood also?

Wherefore thou and all the assembly are conspiring against Yahweh,—But Aaron> what is he, that ye should murmur against him?

Then sent Moses, to call for Dathan and for Abiram, sons of Eliab,—and they said,

We will not come up:

Was it a small thing that thou didst bring us up out of a land flowing with milk and honey, to put us to death in the desert, but thou must continue even to lord it over us?

Certainly not into a land flowing with milk and honey hast thou brought us, nor given unto us an inheritance of field and vineyard,—<The eyes of those men> wilt thou dig out?

We will not come up.

Then was Moses very angry, and he said unto Yahweh,

Do not thou have respect unto their meal-offering.

Not one ass, from them have I taken.

And Moses said unto Korah,

Thou, and all thine assembly come ye before Yahweh, — thou, and they, and Aaron to-morrow.

So they took each man his censer, and put thereon incense, then shall ye bring near before Yahweh, each man his censer, two hundred and fifty censers,—and thou and Aaron each man his censer.

So they took each man his censer, and put thereon fire, and placed thereon incense,—and took their stand at the entrance of the tent of meeting with Moses and Aaron. And Korah gathered together against them all the assembly, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting,—then appeared the glory of Yahweh, unto all the assembly.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:

Separate yourselves out of the midst of this assembly,—that I may consume them in a moment.

And they fell upon their faces, and said,

O God, the God of the spirits of all flesh,— shall one man sin, and against all the assembly wilt thou be wroth?
22 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying,
23 Speak unto the assembly, saying,—
Get ye up round about the habitation of Korah, Dathan and Abiram.
24 So Moses rose up, and went, unto Dathan and Abiram,—then went, after him, the elders of Israel.
25 And he spake unto the assembly, saying—
Remove, I pray you, from beside the tents of these lawless men, and do not touch aught that pertaineth unto them,— lest ye be carried off in all their sins.
26 So they went up from beside the habitation of Korah, Dathan and Abiram, one every side,—and Dathan and Abiram, came out and stationed themselves, at the entrance of their tents, with their wives and their sons, and their little ones.
27 Then said Moses, <Hereby shall ye know, that Yahweh hath sent me, to do all these works,—verily, not out of my own heart:—
28 But if as all human beings die these do die, and the visitation of all human beings be visited upon them> Yahweh hath not sent me.
29 Then said Moses, <If all human beings die> the-se do die, and the visitation of all human beings be visited upon them> Yahweh hath not sent me.
30 And it came to pass, <as he made an end of speaking all these words> that the ground which was under them clave asunder;
31 And the earth opened wide her mouth, and swallowed them up, with all that pertain unto them, and so they went down, alive, unto hades> then shall ye know, that these men have despised Yahweh.
32 And <as he made an end of speaking all these words> that the ground which was under them clave asunder;
33 And the earth opened wide her mouth, and swallowed them up, with all that pertain unto them, and so they went down, alive, unto hades,—and the earth closed upon them, and they perished out of the midst of the congregation.
34 And all Israel who were round about them fled at their cry,—for they said, Lest the earth swallow us up.
35 <Fire also> came forth, from Yahweh,—and consumed the two hundred and fifty men, who offered the incense.
36 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:
37 Say unto Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, that he take up the censers out of the midst of the burning, and <the fire> scatter thou yonder,—for they have been hallowed.
38 <As for the censers of these sinners against their own persons> they shall be made into beaten-out plates, as an overlay for the altar, for they had brought them near before Yahweh, and hallowed them,—so shall they become a sign, unto the sons of Israel.
39 And Eleazar the priest took the censers of bronze, which the consumed men had brought near,—and beat them out into plates for overlaying the altar: <a memorial unto the sons of Israel.
40 That no stranger, who is not of the seed of Aaron, shall draw near to offer incense before Yahweh,—lest he become like Korah and like his assembly,
As spake Yahweh by the hand of Moses, with regard thereto.
41 And all the assembly of the sons of Israel murmured, on the morrow, against Moses and against Aaron, saying,— Ye have caused the death of the people of Yahweh.
42 And it came to pass, <when the assembly gathered themselves together* against Moses and against Aaron> that they turned towards the tent of meeting, and lo! the cloud had covered it; and the glory of Yahweh appeared.
43 And Moses and Aaron came in, before the tent of meeting.
44 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:
45 Lift yourselves up out of the midst of this assembly, that I may consume them, as in a moment,—
And they fell upon their faces.
46 Then said Moses unto Aaron—
47 Take the censer and place thereon fire, from off the altar, and put incense [thereon], and, going quickly into the assembly, put a propitiatory-covering over them,—for wrath hath gone forth from before Yahweh, the plague hath begun.
48 Then took Aaron, as Moses spake, and ran into the midst of the convocation, and lo! the plague had begun among the people,—so he placed the incense, and put a propitiatory-covering over the people:
49 And thus did he take his stand between the dead and the living,—and the plague was restrained.
50 And so it was, that they who died in the plague were fourteen thousand, and seven hundred,—besides them who died over the matter of Korah.
51 And Aaron returned unto Moses, unto the entrance of the tent of meeting,—when the plague had been restrained.

§ 19. Aaron's Budding Staff.
1 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:
2 Speak unto the sons of Israel, and take of them, one staff each for an ancestral house, of all their princes, by their ancestral houses, twelve staves,—each man's name shalt thou write upon his staff;
3 And <Aaron's name> shalt thou write upon the staff of Levi,—for <one staff>

* Or: "were had been called together."
that shall there be for the head of their ancestral house. 4 Then shalt thou lay them up in the tent of meeting,—before the testimony, where I meet with you. 5 So shall it come to pass, that <the man whom I shall choose> his staff, shall bud,—so will I cause to cease from against me the murmurings of the sons of Israel, wherewith they are murmuring against you'.

6 And Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, and every one of their princes gave unto him a staff apiece, for each prince by their ancestral houses, twelve staves—and the staff of Aaron was in the midst of their staves. 7 So Moses laid up the staves before Yahweh,—in the tent of the testimony.

8 And it came to pass [on the morrow], that Moses entered into the tent of the testimony; and lo! the staff of Aaron for the house of Levi [had budded],—yea it had brought forth buds, and bloomed blossoms, and borne ripe almonds. 9 So then Moses brought forth all the staves, from before Yahweh, unto all the sons of Israel,—and they saw and took, each man his own staff.

10 And Yahweh said unto Moses—

Put back the rod of Aaron, before the testimony, to be kept as a sign unto such as are perverse,—that thou mayest bring to an end their murmurings against me, that they die not.

11 Thus did Moses,—as Yahweh commanded him. 12 Then spake the sons of Israel unto Moses, saying:—

Lo! we have breathed our last—we are lost. we are all lost: 13 [whosoever draweth near—draweth near—unto the habitation of Yahweh] dieth,—are we ever to have made an end of breathing our last?

§20. Provision for Priests and Levites.

18 1 And Yahweh said unto Aaron, 2 [Thou, and thy sons, and the house of thy father with thee] shall bear the iniquity of the sanctuary,—and [thou, and thy sons with thee] shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood. 3 Therefore also <thy brethren of the tribe of Levi, the stem of thy father> bring thou near with thee, and let them be joined unto thee, and let them wait upon thee,—both on thee and on thy sons with thee,—before the tent of the testimony, 4 So shall they keep thy charges, and the charge of all the tent,— only' <unto the vessels of the sanctuary, and unto the altar> shall they not come near, lest they die,—[both they, and ye].

So shall they be joined unto thee, and shall keep the charge of the tent of meeting, as to all the laborious work of the tent,—but [as a stranger] shall not come near unto you. 5 So shall ye keep the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar,—that there no more' be wrath against the sons of Israel.

6 Wherefore, lo! I have taken your brethren the Levites, out of the midst of the sons of Israel,—unto you> as a gift' are they given unto Yahweh, to do the laborious work of the tent of meeting. 7 But [thou and thy sons with thee] shall keep the charge of your priesthood, as to every matter of the altar, and as to the interior of the veil, and shall do the laborious work,—as a laborious service of gifts> do I give your priesthood, and [the stranger who cometh near] shall be put to death.

8 And Yahweh spake unto Aaron,—

I, therefore, lo! I have given unto thee the charge of my heave-offerings,—as to all the hallowed things of the sons of Israel—unto thee> have I given them, as pertaining to the anointing, and unto thy sons, for a statute age-abiding. 9 [This] shall be thine, out of the things most holy, out of the fire,—their every oblation,—to the extent of their every meal-offering, and their every sin-bearer, and their every guilt-bearer wherewith they make amends unto me, [untold holy unto thee] shall it be, and unto thy sons. 10 [As something most holy> shall ye eat it,—[every male] shall eat it, [holy] shall it be unto thee. [This], therefore shall be thine—the heave-offering of their gift, even all the wave-offerings of the sons of Israel, <unto thee> have I given them, and unto thy sons and unto thy daughters with thee, by a statute age-abiding,—every one that is clean in thy house shall eat it. 11 <All the best of oil, and all the best of new-wine and corn,—the firstfruits thereof, which they shall give unto Yahweh> unto thee> have I given them. 12 <The firstfruits of all that is in their land, which they shall bring in unto Yahweh> <thine> shall it be,—[every one that is clean in thy house] shall eat it: 13 <every devoted thing in Israel> <thine> shall it be: 14 <every thing that is born first>—of all flesh that may be offered unto Yahweh, among men and among beasts> shall be thine,—only' thou shalt redeem the firstborn of men, and <the firstborn of unclean beasts> shalt thou redeem. 15 And <as to the redemption price thereof> <from a month old> shalt thou redeem, by thine estimate, five shekels of silver, by and give therefrom the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Aaron, the priest. 9 Out of all your gifts shall ye offer up every heave-offering of Yahweh, out of all the best thereof, the hallowed part thereof, out of it.

And thou shalt say unto them,—
When ye offer the best thereof, out of it—then shall it be reckoned to belong unto the Levites, as the increase of the threshing-floor, and as the increase of the wine-press. 10 And ye shall eat it in any place, ye, and your households, and the Levite, with whom ye are the priest; and it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, from the houses of Israel: for ye are hallowed before Yahweh; and ye shall therefore consecrate yourselves, and ye shall be holy: for I am Yahweh your God.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying:
2 This is the statute of the law, which Yahweh hath commanded, saying,—

Speak unto the sons of Israel,—That they bring unto thee a red heifer, without defect, wherein is no blemish, and wherein upon hath come no yoke. 3 Then shall ye give her unto Eleazar the priest, and he shall take her forth unto the outside of the camp, and she shall be slain, before him; 4 and Eleazar the priest shall take of her blood, with his finger, and shall sprinkle, toward the tent of meeting, of her blood, seven times; and the heifer shall be burned up before his eyes: 5 the skin, and her flesh, and her blood, with her dung, I shall be burned up. 6 Then shall the priest take cedar-wood, and hyssop, and crimson, and cast into them the midst of the burning up of the heifer.

And the priest shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterwards come into the camp,—but the priest shall be unclean until the evening. 8 And he that burneth her shall wash his clothes in water, and bathe his flesh in water,—and be unclean until the evening. 9 Then shall a man that is clean gather up the ashes of the heifer, and put them by, outside the camp, in a clean place,—so shall they tie for the assembly of the sons of Israel, to keep for water of separation, it is a taking away of sin.

shall be that gathered up the ashes wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening;—so shall it be for the sons of Israel, and for the sojourner that sojourneth in your midst, by a statute age-abiding.

11 <He that toucheth the dead, even any human person> shall be unclean seven days. 12 <If he cleaneth himself from sin therewith, on the third day, then> on the seventh day shall he be clean, but <if he cleaneth not himself from sin on the third day, then> on the seventh day shall he be not clean. 13 <Whosoever toucheth the dead, the person of the human being that dieth, and doth not cleanneth himself from sin> <the habitation of Yahweh> hath he made unclean; that person, therefore, shall be cut out of Israel,—<because the water of separation was not dashed upon him> <unclean> shall he be, his uncleanness is yet upon him. 14 <This is the law—When a human being shall die in a tent> every one who goeth into the tent, and every one who is in the tent shall be unclean seven days. And <in the case of every open vessel, on which no cover is fastened> <unclean> it is. 15 And <whosoever toucheth, on the face of the field, one slain with a sword, or one who hath died, or a human bone, or a grave> shall be unclean, seven days. And they shall take, for him that is unclean, of the ashes of the burning of the sin-bearer,—and living water shall be put thereon, in a vessel. 16 Then shall a man that is clean take hyssop, and dip in the water, and sprinkle upon the tent, and upon all the vessels, and upon the persons who were there;—and upon him that touched the bone, or him who had been slain, or him who had died of himself, or the grave; 17 and the clean person shall sprinkle upon the unclean, on the third day, and on the seventh day,—so shall he cleanse himself from sin, on the seventh day, and shall wash his clothes, and bathe in water, and be clean in the evening. 18 But <in the case of the man who shall be unclean and shall not cleanse himself from sin, that person shall be cut off>, out of the midst of the convocation, — for <the sanctuary of Yahweh> hath he made unclean: <the water of separation> hath not been dashed upon him, <unclean> he is. So shall it be unto them for a statute age-abiding,—and <the staff that sprinkled the water of separation> shall wash his clothes, and <he that toucheth the water of separation> shall be unclean until the evening; 22 and <whosoever the unclean person toucheth> shall be unclean,—and <the person who toucheth it> shall be unclean until the evening.

§ 22. The Waters of Meribah (= "Contention").

1 Then came the sons of Israel, the whole assembly, into the desert of Zin, in the first month, and the people dwelt in Kadesh,—and Miriam died there, and was buried there.

2 And there was no water for the assembly,—so they gathered together against Moses, and against Aaron. 3 And the people contended with Moses,—and spake, saying, Would then we had died when our brethren died, before Yahweh! 4 Wherefore then, hast thou brought the convocation of Yahweh into this desert,—to die there, [we and our cattle]? 5 And wherefore did ye cause us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us into this wretched place,—not a place of seeds, and figs, and vines, and pomegranates! <even water> is there none to drink.

6 And Moses and Aaron went in, from the presence of the multitude unto the entrance of the tent of meeting, and fell upon their faces,—and the glory of Yahweh appeared unto them. 7 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: 8 Take the staff, and gather together the assembly, thou, and Aaron thy brother, then shall ye speak unto the cliff, before their eyes, and it shall give forth its waters,—so shall thou bring forth unto them water, out of the cliff, and shalt cause the assembly, and their cattle, to drink.

9 And Moses took the staff, from before Yahweh,—as he commanded him. 10 And Moses and Aaron gathered together the convocation before Yahweh,—as he commanded him. 11 And Moses and Aaron gathered together the convocation, before the cliff,—and he said unto them: Hear, I pray you, ye rebels! <Out of this cliff> must we bring forth for you, water! 12 Then said Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, <Because ye believed not in me, to hallow me in the eyes of the sons of Israel> <the same> shall ye not bring in this convocation into the land which I have given unto them. 13 <The same> were the waters of Meribah [that is "Contention"] in that the sons of Israel contended with Yahweh,—and so he hallowed himself among them.

§ 23. Edom refuses Israel a Passage.

14 And Moses sent messengers from Kadesh, unto the king of Edom,—

"Thou sayest right: we know all the distress which befell us; and how our fathers went down to Egypt, and we abode in Egypt many days,—and that the Egyptians ill-treated us, and our fathers; and we made outcry unto Yahweh, and he heard our voice, and sent a messenger, and brought us forth out of Egypt,—lo! then, are we in Kadesh, a city at the extremity of thy boundary.

17 Let us, we pray thee, pass through thy land— we will not pass through field or vineyard, nor will we drink the waters of a well,—by the king's road will we go— we will turn neither to the right hand nor to the left, until we get through thy boundary.

18 And Edom said unto him, Thou shalt not pass through our land,— lest we come out to meet thee.

19 And the sons of Israel said unto him— <By the highway> will we go up, and <if thou wilt give us water> then would I give the price thereof,— only I will pass through.

20 And he said, Thou shalt not pass through.

And Edom came out to meet him, with a strong people, and with a firm hand. Thus did Edom refuse to give Israel passage through his boundary,— and Israel turned away from him.

§ 24. The Death of Aaron on Mount Hor.

21 Then set they forward from Kadesh,— and the sons of Israel, all the assembly, came into Mount Hor. Then spake Yahweh unto Moses and unto Aaron, in Mount Hor,— near the boundary of the land of Edom, saying:

24 Aaron shall be withdrawn unto his kinsfolk, for he shall not enter into the land, which I have given unto the sons of Israel, because ye spurned my bidding, at the waters of Meribah.

25 Take thou Aaron, and Eleazar his son,— and bring them up Mount Hor: and strip thou Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son,— and Aaron shall be withdrawn, and shall die there.

27 And Moses did as Yahweh commanded,— and they went up into Mount Hor, in sight of all the assembly. And Moses stripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son, and Aaron died there, in the top of the mount,— and Moses and Eleazar came down out of the mount.

is in the desert, that cometh forth out of the boundary of the Amorites,—for ||Arnon is the boundary of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites. 14 For this cause is it said, in the Book of the Wars of Yahweh,— Wahheb* with a hurricane,

And the ravines of Arnon;

And the bottom of the ravines, that extendeth toward the dwelling of Ar,—

And adjoining to the boundary of Moab,

And <from thence> towards Beer,— ||the same|| is the well, whereof Yahweh said unto Moses,

Gather together the people, that I may give them water.

Then sang Israel this song,—

Spring thou up. O well!

Respond ye thereunto;

A well!—princes digged it,

||Nobles of the people|| delved it,

With a sceptre,

With their staves.

And <from the desert> to Mattanah; 18 and <from Mattanah> to Nahaliel; and <from Nahaliel> to Bamoth; and <from Bamoth of the valley, which is in the field-country of Moab> to the top of Pisgah,—which overlooketh Jeshimon. 19 Then sent Israel, messengers, unto Sihon king of the Amorites, saying:

Let me pass through thy land—we will not turn aside into field or into vineyard, nor will we drink the water of a well,— <by the king's road> will we go, until we get through thy boundary.

And Sihon suffered not Israel to pass through his boundary, but Sihon gathered together all his people, and came forth to meet Israel, towards the desert, and entered Jahaz,— and fought with Israel. 24 And Israel smote him with the edge of the sword,— and took possession of his land from Amon unto Jabbok, unto the sons of Amon, for'stronglwasthe boundary of the sons of Ammon. 25 So Israel took all these cities,—and Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon, and in all her villages; 26 for ||as for Heshbon|| <the city of Sihon king of the Amorites> it was,— ||he|| having fought with the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, unto Arnon. 27 <For this cause> say the poets—

Enter ye Heshbon,—

Built and prepared be the city of Sihon;

And the men even unto Medeba.

28 And Balak son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done unto the Amorites; 2 and Moab was afraid with great fear from the presence of the people, because <many> they were,—and Moab was alarmed at the presence' of the sons of Israel.

So Moab said unto the elders of Midian—

||Now ||shall the gathered host* lick up all that are round about us, as the ox doth lick up the verdure of the field.

But ||Balak son of Zippor|| was king unto Moab at that time. 4 So he sent messengers unto Balaam son of Beor, to Pethor, which was by the river of the land of the sons of his people, to call him,—saying—

Lo ! ||a people|| hath come forth out of Egypt Lo! he hath covered the eye of the land,

Yea ||he|| is tarrying over against me.

6 ||Now|| therefore, do come, I pray thee, curse me this people,

For <stronger> he is than I,'
And God came in unto Balaam, by night, and said unto him,—

Then said Balaam unto God, —

A up.v.r.(tevir)(w.mont

Now therefore abide here, I pray you, even here in the night, and I will come and get thee word, as Yahweh shall speak unto me.

So the princes of Moab abode with Balaam, — and God came in unto Balaam,— and said,

Who are these men, with thee?

Then said Balaam unto God,—

Balak, son of Zippor, king of Moab hath sent unto me:

Lo! the people that hath come forth out of Egypt—be soveth the eye of the land. ||Now|| do come, do revile me, Peradventure I shall prevail in making war with him, — And shall drive him out. ||But only|| <the thing that I shall speak unto thee> ||that|| shalt thou do.

So Balaam arose in the morning, and saddled his ass, — and went with the princes of Moab.

Then kindled the anger of God, because he was going, and the messenger of Yahweh stationed himself in the way, to withstand him, — as he was riding upon his ass, his two young men being with him. ||And the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh, stationed in the road, with his drawn sword in his hand, so the ass turned aside out of the road, and went into the field,— and Balaam smote the ass, to make her turn back into the road. ||But the messenger of Yahweh took his stand, in a hollow pass of the vineyards,— with a fence on this side, and a fence on that side. ||And <when the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh> she squeezed herself against the wall, and squeezed the foot of Balaam, against the wall,— and again she smote her. ||And the messenger of Yahweh went on further, and took his stand in a narrow place, where there was no way to turn, to the right hand or to the left. ||And <when the ass saw the messenger of Yahweh> she sank down under Balaam,— then was Balaam's anger kindled, and he smote the ass with the staff. ||And Yahweh opened the mouth of the ass,— and she said unto Balaam— What have I done to thee, that thou hast smitten me, these three times?

And Balaam said unto the ass, Surely thou hast been making sport of me, — Would there had been a sword in my hand, for now would I have slain thee.

Then said the ass unto Balaam, — Am not I thine own ass, on which thou hast ridden all thy life, until this day * Have I been wont || to do unto thee | thus? || I have been won't || to do unto thee | thus? || And he said, Nay! || If peradventure I prevail > we shall smite him,

That I may drive him out of the land,—

For I know that || he whom thou dost bless || is to be blessed,

And || he whom thou dost curse || is to be cursed.

And the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian, went their way, with the rewards of divination in their hand,— so they came in unto Balaam, and spake unto him the words of Balak. ||Thus|| said Balak son of Zippor,

Do not be withheld, I pray thee, from coming unto me:

For ||blessed > he is' ||<If peradventure I prevail > we shall smite him,

That I may drive him out of the land,—

For < blessed > he is', —

Or: "was really going." The emphasis here (strangely overlooked by both A.V. and R.V.) is significant. It seems to suggest that the command of ver. 20 scarcely even amounted to a permission, but was rather a piece of irony. ||<If peradventure I prevail > we shall smite him,

That I may drive him out of the land,—

For I know that || he whom thou dost bless || is to be blessed,

And || he whom thou dost curse || is to be cursed.

And God came in unto Balaam, by night, and said unto him—

Hath he said, and will not perform?

§ 31. Israel and the Daughters of Moab: Phinehas jealous for his God.

25 1 And Israel remained among the acacias, b—and the people began to go away unchastely unto the daughters of Moab; 2 who invited the people unto the sacrifices of their gods,—so the people did eat, and did bow themselves down unto their gods. 3 Thus Israel let himself be bound unto Baal-peor, a—and the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel. 4 And Yahweh said unto Moses—

Take all the heads of the people, and crucify them unto Yahweh, in the face of the sun,—that the heat of the anger of Yahweh may turn away' from Israel.

5 And Moses said unto the judges of Israel,—

Slay ye each one his men, who have let themselves be bound unto Baal-peor.

6 And lo! a man of the sons of Israel coming in who brought near unto his brethren a Midianite woman, before the eyes of Moses, and before the eyes of all the assembly of the sons of Israel,—when they were weeping at the entrance of the tent of meeting. 7 And Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, saw it,—so he rose up out of the midst of the assembly, and took a spear in his hand;

and went in after the man of Israel, into the pleasure-tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman, in her parts of shame,—so the plague was restrained, from against the sons of Israel. 9 Then was it found that they who had died by the plague were four and twenty thousand. 10 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

11 ||Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest|| hath turned back my wrath from against the sons of Israel, in that he was jealous with my jealousy, in their midst,—so that I made not an end of the sons of Israel, in my jealousy. 12 Wherefore say,—

Behold me! giving unto him my covenant of peace; 13 so shall it prove to be unto him, and unto his seed after him, the covenant of our age-abiding priesthood,—because he was jealous for his God, and did put a propitiatory-covering over the sons of Israel. 14 Now ||the name of the man of Israel that was smitten, who was smitten with the Midianitish woman|| was Zimri, son of Salu,—prince of an ancestral house of the Simeonites; 15 and ||the name of the woman who was smitten, the Midianitess|| was Cozbi, daughter of Zur,—<the head of his kindred, of an ancestral house in Midian> was he.

16 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

17 Besiege the Midianites,—and ye shall smite them: 18 for [besiegers] were they unto you, with their wiles wherewith they besought you, over the matter of Peor,—and over the matter of Cozbi, daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister, who was smitten in the day of the plague, over the matter of Peor.

And it came to pass after the plague that Yahweh spake unto Moses, and unto Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, saying:

Reckon ye up the sum of all the assembly of the sons of Israel, from twenty years old and upwards, by their ancestral houses,—every one able to go forth to war, in Israel.

So then Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them, in the waste plains of Moab, by the Jordan near Jericho, saying:

From twenty years old and upwards, As Yahweh commanded Moses, and the sons of Israel, who had come forth out of the land of Egypt.

Reuben, the firstborn of Israel,— the sons of Reuben;

To Hanoch pertained the family of the Hanochites;

To Pallu the family of the Palluites;

To Hezron the family of the Hezronites,—

To Carmi the family of the Carmites.

These are the families of the Reubenites,— and they who were numbered of them were found to be—forty-three thousand, and seven hundred, and thirty.

Now the sons of Pallu were Eliab; and the sons of Eliab, Nemuel, and Dathan and Abiram,—

The same Dathan and Abiram, notable men of the assembly, who contended against Moses, and against Aaron, in the assembly of Korah, when they contended against Yahweh; and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up—with Korah also, when the assembly died,—when the fire consumed two hundred and fifty men, and they became a warning;

But the sons of Korah died not.

The sons of Simeon, by their families;

To Nemuel pertained the family of the Nemuelites;

To Jamin the family of the Jaminites,—

To Jachin the family of the Jachinites:

To Zerah the family of the Zerahites,—

These are the families of the Simeonites,— and two and twenty thousand, and two hundred.

The sons of Gad, by their families;

To Shuni the family of the Shunites;

To Ozni the family of the Onites,—

To Eri the family of the Erites;

These are the families of the sons of Gad, as to them who were numbered of them,—forty thousand, and five hundred.

The sons of Judah,

Er and Onan,—but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan.

And so, as to the sons of Judah, by their families, it was found that—

To Shelah pertained the family of the Shelanites,

To Perez the family of the Perezites,—

To Zerah the family of the Zerahites;

And, as to the sons of Perez, it was found that—

To Hezron pertained the family of the Hezronites,—

To Hamul the family of the Hamulites:

These are the families of Judah, as to them who were numbered of them,—seventy-six thousand, and five hundred.

The sons of Issachar, by their families;

To Tola pertained the family of the Tolaites,—

To Puvah the family of the Punites;

To Jashub the family of the Jashubites,—

To Shimron the family of the Shimronites:

These are the families of Issachar, as to them who were numbered of them,—sixty-four thousand, and three hundred.

The sons of Zebulun, by their families;

To Sered pertained the family of the Seredites,

To Elon the family of the Elonites;

To Jahleel the family of the Jahleelites:

These are the families of Zebulun, as to them who were numbered of them,—sixty thousand, and five hundred.

The sons of Joseph, by their families,—

Mannesheh, and Ephraim.

The sons of Manassesh;

To Machir pertained the family of the Machirites, and Machir begat Gilead,—

To Gilead pertained the family of the Gileadites.

These are the sons of Gilead:

To Isser the family of the Isserites,—

To Helek the family of the Helekites;

And to Asriel the family of the Asrielites;

Then, 45,050; Now, 40,500: less, 5,180.

Or: "signal."

A sp. v.r. (sevir) has: Now, 22,200: less, 37,100.

And <Shechem> the family of the Shechemites;

<And Shemida> the family of the Shemidites;

And <Hepher> the family of the Hepherites.

Now <Zelophehad, son of Hepher> had no sons, but only <daughters>,— and <the names of the daughters of Zelophehad> were Mahlah and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

These are the families of Manasseh,— and <they who were numbered of them>,— fifty-two thousand, and seven hundred.

These are the sons of Ephraim by their families,

<To Shuthelah> pertained the family of the Shuthelahites,

<To Becher> the family of the Becherites,—

<To Tahan> the family of the Tahanites.

These are the families of the sons of Ephraim, as to <them who were numbered of them>,— thirty-two thousand, and five hundred.

These are the sons of Joseph, by their families.

<To Ashbel> the family of the Ashbelites,—

<To Ahiram> the family of the Ahiramites;

<To Shephupham> the family of the Shuphamites,—

<To Hupham> the family of the Huphamites.

And the sons of Bela were Ard and Naaman,—

<To Ard> pertained the family of the Ardites,

<To Naaman> the family of the Naamanites.

These are the sons of Benjamin, by their families, and <they who were numbered of them>,— forty-five thousand, and six hundred.

These are the sons of Dan, by their families:

<To Shuham> pertained the family of the Shuhamites,—

These are the families of Dan, by their families:

<To Shuhamites, as to <them who were numbered of them>,— forty-five thousand, and six hundred.>

These are the sons of Asher, by their families:

<To Imnah> pertained the family of the Imnites,

<To Ishvi> the family of the Ishvites,—

<To Beriah> the family of the Beriites;

<To the sons of Beriah>:

<To Heber> pertained the family of the Heberites,

<To Malchiel> the family of the Malchielites;

And <the name of the daughter of Asher> was Serah.

These are the families of the sons of Asher, as to <them who were numbered of them>,— fifty-three thousand, and four hundred.

These are the families of Naphtali, by their families:

<To Jahzeel> pertained the family of the Jahzeelites;

<To Gun> the family of the Gunites;

<To Jezer> the family of the Jezerites;

<To Shillem> the family of the Shillemites.

These are the families of Naphtali, by their families,— and <they who were numbered of them>,— forty-five thousand, and four hundred.

These are they who were numbered of the sons of Israel, six hundred and one thousand,— seven hundred, and thirty.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Unto these shall be apportioned the land, as an inheritance, by the number of names.

For the large one thou shalt make large his inheritance, and for the small one thou shalt make small his inheritance,— unto each one, in proportion to them who were numbered of him> shall be given his inheritance.

Nevertheless Shall the land be apportioned,— by the names of the tribes of their fathers> shall they inherit.

At the bidding of the lot> shall be apportioned his inheritance, — between large and small.

And these> are they who were numbered of the Levites, by their families,

<To Gershon> pertained the family of the Gershonites,

<To Kohath> the family of the Kohathites;

<To Merari> the family of the Merarites.

These are the families of Levi—

The family of the Libnites,

Then, 48,600; Now, 45,400: more, 3,200.

Then, 54,400; Now, 61,700: more, 1,300.

Then, 608,500; Now, 608,750: less, 2,250.
The family of the Mushites,
The family of the Korahites,—
And Kohath begat Amram; and the name of the wife of Amram was Jochebed, daughter of Levi, who was born to Levi in Egypt,—and she bare to Amram, Aaron and Moses, and Miriam, their sister.

And there were born to Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu,—Eleazar, and Ithamar;
But Nadab and Abihu died,—when they brought near strange fire before Yahweh:
8 And there were numbered of them, were found to be—twenty-three thousand—all the males, from one month old and upwards,—for they had not numbered themselves in the midst of the sons of Israel, because there was given unto them no inheritance, in the midst of the sons of Israel.

§ 33. The Daughters of Zelophehad.

Then came near the daughters of Zelophehad, son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, pertaining to the families of Manasseh, son of Joseph,—these being the names of his daughters, Mahlah, Noah, and Hoglah and Milcah, and Tirzah. So they stood before Moses, and before Eleazar the priest, and before the princes, and all the assembly,—at the entrance of the tent of meeting, saying:

Our father died in the desert, although he was not among the assembly that conspired against Yahweh, in the assembly of Korah,—but in his own sin died he; and his sons had he none.
Wherefore should the name of our father be withdrawn, out of the midst of his family, because he had no son? Give ye unto us a possession, in the midst of the brethren of our father.
And Moses brought near their cause, before Yahweh.
Then spake Moses unto Zelophehad, saying:
A right thing are the daughters of Zelophehad speaking: Thou shalt surely give them a possession for an inheritance, in the midst of the brethren of their father,—and shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass over unto them.
And unto the sons of Israel shall thou speak, saying,—
When any man shall die, having no son,—then shall ye cause his inheritance to pass over to his daughter.
And if he hath no daughter then shall ye give his inheritance unto his brethren.
And if his father hath no brethren then shall ye give his inheritance unto the brethren of his father.
And if his father hath no brethren then shall ye give his inheritance unto his blood-relation that is near unto him of his family, and he shall possess it,—So shall it serve the sons of Israel as a regulative statute.

As Yahweh commanded Moses.

§ 34. Moses warned of his Death, and Joshua appointed.

And Yahweh said unto Moses, Go up into this mount of Abarim,—and see the land which I have given unto the sons of Israel;
And when thou hast seen it, then shalt thou also be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk,—as Aaron thy brother was withdrawn;

Let Yahweh, God of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the assembly; who may go out before them, and who may come in before them, and who may take them out, and who may bring them in,—that the assembly of Yahweh become not as sheep that have no shepherd.

And Moses brought near Joshua, saying:
Take thee Joshua son of Nun, a man in whom is spirit,—then shalt thou lean thy hand upon him; and shalt cause him to stand, before Eleazar the priest, and before all the assembly,—and shalt charge him, before their eyes,—that the assembly of Yahweh be not as sheep that have no shepherd.
bidding thereof shall they go out, and <at the bidding thereof> shall they come in—the he, and all the sons of Israel with him, even the assembly.

22 And Moses did as Yahweh commanded him, and took Joshua, and caused him to stand before Eleazar the priest, and before all the assembly; and leaned his hands upon him, and charged him,—

As Yahweh spake by the hand of Moses.

§ 35. The Appointed Festivals.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying: Command the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

My offering, my food, for my altar-flames, my satisfying odour shall ye take heed to offer unto me, in its season. Therefore shalt thou say to them.

This is the altar-flame, which ye shall offer unto Yahweh, he-lambs a year old, without defect, two daily, as a continual ascending-sacrifice. <The one lamb> shalt thou offer in the morning; and <the other lamb> shalt thou offer between the two evenings; also the tenth of an ephah of fine meal, for a meal-offering, overflowed with beaten oil, the fourth of a hin. <The continual ascending-sacrifice> was offered in Mount Sinai, as a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh. Also the drink-offering thereof, the fourth of a hin, is the drink-offering thereof, unto Yahweh, in a holy place; shall it be poured out, as a libation of strong drink unto Yahweh. And <the other lamb> shalt thou offer, between the two evenings; <like the meal-offering of the morning, and like the drink-offering thereof> shalt thou offer, an altar flame, a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh.

But <on the sabbath day> two he-lambs a year old, without defect, and two-tenths of fine meal as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, and the drink-offering thereof: the ascending-sacrifice of a sabbath, on its own sabbath, besides the continual ascending-sacrifice, and the drink-offering thereof.

And <in the beginnings of your months> shall ye bring near an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh; two choice bullocks, and one ram, seven he-lambs a year old, without defect; and three-tenths of fine meal, as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each bullock, and two-tenths of fine-meal, as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each ram; and a tenth, severally, of fine meal, as a meal-offering, overflowed with oil, to each lamb, an ascending-sacrifice, a satisfying odour, an altar-flame unto Yahweh. And <as their drink-offerings>.

half a hin shall be to a bullock, and the third of a hin to a ram, and the fourth of a hin to a lamb, of wine,—This is the ascending-sacrifice of a month, in its month, for the months of the year. Also one he-goat, as a sin-bearer unto Yahweh,— <besides the continual ascending-sacrifice> shall it be offered, with the drink-offering thereof.

And, <on the first month, on the fourteenth day> of the month, shall be a passover unto Yahweh; and <on the fifteenth day of this month> a festival,— <seven days> unleavened cakes shall be eaten. <On the first day> a holy convocation,— <no laborious work>, shall ye do; but ye shall bring near, as an altar-flame, an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, two choice bullocks, and one ram, and seven he-lambs a year old, <without defect> must they be for you; and <for their meal-offering> fine meal, overflowed with oil, <three-tenths for a bullock, and two-tenths for a ram> shall ye offer; <one tenth, severally> shall thou offer, for each lamb,—for the seven lambs; <also one he-goat for bearing sin> to put a propitiatory-covering over you: <in addition to> the ascending-sacrifice of the morning, which is for the continual ascending-sacrifice shall ye offer these. <Like these> shall ye offer daily, for seven days, as the food of the altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh,— <besides the continual ascending-sacrifice> shall it be offered, with the drink-offering thereof. And <on the seventh day> shall ye have a holy convocation,— <no laborious work> shall ye do.

And <on the day of first fruits, when ye bring near a new meal-offering unto Yahweh, in your weeks> a holy convocation shall there be unto you, <no laborious work> shall ye do; but ye shall bring near as an ascending-sacrifice, for a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, two choice bullocks, one ram, seven he-lambs a year old; also their meal-offering, fine meal, overflowed with oil, three-tenths for each bullock, two-tenths for the one ram; a tenth, severally, of each lamb,—of the seven lambs; one young he-goat,—for putting a propitiatory-covering over you: <in addition to> the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof shall ye offer them,— <without defect> shall they be for you, with their drink-offerings.

1 And <in the seventh month, on the first of the month> a holy convocation shall there be unto you, <no laborious work> shall ye do,— shall it be unto you. 7 Therefore shall ye offer, as an ascending-sacrifice, for a satisfying odour unto Yahweh, a one choice bullock, one ram, seven he-lambs a year old, without defect; 8 and as their meal-offering, fine meal, overflowed with oil,—three-tenths to a bullock, two-tenths to a ram; 9 and one-tenth to each lamb,—of the seven lambs; 10 and one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—for putting a propitiatory-covering over you: 11 in addition to the monthly ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, and the continual ascending sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof and the drink-offering thereof, according to their regulation,—for a satisfying odour, an altar-flame unto Yahweh.

And <on the tenth of this seventh month> a holy convocation shall there be unto you,—when ye shall humble your souls,—<no work> shall ye do; 12 but ye shall bring near, as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, a satisfying odour, one choice bullock, one ram, seven he-lambs a year old, <without defect> shall they be for you; 13 and, as their meal-offering, fine meal overflowed with oil,—three-tenths to a bullock, two-tenths to the one' ram; 14 a tenth severally to each' lamb,—of the seven lambs; 15 one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—[in addition to the propitiatory sin-bearer,] and the continual ascending sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offerings.

And <on the fifteenth day of the seventh month> ||a holy convocation shall there be unto you,—when ye shall celebrate a festival unto Yahweh, seven days. 17 Then shall ye bring near as an ascending-sacrifice—an altar-flame of a satisfying odour unto Yahweh,—thirteen choice bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, <without defect> shall they be; 18 and <as their meal-offering> fine-meal overflowed with oil, three-tenths to each bullock, of the thirteen bullocks, twentysix to each' ram, of the two rams; and a tenth severally to each' lamb,—of the fourteen lambs; 19 also one young he-goat, as a sin-bearer,—[in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.]

And <on the second day> twelve choice bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 20 with their meal-offerings and their drink-offerings—to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 21 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 22 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 23 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 24 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 25 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—<in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.>

And <on the third day> eleven bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 27 with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 28 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

And <on the fourth day> ten bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 29 with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 30 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

And <on the fifth day> nine bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 31 with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings,—to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 32 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—<in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.>

And <on the sixth day> eight bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 33 with their meal-offering and their drink-offerings,—to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to the regulation; 34 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—<in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.>

And <on the seventh day> seven bullocks, two rams,—fourteen he-lambs a year old, without defect; 35 with their meal-offering and their drink-offering, to the bullocks, to the rams, and to the lambs, by their number, according to their regulation; 36 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—<in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.>

And <on the eighth day> ||a closing feast shall there be unto you,—<no laborious work> shall ye do; 37 therefore shall ye offer, an ascending-sacrifice, a sin-bearer, and the continual ascending sacrifice, with its meal-offering and their drink-offerings—unto Yahweh, a satisfying odour, a one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—<in addition to the continual ascending-sacrifice, the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.>
but ye shall bring near—as an ascending-sacrifice, an altar-flame of a satisfying odour, unto Yahweh—one bullock, one ram,—seven he-lambs a year old, without defect: 29 [with] their meal-offerings and their drink-offerings—to the bullock, to the ram, and to the lambs—by their number, according to the regulation; 30 also one young he-goat as a sin-bearer,—in addition' to the continual ascending-sacrifice, with the meal-offering thereof, and the drink-offering thereof.

§ 36. The Vows of Wives and Daughters.

1 And Moses spake unto the heads of the tribes of the sons of Israel, saying:

"These are the statutes which Yahweh commanded Moses, between a man and his wife,—between a father and his daughter, in her youth, in the house of her father."

3 "When a woman shall vow a vow unto Yahweh, or swear an oath to bind a bond upon her soul, he shall not break his word, according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth;" shall he do.

3 And "when a woman shall vow a vow unto Yahweh,—and bind a bond, in the house of her father, in her youth;" her father shall hear her. Then shall all her vows stand, and every bond which she hath bound upon her soul shall stand. But if her father forbade her, in the day when he heard, none of her vows or her bonds which she hath bound upon her soul shall stand; and Yahweh will pardon her, because her father forbade her.

6 But if she belonged to a husband, when her vows were taken upon her,—or a rash utterance fell from her lips, wherewith she put a bond upon her soul; and her husband heard it, and on the day that he heard he held his peace at her, then shall her vows stand, and her bonds which she hath bound upon her soul shall stand. But if on the day her husband heard, he forbade her then shall he have made of none effect her vow that is upon her, or the rash utterance of her lips, wherewith she put a bond upon her soul,—and Yahweh will pardon her.

§ 37. The Avenging of Israel on the Midianites.

1 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

"Exact thou, the avenging of the sons of Israel, from the Midianites,—and afterwards shalt thou be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk."

3 So Moses spake unto the people, saying,

"Arm ye from among you men for the war,—and let them go against Midian, to render the avenging of Yahweh upon Midian."

5 And there volunteered out of the thousands of Israel, a thousand of each tribe,—of all the tribes of Israel, shall ye send forth unto the war.

8 But if she did make them of none effect after that he hath heard them, then shall he bear her iniquity.

§ 38. The Peace-offerings and the Meal-offerings.

43 The sons of Israel offer unto Yahweh, in your appointed seasons, besides your vow-offerings and your freewill offerings—as your ascending-sacrifices, and as your meal-offerings, and as your peace-offerings, and as your drink-offerings, as your offerings and your freewill offerings— besides your vows.
captive the women of Midian, and their little ones,—<all their cattle also, and all their flocks, and all their substance> carried they off as a prey; 10 <all their cities also, in their sites, and all their encampments> burned they up with fire. 11 Then took they all the spoil, and all the booty,—both of man and beast; 12 and brought in unto Moses, and unto Eleazar the priest, and unto the assembly of the sons of Israel—the captives, and the booty, and the spoil, unto the camp,—unto the waste plains of Moab, which are by Jordan, near Jericho. 13 And Moses, and Eleazar the priest, and all the princes of the assembly, went forth to meet them,—unto the outside, of the camp. 14 Then was Moses sore displeased with the officers of the force,—the princes of thousands, and the princes of hundreds, who were coming in from the warring host. 15 And Moses said unto them,—

Then said Eleazar the priest unto the men of Israel—

21 ||Ye||then, pitch outside the camp, for seven days,—<before the LORD> against the assembly of Israel. 22 ||Now;i therefore, slay ye every male among the host, who had been to the war: 23 Then was Moses sore displeased with the officers of the force,—the princes of thousands, and the princes of hundreds, who were coming in from the warring host. 16 Lo! [|they| became unto the sons of Israel, by the advice of Balaam, the cause of daring acts of treachery against Yahweh, over the affair of Peor,—and then came the plague against the assembly of Yahweh! 17 Now therefore, slay ye every male among the young,—<every woman also that hath cohabited with man> slay ye. 18 But <all the young of womankind that have not cohabited with man> preserve alive for yourselves. 19 ||Ye||then, pitch outside the camp, for seven days,—<whosoever hath killed a person, and whoever hath touched the slain> cleanse yourselves (from sin) on the third day, and on the seventh day, ||ye, and your captives||. 20 Every garment also, and every article of skin, and every thing made of goat’s-hair, and every article of wood> shall ye cleanse (from sin). 21 Then said Eleazar the priest unto the men of the host, who had been to the war: 22 ||This|| is the statute of the law, which Yahweh hath commanded Moses: 23 Surely <the gold, and the silver,—the bronze, the iron, the tin and the lead> whatsoever thing can go into fire ye shall pass through fire, and it shall be clean, only <with the water of separation> shall ye cleanse it (from sin). But <whatever cannot go into fire> ye shall pass through water. 24 And ye shall wash your clothes, on the seventh day, and be clean,—and <afterwards> shall ye come into the camp. 25 Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying: 26 Reckon thou up the sum of the booty that was captured, both of man and of beast,—<thou, and Eleazar the priest, and the ancestral heads of the assembly>; 27 and divide the booty into two parts, between them who took upon them the war, who went out in the host,—and all the [rest of the] assembly. 28 Then shalt thou levy a tribute unto Yahweh —<from the men of war, who went forth in the host>, one living thing, out of five hundred,—of the human beings, and of the herd, and of the asses, and of the flock: 29 <out of their half> shall ye take [them],—and thou shalt give [them] unto Eleazar the priest, as a heave-offering unto Yahweh. 30 And <out of the half allotted to the sons of Israel> shalt thou take one allotted portion out of fifty, of the human beings, of the herd, of the asses and of the flock, of all the cattle,—and shalt give them unto the Levites, who keep the charge of the habitation of Yahweh. 31 And Moses and Eleazar the priest did,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses. 32 And it came to pass that the booty, <cover and above the prey which the people of the host had seized> was,—<of the flock> six hundred and seventy-five thousand; 33 and <of the herd> seventy-two thousand; 34 and <of the asses> sixty-one thousand; 35 and <of the human persons, even of the woman-kind who had not cohabited with man>,—<all the persons>, thirty-two thousand. 36 And the half, the share of them who had gone forth in the host, was,—<the number of the flock> three hundred and thirty-seven thousand; 37_Cp., however, 2 Ch. xxxvi. 14. Perh. another reading = cause of committing treachery.—O.G._ And <of the herd> seventy-two thousand; 38 and <of the asses> sixty-one thousand; 39 and <of the herd thirty-six thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 40 and <of the herd thirty-six thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> seventy-two; 41 and <of the herd thirty-six thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> seventy-two; 42 and <of the herd thirty-six thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 43 and <of the herd thirty-six thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 44 and <of the herd thirty-six thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 45 and <of the herd thirty-six thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 46 and <of the herd thirty-six thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 47 And Moses gave the tribute—the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Eleazar the priest,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses. 48 And <of the half, allotted unto the sons of Israel>,—which Moses halved away from the men who had gone out in the host,—<the half allotted unto the assembly> was —<of the flock> three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, and five hundred; 49 and <of the herd> sixty-one thousand; 50 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 51 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 52 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 53 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 54 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 55 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 56 And Moses gave the tribute—the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Eleazar the priest,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses. 57 And <of the half, allotted unto the sons of Israel>,—which Moses halved away from the men who had gone out in the host,—<the half allotted unto the assembly> was —<of the flock> three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, and five hundred; 58 and <of the herd> sixty-one thousand; 59 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 60 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 61 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 62 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 63 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 64 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 65 And Moses gave the tribute—the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Eleazar the priest,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses. 66 And <of the half, allotted unto the sons of Israel>,—which Moses halved away from the men who had gone out in the host,—<the half allotted unto the assembly> was —<of the flock> three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, and five hundred; 67 and <of the herd> sixty-one thousand; 68 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 69 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 70 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 71 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 72 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 73 And Moses gave the tribute—the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Eleazar the priest,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses. 74 And <of the half, allotted unto the sons of Israel>,—which Moses halved away from the men who had gone out in the host,—<the half allotted unto the assembly> was —<of the flock> three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, and five hundred; 75 and <of the herd> sixty-one thousand; 76 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 77 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 78 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 79 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 80 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 81 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 82 And Moses gave the tribute—the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Eleazar the priest,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses. 83 And <of the half, allotted unto the sons of Israel>,—which Moses halved away from the men who had gone out in the host,—<the half allotted unto the assembly> was —<of the flock> three hundred and thirty-seven thousand, and five hundred; 84 and <of the herd> sixty-one thousand; 85 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 86 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> thirty-two; 87 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 88 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 89 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 90 and <of the herd sixty-one thousand>,—and <the tribute of them unto Yahweh> sixty-one; 91 And Moses gave the tribute—the heave-offering of Yahweh, unto Eleazar the priest,—

As Yahweh commanded Moses.
NUMBERS XXXI. 48—54; XXXII. 1—24.

Then came near unto Moses, the officers who belonged unto the thousands of the host,—the princes of thousands, and the princes of hundreds; and said unto Moses, ["Thy servants"] have reckoned up the sum of the men of war who are in our hand,—and there is not missed from among us [a man]!

Therefore have we brought near an offering unto Yahweh, what [each man] hath found—articles of gold, anklets, and bracelets, rings, earrings and buckles,—to put a propitiatory-covering over our souls, before Yahweh.

So Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of the princes of thou sands, and hundreds,—and brought it into the tent of meeting, as a memorial for the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, —and spoke unto Moses, and unto Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of assembly, saying:

As touching Ataroth and Dibon, and Jazer and Nimrah, and Heshbon, and Elealeh,—and Sebam and Nebo, and Beon,—the land which Yahweh smote before the assembly of Israel—[a land for cattle] it is,—and [thy servants] have cattle.

And they said—

If we have found favour in thine eyes, let this land be given unto thy servants, for a possession,—do not take us over the Jordan.

Then said Moses unto the sons of Gad and unto the sons of Reuben,—Shall [your brethren] go into the war, and ye settle down here? Wherefore, then, should ye dispossess the heart of the sons of Israel,—from passing over into the land which Yahweh hath given' to them?

Thus did your fathers,—when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea, to view the land, and they went up as far as the ravine of Eschol,—and viewed the land, and then dispossessed the heart of the sons of Israel from entering into the land, which Yahweh [had given them].

Then was the anger of Yahweh kindled, on that day,—and he spake, saying:

Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, from twenty years old and upwards, shall see the soil, which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob,—because they have not followed after me fully; save Caleb son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, and Joshua, son of Nun,—for they followed after Yahweh [fully].

So the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel, and he made them wander in the desert, forty years,—until all the generation who had done the evil in the eyes of Yahweh [had wasted away].

Lo! therefore, ye have arisen in the room of your fathers, a brood of sinful men,—to heap yet more upon the heat of the anger of Yahweh, towards Israel.

If ye do turn away from following him, then will he yet again leave them behind in the desert,—so shall ye bring destruction upon all this people.

Then came they near unto him, and said,

[Folds for flocks] would we build for our cattle [here],—and cities for our little ones; but [we] would arm ourselves promptly, before the sons of Israel, until that we have brought them into their place,—so should our little ones remain in the fortified cities, because of the inhabitants of the land. We would not return unto our houses,—until the sons of Israel have possessed themselves [each man] of his inheritance. For we would not inherit with them, over the Jordan, and onwards,—because our inheritance hath come unto us on this side the Jordan, towards sunrise.

And Moses said unto them,

If ye will indeed do this thing,—if ye will arm yourselves, before Yahweh, for the war,—and every armed man of you pass over the Jordan before Yahweh,—until he hath dispossessed his enemies, from before him; and the land be subdued before Yahweh then <afterwards> shall ye return, and shall be acquitted by Yahweh and by Israel,—and this land shall be yours for a possession before Yahweh.

But <if ye shall not do this> lo! ye will have sinned against Yahweh,—and take note of your sin, that it will find you out.

Build you cities for your little ones, and folds for your flocks,—and then <that which hath gone forth from your mouth> ye shall do.
Then spoke the sons of Gad, and the sons of Reuben, unto Moses, saying,— [Thy servants] will do, as [my lord] is giving command. [Our little ones, our wives, our cattle, and all our beasts] shall remain there, in the cities of Gilead; and [thy servants] will pass over, every one armed for war, before Yahweh, to battle,— as [my lord] is speaking.

So Moses gave command concerning them, unto Eleazar the priest, and unto Joshua son of Nun,—and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes, of the sons of Israel; and Moses said unto them—

If the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben will pass with you over the Jordan, every one armed for the war, before Yahweh, and the land be subdued before you, then shall ye give unto them the land of Gilead, for a possession.

But if they will not pass over, armed, with you> then shall they accept a possession in your midst, in the land of Canaan.

Then responded the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, saying,— <That which Yahweh had spoken unto thy servants> we will do.

We will pass over armed, before Yahweh, into the land of Canaan,—then shall be [ours] the possession of our inheritance across the Jordan.

So then Moses gave unto them—even unto the sons of Gad, and unto the sons of Reuben, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh son of Joseph—the kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og, the king of Bashan, the land, by her cities, with boundaries, even the cities of the land round about.

And the sons of Gad built Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer; and Atroth-shophan and Jazer, and Jogbehah; and Beth-nimrah, and Beth-harim, fortified cities, and folds for flocks. And [the sons of Reuben] built Heshbon, and Elealeh, and Kiriathaim, and Nêbo and Baal-meôn, their names being changed, and Sibmah,—and they gave names to the cities which they built.

Then went the sons of Machir, son of Manasseh, to Gilead, and captured it, and dispossessed the Amorites who were therein. So Moses gave Gilead unto Machir, son of Manasseh,—and he dwelt therein. And [Jair, son of Manasseh] went, and captured their encampments,—and called them Havvoth-jair [= "The encampments of Jair"].

And [Nobah] went, and captured Kenath, with the villages thereof,—and called it Nobah, after his own name.

§ 39. The Itinerary of the Israelites.

[These] are the departures of the sons of Israel, whereby they came forth out of the land of Egypt, by their hosts,—in the hand of Moses and Aaron. And Moses wrote their comings forth, by their departures, at the bidding of Yahweh,—and [these] are their departures, by their comings forth.

So then they brake up from Rameses, in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month,—on the morrow of the passover—came forth the sons of Israel, with an uplifted hand, in the sight of all the Egyptians; when the Egyptians were burying them whom Yahweh had smitten among them, every first-born,—when upon their gods> Yahweh had executed judgments. Thus then the sons of Israel brake up from Rameses,—and encamped in Succoth.

And they brake up from Succoth,—and encamped in Etham, which is at the edge of the desert. And they brake up from Etham, and turned upon Pi-hahiroth, which is over against Baal-zephôn,—and encamped before Migdol.

And they brake up from before Hahiroth, and passed through the midst of the sea, towards the desert,—and went their way a journey of three days, in the desert of Etham, and encamped in Marah.

And they brake up from Marah, and came in towards Elim; there being in Elim twelve fountains of water, and seventy palm-trees, so they encamped there. And they brake up from Elim,—and encamped by the Red Sea.

And they brake up from the Red Sea,—and encamped in the desert of Sin.

And they brake up from the desert of Sin,—and encamped in Kibroth-hattaavah.

And they brake up from Kibroth-hattaavah, and encamped in Hazeroth.

And they brake up from Hazeroth,—and encamped in Rithmah.

And they brake up from Rithmah,—and encamped in Rimmon-peres.

And they brake up from Rimmon-peres,—and encamped in Libnah.

And they brake up from Libnah,—and encamped in Rissah.

And they brake up from Rissah,—and encamped in Kehelathah.

And they brake up from Kehelathah,—and encamped in Mount Shepher.

And they brake up from Mount Shepher,—and encamped in Haradah.

And they brake up from Haradah,—and encamped in Makke-loth.

And they brake up from Makke-loth, and encamped in Hazeroth.

And they brake up from Hazeroth,—and encamped in the desert of the sea.

And they brake up from the desert of the sea,—and encamped in Etham, at the edge of the desert.

And they brake up from Etham,—and encamped in the desert of the wilderness of Sin.

And they brake up from the desert of Sin,—and encamped in Etham, which is at the edge of the desert.

And they brake up from Etham,—and encamped in the desert of the wilderness of Sin.

And they brake up from the desert of the wilderness of Sin,—and encamped in Etham, which is at the edge of the desert.
loath,—and encamped in Tahath. 27 And they brake up from Tahath,—and encamped in Terah. 28 And they brake up from Terah,—and encamped in Mithkah. 29 And they brake up from Mithkah,—and encamped in Hashmonah. 30 And they brake up from Hashmonah,—and encamped in Moseroth. 31 And they brake up from Moseroth,—and encamped in Bene-jaakan. 32 And they brake up from Bene-jaakan, and encamped in Hor-haggidgad. 33 And they brake up from Hor-haggidgad,—and encamped in Elron. 34 And they brake up from Elron,—and encamped in Ezion-geber. 35 And they brake up from Ezion-geber,—and encamped in the desert of Zin, the same is Kadesh. 36 And they brake up from Kadesh,—and encamped in Mount Hor, on the outskirts of the land of Edom; 37 and Aaron the priest went up into Mount Hor, at the bidding of Yahweh, and died there,—in the fortieth year, by the coming forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, in the fifth month, on the first of the month. 38 And a Canaanite, king of Arad, who was dwelling in the South, in the land of Canaan, heard of the coming in of the sons of Israel. 39 And they brake up from Mount Hor,—and encamped in Zalmonah. 40 And they brake up from Zalmonah,—and encamped in Punon. 41 And they brake up from Punon,—and encamped in Oboth. 42 And they brake up from Oboth,—and encamped in Iye-abarim, within the bounds of Moab. 43 And they brake up from Iye-abarim,—and encamped in Dibon-gad. 44 And they brake up from Dibon-gad,—and encamped in Almon-diblathaim. 45 And they brake up from Almon-diblathaim,—and encamped among the mountains of Abarim, before Nebo. 46 And they brake up from the mountains of Abarim,—and encamped in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho. 47 Thus did they encamp by the Jordan, from Beth-jeshimoth unto Abel-Shittim [that is, “The scacie-meadows”],—in the waste plains of Moab.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses, in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—<When ye do pass over the Jordan, into the land of Canaan> this is the land which shall fall unto you, as an inheritance, even the land of Canaan, by the boundaries thereof.

1 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, saying:

2 Command the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,

<When ye are coming into the land of Canaan> this is the land which shall fall unto you, as an inheritance, even the land of Canaan, by the boundaries thereof.

3 Ye shall therefore have a south corner, from the desert of Zin, on the side of Edom, so shall ye have a south boundary, from the end of the salt sea, eastward; and the boundary shall go round for you from the south towards the cliffs of Akrabim, then cross over towards Zin, and the extension thereof shall be from the south to Kadesh-barnea,—then shall it reach out to Hazar-addar, and cross over towards Azmon; then shall the boundary turn round from Azmon towards the ravine of Egypt,—and the extension thereof shall be towards the sea.

4 And <for a west' boundary>—ye shall have the great sea, even a boundary,—[this shall serve you as a west' boundary.

5 And [this shall serve you as a north' boundary,—[From the great sea> ye shall draw a line to the entering in of Hamath,—and the extension of the boundary shall be towards Zedad; 9 then shall the boundary reach out towards Ziphron, and the extension thereof, be to Hazar-enan. [This shall serve you as a north' boundary.

Then shall ye draw for yourselves a line, for an east boundary,—from Hazar-enan towards Shepham; 11 and the boundary shall go down from Shepham towards Riblah, on the east of Ain,—then shall the boundary go down, and strike on the side of the Sea of Chinnereth, eastward; 12 then shall the boundary go down towards the Jordan, and the extension thereof be to the salt' sea.

[This shall be your land, by the boundaries thereof, round about.

* A spur of the Lebanon.
And Moses commanded the sons of Israel, saying,—

[This] is the land, which ye shall inherit by lot, which Yahweh had commanded to be given to the nine tribes, and the half tribe.

For the tribe of the sons of the Reubenites, by their ancestral house, and the tribe of the sons of Gad, by their ancestral house, have received,—and [the half tribe of Manasseh] have received, their inheritance:

[the two tribes, and the half tribe] have received their inheritance—on this side Jordan near Jericho, eastwards, towards sunrise.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

These are the names of the men who shall receive for you the land, as an inheritance,—

Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, son of Nun.

Also <one prince from each tribe:> shall ye take to receive the land' as an inheritance.

These therefore, are the names of the men,—

<For the tribe of Judah> Caleb, son of Jephunneh;

And <for the tribe of the sons of Simeon> Shemuel, son of Ammihud;

<For the tribe of Benjamin> Elidad, son of Chislon;

And <for the tribe of the sons of Dan> a prince—Bukki, son of Jogli;

<For the sons of Joseph>

<For the tribe of the sons of Manasseh> a prince,—Hammiel, son of Ephod;

And <for the tribe of the sons of Ephraim> a prince,—Kemuel, son of Shiphtan;

And <for the tribe of the sons of Zebulun> a prince,—Elizaphan, son of Parnach;

And <for the tribe of the sons of Issachar> a prince,—Paltiel, son of Azzan;

And <for the tribe of the sons of Asher> a prince,—Ahitub, son of Shelomi;

And <for the tribe of the sons of Naphtali> a prince,—Pedahel,* son of Ammihud.

These are they whom Yahweh hath commanded, to receive—for the sons of Israel—their inheritance, in the land of Canaan.

§ 41. The Cities of the Levites and the Cities of Refuge.

And Yahweh spake unto Moses in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho, saying:

Command the sons of Israel, that they give unto the Levites—out of the inheritance which they possess—[cities to dwell in],—pasture land also unto the cities, round about them> shall ye give unto the Levites.

In some copies of the Massorah: Pedahel two words.—G.n.

So shall the cities be theirs, to dwell in,—and [their pasture lands] shall be for their cattle and for their goods, and for all their beasts. And [the pasture lands of the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites] shall be,—from the wall of the city, and outwards, a thousand cubits round about. So ye shall measure—on the outside of the city—the eastward quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the south' quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the west' quarter two thousand by the cubit, and the north' quarter two thousand by the cubit, with [the city] in the midst. This shall be unto them* the pasture lands of the cities.

And <among the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites> shall be the six cities of refuge, which ye shall give, that the manslayer may flee thither, and <besides them> ye shall give, forty-two cities.

[All the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites] shall be forty-eight cities,—[them], and their pasture lands.

And <as touching the cities which ye shall give out of the possession of the sons of Israel> <from the many> shall ye take many, and <from the few> shall ye take few,—<each, according to his inheritance, which they shall inherit> shall give of his cities, unto the Levites.

Then spake Yahweh unto Moses, saying:

Speak unto the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say unto them,—

When ye are passing over the Jordan, unto the land of Canaan,> [three of the cities] shall be unto you. And <six of the cities> shall ye find for you, convenient cities,<cities of refuge> shall they be unto you,—and the manslayer, who hath slain a person * by mistake, shall flee thither. So shall the cities serve you for places of refuge from the redeemer,—that the manslayer may not die, until he has stood before the assembly, for judgment.

And <as touching the cities which ye shall give> <six cities of refuge> shall there be unto you. <Three of the cities> shall ye give, on this side the Jordan, and <three of the cities> shall ye give in the land of Canaan,—<cities of refuge> shall they be.

<For the sons of Israel, and for the sojourner, and for the settler in your midst> shall these six cities serve, [as places of refuge],—that any one may flee thither who hath slain a person * by mistake.

<If, then, with an instrument of iron> he smote him, and he died>  he slays,—<the manslayer shall surely die>. Or

* Heb. : gi'lı'. It seems important not to vary the rendering here. Our Redeemer does more for the slain than this! * Sp. v.r. (msr) and some ed. (w. Sam., Jon., Sep., Syr., and one ear. pr. edn.) have: "unto you" — G.n. * Or (ml.): "smitten a soul."
<if <with a stone thrown by hand,* whereby one might die> he smote him, and he died>  he is,—the manslayer [shall surely die]. 18 Or <if <with hand-weapon of wood, wherewith one might die> he smote him, and he died>  he is,—the manslayer [shall surely die]. 19 The blood'-redeemer [shall put to death the manslayer,— when he lighteth upon him] he [shall put him to death. 18 <The blood'-redeemer]; he [shall put to death the manslayer,— when he lighteth upon him]. 19 <The blood'-redeemer]; he [shall put to death the manslayer,— when he lighteth upon him]. 18 <The blood'-redeemer]; he [shall put to death the manslayer,— when he lighteth upon him]. 19 The blood'-redeemer [shall put to death the manslayer,— when he lighteth upon him].

Or <if <with hate> he shall thrust at him, or hurl at him designedly, and he have died> 21 or <if <with enmity> he hath smitten him with his hand, and he is dead> then shall he that dealt the blow be surely put to death.  he is,—the blood'-redeemer] shall put to death the manslayer [when he lighteth upon him].

But <if <suddenly, without enmity> he shall thrust him, or hurl upon him any missile, [without design]; or with any stone whereby one might die, without seeing [him], and it fall upon him, and he dieth; he] not being at enmity with him, nor seeking to harm him> 24 then shall the assembly judge, between him that smote and the blood'-redeemer,— according to these regulations; 22 and the assembly shall rescue the manslayer out of the hand of the blood'-redeemer, and the assembly shall restore him unto his city of refuge, whither he had fled,— and he shall dwell therein, until the death of the high priest, who hath been anointed with the hallowing' oil. 25 But <if the manslayer [go out] of the bounds of his city of refuge, whereinto he hath fled; 27 and the blood'-redeemer [find him]; outside the bounds of his city of refuge> then may the blood-redeemer slay the slayer, without being guilty of blood; 28 for [in his city of refuge] should he have remained, until the death of the high priest,—and <after the death of the high priest> might he have returned into the land which he doth possess.

So shall these serve you as a regulative statute unto your generations,—[wheresoever ye may dwell].

Whosoever taketh away life>* at the mouth of witnesses shall the slayer be slain,—but [one witness] shall not testify against a person, to put [him] to death. 21 And ye shall accept no ransom for the life of him that slayeth, if he have unlawfully caused his death,—but he must surely be put to death; 22 And ye shall accept no ransom for him that hath fled to his city of refuge, if he should return to dwell in the land before the death of the priest.*

So shall ye not pollute the land wherein ye are,— for [blood] doth pollute the land,— and [for the land] no propitiatory-covering can be made, as touching blood, that is shed therein, [save with the blood of him that shed it]; 24 thou* must not then make unclean the land wherein [ye are] dwelling, in the midst of which [x] I have my habitation; for [I—Yahweh] am making my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel.

§ 42. The Marriage of Heiresses circumscripted.

Then came near the heads of fathers, belonging to the family of the sons of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, out of the families of the sons of Joseph,—and spake before Moses, and before the princes, heads of fathers, belonging to the sons of Joseph;—and they said— <Unto my lord> did Yahweh give command, to bestow the land as an inheritance, by lot, unto the sons of Israel,—[my lord] therefore, was commanded by Yahweh, to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother, unto his daughters. 2 <Unto my lord> did Yahweh give command, to bestow the land as an inheritance, by lot, unto the sons of Israel,—[my lord] therefore, was commanded by Yahweh, to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother, unto his daughters. 2 <When, therefore, <unto any one from among the sons of the [other] tribes of the sons of Israel> they become wives>, their inheritance shall disappear out of the inheritance of our fathers, and be added to the inheritance of the tribe to which they shall be received,—and so <out of the lot of our inheritance> shall it disappear. 4 And <when the jubilee shall come to the sons of Israel> then shall their inheritance be added unto the inheritance of the tribe to which they shall be received,—and <out of the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers> shall their inheritance disappear.

Then Moses commanded the sons of Israel, at the bidding of Yahweh, saying,— A right thing is this thing which Yahweh hath commanded, as to the daughters of Zelophehad, saying: <Unto whomsoever it may be good in their eyes> let them become wives, [save only] <unto the family of the tribe of their father> let them become wives. 7 So shall no inheritance belonging to the sons of Israel go round from tribe to tribe,—for the sons of Israel shall [each one] cleave unto the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers. 8 And [every daughter possessing an inheritance, from among the tribes of the sons of Israel] <unto one of the family of the tribe of her father> shall become wife,—to the intent that the sons of...
Israel may possess, each one the inheritance of his fathers; and no inheritance go round from one tribe to another tribe, for the tribes of the sons of Israel shall cleave each one unto his own inheritance.

As Yahweh commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophehad. Thus then did Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milchah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, become wives unto the sons of their father's brethren.

Unto men from among the families of the sons of Manasseh, son of Joseph, became they wives; and so their inheritance remained with the tribe of the family of their father.

These are the commandments and the regulations which Yahweh gave in charge, by the hand of Moses, unto the sons of Israel, in the waste plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho.

THE BOOK OF DEUTERONOMY.

§1. Historical Introduction—Editorial, written West of the Jordan: cp. vers. 1 and 5.

1. These are the words, which Moses spake unto all Israel, over the Jordan, in the wilderness, in the waste plains, between Paran and Tophel, and Laban and Hazeroth, and Di-zahab: eleven days from Horeb, by way of Mount Seir, as far as Kadesh-barnah.

And it came to pass, in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first of the month, that Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, according to all that Yahweh had given him in charge, for them; after he had smitten Sihon, king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and Og, king of Bashan, who dwelt in Ashtaroth, in Edrei: over the Jordan, in the land of Moab, did Moses take in hand to expound this law, saying:

§2. A Retrospect—Spoken by Moses, with an Occasional Editorial Explanation thrown in.

6. Yahweh our God spake unto us in Horeb, saying,—

Long enough have ye dwelt in this mountain:

7. Turn ye and set yourselves forward, and enter into the hill country of the Amorites, and into all the places near, in the plain, in the mountain, and in the lowland, and in the south, and in the coast of the sea, the land of Canaan, and the Lebanon, as far as the great river, the river Euphrates.

See! I have set before you, the land, enter, and possess the land, which Yahweh sware unto your fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give unto them, and unto their seed after them.

So I spake unto you, at that time, saying,—

I am unable, by myself, to carry you.

Yahweh your God hath multiplied you, and here ye are today, like the stars of the heavens, for multitude.

Yahweh, the God of your fathers, shall add unto you the like of you, a thousand times, and bless you, as he hath spoken unto you.

How should I carry, by myself, the fatigue of you and the burden of you, and your controversies?

Set forth, for you, men wise and discerning, and known to your tribes, that I may appoint them to be heads over you.

And ye answered me, and said,

Good is the word which thou hast spoken, to be done.

So I took heads for your tribes, wise men and known, and placed them as heads over you, captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, and captains of fifties, and captains of tens, and overseers for your tribes.

And I charged your judges, at that time, saying,—

Ye are to hear, between your brethren,

the coast of the sea,—the land of Canaan, and the Lebanon, as far as the great river, the river Euphrates.

See! I have set before you, the land, enter, and possess the land, which Yahweh sware unto your fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give unto them, and unto their seed after them.

So I spake unto you, at that time, saying,—

Good is the word which thou hast spoken, to be done.

So I took heads for your tribes, wise men and known, and placed them as heads over you, captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, and captains of fifties, and captains of tens, and overseers for your tribes.

And I charged your judges, at that time, saying,—

Ye are to hear, between your brethren,

the coast of the sea,—the land of Canaan, and the Lebanon, as far as the great river, the river Euphrates.
and shall judge righteously, between each man and his brother, and his sojourner. 17 Ye shall not take note of faces, in judgment—<so> the small, as' the great> shall ye hear, ye shall not shrink from the face of any man, for judgment:* <unto God> belongeth,— but <the thing which is too hard for you> shall ye bring near unto me, and I will hear it.

18 So I commanded you, at that time, all things which ye should do.

19 And <when we brake up from Horeb> we came through all that great and terrible desert† which ye saw, by way of the hill-country of the Amorites, as Yahweh our God commanded us,— and we entered in, as far as Kadesh-barnea. 20 Thensaid Iunto you,—Ye are come in as far as the hill-country of the Amorites, which ||Yahweh our God|| is giving unto us.

21 See thou—Yahweh thy God hath set' before thee, the land,— go up— take possession, as Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath spoken unto thee, do not fear, neither be dismayed.

22 And ye came near unto me, all of you, and said—Let us send men before us, that they may search out for us, the land,— and bring us back word, the way by which we must go up, and the cities whereinto we must enter.6

23 And the thing |was good in mine eyes|,—so I took from among you twelve men, one man for each tribe. 24 And they turned and went up the hill-country, and entered in as far as the ravine of Eschol, and explored it.4

25 And they took in their hand of the fruit of the country, and bare it down unto us,— and brought us back word, and said, Good' is the land, which ||Yahweh our God|| is giving unto us.

26 Nevertheless ye were not willing to go up,— but rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, your God; 27 and murmured in your tents, and said,

<Because Yahweh hated' us> hath he brought us forth out of the land of Egypt,— to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us.26

27 ||Whither|| are |we| to go up? ||Our own brethren* have made our heart* melt, saying,—<A people greater and taller* than we, cities large and walled-up into the heavens,—yea, moreover', sons of Anakim> have we seen there.

29 Then I said unto you,— Ye must not tremble, nor be afraid of them:

30 <Yahweh your God, who is going before you ||he will fight for you, >—according to all that he did with you in Egypt, before your eyes; 31 also in the desert, which thou hast seen, where Yahweh thy God carried thee as a man will carry his son,* throughout all the way that ye journeyed, until ye entered as far as this place.

32 But <in this thing> ye were putting no' trust in Yahweh your God; 32 who was going before you in the way—to search out for you a place, b where ye might encamp,— in the fire by night, that ye might get sight of the way wherein ye should go, and in the cloud, by day.

33 And Yahweh heard' the voice of your words, —and was wroth, and aware—saying:

34 Surely, not one of these men, this wicked generation,— shall see' the good land, which I promise to give unto your fathers: 35 saving Caleb, son of Jephunneh, ||he|| shall see it, and <unto him> will I give the land through which he hath trodden, [and unto his sons],—because he hath wholly followed Yahweh.

35 <Even with me> did Yahweh show himself angry, for your sakes, saying,—<Even thou|| shalt not enter therein.>

36 <Joshua son of Nun, who standeth before thee> ||he|| shall enter in thither,— <him> strength thou, for ||he|| shall cause Israel to inherit it.

37 And <your little ones, of whom ye said they should become ||a prey!, and your sons, who to-day know not good and evil> ||they|| shall enter in thither,— and <unto them> will I give it, and ||they|| shall possess it.

38 But <as for you> turn ye, for your' part,— and set forward towards the desert, by way of the Red Sea.

39 Then responded ye and said unto me—

We have sinned against Yahweh, ||We, ourselves|| will go up, and fight, according to all that Yahweh our God hath commanded us.

40 And <when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war> ye foolishly' went up e towards the hill-country. 42 Then said Yahweh unto me—

Say unto them,

Ye shall not go up, nor fight, for I am not' in your midst,— lest ye should be smitten before your enemies.43

41 So I spake unto you, howbeit ye hearkened not,— but rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, and presumptuously went up the hill-country. 44 Then came forth the Amorites who were dwelling in that country, to meet you, and they chased you, as do [bees]; * and struck you down in Seir, as far as Hormah. 45 So then ye returned and wept before Yahweh,—but Yahweh hearkened not unto your voice, nor gave ear unto you. 46 And ye abode in Kadesh many days,—how many were the days that ye abode [there]!

2
Then turned we, and set forward towards the desert, by way of the Red Sea, as Yahweh, spake unto me; and we encompassed Mount Seir many days. 2 And Yahweh spake unto me, saying:

Long enough have ye encompassed this mountain,—turn yourselves northwards. 3 And <the people> command thou, saying,

Ye are about to pass through the boundary of your brethren, the sons of Esau, who are dwelling in Seir,—and <should they be afraid of you> take ye good' heed to yourselves: 5 do not engage in strife with them, for I will not give you of their land, so much as place for the tread of a foot-sol.,—for <as a possession to Esau> have I given Mount Seir. 6

Food shall ye buy of them with silver, so shall ye eat,—yea even water shall ye buy of them with silver, so shall ye drink. 7 For Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee, in all the work of thy hand, he hath considered thy traversing of this great desert,— <these forty years> hath Yahweh thy God been with thee, thou hast lacked [nothing].

So we passed on, away from our brethren the sons of Esau, who dwell in Seir, from the way of the waste plain, from Elath, and from Ezion-geber,—and we turned and passed on by way of the desert of Moab. 9 And Yahweh said unto me—

Do not lay siege to Moab, nor engage in strife with them, in battle,—for I will not give unto you of their land, as a possession, for <unto the sons of Lot> 6 have I given it as a possession.

A land of giants 11 used I! that also to be accounted,—giants dwelt therein aforetime, but the Ammonites called them Zamzummim: 12 a people great and many and tall, like the Anakim,—but Yahweh destroyed them from before them, and they took their possessions, and dwelt in their stead; 13 as did he do for the sons of Esau, who are dwelling in Seir,—when he destroyed the Horim from before them, and they took their possessions, and dwelt in their stead, even unto this day: 14 <The Avvim> also, who dwelt in settlements as far as Gaza—Caphtorim, 6 who were coming forth out of Caphtor, 8 destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead.

Arise ye, set forward, and cross over the ravine of Zered. 24 So I sent messengers out of the desert of Moab, near over against the sons of Amnion, to say unto them, Take ye good heed to yourselves: 25 this day I will I begin to extend the mountain,—turn yourselves northwards. 26 This day will I begin to extend the dread of thee, and the fear of thee, over the face of the peoples under all the heavens,—who will hear the report of thee, then will they quake, and writhe in pain because of thee.

So I sent messengers out of the desert of Kedemoth, unto Sihon, king of Heshbon,—with words of peace saying:

I would pass along through thy land, <by the road, by the road> will I go,—I will not turn aside, to the right hand or to the left: 38 <Food for silver> shalt thou sell me, so will I eat, and <water for silver> shalt thou let me have, so will I drink,—only I would pass through on my feet;—28 as the sons of Eshai, who are dwelling in Seir, did to me, and the Mosabites, who are dwelling in Ar,— until that I pass over the Jordan, into the land which Jehovah our God is giving unto us.
20 But Sihon king of Heshbon | was not willing|, to let us pass along through it,—for Yahweh thy God had suffered* him to make his spirit harsh, and his heart bold, that he might give him into thy hand,—(as [appearanceth this day).
21 Then said Yahweh unto me,
See! I have begun to deliver up before thee, Sihon and his land, — begin, take possession, that thou mayest make a possession of his land.
22 So then Sihon came out to meet us, [he, and all his people], to give battle at Jahaz.
And Jehovah our God delivered him up before us,—and we smote him, and his sons, and all his people. 34 And we captured all his cities, at that time, and devoted to destruction every city of males, with the women, and the little ones, — we left not remaining a survivor: 35 only <the cattle> made our prey,—and the spoil of the cities which we captured. 36 <From Aroer, which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, and the city that is in the ravine, even as far as Giliead > there was not a fortressthat proved too high for us,—<the whole> did Yahweh our God deliver up before us.
27 Only<unto the land of the sons of Ammon> didst thou not come near,—all the side of the Jablok ravine, nor the cities of the hill country, nor any which Yahweh our God had forbidden to us.

Then turned we, and went up, the way of Bashan; and Og king of Bashan [came out] to meet us, [he, and all his people] to give battle at Edrei. 2 And Yahweh said unto me:
Do not fear him, for <into thy hand> have I delivered him, and all his people, and his land,—so then thou shalt do unto him, as thou didst unto Sihon king of the Amorites, who was dwelling in Heshbon.

Then did Yahweh our God deliver into our hand Og also, king of Bashan, and all his people,—so we smote him, until there was not left remaining to him a survivor.

And we captured all his cities, at that time, there was no fortress, which we took not from them,—sixty cities, all the region of Argob, — [the kingdom of Og in Bashan].
All these were fortified cities, each with a high wall, folding gates and a bar,— besides country towns exceeding many.
And we devoted them to destruction,
[doing unto them] as we did unto Sihon king of Heshbon,—devoting to destruction every city of males, the women, and the little ones. 7 But <all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities > made us our prey.

Thus did we, at that time, take the land out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites (which was over the Jordan),—from the ravine of Arnon as far as Mount Hermon.
9 Sidonians, call Hermon, Sirion,—but [the Amorites] call it Senir.

All the cities of the table-land, and all Gilead, and all Bashan,—unto Salecah, and Edrei,—cities of the kingdom of Og, in Bashan.

For only Og, king of Bashan, was left remaining of the remnant of the giants, lo! "his bedstead was a bedstead of iron, is not [the same] in Rabbath, of the sons of Ammon? <nine cubits> the length thereof, and <four cubits> the breadth thereof, by the fore-arm of a man."

And <this land > took we in possession at that time,—<from Aroer which is by the ravine of Arnon, and half the hill-country of the Amorites! call it Senir."

The same is called, A land of giants. 14 Jair, son of Manasseh took all the region of Gilead, as far as the boundary of the Geshurites, and the Maachathites,—and called them, after his own name, The Bashan of Havvoth-Jair unto this day.

And unto Machir, gave I Gilead:

And unto the Reubenites and unto the Gadites> gave I unto Gilead, even as far as the ravine of Arnon, the middle of the ravine, and boundary, — even as far as the Jabok ravine, the boundary of the sons of Argob, rich in elods, deep-soiled, fertile. Its present name is Ridjib: it abounds with ruins

Then sought I Yahweh, at that time, for a favour, saying:—

My Lord Yahweh, thou thyself hast begun to shew thy servant thy greatness, and thy strong hand, as to which, what God is there, in the heavens or in the earth, that can do according to thy doings, and according to thy mighty deeds? Let me pass over, I pray thee, that I may see the good land that is over the Jordan, this good mountain, and the Lebanon.

But Yahweh had been provoked against me, that ye should do so, in the midst of the land whereinto ye are entering to possess it. Therefore shall ye observe, and do (them), for that will be your wisdom, and discernment, in the eyes of the peoples,—who will hear all these statutes, and will say—

Nevertheless, a people wise and discerning is this great nation.

For what great nation is there which hath gods, nigh unto it, like Yahweh our God, whomsoever we have cried out unto him?

Or what great nation is there which hath righteous statutes and regulations, like all this law, which I am setting before you to-day?

Only take heed to thyself, and keep thy soul diligently, so that thou forget not the statutes, and unto the regulations, which I am teaching you. to do (them), the land whereinto ye are entering to possess it, and that which I am commanding you. Ye shall not add unto the word which I am commanding you, neither shall ye take away from it for your sakes, and hearkened not unto me.

So, therefore, O Israel, hearken thou unto § the statutes, and unto the regulations, which I am teaching you, to do (them), to the end ye may live, and enter, and possess the land, which Yahweh, the God of your fathers, is giving unto you. Ye shall not add unto the word which I am commanding you, neither shall ye take away from it therefrom,—that ye may keep the commandments of Yahweh your God, which I am commanding you. Yours are the eyes that have seen what Yahweh did in Baal-peor, for every man who went after Baal-peor did Yahweh thy God destroy out of thy midst; but ye who kept on cleaving unto Yahweh your God, above are ye all to-day.

See! I have taught you statutes, and regulations, as Yahweh my God commanded me,—that ye should do so, in the midst of the land whereunto ye are entering to possess it.

Nevertheless, a people wise and discerning is this great nation.

What day thou didst stand before Yahweh thy God, in Horeb, when Yahweh said unto me, Gather unto me the people, that I may teach them the statutes and unto the regulations, to the end ye may live, and enter, and possess the land, which is giving unto you. Ye have added unto the word which I am commanding you, neither shall ye take away from it therefrom,—that ye may keep the commandments of Yahweh your God, which I am commanding you. Yours are the eyes that have seen what Yahweh did in Baal-peor, for every man who went after Baal-peor did Yahweh thy God destroy out of thy midst; but ye who kept on cleaving unto Yahweh your God, above are ye all to-day.

Nevertheless, a people wise and discerning is this great nation.

For what great nation is there which hath gods, nigh unto it, like Yahweh our God, whomsoever we have cried out unto him?

Or what great nation is there which hath righteous statutes and regulations, like all this law, which I am setting before you to-day?

Only take heed to thyself, and keep thy soul diligently, so that thou forget not the things which thine own eyes have seen, and so that they go not out of thy heart, all the days of thy life,—but thou shalt make them known unto thy sons, and unto thy sons' sons:

What day thou didst stand before Yahweh thy God, in Horeb, when Yahweh said unto me, Gather unto me the people, that I may let them hear my words,—which they must learn, that they may revere me, all the days which they are living upon the soil, their children also must teach them.

So ye drew near and stood, under the mountain. Now the mountain was burning with fire, up to the midst of...
Then spake Yahweh unto you, out of the midst of the fire, — * Exo. xx. 21. * ye' were hearing, < no form> were ye seeing, [there was] only a voice. * 12 Then declared he unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to do, [the ten words],— and wrote them upon two tables of stone. And < unto me > gave Yahweh command, at that time, to teach you, statutes and regulations,— that ye should do them, in the land whereto ye' are passing over, to possess it. * Exo. xx. 4, n. ■ Or: "any of." ^ML.: " over your words" (or "affairs"). • A sp. v. r. (seri) would lead us to translate: "as" (instead of: " the which." )— Cp. G.n. ® Or: " asleep." thing, and shall do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh thy God, provoking him to anger> 20 I take both the heavens and the earth to witness against you, today, that ye shall perish] speedily from off the land which ye' are passing over the Jordan to possess,— ye shall not prolong your days thereupon ; for [ye shall surely be laid waste]; 27 and Yahweh will scatter you among the peoples,— and ye shall have left remaining of you, men easily counted,* among the nations whither Yahweh will drive you; * and ye will serve, there, gods made by the hands of man,— wood or stone, which neither see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell. * If thou shalt seek from thence, Yahweh thy God > then shalt thou find him,— when thou shalt search after him with all thy heart, and with all thy soul. * In thy distress, when all these things [have found thee out]— in the afterpart of the days > thou wilt return unto Yahweh thy God, and wilt hearken to his voice. 21 For < a God of compassion > is Yahweh thy God, he will not forsake thee, neither will he destroy thee,— nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he sware unto them. For ask, I pray you, of the former days which were before thee, even from the day when God created man upon the earth, yea from one end of the heavens, even to the other end of the heavens,— whether aught was ever brought to pass like this great thing, or was ever heard of like it: * Did's a people ever hear the voice of a god 4 speaking out of the midst of fire, as " thou!| didst hear [.

So then thou must consider to-day, and bring it back to thy heart, that "Yahweh" he is God, in the heavens above, and upon the earth beneath,—there is none other. 49 So shalt thou keep his statutes and his commandments, which I am commanding thee to-day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy sons after thee,—and to the end thou mayest prolong (thy) days upon the soil, which "Yahweh thy God" is giving thee, [all the days].

41 Then did Moses set apart three cities, over the Jordan,—towards the rising of the sun: 42 that the manslayer might flee thither, who should slay his neighbour, unawares, [he not having hated him] aforetime,—and might flee unto one of these cities, and live: 43 namely Bezer, in the desert of the table-land, for the Reubenites,—and Ramoth in Gilead, for the Gadites, and Golan in Bashan, for the Mannites.

5. An Editorial Introduction leads up to Moses' Recapitulation of the Ten Commandments and his further Description of the Circumstances under which the Divine Voice uttered them.

44 Then is the law which Moses set before the sons of Israel: 45 [These] are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the regulations,—which Moses spake unto the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of Egypt: 46 over the Jordan, in the valley over against Beth-peor,—in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon,—whom Moses and the sons of Israel smote, when they came forth out of Egypt: 47 so they took possession of his land, and the land of Og king of Bashan, the two kings of the Amorites, who were over the Jordan,—towards the rising of the sun 48 from Aroer which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, even unto Mount Siôn, [the same] is Hermon; 49 and all the waste plain over the Jordan, towards sunrise, even unto the sea of the waste plain,—under the slopes of the Pisghah.

Then called Moses unto all Israel, and said unto them—

Hear, O Israel, the statutes and the regulations, which I am speaking in your ears to-day,—so shall ye learn them, and observe, to do them.

["Yahweh our God"] solemnised with us a covenant in Horeb: 2 not with our fathers, 3 but with us, ourselves,—[these] here to-day, all of us living. 4 <Face to face> spake Yahweh with you, in the mount, out of the midst of the fire,

(I was standing between Yahweh and you, at that time, to declare unto you the word of Yahweh,—for ye shrank with fear from the presence of the fire, and went not up in the mount) the soil which Yahweh thy God is about to give unto thee:

17 Thou shalt not commit murder:

18 Neither shalt thou commit adultery:

19 Neither shalt thou steal:

20 Neither shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbour:

21 Neither shalt thou covet thy neighbour's wife,—neither shalt thou desire thy neighbour's house, his field, or his servant, or his handmaid, his ox or his ass, or anything that is thy neighbour's.

22 <These words> spake Yahweh, unto all the convocation of you, in the mount, out of the midst of the fire, the cloud, and the thick gloom, a loud voice, and added not,—and he wrote them upon two tables of stone, and gave them unto me.

23 And it came to pass, <when ye heard the voice, out of the midst of the darkness, the mountain also burning with fire> then drew ye near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders, 24 and ye said—

Lo! Yahweh our God hath let us see' his glory and his greatness, <his voice also> have we heard out of the midst of the fire,— <this day> have we seen, that God 'may speak with man', who yet may live.

25 Now [therefore, why] should we die? for this great fire will consume us,—<if we ourselves hear the voice of Yahweh our God anymore> we shall die. 26 For who [is there] of all flesh, that ever heard the voice of a Living God, speaking out of the midst of fire, <as we> and ye lived?

27 Go <thou> near, and hear, all that Yahweh our God shall say,—so shalt thou speak unto us, all that Yahweh our God shall speak unto thee, and we will hear and do.

28 And Yahweh heard 'the voice of your words, when ye spake unto me,—and Yahweh said unto me—

I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have spoken unto thee, they have well said all which they have spoken. 29 Oh that this their heart might remain in them, to revere me, and to keep all my commandments, all the days,—that it might be well with them and with their sons, unto times age-abiding. 30 Go, say unto them,—

Return ye to your tents.

31 Thou therefore, here' stand with me and let me speak unto thee— all the commandment, and the statutes, and the regulations, which thou shalt teach them,—that they may do [them] in the land which I am giving unto them, to possess it.

So then ye must observe to do, as Yahweh your God hath commanded you,—ye must not turn aside, to the right hand or to the left. 32 <In all the way which Yahweh your God hath commanded you> must ye walk,—that ye may live, and it be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land, which ye shall possess.

1 ||This: then, is the commandment,—[namely] the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh your God hath commanded, to teach you,—that ye may do them in the land whither ye' are passing over to possess it:

2 that thou mayest revere Yahweh thy God, [so as] to keep all his statutes and his commandments which I am commanding thee, 'thou, and thy son and thy son's son], all the days of thy life,—and that thy days may be prolonged.

3 Therefore shalt thou hear, O Israel, and shalt observe to do, that it may be well with thee, and that ye may multiply greatly, as Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath spoken to thee, in a land flowing with milk and honey.

4 Hear, O Israel:

6 Yahweh is our God,—| Yahweh alone]

5 Thou shalt therefore love Yahweh thy God,—with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might; 6 soshall these words, which I am commanding thee to-day, be upon thy heart; 7 and thou shalt impress them upon thy sons, and shall speak of them,—when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up;

8 and thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thy hand,*—and they shall serve for bands between thine eyes; 9 and thou shalt write them upon the posts of thy house, and within thy gates.

10 So shall it be <when Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land, which he sware to thy fathers— to Abraham to Isaac and to Jacob, to give unto thee,—into cities great and goodly, which thou didst not build; and houses full of all good things, which thou filledst not, and hewn cisterns which thou hewedst not, vineyards and oliveyards which thou plantedst not,—and shalt eat and be full> 12 take heed unto thyself, lest thou...

forget Yahweh, who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants.

13 <Yahweh thy God> shalt thou revere, and <by his name> shalt thou swear.

14 Ye shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the peoples who are surrounding you; for  is Yahweh thy God, in thy midst, lest the anger of Yahweh thy God kindle upon thee, and so he destroy thee from off the face of the ground.

16 Ye shall not put Yahweh your God to the proof, — as ye put him to the proof in Massah (that is, "The place of proving").

17 Ye shall [keep] the commandments of Yahweh your God and his testimonies and his statutes, which he hath commanded thee; so shalt thou do what is right and what is pleasing in eyes of Yahweh, — that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest enter in and possess the good land, which Yahweh spake unto thy fathers;

19 to thrust out all thine enemies from before thee, — As spake Yahweh'.

§ 7. The Children to be instructed in the National History.

20 <When thy son shall ask thee in time to come, saying,— What mean the testimonies, and the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh our God commanded you?

21 Then shalt thou say unto thy son, <Servants> were we unto Pharaoh, in Egypt, — and Yahweh brought us forth out of Egypt, with a firm hand;

22 and Yahweh put forth signs and wonders, great and sore, upon Egypt, upon Pharaoh and upon all his household, before our eyes;

23 but he brought us in, to give unto us the land, which he sware unto our fathers.

24 So then Yahweh commanded' us to do all these statutes, to revere Yahweh our God, — for our good, all the days, to preserve us alive, (as at this day);

25 and <righteousness> shall it be to us, — when we take heed to do all this commandment, before Yahweh our God, 'as he commanded us'.

1 <When Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land which thou' art going in to possess, and shall clear away many nations from before thee — the Hittites and the Girgasites and the Amorites, and the Canaanites and the Perizzites, and the Hivites and the Jebusites — seven nations greater in number and stronger than thou; and Yahweh thy God shall deliver them up before thee, and thou shalt smite them;

2 [thou shalt devote them to destruction,

3 thou shalt not solomnise with them a covenant, neither shalt thou shew them favor;

4 neither shalt thou intermarry with them, — thy daughter> shall thou not give unto his' son, nor <his daughter> shall thou take for thy' son;

5 for he will turn aside thy son from following me, and they will serve other gods,

6 so shall the anger of Yahweh kindle upon you, and he will destroy thee speedily.

7 Verily <thus> shall ye do unto them:

<Their altars> shall ye tear down,

8 and <their pillars> shall ye break in pieces,

9 and <their sacred stems> shall ye burn down,

10 and <their carved images>d shall ye burn up in the fire.

8 For  art thou unto Yahweh thy God: <of thee> hast Yahweh thy God made choice;

9 that thou shouldst become his people as a treasure, above all the peoples that are on the face of the ground;

10 <not because ye were more in number than any of the peoples> did Yahweh become attached to you, and make choice of you, — for [ye] were fewer than any of the peoples;

11 but <because Yahweh loved you>, and because he would keep the oath which he sware unto your fathers; did Yahweh bring you forth with a firm hand, — and redeem thee out of the house of servants, 12 out of the hand of Pharaoh, king of Egypt.

13 So then, thou must know that <Yahweh thy God> is God, — the faithful God, keeping his covenant and his lovingkindness with them that love him, and keep his commandments, to a thousand generations;

14 but requiring them who hate him unto his face, to destroy them, — he will not be slack towards him that hateth him, <unto his face> will he requite him.

15 So shalt thou keep the commandment, and the statutes and the regulations, which I am commanding thee to-day, to do them.
Then shall it come to pass if ye will hearken unto these regulations, and keep and do them; then will Yahweh thy God keep with thee, the covenant and the loving-kindness which he sware unto thy fathers; and will love thee, and bless thee, and multiply thee, and bless the fruit of thy body and the fruit of thy ground, thy corn, and thy new wine and thine oil, the young of thy kine, and the ewes of thy flock, upon the soil which he sware unto thy fathers to give unto thee. Blessed shalt thou be beyond all the peoples; there shall not be in thee a barren male or female, nor among thy cattle; and Yahweh will turn away from thee, all disease, and as for all the sore sicknesses of Egypt which thou knowest he will not lay them upon thee, but will put them upon all who hate thee; and thou shalt devour all the peoples whom Yahweh thy God is delivering up unto thee, thine eye shall not look with pity upon them, neither shalt thou serve their gods, for a snare would it be unto thee.

Although thou mightest say in thy heart: More in number are these nations than I, how can I dispossess them? thou must remember what Yahweh thy God did, unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt; the great provings which thine own eyes saw, and the signs and the wonders, and the firm hand, and the stretched-out arm, wherewith Yahweh thy God brought thee forth, will Yahweh thy God send among them, until they are destroyed; and will devour all the peoples, before whom thou art afraid. Moreover also will Yahweh thy God send among them, until they are destroyed who are left remaining, and who are hiding themselves from thy face. Thou shalt not be affrighted at their presence, for Yahweh thy God in thy midst is a God great and to be revered. So will Yahweh thy God clear away these nations from before thee, little by little, thou mayest not consume them at once, lest the wild beast of the field should multiply over thee. But Yahweh thy God will deliver them up before thee, and discomfit them with a great discomfiture, until they are destroyed; and will deliver up unto thee, thine eye shall not look with pity upon them, neither shalt thou serve their gods, for a snare would it be unto thee. Blessed shalt thou be beyond all the peoples; there shall not be in thee a barren male or female, nor among thy cattle; and Yahweh will turn away from thee, all disease, and as for all the sore sicknesses of Egypt which thou knowest he will not lay them upon thee, but will put them upon all who hate thee; and thou shalt devour all the peoples whom Yahweh thy God is delivering up unto thee, thine eye shall not look with pity upon them, neither shalt thou serve their gods, for a snare would it be unto thee.

All the commandment which I am Command thee to-day shalt thou observe to do, that ye may live, and multiply, and enter in and possess the land, which Yahweh sware unto your fathers. So then, thou shalt remember all the way in which Yahweh thy God caused thee to journey these forty years in the desert, that he might humble thee, to put thee to the proof, to know what was in thy heart, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments, or not. So he humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna which thou hadst not known, neither had thy fathers' known,—that he might lead thee to consider that not on bread alone shall the son of earth live, but on whatsoever cometh from the bidding of Yahweh shall the son of earth live. Thy mantle hath not fallen with age from off thee, and thy foot hath not become swollen,—these forty years. Thou must consider, then, with thy heart, that as a man chasteneth his son, so Yahweh thy God hath been chastening thee. Thou shalt therefore keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God, to walk in his ways, and to revere him.

Dangers of Coming Abundance—Moses still speaking. For Yahweh thy God is bringing thee into a good land; a land of ravines of water, of fountains and depths, coming forth in valley, and in mountain: a land of wheat and barley, and vine and fig-tree, and pomegranate,—a land of olive oil, and honey: a land wherein not in scarcity shalt thou eat food, thou shalt lack nothing therein,—a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest Hew copper. So then thou shalt eat, and be satisfied, and bless Yahweh thy God, for the good land which he hath given unto thee.

11 Take heed to thyself, lest thou forget Yahweh thy God,—so as not to keep his commandments, and his regulations and his statutes, which I am commanding thee to-day;

12 lest thou eat, and be satisfied,—and goodly houses thou build, and inhabit; and thy herd and thy flock increase, and silver and gold increase unto thee,—and all thou hast shall increase; and so thy heart be lifted up,—and thou forget Yahweh thy God, who brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants;* who caused thee to journey through the great and terrible desert, of fiery serpents and scorpions, and thirsty wastes, where was no water,—who brought forth for thee water out of the flinty rock; who fed thee with manna in the desert, which thy fathers' had not known,—that he might humble thee, and that he might put thee to the proof, to do thee good in thy hereafter,* and lest thou shouldst say in thy heart,—Mine own strength and the might of mine own hand have gotten me this wealth.

18 But thou shalt remember Yahweh thy God, that it was he who had been giving thee strength to get wealth,—that so he might establish his covenant which he swore unto thy fathers (as at this day).

19 But it shall be if thou forget Yahweh thy God, and go after other gods, and serve them, and bow thyself down to them: I testify against you, to-day, that ye shall perish;* like the nations which Yahweh is causing to perish from before you;* so shall ye perish,—because ye would not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh your God.

9 Hear, O Israel! thou' art passing, to-day, over the Jordan, to go in to dispossess nations, greater and stronger than thou,—cities great and fortified into the heavens; a people great and tall, the sons of Anakim,—whom thou knowest,* and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the sons of Anak? So then, thou must consider to-day, that Yahweh thy God is he, it is that is passing over before thee, as a consuming fire, it is he, will destroy them, and he, will cause them to bow down before thee,—so shalt thou dispossess them, and destroy them speedily, as Yahweh hath spoken unto thee.

13 And Yahweh spake unto me, saying,— I have looked on this people, and lo! a stiff-necked people is it. 14 Let me alone,* that I may destroy them, and wipe out their name, from under the heavens,—and make thee' into a

12 thine aftertime.'
So I turned, and came down out of the mountain, now ||the mountain|| was burning with fire,—and the two tables of the covenant were upon my two hands. Then looked I, and lo! ye had sinned against Yahweh your God, ye had made you a molten calf,—ye had turned aside quickly, out of the way which Yahweh had commanded you. 17 So I seized the two tables, and cast them from off my two hands,—and brake them in pieces before your eyes.

Then lay I prostrate before Yahweh, as at the first. forty days and forty nights, <food> did I not eat, and <water> did I not drink,—because of all your sin which ye had sinned, in doing the thing that was wicked b in the eyes of Yahweh, to provoke him to anger. For I shrink with fear, from the face of the hot displeasure, wherewith Yahweh was provoked against you, to destroy you,—but Yahweh hearkened unto me, even at that time. 18 And <with Aaron> did Yahweh show himself exceedingly angry, to destroy him,—so I prostrated myself, even in behalf of Aaron, at that time. 19 And <your sin which ye had made, even the calf> took I, and burned it up with fire, and pounded it very small, until it was fine dust,—then cast I the dust thereof into the torrent, that descended out of the mountain. 20

Also <at Taberah, and at Massah, and at Kibroth-hataavah>—  became ye, unto Yahweh. 21 And <with Aaron> did Yahweh show himself to me,—so I prostrated myself, even in behalf of Aaron, at that time. 22 And <when Yahweh sent you out of Kadesh-barnes, saying, Go up and possess the land, which I have given you> then quarrelled ye with the bidding of Yahweh your God, and trusted him not, neither hearkened unto his voice. 23 Ye have been ||quarrelling|| with Yahweh,— ||from the day that I first knew you. 24

Thus, then, lay I prostrate before Yahweh, the forty days and the forty nights that I did lie b prostrate,—||because Yahweh spake of destroying you||. 25 Therefore I prostrated myself unto Yahweh, and said, My Lord Yahweh! Do not destroy thy people, even thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed in thy greatness,—which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt with a firm hand. 26 Have remembrance of thy servants, of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob,—do not regard the obduracy a of this people, or their lawlessness, or their sin : 27 lest the land out of which thou hast brought us forth say,

Because Yahweh was not able to bring them into the land of which he had spoken to them,—and because he hated them> took he them forth, to put them to death in the desert.

Yet ||they|| are thy people, and thine inheritance,—whom thou hast brought forth with thy great strength, and with thy stretched-out arm.

1 <At that time> said Yahweh unto me— 10 Cut thee out two tables of stone, like the first,—and come up unto me, into the mountain,—and make thee an ark of wood; 2 that I may write, upon the tables, the words which were on the first tables, which thou brakest in pieces,—then shalt thou put them in the ark.

So I made an ark, of acacia wood, and cut out two tables of stone, like the first,—and went up the mountain, having the two tables in my hand. 4 And he wrote upon the tables, according to the first writing—the ten words, which Yahweh had spoken unto e you in the mountain, out of the midst of the fire, in the day of the convocation,—and Yahweh delivered them unto me. 5 Then turned I, and came down out of the mountain, and put the tables in the ark which I had made,—and they have remained there, as Yahweh commanded' me.

And ||the sons of Israel|| set forward out of Beeroth Benejaakan— to Moserah,—<there> died Aaron, and was buried there, and Eleazar, his son, became priest in his stead. 7 <From thence> set they forward unto the Gudgodah,— and from the Gudgodah to Jotbathah, a land of torrents of water.

8 <At that time> did Yahweh separate the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of Yahweh,—to stand before Yahweh, to wait upon him, and to bless in his name (until this day). 9 <For this cause> hath Levi neither portion nor inheritance, with his brethren,—||Yahweh|| is his inheritance, as Yahweh thy God spake' unto him.

It follows that he had lain prostrate when he first received the Tables. Cp. ver. 85. b Note that, nearly everywhere, Idolatry is ||the wicked thing.||

§ 12. Further Exhortations.

II Now therefore, O Israel, what is Yahweh thy God asking of thee—but to revere Yahweh thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve Yahweh thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul: to keep the commandments of Yahweh, and his statutes, which I am commanding thee to-day, for thy good.

Therefore shall ye love the sojourner, for as touching Yahweh your God he is your song of praise. As seventy souls went thy fathers down into Egypt, and the Lord hath made thee like the stars of the heavens, so shall it come to pass, if ye will hearken unto my commandments, which I am commanding you, to love the sojourner, and keep his observance, and his statutes, and his regulations, and his commandments, all the days. And ye must know, to-day, for not with your sons [do I speak] who know not, neither have they seen) the discipline of Yahweh your God, his greatness, his firm hand, and his stretched-out arm; and his signs, and his doings, which he did in the midst of Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and unto all his land; and what he did unto the forces of Egypt—unto his horses and unto his chariots, in that he caused the waters of the Red Sea to flow over their faces, when they were pursuing after you, and so Yahweh destroyed them (unto this day): and what he did unto you, in the desert, until ye came in as far as this place; and what he did to Dathan and to Abiram, sons of Eliab, son of Reuben, in that the earth opened wide her mouth, and swallowed-up them and their households, and their tents, and all the living things that attended them, in the midst of all Israel.

Therefore shall ye keep all the commandment which I am commanding thee, to-day, that ye may be strong, and so enter and possess the land, whither ye are passing over unto possess it; and that ye may prolong your days upon the soil which Yahweh sware unto your fathers, to give unto them and unto their seed, a land flowing with milk and honey.

For the land which thou' art entering to possess is not like the land of Egypt, it is, from whence ye came out, where thou didst sow thy seed, and then water it with thy foot, like a garden of herbs; but the land whereinto ye are passing over to possess it is a land of hills, and valleys, which <of the rain of the heavens> doth not produce the seed.—Davie V H I.

And it shall come to pass, if ye will hearken unto my commandments, which I am commanding you, to-day, to love Yahweh your God, and to serve him, with all your heart, and with all your soul, then shall I give the rain of your land in it season, the early rain and the latter rain, promised as a blessing, and his sun shall be hot upon your land, and the land shall not yield her fruit, and the heaven over thy head shall be blackness day and night. And it shall come to pass, if ye do not hearken unto me, to walk in my statutes, which I command thee this day, to keep and do them; then shall the heaven over your head be blackness day and night, and the land shall not yield her fruit, and the soil shall not flow with milk and honey, and the heaven over your head shall be as brass over you. And it shall come to pass, if ye follow after many gods, and worship them, and serve them, I will turn and shut up the heaven from you, that it shall not rain, and the land shall not yield her fruit, and ye shall die in a land which ye cause not to flow with milk and honey. And it shall be, when ye be in distress and straitened in all these things, yet shall not be strong, unto the Lord your God, for ye cry unto him, and he doth hear you; and ye shall be gathered together again unto the land which thy fathers went in to possess. And ye shall serve other gods, which ye know not, neither your fathers; but I will drive them out from before you, and will drive them out from before you; and I will bring you into the land which ye go to possess, a land of hills and valleys, and such a land as hath no bread, nor oil, nor honey, nor meat, nor flocks, nor herds, nor any thing wherein ye set your heart upon: and ye shall eat and be satisfied, and build up your soul; and ye shall praise the Lord your God, that ye have not lent, neither borrowed and ye have not served foreign gods in their lands. And ye shall stay in the mountain, according to the word of the Lord, by day seven days, and the Lord will command you in this way, and in that way.

And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of talking with all the people of Israel, and had given them all the commandments, he said unto them, Call ye together the70 elders of Israel, and bring them unto me to the mountain, and I will set my glory before them, and I will speak unto thee therein of all the commandments which I command thee this day. And Moses came and told the words of the Lord unto the elders of Israel. And all the people answered and said, All the words which the Lord hath said will we do. And Moses told the words of the Lord unto the elders of Israel. And seventy elders did Moses call, and the Lord appeared in the mountain to Moses, and Moses told the words of the Lord unto the elders. And the elders of Israel did see the face of Moses; and, behold, the face of Moses was changed, as he came from the mountain. And Moses went down from the mountain, and Moses took the stone tables, wherein was the ten commandments, which the Lord had written; and when Moses came down from the mountain, four hundred and fifty days after he had gone up, two tables of stone, wherein was the writing of the covenant of the Lord, as he commanded him, to teach the children of Israel. And Moses came and told all the people all the words of the Lord, and all the judgments. And all the people answered and said, All the words which the Lord has spoken we will do. And Moses wrote all the words of the Lord, and gave them unto the children of Israel.

See! I am setting before you, to-day,—a blessing, and a curse: 22 the blessing, when ye shall hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh your God, which I am commanding you, to-day; and the curse, if ye shall not hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh your God, but shall turn aside out of the way which I am commanding you, to-day,—to go after other gods, which ye know not.*

And it shall come to pass <when Yahweh thy God shall bring thee into the land, which thou' art entering to possess > then shalt thou put the blessing, upon Mount Gerizim, and the curse, upon Mount Ebal.

§ 14. All Traces of Idolatry to be removed, and Yahweh's Worship to be centralised.

1 These|| are the statutes and the regulations 12 which ye must observe to do, in the land' which Yahweh the God of thy fathers hath given unto thee, 13 to possess it,—all the days that ye' are living upon the soil:

Upon the high mountains, And upon the hills, And under every green tree;

And ye must tear down their altars, And break in pieces their pillars, And |their sacred stems| must ye consume with fire, And <the carved images> of their gods must ye fell to the ground,—And destroy their name out of that place.

4 Ye must not do thus' unto Yahweh your God; 8 but <unto the place' which Yahweh your God shall choose, out of all your tribes, to put his name there,—as his habitation shall ye ask your way, and come in thither; 6 and bring in thither your ascending-offerings, and your sacrifices,* and your tithes, and the heave-offerings, and your freewill-offerings, and your sacrifices,* and your tithes, and the heave-offerings, and your freewill-offerings, and the firstlings of your herd, and of your flock; 7 and shall eat there, before Yahweh your God, and rejoice in all whereunto ye are putting your hand, [ye, and your households,—wherewith Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee].

8 Ye must not do according to all that we' are doing here, to-day,—every man, whatsoever is right in his own eyes|. Because

Another hint that only ye have not entered, as yet, into the resting-place and into the inheritance, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee.<ref>
But when ye shall pass over the Jordan, and settle down in the land which Yahweh your God is causing you to inherit,—and he shall give you rest from all your enemies round about, and ye shall dwell securely> then shall it be, that unto the place which Yahweh your God shall choose to make a habitation for his name there> shall ye bring in all that I am commanding you,—your ascending-offerings and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all your chosen vow-offerings which ye shall vow unto Yahweh. So shall ye rejoice before Yahweh your God, and your sons, and your daughters, and your servants, and your handmaids,—and the Levite that is within your gates>, forasmuch as he hath neither portion nor inheritance with you.<ref>

Take heed to thyself, lest thou cause thine ascending-sacrifice to go up in just any place which thou shalt see; but in the place which Yahweh shall choose in one of thy tribes> shalt thou cause thine ascending-sacrifice to go up, and there shalt thou do all that I am commanding thee.

Howbeit<ref> of anything thy soul desireth> mayest thou sacrifice<ref> and so eat flesh—according to the blessing of Yahweh thy God which he hath bestowed upon thee, in all thy gates, if the unclean and the clean be of whatsoever thy soul desireth> to eat thereof,—as the gazelle and as the hart<ref>. Howbeit<ref> the blood shall ye not eat,— upon the earth shalt thou pour it out, like water.

Thou mayest not eat within thy gates, the tithe of thy corn, or of thy new wine or of thine oil, or the firstlings of thy herd, or of thy flock,—nor any of thy vow-offerings which thou shalt vow, nor thy freewill-offerings, nor the heave-offering of thy hand; but before Yahweh thy God shalt thou eat it, in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose,—thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy servant and thy handmaid, and the Levite that is within thy gates,—so shalt thou rejoice before Yahweh thy God, in all whereunto thou puttest thine hand.<ref> Take heed to thyself, lest thou forsake the Levite,—all thy days, upon thy soil.<ref>

When Yahweh thy God shall enlarge thy boundary—as he hath spoken unto thee—and thou shalt say, I would eat flesh because thy soul desireth to eat flesh<ref> of whatsoever thy soul desireth> mayest thou eat flesh.

When the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose to put his name there, shall be too far for thee> then shalt thou sacrifice of thy herd or of thy flock, which Yahweh hath given unto thee, as I have commanded thee,—and shalt eat, within thine own gates>, of whatsoever thy soul desireth<ref>.

Even as the gazelle and the hart is eaten> shalt thou eat it,—the unclean and the clean alike shall eat it.

Howbeit firmly refrain from eating the blood; for the blood is the life,—therefore must thou not eat the life with the flesh. Thou shalt not eat it.—upon the earth shalt thou pour it out, like water. Thou shalt not eat it,—that it may be well with thee, and with thy children after thee, when thou shalt do that which is right in the eyes of Yahweh<ref>.

Howbeit thy holy things which thou shalt have, and thy vow-offerings shall thou take and come in, unto the place which Yahweh shall choose; and shalt offer thine ascending-sacrifices, the flesh and the blood, upon the altar of Yahweh thy God,—and the blood of thine [other] sacrifices> shall be poured out upon the altar of Yahweh thy God, and then the flesh shalt thou eat.<ref> Observe and hear all these things which I am commanding thee,—that it may be well with thee, and with thy children after thee,—unto times age-abiding, [so long as thou shalt do that which is pleasing and right in the eyes of Yahweh thy God].

When Yahweh thy God shall cut off from before thee, the nations whom thou art going in to dispossess,—and thou do dispossess them, and dwell in their land> take heed to thyself, lest thou be thrust after them, after they have been destroyed from before thee,—and lest thou enquire after their gods, saying—In what manner> did these nations serve their gods, that I too may do likewise<ref>?

Thou shalt not do likewise unto Yahweh thy God,—for everything that is an abomination unto Yahweh, which he doth hate> have they done unto their gods, for they have done unto their gods, and do they consume with fire unto their and the sign or the wonder shall come in, whereby he spaketh unto thee, saying,—

Let us go after other gods, which ye know not, and let us serve them thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or unto that dreamer of dreams, for Yahweh your God is putting you to the proof in order to know whether ye do love Yahweh your God, with all your heart and with all your soul.

<After Yahweh your God shall ye walk.> And <unto him> shall ye hearken, and <unto his voice> shall ye hearken, and <him> shall ye serve, and <unto him> shall ye cleave.

<When thy brother—son of thine own mother, or thine own son or thine own daughter, or the wife of thy bosom, or thy friend who is as thine own soul, shall entice thee secretly> saying,—

Let us go and serve other gods which ye have not known; and thou shalt enquire, and search out, and ask diligently,—and lo! is the thing, this abomination hath been done in thy midst.> then shalt thou smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, devoting it to destruction, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword, and <all the spoil thereof> shalt thou gather together into the midst of the broadway thereof, and shalt consume with fire the city and all the spoil thereof. every whit unto Yahweh thy God,—and it shall be a heap unto times age-abiding, it shall be built no more. So shall there not cleave to thy hand aught of the devoted thing—that Yahweh may turn away from the glow of his anger, and grant thee compassion, and have compassion upon thee and multiply thee, as he spake unto thy fathers: so long as thou shalt hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep all his commandments, which I am commanding thee to-day, to do what is right in the eyes of Yahweh thy God.

§ 16. Israelites neither to Disfigure nor to Defile themselves.

<When there shall arise in thy midst—a terrible indictment shall be brought against thee> saying:

There have gone forth men, sons of the Abandoned One, out of thy midst, and have seduced the inhabitants of their city, saying,—

Let us go and serve other gods which ye have not known; and thou shalt enquire, and search out, and ask diligently,—and lo! is the thing, this abomination hath been done in thy midst. then shalt thou smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, devoting it to destruction, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword, and all the spoil thereof shalt thou gather together into the midst of the broadway thereof, and shalt consume with fire the city and all the spoil thereof. every whit unto Yahweh thy God,—and it shall be a heap unto times age-abiding, it shall be built no more. So shall there not cleave to thy hand aught of the devoted thing—that Yahweh may turn away from the glow of his anger, and grant thee compassion, and have compassion upon thee and multiply thee, as he spake unto thy fathers: so long as thou shalt hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep all his commandments, which I am commanding thee to-day, to do what is right in the eyes of Yahweh thy God.

This terrible indictment should be well considered. "The iniquity of the Amorites" had at length become "full." (Gen. xv. 16). Cp. chap. xviii. 9-13; also, note at end of "Joshua."

Even supernatural powers must not tempt you to idolatry.

Let us go and serve other gods which ye have not known; and thou shalt enquire, and search out, and ask diligently,—and lo! is the thing, this abomination hath been done in thy midst. then shalt thou smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, devoting it to destruction, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword, and all the spoil thereof shalt thou gather together into the midst of the broadway thereof, and shalt consume with fire the city and all the spoil thereof. every whit unto Yahweh thy God,—and it shall be a heap unto times age-abiding, it shall be built no more. So shall there not cleave to thy hand aught of the devoted thing—that Yahweh may turn away from the glow of his anger, and grant thee compassion, and have compassion upon thee and multiply thee, as he spake unto thy fathers: so long as thou shalt hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep all his commandments, which I am commanding thee to-day, to do what is right in the eyes of Yahweh thy God.

DEUTERONOMY XIV. 7—29; XV. 1—7.

1. Nevertheless these shall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, and of them that divide the cloven hoof;—the camel, and the hare, and the rabbit, for though they do chew the cud; yet the hoof do they not part, unclean they are unto you. 2. And of the swine because though he doth divide the hoof yet he cheweth not the cud, unclean he is unto you. 3. Ye shall not eat any thing that dieth of itself: to the sojourner who is within thy gates mayest thou give it and he may eat; 4. and whatsoever hath not fins and scales ye may not eat,—unclean it is unto you.

5. Of every clean bird ye may eat; 6. saving the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the osprey; 7. and the vulture, and the kite, and the falcon; after its kind; 8. and every raven, after its kind; 9. and the female ostrich, and the male ostrich, and the sea-gull; 10. and the stork, and the parrot, after its kind; 11. and the mountain-cock, and the bat. 12. And as for every creeping thing that lieth in wait of you, ye shall not eat; 13. nor of their flesh shall ye eat, and their carcases shall ye not touch.

14. These may ye eat of all that are in the waters;—whatsoever hath fins and scales ye may eat; 15. and whatsoever hath not fins and scales ye may not eat,—unclean it is unto you.

16. Of every clean thing ye may eat; 17. saving the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the osprey; 18. and the vulture, and the kite, and the falcon; 19. after its kind; 20. and the swine because though he doth divide the hoof yet he cheweth not the cud, unclean he is unto you; 21. of their flesh ye shall not eat, and of their carcases ye shall not touch.

22. Thou shalt surely tithe all the increase of thy seed,—which the field bringeth forth year by year. 23. And thou shalt eat before Yahweh thy God—in the place which he shall choose, to make a habitation for his name there,—the tithe of thy corn, thy new wine and thine oil, and the firstling of thy herd, and of thy flock,—that thou mayest learn to reverence Yahweh thy God, all the days. 24. But when the way becometh too long for thee, because thou cannot carry it, because the place is too far for thee, which Yahweh thy God shall choose to put his name there,—because Yahweh thy God blesseth thee, 25 then shalt thou turn it into silver,—and shalt bind up the silver in thy hand, and shalt journey unto the place, which Yahweh thy God shall choose; 26 and shalt turn the silver into whatsoever thy soul desireth,—of the herd or of the flock, or of wine, or of strong drink, or of whatsoever thy soul shall ask thee for,—and shalt eat it there, before Yahweh thy God, and shalt rejoice, 27 and thy household, 28 and the Levite who is within thy gates thou shalt not forsake him,—for he hath neither portion nor inheritance with thee.

1. At the end of seven years shalt thou make a release.

2. And [this] shall be the manner of the release, every creditor who lendeth aught to his neighbour shall release it,—he shall not exact it of his neighbour or his brother, because there hath been proclaimed a release, unto Yahweh. 3. Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it,—but what thou hast with thy brother thy hand shall release; 4. save when there shall be among you a needy person, 5. for Yahweh will indeed bless thee, in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee as an inheritance, to possess it; only' if thou [do hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God,]—to observe to do all this commandment which I am commanding thee to-day. 6. When Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee, as he spake unto thee then shalt thou lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow, and thou shalt rule over many nations, but over thee shall they not rule.

§ 19. Needy and Enslaved to be well cared for.

1. When there cometh to be among you a needy person, any one of thy brethren, within any one of thy gates, in thy land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, thou shalt not harden thy heart, nor shut thy hand from thy needy brother;
but thou shalt [open] thy hand unto him, and lend him, enough to meet the poverty which doth impoverish him. 9 Take thou heed to thyself, lest there be something near thine abandoned' heart, saying—

"<Drawing nigh> is the seventh year, the year of release, and so thine eye be evil against thy needy' brother, and thou give not unto him, and he cry out against thee, unto Yahweh, and it become in thee, a sin! Thou shalt [give] unto him, and thy heart [shall not be evil] when thou givest unto him, for <on account of this very thing> will Yahweh thy God bless thee, in all that thou doest, and in all whereunto thou puttest thy hand. > For the needy will not cease out of the midst of the land. — <for this cause> am I commanding thee. Thou shalt [open] thy hand unto thy brother, to thy poor and to thy needy, in thy land.

<When thy brother, a Hebrew man (or a Hebrew woman) selleth himself unto thee> then shall he serve thee six years,—and in the seventh year shalt thou let him go out free, from thee; and <when thou lettest him go out free, from thee> thou shalt not let him go out [empty]: thou shalt richly load him out of thy flock, and out of thy threshing-floor, and out of thy wine-vat,—<of that wherewith Yahweh thy God hath blessed thee> shalt thou give unto him; and thou shalt remember, that  thou wast, in the land of Egypt, and that Yahweh thy God [redeemed thee],—<for this cause> am I commanding thee this thing, to-day. And it shall be <if he shall say unto thee>, I will not go away from thee,—because he loveth thee, and thy household, because he is well off with thee; then shalt thou take an awl, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, so shall he be thy servant all his life. And <unto thine handmaid also> shalt thou do thus. It shall not be hard in thine eyes, when thou lettest him go out free, from thee; for <to the double of the hire> hath he served thee, six years,—so will Yahweh thy God bless thee, in all that thou doest.

§ 20. Firstlings to be devoted to Yahweh.

<Every firstling that is brought forth in thy herd and in thy flock, that is a male> shalt thou hallow unto Yahweh thy God,—thou shalt not work with a firstling of thine oxen, neither shalt thou shear a firstling of thy flock:

<before Yahweh thy God> shalt thou eat it, year by year, in the place which Yahweh shall choose,—thou, and thy household. But <when there is in it any blemish, lameness or blindness, any ill blemish> thou shalt not sacrifice it unto Yahweh thy God: <within thine own gates> mayest thou eat it,—the unclean [of you] and the clean, alike, <as the gazelle and as the hart>. Only <the blood thereof> shalt thou not eat,—<on the earth> shalt thou pour it out, like water.

§ 21. The Passover to be Kept.

Observe the month of Abib, when thou shalt <keep a passover unto Yahweh thy God,—for <in the month of Abib> did Yahweh thy God bring thee forth out of Egypt, by night: therefore shalt thou sacrifice a passover unto Yahweh thy God, of flock or of herd,—in the place which Yahweh shall choose, to make a habitation for his name there. Thou shalt not eat therewith, any thing leavened, <seven days> shalt thou eat therewith unleavened cakes, the bread of humiliation,—<for <in haste>> camest thou forth out of the land of Egypt, that thou mayest remember the day when thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt, all the days of thy life. And there shall not be seen with thee leaven, in any of thy bounds, seven days,—neither shall there remain all night of the flesh which thou shalt sacrifice in the evening, on the first day, unto the morning. Thou mayest not sacrifice the passover,—within any of thine own gates, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee; but <in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose> to make a habitation for his name> <there> shall thou sacrifice the passover, in the evening,—at the going in of the sun, at the very time thou camest forth out of Egypt. Therefore shalt thou cook and eat it in the place which Yahweh thy God <shall choose>,—and shall turn away in the morning, and go thy way unto thy tents. <Six days> shalt thou eat unleavened cakes,—and <on the seventh day> shall be a closing feast, unto Yahweh thy God, thou shalt do no work.

§ 22. The Festival of Weeks.

<Seven weeks> shalt thou count unto thee,—<from the beginning of thrusting in the sickle into the standing corn> shalt thou...
begin to count, seven weeks. 10 So shalt thou keep the festival of weeks unto Yahweh thy God, in the measure of the freewill offering of thy hand, which thou shalt give, — as Yahweh thy God [shall bless thee]. 11 So shalt thou rejoice before Yahweh thy God — thou, and thy son and thy daughter, and thy servant and thy handmaid, and the Levite who is within thy gates, and the sojourner, and the fatherless and the widow, who are in thy midst, — in the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose', to make a habitation for his name there. 12 So shalt thou remember that  thou wast, in Egypt, — and shalt observe and do all these statutes.

§ 23. The Festival of Booths.

(Cp. chap. xxxi. 10.)

13 <The festival of booths> shalt thou keep for thyself, seven days, — when thou hast gathered in out of thy threshing-floor, and out of thy wine-vat. 14 And thou shalt rejoice, in thy festival, — thou, and thy son and thy daughter, and thy servant and thy handmaid, and the Levite and the sojourner, and the fatherless and the widow, who are within thy gates]. 15 <Seven days> shalt thou keep festival unto Yahweh thy God, in the place which Yahweh shall choose', — for Yahweh thy God [will bless thee] in all thine increase, and in all the work of thy hands, — therefore shalt thou do nothing but rejoice.

§ 24. Three Annual Festivals.

16 <Three times in the year> shall each one of thy males see the face of Yahweh thy God, in the place which he shall choose, at the festival of unleavened cakes, and at the festival of weeks, and at the festival of Booths, — and none shall see the face of Yahweh empty-handed: 17 every man according as his hand can give, according to the blessing of Yahweh thy God, which he hath bestowed upon thee. 18

§ 25. Concerning Petty Judges and Officers (and the Evils they are to suppress).

19 <Judges and officers> shalt thou appoint thee, in all thy gates, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, by thy tribes, — and they shall judge the people, with righteous judgment. 20 Thou shalt not wrest judgment, thou shalt not take note of faces, — nor shalt thou accept a bribe, for the bribe blindeth the eyes of wise men, and perverteth the words of righteous men. 21 <What is right, what is right> shalt thou pursue, — that thou mayest live, and possess the land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee.

22 Thou shalt not plant thee, as a sacred stem, any tree, — near unto the altar of Yahweh thy God, which thou shalt make for thyself: neither shalt thou set thee up a pillar, — which Yahweh thy God [doth hate].

1 Thou shalt not sacrifice unto Yahweh thy God a bullock, nor a sheep, wherein is a blemish, any unseemly thing: for an abomination unto Yahweh thy God it would be.

2 When there shall be found in thy midst, within any of thy gates, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, man or woman who doeth the thing which is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh thy God, by transgressing his covenant: 3 ye shall have, and served other gods, and bowed down unto them, — whether unto the sun or unto the moon, or unto any of the host of the heavens, which I have not commanded; 4 and it shall be told thee, and thou shalt hear, — and shalt enquire diligently, and lo! the report, this abominable thing hath been done in Israel: 5 then shalt thou bring forth that man, or that woman, who hath done this wicked thing, within thy gates — the man, or the woman, — and shalt stone them with stones, that they die. 6 <At the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses> shall he that is to die be put to death, — he shall not be put to death at the mouth of one witness.

7 <The hand of the witnesses shall be upon the mouth of him> that is to die, — he shall not be put to death at the mouth of one witness.

§ 26. Difficult Cases to be referred to Superior Judges.

8 When any matter of judgment shall be too difficult for thee — between blood and blood, between slayer and slayer, or between stroke and stroke, matters of contention within thy gates — then shalt thou arise and go up unto the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose; 9 and shalt come in unto the priests, the Levites, and unto the judge, who shall be in those days, — and shalt enquire, and they shall declare unto thee.
the sentence of judgment; 10 and thou shalt do, according to the sentence which they shall declare unto thee, out of that place, which Yahweh [shall choose],— yea thou shalt observe to do, according to all which they shall direct thee: 11 according to the direction wherewith they direct thee, and after the judgment which they shall announce to thee> shalt thou do, — thou shalt not turn aside from the sentence which they shall declare unto thee, to the right hand or to the left. 12 And <the man' who shall do presumptuously, by not hearkening unto the priest that standeth to minister there, to Yahweh thy God, or unto the judge> that man [shall die], and so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of Israel. 13 And all the people shall hear and fear,— and shall not act presumptuously any more.

§ 27. Concerning Kings.

14 When thou shalt enter into the land, which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, and shalt possess it, and dwell therein,— and shalt say—
I will set over me a king, like all the nations that are round about me > thou shalt [set] over thee, as king, him whom Yahweh thy God [shall choose],— 15 <out of the midst of thy brethren> shalt thou set over thee a king, thou mayest not appoint over thee a man that is a foreigner, who is <not thy brother>.

Moreover he shall not multiply to himself horses, neither shall he cause the people to return to Egypt, that he may multiply horses,— when Yahweh hath said unto you, Ye shall not again return this way any more'. 16 Neither shall he multiply to himself wives, that his heart turn not aside,— nor <silver and gold> shall he multiply to himself [greatly].

17 But it shall be, when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom > then shall he write for himself a copy of this law, upon a scroll, out of [that which is] before the priests, the Levites; 18 so shall it be with' him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life,— that he may learn to revere Yahweh his God, to observe all the words of this law, and these statutes, to do them: 19 that his heart may not be lifted up above his brethren, and he may not turn aside from the commandment, to the right hand or to the left,— that he may prolong his days over his kingdom— [he, and his sons], in the midst of Israel.

§ 28. Levites to be honoured and cared for.

1 Neither the priests, the Levites, [nor] any of 18 the tribe of Levi, shall have either portion or inheritance with Israel,— <the altar-flames of Yahweh, and his inheritance> shall they eat. 2 But <inheritance shall he not have, in the midst of his brethren,— ||Yahweh|| is his inheritance, as he spake unto him. 3 This therefore, shall be the due of the priests, from the people, from them who offer the sacrifice, whether ox or lamb, — there shall be given unto the priest, the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw: 4 <the firstfruit of thy corn, thy new wine, and thine oil, and the first of the fleece of thy flock> shalt thou give unto him. 5 For <of him> hath Yahweh thy God made choice, out of all thy tribes, — to stand to minister* in the name of Yahweh, [of him and his sons, all the days]]. 6 And <when the Levite shall come in, out of any of thy gates, out of any part of Israel, where he' is sojourning,— yea, shall come in with all the desire of his soul, into the place which Yahweh shall choose> then may he minister* in the name of Yahweh his God,— like any of his brethren the Levites, who are standing there before Yahweh. 8 <Portion for portion> shall they eat,— apart from his possessions, upon his patrimony.

§ 29. Canaanite Abominations specified and warned against: A Prophet like Moses to be expected: False Prophets not to be feared.

9 <When thou art' coming into the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee> thou shalt not learn to do' according to the abominable doings of those nations. 10 There shall not be found in thy midst— One who causeth his son or his daughter to pass through fire,— Or who useth divination, hidden arts or enchantments, Or who muttereth incantations; 11 Or who bindeth with spells,— Or who asketh of a familiar spirit, or an oracle, Or who seeketh unto the dead.

12 For <an abomination unto Yahweh> is everyone who doeth these things,— and <on account of these abominations> is Yahweh thy God’ dispossessing them from before thee. 13 <Blameless>d shalt thou be, with Yahweh thy God; 14 for these nations whom thou’ art dispossessing || unto them who use hidden arts and unto diviners> do hearken, but <as for thee> [not so] doth Yahweh thy God [suffer thee]. 15 <A prophet* out of thy midst, of thy brethren, God'—G.n. 16 Or: “wait.” 17 Or: “devoted,” “single-hearted.” 18 Or: “Y. thy...
like unto me> will Yahweh thy God raise up unto thee> — unto him> shall ye hearken: — 16 according to all which thou didst ask of Yahweh thy God, in Horeb, in the day of the convocation,* saying,—

Let me no further hearken unto the voice of Yahweh my God, and <this great fire> let me not see any more, lest I die.

And Yahweh said unto me:

They have well said what they have spoken. 19 And it shall come to pass, that <the man who will not hearken unto my words, which he shall speak in my name> will require it of him. 20 Howbeit <the prophet who shall presume to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or who shall speak in the name of other gods> will he speak unto them whatsoever I shall command him. 21 And <when thou shalt say in thy heart,—> In what manner shall we know the word which Yahweh hath not spoken? 22 <When the prophet shall speak in the name of Yahweh, and the word shall not come to pass, neither shall it come in> that is the word which Yahweh hath not spoken, — <presumptuously> hath the prophet spoken it, thou shalt not be in dread of him. 23 And <when thou shalt say in thy heart,—> That which the prophet who shall speak in my name hath said, it is the word of Yahweh: 24 If the prophet who shall speak in my name shall not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh my God, but shall speak presumptuously, — <the prophet shall die>.

§ 30. Three Cities of Refuge West of the Jordan—The Manslayer. (Pp. 64.)

19 <When Yahweh thy God shall cut off the nations, whose land Yahweh thy God is giving thee, and thou shalt dispossess them, and dwell in their cities, and in their houses> shall three cities thou set apart for thee,—in the midst of thy land which Yahweh thy God is giving thee to possess. 20 Thou shalt prepare for thee a way, and shalt divide into three parts the boundary of thy land which Yahweh thy God shall cause thee to inherit, — and it shall be, that every manslayer shall flee thither. 21 And this is the case of the manslayer, who shall flee thither and live,— <Whoso shall smite his neighbour unwittingly, ||he|| not having hated him aforetime; * as when one entereth with his neighbour into a forest, to fell trees, and his hand fetcheth a stroke with the axe, to cut down the tree, and the head fieth off from the handle, b and lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die> he shall flee into one of these cities, and live; lest the blood' redeemer pursue the manslayer, because his heart is hot, and overtake him, because the way is long, and he smite him so as to take away his life, — he not being worthy of death, seeing that he had not been hating him, aforetime.* 7 <For this cause> am I commanding thee, saying, — <Three cities> shalt thou set apart for thee. 8 But <if Yahweh thy God should enlarge thy bounds, as he sware unto thy fathers,—and should give thee all the land, which he spake of giving unto thy fathers; > because thou dost observe all this commandment, to do it which I am commanding thee to-day, to love Yahweh thy God, and to walk in his paths all the days> then shalt thou add unto thee yet three cities, unto these three; that innocent blood may not be shed in the midst of thy land, which Yahweh thy God' is giving unto thee, as an inheritance, — and so shed-blood shall be upon thee. 11 But <when any man shall be hating his neighbour, and shall lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and smite him so as to take away his life, that he dieth,—and shall then flee into one of these cities> shall the elders of his city send' and fetch him from thence, — and deliver him into the hand of the blood' redeemer, that he die; 22 thine eye shall not look with pity upon him, — so shalt thou consume the shedding of innocent blood out of Israel, and it shall go well with thee.

§ 31. Concerning Boundaries and Witnesses.

Thou shalt not move back the boundary of thy neighbour, by which they set bounds at first,—in thine inheritance which thou shalt receive, in the land which Yahweh thy God' is giving thee to possess. 14 One witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, with regard to any sin that he may commit, — <at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses> must a matter be established. * 15 <When there shall rise up a wrongful witness against a man,—> to answer: 16 "yesterday, the third." * Or: "blood-guiltiness" b Or: "iron fieth off from the wood." c Or: "testify." d Lit.: "smite him to the soul."
against him, perversely. Then shall the two men who are at variance stand before Yahweh, before the priests and the judges, who shall be in those days; and the judges shall make diligent inquisition, and lo! if the witness be a false witness and falsely have answered against his brother, then shall ye do unto him as he had thought to do unto his brother, so shall thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst; and if they who remain shall hear and fear, and not go on to do again according to this wicked thing, in thy midst, neither shall thine eye pity, life for life, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

§ 32. As to Making War: Canaanite Cities only to be Necessarily Destroyed.

1. When thou shalt go out to wage war against thine enemy, and shalt see the horses and chariots of a people more in number than thou, thou shalt not be afraid of them, for Yahweh thy God is with thee, who brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

2. And it shall be, when ye are coming nigh unto the battle, that the priest shall approach and speak unto the people; and shall say unto them,

Hear, O Israel, ye are coming near to day, unto battle, against your enemies, let not your heart faint, do not fear, nor start, nor quake, because of them. For Yahweh thy God is he that is going with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.

3. Then shall the officers speak unto the people, saying,

Who is the man that hath built a new house, and hath not dedicated it? let him go, and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it.

4. And who is the man that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not thrown it open? let him go, and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man throw it open.

5. And who is the man that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go, and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man take her.

Then shall the officers further speak unto the people, and say—

Who is the man that is fearful and fainthearted? let him go, and return unto his house, lest his brethren's heart melt as well as his heart.

And it shall be, when the officers have made an end of speaking unto the people, then shall they appoint captains of the host at the head of the people.

When thou shalt come nigh unto a city, to fight against it, then shalt thou proclaim unto it—peace. And it shall be, if peace be the answer it giveth thee, and it open unto thee, then shall it be, that all the people that are found therein shall become thy tributaries, and shall serve thee. But if it will not make peace with thee, but will make war with thee, then shalt thou lay siege to it; and Yahweh thy God will deliver it into thy hand, and thou shalt smite every male thereof, with the edge of the sword; but the women and the little ones and the cattle, and all that shall be in the city, all the spoil thereof, shalt thou take unto thee. Nevertheless, the tree of which thou knowest that it is not a tree yielding food, the same mayest thou destroy, and cut down, and so build up a siege-work against the city which is making war with thee, until thou hast subdued it.

Or: "call to it for peace"; or, more fully: "make a proclamation with a view to peace." Some cod. (w. Jon., Sep., Syr.) have: "hand upon the hands." G.n.

§ 33. Purging the Land from Innocent Blood.

1 When there shall be found one slain on the soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee to possess, lying prostrate in the field,—it not being known who smote him shall judge the city that is nearest unto the slain> the elders of that city shall take a heifer of the herd, which hath not been wrought with, which hath not drawn in a yoke; and the elders of that city shall take down the heifer into a ravine with an everflowing stream, which is neither tilled nor sown,—and shall behead there, the heifer, in the ravine. Then shall the priests, the sons of Levi, come near, for [of them] hath Yahweh thy God made choice, to wait upon him, and to bless, in the name of Yahweh,—and at their bidding shall be settled, every controversy and every punishment; and [all the elders of that city who are nearest unto the slain] shall bathe their hands' over the heifer' that hath been beheaded in the ravine, and shall respond, and say,—

Our hands shed not this blood, neither did [our eyes] see [the deed]. Be propitious unto thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed, O Yahweh, and do not impute innocent blood' in the midst of thy people Israel. So shall they obtain propitiation for the guilt of shedding blood.

§ 34. Concerning the Marriage of Female Captives.

10 When thou shalt go forth to war, against thine enemies, and Yahweh thy God shall deliver them into thy hand, and thou shalt take them captive; and shalt see among the captives a woman of beautiful figure,—and shalt have a desire unto her, and wouldest take [her] to thee to wife; then shalt thou bring her into the midst of thy house,—and she shall shave her head and pare her nails; and put away the raiment of her captivity from off her, and shall remain in thy house, and bewail her father and her mother, for the space of a month,—and after that mayest thou go in unto her, and be her husband, and she shall be thy wife. And it shall be, if thou hast no pleasure in her then shalt thou let her go whither she will, but thou shalt not sell her for silver,—thou shalt not make merchandise of her, because thou hast humbled her.

§ 35. The Right of the Firstborn guarded: Obedience to Parents enforced.

15 When a man shall have two wives,—the one beloved and the other hated, and they have borne him sons,—both she that is beloved, and she that is hated,—and it shall be that the firstborn son belongeth to her that is hated then shall it be that in the day when he maketh his sons to be settled, every controversy and every punishment; and [all the elders of that city who are nearest unto the slain] shall bathe their hands' over the heifer' that hath been beheaded in the ravine, and shall respond, and say,—

This our son is rebellious and insulting, he will not hearken unto our voice,—he is a glutton and a tippler. Then shall all the men of his city stone' him with stones, that he die, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst,—and 'all Israel' shall hear and fear.

§ 36. Concerning the Hanged (Crucified).

20 But when there shall be in any man a sin worthy of death, and he is to be put to death,—and thou shalt hang him* on a tree> his dead body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt bury him on the same day, for a reproach unto God, is he that is hanged,—so shalt thou not make unclean thy soul' which Yahweh thy God' is giving unto thee for an inheritance.

DEUTERONOMY XXII. 2-29.

A woman shall not have on her apparel of a man; nor shall a man put on the mantle of a woman; for (as an abomination to Yahweh thy God) is any one who doeth these things.

<When a bird's-nest changeth to be before thee,—in the way, in any tree or upon the ground, whether with nestlings or eggs, and [the mother] be sitting upon the nestlings or upon the eggs> thou shalt not take the mother upon the young; thou shalt let go the mother, and then her young mayest thou take for thyself,—that it may go well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days.

<When thou buildest a new house> then shalt thou make a parapet to thy roof, so thou shalt not treASURE UP BLOOD-GUILTINESS AGAINST THY HOUSE, for [as abominations] these are the tokens of the virginity of my daughter.

<When a man taketh a wife,—and goeth in unto her>—and yet these are the tokens of the virginity of my daughter.

<When a man is found lying with a woman married to a husband>—then shall [both] of them die,—the man that lay with a woman, and the woman,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

<When a man findeth a damsel that is a virgin and is betrothed to a husband,—and a man findeth her in the city, and lieth with her>—then shall the men of her city stone her with stones, that she die, because she hath wrought wickedness in Israel, by committing unchastity in her father's house,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

<When a man is found lying with a woman against her, occasions of speech,—and raiseth a baseless charge,—saying,—I found not that thy daughter had the tokens of virginity and yet these are the tokens of the virginity of my daughter. And they shall spread out the garment before the elders of the city. Then shall the elders of that city take the man,—and chastise him; and fine him a hundred shekels of silver, and give unto the father of the damsel, because he hath brought an evil name upon a virgin of Israel,—and she shall remain [his] wife, he may not put her away, all his days. But <if this thing be true,—[and the tokens of virginity] be not found with the damsel> then shall they bring forth the damsel into the entrance of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones, that she die, because she hath wrought wickedness in Israel, by committing unchastity in her father's house,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

<When a man findeth a damsel that is a virgin and is betrothed to a husband,—and he hath raised a baseless charge,—saying,—I found not that thy daughter had the tokens of virginity and yet these are the tokens of the virginity of my daughter. And they shall spread out the garment before the elders of the city. Then shall the elders of that city take the man,—and chastise him; and fine him a hundred shekels of silver, and give unto the father of the damsel, because he hath brought an evil name upon a virgin of Israel,—and she shall remain [his] wife, he may not put her away, all his days. But <if this thing be true,—[and the tokens of virginity] be not found with the damsel> then shall they bring forth the damsel into the entrance of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones, that she die, because she hath wrought wickedness in Israel, by committing unchastity in her father's house,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

But <if this thing be true,—[and the tokens of virginity] be not found with the damsel> then shall they bring forth the damsel into the entrance of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones, that she die, because she hath wrought wickedness in Israel, by committing unchastity in her father's house,—so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of thy midst.

A man shall not take his father's wife,— neither shall he turn aside his father's covering.

Neither he that hath been mutilated by crushing, nor he that hath had his privy member cut off, shall enter into the convocation of Yahweh.

A bastard shall not enter into the convocation of Yahweh,— even to the tenth generation shall none of his enter into the convocation of Yahweh.

Neither an Ammonite nor a Moabite shall enter into the convocation of Yahweh,— even to the tenth generation shall none that belong to them enter into the convocation of Yahweh, unto times age-abiding: 4 because they met you not with bread and water, in the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt, 3—but hired against thee Balaam son of Beor, from Pethor of Mesopotamia, 4 to curse thee. 5 Nevertheless, Yahweh thy God (consented not) to hearken unto Baalam, but Yahweh thy God turned, for thee, the curse into a blessing,— because Yahweh thy God loved thee. 6 Thou shalt not seek their peace, nor their welfare,— all thy days, unto times age-abiding. 7 Thou shalt not abhor an Edomite, for he is,— thou shalt not abhor an Egyptian, for he is a sojourner: becamest thou his land; 8 and the sons who are born to them, of the third generation may enter unto them 9 in the convocation of Yahweh.

When thou goest forth into camp against thine enemies then shalt thou beware of everything foul. 10 When there is in thy midst a man who is not clean, through a mischance of the night then shall he go forth unto the outside of the camp, lie shall not come into the midst of the camp; but it shall be, when the evening cometh on, he shall bathe himself in water,— and at the going in of the sun he shall come into the midst of the camp. 11 And a place aside shalt thou have, without the camp,— whither thou canst go forth abroad; 12 and a blade shalt thou have upon thy staff, 13 so shall it be, that when thou wouldst sit down outside thou shalt dig therewith, and shalt turn back, and cover that which hath passed from thee: 14 for [Yahweh thy God] walketh to and fro in the midst of thy camp, 15 to rescue thee, and to deliver up thine enemies before thee, so shall thy camps be holy,— and he shall see in thee no shameful thing, that he should turn away from following thee.

Thou shalt not deliver up a slave unto his lord,— one who maketh his escape unto thee, from his lord: 16 <with thee> shall he remain, in thy midst, in the place which he shall choose in any of thy gates, where it seemeth good to him,— thou shalt not oppress him.

There shall be no female devotee 3 of the daughters of Israel,— neither shall there be a male devotee 3 of the sons of Israel. Thou shalt not bring the wages of an unchaste woman, or the hire of a dog into the house of Yahweh thy God, for any vow,— for an abomination unto Yahweh thy God are they both.

Thou shalt not lend on interest to thy brother, interest of silver, interest of food,— interest of any thing that can be lent on interest: 19 to a foreigner thou mayest lend on interest, but to thy brother shalt thou not lend on interest,— that Yahweh thy God may bless thee, in everything whereunto thou puttest thy hand, upon the land which thou' art entering to possess.

When thou shalt vow a vow unto Yahweh thy God, thou shalt not delay to make it good,— for Yahweh thy God would require it of thee, and it should be in thee, ||sin||. 21 But if thou refrain from vowing it shall not be, in thee ||sin||. 22 That which goeth forth out of thy lips thou must observe and do,— according as thou didst vow unto Yahweh thy God the free-will offering of which thou didst speak with thy mouth.

When thou enterest into the vineyard of thy neighbour then mayest thou eat grapes at thy pleasure to thy fill,— but into thy vessel shalt thou put none. 25 When thou enterest the standing corn of thy neighbour thou mayest pluck off ears with thy hand,— but a sickle shalt thou not wield against the standing corn of thy neighbour.

When a man taketh a woman, and marrieth her then shall it be, if she find not favour in his eyes, because he hath found in her some matter of shame,— that he shall write her a scroll of divorcement, and put it into her hand, and shall send her forth, out of his house. And when she cometh forth out of his house then may she go her way, and become another man's. But <if the latter husband hate her, and write her a scroll of divorcement, and put it into her hand, and send her away out of his house>, — or <if the latter husband die, who had taken her to him to wife>, then may her first husband who sent her away, not again take her to become his wife, after that she hath been defiled, for that was an abomination before Yahweh, — lest thou bring sin upon the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance. 6

No man shall take in pledge a handmill, or an upper millstone, — for he would be taking life in pledge.

When a man is found stealing any person, from among his brethren, of the sons of Israel, and making merchandise of him, or selling him, then shall that thief die, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of the midst.

Take heed, in the plague of leprosy, that thou observediligently, and do — according to all that the priests the Levites shall direct you, as I have commanded them, so shalt ye observe to do. 9 Remember that which Yahweh thy God did to Miriam,— by the way as ye came forth out of Egypt.

When a man taketh a new wife, he shall not go forth to war, neither shall he be charged with any business; free shall he be for his own house one year, and shall rejoice with his wife whom he hath taken.

Xo man shall take in pledge a handmill, or an upper millstone, — for he would take life in pledge.

When a man is found stealing any person from among his brethren, of the sons of Israel, and making merchandise of him, or selling him, then shall that thief die, so shalt thou consume the wicked thing out of the midst.

Take heed, in the plague of leprosy, that thou observediligently, and do — according to all that the priests the Levites shall direct you, as I have commanded them, so shalt ye observe to do. 9 Remember that which Yahweh thy God did to Miriam,— by the way as ye came forth out of Egypt.

When there ariseth a controversy between men, and they comenigh unto judgment, and judgment is granted them, then shall they justify the righteous man, and condemn the lawless. And it shall be— if the lawless man be worthy of stripes, then shall the judge cause him to lie down, and be beaten before him, according to the measure of his lawlessness, by number: forty stripes may he give him, not going beyond, lest if he do go beyond, to smite him above these, with many stripes then should thy brother be of no account in thine eyes.

Thou shalt not muzzlen an ox when he is treading out the corn.

When brethren dwell together, and one of them dieth, having no son, the wife of the dead shall not marry outside, to a stranger, — her husband's brother shall go in unto her, and take her unto him to wife, and do for her as a husband's brother.

And it shall be, that if the firstborn which she beareth succeed in the name of his brother, who is dead, — so shall his name not be wiped out from Israel. But if the man like not to take his sister-in-law then shall his sister-in-law go up unto the gate, unto the elders, and say — My husband's brother hath refused, to raise up unto his brother a name in Israel, he is not willing to do as a husband's brother unto me.

9 Then shall the elders of his city call him, and speak unto him,— and he shall stand and say, I like not to take her.

9 Then shall his brother's wife come near unto him, in the presence of the elders, and draw his shoe from off his foot, and spit in his face,—and respond and say,

9 Then shall it be done unto the man who will not build up the house of his brother.

9 And his name shall be called in Israel,—The house of him who had his shoe drawn off.

10 When men strive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near to deliver her husband out of the hand of him that smiteth him,—and she putteth forth her hand, and seizeth him by his parts of shame 12 then shalt thou cut off her hand, thine eye shall not pity.

11 Thou shalt not have, in thy bag, divers measures,—a great and a small. 14 Thou shalt not have, in thy house, divers weights,—a great and a small. 15 A weight, full and just shalt thou have,—that thy days may be prolonged upon the soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee.

16 For an abomination unto Yahweh thy God is everyone that doeth unjustly.

§ 38. Amalek to be Destroyed.

Remember that which Amalek did unto thee by the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt; 18 how he encountered thee by the way, and cut off, in thy rear, all the worn-out behind thee, 2 then shalt thou show mercy unto all thine enemies round about, in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee for an inheritance to possess it, and dwell therein; 2 then shalt thou take—at the first of all the fruit of the soil which thou shalt bring in from thy land, thou shalt set it down before Yahweh thy God; 2 then shalt thou say before Yahweh thy God—

19 Thou shalt not have in thy bag, divers weights,—a great and a small. 21 Thou shalt not have, in thy house, divers weights,—a great and a small. 22 A weight, full and just shalt thou have,—that thy days may be prolonged upon the soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee.

§ 39. Concerning the Offering of Firstfruits and Tithes: Prayers for these Occasions.

And it shall be, when thou shalt enter into the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, for an inheritance, — and shalt possess it, and dwell therein— 2 then shalt thou take—at the first of all the fruit of the soil which thou shalt bring in from thy land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee, and shalt put it in a basket,—and go thy way unto the place which Yahweh thy God shall choose, to make a habitation for his name, there. 3 And thou shalt come unto the priest who shall be in those days, — and shalt say unto him—

1 I declare, to-day, unto Yahweh thy God, that I am come into the land which Yahweh spake unto our fathers, that he would give unto us.

Then shall the priest take the basket, out of thy hand, — and set it down before the altar of Yahweh thy God. 4 And thou shalt respond and say, before Yahweh thy God—

5 Thou shalt not have in thy bag, divers weights,—a great and a small. 6 Thou shalt not have, in thy house, divers weights,—a great and a small. 7 A weight, full and just shalt thou have,—that thy days may be prolonged upon the soil which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee.

pressed any of thy commandments, neither have I forgotten. 14 I have not eaten in my sorrow therefrom, neither have I removed therefrom when unclean, neither have I given thereof unto the dead. 15 I have hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh my God, I have done according to all which thou hast commanded me.

13 Look thou down out of thy holy habitation, out of the heavens, and bless thy people Israel, and the soil which thou hast given unto us, as thou didst swear unto our fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey.

§ 40. Commanding Atonement.

16 'This day' is Yahweh thy God' commanding thee to do these statutes, and the regulations, — thou shalt therefore observe and do them, with all thy heart and with all thy soul.

17 Thou hast avowed, to-day, that Yahweh shall be thy God, and that thou wilt walk in his ways, and keep his statutes and his commandments and his regulations, and wilt hearken unto his voice.

18 And Yahweh hath avowed to-day, that thou shalt be his people, as a treasure, as he spake unto thee, — and that thou shalt observe all his commandments; 19 and [hath avowed] that he will set thee on high, above all the nations which he hath made, for praise, and for renown and for glory, and that thou shalt be a holy people unto Yahweh thy God, as he hath spoken.

§ 41. Great Stones to be inscribed and an Altar to be reared in Mount Ebal.

27 And Moses, with the elders of Israel, commanded the people, saying: —

Observe all the commandment which I am commanding you, to-day.

So then it shall be, in the day when ye shall pass over the Jordan, that ye shall rear up these stones, which I am commanding you to-day, in Mount Ebal, — and thou shalt plaster them with plaster.

And thou shalt build there, an altar unto Yahweh thy God, — an altar of stones, thou shalt not wields thereupon any tool of iron.

2 Of whole stones shall thou build the altar of Yahweh thy God, — then shalt thou cause to go up thereon ascending-sacrifices, unto Yahweh thy God; and thou shalt sacrifice peace-offerings, and shalt eat there, — and rejoice before Yahweh thy God. And thou shalt write upon the stones, all the words of this law, doing it plainly and well.

§ 42. Provision for National Solemnisation of Blessings and Curses on Mounts Gerizim and Ebal: the Discourse passing over into a Sustained Prediction.

9 And Moses, and the priests the Levites, spake unto all Israel, saying, —

Keep silence and hear, O Israel, —

This day hast thou been made a people unto Yahweh thy God. 10 Thou shalt therefore hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, — and do his commandments, and his statutes, which I am commanding thee to-day.

11 And Moses commanded the people on that day, saying:

12 These shall stand, to bless the people, upon Mount Gerizim, when ye have passed over the Jordan, — Simeon and Levi and Judah, and Issachar, and Joseph and Benjamin; 13 and these shall stand by the curse, in Mount Ebal, — Reuben; Gad and Asher, and Zebulun, Dan and Naphtali.

14 Then shall the Levites respond and say unto every man of Israel, with voice uplifted:

15 Cursed be the man that maketh an image — cut or molten — an abomination unto Yahweh, the work of the hands of the craftsman, and puttest it in a secret place.

And all the people shall respond and say — Amen.

16 Cursed be he that holdeth in light esteem his father or his mother.

And all the people shall say — Amen.

17 Cursed be he that moveth back the boundary of his neighbour.

And all the people shall say — Amen.

K.O.T.
And it shall be, if thou wilt hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to observe to do all his commandments which I am commanding thee, to-day; then will Yahweh thy God set thee on high, above all the nations of the earth; 2 and all these blessings shall come in upon thee, and reach thee, because thou dost hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God:

Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field;

Blessed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the young of thy kine, and the ewes of thy flock;

Blessed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out;

Yahweh will deliver thine enemies who rise up against thee, to be routed before thee, shall they come out against thee, and shall flee before thee:

Yahweh will command to be with thee, the blessing, in thy storehouses, and in all whereunto thou settest thy hand;—and will bless thee in the land which Yahweh thy God is giving unto thee:

Yahweh will confirm thee unto himself for a holy people, as he sware unto thee, because thou dost keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God, and dost walk in his ways. 10 And all the peoples of the earth shall see that the name of Yahweh hath been called upon thee, and shall be afraid of thee.

And Yahweh will cause thee to abound in that which is good, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy soil,—upon the soil which Yahweh sware unto thy fathers, to give unto thee:

Yahweh will open unto thee his rich storehouse—the heavens, to give the rain of thy land in its season, and to bless every work of thy hand, so shalt thou lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow:

And Yahweh will give thee to be the head, and not the tail, and thou shalt be only above, and shalt not be beneath,—because thou dost hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh thy God, which I am commanding thee, to-day, to observe and to do; and dost not turn aside from any of the words which I am commanding you to-day, to the right hand or to the left,—to go after other gods, to serve them.

But it shall be, if thou do not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to observe to do all his commandments which I am commanding thee to-day; then shall come in upon thee all these curses, and shall reach thee:

Cursed shalt thou be in the city,—and cursed shalt thou be in the field:

Cursed shall be thy basket, and thy kneading-trough:

Cursed shalt thou be when thou comest in,—and cursed shalt thou be when thou goest out:

Yahweh will send upon thee cursing, confusion, and rebuke, in all whereunto thou settest thy hand, that thou mayest do it,—until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly, because of the wickedness of thy doings, whereby thou hast forsaken me.

Yahweh will cause to cleave unto thee—the pestilence,—until he hath consumed thee, from off the soil, which thou art entering to possess.
DEUTERONOMY XXVIII. 22—51.

22 Yahweh will smite thee with consumption and with fever, and with inflammation and with violent heat, and with the sword, and with blight, and with mildew,—and they shall pursue thee, until thou perish. 23 And thy heavens which are over thy head, shall become bronze,—and the earth which is under thee iron.

24 Yahweh will cause the rain of thy land to be powder and dust,—<out of the heavens> shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

25 Yahweh will give thee up to be routed before thine enemies, <one way> shalt thou go out against them, and <seven ways> shalt thou flee before them,—and thou shalt become a terror unto all the kingdoms of the earth.

And thy dead body shall become food for every bird of the heavens, and for the beast of the earth,—with none to fright them away.

27 Yahweh will smite thee with the burning sores of Egypt, and with the haemorrhoids, and with scab, and with itch,—of which thou canst not be healed.

28 Yahweh will smite thee with madness, and with blindness,—and with terror of heart:

29 and thou shalt be groping about in noonday brightness, as the blind man gropeth in thick darkness, and thou shalt not make thy ways prosper,—but shalt be only oppressed and spoiled, all the days, with none to save.

30 <A wife> shalt thou betroth, and in another man shalt lie with her,

31 <A house> shalt thou build, and shalt not dwell therein,—

32 <A vineyard> shalt thou plant, and shalt not throw it open;

33 <Thine ox's <slaughtered before thine eyes> and thou shalt not eat thereof,>

34 <Thine ass's <stolen from thee> and thou shalt not have none to save.

35 <Thy sons and thy daughters' given to another people> thine eyes looking on, and failing for them all the day,—thine own hand being powerless.

36 <The fruit of thy soil, and all thy toilsome production> shall a people whom thou knowest not, eat up,—and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed, all the days;

37 so that thou shalt be mad,—for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

38 Yahweh will smite thee with a grievous boil, up on the knees and upon the legs, of which thou canst not be healed,—from the sole of thy foot, even unto the crown of thy head.

39 Yahweh will bring thee, and thy king whom thou wilt set up over thee, unto a nation which thou hast not known, [thou, nor thy fathers],—and thou shalt serve there, other gods, of wood and of stone.

Thus shalt thou become a terror, a byword, and a mockery,—among all the peoples' whither Yahweh thy God will drive thee.

40 <Much seed> shalt thou take out into the field,—and <little> shalt thou gather in, for the locust shall consume it.

41 <Vineyards> shalt thou plant, and dress,—but <wine> shalt thou not drink, neither shalt thou gather the grapes, for the worm shall eat them.

42 <Olive trees> shalt thou have in all thy bounds,—but <oil> shall thou not anoint thyself, for thine olives shall drop off.

43 <Sons and daughters> shalt thou beget,—and they shall not be thine, for they shall go into captivity.

44 <All thy trees, and the fruit of thy ground> shall the grasshopper devour; [devour].

45 Moreover, all these curses shall come in upon thee, and pursue thee and overtake thee, until thou be destroyed,—because thou didst not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes, which he hath commanded thee; 46 and they shall be upon thee, for a sign, and for a wonder,—and upon thy seed, unto times age-abiding.

47 <Because thou servedst not Yahweh thy God, with rejoicing, and with gladness of heart, for abundance of all things> therefore shalt thou serve thine enemies whom Yahweh will send against thee, with hunger, and with thirst, and with nakedness, and with want of all things,—and he will put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he hath destroyed thee.

48 Yahweh will bring against thee a nation from afar, from the end of the earth, as darteth a bird of prey,—a nation whose tongue thou canst not understand; 49 a nation of fierce countenance,—who will not respect an elder, 50 nor to the young show favour; 51 then shall he eat thy young of thy cattle and the fruit of thy ground, until thou art destroyed, who will not leave for thee corn, new wine or oil, the young of thy kine, or the eves of thy flock,—until he hath caused thee to perish. 30 And he shall lay siege to thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fortified walls come down, wherein thou wast trusting, in all thy land,—yea he will lay siege to thee in all thy gates, in all thy land, which Yahweh thy God hath given unto thee. 31 And thou wilt eat the fruit of thy body, the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters, whom Yahweh thy God hath given unto thee,—in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemy will straiten thee. 32 <The man that is tender among you, and exceedingly delicate> his eye will be jealous of his brother, and of the wife of his bosom, and of the remnant of his sons, whom he might leave behind; 33 so that he will not give to any one of them, of the flesh of his sons which he will eat, because he hath nothing at all left him, in the siege and in the straitness wherewith thine enemy will straiten thee. 34 <The tender and delicate woman among you, who hath never冒险adverted the sole of her foot, to set it upon the ground, through delicateness and through tenderness> her eye shall be jealous of the husband of her bosom, and of her own son, and of her own daughter; both as to her afterbirth that cometh forth from between her feet, and as to her children which she shall bear, for she will eat them, for want of all things; secretly,—in the siege and in the straitness, wherewith thine enemy will straiten thee,—within thy own gates. 35 <If thou wilt not take heed to do all the words of this law, which are written in this scroll,—to revere this glorious and reverend name, Yahweh thy God> 36 then will Yahweh make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy seed,—plagues' great and lasting, and diseases' grievous and lasting; 37 and he will bring back on thee all the sickness of Egypt, because of which thou wast afraid,—and they shall cleave unto thee; 38 <even every disease and every plague, which are not written in this scroll of the law> will Yahweh bring up against thee, until thou art destroyed. 39 And ye shall be left, men few in number, whereas ye had become as the stars of the heavens, for multitude,—because thou hast not hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh thy God.

And it shall come to pass, that <as Yahweh rejoiced> over you, to do you good, and to multiply you> 40 will Yahweh rejoice over you, to cause you to perish and to destroy you,—and ye shall be torn away, 41 from off the soil, whither thou art going to possess it; 42 and Yahweh will scatter thee among all the peoples, from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth,—and thou wilt serve there, other gods, whom thou hast not known,—[thou nor thy fathers]—of wood and of stone. 43 And <among those nations shalt thou find no ease, neither shall there be a place of rest for the sole of thy foot,—but Yahweh will give unto thee, there, a trembling heart, and a failing of eyes, and faintness of soul. And thy life will be hung up for thee, in front,—and thou wilt be in dread by night and by day, and wilt not trust in thy life. 44 In the morning> thou wilt say—

Oh that it were evening! and <in the evening> thou wilt say—

Oh that it were morning! because of the dread of thy heart, which thou wilt dread, and because of the sight of thine eyes, which thou wilt see. 45 And Yahweh will take thee back again into Egypt, in ships, by the way whereof I said unto thee, Thou shalt not again any more see it. 46 And ye will offer yourselves there for sale unto thine enemies, as servants and as handmaids, with no one to buy.

1 These are the words of the covenant, which Yahweh commanded Moses to solemnise with the sons of Israel, in the land of Moab,—besides the covenant, which he solemnised with them, in Horeb. 47 § 43. Renewed Exhortations: Hope in the End.

And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them,—

Ye yourselves! saw all that Yahweh did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, unto Pharaoh and unto all his servants, and unto all his land: 48 the great provings which thine own eyes saw,—those great signs and wonders: yet hath Yahweh <not given> unto you a heart to know, or eyes to see, or ears to hear,—until this day. D 49 I led you, therefore, forty years in the desert,—your mantles fell not with age from off you, even thy sandal; fell not with age from off thy foot: 50 Bread ye did not eat, and <wine and strong drink> ye did not drink,—that ye might know that I, Yahweh was your God. 51 And <when ye entered into this place> then came forth Sihon king of...
Heahbon and Og king of Bashan, to meet us in battle, and we smote them: and we took their land, and gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh.

Ye must, therefore, keep the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

Ye are stationed, to-day, all of you, before Yahweh your God, your heads, your tribes, and your elders, and your officers, every man of Israel: your little ones, your wives, and thy sojourner that is in the midst of thy camps, from him that beseareth thy wood, unto him that draweth thy water: that thou mayest pass through into the covenant of Yahweh thy God, and into his oath, which Yahweh thy God' is solemnising with thee, to-day: that he may confirm thee to-day as his own people, while he becometh thine own God, as he spake unto thee, and as he sware unto thy fathers, unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob.

And <not with you alone> am I solemnising this covenant and this oath; but with him who is here, with us, standing to-day before Yahweh our God,—and with him who is not here, with us to-day. (For ye know, how we dwelt in the land of Egypt,—and how we passed through the midst of the nations which ye did pass through; and ye saw their disgusting images, and their manufactured gods,—the wood and the stone, the silver and the gold that ye brought them out of their own land, in anger and in wrath, and in great indignation,—and cast them into another land, as at this day.

The secret things [belong unto Yahweh our God] and the things that are revealed [belong to us and to our children, unto times age-abiding, that we may do all the words of this law.

And it shall come to pass, <when all these things shall come in upon thee—the blessing and the curse, which I have set before thee,—and thou shalt bring them back unto thy heart,> among all the nations' whither Yahweh thy God hath driven thee; and thou shalt return unto Yahweh thy God, and shalt hearken unto his voice, according to all that I am commanding thee to-day, and thou and thy sons, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul> land, will say—when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses thereof wherewith Yahweh hath made it sick: brimstone and salt, burning up all the land thereof, it shall not be sown, neither shall it shoot forth, neither shall there come up thereon any herbage,—like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, which Yahweh overthrew in his anger and in his wrath: ye all the nations will say, <For what cause> hast Yahweh done' unto this land? what means this great heat of anger?

Then will men say, Because they forsook' the covenant of Yahweh, the God of their fathers,—which he solemnised with them, when he brought them forth, out of the land of Egypt; and went and served other gods, and bowed down to them,—gods' which they had not known, and in which he had given them no share: therefore did the anger of Yahweh kindle upon that land,—to bring in upon it all the curse' that is written in this scroll; and therefore hath Yahweh rooted them out from off their own soil, in anger and in wrath, and in great indignation,—and cast them into another land, as at this day.

Some cod. (w. l. ear. pr. edn. containing the Massorah, Sep., Syr.) have: "and what," G.n.

A very ancient official document, the oldest form of which is found in the Siphr, on Num. ix. 10, has dots (denoting spuriousness) upon the words "unto Yahweh our God," "When these are cancelled," says Dr. Ginsburg, "we obtain the sense—"The secret things, and the revealed things belong to us and to our children for ever, if we do all the words of this Law." That is, the secret things, or the doctrines which have not as yet been revealed (comp. Deut. xxx. 11-14), belong to us and our children, or will be disclosed to us, if we do all the words of this Law which have been revealed to us. It is remarkable that Rashi already expresses the opinion that the evil spirits of KLOHORU, to the Lord our God, ought to have been pointed, but that the reverence for the Divine name prevented its being done"—G. Intro., pp. 818-821, 880.

"bring them to mind."
God bring back thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and return and gather thee, from among all the peoples whither Yahweh thy God hath scattered thee. Though thou be driven out unto the utmost part of the heavens from thence, I will Yahweh thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee; and Yahweh thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it, and he will do thee good and multiply thee, beyond thy fathers.

And Yahweh thy God will circumcise thy heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love Yahweh thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live.

And Yahweh thy God will put all these oaths upon thine enemies and upon them who hated thee, who persecuted thee.

But thou wilt return, and hearken unto the voice of Yahweh, and wilt do all his commandments, which I am commanding thee to-day.

And Yahweh thy God will make thee pre-eminent, in every work of thy hand— in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, for good,— for Yahweh will again rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers.

For as touching this commandment, which I am commanding thee to-day, it is not too wonderful for thee, neither is it far off. It is not in the heavens, that thou shouldst say— Who shall ascend for us into the heavens, that he may fetch it for us, that we may hear it, and do it?

Neither is it over the sea,— that thou shouldst say, Who will pass over for us, to the other side of the sea, that he may fetch it for us, that we may hear it, and do it?

But the word, exceedingly, in thy mouth and in thy heart,— that thou mayest do it.

See! I have set before thee, to-day, life and prosperity,— and death and calamity; for thou must keep the commandments of Yahweh thy God which I am commanding thee to-day, to love Yahweh thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes, and his regulations, so shalt thou live and multiply, and Yahweh thy God will bless thee, in the land which thou' art entering to possess. But if thy heart shall turn away, and thou wilt not hearken,— but shalt be drawn away, and shalt bow thyself down to other gods, and serve them> I declare unto you, to-day, that ye shall perish, ye shall not prolong your days upon the soil which thou' art passing over the Jordan to enter and possess. I call to witness against you to-day, the heavens and the earth, that life and death have I set before thee, the blessing and the curse,— therefore shouldst thou choose life, that thou mayest live, thou and thy seed; to love Yahweh thy God, to hearken unto his voice, and to cleave unto him, for he is thy life, and thy length of days, that thou mayest abide upon the soil which Yahweh sware to thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac and to Jacob, to give unto them.

§ 44. Moses, preparing to depart, commands Joshua, writes and gives in charge the Law, prepares and teaches his Witnessing Song.

And Moses went, and spake these words, unto all Israel; and said unto them— A hundred and twenty years old am I to-day, I can no more go out and come in,— Yahweh indeed hath said unto me, Thou shalt not pass over this Jordan. And Yahweh thy God is passing over before thee, he will destroy these nations from before thee, so shalt thou dispossess them,— Joshua is passing over before thee, as Yahweh hath spoken. So will Yahweh do unto them as he did unto Sihon and unto Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them whom he destroyed. So will Yahweh deliver them up before you,— and ye shall do unto them— according to all the commandment which I have commanded you. Be firm and bold, do not fear nor tremble, because of them,— for Yahweh thy God it is who is going with thee, he will not fail thee nor forsake thee.

And Moses called for Joshua, and said unto him, in the sight of all Israel, Be firm and bold, for thou shalt go with this people, into the land which Yahweh sware unto their fathers, to give unto them, and thou shalt cause them to inherit it. But Yahweh is it who is going before thee, he will be with thee, he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee, thou must not fear, nor be dismayed.

DEUTERONOMY XXXI. 9—30.

9 And Moses wrote this law, and delivered it unto the priests, the sons of Levi, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh,—and unto all the elders of Israel. 10 And Moses commanded them, saying,—

<At the end of seven years, in the appointed season of the year of release, during the festival of booths, when all Israel cometh in to see the face of Yahweh thy God, in the place which he shall choose> thou shalt read this law before all Israel, in their hearing;{12} and the pillar of cloud stood, at the entrance of the tent,—that they may hear, and that they may learn, so shall they revere Yahweh your God, and observe to do all the words of this law;{13} and that their children who know not may hear and learn, that they may revere Yahweh your God,—all the days that ye' are living upon the soil, which ye' are passing over the Jordan, to possess.

14 Then said Yahweh unto Moses:

Lo! thy days have drawn near, that thou must die.

Call Joshua, and station yourselves in the tent of meeting, that I may command him.

So Moses went, with Joshua, and they took their station in the tent of meeting. 15 And Yahweh appeared in the tent, in a pillar of cloud,—and the pillar of cloud stood at the entrance of the tent. 16 Then said Yahweh unto Moses,

Lo! thou art about to sleep with thy fathers,—and this people will rise up, and go away unto other gods.

But I will utterly hide my face in that day, because of all the wickedness which they have done, in that they have turned away unto other gods.

Now: therefore, write ye for you this Song, and teach it unto the sons of Israel, put it in their mouths,—that this Song may become for me, a witness, against the sons of Israel. 20 <When I bring them upon the soil which I sware unto their fathers, flowing with milk and honey, and they shall eat and be filled, and wax fat> then will they turn away unto other gods and serve them, and despise me, and break my covenant. 21 And it shall come to pass <when many calamities and misfortunes shall find them out> then shall this Song* respond to their face, as a witness, for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouth of their seed, for I know their imagination which they' are forming to-day, ere yet I bring them into the land of which I sware unto their fathers.b

22 Moses therefore wrote this Song* on that day,—and taught it unto the sons of Israel. 23 And he commanded Joshua, son of Nun, and said—

Be firm and bold, for thou shalt bring the sons of Israel into the land which I have sworn to them,—and I will be with thee.

24 And it came to pass <when Moses had made an end of writing* the words of this law, upon a scroll,—until he had finished them,> 25 then Moses commanded the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, saying:

Take this scroll of the law, and put it at the side of the ark of the covenant of Yahweh,—so shall it be there in my midst as a witness. 27 For I know thy perverseness, and thy stiff neck,—lo! <while I am yet alive with you to-day> ye are quarrelling with Yahweh, and how much more after my death?

28 Call together unto me, all the elders of your tribes, and your officers,—and let me speak in their hearing these words, and let me take to witness against them' the heavens and the earth. 29 For I know that <after my death> ye will break faith, and turn aside out of the way' which I have commanded you,—and calamity will befall you, in the afterpart of the days, because ye will do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, to provoke him with the work of your own hands. 30 So Moses spake in the hearing of all the convocation of Israel' the words of this Song,—until they were ended :—

*Second mention of theVerse. 10: Some cod. w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Onk. Mul., Jon. have: “all these”—G.n. 11 Namely, of the Song: [M.C.T. has simply: "swear"]. 12 Third reference to theVerse. 11: Cp. chap. xxxii. 1: also Isa. i. 2. 13 The thing that is wicked is plainly idolatry, the caution against which ever comes uppermost. 14 The fourth reference to theVerse. 12: And now it follows at last.
§ 45. The Song.

1 Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak,—
And let the earth hear the sayings of my mouth:

2 Let my teaching drop as the rain,
Let my speech distil as the dew,—
As copious rains on tender grasses,
As myriad drops on seeding plants.

3 When the name of Yahweh I proclaim
Ascribe ye greatness unto our God:
A Rock! faultless is his work,
When he spread abroad the sons of Adam.
He set the bounds of the peoples,
According to the number of the sons of Israel.

4 For Yahweh's portion is his people,
Jacob his inherited possession.
He met him, in a desert land.
And there was with him, no stranger.

5 He made him ride on the high places of the land,
Caused him to eat the increase of the fields,
And oil out of the rook of flint:
And there was with him, no stranger.

6 They have broken faith with him, to be no son of—his fault,,—
A generation twisted and crooked.
Is it Yahweh ye thus requite.
O impious people and unwise?
Is not the thy father who begat thee?
[He] that made thee, and established thee?

7 Remember the days of age-past times,
Remark the years of many generations,—
Ask thy father, and he will tell thee,
Thine elders, and they will say to thee:

8 When the Most High gave inheritances unto the nations,
When he spread abroad the sons of Adam,
He set the bounds of the peoples,
According to the number of the sons of Israel.

9 For Yahweh's portion is his people,
Jacob his inherited possession.
He met him, in a desert land.
And there was with him, no stranger.

10 He made him ride on the high places of the land,
Caused him to eat the increase of the fields,
And oil out of the rook of flint:
And there was with him, no stranger.

11 Yahweh alone! led him,—
As an eagle stirreth up his nest,
Over his young ones fluttereth,—
I heareth it up on his pinions.

12 I will heap on them calamities,—
I will move them to jealousy with a No-God.
They have angered me with their vanities:
I, therefore, will move them to jealousy with a No-People!

13 With an impious nation will I anger them.
For a fire is kindled in mine anger,
And shall burn as far as hades beneath,—
And consume the earth with her produce,
And set ablaze the foundations of the mountains:
I will heap on them calamities,—

14 Mine arrows will I spend upon them:
The melts of hunger,
The devourings of fever,
And the dangerous pestilence,—
With fat of well-fed lambs,
Yes rams bred in Bashan, and he-goats,
With the white of the kernels of wheat,—
And the blood of the grape thou didst drink as it foamed.

15 Then Jeshurun waxed fat, and kicked:
Thou wast fat.
Thou wast thick.
Thou wast gorged,—
So he forsook the God who made him,
And treated as foolish his Rock of salvation.
They moved him to jealousy with foreign gods,—
With abominations angered they him:
They sacrificed to mischief demons to a No-God,
Gods whom they knew not.

16 New ones lately come in,
Your fathers never shuddered at them!

17 (Of the Rock who had begotten thee) thou wast unmindful,—
And didst forget God who had given thee birth.

18 Because his sons and his daughters gave provocation.
So he said:
I will hide my face from them,
I will see what will be their hereafter,—
For a generation given to intrigue they are,'
Sons! whom there is no trusting;
They have moved me to jealousy with a No-God.
They have angered me with their vanities:
I, therefore, will move them to jealousy with a No-People!

19 With an impious nation will I anger them.

20 These "saides" are very abrupt, but very telling.

21 Or: "kidney-fat" = "choicest"—O. G. 460.

22 Or: "didst drink fermented.

24 The curse "saides" is very abrupt, but very telling.

25 Or: "died before"—O. G.

26 Or: "catch up against them"—O. G.

27 "Exalted with the Peres, fig. of perseverance"—O. G.

28 These then are the "arrows."
DEUTERONOMY XXXII. 23—47.

And <the tooth of beasts> will I send among them,
With the poison of crawlers of the dust:
<Without> shall the sword' bereave,
In the inmost recesses> terror,—
[To] both young man and virgin,
Suckling, with man of grey hairs.

I said,
I would puff them away,—
I would destroy from mortals* their memory:
Were it not that <the taunt of the foe> I feared,
Lest their adversaries should mistake,— Lest they should say—
"Our own hand is exalted;"
It is not Yahweh; who hath wrought all this!—
For  they are,—
And there is in them no understanding.

<If they had been wise> they would have understood this,—
They would have given heed to their hereafter!—
Oh! how' would [one] have chased [a thousand];
And [two] put [ten thousand] to flight,—
Were it not that [their Rock] had sold them,
And [Yahweh] had abandoned them;
For <not like our Rock> is their rock,—
[Our enemies themselves] being judges;
For <of the vine of Sodom> is their vine,
And of the vineyards of Gomorrah,—
[Their grapes] are grapes of gall,
<Clusters of bitter things> are theirs:
The poison of large serpents is their wine,—
Yea the fierce venom of asps.

Is not [that] stored up with me,—
Sealed up amongst my treasures;
Unto the days of vengeance and requital;
Unto the time their foot shall totter?
For <near> is the day of their fate,
And their destiny speedeth on.

For Yahweh will vindicate* his people,
And <upon his servants> will have compassion,—
<When he seeth> that strength is exhausted,
And there is no one, shut up or at large:*—
Then will he say,
Where are their gods,
The rock, in whom they have trusted;
Who used to eat the fat of their sacrifices,
To drink the wine of their libations?

Let them rise up, and help you,
Let them* be over you for a covering!—
See, now, that [I, I] am the he that is,
And there are no gods with me,—
I kill—and make alive.
I wound, and [I] heal,
And there is none who <from my hand> can deliver;—
For I lift up, unto the heavens, my hand,—
And say,
Living am I unto times age-abiding:
<If I whet my flashing sword,
And my hand take hold on justice>—
I will return vengeance unto mine adversaries,
And <them who hate me> will I requite:
I will make mine arrows drunk with blood,
And <my sword> shall devour flesh,—
With the blood of the slain, and the captive,
With [the flesh of] the chief leader* of the foe.

Shout for joy, O ye nations, [with] his people,!
For <the blood of his servants> he avengeth,—
And <vengeance> he returneth unto his adversaries,
And is propitious unto the soil of* his people.

So Moses came in, and spake all the words of this Song, in the hearing of the people,—
And <when Moses made an end of speaking all these words unto all Israel> he said unto them—
Apply your hearts unto all the words* which I am witnessing against you! to-day,— how that ye must command your sons to observe to do* all the words of this law; for it is not too small a thing* for you, for [it] is your life,—and [hereby] shall ye prolong your days upon the soil whereunto ye are passing over the Jordan to possess it.
§ 46. Moses further prepared for His Death.

18 And Yahweh spake unto Moses, on this selfsame day, saying:

48 Get thee up into this mountain of the Abaram, Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, which is over against Jericho—and behold the land of Canaan, which I am giving unto the sons of Israel, for a possession; and die thou in the mount whither thou' art going up, and be withdrawn unto thy kinsfolk,—as Aaron thy brother died, in Mount Hor, and was withdrawn unto his kinsfolk; 49 for that ye acted unfaithfully against me, in the midst of the sons of Israel, regarding the waters of Meribah-Kadesh, in the desert of Zin,—for that ye hallowed me not in the midst of the sons of Israel. Yet shall thou behold the land, but thou shalt not enter into the land which I am giving unto the sons of Israel.

§ 47. Moses' Blessing on the Tribes and on All Israel.

38 Now this is the blessing wherewith Moses the man of God blessed the sons of Israel,—before his death. 2 And he said—

Yahweh! from Sinai came near,— Yea he dawned, out of Seir, upon them,
He shone forth out of Mount Paran,
Yea he came out of holy myriads,—
Out of his hand [proceeded] fire to guide them.

3 Yea he loved the tribes,*
All his holy ones were in thy hand,—
Yea they were encamped at thy feet,
Each one bare away some of thy words.

4 A law did Moses command us,—
A possession for the convocation of Jacob.

5 Thus became he in Jeshurun a king,—
When the heads of the people gathered themselves together,
As one man the tribes of Israel.

[Reuben]—
6 Let Reuben live and not die,—
Nor his men be easily counted.

7 And this is for Judah, when he said,
Hear, O Yahweh, the voice of Judah,
That unto his own people thou wouldst bring him home,—

Let his own hands suffice him,
And a helper from his adversaries do thou become. 8
And of Levi he said:
Let thy perfection and thy lights belong unto thy man of lovingkindness,— Whom thou didst put to the proof at Massah, With whom thou didst contend over the waters of Meribah;
9 Who saith, of his father and of his mother, I behold them not,
And of his brethren > regardeth he not, And <of his own sons> 4 observeth he not,— Because they watch thy speech,
That <thy covenant> they may preserve;
10 May teach thy regulations unto Jacob,
And thy law unto Israel,—
May put incense in thy nostrils, 6
And a whole-offering upon thine altar.

11 Bless, O Yahweh, his substance,
Crush thou the loins of them who rise up against him,
And of them who hate him, that they rise not again.

12 Of Benjamin he said,
The beloved of Yahweh shall settle down securely, 8
With one to throw a shade over him all the day long,
Yea <between his shoulders> hath he found rest.

13 And of Joseph he said,
Blessed of Yahweh be his land,—
With the precious things of the heavens, with the dew,
And with the abyss, couching beneath;

14 And with the precious fruits of the sun,—
And with the precious yield of the moons;

15 And with the chief of the ancient mountains,—
And with the precious things of the age-abiding hills;

16 And with the precious things of the earth and its fulness,
And with the goodwill of One who dwelt in a thorn-bush, 1
Let it come on the head of Joseph,
And on the crown of the head of him who was consecrated among his brethren.

17 His firstborn ox be an honour to him,< And the horns of a buffalo> be his horns, 4
<With them let him thrust peoples>,
All at once to the ends of the earth, 1
YEAD, thou the myriads of Ephraim,
And the thousands of Manasseh.

And of Zebulun he said,
Rejoice, Zebulun, in thy going out,
And Issachar, in thy tents:
For there will they offer the sacrifices of righteousness,
Hidden treasures of the sand.

And of Gad he said:
Blessed is he that hath made room for Gad,
As a lioness hath he laid himself down,
And hath torn an arm, likewise the crown of the head;
And hath provided a first part for himself,
For there a commander's portion hath been hid, —
So he cometh with the heads of the people,
The righteousness of Yahweh he executeth,
And his regulations, with Israel.

And of Dan he said,
Dan is a lion's whelp, —
He leapeth out of Bashan.

And of Naphtali he said,
O Naphtali! satisfied with favour,
And full with the blessing of Yahweh, —
The west and the sunny south do thou possess.

And of Asher he said,
Most blessed of sons be Asher, —
Let him have the goodwill of his brethren,
And let him dip, in oil, his foot:
Iron and bronze be thy sandals,
And as thy days be thy strength.

There is none like God, O Jeshurun, —
Riding upon the heavens to thy help, —
And for his own majesty on the skies;
Above is the God of aforetime,
And beneath are the Arms of the ages, —
So he driveth before thee the foe,
And doth say — Destroy!

Thus hath Israel settled down securely,
< Alone > the fountain of Jacob,
Within a land both of corn and new wine, —
His heaven also droppeth down dew.

How happy art thou, O Israel!
Who is like unto thee,
O people victorious in Yahweh?
Thy helpful shield, who also is thy majestic sword, —
So that thy foes come cringing unto thee,
And upon their heights dost march along.

§ 48. Moses views the Land: His Death, Burial, Character, and Successor.

1 So then Moses went up, from the waste plains of Moab, into Mount Nebo, the head of Pisgah, which is over against Jericho,—and Yahweh showed him all the land—even Gilead as far as Dan; — and all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim and Manasseh,—and all the land of Judah, as far as the hinder sea; — and the South,—and the circuit of the valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees as far as Zoar. — And Yahweh said unto him:

'This is the land which I sware to Abraham,
To Isaac, and to Jacob, saying,
Unto thy seed will I give it.
I have let thee see with thy own eyes,
But thou shalt not pass over.

6 So Moses, the servant of Yahweh, died there, in the land of Moab, at the bidding of Yahweh;
And he buried him, in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-poor,— but no man hath known his burying place, until this day.

7 And Moses was a hundred and twenty years old, when he died,—his eye had not dimmed, nor his freshness fled.
And the sons of Israel bewailed Moses in the waste plains of Moab, thirty days,—then were completed the wailing-days of the mourning for Moses.

9 But Joshua, son of Nun, was full of the spirit of wisdom, for Moses had laid his hands upon him,—so the sons of Israel hearkened unto him, and did as Yahweh commanded Moses.

10 And there arose not a prophet any more in Israel, like unto Moses,—whom Yahweh acknowledged, face to face;
By all the signs, and the wonders, which Yahweh sent him to do, in the land of Egypt,—unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land; — and by all the firm hand, and by all the great terror which Moses wrought in the sight of all Israel.

§ 1. Preparations for Entering Canaan.

1 And it came to pass, after the death of Moses the servant of Yahweh, that Yahweh spake unto Joshua son of Nun, the attendant of Moses, saying:

2 Moses my servant is dead,
3 Now therefore, arise, pass over this Jordan, thou and all this people, into the land which I am giving unto you—unto the sons of Israel.

4 Every place whereon the sole of your foot shall tread, I unto you have given it, as I spake unto Moses. From the desert and this Lebanon, even unto the great sea, toward the going in of the sun, shall be your boundary.

5 No man shall stand before thee, all the days of thy life. As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee, I will not fail thee, neither will I forsake thee.

6 Be firm and bold, for thou shalt cause this people to inherit the land which I sware unto their fathers. Only be very firm and bold, taking heed to do according to all the law which Moses my servant commanded thee, do not turn aside therefrom, to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest prosper, whithersoever thou goest. This scroll of the law must not cease out of thy mouth, but thou must talk to thyself therein, day and night, that thou mayest take heed to do according to all that is written therein, for then shalt thou make thy way prosperous, and then shalt thou have good success.

7 Have I not commanded thee? Be firm and bold, do not fear nor be dismayed, for with thee is Yahweh thy God, whithersoever thou goest.

8 So then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying:

9 Pass ye through the midst of the camp, and command the people, saying:

10 Make ready for yourselves, provisions— for in three days more are ye to pass over this Jordan, to go in and possess the land which Yahweh your God is giving you to possess.

11 And unto the Reubenites, and unto the Gadites, and unto the half tribe of Manasseh spake Joshua, saying:

12 Remember the word which Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded you, saying,— 13 Yahweh your God is giving you rest, and doth give you this land.

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle shall remain in the land which Moses hath given you over the Jordan, but ye shall pass over armed, before your brethren, all ye mighty men of valour, and shall help them; until that Yahweh shall grant rest unto your brethren, as unto you, so shall they also possess the land which Yahweh your God giveth them, then shall ye return unto the land of your possession, and possess it, which Moses the servant of Yahweh hath given you over the Jordan, towards the rising of the sun.

15 Then responded they to Joshua, saying,—

16 Then did Joshua son of Nun, send out from The Acacias, two men to spy out silently, saying, Go view the land, and Jericho. So they came, and entered the house of a harlot, whose name was Rahab, and lay there.

§ 2. Spies sent to Jericho.

1 Then did Joshua son of Nun send cut from The Acacias, two men to spy out silently, saying, Go view the land, and Jericho. So they came, and entered the house of a harlot, whose name was Rahab, and lay there. And it was told the king of Jericho, saying,— Lo! [men.] have come in hither, to-night, of the sons of Israel, to search out the land.
3 So the king of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying,— Bring forth the men that are come in unto thee, who have entered thy house, for to search out all the land have they come.
4 And the woman took the two men, and hid them,—and said:
|Even so|, the men did come in unto me, but I knew not from whence they were;
5 and it came to pass, as the gate was about to be shut in the darkness—that the men went out, I  know not whither the men went,—pursue them quickly, for ye shall overtake them.
6 But she had taken them up to the roof,—and concealed them with the stalks of flax which she had laid in order for herself, upon the roof.
7 So were pursued them, by way of the Jordan, unto the fords,—the gate being shut as soon as they who pursued them had gone forth.
8 And ere yet they slept, she went up unto them, upon the roof;
9 and said unto the men,
I know that Yahweh hath given unto you the land,—and that the terror of you hath fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land have melted away from before you.
10 For we have heard how Yahweh [dried up] the waters of the Red Sea, from before you, when ye came forth out of Egypt,—and what ye did unto the two kings of the Amorites, who were over the Jordan unto Sihon and unto Og, whom ye devoted to destruction;
11 and when we heard then did our heart melt, and there rose up no longer any spirit in any man, because of you,—for as for Yahweh your God  is God—in the heavens above, and upon the earth beneath.
12 [Now] therefore, I pray you, swear unto me, by Yahweh, <since I have dealt with you in lovingkindness> that ye also will deal with the house of my father, in lovingkindness, and will give me a token of faithfulness:
13 and will save alive my father and my mother, and my brethren and my sisters, and all that they have,—and will deliver our souls from death.
14 And the men said unto her,
Our souls, in your stead, unto death> if ye utter not this our business, so shall it be <when Yahweh shall give us the land> that we will deal with thee in lovingkindness and in faithfulness.
15 And she let them down with a cord through the window,—for her house was within the wall of the rampart, and within the rampart she was dwelling.
16 And she said unto them—
To the mountain get you, lest the pursuers fall in with you,—and hide yourselves there, three days, until the pursuers return, and afterwards shall ye go your way.
17 And the men said unto her,—
Free will we be from this thine oath which thou hast made us swear:
18 Lo! <when we are coming into the land> this cord of crimson thread must thou bind in the window, by which thou didst let us down, and thy father and thy mother, and thy brethren and all the household of thy father,  must thou gather together unto thee, unto the house.
19 And it shall be <whosoever shall go forth out of the doors of thy house, into the street> his blood shall be on his own head, and we shall be free,—but <whosoever shall be with thee in the house> his blood shall be on our heads, if a hand be upon him.
20 Or if thou utter this our business—then shall we be free from this thine oath, which thou hast made us swear.
21 And she said—
According to your words shall it be.
Thus sent she them away, and they departed,—and she bound the crimson cord in the window.
22 And they went, and came into the mountain, and abode there, three days, until the pursuers had returned,—so the pursuers [made search] throughout all the way, but found them not.
23 And the two men returned, and came down out of the mountain, and crossed over, and came unto Joshua, son of Nun,—and recounted to him all that had fallen them;
24 and they said unto Joshua,
Yahweh hath delivered unto our hand, all the land,—moreover also all the inhabitants of the land have melted away from before us.

§ 3. The Crossing of the Jordan.
1 So then Joshua rose early in the morning, and they brake up from The Acacias, and came as far as the Jordan, [he and all the sons of Israel]—and they lodged there, before they passed over.
2 And it came to pass <after three days> that the officers went through the midst of the camp, and commanded the people, saying,
When ye see the ark of the covenant of Yahweh your God, and the priests the Levites bearing it, ye also shall break up out of your places, and come after it. Yet shall there be [a distance] between you and it, about two thousand cubits, by measure,—do not come near unto it, that ye may get to know the way by which ye must...
Then said Joshua unto the people,

Hallow yourselves, for to-morrow will Yahweh do in your midst wonderful things.

And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying,

Take ye up the ark of the covenant, and pass on before the people.

So they took up the ark of the covenant, and went on before the people. Then said Yahweh unto Joshua:

This day will I begin to magnify thee in the eyes of all Israel, who shall know, that I was with Moses.

Thou therefore, shalt command the priests who are bearing the ark of the covenant, saying, --

When ye are come as far as the edge of the waters of the Jordan, ye shall stand.

Then said Joshua unto the people, Draw near hither, and hear ye the words of Yahweh your God.

And Joshua said, Hereby shall ye know, that a Living God is in your midst, and that he will certainly dispossess from before you the Canaanite and the Hittite, and the Hivite and the Perizzite, and the Girgashite, and the Amorite, and the Jebusite.

Lo! the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth, is about to pass before you into the Jordan.

Now therefore, take ye twelve men, out of the tribes of Israel, one man severally for each tribe: and it shall be, when the soles of the feet of the priests who are bearing the ark of Yahweh, Lord of all the earth, do rest in the waters of the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan shall be cut off, the waters that are coming down from above, and shall stand in one mound.

And it came to pass, when the people set out from their tents, to cross the Jordan, with the priests, bearing the ark of the covenant before the people, then as the soles of the ark came as far as the Jordan, and the feet of the priests who were bearing the ark were dipped in the edge of the waters, the Jordan being full over all his banks, all the days of harvest, that the waters which were coming down from above, rose up in one mound, a great way off, by the city Adam, which is beside Zarethan, and they which were going down to the sea of the waste plain, the salt sea failed were cut off, and the people passed over right against Jericho. And the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, stood on dry ground, in the midst of the Jordan, with firm footing, while all Israel were passing over on dry ground, until all the nation had made an end of passing over the Jordan.

And Joshua called unto the twelve men whom he had made ready, from among the sons of Israel, one man severally out of each tribe; and Joshua said unto them:

Pass ye over, before theark of Yahweh your God unto the midst of the Jordan, and lift ye up each man one stone upon his shoulder, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Israel: that this may be a sign in your midst, for your sons will ask in time to come, saying, What mean these stones to you? Then shall ye say unto them, That the waters of the Jordan were cut off, from before the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, when it passed into the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan were cut off.

So shall these stones become a memorial unto the sons of Israel, unto times age-abiding.

And the sons of Israel did so, as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones out of the midst of the Jordan, as spake Yahweh unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Israel, and carried them with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there. Twelve stones also did Joshua set up in the midst of the Jordan, in the place where stood the feet of the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant, and they have remained there until this day.

Now the priests who were bearing the ark continued standing in the midst of the Jordan, until everything was finished which Yahweh commanded Joshua, to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses' commanded Joshua, the people therefore hasted, and passed over. And so it was, as soon as all the people had made an end of passing over, then passed over the ark of Yahweh, and the priests, in presence of the people.

Also the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh, passed over.

Then spake Yahweh unto Joshua, saying:

16 Command the priests who are bearing the ark of testimony,—that they come out up of the Jordan.

So Joshua commanded the priests, saying,—

18 Command the priests who are bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh,—that they come out up of the Jordan.

14 On that day did Yahweh magnify Joshua in the eyes of all Israel,—and they revered him, as they revered Moses, all the days of his life.

Then spake Yahweh unto Joshua, saying:

Come ye up out of the Jordan.

And it came to pass when the priests who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came up out of the midst of the Jordan, and the soles of the feet of the priests were withdrawn unto the dry ground, then returned the waters of the Jordan unto their place, and went, as before, over all his banks.

So the people came up out of the Jordan, on the tenth of the first month,—and encamped in Gilgal, at the eastern end of Jericho.20 And these twelve stones which they took out up of the Jordan, did Joshua set up, in Gilgal.21 Then spake he unto the sons of Israel, saying,—

When your sons shall ask, in time to come, of their fathers, saying,—

What mean these stones?

then shall ye let your sons know, saying,—

On dry ground came Israel over this Jordan;23 in that Yahweh your God dried up the waters of the Jordan, from before you, until ye had passed over,—as Yahweh your God had done unto the Red Sea, which he dried up from you, until we had passed over:24 that all the peoples of the earth might know the hand of Yahweh, that (firm) it is; that they might revere Yahweh your God, all the days.

And it came to pass when all the kings of the Amorites who were over the Jordan west ward, and all the kings of the Canaanites who were by the sea, heard how that Yahweh had dried up the waters of the Jordan, from before the sons of Israel, until theyb had passed over, that their heart melted, and there was no spirit in them any more, because of the sons of Israel.

§ 4. The People are circumcised, and keep the Passover: The Manna ceased.

At that time said Yahweh unto Joshua,
Make thee knives of flint,—and again
circumcise the sons of Israel a second time.

So Joshua made him knives of flint, and circumcised the sons of Israel, at the Hill of Foreskins.4 Now this is the cause why Joshua did circumcise,—all the people who came forth out of Egypt, who were males, all the men of war died in the desert, by the way, after they came forth out of Egypt.4 For though all the people who came forth had been circumcised:5 yet all the people who were born in the desert, by the way, after they came forth out of Egypt, had they not circumcised.6 Because for forty years did the sons of Israel journey in the desert, until all the nation7 who were men of war, who came forth out of Egypt, were consumed, because they hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh,— unto whom Yahweh spake that he would not let them see the land, which Yahweh spake unto their fathers, that he would give unto us, a land flowing with milk and honey: 7 Their sons, therefore, whom he had raised up in their stead, did Joshua circumcise,—for uncircumcised they were, in that they had not circumcised them by the way.

§ 5. The Prince of Yahweh's Host appears to Joshua.

And it came to pass while Joshua was at Jericho, that he lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! a man, standing over against him, with his sword drawn, in his hand,—so Joshua went,
unto him, and said to him,

For us art thou, or for our adversaries?

And he said—

Nay, but I as prince of the host of Yahweh, have [now] come.

So Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and worshipped, and said unto him,

unto him, and said to him,

For us art thou, or for our adversaries?

And he said—

Nay, but I as prince of the host of Yahweh, have [now] come.

So Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and worshipped, and said unto him,

What is my lord speaking unto his servant?
Then said the prince of the host of Jehovah unto Joshua:

Slip off thy sandals from thy feet, for as for the place whereon thou art standing, it is holy; so he did so.

And Joshua said unto the people, Shout. For Jehovah hath delivered unto you the city, and her king.

The city itself shall be devoted, and all that is therein, unto Jehovah; nevertheless, Rahab the harlot shall live, she, and all who are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers whom we sent.

And it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the horn, that they shouted. For Jehovah hath delivered unto you the city. And they devoted all that were in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox and sheep and ass, with the edge of the sword.

But <unto the two men who spied out the land> Joshua said,

Go into the house of the woman, the harlot, and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, as ye sware unto her.

So the young men, the spies, went in, and brought out Rahab and her father and her mother, and all that she had, ye shall save alive, so she hath dwelt in the midst of Israel until this day, because before the ark of Jehovah went on and on, and blew with the horns, with the armed host going on before them, and the rear-guard coming after the ark of Jehovah, going on and blowing with the horns.

Then said the prince of the host of Jehovah unto Joshua:

Shout, for Jehovah hath delivered unto you the city. And it shall be, that as for the city, devoted, shall it be, and all that is therein, unto Jehovah; nevertheless, Rahab the harlot shall live, she, and all who are with her in the house, because she hid the messengers whom we sent.

And it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the horn, that they shouted. For Jehovah hath delivered unto you the city. And they devoted all that were in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox and sheep and ass, with the edge of the sword. But as for all silver and gold and vessels of bronze and iron, hallowed, it is to Jehovah, unto the treasury of Jehovah it shall come.

So the people shouted, when the horns were blown, yea, it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the horn, that the people shouted with a great shout, and the wall fell down under it, and the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and so they captured the city. And they devoted all that were in the city, both man and woman, both young and old, and ox and sheep and ass, with the edge of the sword.

But unto the two men who spied out the land Joshua said,

Go into the house of the woman, the harlot, and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, as ye sware unto her.

So the young men, the spies, went in, and brought out Rahab and her father and her mother, and all that she had, ye shall save alive, so she hath dwelt in the midst of Israel until this day, because

<Some note on vers. 15.>

"According to a sword's mouth, i.e., as the sword would devour, without quarter"—O. G., M. G. (b).
And Joshua imposed an oath, at that time, saying, —

Cursed be the man before Yahweh, who shall raise up and build this city— Jericho,

<At the price of his firstborn> shall he lay its foundation,
And <at the price of his youngest> shall he set up its doors.

And so it was, that Yahweh was with Joshua, and his fame was in all the land.

§ 7. Achan’s Sin and Punishment.

But the sons of Israel had committed an act of unfaithfulness, in respect of what was devoted.—for Achan, son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, had taken of what was devoted, and the anger of Yahweh had kindled against the sons of Israel.

And Joshua sent men from Jericho, to Ai, which was beside Beth-aven, on the east side of Bethel, and spake unto them saying,

Go up and spy out the land.

So the men went up, and spied out Ai. And they returned unto Joshua, and said unto him—

Let not all the people go up, about three thousand men,—but they fled before the men of Ai. And the men of Ai smote, of them, about thirty-six men, and pursued them before the gate, as far as the Shebarim, and smote them on the slope,—so that the heart of the people melted, and became as water.

Then Joshua rent his clothes, and fell upon the earth, before the ark of Yahweh, until the evening, and the elders of Israel,—and they lifted up dust upon their heads. And Joshua said—

Alas! My Lord Yahweh!

Wherefore hast thou brought this people over the Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorite, to destroy us?

Would, then, we had been content to dwell on the other side of the Jordan!

Oh, My Lord,—what shall I say, after Israel have turned their backs before their enemies?—

<Only let the Canaanite and all the inhabitants of the land hear> and they will surround us, and cut off our name out of the earth,—what then wilt thou do, for thy great name?

And Joshua said unto Joshua—

Get thee up! wherefore is it that thou art lying upon thy face?—

Achan sinned, yea moreover, they have transgressed my covenant which I commanded them,—yea moreover, they have taken of what was devoted, yea moreover, they have stolen, yea moreover, they have dissembled, yea moreover, they have put it among their own goods.

Therefore cannot the sons of Israel stand before their enemies, do they turn before their enemies, because they have become devoted,—I will no more be with you, except ye destroy the devoted thing out of your midst.

Up! hallow the people, and thou shalt say,

Hallow yourselves by to-morrow,—for

Thus saith Yahweh,

God of Israel:

A devoted thing is in the midst of thee, O Israel,

Thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye have put away the devoted thing, out of your midst.

Therefore shall ye be brought near, in the morning, by your tribes,—and it shall be that—

The tribe which Yahweh shall seize shall come near by families, and

The family which Yahweh shall seize shall come near by households, and

The household which Yahweh shall seize shall come near by man by man; and it shall be, that—

He that is seized with the devoted thing shall be burned with fire, he, and all that he hath,—because he hath transgressed the covenant of Yahweh, and because he hath wrought impiety in Israel.

So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel near by their tribes,—and the tribe of Judah was seized; and he brought near the family of Judah, and the family of the Zarhites was seized,—and he brought near the family of the Zarhites by man by man; and Zabdi was seized; and he brought near his household, by man by man,—and Achan, son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah was seized. And Joshua said unto Achan—

My son, give, I pray thee, glory unto Yahweh, God of Israel, and make to him confession,—and tell me, I pray thee, what thou hast done, do not hide it from me.

And Achan answered Joshua, and said,—

Of a truth I have sinned against Yahweh, God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done:

When I saw among the spoil, a certain goodly mantle of Babylonia, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a certain wedge...
Then said Yahweh unto Joshua—

And it shall be <when ye have seized the city> then shall ye burn the city with fire. <according to the word of Yahweh> shall ye do,—see! I have commanded you.

So Joshua sent them forth, and they went into ambush, and abode between Bethel and Ai, [on the west of Ai],—but Joshua lodged that night in the midst of the people. 10 And Joshua rose up early in the morning, and mustered the people,—and went up—[he and the elders of Israel] before the people, to Ai.

And all the people of war who were with him went up, and drew near, and came in, right before the city,—and pitched on the north of Ai, with [a valley] between them and Ai.

And he took 'about five thousand men,—and set them in ambush between Bethel and Ai, [on the west of the city]. 12 And <when the people had set all the host that was on the north of the city, with the rear thereof on the west of the city>—then went Joshua, during the night, into the midst of the valley. 14 And it came to pass <when the king of Ai saw it> that they hasted, and rose up early, and the men of the city came out to meet Israel for battle, [he and all his people] at an appointed time, before the waste plain,—[he not knowing] that there was an ambush lying in wait for him, behind the city]. 15 So then Joshua and all Israel suffered themselves to be smitten before them,—and fled, by the way of the wilderness; and all the people who were in the city were called out to pursue them,—and they pursued Joshua, and so were drawn out away from the city. 17 And there remained not a man, in Ai or Bethel, who had not gone out after Israel,—and they left the city open, and pursued Israel.

Then said Yahweh unto Joshua—

Stretch out with the javelin which is in thy hand, towards Ai, for [unto thy hand] will I deliver it.

So Joshua stretched out with the javelin which was in his hand, towards the city. 18 And the ambush rose up quickly, out of their place, and ran, when he stretched out his hand, and entered the city, and captured it,—and hasted, and set the city on fire. 20 And the men of Ai turned behind them, and looked, and lo! the smoke of the city had risen up towards the heavens, and there was in them no strength, to flee this way or that way,—moreover [the people that were fleeing to the wilderness] turned back upon the pursuers. 21 Yea <when Joshua and all Israel] saw that the ambush had captured the city, and that the smoke of the city had risen up> then returned they, and smote the men of Ai. 22 And [the others] came forth out of the city to meet them, so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side, and they smote them, until there was left them none to remain or to escape. 23 And the king of Ai they caught alive, and brought him near unto Joshua. 24 And it came to pass when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness whither they had pursued them, and all of them had fallen by the edge of the sword until they were consumed, 25 then all Israel returned to Ai, and smote it with the edge of the sword. 26 And so it was, that all who fell that day, both of men and of women, were twelve thousand, — all the inhabitants of Ai. 27 Now Joshua drew not back his hand which he had stretched out with the javelin, — until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai. 28 Nevertheless <the cattle and the spoil of that city> Israel took as their own prey, — according to the word of Yahweh, which he commanded Joshua. 29 So then Joshua burned Ai, and made of it an age-abiding heap — [which remaineth] until this day. 30 And <the king of Ai> hanged he on a tree until eventide, — but <at the going in of the sun> Joshua gave command and they took down his dead body from the tree, and cast it in at the opening of the gate of the city, and raised up over it a great heap of stones — [which remaineth] until this day.

§ 9. The Blessings and Curses of the Law, written on Altar-Stones, Read aloud, and Confirmed by all the People. 31 Then built Joshua, an altar, unto Yahweh, God of Israel, — in Mount Ebal: 32 as Moses, the servant of Yahweh, commanded the sons of Israel, as it is written in the scroll of the law of Moses, an altar of whole stones, whereon had not been wielded any tool of iron, — and they caused to go up thereon, ascending sacrifices unto Yahweh, and sacrificed peace-offerings. 33 Then wrote he there, upon the stones, a copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote, in the presence of the sons of Israel. 34 And <all Israel, and their elders and officers, and their judges> were standing on this side and on that side of the ark, before the priests the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, as well the sojourner as the home-born, half of them over against Mount Gerizim, and half of them over against Mount Ebal, — as Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded to bless the sons of Israel, first of all. 35 And <after that> read he all the words of the law, the blessing and the cursing, — according to all that was written in the scroll of the law. 36 There was not a word of all that Moses commanded, — which Joshua read not before all the convocation of Israel, with the women and the little ones, and the sojourner who was going on in their midst.

§ 10. The Gibeonites by Craft secure a Covenant with Israel. 1 And it came to pass, when they heard, — 9 namely, all the kings who were over the Jordan, in the hill country and in the lowland, and in all the coast of the great sea, over against the Lebanon, — the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite; 2 then gathered they themselves together as one man, to fight with Joshua, and with Israel, — [with one accord]. 3 Now the inhabitants of Gibeon heard that which Joshua had done unto Jericho and unto Ai; 4 they however <acted craftily, and went and started,—and took old sacks for their asses, and leathern wine bottles, old, and rent, and bound up; 5 and sandals, old and patched, upon their feet, and worn-out mantles upon them, — and <all the bread of their provision> was dry and broken. 6 So they took their journey unto Joshua, unto the camp, at Gilgal, — and said unto him, and unto the men of Israel, 7 <From a far country> are we come, <Now therefore, solemnise with us a covenant>. 8 And the men of Israel said unto the Hivites, — 9 Peradventure' <in our midst> ye' are dwelling, how then can we solemnise with you' a covenant? 10 And they said unto Joshua: 11 <Thy servants> we are', And Joshua said unto them: 12 <Who> are ye? And <from whence> come ye? 13 And they said unto him— 14 <From a very far country> have thy servants come, because of the name of Yahweh thy God, — because we had heard his fame, and all that he had done in Egypt; 15 and all that he had done unto the two kings of the Amorites who were over the Jordan, — unto Sihon, king of Heshbon, and unto Og, king of Bashan, who was in Ashtaroth. 16 So our elders and all the inhabitants of our land spake unto us, saying: — Take ye, in your hand, provision for the journey, and go your way to meet them, — then shall ye say unto them, <Your servants> we are'. 17 <Now therefore, solemnise with us a covenant>. 18 <This our bread> took we hot for our provision, out of our houses, on the day we came forth to journey unto you, — but

So he took of their provision,—but the bidding of Yahweh had they not asked.

13 And Joshua made peace* with them, and solemnised with them a covenant* to let them live,—and the princes of the assembly entered into an oath* with them.

14 And it came to pass <at the end of three days after they had solemnised with them a covenant> that they heard that <near neighbours> they were unto them, and <in their midst> they were dwelling.

15 So the sons of Israel brake up, and came in unto their cities on the third day,—their cities being Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kiriath-jearim.*

16 And the sons of Israel smote them not, because the princes of the assembly had sworn unto them by Yahweh, God of Israel,—but all the assembly murmured against the princes.

17 And all the princes said unto all the assembly:

"We* have sworn unto them, by Yahweh, God of Israel,—<now> therefore, we may not touch them.

18 ||This|| will we do unto them, even let them live,—lest there come on us wrath, because of the oath which we have sworn unto them.

19 And the princes said unto them—Let them live.

So they became* hewers of wood and drawers of water unto all the assembly, as the princes spake unto them.

20 And Joshua called for them, and spake unto them, saying,—Wherefore* did ye deceive us, saying,—We are very far* from you', whereas ye* <in our midst> are dwelling?

21 ||Now|| therefore, <accursed> ye are',—and ye shall not cease to be in bond-service as hewers of wood and drawers of water, for the house of my God.

22 And they responded to Joshua, and said—Because it was <plainly told> thy servants, how that Yahweh thy God had commanded Moses his servant to give unto you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you,—therefore feared we greatly, for our lives,* because of you, and did this thing.

23 ||Now|| therefore, <here we are> in thy hand,*—<as may be good and right in thine eyes, to do unto us> [do].

24 And he did to them so,—and rescued them out of the hand of the sons of Israel, and they slew them not. And Joshua appointed them that day to be hewers of wood and drawers of water unto the assembly,—and unto the altar of Yahweh,* [as they are] until this day, in the place which he should choose.

§ 11. The Conquests of Joshua described and summed up.

1 And it came to pass <when Adonizedec, 10 king of Jerusalem, heard' that Joshua had captured Ai, and devoted it to destruction, <as he had done unto Jericho and her king> [so had he done unto Ai and her king,—and that the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace* with Israel and had come into their midst> 2 then feared they greatly, because Gibeon* was , as one of the royal* cities,—and because ||it|| was greater than Ai, and |all the men thereof|| were mighty; 3 therefore sent Adonizedec, king of Jerusalem, unto Hoham, king of Hebron, and unto Piram, king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia, king of Lachish, and unto Debir, king of Eglon, saying:

"Come up unto me and help me, that we may smite Gibeon,—for it hath made peace with Joshua, and with the sons of Israel.

So they gathered themselves together and came up, even the five kings of the Amorites—the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon,—<they, and all their hosts>,—and encamped near Gibeon, and made war against it.

4 So the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua, unto the camp at Gilgal, saying,

Do not withhold thy hand* from thy servants,—Come up unto us quickly, and save us, and help us, for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the hill-country, are gathered together against us.

5 So Joshua went up from Gilgal, <he and all the people of war with him, even all the mighty men of valour>>,—And Yahweh said unto Joshua:

"Do not fear because of them,<for into thy hand> have I delivered them,—not a man of them shall stand before thee.

6 So then Joshua came in unto them, suddenly,—<all the night> came he up. from Gilgal. 10 And Yahweh confused them before Israel, and smote them with a great slaughter at Gibeon,—and chased them along the way that goeth up Beth-horon, and destroyed them as far as Azekah and as far as Makkedah. 11 And it came to pass, when they fled from before Israel, <they being on the slope of Beth-horon, that Yahweh cast down upon them great stones out of the heavens, as far as Aselah, and they died,— <more> were they who died by the hailstones, than they whom the sons of Israel slew with the sword.

21 And Joshua spake unto Yahweh, a on the day when Yahweh delivered up the Amorites before the sons of Israel,—yea he said, in the presence of Israel—
' Thou Sun! be still,
And thou Moon! in the vale of Aijalon.

22 So the sun was still, and the moon stayed, until a nation should be avenged on its foes. Is not that written in the Book of the Upright? So then the sun stayed in the middle of the heavens, and hastened not to go in, about a whole day. 14 And there was no day like that—before it or after it, when Yahweh hearkened unto the voice of a man,—in that Yahweh himself fought for Israel.

So Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp at Gilgal.

20 And Joshua said,
Roll ye great stones against the mouth of the cave, and set over it men, to watch them; out do not ye stay, chase after your enemies, so shall ye attack them in the rear,—do not suffer them to enter into their cities, for Yahweh your God hath delivered them into your hand.

And it came to pass <when Joshua and the sons of Israel had made an end of smiting them with a very great slaughter, until they were spent>, then did ||the remainder that were left of them|| enter into the fortified cities. 21 And all the people returned unto the camp, unto Joshua at Makkedah, in peace,—none sharpened his tongue' at any man of the sons of Israel.

22 Then said Joshua,
Open ye the mouth of the cave,—and bring out unto me, these five kings, out of the cave.

And they did so, and brought out unto him, these five kings, out of the cave,—namely, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon. 24 And it came to pass <when they brought out these kings> unto Joshua that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said unto the captains of the men of war who had been with him,

Come near, put your feet upon the necks of these kings.
So they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them.
25 Then said Joshua unto them:
Do not fear, nor be alarmed,—be firm and bold, for <thus and thus> will Yahweh do unto all your enemies, against whom ye' do fight.

26 And Joshua smote' them after this, and put them to death, and hanged them upon five trees,—and they remained hung on the trees until the evening. 27 And it came to pass <at the time of the going in of the sun> that Joshua gave command, and they took them down off the trees, and cast them into the cave, where they had hid themselves,—and put great stones upon the mouth of the cave, [which remain] until this very day.

28 And Joshua captured ||Makkedah> on that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and <the king thereof> devoted he to destruc tion, them" and all the souls that were therein, he left no survivor,—but did unto the king of Makkedah, as he had done unto the king of Jericho.

29 And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Makkedah unto Libnah,—and fought against Libnah; 30 and Yahweh delivered [it also] into the hand of Israel, with the king thereof, and he smote it with the edge of the sword, with all the souls that were therein, he left therein no survivor,—but did unto the king thereof, as he had done unto the king of Jericho.

31 And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Libnah unto Lachish,—and encamped against it, and fought against it; 32 and Yahweh delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, and he captured it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, with all the souls that were therein, according to all that he had done unto Libnah.

33 Then came up Horam, king of Gezer, to help Lachish,—and Joshua smote him and his people, until he had not left him a survivor.

34 And Joshua passed over, and all Israel with him, from Lachish unto Eglon,—and they encamped against it, and fought against it; 35 and captured it on the same day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and <all the souls that were therein>, on that day> devoted he to destruction,—according to all that he had done to Lachish.

36 And Joshua went up, and all Israel with him, from Eglon unto Hebron,—and they fought against it; 37 and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, with all the souls that were therein—he left not a survivor, according to all that he had done to Eglon,—he devoted it to destruction, and all the souls that were therein.

And it came to pass, when Jabin king of Hazor heard that he sent unto Jobab king of Madon, and unto the king of Shimron, and unto the king of Achshaph; 2 and unto the kings who were on the north in the hill country and in the waste plain south of Chinneroth, and in the lowland,—and in the heights of Dor, on the west: 3 the Canaanite on the east and on the west, and the Amorite, and the Amolite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite and the Jebusite, in the hill country,—and the Hivite, under Hermon, in the land of Mizpah; 4 and they came out,—they, and all their hosts with them, much people, like the sand that is upon the seashore for multitude,—with horses and chariots very many. 5 And when all these kings were gathered together to meet Joshua, they came in, and encamped as one man, at the waters of Merom, to fight with Israel. 6 And said Yahweh unto Joshua—Do not fear because of them, for <to-morrow> about this time shall thou burn up all of them, slain, before Israel,—<their horses> shalt thou burn up with fire.

And Joshua, and all the army with him, came in upon them, by the waters of Merom, suddenly, and fell upon them. 8 And Yahweh delivered them up into the hand of Israel, and they smote them, and chased them as far as great Zidon, and as far as Misrephoth-maim, and as far as the valley of Mizpeh, eastward,—yea they smote them until they left them not a survivor. 9 And Joshua did unto them, as Yahweh had said unto him,—<their horses> he ham-strung, and <their chariots> burned he up with fire.

Then Joshua turned back, and at that time, and captured Hazor, and <the king thereof> smote he with the sword,—for <Hazor> aforetime was the head of all these kingdoms. 11 And they smote all the souls that were therein, with the edge of the sword, devoting them to destruction, there was left no breathing thing,—and <Hazor> burned he up with fire. 12 And <all the cities of these kings, and all the kings thereof> did Joshua capture, and he smote them with the edge of the sword, devoting them to destruction, —as Moses, the servant of Yahweh, commanded.

Yet <none of the cities that were still standing upon their mound> did Israel burn <none but Hazor alone> did Joshua burn. 13 But <all the spoil of those cities, and the cattle> did the sons of Israel take as their prey,—nevertheless <all the human beings> smote they with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them, they left remaining no breathing thing. 14 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp at Gilgal.

15 So Joshua took all this land—the hill country, and all the south, and all the land of Goshen, even as far as Gaza,—and all the land of Gohean, even as far as Gideon. 16 So Joshua took all the land, according to all that Moses had spoken. 17 From Mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, even as far as Baal-gad, in the valley of the Lebanon, under Mount Hermon,—and <all their kings> he captured, and smote them, and put them to death. 18 <Many days> did Joshua <with all these kings> make war. 19 There was not a city that made peace with the sons of Israel, save the Hivites dwelling in Gibeon,—<the whole> took they in battle. 20 For <from Yahweh> came it to pass, that their heart was emboldened to come out to war with Israel, that he might devote them to destruction, that they might find no favour,—but that he might destroy them,—As Yahweh commanded Moses.

And Joshua came in, at that time, and cut off the Anakim from the hill country—from Hebron from Debir, from <Anah, and from all the hill country of Judah, and from all the hill country of Israel,—<with their cities> did Joshua devote them to destruction. 22 There was left remaining none of the Anakim, in the land of the sons of Israel,—save only <in Gaza, in Gath, and in Asidod > did some remain.

So Joshua took the whole land, according to all that Yahweh had spoken unto Moses, and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel, according to their portions by their tribes,—and ||the land|| had rest from war.

§ 12. The Apportioning of the Land.

1 Now Joshua was old, advanced in days,

2 This is the land that remaineth,—all the regions of the Philistines, and all the Geshurites; 3 from the Shihor which faceth Egypt, even as far as the boundary of Ekron, northward, <to the Canaanites> is it counted,—five princes of Philistines— the Gazites, and the Ashdodites, the Ashkelonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites, also the Avvim 4 on the south: b all the land of the Canaanites, and Maarah which belongeth to the Zidonians, as far as the boundary of the Amorites; 5 and the land of the Geshurites, and all the Lebanon, to the rising of the sun, from Baal-gad, under Mount Hermon,— as far as the entering in of Hamath; 6 <all the inhabitants of the hill country>, from the Lebanon as far as Misrephoth-maim— all the Zidonians, I myself will dispossess them from before the sons of Israel,— nevertheless, assign thou it by lot unto Israel, for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

7 Now therefore, apportion this land as an inheritance, unto the nine tribes,—and the half tribe of Manasseh.

8 With them> the Reubenites and the Gadites received their inheritance, which Moses gave them beyond the Jordan eastward, as Moses the servant of Yahweh gave unto them: 9 from Arer, which is on the edge of the ravine of Arnon, and the city, which is in the midst of the ravine, and all the table-land of Medeba, as far as Dibon; 10 and all the cities of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon,— as far as the boundary of the sons of Ammon; 11 and Gilead, and the boundary of the Geshurites and the Maacathites, and all Mount Hermon, and all Bashan, as far as Salekah; 12 all the regions of the Philistines, and all the Geshurites; 13 from the Shihor which faceth Egypt, even as far as the boundary of Ekron, northward, <to the Canaanites> is it counted,—five princes of Philistines— the Gazites, and the Ashdodites, the Ashkelonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites, also the Avvim 4 on the south: b all the land of the Canaanites, and Maarah which belongeth to the Zidonians, as far as the boundary of the Amorites; 5 and the land of the Geshurites, and all the Lebanon, to the rising of the sun, from Baal-gad, under Mount Hermon,— as far as the entering in of Hamath; 6 <all the inhabitants of the hill country>, from the Lebanon as far as Misrephoth-maim— all the Zidonians, I myself will dispossess them from before the sons of Israel,— nevertheless, assign thou it by lot unto Israel, for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

and half Gilead, and Ashtaroth and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan] pertained to the sons of Machir; son of Manasseh, to half the sons of Machir, by their families.

These are [the portions] which Moses gave for inheritance, in the waste plains of Moab,—over the Jordan by Jericho, eastward. But unto the tribe of Levi Moses gave no inheritance,—<Yahweh, God of Israel> [he] was their inheritance, as he spake unto them.

1 And these are the inheritances which the 14 sons of Israel received in the land of Canaan,—which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the ancestral heads of the tribes of the sons of Israel gave them to inherit.

2 <By lot> was their inheritance divided,—<as> Yahweh commanded by the hand of Moses, unto the nine tribes and unto the half tribe.

For Moses had given the two tribes and the half tribe their inheritance over the Jordan,—but <unto the Levites> gave he no inheritance in their midst; for the sons of Joseph became two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim,—so they gave no portion to the Levites in the land, save only cities to dwell in, with the pasture lands thereof, for their cattle and for their substance.

As Yahweh commanded Moses [so] did the sons of Israel,—when they apportioned the land.

Then came near the sons of Judah unto Joshua, in Gilgal, and Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizite, said unto him,—

Thou kNowest the word which Yahweh spake unto Moses the man of God, in my behalf and in thine, in Kadesh-barnes.

Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of Yahweh sent me, from Kadesh-barnes, to spy out the land,—so I brought him back word, as was in my heart.

But my brethren who had been up with me made the heart of the people melt,—whereas [I] wholly followed Yahweh my God.

So then Moses aware on that day, saying,

Surely the land on which thou foot hath trodden <unto thee> shall belong, for an inheritance, unto thou sons, unto times age-abiding,—because thou hast wholly followed Yahweh my God.

Now therefore, lo! Yahweh hath kept me alive, as he spake, these forty and five years, from the time Yahweh spake this word unto Moses, while Israel journeyed in the desert.

Now therefore, lo! [I-to-day] am eighty and five years old: 11 I remain, to-day, as courageous as on the day when Moses sent me <as my strength was then> so also my strength is now,—for war, both to go out and to come in.

Now therefore, give me this mountain, whereof Yahweh spake, on that day,—for thou thyself didst hear, on that day, that Anakim were there, and great cities fortified, if so be Yahweh be with me> then shall I dispossess them.

As spake Yahweh.

13 So Joshua blessed him, and gave Hebron unto Caleb son of Jephunneh, for an inheritance.

14 For this cause> hath Hebron belonged unto Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, for an inheritance, unto this day,—because he wholly followed Yahweh, God of Israel. 15 Now the name of Hebron was formerly City of Arba, <the greatest man among the Anakim> was he'. And the land had rest from war.

15 1 So then the boundary of the tribe of the sons of Judah, by their families,—reached unto the boundary of Edom, the desert of Zin southward, on the extreme south; 2 so their south boundary beginneth at the end of the Salt Sea,—from the bay that turneth to the south; 3 and goeth forth on the south of the cliffs of Akkabim, and croseth over to Zin, and goeth up on the south of Kadesh-barnes,—and passeth over by Hebron, and goeth up to Addar, and turneth round to Karka; 4 and passeth over to Azmon, and goeth forth at the ravine of Egypt, and so the extensions of the boundary are to the sea. 5 And the boundary eastward is the Salt Sea, as far as the end of the Jordan. And the boundary on the north side is from the bay of the sea, from the end of the Jordan. 6 And the boundary goeth up Beth-hoglah, and passeth over, on the north, by Beth-arabah,—and the boundary goeth up by the Stone of Boehan, son of Reuben; 7 and the boundary goeth up towards Debir, out of the vale of Achor, then northward, turning unto Gilgal, which is over against the ascent of Adummim, which is on the south side of the ravine,—then the boundary passeth over unto the waters of En-shemed, and so the extensions thereof are unto En-rogel: 8 then ascendeth the boundary by the valley of the son of Hinnom, to the side of the Jebusite, on the south, the same is Jerusalem,—and the boundary goeth up unto the top of the mountain which faeth the valley of Hinnom, to the west, which is at the end of the Vale of Giants, northwards; 9 and the boundary turneth round, from the top of the mountain, unto the fountain of the waters of Nepthoah, and goeth out unto the cities of Mount Ephron,—then the boundary turneth round to Baalah, the same is Kiriat-jearim; 10 then the boundary goeth round from Baalah westward, unto Mount Seir, and passeth over unto the slope of Mount Yearim, on the north, the same is Chesoion,—and descendeth Beth-shemesh, and passeth over Timnah; 11 then the boundary goeth forth unto the side of Ekron, northward, then the boundary turneth round towards Shikkeron, and croseth over Mount Baalah, and goeth out at Jabneel,—and the extensions of the boundary are to the sea. 12 And the sea boundary are the great sea and coast. 13 And Caleb dispossessed from hence, the three sons of Anak,—Sheehai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the descendants of Anak. 14 And he went up from thence, against the inhabitants of Debir,—now the name of Debir, formerly was Kiriat-sephaer. 15 Then said Caleb, <He that smiteth Kiriat-sephaer, and captureth it> I will give unto him' Achsa, my daughter, to wife.

16 And Othniel son of Kenaz, brother of Caleb captured it,—so he gave unto him Achsa, his daughter, to wife. 17 And she said— Give me a present, for <dry land> hast thou given me, therefore must thou give me, pools of water. So he ' gave her upper pools and lower pools.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Judah, by their families. 21 And the uttermost cities of the tribe of the sons of Judah, towards the boundary of Edom in the south, were,— Kabzeel and Eder, and Jagur, 22 and Kinah and Dimonah, and Adadah,— 23 and Kedesh and Hazor, and Ibnean, 24 Ziph and Talem, and Bealoth, 25 and Hazor-haddattah and Kerioth-hezron, the same is Hazor; 26 Amam and Shema, and Moladah, 27 and Hazar-gaddah and Heshmon, and Beth-pelet. 28 and Hazar-shual and Beer-sheba, with the hamlets thereof, 29 Baalah and Iyyirim, and Ezem, 30 and Eglon and Cheesil, and Hormah, 31 and Ziklag and Madmannah, and Sansannah, 32 and Lebooth and Shihlim, and En-rimon,—all the cities are twenty-nine, with their villages. 33 In the lowland,—Eeshal and Zorah, and Ashnah, 34 and Zanoah and En-gannim, Tappuah, and Enam; 35 Jarmuth, and Adamlum, Sooch, and Azekah; 36 and Shaaraim, and Adithaim, and Gedera, and Gederothaim,—fourteen cities, with their villages]]. 77 Zenan and Hadashah, and Migdal-gad, 30 and Dilan and Mispeh, and Joktheel, 30 Lachish and Bokkath, and Eglon, 40 and Cabbon and Lehman. 41 and Chithliah, and Gederoth, Beth-dagon and Naamah, and Maakkedah,—sixteen cities, with their villages. 42 Libnah and Ether, and Achan, 43 and Ihphath and Ashnah, and Nezib, 44 and Keilah and Achzib, and Mareshah.—nine cities, with their villages. 45 Ekron with her towns, and her villages. 46 From Ekron even unto the sea,—all that were by the side of Ashdod with their villages. 47 Ashdod, her towns and her villages. Gaza, her towns and her villages, as far as the ravine of Egypt,—and the great sea and coast. 48 <And in the hill-country>,—Shamar and Jattir, and Socoh, 49 and Dannah and Kiriath-sannah, [the same] is Debir, 50 and Arab and Eshemo, and Anim, 51 and Goshem and Holon, and Giloh,—eleven cities, with their villages. 52 Arab and Rumah 4 and Esthan, 53 and Janim 4 and Beth-tappuah, and Aphekah, 54 and Humtah, and Kiriath-arba, [the same] is Hebron, and Zior,—nine cities, with their villages. 55 Maon Carmel, and Ziph and Jutah, 56 and Jereel and Jokdeam, and Zanoah, 57 Kain, Gibeah and Timnath,—ten cities, with their villages. 58 Halhul Beth-zur, and Gedor, 59 and Maarath and Beth-anoth, and Eltekon,—six cities, with their villages. 60 Kiriath-baal, [the same] is Kiriath-jearim, and Rabba, —two cities, with their villages. 61 <In the desert>, —Beth-arabah, Middin, and Seacoah, 52 and Niمساب and the City of Salt, and Engedi,—six cities, with their villages. 63 But <as for the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem> the sons of Judah could not dispossess them,—so the Jebusites have dwelt with the sons of Judah, in Jerusalem, until this day.

Then came out the lot, for the sons of Joseph, from the Jordan by Jericho, at the waters of Jericho, eastward,—the desert, going up from Jericho, through the hill country to Bethel; 2 and it goeth out from Bethel towards Luz,—and passeth over unto the boundary of the Archites at Ataroth; 3 and descendeth westward, unto the boundary of the Japhletites, as far as the boundary of Beth-horon the upper; 4 and the boundary goeth out westward at Michmethath, on the north, then the boundary bendeth round eastward, to Taanath-shiloh,—and passeth by it on the east to Janoah; 5 and goeth down from Janoah to Ataroth and to Naarah,—and toucheth upon Jericho, and goeth out at the Jordan. 6 <From Tappuah> runneth the boundary along westward, to the ravine of Kanah, and the extensions thereof are to the sea,—this is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Ephraim, by their families; 7 together with the cities which were separated for the sons of Ephraim, in the midst of the inheritance of the sons of Manasseh,—all the cities, with their villages. 8 But they did not dispossess the Canaanites who were dwelling in Gazer, so the Canaanites have dwelt in the midst of Ephraim unto this day, and have become tributary servants.

1 And the lot for the tribe of Manasseh was,

Then were gathered together all the assembly of the sons of Israel at Shiloh, and they set up there, the tent of meeting, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the covenant of the Lord upon the horns of mercy. And the sons of Israel stood about the tabernacle of the congregation, every one of them going up, and map it out, and return unto me, and here will I cast lots for you here, before Yahweh our God.

1. Then came up the lot of the tribe of the sons of Joseph, to Ephraim southward of the ravine, as the city children of Ephraim, and the boundary goeth down to the ravine of Kanah, southward of the ravine; these cities belong to Ephraim, in the midst of the cities of Manasseh, but the boundary of Manasseh was on the north side of the ravine, and the extensions thereof were to the sea; and the northward pertained to Ephraim, and [southward] to Manasseh, and the sea was the boundary thereof, and they touch Asher on the north, and Issachar on the east. And Manasseh had in Issachar and in Asher—Bethshean and her towns; and Ibileam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of En-dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo, and her towns—the three heights. The sons of Manasseh, however, could not dispossess these Canaanites, but the Canaanites were determined to remain in this land; but when the sons of Israel had waxed strong, they put the Canaanites under tribute, though they did not dispossess them.

Then spake the sons of Joseph unto Joshua, saying:—Why hast thou given me, as an inheritance, but one lot and one portion, seeing that I am a numerous people, because hitherto hast Yahweh blessed me.

And Joshua said unto them:—If a numerous people thou art, get thee up to the forest, and cut down for thyself a forest; and there, in the land of the Perizzites and of the Rephaim, seeing that too narrow for thee is the hill country of Ephraim, and thou canst not cut it down, and thine shall be strong. for thou shalt dispossess them.

And Joshua made answer unto the house of Joseph: and the boundary goeth down to the ravine of Kanah, southward of the ravine, these cities belong to Ephraim, in the midst of the cities of Manasseh, but the boundary of Manasseh was on the north side of the ravine, and the extensions thereof were to the sea; and the northward pertained to Ephraim, and [southward] to Manasseh, and the sea was the boundary thereof, and they touch Asher on the north, and Issachar on the east. And Manasseh had in Issachar and in Asher—Bethshean and her towns, and Ibileam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of En-dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo, and her towns—the three heights. And Manasseh had in Issachar and in Asher—Bethshean and her towns; and Ibileam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of En-dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo, and her towns—the three heights. The sons of Manasseh, however, could not dispossess these Canaanites, but the Canaanites were determined to remain in this land; but when the sons of Israel had waxed strong, they put the Canaanites under tribute, though they did not dispossess them.

Then spake the sons of Joseph unto Joshua, saying:—Why hast thou given me, as an inheritance, but one lot and one portion, seeing that I am a numerous people, because hitherto hast Yahweh blessed me.

And Joshua said unto them:—If a numerous people thou art, get thee up to the forest, and cut down for thyself a forest; and there, in the land of the Perizzites and of the Rephaim, seeing that too narrow for thee is the hill country of Ephraim, and thou canst not cut it down, and thine shall be strong. for thou shalt dispossess them.

And the second lot came out for Simeon, for their inheritance was as far as Sard. And their boundary goeth up westward, even toward Marsala, and toucheth Dobbesheth,—and reacheth unto the ravine that faeth Jokneam; 12 and turneth back from Sard, eastward, toward the rising of the sun, upon the boundary of Chisloth-tabor,—and goeth out unto Debir, and ascended Japhia; 13 and (from thence) it passed along in front on the east, towards Gath-hepher, towards Eth-kasin,—and goeth out at Rimmon which turneth about towards Neah; 14 and the boundary goeth round it, on the north to Hannathon,—and so the extensions thereof are the valley of Iphath- el; 15 and Kattath and Nahalal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem,—sixteen cities, with their villages. 16 This is the inheritance of the sons of Simeon by their families,—these cities, with their villages.

For Issachar came out the fourth lot,—for the sons of Issachar, by their families. 17 And their boundary was,—Jezreel and Chesulloth, and Shunem, and Hapharaim and Shion, and Anaharath, and Hethathar, and Kaphlaw, and Tut, and Bethbaggai, and Karkar, 18 and Beth-banaf, and Kedesh, and Hazor, and Ibleam, and Serachim, and Elqaam, and Ibser, and Jarmuth, 19 and Zebulun, and Halah, and Shartaim, and Achzib. 20 And the boundary goeth about from thence, and compasseth the territory of Chisloth-tabor,—and goeth out at Rimmon which turneth about towards Neah; 21 and the boundary goeth round it, on the north to Hannathon,—and so the extensions thereof are the valley of Iphath- el; 22 and Kattath and Nahalal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem,—sixteen cities, with their villages. 23 This is the inheritance of the sons of Issachar by their families,—these cities, with their villages.

Then came out the fifth lot, for the tribe of the sons of Asher, by their families. 24 And their boundary was,—Helkath and Hali, and Beton and Achalah, and Allam-melech and Amad, and Mishal,—and it toucheth Carmel to the west, and Shihor-libnath; 25 and it turneth toward sun-rise—to Beth-dagon, and toucheth Zebulun and the valley of Iphath-el northward, and Beth-emek, and Neiel; and goeth out unto Cabul, on the left, and Ebron and Rehob, and Hammon and Kanah,—as far as Zidon the populous; 26 and the boundary turneth to Ramah, and as far as the city of the fortress of Tyre,—then the boundary turneth to Hosah, and so the extensions thereof are, on the west, from Hebel to Achzib; 27 and Ummah also and Aphek, and Rehob, —twenty-two cities, with their villages. 28 This is the inheritance of the sons of Asher by their families,—these cities, with their villages.

For the sons of Naphtali came out the sixth lot,—for the sons of Naphtali, by their families. 29 And their boundary was,—from thence it passed along in front on the east, towards the city of the fortress of Tyre, —then the boundary turneth to Hosah, and so the extensions thereof are, on the west, from Hebel to Achzib; 30 and Shihor-lihanath to the west, from Hebel to Achzib; 31 and Hosah, and so the extensions thereof are, on the west, from Hebel to Achzib; 32 and Ummah also and Aphek, and Rehob, —twenty-two cities, with their villages. 33 This is the inheritance of the sons of Naphtali, by their families,—these cities, with their villages.

and Adam-nekeb, and Jabneel, as far as Lakkun; and so the extensions thereof were to the Jordan; 34 and the boundary turneth westward, to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence, toward Hukkoth,—and toucheth Zebulun on the south, and Asher it toucheth on the west, and Judah at the Jordan towards sunrise.

And the fortified cities are,— Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakikath, and Chinnereth, 36 and Adamah and Ramah, and Hazor, 37 and Kedesh and Edrei, and En-hazor, and Iron and Migdal-el, Horem, and Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh,—nineteen cities, with their villages.

This is the inheritance of the tribe of the sons of Naphthali, by their families,—the cities, with their villages.

And for the tribe of the sons of Dan, by their families came out the seventh lot. 41 And the boundary of their inheritance was,— Zorah and Eshtaol, and Ir-nehem, 42 and Shaalbin and Aijalon, and Ithlah, 43 and Elon and Timnah, and Ekron, 44 and Eltekeb and Gibethon, and Bealath, 45 and Jehud and Beneberak, and Gath-rimmon, and Me-jarkon, and Rakkon,—with the boundary over against Joppa.

And when the boundary of the sons of Dan went out beyond these, then went up the sons of Dan and fought against Leshem, and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and took possession thereof, and dwelt therein, and they called Leshem—Dan, their father.

This is the inheritance of the sons of Dan, by their families,—the cities, with their villages.

When they had made an end of distributing the land by the boundaries thereof, then gave the sons of Israel an inheritance unto Joshua son of Nun, in their midst: 56 at the bidding of Yahweh, gave they unto him that he asked, even Timnath-serah, in the hill country of Ephraim,—and he built it, and dwelt therein.

These are the inheritances which Eleazar the priest and Joshua son of Nun and the ancestral heads distributed for inheritance to the tribes of the sons of Israel, by lot, in Shiloh, before Yahweh, at the entrance of the tent of meeting, so they made an end of apportioning the land.

And Yahweh spake unto Joshua, saying:

1 Then came near the ancestral heads of the Levites, unto Eleazar, the priest, and unto Joshua son of Nun,—and unto the ancestral heads of the tribes of the sons of Israel; 2 and spake unto them in Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying:

Yahweh himself commanded, by the hand of Moses, that there should be given unto us cities to dwell in, with their pasture-lands for our cattle.

So the sons of Israel gave unto the Levites, out of their own inheritance, at the bidding of Yahweh,—these cities, with their pasture-lands.

And when the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites—then had the sons of Aaron the priest, from among the Levites—out of the tribe of Judah and out of the tribe of the Simeonites and out of the tribe of Benjamin—by lot—thirteen cities, with their villages.

And the sons of Kohath that remained had—out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim and out of the tribe of Dan and out of the half tribe of Manasseh—by lot—ten cities.

And the sons of Gershon had—out of families of the tribe of Issachar and out of the tribe of Asher and out of the tribe of Naphtali and out of the half tribe of Manasseh—by lot—thirteen cities.

The sons of Merari, by their families had—out of the tribe of Reuben and out of the tribe of Gad and out of the tribe of Zebulun—by lot—four cities.

So the sons of Israel gave unto the Levites—these cities, with their pasture lands,—as Yahweh commanded, by the hand of Moses, by lot.

Thus then they gave—out of the tribe of the sons of Judah and out of the tribe of the sons of Simeon—those cities which are mentioned by name.

And the sons of Aaron, from among the sons of Kohath, from among the sons of Levi, had them, because their was the first lot;

yes there was given unto them, the city of Arba, the father of Anak, the same is Hebron, in the hill country of Judah, with the pasture land thereof, round about it;

whereas the fields of the city, and the villages thereof gave they unto Caleb son of Jephunneh, as his possession.

But unto the sons of Aaron the priest gave they the city of refuge for the manslayer, even Hebron, with the pasture lands thereof, Libnah also, with her pasture land;

and Jattir with her pasture land, and Eshtemoa with her pasture land;

and Holon, with her pasture land, and Debir, with her pasture land;

and Ain, with her pasture land, Juttah, with her pasture land, Beth-shemesh, with her pasture land, Geba with her pasture land;

Anathoth, with her pasture land, and Almon, with her pasture land—nine cities, out of these two tribes.

And out of the tribe of Benjamin gave Gibeon, with her pasture land;

Geber, with her pasture land;

Anathoth, with her pasture land, and Almon, with her pasture land—four cities.

All the cities of the sons of Aaron, the priests were thirteen cities, with their pasture lands.

And as for the families of the sons of Kohath, the Levites, which remained of the sons of Kohath, the cities of their lot were—out of the tribe of Ephraim—

So they gave unto them a city of refuge for the manslayer, even Shchehem with her pasture land, in the hill country of Ephraim, also Gezer, with her pasture land; and Kibzaim, with her pasture land, and Beth-horon, with her pasture land, —four cities.

And out of the tribe of Dan—

Elteke, with her pasture land, Gibbethon, with her pasture land;

5. And the sons of Kohath that remained had—out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim and out of the tribe of Dan and out of the half tribe of Manasseh—by lot—

ten cities.

And the sons of Gershon had—out of families of the tribe of Issachar and out of the tribe of Asher and out of the tribe of Naphtali and out of the half tribe of Manasseh—by lot—thirteen cities.

The sons of Merari, by their families had—out of the tribe of Reuben—

All the cities of the Gershonites, by their families were thirteen cities, with their pasture lands.

And unto the families of the sons of Merari, the Levites that remained—out of the tribe of Zebulun—

Jokneam, with her pasture land;

And out of the tribe of Reuben—

Bezer, with her pasture land, and Jahaz, with her pasture land—four cities.

And out of the tribe of Gad—

Kedesh in Galilee, with her pasture land, and Hammoth-dor, with her pasture land, and Kartan, with her pasture land—three cities.

All the cities for the sons of Merari, by their families, who remained of the families of the Levites yes their lot was—twelve cities.

All the cities of the Levites, in the midst of the inheritance of the sons of Israel were forty-eight cities, with their pasture lands; these cities passed, each severally, with its pasture lands round about it; thus was it with all these cities.

So Yahweh gave unto Israel, all the land... which he had sworn to give unto their fathers,— and they took possession thereof, and dwelt therein. 10 And Yahweh gave them rest round about, according to all that he had sworn unto their fathers,—and there stood not a man before them, of all their enemies, <all their enemies:
did Yahweh deliver into their hand. 12 There failed not a thing, out of all the good things, whereof Yahweh had spoken unto the house of Israel,—||the whole|| came to pass.*

\[15. \text{ The Two and Half Tribes Dismissed: their \textit{Altar of Witness}.}\]

11 And \textit{when they came into the circles of the Jordan, which were in the land of Canaan}, >—then did the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh build there an altar by the Jordan, \textit{an altar of large dimensions}. 12 And the sons of Israel heard say,—

Lo ! the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh have built an altar in front of the land of Canaan, in the circles of the Jordan, in the region opposite* the sons of Israel.

And \textit{when the sons of Israel heard> all the \textit{assembly of the sons of Israel gathered} themselves together at Shiloh, to go up against them to war. 13 And the sons of Israel sent unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the sons of Manasseh, within the land of Gilead,—Phinehas, son of Eleazar the priest; 14 and ten princes with him, one prince of an ancestral house for each of the tribes of Israel,—they being \textit{several heads of their ancestral houses}|| among the thousands of Israel. 15 So they came in unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the half tribe of Manasseh, within the land of Gilead,—and spake with them, saying:

||Thus|| say all the \textit{assembly of Yahweh—}

\textit{What is this act of treachery which ye have committed against the God of Israel, that ye should turn back, to-day', from following Yahweh,—in that ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel, to-day, against Yahweh ?}

\textit{Too little for us} was the iniquity of Peor, from which we have not cleansed ourselves, unto this day,—although the plague came upon the assembly of Yahweh; 16 but that \textit{yes} must turn back to-day from following Yahweh,—though it must needs be that \textit{if} \textit{yes} rebel to-day against Yahweh then \textit{to-morrow} \textit{with all the assembly of Israel} will he be wroth !

Howbeit \textit{if} \textit{unclean} be the land of your \textit{possession} do ye on your part come over into the land of the possession of Yahweh, where abideth the habitation of Yahweh, and take your possession in our midst,— but \textit{against Yahweh} do not rebel, nor \textit{against us} rebel, by building yourselves an altar apart from the altar of Yahweh our God.

Did not \textit{Achan} son of Zerah commit an act of treachery, with a devoted thing, and \textit{upon all the assembly of Israel} came wrath,—so that not \textit{he—one man alone || died in his iniquity ?}

Then responded the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh,— and spake unto the heads of the thousands of Israel:

\textit{& El-Elohim-Yahweh, & El-Elohim-Yahweh> \textit{he& knoweth, and < Israel> \textit{he& shall know,—<if in rebellion, or if in treachery, against Yahweh> do not save us this day: 25 that we should build for ourselves an altar, to turn back from following Yahweh,—or <if that we might cause to go up thereon ascending-sacrifice or meal-offering, or if that we might offer thereon peace-offerings> let Yahweh himself require it; 26 if, indeed, we have not, rather, <out of anxiety and of purpose> done this thing, saying,—

<In time to come> your sons might speak to our sons, saying,

What have ye to do with Yahweh,a God of Israel; 26 seeing that  hath Yahweh put between us and you, ye sons of Reuben and ye sons of Gad,—even the Jordan, ye' have no portion in Yahweh,— so might your sons cause our sons, to come from revering Yahweh. 26 We said, therefore,

Let us prepare, we pray you, to build us an altar,— not for ascending-offering, nor for sacrifice; but that  it may be' between us and you, and between our generations after us, that we are to do the service of Yahweh, before him, with our ascending-offerings and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings,—that your sons may not say, in time to come, to our sons, Ye' have no portion in Yahweh.

Therefore said we,

And it shall be, <when they [so] say to us, or to our generations>, in time to come,—that we will say—

Behold ye the patternb of the altar of Yahweh, which our fathers made, not for ascending-offerings nor for sacrifice, but that  it might be' between us and you.

Far be it from us—that we should rebel against Yahweh, or turn back, to-day, from following Yahweh, by building an altar, for ascending-offering, or meal-offering or for sacrifice,—other than the altar of Yahweh our God, which is before his habitation.

And <when Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the assembly, even the heads of the thousands of Israel who were with him, heard' the words which the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad and the sons of Manasseh spake'> then was it well-pleasing in their eyes. 31 And Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest said' unto the sons of Reuben and unto the sons of Gad and unto the sons of Manasseh—

||To-day|| we know that <in our midst> is Yahweh, in that ye have not committed, against Yahweh, this act of treachery,—||now|| have ye rescued the § 16. Joshua's End drawing near, he exhorts the People.

1 And it came to pass <after many days, when 23 Yahweh had given rest unto Israel, from all their enemies round about,—and 22 Joshua had become old, advanced in days> 2 that Joshua called all Israel, for their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers,—and said unto them,

[3] If am old, advanced in days; 3 but [ye] have seen—all that Yahweh your God hath done unto all these nations, because of you,—for [Yahweh your God|! is he' that hath fought for you.

4 Behold, I have allotted to you these nations which remain, as an inheritance, for your tribes,—from the Jordan, and all the nations which I have cut off, even unto the great sea, at the going in of the sun.

5 But [Yahweh your God—he] will thrust them out from before you, and drive them away out of your sight,—so shall ye possess their land, [as Yahweh your God spake unto you].

6 Therefore must ye be very firm' to observe and to do' all that is written in the scroll of the law of Moses,—so as not to turn aside from thither, to the right hand or to the left; 7 so as not to go in among these nations, these which remain' with you,—and [with the name of their gods] shall ye neither make memorial d nor put on oath, and neither serve them, nor bow down to them. 8 But [unto Yahweh your God] must ye cleave,—[as ye have done until this day]; 9 therefore hath Yahweh dispossessed, from before you, nations great and strong,—but [as for you] not a man hath stood before you, [until this day].

10 ||One man of you|| can chase a thousand,—for [Yahweh your God]|! is he' that fighteth for you, [as he spake to you].

11 Take diligent heed, therefore, unto your souls,—to love Yahweh your God.

Joshua XXIII. 12—16; XXIV. 1—17.

24 And Joshua gathered together all the tribes of Israel, unto Shechem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and they presented themselves before God.

1 Then said Joshua unto all the people—

Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel,—

1 Beyond the River ye dwelt your fathers from age-past times, [unto] Terah, father of Abraham, and father of Nahor,—and they served other gods. 2 So I took your father, Abraham, from beyond the River, and led him through all the land of Canaan,—and multiplied his seed, and gave unto him Isaac; 4 and gave unto Isaac' Jacob and Esau,—and gave unto Esau Mount Seir, to possess it, but [Jacob and his sons] went down into Egypt. 5 Then sent I Moses and Aaron, and plagued Egypt, according to that which I did in their midst,—and <afterwards> brought you forth. 6 Yea I brought you forth, your fathers, out of Egypt, and ye came unto the sea, and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers, with chariots and with horsemen, unto the Red Sea. 7 So they made outcry unto Yahweh, and he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought in upon them the sea, and covered them,—and your eyes beheld what I did with the Egyptians. And <when ye had remained in the desert many days> 8 then I brought you into the land of the Amorites, who were dwelling over the Jordan, and they fought with you,—then delivered I them into your hand, and ye took possession of their land, so I destroyed them from before you. 9 Then rose up Balak, son of Zippor, king of Moab, and made war with Israel,—and sent and called for Balaam son of Beor, to curse* you; but I was not willing to hearken unto Balaam,—so he kept on blessing* you, and I rescued you out of his hand.

Then passed ye over the Jordan, and came in unto Jericho, and <when they would have made war with you—even the lords of Jericho—the Amorite and the Perizzite and the Canaanite and the Hittite and the Girgashite, the Hivite and the Jebusite> then delivered I them into your hand. 12 And I sent before you the hornet, which drove them out from before you, the two kings of the Amorites,—not with thy sword, nor with thy bow. 13 Thus I gave unto you a land on which thou hadst not laboured, and cities which ye had not built, and ye proceeded to dwell therein,—of vineyards and oliveyards, which ye planted not> ye're eating.

14 But <if it be a [vacation] in your eyes, to serve Yahweh> choose ye for yourselves, to-day, whom ye will serve, whether the gods which your fathers served, that were beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye're dwelling,—but [I and my house] will serve |Yahweh|.

15 Then responded the people, and said,

Far be it from us, that we should forsake Yahweh,—to serve other gods; 17 for <as for Yahweh our God> 18 I brought up both us and our fathers, out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants,—and who did before our eyes, these great signs, and preserved us throughout all the way wherein we journeyed, and among all the peoples through the midst of whom we passed; 18 then did Yahweh drive out all the peoples, even the Amorites who were dwelling in the land, from before us.— we too will serve Yahweh, for he is our God.

19 Then said Joshua unto the people— Ye cannot serve Yahweh, for he is a holy God; he is a jealous God; he is, he will not forgive* your transgression, nor your sins.

20 Ye shall forsake Yahweh, and serve the gods of a stranger; then will he turn, and inflict on you calamity, and consume you, after that he hath dealt well with you.

21 But the people said unto Joshua,— Nay! but we will serve Yahweh, for he is our God.

22 Then said Joshua unto the people— <Witnesses> are ye against yourselves, that ye yourselves have chosen you Yahweh, to serve him.
And they said: Witnesses!

23 Now, therefore, put ye away the gods of the stranger, that are in your midst,— and incline your heart unto Yahweh, God of Israel.

24 And the people said unto Joshua,— <Yahweh our God> will we serve, and unto his voice will we hearken.

So then Joshua solemnised a covenant for the people, on that day,— and set for them a statute and a regulation, in Shechem.

And Joshua wrote these words in the scroll of the law of God, — and took a great stone, and set it up there, under the oak that was by the sanctuary of Yahweh.

And Joshua said unto all the people— Lo! this stone shall serve against us as a witness, for I hath heard all the sayings of Yahweh, which he hath spoken with us,— so shall it serve against you as a witness.

28 And Joshua sent the people away, every man unto his inheritance.

29 And it came to pass that Joshua son of Nun, servant of Yahweh, died, being a hundred and ten years old. 30 And they buried him within the bounds of his own inheritance, in Timnath-serah, which is in the hill country of Ephraim, on the north of Mount Gaash.

31 So then Israel served Yahweh all the days of Joshua, — and all the days of the elders who prolonged their days after Joshua, and who had known all the work of Yahweh, which he had wrought for Israel.

2 And <the bones of Joseph—which the sons of Israel had brought up out of Egypt> buried they in Shechem, in the portion of field, which Jacob bought of the sons of Hamor, father of Shechem, for a hundred pieces of money,— and they belonged unto the sons of Joseph, as an inheritance.

33 And Eleazar son of Aaron died,— and they buried him in the hill of Phinehas his son, which was given to him, in the hill country of Ephraim.

* Or: “lift off,” “take away.”
SPECIAL NOTE

ON THE

DESTRUCTION OF THE CANAANITE NATIONS.

In reviewing the destruction of the nations of Canaan, it is most important to bear in mind the terrible nature of the crimes for which they were exterminated. Their very worship was grossly sensual and revoltingly cruel. In honour of their deities women surrendered their virtue. Their sacred places were brothels. The generative organs were openly represented by disgusting symbols. The peoples had holy (?) prostitutes, male and female,—kedeshim and kedeshoth. Lustful gods are cruel, and demand to be worshipped with human blood. Hence, to the king-idol Molech, the Canaanites, with some contiguous nations, immolated their sons and daughters. At such crimes as these nature shudders; and Palestine was fain, in abhorrence, to eject her inhabitants. Who shall say that the Most High has not the right to extinguish such polluters of the earth and contaminators of mankind as these? Doubtless the world has been made permanently the sweeter and the more habitable by reason of the occasional Divine use of the besom of destruction. Let us remember that there was long waiting before these nations were destroyed. Not till their iniquity was "full" did the stroke of vengeance fall. It was doubtless both safe and kind that the extermination was to be made ruthlessly complete. And let us not forget that Joshua's commission was divine, direct, positive, explicit and repeated; and therefore no example for generals destitute of such sanction. How far other commanders may volunteer, or be lawfully commissioned, to follow Joshua's example—is, for us, a question of casuistry into which we are not here called upon to enter. Moreover, Divine Mercy drew a line around the devoted nations, and outside that line peoples might be spared—unless, indeed, the interdict went forth against them; b while, on the other hand, Divine Equity warned the Hebrews that, if they fell into the same sins, they should receive a like punishment. Their land would vomit them forth. We know the sad sequel: they fell into sensual and cruel idol-worship; and God kept His word, as the captivities of Assyria and Babylon attest. We have yet to trace the long and painful story of Israel's sin and punishment: let us be thankful that we shall also have the privilege of turning over to a brighter leaf and dwelling on glowing prophetic songs of redemption, deliverance and salvation.

So much by way of general statement. If the inquiry be urged whether there is sufficient evidence to justify the sweeping statements made at the outset of this Note, the answer can only be in the affirmative, due allowance being made for the circumstantial character of the testimony. It is just as well that the proof should, in a sense, run between the lines. In fact, it is only when some adequate knowledge is possessed of the really obscene and blood-thirsty nature of idol-worship in Western Asia that the mind is prepared to feel the full force of allusions scattered throughout the Old Testament. Many, indeed, are the allegations against Israel for going unchastely after other gods; but even the needlessly coarse terms of our public versions (in speaking of it as "going a-whoring" after idols) have probably failed to suggest to the majority of even educated minds the awful and undoubted fact that such worship was accompanied by rites (to use the guarded language of the Oxford Gesenius) "sometimes involving actual prostitution." Hence there would appear to be something like a moral necessity to lift a little the veil which hides from view the true character of the worship of the Baals, the Asherahs and the Ashtaroths of Canaan.

As to the worship of the local Baals it is attested that "it was debased by repulsive immorality." Further, "when Israel entered Canaan the worship of the Baalim was everywhere present. As it was especially associated with agriculture, which the Israelites learned from the Canaanites, there was danger lest they should take over also the religious festivals connected with the various agricultural seasons, and thus succumb to the deadly fascination of the sensual nature-worship of the older inhabitants. That this actually happened we learn from the history."

As to the Asherahs, there is a doubt which does not in any way affect the main issue. The doubt is merely whether Asherah is the name of a distinct goddess, as well as the name of the "poles," "stumpes," or "stems" which represented her; or whether the notorious "Ashtoreth" (Astarte) was herself worshipped under these obscene images. In any case the rites associated with the "Asherahs" were immoral.

The "Encyclopaedia Britannica" unhesitatingly designates "Asherah" an impure goddess. But even if, as some think, the two names became confused, so that even when Asherah is named Astarte is ultimately intended, we have only to pass on and give a moment's attention to the latter to reach the fearful conclusion already indicated.

As to Astarte then: "She must have been pre-eminently the goddess of sexual passion. By Greeks and Phoenicians alike she is habitually identified with 'Aphrodite,' and there are sufficiently definite allusions to the unchaste character of the rites with which she was worshipped." "Her devotees were initiated with impure rites."

From the point of view thus obtained, the passages referred to below slowly unfold their terrible significance.

To complete, once for all, the needful reference to this painful and admonitory subject, the student has only to connect the worship of the Golden Calf (Exodus xxxii.) with the Egyptian worship of Apis, as briefly disclosed by the "Encyclopaedia Britannica," to apprehend why, on that occasion, the sedate Moses was driven frantic with consternation; and has only to conceive, in the light of the facts indicated in Numbers xxv. and in this Note, the real nature of the awful snare into which Israel fell at Baal-peor, to apprehend that instant excision alone could be trusted to prevent national extermination.

* Hastings' Dictionary of the Bible, 210 b.

* Obscene they manifestly were, as the monumental figures of them plainly enough attest. How readily a "pollard" could be shaped to suggest a conjunction which virtuous shame must ever hide, can well be imagined. And the smallest predominance given to the one or other element would be quite enough to account for the interchange in usage between the two forms asheris (mas.) and asherot (fern.).

§ 1. Israel, only in part driving out the Canaanites, fall into their Idolatry.

1 And it came to pass, after the death of Joshua, that the sons of Israel asked of Yahweh, saying,—

Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites, first, to make war upon them?

2 And Yahweh said—

[Judah] shall go,— lo! I have delivered the land into his power.

3 Then said Judah, unto Simeon his brother—

Come up with me into the territory allotted me, and let us make war on the Canaanites, then will [I also] go with thee, into thy territory.

So Simeon went with him. 4 And Judah went up, and Yahweh delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand,— and they smote them in Bezek, ten thousand men. 6 And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek, and fought with him,— and smote the Canaanites and the Perizzites. But Adoni-bezek fled, and they pursued him,— and took him, and cut off his thumbs, and his great toes. 7 Then said Adoni-bezek—

Seventy kings, with their thumbs and great toes cut off! have been picking up crumbs under my table, as I have done; but God hath requited me.

And they brought him into Jerusalem, and he died there. 8 And the sons of Judah made war upon Jerusalem, and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword,— and the city they set on fire. 9 And afterward the sons of Judah went down to make war upon the Canaanites,—dwelling in the hill country, and in the south, and in the lowland.

10 And Judah went against the Canaanites who were dwelling in Hebron,— now [the name of Hebron, formerly] was Kiriath-arba,— and they smote Sheshai and Ahiman, and Talmai. 11 And he went from thence, against the inhabitants of Debir,— now [the name of Debir, formerly] was Kiriath-sepher. 12 And Caleb said,

He that smiteth Kiriath-sepher, and captureth it, I will give unto him' Achsah my daughter, to wife.

13 But the Jebusites dwelling in Jerusalem— the sons of Benjamin did not drive out,— but the Jebusites have dwelt with the sons of Benjamin in Jerusalem, unto this day.

14 Then went up the house of Joseph— ['they also'] unto Bethel,— and [Yahweh] was with them. 15 And the house of Joseph sent to spy out Bethel,— now [the name of the city, formerly] was Luz. 16 So the watchers saw a man coming forth from the city,— and they said unto him—

Shew us, we pray thee, the way to get into the city, and we will deal with thee, in lovingkindness.

17 Then Othniel, son of Kenaz, Caleb’s younger brother, captured it,— and he gave him Achsah his daughter, to wife.

18 And it came to pass, when she came, that she moved him to ask of her father a field, and, when she alighted from off the ass, Caleb said unto her—

What aileth thee?

19 And she said unto him—

Give me a present; for [south land] hast thou given me, give me therefore pools of water.

So Caleb gave her Upper-pools, and Lower-pools.

20 Now [the sons of the Kenite, father-in-law of Moses] had come up from the city of palm-trees, with the sons of Judah, into the wilderness of Judah, which is in the south of Arad,— so they went and dwelt with the people.

21 Then went Judah, with Simeon his brother, and they smote the Canaanites dwelling in Zephath,— and devoted it to destruction, and the name of the city was called Hormah.

22 And Judah captured Gaza with the boundaries thereof, and Ashkelon, with the boundaries thereof,— and Ekron, with the boundaries thereof. 13 And it came to pass that Yahweh was with Judah, and he took possession of the hill country,— but did not dispossess the inhabitants of the vale, because they had chariots of iron. 20 So they gave unto Caleb’ Hebron, [as spoke Moses],— and he drew out from thence the three sons of Anak.

23 But [the Jebusites dwelling in Jerusalem]— the sons of Benjamin did not drive out,— but the Jebusites have dwelt with the sons of Benjamin in Jerusalem, unto this day.

24 Then went up the house of Joseph— ['they also'] unto Bethel,— and [Yahweh] was with them. 25 And the house of Joseph sent to spy out Bethel,— now [the name of the city, formerly] was Luz. 26 So the watchers saw a man coming forth from the city,— and they said unto him—

Shew us, we pray thee, the way to get into the city, and we will deal with thee, in lovingkindness.
And he shewed them the way to get into the city, and they smote the city, with the edge of the sword, — but <the man and all his family> they let go. 26 And the man went into the land of the Hittites, — and built a city, and called the name thereof, Luz, (that is the name thereof, unto this day.

But Manasseh took not possession of Beth-shean and her towns, nor of Taanach and her towns, nor dispossessed the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam, and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo, and her towns, — but the Canaanites were determined to remain in this land; 28 <when Israel however, had waxed strong> a they put the Canaanites under tribute, — though they had dispossessed them not.

And [Ephraim] dispossessed not the Canaanites who were dwelling in Gezer, — so the Canaanites remained in their midst, in Gezer.

[Zebulun] dispossessed not the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalol, — but the Canaanites remained in their midst, and came under tribute.

[Asher] dispossessed not the inhabitants of Asco, nor the inhabitants of Zidon, — nor of Ahlab, nor of Achzib, nor of Helbah, nor of Aphik, nor of Rehob; 32 but the Asherites dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land, — for they dispossessed them not.

[Naphtali] dispossessed not the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath, but they dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land, — and the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and of Beth-anath became theirs, under tribute.

And the Amorites forced the sons of Dan into the hill-country, — for they suffered them not to come down into the vale; 30 and <though the Amorites were determined to remain in the hill country of Heres, in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim> yet was the hand of the house of Joseph heavy, so that they came under tribute. 31 And the boundary of the Amorites was from the ascent of Akrabbim, from Sela and upwards.

And the messenger of Yahweh came up from Gilgal unto Bochim. And he said—

I led you up out of Egypt, and brought you into the land, which I had sworn unto your fathers, And I said —

I will not break my covenant with you, to times age-abiding:

But <ye> must not solemnise a covenant with the inhabitants of this land, <Their altars> must ye tear down,— But ye have not hearkened unto my voice, what is this ye have done?

Wherefore also I said, I will not drive them out from before you,—but they shall be your adversaries, and their gods shall become unto you a snare.

And it came to pass, <when the messenger of Yahweh had spoken these words 'unto all the sons of Israel> that the people lifted up their voice, and wept. 4 So they called the name of that place, Bochim, and offered sacrifice there, unto Yahweh.

Now <when Joshua had let the people go> b the sons of Israel went their way, every man to his inheritance, to take possession of the land. 5 And the people served Yahweh all the days of Joshua, — and all the days of the elders who outlived b Joshua, who had seen all the great work of Yahweh which he had wrought for Israel. 6 So then Joshua, the son of Nun, the servant of Yahweh, died', — being a hundred and ten years old.

And they buried him within the bounds of his inheritance, in Timnath-heres; 7 in the hill country of Ephraim, — on the north of Mount Gaash. 8 All that generation also were gathered unto their fathers,— and there arose another generation, after them, who had not known Yahweh, nor even the work which he had wrought for Israel. 9 So the sons of Israel did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh,— and served the Baals; and forsook Yahweh, the God of their fathers, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, and went after other gods, from among the gods of the peoples who were round about them, and bowed themselves down unto them,— and angered Yahweh. 10 Yea, they forsook Yahweh, — and did service unto the Baal and unto Ashtaroth. 11 Then kindled the anger of Yahweh upon Israel, and he delivered them into the hand of spoilers, who plundered them, — and he sold them into the hand of their enemies round about, so that they could no longer stand before their enemies. 12 <Whithersoever they went out> the hand of Yahweh was found to be against them for misfortune, as spake Yahweh, and as I gave unto them; — and they were distressed exceedingly. 13 And <though Yahweh raised up judges,— who saved them out of the hand of them that plundered them > 14 yet <even unto their judges> did they not hearken, for they went unchastely astray after other gods, and bowed themselves down to them,— they turned aside speedily out of the way wherein their fathers who hearkened unto the commandments of Yahweh, walked, (they did not so). 15 And <when Yahweh raised them up judges> then was Yahweh with the judges, and saved them out of the hand of their enemies, all the days of the judge,— for Yahweh was grieved at their outcry, because of them who oppressed them, and ill-treated them. 16 But <when the judge was dead> they again broke faith more than their fathers, by going their way after other gods, by serving them, and bowing themselves down to them,—they ceased not from their doings nor from their stubborn way.

20 So then the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel, and he said—

<Forasmuch as this nation have transgressed my covenant, which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice> 21III also I will no further dispossess a man from before them,— from among the nations which Joshua left remaining, when he died; 22 that I may, by them, put Israel to the proof,—whether they are going to be observant of the way of Yahweh, to walk therein as their fathers observed it, or not.

23 Thus then Yahweh left these nations, not dispossessioning them speedily,—neither had he delivered them into the hand of Joshua.

3 1 Now these are the nations which Yahweh left, that he might, by them, put Israel to the proof,—all who had not known any of the wars of Canaan; 2 that the generations of the sons of Israel might certainly get to know, by being taught to make war,—such, at least, as aforeside knew nothine thereof:— 3 five lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Zidonians, and the Hivites dwelling in Mount Lebanon,—from Mount Baal-hermon as far as the entering in of Hamath. 4 So then [these] were [left], that, by them, he might put Israel to the proof,—to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of Yahweh which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses. 5 And thus the sons of Israel dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites,—the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites; 6 and took their daughters to be their wives, and their own daughters moreover gave they unto their sons [and they served their gods].

§ 2. Israel, for their Idolatry fasting under Chastisement, Judges are raised up to save them.

[I. OTHNIEL.]

7 Thus did the sons of Israel the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh, and forgot Yahweh their God,—and served the Baals and the Asherahs. 8 Then kindled the anger of Yahweh upon Israel, and he sold them into the hand of Chushan-rishathaim, king of Mesopotamia,—and the sons of Israel served Chushan-rishathaim, eighteen years. 9 And the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh, and Yahweh raised up a saviour unto Israel, who saved them,—even Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother. 10 And the Spirit of Yahweh came upon him, and he judged Israel, and went out to war, and Yahweh delivered into his hand, Chushan-rishathaim, king of Syria,—and his hand prevailed over Chushan-rishathaim. 11 And the land had rested forty years,—and Othniel son of Kenaz died.

[II. EHUD.]

12 And the sons of Israel again did the thing that was wicked, in the sight of Yahweh,—and Yahweh emboldened Eglon, king of Moab, against Israel, because they did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh; 13 and he gathered unto him, the sons of Ammon, and Amalek,—and came and smote Israel, and took possession of the city of palm-trees. 14 So the sons of Israel served Eglon king of Moab, eighteen years.

15 And the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh, and Yahweh raised up unto them a saviour, Ehud son of Gera, a Benjamite, a man left-handed,—and the sons of Israel sent, by his hand, a present, unto Eglon king of Moab.

16 So Ehud made himself a sword which had two edges, a cubit in length,—and girded it under his right thigh. 17 And so it was <when he had made an end of offering the present> that he sent away the people who had been bearing the present; 18 but he himself turned back from the images <that were by Gilgal, and said,>

<A secret word> have I, unto thee, O king! And he said—

Silence!" Thereupon went out from his presence all who had been standing near him. 20 And Ehud came in unto him he having been sitting in a summer parlour, which he had for himself alone, and Ehud said,

<A divine word> have I, unto thee. So he arose from off his seat. 21 And Ehud put forth his left hand, and took the sword from off his right thigh,—and thrust it into his body; 22 and the handle also went in after the blade, and the flesh closed upon the blade, for he withdrew not the sword out of his body,—and he came out into the ante-chamber. 23 And <when Ehud came out into the porch> he closed the doors of the parlour upon him, and bolted them. 24 <When he had come out>> his servants went in, and looked, and lo! the doors of the parlour were bolted,—so they said, Surely he covereth his feet, in the summer chamber.

25 But though they tarried a long time> yet
And the sons of Israel again did the thing that was unrighteous in the sight of the LORD; so the LORD sold them into the hand of Jabin, king of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor.—Now he was the prince of his people, and all the host of Sisera, and all the host of Jabin who lived in Hazor.

2 And Sisera had nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites followed him.

3 And the LORD looked out upon the daughter of Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite, and all the land of Canaan feared the children of Jabin, two and a half centuries.

4 And the spirit of the LORD came upon Barak the son of Abinoam, and Barak said, "Who is wise? Who is a man of understanding? Whom shall I go to for counsel? Whom shall I go to for counsel?"

5 And God said to Barak, "Go in this strength, and I will be with you in the battle against Sisera, the captain of the chariots of Jabin, who dwells in Hazor.

6 And Barak said to the LORD, "If you will indeed go with me, then I will go on foot; if you will not go with me, then I will not go.

7 So the LORD said to Barak, "Go, and place yourself seven days from here on Mount Tabor, and you will see there six hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites that are pursuing you.

8 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

9 And he said unto her, "Come, sit down under the palm-tree, for your hand shall be systematized on Sisera's head; and I will draw unto thee, unto the torrent of Kishon, the champions of the nations, and all the host of Sisera, who have pursued Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

10 And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali, and said unto them—Come and draw unto Mount Tabor, and bring with thee—ten thousand men, out of the hill country of Ephraim, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the nations, unto the torrent of Kishon.

11 So they came down after him, and captured the fords of the Jordan, towards Moab, and suffered all those that were on this side Jordan, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

12 And she said unto him, "They have burned the towns of Taanach and Bethelah in the hill country of Ephraim, and they have burned and destroyed the cities, from Dan even to Naphtali.

13 So Barak went down from Mount Tabor, with ten thousand men after him. And Yahweh sold Sisera and all the host of iron, and all the host of Jabin, before Barak,—so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

14 And Yahweh put to flight Sisera and all the host, with the edge of the sword, before Barak,—so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

15 And he said unto her, "Your hand shall be systematized on Sisera's head; and I will draw unto thee, unto the torrent of Kishon, the champions of the nations, and all the host of Sisera, who have pursued Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

16 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

17 And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali, and said unto them—Come and draw unto Mount Tabor, and bring with thee—ten thousand men, out of the hill country of Ephraim, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the nations, unto the torrent of Kishon.

18 And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali, and said unto them—Come and draw unto Mount Tabor, and bring with thee—ten thousand men, out of the hill country of Ephraim, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the nations, unto the torrent of Kishon.

19 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

20 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

21 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

22 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

23 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

24 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

25 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

26 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

27 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

28 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

29 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

30 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.

31 And Barak said, "By my lord, you have encouraged Barak the son of Abinoam, and said unto him—Hath not Yahweh God of Israel, come? So Sisera called together all his chariots—nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the host of the Canaanites, who were pursuing Barak, —so Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled on foot.
Then took Jael, wife of Heber, the tent-pin, and put the mallet in her hand, and went in unto him, softly, and smote the tent-pin into his temples, and it pierced through into the ground,—he being fast asleep and shrouded in darkness, and he died.

And lo! Barak—in pursuit of Sisera! So Jael went forth to meet him, and said unto him, Come and let me shew thee—the man whom thou' art seeking.

And he came in with her, and lo! Sisera—lying dead, with the tent-pin in his temples.

Thus God subdued, on that day, Jabin king of Canaan,—before the sons of Israel. And the hand of the sons of Israel went on, waxing more and more heavy upon Jabin king of Canaan,—until they had cut off Jabin king of Canaan.

Then sang Deborah, and Barak, son of Abinoam,—on that day, saying:—

<For the leadership of leaders in Israel, For the volunteering of the people>,—

Bless ye Yahweh !

Hear, ye kings! Give ear, ye princes! ||I<unto Yahweh>—||I will sing, Will make melody* to Yahweh, God of Israel.

O Yahweh !

<When thou didst come forth out of Seir, When thou didst march along out of the field of Edom>,—

Earth trembled, Heaven also poured forth,—

Yes ||dark clouds|| poured forth* waters;

From ||mountains|| came down streams In presence of Yahweh,—

From this Sinai, In presence of Yahweh, God of Israel.

<In the days of Shamgar son of Anath, In the days of Jael> The roads were forsaken,— And ||the frequenters of highways ||betook them to roundabout paths :

There was a failure of rulers. ||In Israel>,—

Until I arose, a Deborah, Arose, a mother in Israel:—

They chose gods that were new,—

||Then||—war at the gates ! Was there ||a shield|| to be seen ? Or a spear ?

||Among forty thousand in Israel||?

My heart [saith]—

<For the governors of Israel, For the volunteers among the people>—

Bless ye Yahweh !

* Or: "touch the strings." • Den. xxxii. 17.

* Mt: "dripped."
22 Then stamped hoofs of horses,
With the gallopings, gallopings of his mighty steeds.

23 Curse ye Meroz, saith the messenger of Yahweh,
Curse ye with a curse, the inhabitants thereof,—
Because they came not in to the help of Yahweh,
To the help of Yahweh, against the mighty.

24 <Blessed above women> shall be Jael, wife of Heber the Kenite,— <Above women in the tent> be blessed:

9 <Water> he asked,
<Milk> she gave,—
<In a bowl for nobles> presented cream:
<Her hand, to the tent-pin> put she forth,
And <her right hand> to the toilers' mallet,—
Then smote she Sisera,
Yea she split open and pierced through his temples:

27 <Between her feet> he bowed—
he fell,
he lay,— <Between her feet> he bowed—
he fell,
<Where he bowed>
||There|| he fell—destroyed !

28 <Through the window> looked out and shrilly cried,
The mother of Sisera, through the lattice,—
Why' is his chariot ashamed' to come?
Why' delay' the wheels of his chariot?

29 ||The wise ladies, her princesses| responded,—
Nay! ||she|| returned answer to |herself|:—
Is it not They keep finding—dividing spoil,
One damsel, two damsels, to every' several hero,
||Spoil|| of divers coloured raiment' for Sisera,
||Spoil|| of divers coloured raiment, embroidered,
Coloured raiment richly embroidered,
On the necks of them who are taken as spoil?

31 ||So'!|| perish all thine enemies, O Yahweh,
But be ||they who love him|| as the going forth of the sun, in his might !

And the land had rest forty years.

[V. Gideon.]

6 1 And the sons of Israel did the thing that was wicked, in the sight of Yahweh,—so Yahweh delivered them into the hand of Midian seven years; and the hand of Midian prevailed' against Israel,— <because of Midian> did the sons of Israel prepare for themselves the hollows' which were in the mountains, and the caves, and the strongholds.
And so it used to be, <if Israel had sown> then came up Midian and Amalek and the sons of the east, yes came up against them, and encamped against them, and destroyed the increase of the land, until thou comest unto Gaza,—neither left they sustenance in Israel, nor sheep nor ox, nor ass;
for <they' with their cattle> used to come up, with their tents—yes they used to come like locusts, for multitude, <both they and their cattle> were without' number,—so they came into the land, to lay it waste.
Thus was Israel greatly impoverished, because of Midian,—and the sons of Israel made outcry unto Yahweh.

7 And it came to pass <when the sons of Israel cried unto Yahweh,—on account of Midian> then sent Yahweh a prophet unto the sons of Israel,—who said unto them—
<Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel,>
[I] led you up out of Egypt,!*
And brought you forth out of the house of servants:

8 Yeal I rescued you out of the hand of Egypt,
And out of the hand of all who oppressed you,—
That I might drive b them out from before you,
And I gave unto you their land;

9 Yen and I said to you,—
||I, Yahweh|| am your God,
Ye must not fear the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye' are about to dwell,—
But ye have not hearkened unto my voice.

11 Then came the messenger of Yahweh, and sat down under the oak which was in Ophrah, which belonged to Joash, the Abiezrite; and Gideon his son|| was beating out wheat' in the winepress, to escape the notice of the Midian-ites;c
12 so the messenger of Yahweh appeared unto him,—and said unto him, ||Yahweh|| is with thee, thou mighty man of valour !

13 And Gideon said unto him—
Pardon, my lord! <if Yahweh be' with us> then wherefore' hath all this'befallen us?
and where are all his wonders, which our fathers have recounted to us— saying.
Was it not <out of Egypt> that Yahweh brought us up ?
But linowll hath Yahweh abandoned' us, and delivered us into the hand of Midian.

14 And Yahweh * turned unto him* and said—
Go in this thy might,* and thou shalt save Israel, out of the hand of Midian,—have I not sent thee?
Then shalt thou build an altar unto Yahweh, as in Exo. 20:24.

So Gideon built there an altar unto Yahweh, and called it, Yahweh-shalom. And he said unto him, Take the flesh and the cakes, and set them on this crag, and <the brok> do thou pour out, and thou shalt not die.

And Yahweh said unto him— Take the flesh and the cakes, and set them on this crag, and <the broth> do thou pour out, and thou shalt not die.

And he said unto him, Peace be unto thee! Do not fear,—thou shalt not die.

Then saw Gideon that the messenger of Yahweh it was;—so Gideon said,— Alas, My Lord Yahweh! forasmuch as I have seen the messenger of Yahweh! [face to face]!

And Yahweh said unto him— Peace be unto thee! Do not fear,—thou shalt not die.

And Gideon said unto him— Peace be unto thee! Do not fear,—thou shalt not die.

So Gideon built there an altar unto Yahweh, and called it, Yahweh-shalom. Unto this day it remaineth, in Ophrah of the Abiezrites.

And it came to pass, on that night, that Yahweh said unto him— Take the young bullock that belongeth to thy father, even the second bullock of seven years,—and throw thou down the altar of Baal, that belongeth to thy father, and <the sacred stem that is by it> shalt thou cut down.

Then shalt thou build an altar, unto Yahweh thy God, on the top of this fort, with the pile,—and shalt take the second bullock, and cause it to go up as an ascending-sacrifice, with the wood of the sacred stem which thou shalt cut down.

And he said unto him— Pardon, O my Lord! How shall I save Israel? Lo! my thousand is the poorest in Manasseh, and I am the youngest in the house of my father.

And Yahweh said unto him— I will be with thee, so thou shalt smite the Midianites, as one man.

And he said unto him, <If, I beseech thee, I have found favour in thine eyes> then wilt thou work for me a sign, that it is thou who art speaking with me.

Do not, I beseech thee, withdraw from hence, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my present, and set it before thee.

And he said: I will tarry until thou return.

So Gideon went in, and made ready a kid of the goats, and <of an ephah of meal> unleavened cakes, <the flesh> he put in a pot,—and brought them forth unto him, under the oak, and presented them. And the messenger of God said unto him— Take the flesh and the cakes, and set the in on this crag, and <the broth> be thou pour out.

And he did so. Then the messenger of Yahweh said unto him— <messengers also> send he throughout all the sons of the east, and <the spirit of Yahweh> clothed Gideon,—so he blew with a horn, and Abiezer was gathered after him.

And Gideon built there an altar unto Yahweh, and called it, Yahweh-shalom. And he said unto God— <messengers also> sent he throughout all the sons of the east, and <the spirit of Yahweh> clothed Gideon,—so he blew with a horn, and Abiezer was gathered after him.

And Gideon said unto God,— [If thou art about to bring salvation, by my hand, unto Israel, as thou hast spoken> lo! I am placing a woolen fleece, on the threshing-floor,—<if dew be on the fleece alone> and on all the ground it be dry> then shall I know that thou wilt bring salvation, by my hand, unto Israel, as thou hast spoken].

And it was so; and he rose up early, on the morrow, and pressed together the fleece,—and wrung out the dew from the fleece, a small bowl full of water. Then said Gideon unto God,

Let not thine anger kindle upon me, but let me speak, [only this once].— Let me, I pray thee, put to the proof [only this once] with the fleece;

So he was called on that day, Jerub-baal, saying,— Let Baal plead against him.

Because he had overthrown his altar.

Now [all the Midianites and the Amalekites and the sons of the east] were gathered together,—and they crossed over and pitched in the vale of Jezreel. But the spirit of Yahweh clothed Gideon,—so he blew with a horn, and Abiezer was gathered after him.

<Messengers also> sent he throughout all Manasseh, and they also were gathered after him,—<messengers also> sent he throughout Asher, and throughout Zebulun, and throughout Naphtali, and they came up to meet them.

And Gideon said unto God,— [If thou art about to bring salvation, by my hand, unto Israel, as thou hast spoken> lo! I am placing a woolen fleece, on the threshing-floor,—<if dew be on the fleece alone> and on all the ground it be dry> then shall I know that thou wilt bring salvation, by my hand, unto Israel, as thou hast spoken].

And he said unto him— Pardon, O my Lord! How shall I save Israel? Lo! my thousand is the poorest in Manasseh, and I am the youngest in the house of my father.

And Yahweh said unto him— Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

And Joash said unto all who stood by him,— Will ye plead for Baal, or will ye save him? Whose pleadeth for him? let him be put to death while it is yet morning,—<if a god> he be let him plead for himself, because one hath overthrown his altar.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

And Joash said unto all who stood by him,— Will ye plead for Baal, or will ye save him? Whose pleads for him? let him be put to death while it is yet morning,—<if a god> he be let him plead for himself, because one hath overthrown his altar.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

And Joash said unto all who stood by him,— Will ye plead for Baal, or will ye save him? Whose pleads for him? let him be put to death while it is yet morning,—<if a god> he be let him plead for himself, because one hath overthrown his altar.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

And Joash said unto all who stood by him,— Will ye plead for Baal, or will ye save him? Whose pleads for him? let him be put to death while it is yet morning,—<if a god> he be let him plead for himself, because one hath overthrown his altar.

Who hath done this thing? And they inquired, and made search, and it was said, [Gideon son of Joash] hath done this thing.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.

So the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring forth thy son, that he may die,—because he hath overthrown the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the sacred stem that was by it.
I pray thee, let it be dry on the fleece alone, while <on all the ground> there be dew.

And God did so on that night,—and it was dry on the fleece alone, while <on all the ground> there was dew.

Then Jerubbaal, that is Gideon, and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and encamped by the fountain of Harod,—and the camp of Midian was on the north of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the vale.

And Yahweh said unto Gideon,

"There are too many; take them, and deliver the Midianites into their hand,—lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, 'Mine own hand hath saved me.'"

"Whoso feareth and trembleth, let him return from Mount Gilead.

And there returned of the people twenty-two thousand, and ten thousand remained.

Then said Yahweh unto Gideon—

"Yet are the people too many, take them down unto the waters, that I may prove them for thee, there,—and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, 'This one shall go with thee;' all the rest of the people shall go with thee, and ye shall deliver the Midianites into their hand,—lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, 'Mine own hand hath saved me.'"

So he took down the people unto the waters,—and Yahweh said unto Gideon—

"Every one that lappeth with his tongue of the water, as a dog lappeth, thou shalt set him by himself, likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees, to drink water.

And so it was, that the number of them that lapped with their hand to their mouth was three hundred men,—but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees, to drink water.

Then said Yahweh unto Gideon—

"By the three hundred men that lapped, will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thy hand; and let all [the rest of] the people go every man to his own place.

So the people took provisions in their hand, and went away early, and came unto the fountain of Harod;—and the camp of Midian was beneath him in the vale.

And it came to pass, that the number of them that were with him, rose up early, and encamped by the fountain of Harod,—and the camp of Midian was on the north of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the vale.

And Yahweh said unto Gideon—

"Arise! for Yahweh hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian.

And he divided the three hundred men, into three companies,—and put horns into the hands of them all, with empty pitchers, and torches inside the pitchers.

Then he said unto them, "On me shall ye look, and in like manner shall ye do,—and lo! when I am coming unto the outermost part of the camp, then shall it be, that as I do, so shall ye do." When I shall blow with the horns, ye and all who are with me, then shall ye also, round about all the camp, blow with your horns, and shall say, 'For Yahweh and for Gideon!'

So Gideon came, and the hundred men that were with him, unto the outermost part of the camp, at the beginning of the middle watch, they had but newly set the watchmen,—and they blew with the horns, and brake in pieces the pitchers, that were in their hand. Ye the three companies blew with the horns, and shivered the pitchers, and caught hold—with their left hands—of the torches, while in their right hands were the horns, to blow with,—and they cried, "A sword for Yahweh, and for Gideon!"

And they stood still, every man in his place, round about the camp,—and all the host ran and shouted, and fled. When the three hundred blew the horns, Yahweh set the sword unto the camp; so shalt thou hear what they shall say, — and afterward shalt thy hands grow strong, and thou shalt go down against the camp.

Then went he down, he and Purah his young man, unto the outmost part of the armed men that were in the camp. Now the Midianites and the Amalekites and all the sons of the east were lying along in the vale, like locusts for multitude,—their camels also were without number, as the sand that is by the sea side for multitude.

And Gideon came in, and lo! a man relating to his neighbour a dream,—and he said—

'Lo! a round cake of barley bread tumbling into the camp of Midian, and it came so far as the tent,—and smote it that it fell, and turned it upside down, and the tent lay along.'

Then responded his neighbour and said:—

'Nothing else is this, than the sword of Gideon son of Joash, a man of Israel,—God hath delivered' into his hand, both Midian and all the host.

And it was so, when Gideon heard the story of the dream, and the interpretation thereof, that he bowed himself down,—and returned unto the camp of Israel, and said—

'Arise! for Yahweh hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian.'

And he divided the three hundred men, into three companies,—and put horns into the hands of them all, with empty pitchers, and torches inside the pitchers.

Then he said unto them, "On me shall ye look, and in like manner shall ye do,—and lo! when I am coming unto the outermost part of the camp, then shall it be, that as I do, so shall ye do." When I shall blow with the horns, ye and all who are with me, then shall ye also, round about all the camp, blow with your horns, and shall say, 'For Yahweh and for Gideon!'

So Gideon came, and the hundred men that were with him, unto the outermost part of the camp, at the beginning of the middle watch, they had but newly set the watchmen,—and they blew with the horns, and brake in pieces the pitchers, that were in their hand. Ye the three companies blew with the horns, and shivered the pitchers, and caught hold—with their left hands—of the torches, while in their right hands were the horns, to blow with,—and they cried, "A sword for Yahweh, and for Gideon!"

And they stood still, every man in his place, round about the camp,—and all the host ran and shouted, and fled. When the three hundred blew the horns, Yahweh set the sword unto the camp; so shalt thou hear what they shall say, — and afterward shalt thy hands grow strong, and thou shalt go down against the camp.
of every man against his neighbour, and against all the host: and the host fled, as far as the Place of Acacias towards Zererath, as far as the border of Abel-meholah by Tabbath.

And the men of Israel were called together, out of Naphtali and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh, and pursued Midian. And <messengers> did Gideon send through all the hill country of Ephraim, saying—

Go down to meet Midian, and capture, before them, the waters, as far as Beth-barah, and the Jordan. So all the men of Ephraim were called out, and captured the waters, as far as Beth-barah, and the Jordan. And they captured the two princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb, and slew Oreb at Oreb's Rock, and Zeeb they slew at Zeeb's Winepress, and pursued Midian, and <the heads of Oreb and Zeeb> brought they in unto Gideon at the ford of the Jordan.

And the men of Ephraim said unto him— What is this thing thou hast done to us, in not calling us, when thou wentest to fight with Midian? And they did chide with him sharply. And he said unto them, What have I done in comparison with you? Is not the grape-gleaning of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer? Into your hand hath God delivered the princes of Midian—Oreb and Zeeb, what then had I been able to do in comparison with you?

Then was their spirit softened toward him, when he had spoken this word. And Gideon came towards the Jordan, being about to pass over—; he and the three hundred men who were with him, faint yet pursuing.

So he said unto the men of Succoth, Give, I pray you, loaves of bread to the people that are following me; for faint they are, and I am in pursuit of Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian. And the princes of Succoth said, Are the palms of the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in thy power, that we should give to thy weary men bread?

And he said: My brethren, sons of my mother, they were! As Yahweh liveth, if ye had saved them alive I would not have slain you'.

And Gideon son of Joash returned from the battle, from the ascent of Horæs; and caught a young man, of the men of Succoth, and enquired of him, so he wrote down for him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, seventy-seven men. Then came he in unto the men of Succoth, and said,—

Lo! Zebah and Zalmunna, concerning whom ye did taunt me, saying—

Are the palms of the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna already in thy power, that we should give to thy weary men bread?

So he took the elders of the city, and the thorns of the wilderness and the nettles, and taught therewith the men of Succoth: brake he down, and slew the men of the city.

Then said he unto Zebah and unto Zalmunna, What manner of men were they, whom ye taunted at Tabor?

And they said, As thou art, so were they, each one as handsome as the sons of a king.

And he said: My brethren, sons of my mother, they were! As Yahweh liveth, if ye had saved them alive I would not have slain you'.

So he said to Jether his firstborn, Up! slay them. But the youth drew not his sword, for he feared, because he was yet a youth. Then said Zebah and Zalmunna—

Up! fall upon us, for like the man is his might. So Gideon arose, and slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took the crescents that were on the necks of their camels.

Then said the men of Israel, unto Gideon, Rule over us— If even thou, and thy son, and thy son's son, for thou hast saved us out of the power of Midian.

And Gideon said unto them, I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you,— Yahweh shall rule over you.

And Gideon said unto them— I would make to you a request, Give me, then, every man the nose-ring of his spoil. For they had nose-rings of gold for Ishmaelites they were'. And they said, We will freely give.
Then went Abimelech son of Jerubbaal, to Shechem, unto the brethren of his mother,— and spake unto them, and unto all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying:

Which is better for you, that there should rule over you, seventy men, all sons of Jerubbaal, or that there should rule over you, one son?

And remember that your bone and your flesh am I!

So they spread out a mantle, and cast therein, every man the nose-ring of his spoil. And so it was, that the weight of the nose-rings of gold which he requested, was a thousand and seven hundred [shukels] of gold,—besides the crescents, and the pendants, and the ramment of purple that were upon the kings of Midian, and besides the ornaments that were on the necks of their camels. And Gideon made thereof an Ephod, and set it up in his own city, in Ophrah, and all Israel went unchastely astray after it there,—so it became, to Gideon and to his house, a snare.

Thus was Midian subdued, before the sons of Israel, neither did they again lift up their head,—and the land had rest forty years, in the days of Gideon.

So then Jerubbaal, son of Joash, went and dwelt in his own house. And Gideon had seventy sons, sprung from his own loins,—for many wives had he. And his concubine who was in Shechem, she also bare him a son,—and he gave him the name of Abimelech. And Gideon, son of Josha, died in a good old age,—and was buried in the grave of Joash his father, in Ophrah, of the Abiezrites.

And it came to pass that as soon as Gideon was dead> the sons of Israel turned back, and went unchastely astray after the Baals,—and appointed them Baal-berith, to be god: so the sons of Israel remembered not Yahweh, their own God,—who had rescued them out of the hand of all their enemies, on every side; neither dealt they in lovingkindness with the house of Jerubbaal [namely] Gideon,—according to all the goodness wherewith he had dealt with Israel.

So then went Abimelech son of Jerubbaal, to Shechem, unto the brethren of his mother,—and spake unto them, and unto all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying;

Which is better for you, that there should rule over you, seventy men, all sons of Jerubbaal, or that there should rule over you, one man?

And remember that your bone and your flesh am I!

So the brethren of his mother spake for him, in the ears of all the owners of Shechem, all these words,—and their heart inclined after Abimelech, for they said—

Our own brother is he'.

And they followed him. And he entered the house of his father, at Ophrah, and slew his brethren, sons of Jerubbaal seventy men, upon one stone;—but there remained Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubbaal, for he had hidden himself. Then were gathered together all the owners of Shechem, and all the house of Millo, and they went and made Abimelech king,—by the oak of the pillar, that was in Shechem.

And when it was told Jotham> he went and stood on the top of Mount Gerizim, and lifted up his voice, and cried aloud,—and said unto them—

Hearken unto me, ye owners of Shechem, and may God' hear unto you].

The trees went their way to anoint over them, a king,—and they said unto the olive tree—

Reign thou over us.

But the olive tree said unto them,

Should I leave my fatness, which in me goes and men do honour,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees?

Then said the trees unto the fig-tree,—

Come! thou reign over us.

But the fig-tree said unto them,

Should I leave my sweetness, and mine excellent increase,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees?

Then said the trees unto the vine,—

Come! thou reign over us.

But the vine said unto them,

Should I leave my new wine, that rejoiceth gods and men,—and go to wave to and fro, over the trees?

Then said all the trees, unto the bramble,—

Come! thou to reign over us.

And the bramble said unto the trees,

If in truth ye are about to anoint me to be king over you> come, take refuge in my shade,—but if not> there shall come forth fire out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of Lebanon.

Therefore, if in truth and sincerity ye have acted, in making Abimelech king,—and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal and with his house, and if according to the deserving of his hands ye have done unto him; in that my father fought for you, and cast his soul away from before him, and rescued you' out of the hand of Midian;—yet have ye risen up against the house of my father, to-day, and slain his sons—

if then in truth and in sincerity ye have dealt with Jerubbaal and with his house, this day> rejoice ye in the owners of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech! And Jotham hasted away, and fled, and was saved by the trees, which came and turned back and became the thickets of the forest, and the cedars of Lebanon.
to Beer,—and dwelt there, away from the face of Abimelech his brother.
22 And Abimelech ruled over Israel three years.
23 Then God let go a spirit of mischief between Abimelech and the owners of Shechem,—and the owners of Shechem dealt treacherously with Abimelech: 24 that the cruel wrong to the seventy sons of Jerubaal might come [upon] 54 So Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him. by night,—and they lay in wait upon the tops of the mountains, and they robbed all who crossed over them by the road,— and it was told Abimelech.
25 And Gaal son of Ebed* came, with his brethren, and they passed through to Shechem,— and the owners of Shechem put their trust in him. 26 Then went they out into the fields, and gathered the fruit of their vineyards and trode [the grapes], and held a vintage festival,—and entered the house of their god, and did eat and drink, and poured contempt on Abimelech.
26 And Gaal son of Ebed* said:
Who is Abimelech—and who is the son of * Shechem, that we should serve him?
Is he not the son of Jerubaal? and Zebul his officer? Serve ye the men of Hamor.
Shechem's father, but why should we serve him? 28 Would, then, this people be in my hand:— that I might set aside Abimelech,—and say c to Abimelech,
Increases thine army, and come out!
29 And when Zebul, governor of the city, heard' the words of Gaal the son of Ebed,> th Gren kindled his anger. 30 And he sent messengers unto Abimelech, by deceit, saying—
Lo ! Gaal son of Ebed, and his brethren|| are coming into Shechem; and lo! are fortifying d
the city against thee.
30 ||Now therefore, up by night, [thou and the people that are with thee] and lie in wait in the field; 31 and it shall be <in the morning, about sunrise> thou shalt get up early, and spread thyself out against the city,—when lo! he and the people that are with him coming out against thee, so shalt thou do unto him as thy hand shall find opportunity. 32 So Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him, by night,—and they lay in wait above Shechem, in four companies. 33 Then came forth Gaal son of Ebed,* and took his stand at the opening of the gate of the city,— so Abimelech rose up, and the people that were with him, from the place of ambush. 34 And <when Gaal saw the people> he said unto Zebul, Lo! people coming down from the tops of the mountains.
And Zebul said unto him,
<The shadow of the mountains> thou' seest, like men.*
37 Then did Gaal yet further speak, and say—Lo! people coming down from the highest part of the land,—and one company, coming in by way of the Conjurers' Terebinth.
38 So then Zebul said unto him—
||Where, then, ||is thy mouth that kept on
saying,
Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him?
Is not [this] the people which thou didst despise? Go forth, I pray thee ||now||, and fight with them!
39 And Gaal went forth before the owners of Shechem,—and fought against Abime-lech. 40 And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him,—and there fell a multitude of slain as far as the entering of the gate. 41 Then dwelt Abimelech in Arumah,3—and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem.
42 And it came to pass <on the morrow> that the people went forth into the field,—and they told Abimelech. 43 So he took the people and divided them into three companies, and lay in wait in the field,—and he looked, and lo! the people coming forth out of the city, so he rose up against them, and smote them. 44 And Abimelech, and the companies that were with him spread themselves out, and [one of the companies] took their stand at the opening of the gate of the city,—while ||the two companies spread themselves out against all that were in the field, and smote them. 45 And ||Abimelech|| fought against the city, all that day, and captured the city; <the people also that were therein> he slew,—and brake down the city, and sowed it with salt.
46 And <when all the owners of the tower of Shechem heard> they entered into the basement,* of the house of El-berith. 47 And it was told Abimelech, that all the owners of the tower of Shechem had gathered themselves together. 48 So Abimelech went up Mount Zalmon ||he and all the people that were with him||, and Abimelech took an axe in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees,6 and lifted it, and laid it on his shoulder,—and said unto the people that were with him—<What ye have seen me do> haste! do like wise.
49 So, even all' the people cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and laid them over the basement,* and set it on fire over them who were therein,—even all' the men of the tower of Shechem died, about a thousand men and women.

Then went Abimelech unto Thebez, and encamped against Thebez, and captured it.

Now a strong tower was in the midst of the city, and there fled thither all the men and the women, and all the owners of the city, and shut themselves in, and went up on the roof of the tower. And Abimelech came in as far as the tower, and fought against it, and so came near, as far as the entrance of the tower, to burn it with fire. And a certain woman cast an upper millstone upon the head of Abimelech, and brake in pieces his skull.

Then called he hastily unto the young man bearing his armour, and said unto him:

Draw thy sword, and put me to death, lest they say of me, |A woman|| slew him! So his young man thrust him through, and he died.

And <when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead> they went their way every man to his own place.

Thus did God requite the wickedness of Abimelech, which he had done to his father, in slaying his seventy brethren; <all the wickedness also, of the men of Shechem> did God requite upon their own head, and so brought in upon them the curse of Jotham, son of Jerubbaal.

[ VII. TOLA.]

1 And there arose, after Abimelech, to save Israel—Tola son of Puah son of Dodo, a man of Issachar,—and he used to sit in Shamir, in the hill country of Ephraim; and he judged Israel twenty-three years,—and died, and was buried in Shamir.

[VIII. JAIR.]

3 And there arose, after him, Jaiz the Gileadite, and judged Israel twenty-two years. Now he had thirty sons, that rode on thirty ass colts, and they had thirty cities,—they are called Havvoth-jair,—until this day, which are in the land of Gilead. And Jaiz died, and was buried in Kamon.

[IX. JEPHTHAH.]

6 And the sons of Israel again did the thing that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh, and served the Baals and the Ashtoreths, and the gods of the Amorites, and from the Ammonites, and from the gods of the Philistines,—and forsook Yahweh, and served him not. So the anger of Yahweh kindled upon Israel,—and he sold them into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the sons of Ammon; and they enfeebled and oppressed the sons of Israel in that year,— eighteen years— did they this unto all the sons of Israel who were beyond the Jordan, in the land of the Amorites, that was in Gilead.

9 And the sons of Ammon crossed the Jordan, to fight even against Judah and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim,—so that Israel was sore distressed.

Then did the sons of Israel make outcry unto Yahweh, saying,—

We have sinned against thee, because we have forsaken our God, and have served the Baals.

11 Then said Yahweh unto the sons of Israel,—Was it not <from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Philistines> [that I saved you>?

12 ||The Zidonians also, and the Amalekites, and the Moabites|| oppressed you,—and ye made outcry unto me, and I saved you out of their hand.

13 Yet have ||ye|| forsaken me, and served other gods,—therefore will I not again save you:

Go and make outcry unto the gods whom ye have chosen,—||they|| must save you, in the time of your tribulation.

15 And the sons of Israel said unto Yahweh,—We have sinned, do ||thou|| with us, according to all that is fitting in thine eyes,—only rescue us, we beseech thee this day.

And they put away the gods of the stranger out of their midst, and served Yahweh,—and his soul was impatient of the misery of Israel.

17 Now the sons of Ammon were called out, and they encamped in Gilead,—and the sons of Israel assembled themselves together, and encamped in Mizpah. Then said the people, the princes of Gilead, one to another,—Who is the man that will begin to fight against the sons of Ammon? he shall become head to all the inhabitants of Gilead.

1 Now ||Jephthah the Gileadite|| was a mighty man of valour, but [he] was the son of an unchaste woman,—yet Gilead was the father of Jephthah. And the wife of Gilead bare him sons,—and <when the wife’s sons grew up> they thrust out Jephthah, and said unto him—Thou shalt not inherit with the house of our father, for <son of an alien woman> art thou.

2 So Jephthah fled from the face of his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob,—and there gathered about Jephthah unemployed men, who went forth with him.

And so it came to pass, after a time,—that the sons of Ammon made war with Israel. And when therefore, it came to pass that the sons of Ammon made war with Israel, then the elders of Gilead, to summon Jephthah out of the land of Tob. And they said to Jephthah,
Oh! come and be our commander,—that we may do battle with the sons of Ammon.

But Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead,

Have not ye hated me, and thrust me out from the house of my father? Wherefore, then, are ye come unto me now, when ye are in distress?

And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah—

Therefore have we now returned unto thee, if thou go with us, and do battle with the sons of Ammon> then shalt thou become our head, for all the inhabitants of Gilead.

And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead—

If ye do bring me back to do battle with the sons of Ammon, and Yahweh deliver them up before me> shall I myself become your head?

And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah—

Yahweh himself will be hearkening between us, if <according to thy word> we do not.

Then went Jephthah with the elders of Gilead, and the people set him over them, as head and commander,—and Jephthah spake all his words before Yahweh, in Mizpah.

So then Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the sons of Ammon, saying,—

What occasion is there between us, that thou shouldst have come unto me, to fight against my land?

And the king of the sons of Ammon said unto the messengers of Jephthah—

Because Israel took away my land, when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto the Jabbok, and unto the Jordan,—therefore, restore them in peace.

And Jephthah yet once more sent messengers unto the king of the sons of Ammon; and said unto him:

Thus saith Jephthah,—

Israel took not away the land of Moab, or the land of the sons of Ammon; for when they came up out of Egypt, and Israel journeyed through the desert as far as the Red Sea, and came in unto Kadesh, then did Israel send messengers unto the king of Edom, saying,—

Let me pass, I pray thee, through thy land, but the king of Edom hearkened not, unto the words of Jephthah, which he sent unto him.

Thus saith Jephthah,—

Israel journeyed through the desert, and went round the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and so came [from the rising of the sun] to the land of Moab, but encamped beyond Arnon,—and entered not within the boundary of Moab, for Arnon is the boundary of Moab. Then did Israel send messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, king of Heshbon, and Israel said unto him,

Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land, as far as my own place.

But Sihon trusted not Israel, to pass through his boundary, so Sihon gathered together all his people, and encamped in Jahaz,—and fought against Israel. Then did Yahweh, God of Israel, deliver up Sihon, and all his people, into the hand of Israel, and they smote them,—so Israel took possession of all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that land. Yes they took possession of all the territory of the Amorites,—from Armon, even as far as the Jabbok, and from the desert, even as far as the Jordan.

Let Yahweh, the Judge, give judgment to day, between the sons of Israel, and the sons of Ammon!

But the king of the sons of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah, which he sent unto him.

Then came upon Jephthah the spirit of Yahweh, and he passed through Gilead, and Manasseh,—and passed through Mizpah of Gilead, and from Mizpah of Gilead he passed through unto the sons of Ammon. And Jephthah vowed a vow unto Yahweh, and said,—

If thou wilt deliver the sons of Ammon into my hand> then shall it be, that whosoever cometh forth out of the doors of my house, to meet me, when I return successful, from the sons of Ammon> shall belong unto Yahweh, and I will offer him up, as an ascending-sacrifice.
So then Jephthah passed over unto the sons of Ammon, to fight against them,—and Yahweh delivered them into his hand; and he smote them, from Arar even till thou enterest in to Minnith, even twenty cities, and as far as Abel-keramim,* with an exceeding great smiting,—and thus were the sons of Amnon subdued before the sons of Israel.

Then came Jephthah towards Mizpah, unto his own house, and lo! his daughter!! coming forth to meet him, with timbrels, and with dances,—and she was none other than his only child, he had not, besides her, either son or daughter.

And it came to pass <when he saw her> that he rent his clothes, and said—

Alas ! my daughter,
Thou hast brought me low!,
Even thou hast come to be among them who trouble me,—
Yet I opened wide my mouth unto Yahweh, and cannot go back.

And she said unto him —

My father !
Thou hast opened wide thy mouth unto Yahweh,
Do with me, according to that which hath gone forth out of thy mouth, —
After that Yahweh hath exacted for thee an avenging from thine enemies, From the sons of Ammon.

And she said unto her father, Let this thing be done for me,— Let me alone two months, that I may depart, and go down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity, and my companions!.

And he said—

Depart.
So he let her go, for two months, — and she departed. she and her companions!, and bewailed her virginity, upon the mountains. And it came to pass at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, and he fulfilled on her his vow which he had vowed,— I' and my companions!.

And he said unto them,
Great strife! had I and my people even with the sons of Ammon; but <when I cried unto you for help> ye saved me not out of their hand. So <when I saw that thou wast not' going to save> then put my life* in my hand, and passed over against the sons of Ammon, and Yahweh delivered them into my hand.

Wherefore, then, have ye come up against me this day, to fight against me?

And Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim,—and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said—

Fugitives of Ephraim! are ye, ye Gileadites, in the midst of Ephraim, in the midst of Manasseh.

And the Gileadites captured the fords of the Jordan, against the Ephraimites,—and it was, that <when the fugitives of Ephraim said, Let me pass over>, the men of Gilead said to him, An Ephraimite art thou? and <if he said— Nay!>, they said to him, Come now, say Shibboleth, and <if he said Sibboleth, and he could not take heed* to speak in that manner> then laid they hold on him, and slew him at the fords of the Jordan,—and there fell ||at that time, of the Ephraimites, forty-two thousand.

And <when Jephthah had judged Israel six years> then Jephthah the Gileadite died, and was buried in [one of] the cities of Gilead.

And there judged Israel, after him, Ibzan of Bethlehem. And so it was, he had thirty sons, and thirty daughters sent he abroad, while thirty daughters brought he from abroad for his sons. And he judged Israel seven years.

And Ibzan died, and was buried in Bethel.

And after him, did Elon the Zebulunite judge Israel,— and he judged Israel, ten years. And Elon the Zebulunite died, and was buried in Aijalon, in the land of Zebulun.

And there judged Israel, after him, Abdôn son of Hillel, the Pirathonite. And so it was, he had forty sons and thirty grandsons, who rode on seventy ass colts,— and he judged Israel eight years. And Abdôn son of Hillel, the Pirathonite died,—and was buried in Pirathon, in the land of Ephraim, in the hill country of the Amalekites.

And the sons of Israel again did the thing 13 that was wicked in the sight of Yahweh,—so

JUDGES XIII. 2—25; XIV. 1, 2.

Yahweh delivered them up into the hand of the Philistines, forty years. 1 And there was a certain man of Zorah, of the family of the Danites, and his name was Manoah; and his wife was barren, and had borne no child. 2 And the messenger of Yahweh appeared unto the woman, and said unto her—

Lo! I pray thee, art thou barren, and hast borne no child, but thou shalt conceive, and shalt bear a son. 4 And now therefore, beware, I pray thee, and do not drink wine or strong drink, nor eat anything unclean; 5 for lo! I art about to conceive and bear a son, and no razor shall come on his head, for <one separate unto God> shall begin to save Israel out of the hand of the Philistines. 6 So the woman came in, and told her husband, saying,

A man of God came unto me, and his appearance was as the appearance of the messenger of God, reverend exceedingly, and I asked him not whence he was, and his name he told me not. 7 But he said unto me,

Lo! thou art about to conceive, and shalt bear a son. 8 Now, therefore, do not drink wine or strong drink, nor eat anything unclean, for <one separate unto God> shall be from his birth until the day of his death. 9 Then Manoah made entreaty unto Yahweh, and said:

Pardon, O My Lord! <the man of God whom thou didst send> I pray thee, let him come again unto us, that he may teach us what we are to do, unto the boy that is to be born.

And God hearkened unto the voice of Manoah, and the messenger of God came again unto the woman, as he was sitting in the field, Manoah her husband not being with her. 10 So the woman made haste, and ran, and told her husband, and said unto him,

Lo! the man <he had appeared unto me>, who came the other day unto me.

Then Manoah arose, and followed his wife, and came unto the man, and said unto him—

Art thou <the man that spake unto the wife>? And he said—

I am'. 13 And Manoah said,

<Now> let thy words come to pass,—

What shall be the rule for the boy, and his work? 12 And the messenger of Yahweh said unto Manoah,—

<Of all that I said unto the woman> let her beware.

14 <Of nothing that cometh of the vine> may she eat; <nor wine nor strong drink> let her drink, nor <anything unclean> let her eat,— <all that I commanded her> let her observe.

15 And Manoah said unto the messenger of Yahweh,—

I pray thee, let us detain thee, that we may make ready for thy presence, a kid.

16 But the messenger of Yahweh said unto Manoah—

<Though thou detain me> yet will I not eat of thy food, and <though thou make ready an ascending-sacrifice> unto Yahweh must thou cause it to ascend.

For Manoah had not discerned that <the angel of Yahweh> was. 17 Then said Manoah unto the messenger of Yahweh,

What is thy name,—that <when thy word cometh to pass> we may do thee honour! 18 And the messenger of Yahweh said unto him, Wherefore is it, that thou shouldst ask after my name,—seeing that it is Wonderful?

So Manoah took the kid, and the meal-offering, and caused them to ascend upon the rock unto Yahweh, who was about to do wondrously, while Manoah and his wife were looking on. 20 And it came to pass <when the flame ascended from off the altar, towards the heavens> that the messenger of Yahweh ascended in the flame of the altar, while Manoah' and his wife' were looking on. Then fell they on their faces, to the earth. 21 And the messenger of Yahweh did no more appear unto Manoah or unto his wife. 22 Then Manoah knew that <the messenger of Yahweh> he was'. 23 And Manoah said unto his wife,

We shall <die>—for <upon God> have we looked.

24 But his wife said unto him,

<If Yahweh had been pleased to put us to death> he would not have received at our hand, an ascending-sacrifice and a meal-offering, nor would he have shewed us all these things,—and <at such a time> have let us hear the like of this!

So the woman bare a son, and called his name Samson,—and the boy grew, and Yahweh blessed him. 25 And the spirit of Yahweh began to urge him to and fro, in the camp of Dan, between Zorah and Eshtaol.

And Samson went down to Timnath, and saw a woman in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philistines. 2 So he came up, and told his father and his mother, and said—

<A woman> have I seen in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philistines,—now therefore, take her for me, to wife.
And his father and his mother said to him—

Is there not, among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, a woman, that thou'art going away, to take a woman from among the un circumcision? samson

But Samson said unto his father—

Take her for me, for she is pleasant in my eyes.

And he returned, after a time, to take her, and went saide to see the carcasse of the lion, and lo! a swarm of bees in the body of the lion, which he took into his hands, and went on—eating as he went, and came as far as the vineyards of Timnath, when lo! a young lion roaring to meet him. And the Spirit of Yahweh came suddenly over him, and he tore it in pieces as if he had torn in pieces a kid, there being nothing at all in his hand, but he told them not that out of the carcase of the lion he had taken the honey.

And his father went down unto the woman,—and Samson made there a banquet, for so used the young men to do.

And it came to pass because they feared him that they took thirty companions, who remained with him. And Samson said unto them,

I pray you let me put you forth a riddle,—if ye tell it me, within the seven days of the banquet, and find it out; then will I give you thirty linen wraps and thirty changes of raiment; but if ye cannot tell me then shall ye give me thirty linen wraps, and thirty changes of raiment. And they said unto him,

Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.

And he said to them—

<Out of the eater> came forth food,
And <out of the strong> came forth sweetness.

But they could not tell the riddle, in three days. And it came to pass on the fourth day that they said to Samson's wife.

Entice thy husband, that he may tell us the riddle, lest we burn thee and the house of thy father with fire. Was it not to impoveryish us> that ye invited us—<was it not>?

And the wife of Samson wept upon him, and said—

Thou dost altogether hate me, and dost not love me,  hast thou put forth to the sons of my people, and <unto me> thou hast not told it!

And he said to her,

Lo! to my own father and mother have I not told it, <and to thee> shall I tell it?

So she wept upon him the seven days,—while their banquet lasted,—and it came to pass on the seventh day that he told her, because she urged him, and she told the riddle unto the sons of her people.

And the men of the city said to him, <on the seventh day>—ere yet the sun went in—

What is sweeter than honey?
And what is stronger than a lion?

And he said to them:

<If ye had not ploughed with my heifer> Ye had not found out my riddle!

And the Spirit of Yahweh came suddenly over him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and smote of them thirty men, and took their garments, and gave the changes of raiment to them who had told the riddle,—and his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house. And the wife of Samson was given unto his companion who had served him as his friend.

And it came to pass after a time, in the 15 days of wheat-harvest that Samson went to visit his wife, with a kid, and he said—

I will go in unto my wife, in the chamber. But her father would not suffer him to go in.

And her father said—

I thought that thou didst hate her, so I gave her to thy companion,—Is not thy younger sister fairer than she? Pray let her be thine, in her stead.

And Samson said of them,

I shall be more blameless, this time, than the Philistines,—though I should do them a mischief.

So Samson went, and caught three hundred jackals,—and took torches, and turned tail to tail, and put one torch between the two tails, in the midst. And, when he had set fire to the torches, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines,—and set fire, both to the stack of sheaves and to the standing corn, and besides to the olive plantation. Then said the Philistines—

Who hath done this? And they said—

And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking, that he cast away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and called the name of that place Ramath-lehi. Then and he was sore athirst, so he cried unto Yahweh, and said, "Thou thyself hast given, into the hand of thy servant this great salvation, and now must I die of thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised?"

So then God clave open the hollow that is in Lehi, and there came therefrom water, and he drank, and his spirit came back, and he revived. <for this cause> called he the name thereof "Ain-hakkore, which is in Lehi, until this day.

And he judged Israel, in the days of the Philistines, twenty years.

Then went Samson unto Gaza, and saw a unchaste woman, and went in unto her. And it was told the Gazites, saying—Samson hath come in hither. So they came round, and lay in wait for him, all the night, in the gate of the city, but kept themselves quiet all the night, saying, <Until the light of the morning> then will we slay him.

And Samson lay till midnight, and arose at midnight, and took hold of the doors of the gate of the city, and of the two doorposts, and tare them away, with the bar, and put them on his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of the hill that faceth Hebron.

And it came to pass, after this, that he loved a woman in the ravine of Shorek, whose name was Delilah. So the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said to her—Entice him, and see wherein lieth his great strength, and wherewith we may prevail against him, and bind him, to humble him, —and we will give thee, every man, eleven hundred pieces of silver.

So Delilah said unto Samson, Do tell me, I pray thee, wherein lieth thy great strength,—and wherewith thou mightest be bound, to humble thee.

And Samson said unto her, <If they bind me with seven green cords, that have not been dried> then shall I become weak, and be as any other man. So the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green cords, that had not been dried,—and she bound him therewith. Now ||the liers in wait|| were tarrying for her, in an inner chamber,—and she said unto him,—||The Philistines|| are upon thee, Samson!

And he snapped the cords as a thread of tow is broken, when fire bloweth thereon, so his strength was not discovered. And Delilah said unto Samson, "The fountain of him was broken, when fire bloweth thereon, so his strength was not discovered."

Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. edn., Syr.) : "One called," etc. = the name of the place was called. "The fountain of him that cried out." <for this cause> called he the name thereof "Jaw-bone Height." Cp. O.G. 384. Or: "moist."
JUDGES XVI. 11—30.

Lo! thou hast been laughing at me, and speaking unto me falsehoods,—now do tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

And he said unto her,

If they bind me fast with new ropes, wherewith work was never done> then shall I become weak, and be as any other man.

So Delilah took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him—

If they bind me fast with new ropes, where with work was never done, then shall I become weak, and be as any other man.

And he said unto her,

If thou weave the seven braids of my head with the warp,'1 and the pin, the loom and the warp.

So she beat them up with the pin," and said unto him, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson! Now the hired in wait were tarrying in an inner chamber. And he snapped them off his arms like a thread.

And Delilah said unto Samson—

Hitherto hast thou been laughing at me, and speaking unto me falsehoods, do tell me, wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her,

If thou weave the seven braids of my head with the warp,

And she said unto him—

How canst thou say, I love thee, when thy heart is not with me? These three times hast thou laughed at me, and hast not told me wherein lieth thy great strength.

And it came to pass <when she urged him with her words continually, and pressed him> that his soul became impatient, unto death; 17 so he told her all his heart, and said to her—

No razor hath come on my head, for I have been from my birth, <if I were shaven> then would depart from me my strength, and I should become weak, and be as any other man.

And <when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart> she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying—

Come up this once, for he hath told me all his heart.

And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought up the silver in their hand. 19 And she made him sleep upon a bed of rock, and led him up to the inner chamber. And he snapped them off his arms like a thread.

And he said unto her,

Now if the lriers in wait were tarrying in an inner chamber. And he snapped them off his arms like a thread.

And it came to pass, when he awoke out of his sleep, and pulled out the pin of the loom, '1 and the warp, 19

Now if the lriers in wait were tarrying in an inner chamber. And he snapped them off his arms like a thread.

And the people saw him, they praised the God of Israel. 24 And he bowed mightily, and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead, whom he slew at his death, were more than they who slew him in his life.

Then did Samson grasp the two middle pillars, wherein the house rested, and whereon it was upheld, and he braced himself against them,—the one with his right hand, and the other with his left. And Samson said—

My Lord Yahweh! remember me, I pray thee,—and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may avenge upon them.

Now if the house] was full of men and women, <there> also were all the lords of the Philistines,—and <on the roof> were about three thousand men and women, looking on while Samson made sport. So then Samson cried unto Yahweh, and said,—

My Lord Yahweh! remember me, I pray thee,—and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may avenge upon them.

And he bowed mightily, and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead, whom he slew at his death, were more than they who slew him in his life.

Then did Samson grasp the two middle pillars, wherein the house rested, and whereon it was upheld, and he braced himself against them,—the one with his right hand, and the other with his left. And Samson said—

Let my soul die with the Philistines! And he bowed mightily, and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead, whom he slew at his death, were more than they who slew him in his life.

Then did Samson grasp the two middle pillars, wherein the house rested, and whereon it was upheld, and he braced himself against them,—the one with his right hand, and the other with his left. And Samson said—

Let my soul die with the Philistines! And he bowed mightily, and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead, whom he slew at his death, were more than they who slew him in his life.
Then came down his brethren, and all the house of his father, and lifted him, and carried him up, and buried him, between Zorah and Eshtaol, in the buryingplace of Manoah his father; being he having judged Israel twenty years.

§ 3. Micah and the Danites.

17 And there was a man of the hill country of Ephraim, whose name was Micah. And he said unto his mother—

§ 1. The eleven hundred pieces of silver that were taken by thee, when thou didst utter a curse, and didst also say in my hearing, Lo! the silver is with me! "I took it.

But he restored the silver to his mother—so his mother took two hundred pieces of silver, and gave it to the smith, who made thereof a graven (molten) image, and it was in the house of Micah. Now the man Micah had a house of gods, and he made an ephod, and teraphim, and installed one of his sons, who became his' priest. In those days there was no king in Israel, every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

§ 2. When he had restored the eleven hundred shekels of silver to his mother—his mother said—

I had hallowed the silver unto Yahweh out of mine own hand, for my son, to make a graven (molten) image, therefore, I will restore it unto thee.

§ 3. And when he had restored the eleven hundred pieces of silver to his mother—his mother said—

I had hallowed the silver unto Yahweh out of mine own hand, for my son, to make a graven (molten) image, therefore, I will restore it unto thee.

§ 4. But he restored the silver to his mother—so his mother took two hundred pieces of silver, and gave it to the smith, who made thereof a graven (molten) image, and it was in the house of Micah. Now the man Micah had a house of gods, and he made an ephod, and teraphim, and installed one of his sons, who became his' priest. In those days there was no king in Israel, every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

§ 5. And there was a young man out of Bethlehem-judah, of the family of Judah,—the Levite, and he being a sojourner there. So the man took his journey out of the city, out of Bethlehem-judah, to sojourn, where he could find a home, and he came into the hill country of Ephraim, as far as the house of Micah, in pursing his journey. And Micah said unto him—

Whence comest thou? And he said unto him—

A Levite am I, from Bethlem-judah, and I am taking my journey to sojourn, where I can find a home.

And Micah said unto him—

Dwell with me and be to me a father and a priest, and I will give thee ten pieces of silver by the year, and a suit of apparel, and thy sustenance.

§ 6. And the Levite was content to dwell with the man, and the young man became to him, as one of his sons.

And Micah installed the Levite, and the young man became his' priest,—and remained in the house of Micah. Then said Micah—

Now I know that Yahweh will do me good, seeing I have a Levite as my priest.

§ 7. In those days there was no king in Israel, and in those days the tribe of the Danites was seeking for itself an inheritance to dwell in, for there had not fallen to them, unto that day, in the midst of the tribes of Israel, enough for an inheritance. So then the sons of Dan sent, out of their family, five men out of their bounds—men who were sons of valour—out of Zorah and out of Eshtaol—to spy out the land, and to explore it, and they said unto them, Go! explore the land.

And they came into the hill country of Ephraim, as far as the house of Micah, and lodged there. [They] being by the house of Micah knew the voice of the young man, the Levite,—so they turned aside there, and said to him—

Who brought thee in hither? and what art thou' doing in this place, and what hast thou here?

And he said unto them,

Thus and so hath Micah dealt with me, and hath hired me, and I am become his' priest.

So they said unto him—

Ask of God, we pray thee,—that we may know whether the journey on which we' are going shall have good success.

And the priest said unto them—

Go! and prosper,—before Yahweh is your journey on which ye go.

§ 8. So the five men went their way, and entered Laish,—and saw the people who were therein, dwelling securely, after the manner of the Zidonians quietly and securely, and there was no one to reproach them with anything in the land, none to possess himself of dominion, they being far away from the Zidonians, and having no dealings with any' one. So they came unto their brethren, in Zorah and Eshtaol,—and their brethren said unto them—

Why are ye' minded to do nothing?

And they said—

Arise! and let us go up against them, for we have seen the land, and lo! it is very good, are ye minded to do nothing? do not be too slothful to go, and enter, and take possession of the land. When ye do' enter ye will enter amongst a people secure, and the land is of ample bounds,—yea God hath delivered it into your hands,—a place' where there is no lack of anything that is in the earth.

§ 9. So there brake up from thence out of the family of the Danites, out of Zorah and out of Eshtaol, six hundred men, begin with weapons of war. 12 And they went up and encamped in Kiriath-jearim, in Judah,—wherefore they have called that place, Mahaneh-dan, unto this day, lo! it is behind Kiriath-jearim. 13 And they passed on from thence unto the hill country of Ephraim,—and came as far as the house of Micah. 14 Then responded the five men who had been to spy out the land of Laish, and said unto their brethren,—

Know ye that there are in these houses, an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image,—now therefore, know what ye will do! 15 So they turned aside thither, and entered into the house of the young man the Levite, the house of Micah,—and asked him of his welfare. 16 Now the six hundred men, begirt with weapons of war, were standing at the entrance of the gate,—they being of the sons of Dan. 17 Then went up the five men who had been to spy out the land, they came in thither, they took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image,—now the priest was standing at the entrance of the gate, with the six hundred men who were begirt with weapons of war. 18 But when these had entered the house of Micah, and taken the graven image and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image, the priest said unto them,—

What are ye doing? 19 And they said unto him,—

Hold thy peace, lay thy hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, and become to us a father and a priest,—is it better that thou be priest to the house of one man, or that thou be priest to a tribe and to a family in Israel? 20 Then was the heart of the priest glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image,—and came into the midst of the people. 21 So they turned, and went their way,—and put the little ones, and the cattle, and the goods, before them. 22 They had gone a good way from the house of Micah, when the men that were in the houses near to the house of Micah were called out and overtook the sons of Dan. 23 And they called unto the sons of Dan, who turned their faces,—and said unto Micah,—

What aileth thee? 24 And he said—

<My gods which I had made> ye have taken away, and the priest, and have departed, and what have I more? How then is it that ye can say unto me, What aileth thee? 25 And the sons of Dan said unto him,—

Do not let thy voice be heard among us,—lest men embittered in soul fall upon you, and thou gather in thy life and the lives of thy household. 26 And the sons of Dan went on their journey,—and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned and went back unto his house. 27 They, therefore, took what Micah had made, and the priest that he had, and came upon Laish, upon a people quiet and secure, and smote them with the edge of the sword,—the city also burned they with fire. 28 And there was no one to rescue, because it was far from Zidon, and they had no dealings with any one, in the vale that pertained to Beth-rehob. Then built they the city, and dwelt therein, and called the name of the city[Dan], by the name of Dan their father, who was born to Israel,—howbeit <Laish> was the name of the city at the first. 29 And the sons of Dan set up for themselves the graven image,—and Jonathan, son of Gershom, son of Moses, he and his sons, became priests to the tribe of the Danites, until the day of the captivity of the land. 30 So they set up for themselves the graven image of Micah, which he had made,—and let it remain all the days that the house of God was in Shiloh.

1. And it came to pass in those days,—<when 19 king> there was none in Israel,—that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the farther side of the hill country of Ephraim, who took to him a concubine out of Bethlehem-judah. 2. And his concubine went astray against him, and departed from him, unto the house of her father, in Bethlehem-judah,—and remained there, the space of four months. 3. Then arose her husband, and went after her, to speak unto her heart,—that he might bring her back again, having his young man with him, and a couple of asses,—and she brought him into the house of her father, and <when the father of the damsel saw him> he rejoiced to meet him. 4. And his father-in-law, the father of the damsel, constrained him, and he abode with him three days,—and they did eat and drink, and lodged there. 5. And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, and gat up to go> that the father of the damsel said unto his son-in-law,— Stay thy heart with a morsel of bread, and <afterwards> ye shall go thy way.
6 So they both of them sat down and did eat together, and drink. Then said the father of the damsel unto the man,
Be content, I pray thee, and tarry the night,
and let thy heart be glad.
7 And <when the man rose up to go> his father-in-law pressed him, so he turned back and tarried the night there.
8 And <when he rose early on the morning of the fifth day, so go> the father of the damsel said—
Come now, stay thy heart, and tarry ye until the decline of the day.
And they did eat, both of them.
9 But the man would not tarry the night, but rose up and went his way, and came as far as over against Jebus,—the same is Jerusalem,— and <with him> were a couple of ass' saddled, [his concubine also] was with him. 10 <They' being by Jebus, and
[the] day having gone far down> the young man said unto his lord—
Do come, I pray thee, and let us turn aside into this city of the Jebusites, and tarry the night therein.
12 And his lord said unto him,
We will not turn aside into a city of aliens, who are not of the sons of Israel,—but will pass on as far as Gibeah.
13 And he said to his young man,
Come and let us draw near unto one of the places,—and tarry the night in Gibeah, or in Ramah.
14 So they passed on, and went their way,—and the sun went in upon them beside Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin. 15 Then turned they aside there, to go in and tarry the night in Gibeah,—so he went in and abode in the broadway of the city; and there was no one minded to take them into a house, to tarry the night.
16 But lo! an old man coming in from his work out of the field, in the evening, and <the man> was from the hill country of Ephraim, (he himself) being a sojourner in Gibeah,—but <the men of the place> were Benjamites. 17 So he lifted up his eyes, and saw a wayfaring man in the broadway of the city,—and the old man said—Whither goest thou? and from whence hast thou come?
18 And he said unto him—
We are passing along! from Bethlehem-judah, unto the farther side of the hill country of Ephraim, whence I am, but I have been as far as Bethlehem-judah, and now <unto the house of Yahweh> am I going, and there is no one minded to take me into a house. 19 Nevertheless <bread and fodder too> is there for our asses, yea moreover <bread and wine> there are for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man that is with thy servants,—there is lack of nothing!
20 And the old man said—
Thou art welcome! only thine wants be on me,—by no means <in the broadway> mayest thou lodge.
21 So he brought him into his house, and gave provender to the asses,—and they bathed their feet, and did eat and drink. 22 <They' were gladdening their heart, when lo! men of the city, men of the sons of the Abandoned One beset the house round about, beating violently against the door,—and they spake unto the old man the owner of the house, saying, Bring forth the man that hath entered into thy house, that we may know him.
23 And the man, the owner of the house, went forth unto them, and said unto them,
Do not, my brethren, do not act vilely, I pray you,—<after this man hath entered into my house> do not commit this impiety.
24 Lo <my virgin daughter, and his concubine>
I must needs now bring them forth, and ye must humble them, and do unto them what seemeth good in your own eyes,—but <unto this man> must ye not do this impious thing!
25 But the men would not hearken unto him, so the man laid hold on his concubine, and brought her forth unto them, outside,—and they knew <her>, and abused her all the night, until the morning, and fell down at the entrance of the house, with her hands upon the threshold.
26 Then her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went forth, to go on his journey,—when lo! the woman, his concu-bine; fallen at the entrance of the house, with her hands upon the threshold. 27 And he said unto her—
Up! and let us be going.
But there was no answer. 28 So he took her up on the ass, and the man rose up, and went his way to his own place. 29 And <when he was come into his house> he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and
* Or: "so he again tarried."

Then went forth all the sons of Israel, and the assembly came together as one man, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, with the land of Gilead, unto Yahweh at Mizpah. And the Levite, husband of the woman that was cut in pieces, responded and said, "Into Gibeah that pertaineth to Benjamin, I entered; and my concubine I to tarry the night. And the owners of Gibeah rose up against me, and beset the house, for my sake, by night, and I thought to slay, and my concubine they so humbled, that she died. So I laid hold on my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel, because they had wrought lewdness and impiety in Israel. Lo! are sons of Israel, give your word and counsel, there.

Then arose all the people, as one man, saying, No man of us will go to his tent, and no man of us will turn aside to his house. This is the thing that we will do to Gibeah, Go against it by lot; and we will take ten men of a hundred, of all the tribes of Israel, and a hundred of a thousand, and a thousand of ten thousand, to fetch provisions for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the impiety that hath wrought in Israel. So all the men of Israel were gathered together against the city, as one man, to take the city. And the tribes of Israel sent men throughout all the divisions of Benjamin, saying, What is this vile thing that hath been brought to pass, among you? Therefore, deliver up the men—the sons of the Abandoned One—who are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and vileness be consumed out of Israel.

But the sons of Benjamin would not hearken unto the voice of their brethren, the sons of Israel. Then did the sons of Benjamin gather themselves together out of the cities, unto Gibeah, to go forth to battle against the sons of Israel. And the sons of Benjamin were numbered on that day, out of the cities, twenty-six thousand men, that drew the sword, besides of the inhabitants of Gibeah were numbered seven hundred men. Out of all this people were seven hundred chosen men, left-handed, any one of whom could sling with a stone to a hair's breadth, and not miss. And the men of Israel were numbered, apart from Benjamin, four hundred thousand men, that drew the sword, every one of these being a man of war. And they arose, and went up to Bethel, and asked of God, and the sons of Israel said, Who shall go up for us first, to fight against the sons of Benjamin? And Yahweh said—Judah first.

And the sons of Israel arose in the morning, and encamped against Gibeah. And the men of Israel went forth, to fight against Benjamin, so the men of Israel set themselves in array against them, to fight against Gibeah. Then came forth the sons of Benjamin out of Gibeah, and laid low of Israel, on that day, twenty-two thousand men, to the ground. And the people, the men of Israel, encouraged themselves, and again set themselves in array for battle in the place where they had set themselves in array on the first day. Now the sons of Israel had gone up, and went before Yahweh, until the evening, and asked of Yahweh, saying, Shall I again draw near to battle against the sons of Benjamin, my brother? And Yahweh said, Go up against him. So the sons of Israel came near against the sons of Benjamin, on the second day. And Benjamin came forth to meet them out of Gibeah, on the second day, and laid low of the sons of Israel, yet eighteen thousand men, to the ground, all these drew the sword. Then went up all the sons of Israel, and all the people, and came to Bethel, and wept, and tarried there before Yahweh, and fasted on that day, until the evening, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings, before Yahweh. And the sons of Israel asked of Yahweh, there being the ark of the covenant of God, in those days; and Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron was standing before it in those days, saying, Shall I yet again go forth to battle, against... the sons of Benjamin, my brother, or shall I forbear?
And Yahweh said—

Go up, for <to-morrow> will I deliver him into thy hand.

29 And Israel set liers in wait against Gibeah, round about. 30 So the sons of Israel went up against the sons of Benjamin, on the third' day, and set themselves in array against Gibeah, as time after time. 31 And the sons of Benjamin came forth against the people, they were drawn away from the city,—and began to smite of the people, slaying as time after time,—when the men of Benjamin saw that they were smitten,—and that the men of Israel had given place to Benjamin, because they trusted to the liers in wait, whom they had set near Gibeah. 32 And <the liers in wait> hastened, and rushed upon Gibeah,—and the liers in wait marched forward, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword. 33 Thus Yahweh smote Benjamin before Israel, and the sons of Israel destroyed in Benjamin that day, twenty-five thousand and one hundred men,—<all these> drew the sword.

34 So the sons of Benjamin saw that they were smitten,—and that the men of Israel had given place to Benjamin, because they trusted to the liers in wait, whom they had set near Gibeah. 35 And <the liers in wait> hastened, and rushed upon Gibeah,—and the liers in wait marched forward, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword. 36 Now <the appointed sign> between the men of Israel and the liers in wait, had been,—to cause a great cloud of smoke to ascend out of the city. 37 So <when the men of Israel turned in the battle,—and <the Benjamites> began to smite and slay of the sons of Israel, about thirty men, for they said,

Yes! they are <smitten> before us, as in the first battle>

41 And <the cloud> began to ascend out of the the city, a pillar of smoke,—and the Benjamites looked behind them, and lo! the whole city flamed up towards the heavens.

42 And <when <the men of Israel> turned > then were the men of Benjamin dismayed,—for they saw that disaster had overtaken them. 43 And <when they turned before the men of Israel unto the way of the desert >: the battle overtook them,—while <as for them that came out of the cities> they began to destroy them in their midst;—44 they hemmed in the Benjamites, they pursued them, with ease; they trode them down,—as far as over against Gibeah, towards sunrise. 45 So there fell of Benjamin, eighteen thousand men,—<all these> being men of valour. 46 And <when they turned and fled towards the desert unto the cliff Rimmon> then gleaned' they of them, in the highways, five thousand men,—and they followed hard after them as far as Gidôm, and smote of them, two thousand men. 47 So then it came to pass that <all the fallen of Benjamin> were twenty-five thousand men, that drew the sword, <on that day,—<all these> being men of valour. 48 But there turned and fled, towards the desert, unto the cliff Rimmon, six hundred men,—who abode in the cliff Rimmon, four months. 49 Thus <the men of Israel> turned against the sons of Benjamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword, beginning with the city, each and every one down to the beast,—even to every one that was met with,—moreover <all the cities they came to> they set on fire.

1 Now <the men of Israel> had sworn in Bethel, and the other to Gibeah in the field, about thirty men in Israel. 2-then said the sons of Benjamin,

They are <being smitten> before us, as at the first.

But the sons of Israel had said—

Let us flee, and draw them away from the city, into the highways.

50 And <all the men of Israel> rose up out of their place, and set themselves in array in Baal-tamar,—and <the liers in wait of Israel> began to break forth out of their place out of the forest of Gibeah. 54 And there came over against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men, out of all Israel. 55 And <the sons of Benjamin> came forth against the people, they were drawn away from the city,—and began to smite of the people, slaying as time after time,* as time after time.* 56 And there was <one> goeth up to Bethel, and <the other> to Gibeah in the field, <about thirty men in Israel>. 58 Then said the sons of Benjamin,

They are <being smitten> before us, as at the first.

But the sons of Israel had said—

Let us flee, and draw them away from the city, into the highways.

50 And <all the men of Israel> rose up out of their place, and set themselves in array in Baal-tamar,—and <the liers in wait of Israel> began to break forth out of their place out of the forest of Gibeah. 54 And there came over against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men, out of all Israel. 55 And <the sons of Benjamin> came forth against the people, they were drawn away from the city,—and began to smite of the people, slaying as time after time,* as time after time.* 56 And there was <one> goeth up to Bethel, and <the other> to Gibeah in the field, <about thirty men in Israel>. 58 Then said the sons of Benjamin,

They are <being smitten> before us, as at the first.

But the sons of Israel had said—

Let us flee, and draw them away from the city, into the highways.

50 And <all the men of Israel> rose up out of their place, and set themselves in array in Baal-tamar,—and <the liers in wait of Israel> began to break forth out of their place out of the forest of Gibeah. 54 And there came over against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men, out of all Israel. 55 And <the sons of Benjamin> came forth against the people, they were drawn away from the city,—and began to smite of the people, slaying as time after time,* as time after time.* 56 And there was <one> goeth up to Bethel, and <the other> to Gibeah in the field, <about thirty men in Israel>. 58 Then said the sons of Benjamin,

They are <being smitten> before us, as at the first.

But the sons of Israel had said—

Let us flee, and draw them away from the city, into the highways.

50 And <all the men of Israel> rose up out of their place, and set themselves in array in Baal-tamar,—and <the liers in wait of Israel> began to break forth out of their place out of the forest of Gibeah. 54 And there came over against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men, out of all Israel. 55 And <the sons of Benjamin> came forth against the people, they were drawn away from the city,—and began to smite of the people, slaying as time after time,* as time after time.* 56 And there was <one> goeth up to Bethel, and <the other> to Gibeah in the field, <about thirty men in Israel>. 58 Then said the sons of Benjamin, men, of the sons of valour,—and commanded them, saying:—

Go and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead, with the edge of the sword, with the women, and the little ones.

11 And this is the thing that ye shall do,—Every male, and every woman that hath cohabited with man, shall ye devote to destruction.

12 And they found—of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead—four hundred young women, virgins, who had not cohabited with man,—so they brought them into the camp, at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan. 13 Then the whole assembly sent, and spake unto the sons of Benjamin, who were in the cliff Rimmon,—and proclaimed to them, peace. 14 So Benjamin returned at that time, and they gave them the women whom they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead,—but they found not for them to suffice.

15 Now the assembly had grieved for Benjamin,—because Yahweh had made a breach in the tribes of Israel. 16 So then, the elders of the assembly said,

What are we to do for them who remain, for wives,—for womankind hath been destroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they said,

There is an inheritance for the escaped of Benjamin,—and there must not be wiped out, a tribe, out of Israel. 18 Yet we may not give them wives of our own daughters,

For the sons of Israel had sworn, saying,

Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

A festival of Yahweh in Shiloh from year to year,

Which Shiloh is on the north of Bethel, towards sunrise, by the highway that goeth up from Bethel, towards Shechem, and on the south of Lebanon.

And they commanded the sons of Benjamin, saying,—

Go and lie in wait in the vineyards; and look, and lo! if the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in the dances, then shall ye come forth out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife, of the daughters of Shiloh,—and go your way to the land of Benjamin.

And it shall be when their fathers, or their brethren, come in to complain to us, that we will say unto them—

As a favour to us, grant them, because we took not for each man his wife in the battle,—for ye yourselves gave them not unto them, so as now to be guilty.

22 And the sons of Benjamin did so, and carried off wives, according to their number, of them who were dancing, whom they seized,—and they went their way, and returned unto their inheritance, and built the cities, and dwelt therein.

23 And the sons of Israel at that time went their several ways from thence, every man to his own tribe, and to his own family,—yea they went forth from thence, every man to his own inheritance.

24 And the sons of Israel at that time went in several ways from thence, every man to his own tribe, and to his own family,—yea they went forth from thence, every man to his own inheritance.

25 And the sons of Benjamin did so, and carried off wives, according to their number, of them who were dancing, whom they seized,—and they went their way, and returned unto their inheritance, and built the cities, and dwelt therein.

26 And the sons of Israel at that time went in several ways from thence, every man to his own tribe, and to his own family,—yea they went forth from thence, every man to his own inheritance.

In those days there was no king in Israel,—every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

1 And it came to pass in the days when the Judges administered justice, that there was a famine in the land,—and so a certain man went his way, out of Bethlehem-judah to sojourn in the country of Moab, the, and his wife, and his two sons. 2 And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion—Ephrathites out of Bethlehem-judah,—so they came into the country of Moab, and remained there.

2 And Elimelech, husband of Naomi, died,—and she was left, she and her two sons. 4 And they took them wives, of the women of Moab, the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth,—and they dwelt there, about ten years.

5 And they also both died, Mahlon and Chilion,—so the woman was bereft of her two sons, and of her husband.

6 Then she arose, she and her daughters-in-law, and returned out of the country of Moab, for she had heard, in the country of Moab, dealt very bitterly with me: 21 I was full' when I departed, but <empty> am I brought back of Yahweh, — wherefore' should ye call me Naomi'?

When [Yahweh] hath given answer a against me,

And 'the Almighty' hath crushed me!

28 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, with her, who returned out of the country of Moab, — and they entered Bethlehem in the beginning of barley harvest.

Now 2 Naomí had an acquaintance of her husband's, a man of great integrity, of the family of Elimelech, — whose name was Boaz.

2 And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi —

Let me go, I pray thee, to the field, and glean ears of corn after him in whose eyes I may find favour.

And they said to her,—

<With thee> will we return, unto thy people.

11 Then said Naomi —

Go back, my daughters! wherefore should ye journey with me?

Have I yet sons in my womb, that they should become your' [husbands]?

12 Go back, my daughters, go your way, for I am too old to have a husband,—

<If I should say> I have' [hope], if I should [even to-might] have a husband, and should [even bear sons] > would ye [therefore] tarry until they were grown? would ye [therefore] shut yourselves up from having husbands?

Nay! my daughters, for it is far more bitter for me than for you, that forth hath gone against me, the hand of Yahweh.

And they lifted up their voice and wept, ifyet more. — Then Orpah kissed' her mother-in-law, but [Ruth] clave unto her. 15 And she said—

Lo! thy sister-in-law hath gone back, unto her people, and unto her gods,— go thou back, after thy sister-in-law.

And Ruth said—

Do not urge me' to leave thee, to go back from following thee,—for <whither thou goest> I' will go, and <where thou' lodgest> I' will lodge, [thy' people] shall be my' people, and [thy' God] my' God; <where thou' diest> I' will die, and [there] will I be buried:

[So] let Yahweh do to me, and [so] let him add, if [death itself] part me and thee.

18 And <when she saw that > bravely determined was she' to go with her' she ceased entreating her. e 19 So [they two] went their way, until they entered Bethlehem.

And it came to pass <when they entered Bethlehem> that all the city was moved' concerning them, and the women said—

Is this' Naomi?

And she said unto them,

Do not call me Naomi [= "Sweet"],—call me Mara [= "Bitter"], for the Almighty hath how that Yahweh had visited' his people, in giving unto them [bread]. 7 So she went forth out of the dwelling-place where she had remained, and her two daughters-in-law with her,—and they went on the way, to return unto the land of Judah.

8 Then said Naomi to her two daughters-in-law: Go return, each one to the house of her mother,—

Yahweh deal with you' in lovingkindness, as ye have dealt with the dead,' and with me. 9 Yahweh grant you, that ye may find a place of rest, e each one in the house of her husband, —

And she kissed them, and they lifted up their voice, and wept. 10 And they said to her,—<With thee> will we return, unto thy people.

11 Then said Naomi—

Go back, my daughters! wherefore should ye journey with me?

Have I yet sons in my womb, that they should become your' [husbands]?

12 Go back, my daughters, go your way, for I am too old to have a husband,—

RUTH II. 11—23; III. 1—12.

Wherefore have I found favour in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take notice of me, seeing that I am a stranger? 11 And Boaz answered, and said to her, It hath been told me— all that thou hast done unto my mother-in-law, since the death of thy husband,— and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and come unto a people whom thou knewest not, aforetime. 12 Yahweh recompense thy deed,— and let thy reward be full from Yahweh, the God of Israel, unto whom thou hast come to take refuge under his wings. 13 And she said— Let me find favour in thine eyes, my lord, for that thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken unto the heart of thy handmaid,— though I be not as [one of thine own handmaidens].

And Boaz said to her at mealtime— Draw nigh hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. So she sat beside the reapers, and there was alxiutan ephah of barley. 19 And she took it up, and came into the city, and when her mother-in-law had seen what she had gleaned, she brought forth and gave her what had been left behind that she may glean it, and leave behind that she may glean it, and draw out for her, from the bundles,— and leave behind that she may glean it, and be— (in. Or : " and he reached." 22 And Naomi said to her daughter-in-law— "By my young men," shalt thou keep fast, until they have ended all my harvest. 23 So Boaz kept his maidens, to glean, until the end of the barley harvest, and the wheat harvest,— and dwelt with her mother-in-law.

Then Naomi her mother-in-law said to her,— 3 My daughter! shall I not seek for thee a place of rest, in which it may be well with thee? 4 And she went down to the threshing-floor,— and did' according to all that her mother-in-law had commanded her. 5 And when Boaz had eaten, and drunk, and his heart was glad, he went in to lie down at the end of the heap of corn. Then came she in softly, and turned aside the covering of his feet, and lay thee down,— and he will tell thee what thou shalt do.

And she said unto her,— All that thou sayest will I do. 6 And she kept fast by the maidens of Boaz, to glean, until the end of the barley harvest, and the wheat harvest,— and dwelt with her mother-in-law. 7 And when Boaz commanded his young men, saying— Even between the sheaves let her glean,— she gleaned in the field, until the evening,— and best out that which she had gleaned, and there was about an ephah of barley. 8 And she took it up, and came into the city, and when her mother-in-law had seen what she had gleaned, she brought forth and gave her what had been left remaining, after that she was satisfied. 9 And her mother-in-law said to her,— In what place hast thou gleaned, to-day? and where hast thou wrought? May he that took notice of thee, be blessed! So she told her mother-in-law, with whom she had wrought, and said— The name of the man with whom I wrought to-day is Boaz. 10 Then said Naomi to her daughter-in-law— Blessed be he of Yahweh, who hath not left off his lovingkindness to the living, and to the dead. And Naomi said to her— Near to us is the man, Of our own kinsmen is he! 11 Yea,' for he said unto me— By my young men shalt thou keep fast, until they have ended all my harvest.

And Naomi said unto Ruth her daughter-in-law,— Good is it, my daughter, that thou go forth with his maidens, and that they meet thee not, in any other field. 20 And she kept fast by the maidens of Boaz, to glean, until the end of the barley harvest, and the wheat harvest,— and dwelt with her mother-in-law.

Who' art thou?" And she said, I am Ruth, thy handmaid, spread therefore, thy wing" over thy handmaid, for a kinsman > thou art'. 13 And he said— Blessed be thou of Yahweh, my daughter, for thou hast made thy last' lovingkindness better than the first,— in not following after young men, whether poor, or rich. 14 And now therefore, my daughter, do not fear, whatsoever thou shalt say. I will do for thee,— for all the gate of my people doth know, that a virtuous woman thou art'. 15 And now, although it is true' that a kinsman, I am I'- yet is' there a kinsman nearer than I.
Tarry the night, and it shall be, in the morning <if he will act as kinsman to thee> well, let him so act, but <if he inclineth not to act as kinsman to thee> then will I so act to thee—by the life of Yahweh—

Lie still, until the morning.

So she lay at his feet, until the morning, and rose up before one could know his neighbour. And he said—

Do not let it be known that a woman came into the threshing-floor.

And she said—

Bring the cloak that is upon thee, and hold it. So she held it,— and he measured six measures of barley, and laid it upon her, and he went into the city.

And <when she came unto her mother-in-law> she said—

Who's art thou, my daughter?

And she told her all that the man had done for her. And she said—

These six measures of barley gave he unto me,—for he said do not go in empty, unto thy mother-in-law.

And she said—

Abide, my daughter, until thou get to know, how the matter will fall out,— for the man will not rest, except he have finished the thing to-day.

Now Boaz went up to the gate, and sat him down there, and lo! the kinsman I passing by. Of whom Boaz had spoken, so he said—

Turn aside! and sit down here, such a one!

And he turned aside, and sat down. Then fetched he ten men of the elders of the city, and said—

Sit ye down here. And they sat down.

Then said he to the kinsman,

The parcel of land that was our brother Elimelech's is to be disposed of by Naomi, who hath returned out of the country of Moab; and I thought, I would unveil thine ear, saying—

Take it over in presence of such as are here seated, and in presence of the elders of my people.

If thou wilt act as kinsman act as kinsman, but if thou wilt not so act, only tell me—that I may know, for there is none who can set thee aside as kinsman, but I will am after thee.

And he said.

I will act as kinsman.

Then said Boaz,

What day thou takest over the land' from the hand of Naomi> also <of> Ruth the Moabitess, wife of the dead> dost thou take [it], to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

Then said the kinsman—

I cannot act as kinsman for myself, lest I mar my own inheritance,—do thou for thyself act as kinsman in my right, for I cannot so redeem.

Now [this, aforesaid] was the way in Israel, at a redeeming, and at an exchanging, to confirm every word: A man drew off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbour,—yes [this] was the way of taking to witness, in Israel.

So the kinsman said unto Boaz,

Take it over for thyself,—and he drew off his shoe. Then said Boaz to the elders, and all the people—

<Witnesses> are ye to-day,

That I have taken over all that was Elimelech's,

And all that was Chilion's, and Mahlon's,—From the hand of Naomi:

Moreover, <Ruth the Moabitess, wife of Mahlon> have I taken over, to be my wife,

To raise up the name of the dead' upon his inheritance,

That the name of the dead be not cut off—From among his brethren.

And from the gate of his dwelling-place,—

<Witnesses> are ye to-day!

Then said all the people who were in the gate, and the elders—

Witnesses!—Yahweh grant the woman who is coming into thy house.

To be as Rachel, and as Leah.

Which two of them did build the house of Israel.

Do thou bravely, then, in Ephrathah, And proclaim thou a name' in Bethlehem,

And let thy house be like the house of Perez, Whom Tamar bare to Judah,—

Of the seed which—may Yahweh give thee, Of this young woman'.

So Boaz took Ruth, and she became his'wife, and he went in unto her,—and Yahweh granted her conception, and she bare a son.

Then said the women unto Naomi, Blessed be Yahweh! Who hath not let thee fail of a kinsman to-day,—

And may his name be proclaimed in Israel; So shall he become a restorer of thy life, And a nourisher of thine old age,—

For (thy daughter-in-law who loveth thee) hath borne him.

SPECIAL NOTE:
A SUGGESTIVE GENEALOGY.

One of the greatest charms of the Bible is to be found in its genealogies. Commonly considered to be as dry as dust, it may safely be affirmed that in that dust lie hidden grains of purest gold.

This short snatch of pedigree, at the end of the Book of Ruth—how rich in suggestiveness it is!
Whether by author or by editor appended, the hand that wrote it was guided by the spirit of the entire Old Testament. Boaz points to one who was then yet to come—to David, in the first instance: how much further, remains to be seen. Boaz stands in the line that runs from Perez to David, and behind Perez, of course, stands Judah his father;* so that we at once span from Judah to David—Judah, the heir of special promises,* to David the first of a royal line which runs forward into a future which has not ended yet,* and which cannot end until provision has been made thereby for every thirsty one to partake freely of "the lovingkindness to David well assured."*

Boaz brings Ruth into the royal line, and Ruth was a Moabitess—in other words, a Gentile—so that:
the exclusiveness of Hebrewism is evidently not the only aspect in which it may be viewed. But what power is it that brings this young Gentile widow to dwell in Bethlehem? Plainly, the power of love: on the face of it, love to Naomi, Ruth's mother-in-law. But was there not, in that love, a religious strength of conviction and fervour which ennobled the human affection? "Thy God shall be my God," she said:* and she is afterwards treated as if she meant it; as if she knew what she was doing, when she came to Bethlehem that she might find "refuge," from the idol-worship of her native land, "under the wings of Yahweh God of Israel."*

Finally, the place is significant. Bethlehem may have been a small city—in fact, a mere village; nevertheless it is known in after times as "the village where David was;"* and—which is still more significant—the village from which, according to a well-known prediction, was to come forth One greater than David, even He "whose comings forth have been from of old, from the days of age-past time."*

And so the outlook widens. As when some traveller, greeting the timely sign-post, makes pause and asks—Whence have I come, and whither am I bound?—so the thoughtful reader of the Bible considers the stages by which his journey is advancing:—From Adam, by way of Seth, to Noah; from Noah, by way of Shem, to Abraham; from Abraham, by way of Isaac and Jacob, to Judah; from Judah, by way of Perez and Boaz, to David; and then, will it not be—a road that leads still on, from David to David's Son and Lord?*

§ 1. Samuel and Eli.

1. And there was a certain man, of Ramathaim-zuphi, of the hill country of Ephraim,— whose name was Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Eliah, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephraimite; and he had two wives, the name of the one Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah. And Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children. So then that man went up out of his city, from time to time, to worship and to sacrifice unto Yahweh of hosts, in Shiloh,— and there were the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, priests unto Yahweh. And when the day came for Elkanah to sacrifice, he used to give to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters portions; and unto Hannah he used to give one portion,— howbeit Hannah he loved, although Yahweh had restrained her from having children. And her rival used even to cause her great vexation, for the sake of provoking her,— because Yahweh had restrained her from having children. And thus she used to do, year by year, whenever she went up to the house of Yahweh, thus she used to vex her,— and she wept, and would not eat. And Hannah rose up, after she had eaten in Shiloh, and after she had drunk,— and the priest was sitting upon his chair, by the door post of the temple of Yahweh; and she, being in bitterness of soul, prayed unto Yahweh, and wept sore. And she vowed a vow, and said— Yahweh of hosts! If thou wilt look upon the humiliation of thy handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thy handmaid, but wilt give unto thy handmaid a man-child; then will I give him unto Yahweh, all the days of his life, and no razor shall come upon his head.

And there was a certain man, of Ramathaim-zuphi, of the hill country of Ephraim,— whose name was Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephraimite; and he had two wives, the name of the one Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah, and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children. And so it was as she continued praying before Yahweh that Eli was watching her mouth. But as for Hannah she was speaking in her heart, only her lips were moving, but her voice could not be heard,— so Eli thought she had been drunken. And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? Put away thy wine from thee. And Hannah responded and said— Nay! my lord,— A woman depressed in spirit am I: Neither wine nor strong drink have I drunk,— but I poured out my soul, before Yahweh. Do not count thy handmaid for an abandoned woman,— for out of the abundance of my grief and my vexation have I spoken hitherto. Then responded Eli, and said— Go and prosper! And the Lord of Israel granted thy petition which thou hast asked of him! And she said— Let thy serving-woman find favour in thine eyes. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was sad no longer. And they rose up early in the morning, and worshipped before Yahweh, and returned, and entered their own house in Ramah,— and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and Yahweh remembered her. And so it was when the days had come round during which Hannah was with child that she bare a son,— and called his name Samuel (= "Heard of God"). Because, of Yahweh I asked him. And the man Elkanah, and all his house, went up, to offer unto Yahweh the yearly sacrifice, and [each] his own vow. But Hannah went not up,— for she said to her husband— [Not] till the boy is weaned, Then will I take him, And he shall appear before Yahweh, And abide there evermore. And Elkanah her husband said to her— Do what is good in thine own eyes, tarry until thou have weaned him, Only may Yahweh establish his word! So the woman tarried, and nursed her son, and no razor shall come upon his head. And so it was as she continued praying before Yahweh that Eli was watching her mouth. But as for Hannah she was speaking in her heart, only her lips were moving, but her voice could not be heard,— so Eli thought she had been drunken. And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? Put away thy wine from thee. And Hannah responded and said— Nay! my lord,— A woman depressed in spirit am I: Neither wine nor strong drink have I drunk,— but I poured out my soul, before Yahweh. Do not count thy handmaid for an abandoned woman,— for out of the abundance of my grief and my vexation have I spoken hitherto. Then responded Eli, and said— Go and prosper! And the Lord of Israel granted thy petition which thou hast asked of him! And she said— Let thy serving-woman find favour in thine eyes. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was sad no longer. And they rose up early in the morning, and worshipped before Yahweh, and returned, and entered their own house in Ramah,— and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and Yahweh remembered her. conceived, and bare three sons, and two daughters. Thus did the boy Samuel grow up with Yahweh.

21 Now Eli was very old, but he used to hear all that his sons did unto all Israel, and how they even lay with the women who did service at the opening of the tent of meeting.

22 So he said to them, Wherefore should ye do such things as these? for I keep hearing of your wicked doings, from all these people.

23 Nay, my sons! for it is no good report that I do hear: leading into transgression the people of Yahweh.

24 But if one man sin against another, God will interpose, but if against Yahweh a man sin, who will intercede for him?

25 But the boy Samuel went on growing in stature, and in favour, both with Yahweh and with men.

26 And there came a man of God, unto Eli, and said unto him—Thus saith Yahweh, I did indeed reveal myself unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt, as servants unto the house of Pharaoh;

27 choosing him out of all the tribes of Israel unto myself, to minister as priest, to offer upon mine altar, to perfume with incense, to bear an ephod before me;

28 Therefore gave I unto the house of thy father' all the altar-flames of the sons of Israel.

29 Wherefore have ye been kicking at my sacrifices, and my presents, which I commanded, to serve for a home, and for the head of the sons of Israel, and for the house of Pharaoh; and also with Yahweh, and also with men.

30 And he said—According to that which is in my heart and in my soul will he do; Therefore will I build for him an assured house, and he shall go to and fro in presence of mine Anointed, all the days.

31 But it shall be, that any that is left in thy house, shall come bowing down to him for a small coin of silver, and for a cake of bread, and shall say:

32 Appoint me, I pray thee, to one of the priestly offices, that I may eat a morsel of bread.

1 Now the boy Samuel was ministering unto Yahweh, before Eli,—and the word of Yahweh had become rare in those days, there was no well-known vision.

2 But it came to pass, at that time, when Eli was lying down in his place, his eyes having begun to be dim, he could not see, though the lamp of God was not yet to be put out, and Samuel was lying down in the temple of Yahweh, where was the ark of God, that Yahweh called unto Samuel, and he said—Behold me!

3 So he ran unto Eli and said—Behold me! for thou calledst me.

4 And he said—I called not, my son, return—lie down.

5 So it was, that when he was lying down, and the lamp of God was not yet to be put out, and Samuel was lying down in the temple of Yahweh, where was the ark of God—therefore gave I unto the house of thy father' all the altar-flames of the sons of Israel.

6 Then rose Samuel, and went unto Eli, and said—Behold me! for thou calledst me.

7 And he said—I called not, my son, return—lie down.

8 Now Samuel as yet knew not Yahweh,—nor as yet had been revealed unto him the word of Yahweh.

9 And again Yahweh called—Samuel!

10 Then rose Samuel, and went unto Eli, and said—Behold me! for thou calledst me.

11 And he said—I called not, my son, return—lie down.

12 Then the priest Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, and kissed him, and said, The Spirit of Yahweh is upon him to day.

13 And the Spirit of Yahweh was upon Samuel; for he went on and prophesied, lying down.

14 And I said unto him, Behold, thy brother Jonathan is come; and lo, he lieth in this room.

15 And he said—Now go, lie down; and it shall be, if he call unto thee, that thou shalt say—

16 And there was a certain man of Benjamin, whose name was Micah, who said unto him, Behold, I have a goodly ephod, and other things; and lo, they are with me, and also the vineyard, and the house.

17 And he said—What then willst thou give me? And he said—Lend me, I pray thee, the vineyard, and the house, and I will give thee the ephod, and the other things.

18 And he gave him the vineyard, and the house; and Samuel clave to him about the ephod, and went with him, and was with him about all his days.
Speak, Yahweh, for thy servant is listening.
And Samuel went, and lay down in his place.

10 Then came Yahweh, and stood, and called as time after time—
Samuel! Samuel!
And Samuel said—
Speak, for thy servant is listening.

11 And Yahweh said unto Samuel,
Lo! I am doing a thing, in Israel,—at which both ears of everyone that heareth shall tingle.

12 Therefore do I tell him, that I am about to judge his house unto times age-abiding,— for the iniquity which he knoweth in that his sons are cursing God, and he hath not rebuked them.

13 And therefore have I sworn, respecting the house of Eli,—that the iniquity of the house of Eli shall receive no propitiatory-covering, by sacrifice or by present, unto times age-abiding.

14 And Samuel lay until the morning, and rose early in the morning, and opened the doors of the house of Yahweh,—but [Samuel] feared to tell the appearing, unto Eli.

15 So Eli called Samuel, and said—
Samuel! my son.
And he said—
Behold me!

16 And he said—
What is the word, which he spake unto thee? I pray thee, do not hide it from me.
[So] let God do to me, and [so] let him add, if thou hide from me a word, out of anything which he hath spoken unto thee.

17 So Samuel told him all the words, and hid nothing from him. And he said, [Yahweh] he is; [what is good in his own eyes] let him do.

18 And Samuel grew,—and [Yahweh] proved to be with him, and let none of all his words fall to the ground. So all Israel, from Dan even to Beerahaba, came to know,—that Samuel had become confirmed as a prophet unto Yahweh.

21 Thus did Yahweh again appear in Shiloh,—for Yahweh had revealed himself unto Samuel in Shiloh, in the word of Yahweh.

4 And so it was when the word of Samuel had reached all Israel> that Israel went forth to meet the Philistines in battle, and they encamped near Eben-ezer, while the Philistines encamped in Aphek.

2 And the Philistines set themselves in array to meet Israel, and then was Israel smitten before the Philistines,—and there were slain of the army in the field about four thousand men.

3 And when the people came into the camp
the elders of Israel said,
Wherefore hath Yahweh smitten us to-day, before the Philistines?

Let us fetch unto us, out of Shiloh, the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, that it may save us out of the hand of our enemies.

4 So the people sent to Shiloh, and bare from thence the ark of the covenant of Yahweh of hosts, who inhabiteth the cherubim,—and there were the two sons of Eli, with the ark of the covenant of God, namely, Hophni and Phinehas.

So and it was when the ark of the covenant of Yahweh came into the camp, that all Israel brake out into a loud shout of joy,—so that the earth rang again.

6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout> they said—
What meaneth the noise of this loud shout of joy in the camp of the Hebrews?

And they learned that the ark of Yahweh had come into the camp. And the Philistines were afraid, for they said—
God hath come into the camp.

And they said—
Woe to us! Who shall rescue us out of the hand of these majestic gods?

[These] are the gods, who smote the Egyptians with all manner of smiting in the desert!

9 Take courage and quit yourselves like men, ye Philistines, lest ye come into bondage to the Hebrews, as they have been in bondage unto you,—therefore must ye quit yourselves like men, and fight.

10 So the Philistines fought, and Israel was smitten, and they fled every man to his home; and the slaughter became exceeding great,—and there fell of Israel thirty thousand footmen.

11 And [the ark of God] was taken,—and [the two sons of Eli] were slain, Hophni and Phinehas.

12 And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and entered Shiloh on the same day,—with his clothes rent, and with earth upon his head.

And when he entered> lo! Eli was sitting upon his chair,* by the wayside, watching, for his heart was trembling for the ark of God,—and the man entered to tell the news in the city, and all the city made outcry.

14 And when Eli heard the noise of the outcry> he said—

What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And the man hasted, and came, and told Eli. 18 Now Eli was ninety-eight years old; and his eyes were fixed, that he could not see. 19 So the man said unto Eli—

And he said—

What is the thing that hath happened, my son? 21 And the bearer of tidings answered, and said—Israel hath fled before the Philistines, [Moreover also] 22 a great snighting hath taken place among the people,— [Moreover also] thy two sons are slain, Hophni and Phinehas, And [the ark of God] is taken. 23 And it came to pass, when he mentioned the ark of God, that he fell off his seat backwards, at the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died. for old was the man, and heavy;—and he had judged Israel forty years. 24 Now his daughter-in-law, wife of Phinehas, was with child, ready to give birth, and when she heard the tidings, as to the taking of the ark of God, and the death of her father-in-law, and her husband> she bowed herself and gave birth, for her pains had seized her. 25 And about the time of her death> the women that stood by her said:

Do not fear, for to a son hath thou given birth.

But she neither answered nor regarded. 26 And she called the boy I-chabod! [= Where's the glory?] saying,

Exiled is the glory from Israel,— In regard to the taking of the ark of God, and the death of her father-in-law, to her father-in-law, and to her husband. 27 So she said—

Exiled is the glory from Israel,— For the ark of God hath been taken.

§ 2. The Wanderings of the Ark.

1 Now the Philistines having taken the ark of God,—brought it in from Eben-ezer unto Ashdod. 2 And when the Philistines took the ark of God> they brought it by the side of Dagon. 3 And when of Ashdod rose early on the morrow and entered into the house of Dagon,—and placed it by the side of Dagon. 4 And when of Ashdod rose early on the morrow> lo! [Dagon] was lying prostrate on his face to the earth, before the ark of Yahweh,—so they took Dagon and restored him to his place. 5 And when they rose up early in the morning of the morrow> lo! [Dagon] was lying prostrate on his face to the earth, before the ark of Yahweh,—and the head of Dagon, and both the palms of his hands; had been cut off against the threshold, only Dagon himself was left to him. 6 For this cause do not the priests of Dagon, nor any that enter into the house of Dagon, tread upon the threshold of Dagon, in Ashdod,—until this day. 7 Then was the hand of Yahweh heavy against them of Ashdod, and he astounded them,—and smote with tumours' Ashdod and her bounds. And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was> then kept they saying:

Let not the ark of the God of Israel abide with us, for hard is his hand upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

8 So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said— What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? 9 And they said:

To Gath> let the ark of the God of Israel go round. 10 So they took round the ark of the God of Israel. 11 And so it was after they had taken it round> then was the hand of Yahweh against the city, with an exceeding great consternation, and he smote the men of the city, from the least, even unto the greatest,—and they brake out with tumours. 12 Then sent they the ark of God to Ekron,—and so it was when the ark of God entered Ekron> that the Ekronites made outcry, saying— They have brought round unto me the ark of the God of Israel, to slay me, and my people! 13 So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said— Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and restore it to its own place, that it slay not me, and my people. For there had come a deadly consternation, throughout all the city, heavy exceedingly was the hand of God there. 14 And the men who died not were smitten with the tumours, —so the cry of the city for help, ascended to the heavens.

1 Now it came to pass, that the ark of Yahweh was in the country of the Philistines, seven months. 2 Then called the Philistines for the priests and for the diviners, saying, What shall we do with the ark of Yahweh? Let us know, wherewith we shall send it to its own place. 3 And they said— If ye are going to send away the ark of the God of Israel> do not send it away empty, but ye must surely return to him a guilt-offering,—[then] shall ye be healed, and it shall be known to you, wherefore his hand would not turn away from you. 4 And they said— What shall be the guilt-offering, that we shall return to him?
Wherefore ye shall make likenesses of your tumours, and likenesses of your mice that shall lay waste the land, and shall give unto the [God of Israel] [glory].

Peradventures he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your god, and from off your land.

Wherefore, then, should ye make your heart dull, as the Egyptians and Pharaoh made their heart dull! <When he had done his great doings upon them> did they not let them go, and they departed?

Now therefore, take and get ready, one new waggon, and two milch kine, wherewith hath never come yoke,—then shall ye fasten the kine in the waggon, and withdraw their calves from them, into the shed; and ye shall take the ark of Yahweh, and place it in the waggon, also <the jewels of gold which ye send back to him as a guilt-offering> shall ye put into a coffer, at the side thereof,—so shall ye let it go, and it shall depart.

Then shall ye look—<if by the way of its own boundary> it goeth up to Beth-shemesh;> the it was who caused us this great affliction,—but <if not> then shall we know that it was not [his hand] that smote us, [a chance] it was, that befell us.

The men, therefore, did so, and took two milch kine, and fastened them in the waggon,—but <their calves> shut they up in the shed.

And they put the ark of Yahweh, into the waggon,—also the coffer, with the mice of gold, and the likenesses of their tumours. And the kine went straight along the road, on the way to Beth-shemesh, yea <along the main highway> they went, lowing as they went, turning not aside, to the right hand or to the left. And [the lords of the Philistines] went along after them, as far as the bounds of Beth-shemesh.

Now [they of Beth-shemesh] were reaping their wheat-harvest in the vale,—so they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to meet it. And [the waggon] entered into the field of Joshua, a man of Beth-shemesh, and stood still [there], [where also] was a great stone,—so they clave into pieces the planks of the waggon, and <the kine> offered they up as an ascending-sacrifice, unto Yahweh. And [the Levites] took down the ark of Yahweh, and the coffer that was with it, wherein were the jewels of gold, and put them upon the great stone,—and [the men of Beth-shemesh] caused to go up ascending-offerings and offered sacrifices, that day, unto Yahweh.

And [the five lords of the Philistines] saw it,—and returned unto Ekron, the same day.

Now [these] are the golden tumours which the Philistines returned as a guilt-offering unto Yahweh,—

17. For Ashdod one, For Gaza one, For Ashkelon one, For Gath one, For Ekron one;

18. And the golden' mice, by the number of all the cities of the Philistines, pertaining to the five lords, both fortified cities, and country villages,—yes <even the great meadow> whereon they rested the ark of Yahweh > [until this day] is in the field-land of Joshua, the man of Beth-shemesh.

And <when he smote the men of Beth-shemesh, because they looked into the ark of Yahweh, yeasmote of the people seventy men (and) fifty thousand men> the people mourned, for that Yahweh had smitten the people with a great smiting. Then said the men of Beth-shemesh, Who's able to stand before Yahweh, [this holy God]? and [unto whom] shall he go up from us?

And they sent messengers unto the inhabitants of Kiria-th-jearim, saying,—

The Philistines have returned the ark of Yahweh, come down, fetch it up unto you.

1 Then came the men of Kiria-th-jearim and seven hundred, and fetched up the ark of Yahweh, and brought it into the house of Abinadab, in the hill,—and <Eleazar his son> hallowed they, to guard the ark of Yahweh.

2 And so it was, that <from the day the ark came to dwell in Kiria-th-jearim> the days multiplied, and became twenty years,—and all the house of Israel went mourning after* Yahweh.

§ 3. Samuel and Israel.

1 And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying,

<If with all your heart ye are returning unto Yahweh> then put away the gods of the foreigner out of your midst, and the Ashtoreths,—and firmly set your heart towards Yahweh, and serve him [alone].

And Samuel said,

Gather all Israel unto Mizpah,—that I may pray for you, unto Yahweh.

And Samuel and all Israel went mourning after* Mizpah,—that I may pray for you, unto Yahweh.

So they gathered themselves unto Mizpah, and drew water, and poured it out before Yahweh, and fasted on that day, and said [there],

We have sinned against Yahweh.

And Samuel judged the sons of Israel in Mizpah.

And <when the Philistines heard that the sons of Israel had gathered themselves together unto Mizpah> the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel, — and <when the sons of Israel heard it> they shrank with fear, from the face of the Philistines. And the sons of Israel said unto Samuel,

Do not turn in silence from us, from making outcry unto Yahweh our God,— that he would save us out of the hand of the Philistines.

So Samuel took one sucking lamb, and offered it up, as an ascending-sacrifice unto Yahweh, — and Samuel made outcry unto Yahweh for Israel, and Yahweh answered him. 10 And <when Samuel was offering up the ascending-sacrifice> [the Philistines] drew near to fight against Israel,— but Yahweh thundered with a great noise throughout that day, over the Philistines, and confused them, and they were smitten before Israel. 11 And the men of Israel went forth out of Mizpah, and pursued the Philistines,— and smote them as far as under Beth-car. 12 And Samuel took a certain stone, and set it between Mizpah and Yeshanah,* and called the name thereof Eben-ezer,— and said, Hitherto hath Yahweh helped us. So the Philistines were subdued, and no more came within the boundary of Israel,— and the hand of Yahweh was against the Philistines, all the days of Samuel. 14 And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron even as far as Gath; <even the boundaries thereof> did Israel rescue out of the hand of the Philistines,—thus came there to be peace' between Israel and the Amorites. 15 And Samuel judged Israel, all the days of his life. 16 And he used to take his journey, from year to year, and go round to Bethel, and Gilgal, and Mizpah,— and used to judge Israel, at all these places. 17 And [his returning was to Ramah, for <there> was his house, and <there> judged he Israel,—so he built there' an altar unto Yahweh.

§ 4. Samuel and Saul.

1 And it came to pass <when Samuel was old> that he appointed his sons judges to Israel; 2 and the name of his firstborn son was |Joel|, and the name of his second |Abijah|,—they were judges in Be'er-sheba. 3 Howbeit his sons walked not in his ways,* but stooped to extortion,—and took bribes, and perverted judgment. 4 So then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together,— and came unto Samuel, to Ramah; 5 and said unto him—

Lo! <thou art old, and thy sons> walk not in thy ways:

<Now> appoint for us a king to judge us, like all the nations.

6 But the thing was displeasing in the eyes of Samuel, when they said,

Give unto us a king to judge us.

So Samuel prayed unto Yahweh. 7 And Yahweh said unto Samuel,

Hearken unto the voice of the people, in all that they shall say unto thee,—for <not thee> have they rejected, but <me> have they rejected, from being king over them.

8 <According to all the doings which they have done, from the day I brought them up out of Egypt, even until this day, in that they have forsaken me, and served other gods> are they' doing even unto thee.

9 <Now> therefore, hearken to their voice,— save that thou protest against them, and tell them the manner of the king who will reign over them.

So then Samuel spake all the words of Yahweh' unto the people, who were asking of him, a king. 11 And he said,

HThis will be the manner of the king' who will reign over you,—

<Your sons> will he take and appoint for himself, as his charioteers and as his horse* men, and they shall run before his chariots; and he will appoint for himself, princes of thousands, and princes of fifties,—and to plough his fields, and to reap his harvest, and to make his weapons of war, and the instruments of his chariots;

13 And <your daughters> will he take,— as perfumers and as cooks, and as bakers;

14 And <your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, the best of them> will he take, and give to his servants;

15 And <your seed, and your vineyards> will he tithe, and give to his courtiers and to his servants;

16 And <your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and your oxen,*> eventhe goodliest, and your asses> will he take,— and put them to his work;

17 <Your flocks> will he tithe,—

And <ye yourselves> shall become his servants.

18 Then will ye make outcry, in that day, because of your king' whom ye have chosen for yourselves,—and Yahweh will not answer you, in that day.

19 But the people refused to hearken' unto the voice of Samuel,—and they said—

Nay! but  shall be over us: 20 so shall [even we] become like all the nations,
1 Now there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was Kish, son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Becorath, son of Aphiah, son of a Benjamite. And Yahweh had unveiled the ear of Samuel, a choice young man and of noble appearance, and there was not a man of the sons of Israel more noble than he, — from his shoulders and upwards — was he taller than any of the people. Now there had gone astray asses belonging to Kish, Saul’s father, — so Kish said unto Saul his son—

I pray thee, take with thee one of the young men, and arise — go, seek the asses.

And he passed through the hill country of Ephraim, and passed through the land of Shalishah, but they found them not, — then passed he through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not. And they had come into the land of Zuph when Saul said to his young man who was with him.

Come! and let us return; lest my father leave off caring for the asses, and take thought for us.

And he said to him:

Lo! I pray thee, a man of God! [liveth] in this city, and the man is held in honour, all that he saith is surely cometh to pass. Now let us go thither; peradventure he shall tell us our way, whereon we should go.

Then said Saul to his young man:

Behold, if we go, what shall we bring the man, for the bread hath failed from our sacks, and present there is none to bring to the man of God, — what is there with us?

And the young man again answered Saul, and said—

Lo! there is found in my hand, the fourth part of a shekel of silver, — which thou canst give to the man of God, and he will tell us our way.

Beforetime in Israel thus said a man when he went to enquire of God,

Come and let us go as far as the seer,

For the prophet of to-day used to be called beforetime the seer.

And Saul said unto his young man, (Good) is thy word, come! let us go! So they went unto the city, where the man of God was.

They were going up to the ascent of the city when they found young women, coming out to draw water, — so they said unto these, Is there the seer in this place?

And the young women answered them and said:

He is, lo! before you now, even as ye shall surely find him, ere yet he shall go up to the high place to eat, for the people will not eat until he hath come, for he will bless the sacrifice. After that will they eat who have been bidden.

Now therefore, go up, for about this very time shall ye surely find him.

So they went up into the city. As they were entering into the midst of the city, lo! Samuel coming out over against them, to ascend the high place. Now Yahweh had unveiled the ear of Samuel, one day before Saul came, saying:

Before this time to-morrow will I send unto thee, a man out of the land of Benjamin, whom thou shalt anoint, to be leader over my people Israel, and he shall save my people, out of the hand of the Philistines, — for I have looked upon the oppression, because their outcry hath come in unto me.

And when beheld Saul, Yahweh answered him, Lo! the man of whom I said unto thee, [is] in this place.

And Saul drew near unto Samuel, in the midst of the gate, — and said—

I pray thee, do tell me, where is the house of the seer?

And Samuel answered Saul, and said—

I am the seer! Go up before me, to the high place, so shall ye eat with me, to-day, — and I will let thee go in the morning, and all that is in thy heart shall I tell thee.

And as for the asses that went astray from thee three days ago, do not regard them, for they are found, — but to whom belongeth the prophecy, — and our king shall judge us, and go forth before us, and fight our battles.

And Samuel heard all the words of the people, — and spake them in the ears of Yahweh.

For the prophet of to-day used to be called beforetime the seer.
Then took Samuel a flask of oil, and poured oil upon his head, and kissed him, and said—

Lo! the part reserved! Set it before thee [and eat, for unto the time appointed] hath it been kept for thee, since the time that I said, <The people> have I bidden.

So Saul did eat with Samuel, on that day. And <when they had come down from the high place into the city> he spread a couch for Saul upon the house-top, and he lay down. And it came to pass <at the uprisings of the dawn> that Samuel called unto Saul on the house-top, saying, Arise! that I may send thee away. So Saul arose, and they two, he and Samuel, went forth abroad. As they were going down the end of the city> "Samuel" said unto Saul—

Bid the young man, that he pass on before us, (and he passed on) but [thou] stand still where thou art, that I may let thee hear the word of God.

Then took Samuel a flask of oil, and poured oil upon his head, and kissed him, and said—

Am not I [a man of Benjamin] of the smallest of the tribes of Israel, and [is not] my family [the poorest of all the families of the tribe* of Benjamin]?

Wherefore, then, hast thou spoken unto me of such a thing as this?

And Samuel took Saul and his young man, and brought them into the guest-chamber,—and gave them a place at the head of them who were bidden, [they' being about thirty persons]. And Samuel said to the cook, Set on the portion* that I gave thee,—of which I said unto thee, Put it by thee.

And the cook took up the shoulder, and that which was upon it, and placed it before Saul,

So he did eat with Saul, and on that day.

And <when they had come down from the high place into the city> he spread a couch for Saul upon the house-top, and he lay down. And it came to pass <at the uprisings of the dawn> that Samuel called unto Saul on the house-top, saying, Arise! that I may send thee away. So Saul arose, and they two, he and Samuel, went forth abroad.

As they were going down the end of the city> "Samuel" said unto Saul—

Bid the young man, that he pass on before us, (and he passed on) but [thou] stand still where thou art, that I may let thee hear the word of God.

Then answered Saul, and said—

When thou departest, to-day, from me> I come unto thee, to offer ascending-offerings, to sacrifice peace-offerings,—<seven days> shalt thou tarry, until I come unto thee, then will I let thee know what thou shalt do.

And so it was, that <when he turned away to depart from Samuel> God gave him another heart,—and all these signs came to pass that day.

And <when they came thither to the hill> lo! a band of prophets coming to meet him,—then came suddenly upon him, the Spirit of God, and he was moved to prophesy in their midst. And it came to pass, that [all who knew him aforetime] looked, and lo! <with the prophets> he did prophesy. So the people said, one to another—

What, now, hath befallen the son of Kish? Is [even Saul] among the prophets?

Then responded one of that place, and said, But who' is [their father]? [For this cause] it became a proverb, Is [even Saul] among the prophets?

And <when he had made an end of prophecy> he came to the high place. Then said Saul's uncle unto him, and unto his young man—

Whither have ye been?

And he said, To seek the asses, and <when they were nowhere> [to be seen] we came unto Samuel.

And Saul's uncle said,—

Do tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said to you.

Then shall thou pass on quickly from thence onwards, and come as far as the oak of Tabor, and there shall find thee there, three men going up unto God, at Bethel,—|one| carrying three kids, and |another| carrying three cakes of bread, and |another| carrying a skin of wine; then will they ask thee, of thy welfare,—and give thee two cakes of bread, which thou shalt receive at their hand.

After that> shalt thou come unto the hill of God, where is the garrison* of the Philistines,—and it shall be <as thou comest in thither into the city> thou shalt light upon a band of prophets, coming down from the high place, and <before them> a harp, and a timbrel, and a flute, and a lyre, [they having been moved to prophesy]. Then will come suddenly upon thee, the Spirit of Yahweh, and thou shalt be moved to prophecy with them,—and shalt be changed' into another man.

And it shall be <when these signs shall come unto thee> then act thou for thyself, as thou shalt find occasion, for ||God|| is with thee.

And thou shalt go down before me' to Gilgal, and lo! I' am coming down unto thee, to offer up ascending-offerings, to sacrifice peace-offerings,—<seven days> shalt thou tarry, until I come unto thee, then will I let thee know what thou shalt do.

It befallen the son of Kish? Is [even Saul] among the prophets?

Then responded one of that place, and said, But who' is [their father]?

[For this cause] it became a proverb, Is [even Saul] among the prophets?

And <when he had made an end of prophecy> he came to the high place. Then said Saul's uncle unto him, and unto his young man—

Whither have ye been?

And he said, To seek the asses, and <when they were nowhere> [to be seen] we came unto Samuel.

And Saul's uncle said,—

Do tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said to you.
§ 5. Saul defeats Nahash the Ammonite.

1 Then came up Nahash the Ammonite, and camped against Jabesh-gilead, and all the men of Jabesh said unto Nahash, Solomon with us a covenant, that we may serve thee.

2 And Nahash the Ammonite said unto them, ||Now|| will I solemnise [a covenant] * with you by digging out for you, every one's right eye, and laying it for a reproach, upon all Israel.

3 And the elders of Jabesh said unto him— Give us a respite of seven days, that we may send messengers' throughout all the bounds of Israel, and then, <if there is none to save us> we will come out unto thee.

4 And <when the messengers came to Gibeath of Saul> and spake the words in the ears of the people> all the people lifted up their voice, and wept. But lo! Saul came in, following the oxen, out of the field, and Saul said,

What aileth the people, that they should weep?

Then were recounted to him the words' of the men of Jabesh. And the Spirit of God came suddenly upon Saul, when he heard these words,—and his anger raged furiously. So he took a yoke of oxen, and cut them in pieces, and sent throughout all the bounds of Israel* by the hand of messengers,—saying, <Whosoever cometh not forth after Saul, and after Samuel> ||is|| shall it be done unto his oxen.

Then fell the dread of Yahweh, upon the people, and they came forth, as one man. And <when he numbered them in Bezek> the sons of Israel were found to be—three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand. So they said unto the messengers who had come— ||Thyself|| shall ye surely say to the men of Jabesh-gilead,

||To-morrow|| shall ye have deliverance, about the time the sun is hot.

And <when the messengers came and told the men of Jabesh> they rejoiced. So the men of Jabesh said,

||To-morrow|| will we come out unto you,— Then shall ye do with us, according to all that is good in your eyes.

11 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Saul set the people in three companies, and they entered into the midst of the host, during the morning watch, and smote Ammon* until the day was hot. And it came to pass that ||they who were left|| were scattered, so that there were not left among them two together.

12 Then said the people unto Samuel,
Who is he that was saying, Shall Saul reign over us? Give up the men, that we may put them to death.

But Saul said,
There shall not be put to death a man this day,—for to-day hath Yahweh wrought deliverance in Israel.

Then said Samuel unto the people,
Come and let us go to Gilgal,—and let us there renew the kingdom.

So all the people went to Gilgal, and made Saul king there,before Yahweh. in Gilgal, and offered there sacrifices of peace-offerings before Yahweh,—and Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced there exceedingly.

§ 6. Samuel expostulates with Israel.

12 And Samuel said unto all Israel,
Lo! I have hearkened unto your voice, in all that ye said to me,—and have set over you a king.

But I am old and grey-headed, And <my sons> lo! they are with you,— But I(|have gone to and fro before you from my youth until this day.

Behold me! testify b against me, before Yahweh. and before his Anointed— Whose Joxllhave I taken? Or whoselass|have I taken? Or whom have I oppressed? Whom c have I crushed? Or at whose <hands> have I taken a bribe, to cover up mine eyes therewith? And I will restore it unto you.

And they said,
Thou hast not oppressed us, Neither hast thou crushed us,— Neither hast thou taken |at the hand of any man|, |any thing|.

And he said unto them— ||Witness| is Yahweh against you. And ||witness|| is his Anointed, this day, That ye have not found in my hand |any thing|!!

And they d said:
Witness!

And Samuel said unto the people:
||Witness| is Yahweh against you. *who wrought with Moses and with Aaron, And who brought up your fathers, out of the land of Egypt.||

12 ||Now, therefore, lo! the king going to and fro before you. But ||am old and grey-headed, And <my sons> lo! they are with you,— But ||have gone to and fro before you from my youth until this day.

Behold me! testifyb against me, before Yahweh, and before his Anointed— Whose Joxllhave I taken? Or whose lass|have I taken? Or whom have I oppressed? Whom c have I crushed? Or at whose <hands> have I taken a bribe, to cover up mine eyes therewith? And I will restore it unto you.

4 And they said,
Thou hast not oppressed us, Neither hast thou crushed us,— Neither hast thou taken |at the hand of any man|, |any thing|!!

4 And he said unto them— ||Witness| is Yahweh against you. And ||witness|| is his Anointed, this day, That ye have not found in my hand |any thing|!!

And they d said:
Witness!

And Samuel said unto the people:
||Witness| is Yahweh,* who wrought with Moses and with Aaron, And who brought up your fathers, out of the land of Egypt.||

7 ||Now, therefore, take your stand and let me plead with you, before Yahweh,—and tell you all the righteous acts of Yahweh, which he wrought with you, and with your fathers:

8 How that <when Jacob had come into Egypt,—and your fathers had made outcry unto Yahweh> then Yahweh sent Moses and Aaron, and they brought forth your fathers' out of Egypt, and he caused them to dwell in this place;

9 And <when they forgot Yahweh their God> he sold them into the hand of Sisera, prince of the host of Jabin, king of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab, and they fought against them;

10 But <when they made outcry unto Yahweh and said— We have sinned, in that we have forsaken Yahweh, and have served the Baals and the Ashtoreths,—||now||, therefore, deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, that we may serve thee> then Yahweh sent Jerubbaal and Bedan, and Jephthah, and Samuel,—and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies, on every side, and ye dwelt in safety.

12 But <when ye saw that ||Nahash king of the sons of Ammon|| came upon you> then said ye unto me,
Nay! but ||kingll shall reign over us, when ||Yahweh your God|| was your king!

13 But <when ye hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh> then will the hand of Yahweh continue to be against you. and against your fathers:4

15 Even now ||stand still and see this great thing,— which Yahweh is about to do before your eyes: 17 Is it not wheat harvest, to-day? I will cry unto Yahweh, that he may give forth thunders and rain,—know ye then and see, that ||your wrong|| is great'which ye have done in the sight of Yahweh, in asking for yourselves, a king.

18 So Samuel cried unto Yahweh, and Yahweh gave forth thunders and rain, on that day,— and all the people greatly feared Yahweh, and Samuel.

19 And all the people said unto Samuel—
Pray for thy servants, unto Yahweh thy God, and let it not be that we die,—For we have added | to all our sins | a wrong], in asking for ourselves a king.

Then said Samuel unto the people—Do not fear, [ye] have done all this wrong,—nevertheless, do not turn aside from following Yahweh, but serve Yahweh, with all your heart; and turn not aside after vanities, that can neither profit nor deliver, because [they are].

For Yahweh will not give up his people, because of his great name,—for Yahweh was minded to make you his own people.

<As for me also> far be it from me, that I should sin against Yahweh, by ceasing to pray for you,—but I will direct you, in the good and right way.

[Only] revere Yahweh, and serve him in truth, with all your heart,—for see, what great things he hath done with you.

But <if ye will> do wrong! both ye and your king shall be swept away.

§ 7. Saul quails before the Philistines: Jonathan and Saul drive them out of the Land; and Saul's Kingdom is for a time established.

1 Saul was [thirty] years old when he began to reign; and <when he had reigned two years over Israel> Saul chose him three thousand men out of Israel, of whom there were with Saul, two thousand in Michmash and in the hill-country of Bethel, and [a thousand] were with Jonathan, in Gibeah of Benjamin,—but the rest of the people let go, every man to his own home.

3 Then did Jonathan smite the garrison of Philistines that was in Geba, and the Philistines heard of it,—and Saul had gathered himself to fight with them in a strait, for the people had been harassed,—and the people had hidden themselves in caves, and in thickets, and among cliffs, and in holes, and in pits. And [Hebrews had passed over the Jordan, to the land of Gad, and Gilead,—but Saul] was yet in Gilgal, and all the people trembled after him. And he waited seven days, by the set time that Samuel had named, but Samuel came not to Gilgal,—and the people were scattered from him.

Then said Saul, Bring near unto me, the ascending-sacrifice and the peace-offerings. And he offered up the ascending-sacrifice.

10 And it came to pass <as he had made an end of offering up the ascending-sacrifice> lo! [Samuel] had come,—and Saul went out to meet him, that he might bless him. Then said Samuel—What hast thou done? And Saul said—<Because I saw that the people had been scattered from me, and [thou] hadst not come within the appointed days, and the Philistines had gathered themselves together to Michmash> therefore I said—[Now] will the Philistines come down against me, at Gilgal, but <the face of Yahweh> have I not appossed:

So I forced myself, and offered up the ascending-sacrifice.

12 And Samuel said unto Saul—Thou hast shewn thyself foolish,—thou hast not kept the commandment of Yahweh thy God, which he commanded thee, for [now] would Yahweh have established thy kingdom unto Israel until times age-abiding;

14 Whereas [now] shall thy kingdom not be established,—Yahweh hath sought out for himself a man after his own heart, and Yahweh hath commanded him to be leader over his people, because thou hast not kept that which Yahweh' commanded thee.

13 And Samuel arose, and ascended from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people who were found with him, about six hundred men. 16 Now [Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people that were found with him] were abiding in Geba of Benjamin,—but [the Philistines] had encamped in Michmash. 17 And the spoilers came forth out of the camp of the Philistines, in three companies,—the first company turned unto the way of Ophrah, unto the land of Shual; and the second company turned unto the way of Beth-boron,—and the third company turned unto the way of the boundary that overlooketh the valley of Zeboim, towards the wilderness.

8 Some cod. (w. 3 ear. pr. edsa. and Vul.) have: "and hast"; and some (w. Sep. and Syr.) have: "because thou hast"—

G.n.

4 Sep. has here: "and went his way,—but the rest of the people] ascended after Saul to meet the army and came in from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin"—G.n., G. Intro. 177. Prob. the same as "Gebesh."
14 'And it came about, on a certain day, that Saul was tarrying in the uttermost part of Gibeah, under the pomegranate tree that is in Migron, and the people that were with him were about six hundred men; and Ahijah, son of Ahitub, brother of Ichabod, son of Phinehas, son of Eli, was priest of Yahweh in Shiloh, wearing an ephod; and the people knew not that Jonathan had departed.

And one side, and a crag of rock on the other side; and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh. The one crag was a pillar on the north, over against Michmash, and the other on the south, over against Geba.

So Jonathan said unto the young man bearing his armour:

Come! and let us pass over unto the garrison of the Philistines, that is on the other side, yonder! but to his father he told it not.

And between the passes by which Jonathan sought to cross over unto the garrison of the Philistines there was a crag of rock on the one side, and a crag of rock on the other side; and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh. The one crag was a pillar on the north, over against Michmash, and the other on the south, over against Geba.

2 And Jonathan said unto the young man bearing his armour:

Come! and let us cross over unto the garrison of these uncircumcised, peradventure Yahweh may work by us, for there is no restraint with Yahweh, to save by many, or by few.

And his armour-bearer said to him, Do all that is in thy heart, decide for thyself (lo! I am with thee!), according to thine own heart.

Then said Jonathan, If they say unto us, Keep quiet, until we get to you, then will we stand still where we are, and will not go up unto them; but if they say, Come up unto us, then will we go up; for Yahweh hath delivered them into our hand.

This then, is our sign. So they two discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines, and the Philistines said—

Lo! the Hebrews are coming forth out of the holes, wherein they had hidden themselves.

And the men of the garrison responded to Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and said—

Come up unto us, and we will let you know a thing.

Then said Jonathan unto his armour-bearer—

Come up after me, for Yahweh hath delivered them into the hand of Israel.

So Jonathan went up on his hands and on his feet, and his armour-bearer was slaying after him. And the first smiting wherewith Jonathan and his armour-bearer smote was about twenty men, within, as it were, half a furrow’s length of a yoke of land. And there came to be a trembling in the camp, in the field, and among all the people, and the outposts and the spoilers they told it not, nor was the thing increased.

Then said Saul unto the people who were with him:

Number, I pray you, and see who hath departed from us. So they numbered; and lo! Jonathan and his armour-bearer were missing.

Then said Saul unto Ahijah, Bring near the ark of God; for the ark of God was, on that day, in the midst of the sons of Israel. And it came to pass, as soon as Saul had spoken unto the priest, that the tumultuous noise that was in the camp of the Philistines went on and on increasing. Then said Saul unto the priest—

Withdraw thy hand. And Saul and all the people that were with him gathered themselves together, and came as far as the host, and lo! the sword of every man was against his fellow, an exceeding great confusion. And the Hebrews who had aforetime belonged to the Philistines, who had come up with them in the host > (even they turned round so as to be with Israel) who were with Saul and Jonathan. And all the men of Israel who had hidden themselves throughout the hill country of Ephraim heard that the Philistines had fled, and they also followed hard after them in the battle.

13 Some cod. (w. 3 car. pr. edsa. and Sep.) have: "hands"—G.n.
So the people came into the forest, and lo! there were streams of honey—butevery man reached the hand to his mouth, because the people revered the oath. But Jonathan heard not his father putting the people on oath, so he reached forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and dipped it in the honey-copse, —and brought back his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were brightened. Then responded one from among the people, and said—

With an oath I did thy father charge the people, saying—

Cursed be the man that eateth food until to-day!

And so the people were faint. Then said Jonathan:

My father hath afflicted the land,—See, I pray you, how my own eyes have been brightened, because I tasted a little of this honey. How much more if haply the people had eaten freely to-day of the spoil of their enemies, which they found? for now, would not the uniting of the Philistines have been mighty?

Howbeit they smote the Philistines on that day from Michmash to Aijalon,—but the people became exceeding faint. And the people darted greedily upon the spoil, and took sheep, and oxen, and calves, and fell them to the ground,—and the people did eat with the blood. And they told Saul, saying, Lo! the people are sinning against Yahweh, by eating with the blood.

And he said—

Ye have dealt treacherously, roll unto me here, a great stone. And Saul said—

Disperse yourselves among the people, and say unto them—

Bring near unto me every man his ox, and every man his lamb, and slay them here, and then eat, so shall ye not sin against Yahweh, by eating with the blood.

And all the people brought near—every man that which was in his hand, that night, and they slew them there. And Saul built an altar unto Yahweh,—the same was the first altar that he built unto Yahweh.

Then said Saul—

Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and make of them a prey until the morning light, and let us not leave of them a man. And they said,

All that is good in thine eyes do! Then said the priest,

Let us draw near hither unto God.

So Saul asked of God, shall I go down after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel? But he answered him not, that day. Then said Saul, Come near hither, all ye chief of the people,—and get to know and see, wherein hath been this sin, to-day. For by the life of Yahweh, who saveth Israel, thou must answer me this day.

And Saul said unto Jonathan,

O God of Israel, now set forth the truth. Then were Jonathan and Saul taken, and the people escaped. And Saul said, Cast lots between me and Jonathan my son. Then was Jonathan taken.

And Saul said unto Jonathan,

Come tell me, what thou hast done. So Jonathan told him, and said,

I just tasted a little of this honey, which was in my hand. And he answered him not. To-morrow shall thou be neither the second, nor the third in Israel.

But the people said unto Saul—

Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? For be it! By the life of Yahweh! there shall not fall a hair of his head to the ground, for with God hath he wrought this day.

So the people delivered Jonathan, that he died not. Then Saul went up from following the Philistines, and the Philistines departed unto their own places.
And [Saul] took possession of the kingdom over Israel,—and made war round about against all his enemies—against Moab, and against the sons of Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of Zobah, and against the Philistines, and <whosoever he turned against> he was victorious. 10 Then made he ready a force, and smote the Amalekites,—and delivered Israel out of the hand of such as plundered them.

And the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishvi, and Malchishua,—and [the names of his two daughters] were, [the name of the first-born] Merab, and [the name of the younger] Michal,—59 and [the name of Saul's wife] was Ahinoam, daughter of Ahimaaz,—and the name of the prince of his host, Abner, son of Ner, Saul's uncle. 60 And [Kish] was Saul's father, and [Ner, Abner's father] was son of Abiel.

And they went against the Philistines' all the days of Saul,—and <whosoever Saul saw any mighty man, or any son of valour> he drew him unto himself.

8. Saul, commissioned to destroy Amalek, fails, and his Reign is doomed.

15 'And Samuel said unto Saul,

It was [me] Yahweh sent to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Israel,—[now] therefore hearken thou to the voice of Yahweh's words.

2 Thus saith Yahweh of hosts,

I have well considered what Amalek did unto Israel,—how he lay in wait for him in the way, when he came up out of Egypt.

3 Now go and smite Amalek, and devote ye to destruction all that he hath, and spare him not,—but thou shalt slay both man and woman, both child and suckling, both ox and sheep, both camel and ass.

So then Saul called together the people, and numbered them in Telaim, 2 two hundred thousand footmen,—and ten thousand men of Judah. 3 And Saul came as far as the city of Amalek,—and stirred up strife in the ravine. 6 Then said Saul unto the Kenites—

Go, depart, get you down out of the midst of the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them, yet [ye] dealt in lovingkindness, with all the sons of Israel, when they came up out of Egypt.

So the Kenites departed out of the midst of the Amalekites. 7 And Saul smote Amalek,—from Havilah, till thou enterest Shur, which is over against Egypt. 8 And he took Agag, king of Amalek, [alive],—but <all the people> devoted he to destruction at the edge of the sword.

But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheep and the oxen and the lambs, also the fatlings, and all that was good, and would not devote them to destruction,—<all the cattle that was contemptible and diseased> [that] devoted they to destruction. 10 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Samuel, saying—

I am grieved that I made Saul' to be king, for he hath turned back from following me, and <my words> hath he not established. 11 And it was vexing* to Samuel, so that he made outcry unto Yahweh, all the night. 12 And Samuel rose early to meet Saul, in the morning, and it was told Samuel, saying—

<Saul having come to Carmel, and lo! having set him up a sign> hath gone round, and passed over, and descended to Gilgal.

13 And Samuel came unto Saul,—and Saul said unto him—

[Blessed] be thou by Yahweh: I have established the word of Yahweh.

14 And Samuel said,

What then is this bleating of sheep, in mine ears,—and the lowing of oxen, which I can hear?

15 Then said Saul—

<From the Amalekites> have they brought them in; in that the people spared the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto Yahweh thy God,—<the rest> have we devoted to destruction.

16 Then said Samuel unto Saul,

Stay, and let me tell thee, that which Yahweh hath spoken unto me this night. 17 And he 3 said to him—

Speak.

18 And Samuel said,

Was it not <when little thou wast in thine own eyes> that thou wast made [head of the tribes of Israel],—and that Yahweh anointed thee to be king' over Israel?

19 So then Yahweh sent thee on a journey,—and said—

Go, and devastate to destruction, the sinners—the Amalekites, and make war against them, until they have* consumed them.

20 Wherefore, then, didst thou not hearken unto the voice of Yahweh,—but didst rush upon the spoil, and do that which was wrong in the sight of Yahweh?

21 And Saul said unto Samuel—

As indeed I have hearkened unto the voice of Yahweh, and have been on the journey on which Yahweh sent me,—and have brought in Agag, king of Amalek, and <the Amalekites> have I devoted to destruction.

22 And the people took, of the spoil, sheep and oxen.

The chief of the things so devoted,—

To sacrifice unto Yahweh thy God, in Gilgal.
22 Then said Samuel—
Doth that which is pleasing unto Yahweh consist in ascending-offerings and sacrifices, So much as in hearkening unto the voice of Yahweh?
Lo! to hearken is better than sacrifice;
And to give heed than the fat of rams;
For <as the sin of divination> is rebellion,
And <as a transgression with household gods> is stubbornness,—
Because thou hast rejected the word of Yahweh.
Therefore hath he rejected thee from being king.
23 For <as the sin of divination> is rebelliousness,—
And <as a transgression with household gods> is stubbornness,—
Because thou hast rejected the word of Yahweh, Therefore hath he rejected thee from being king.
24 Then said Saul unto Samuel—
I have sinned; for I have transgressed the bidding of Yahweh, and thy words,— for I feared the people, and hearkened unto their voice.
25 <As women have been made childless by thy sword> is thine own mother.
And Samuel cut Agag asunder before Yahweh, in Gilgal.
26 Then Samuel departed unto Ramah,— but Saul went up unto his own house, at Gibeah of Saul. And Samuel did no more see Saul until the day of his death, for Samuel pined for Saul,—but <as Yahweh> was grieved that he had made Saul king over Israel.a

1 And Yahweh said unto Samuel—
How long art thou going to pine for Saul, seeing that I have rejected him from being king over Israel?
Fill thy horn with oil, and come! let me send thee unto Jesse the Bethlehemite, for I have provided me among his sons ||a king||.
2 And Samuel said,
How can I go! <As soon as Saul heareth> he will slay me.
Then said Yahweh,
<A heifer> take thou with thee, and say, <To sacrifice unto Yahweh> am I come.
3 Then shalt thou bid Jesse to the sacrifice,— when I will let thee know what thou must do, so shalt thou anoint for me him whom I shall name unto thee.
4 And Samuel did that which Yahweh had spoken, and went to Bethlehem. And the elders of the city came trembling to meet him, and one said—
Peaceably comest thou?
5 And he said—
Peaceably: <to sacrifice unto Yahweh> am I come. Hallow yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice.
And he hallowed Jesse and his sons, and bade them to the sacrifice. And it came to pass <when they entered> that he looked upon Eliab,—and said to himself, Surely <before Yahweh> is his Anointed.
6 Then Jesse called Abinadab, and made him pass before Samuel,— and Samuel said,
Nor of this one hath Yahweh made choice.
7 Then Jesse made Shammah pass by,— and he said,—
Neither of this one> hath Yahweh made choice.
8 Then Jesse made seven of his sons pass before Samuel,— and Samuel said unto Jesse, Yahweh hath not made choice of these.
9 Then Jesse called Abinadab, and made him pass before Samuel,— and he said,
<Neither of this one> hath Yahweh made choice.
10 Then Jesse made Shammah pass by,— and he said—
<Nor of this one> hath Yahweh made choice.
11 So Jesse made seven of his sons pass before Samuel,— and Samuel said unto Jesse, Yahweh hath not made choice of these.

This gives a touching glimpse of Samuel. He pined for Saul, yet, as Yahweh had definitely rejected the son of Kish, Samuel prudentiy kept at a distance. His loyalty to God was uppermost. a

1 Samuel XVI. 11—23; XVII. 1—18.

11 Then said Samuel unto Jesse—
 Are these all the young men? And he said—
 There yet remaineth [the youngest], but lo! he is tending the sheep.
 Then said Samuel unto Jesse—
 Do [send] and summon him, for we cannot sit round, until he cometh in hither.
 12 So he sent, and brought him in. Now [he] was ruddy, a stripling* with handsome eyes, and noble mien.
 Then said Yahweh—Rise—sanoint him for [this] is [he].
 13 And Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed [him] from that day forward. Then arose Samuel, and went his way unto Ramah.
 14 But [the spirit of Yahweh] departed from Saul, and he came in unto Saul,—and there terrified him a sad spirit, from the hand of Yahweh. And the Spirit of Yahweh came mightily upon David, and [he] said—Lo! I have seen—[the boy] of Jesse, the Bethlehemite, skilled in playing,* and a mighty man of valour, and a man of war, and of intelligence, and a handsome man, and [Yahweh] is with him.
 15 Then said the servants of Saul unto him,—Lo! we pray thee, look out for me a man that excel [the spirits of the young men] of Israel and of Judah, and who hath good understanding, and a skillful tongue, and is a man of war, and a skilful man to play with his hand, and thou shalt be joyful.
 16 And Saul said unto his servants,—I pray you, look out for me a man that excel [the spirits of the young men] of Israel and of Judah, and who hath good understanding, and a skillful tongue, and is a man of war, who is skilful to play with his hand, and thou shalt be joyful.
 17 And Saul said unto his servants,—I pray you, look out for me a man that excel [the spirits of the young men] of Israel and of Judah, and who hath good understanding, and a skillful tongue, and is a man of war, who is skilful to play with his hand, and thou shalt be joyful.
 18 Then responded one of the young men and said—Lo! I have seen—a son of Jesse, the Bethlehemite, skilled in playing,* and a mighty man of valour, and a man of war, and of intelligence, and a handsome man, and [Yahweh] is with him.
 19 So Saul sent messengers unto Jesse,—and said, [Send] unto me—David thy son, who is with the sheep.
 Then took Jesse an ass laden with bread, and a skin of wine, and one kid,—and sent by the hand of David his son, unto Saul. 20 And David came in unto Saul,—and stood before him,—and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer. 21 And Saul said unto Jesse—Rise—sanoint him. for [this] is [he].
 So Saul sent, and brought him in. Now [he] was ruddy, a stripling* with handsome eyes, and noble mien.
 Then said Yahweh—Rise—sanoint him for [this] is [he].
 22 And Saul sent messengers unto Jesse,—and said, [Send] unto me—David thy son, who is with the sheep.
 Then took Jesse an ass laden with bread, and a skin of wine, and one kid,—and sent by the hand of David his son, unto Saul. 20 And David came in unto Saul,—and stood before him,—and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer. 21 And Saul said unto Jesse—Rise—sanoint him. for [this] is [he].

17 ‘And the Philistines gathered together their hosts, unto battle, and they encamped against the Philistines. And so it used to be, when a superhuman spirit came unto Saul, then would David take the lyre, and play with his hand, and Saul would be refreshed, and be joyful, and [the sad spirit] would depart from him.

17 And Jesse said unto David his son, Take, I pray thee, unto thy brethren—this ephah of parched corn, and these ten loaves,—and run to the camp unto thy brethren; and so for thy brethren—give good heed.
to their welfare, <their pledge> also shalt thou receive.

19 Now [Saul], and they, and all the men of Israel were in the vale of Elah, ready to fight with the Philistines. 20 So then David rose up early in the morning, and entrusted the sheep to a keeper, and took up the provisions and went his way, as Jesse had commanded him, — and came into the circular rampart, as [the forces] was going forth into the ranks, and shouted for the fight. 21 So Israel and the Philistines set in array for battle, army against army. Then David entrusted the provisions that were upon him to the care of the keeper of the stores, and ran unto the ranks, — and came and asked for the welfare of his brethren. 22 Now <as he was speaking with them> lo! the champion coming up, [Goliath the Philistine] by name, of Gath, [coming up] out of the ranks of the Philistines, and he spake according to these words, — and David heard [them]. 23 Now [all the men of Israel] <when they saw the man> fled from before him, and feared exceedingly. 24 And the men of Israel said:— Have ye seen this man that is coming up? For <to reproach Israel> is he coming. So then shall it be, that <the man that shall smite him> [the same] will the king enrich with great riches, and <his own daughter> will give him, and <his father's house> will he make free in Israel. Then spake David unto the men that were standing by him, saying, What shall be done to the man that shall smite yonder Philistine, and so shall take away reproach from off Israel? For who is this uncircumcised Philistine that he hath reproached the ranks of a Living God? 26 And the people answered him, according to this word, saying,— So shall it be done to the man that shall smite him. 27 Now Eliab his eldest brother heard' when he spake unto the men, — then was kindled the anger of Eliab against David, and he said:— Wherefore is it that thou hast come down? and to whom' hast thou entrusted those few sheep in the wilderness? [II] know thy pride, and the foolishness of thy heart, for <to see the battle> hast thou come down.

28 And David said, What have I done <now>? Was there not a cause?<

29 Then turned he from him unto another, and said — according to this word, and the people returned him an answer, like the first. And the words which David spake were overheard, — and when they told them before Saul> he summoned him.

30 And David said unto Saul, Let not the heart of my lord <fail>, because of him,—thine servant> will go, and fight with this Philistine. 31 And Saul said unto David,— Thou art not able to go against this Philistine, to fight with him,— for  art [thou], but [he] a man of war [from his youth]. 32 Then said David unto Saul, Thy servant used to tend his <father's> sheep,— and there would come a lion, or a bear, and carry off a lamb out of the flock; 33 and I would go out after him, and smite him, and rescue it out of his mouth,— and <if he rose against me> I would catch him by his beard, and smite him, and slay him. 34 Thy servant could slay either a lion or a bear, — and [this uncircumcised Philistine] shall become one of them for he hath reproached the ranks of a Living God. 35 And David said, [II]Yahweh] <who hath rescued me out of the power of the lion, and out of the power of the bear> [he] will rescue us out of the hand of this Philistine. Then said Saul unto David,— Go! and [II]Yahweh will be with thee. 36 And Saul clad David with his own military coat, and set a helmet of bronze upon his head,— and clad him with a coat of mail. And David girded his sword above his military coat, — and [this uncircumcised Philistine] shall become as one of them for he hath reproached the ranks of a Living God. 37 Then said the Philistine unto David,— A dog am I, that thou art coming unto me with sticks? And the Philistine cursed David, by his god. 38 And the Philistine said unto David,— Come unto me, that I may give thy flesh to the birds of heaven, and to the beasts of the field. 39 So it ahd be [or as rendered by O.G.]: "he laboured vainly") [w. Sep.];—G.n. 40 Some cod. cited in the Mass.: "my"—G.n. 41 Sep. adds: "Shall I not go and smite him, and turn aside, to-day, reproach from Israel? Then said David unto the Philistine—

(Thou) art coming unto me! with sword, and with spear, and with javelin,—but I am coming unto thee' in the name of Yahweh of hosts, God of the ranks of Israel which thou hast reproached.

This day will Yahweh deliver thee into my hand, and I will smite thee, and take thy head from off thee, and will give thy dead body and the dead bodies of the host of Philistines, this day, unto the birds of heaven, and unto the wild beasts of the earth,—that all the earth may know that Israel hath a God; and that all this gathered host may know that not with sword and with spear doth Yahweh save, for unto Yahweh belongeth the battle, and he will deliver you into my hand.

And it came to pass when the Philistine arose, and came and drew near to meet David, that David hasted, and ran toward the ranks to meet the Philistine. And Saul feared because of David,—for unto Yahweh belongeth the battle, and he will deliver you into our hand.

And Saul took him, and brought him before Saul,—with the head of the Philistine in his hand. And Saul said unto him, Whose son art thou? O young man! And David said, Son of thy servant Jesse, the Bethlehemite.

§ 11. David and Jonathan—David in disfavour with Saul.

1 And it came to pass when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul that the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, so that Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

2 And Saul took him, that day,—and suffered him not to return unto the house of his father.

3 And Jonathan and David solemnised a covenant,—because he loved him as his own soul.

4 And Jonathan stripped himself of the robe which was upon him, and gave it to David,—and his equipments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.

5 And David went forth whithersoever Saul sent him; he behaved himself prudently, so Saul set him over the men of war,—and he became a favourite in the eyes of all the people, yes even in the eyes of the servants of Saul.

6 But so it was when they came in on the return of David from the smiting of the Philistine that the women went forth out of all the cities of Israel, singing and dancing, to meet Saul the king,—with timbrels, with rejoicing, and with instruments of three strings.

7 And the women that made merry responded to each other in song, and said,— [Saul] hath smitten [his thousands],

But [David] his [tens of thousands].

8 Then was Saul exceeding angry, and this saying was offensive in his eyes, and he said,—They have ascribed [to David] ten thousands, But [to me] have they ascribed thousands,—What [more] then, can he have but [the kingdom]?

9 And Saul was eyeing David from that day forward.

10 And when it came to pass on the morrow, that a superhuman spirit of sadness came suddenly upon Saul, and he was moved to raving in the midst of the house,—and David began playing with his hand, as he had done day by day— that a spear being in Saul's hand, Saul hurled the spear, and said to himself—

I will smite David, even to the wall!

But David moved round from before him twice.

11 And Saul feared because of David,—for Yahweh was with him, whereas [from Saul] he had departed. So Saul removed him from the captain of a thousand,—and he went out and came in before the people. And it came to pass that David, in all his ways, acted prudently,—and Yahweh was with him.

10 And <when Saul saw that he was acting very prudently> he was afraid of him. 11 But Israel and Judah were in love with David,—for he was going out and coming in before them. 11 So then Saul said unto David—

Lo! <my elder daughter Merab> <her?> will I give thee to wife, <only> approve thyself unto me as a son of valour and fight the battles of Yahweh.

[Saul] however, had said to himself—

Let not <my own hand> be upon him, but let the hand of the Philistines be upon him.

And David said unto Saul—

Who am I, or who are my kinsfolk, the family of my father, in Israel,—that I should become son-in-law to the king?

But it came to pass, <within the time for giving Merab daughter of Saul to David> that she was given to Adriel the Meholathite, to wife. 20 Then did Michal, Saul's daughter, love David,—and it was told Saul, and the thing was right in his eyes. 21 And Saul said to himself—

I will give her unto him, that she may prove to him a snare, and that the hand of the Philistines may be upon him.

So then Saul said unto David,

A second time mayest thou become my son-in-law to-day.

And Saul commanded his servants—

Speak ye unto David quietly,' saying,

Lo! the king delighteth in thee, and shall become son-in-law to the king.

And the servants of Saul spake <in the ears of David> these words. And David said—

Seemeth it a light thing <in your eyes> to become son-in-law to the king, seeing that I am a poor man and lightly esteemed?

So the servants of Saul told him, saying,—

According to these words spake David.

Then said Saul—

Thus shall ye say unto David—

The king hath no' delight in purchase-price, but rather in a hundred foreskins of Philistines, by avenging himself on the enemies of the king.

But Saul thought to let David fall by the hand of the Philistines. 29 So <when his servants told David these words> the thing was right in the eyes of David, to become son-in-law unto him,—and the days had not expired.

Wherefore David arose, and went <thee> and his men, and smote among the Philistines two hundred men, and David brought forth their foreskins, and gave them in full tale unto the king, that he might become son-in-law unto the king, and Saul gave him Michal his daughter, to wife.

And Saul saw and knew that Yahweh was with David,—and that all Israel loved him.

So then Saul went on to fear because of David, yet more,—and it came to pass that Saul was hostile to David, all the days. 30 And <when the princes of the Philistines came forth> so it was, that <as often as they came forth> David was more circumcised than any of the servants of Saul, so that his name was precious exceedingly.

Then spake Saul unto Jonathan his son, and unto all his servants, that they should put David to death; 1 but Jonathan, Saul's son, delighted in David exceedingly,—so Jonathan told David, saying,

Saul, my father, is seeking to put thee to death,—<now> therefore, take heed to thyself. I pray thee, in the morning, and abide thou in concealment, and hide thyself; and <I> will come out and stand beside my father, in the field where thou art, and <I> will speak of thee unto my father,—and <if I see aught> I will tell thee.

So then Jonathan spake of David things that were good, unto Saul his father,—and said unto him—

May the king not sin against his servant—against David; for he hath not sinned against thee, nay, indeed his doings have been good to theether exceedingly.

And <when he put his life in his hand>, and smote the Philistine, and Yahweh wrought a great victory for all Israel, thou sawest, and didst rejoice.

Wherefore, then, shouldst thou sin against innocent blood' by putting David to death without cause?

And Saul hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan,—and Saul spake, By the life of Yahweh he shall not be put to death!

And Jonathan called for David, and Jonathan told him all these things,—and Jonathan brought in David unto Saul, and so he was in his presence, as aforetime.

But <when the war again brake out>, and David went forth and fought with the Philistines, and smote them with a great smiting, and they fled before him, 9 then came there a sad spirit of Yahweh unto Saul, <he> being in his house, seated, with his spear in his hand,—while David played with his hand.

Saul sought to smite David with the spear, even to the wall, but he slipped away from before Saul, who smote the spear into the wall,—whereas David fled and escaped, that night.

And Saul sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to put him to death, in the morning! And Michal his wife told David, saying,

If thou do not deliver thyself to-night, to-morrow art thou to be put to death.
1 Sam. xix. 12—24; xx. 1—12.

So Michal let down David, through the window, and he departed and fled, and escaped. And Michal took the household god, and put it in the bed, and a fly-net of goat's-hair, put she at its head, and covered it with the clothes. And when Saul sent messengers to take David, she said—

He is sick.

So Saul sent messengers to see David, saying—

Lo! my father doeth nothing, great or small, without unveiling mine ear, wherefore then, should my father hide from me this thing?

There is nothing in this.

But David spake yet further, and said—

Thy father doth know that I have found favour in thine eyes, therefore saith he—

Do not let Jonathan know this, lest he grieve;

but, indeed, <by the life of Yahweh, and by the life of thine own soul> surely there is but as it were a step betwixt me and death!

And Jonathan said unto David—

<Whatsoever thy soul shall desire> I will do for thee.

And David said unto Jonathan—

Lo! the new moon is to-morrow, and I must not sit with the king, to eat; let me go then, and hide myself in the field, until the evening.

If thy father enquire for me, then shalt thou say—

David did ask leave of me to run to Bethlehem, his own city, for a yearly sacrifice is to be held there for all the family.

<If thus he say>—

It is well;—thy servant shall have peace, but if it anger him, know that harm hath been determined by him.

Thus shalt thou do a lovingkindness for thy servant, for into a covenant of Yahweh hast thou brought thy servant, with thee;

But if there is in me transgression, put me to death thyself, for unto thy father wherefore shouldst thou bring me in?

And Jonathan said—

Far be it from thee! but if I get to know that harm is determined by my father, to bring it upon thee, is not that the thing that I will tell thee?

Then said David unto Jonathan,

Who shall tell me,—if thy father answer thee aught that is harsh?

And Jonathan said unto David—

<Witness be Yahweh God of Israel> that I will sound my father about this time to-morrow or the third day, and lo! if there be good towards David, will I not

What have I done? What is my transgression, and what is my sin, before my father, that he seeketh my life?

And he said unto him—

Far be it! thou shalt not die.

Lo! my father doeth nothing, great or small, without unveiling mine ear, wherefore then, should my father hide from me this thing?

So it shall be (w. Aram., Ben-Syr., Vul.):—G. O. [M.C.T.: "search."]

So it shall be (w. Aram., Ben-Syr.)—G. O. [M.C.T.: "must surely sit."]
And not only while I yet live shalt thou deal with me in the lovingkindness of Yahweh, that I die not: but thou shalt not cut off thy lovingkindness from my house, unto times age-abiding, no! not when Yahweh hath cut off the enemies of David, every one from off the face of the ground.

Thus Jonathan solemnised a covenant with the house of David [saying],—

So let Yahweh require it, at the hand of the enemies of David.

And again Jonathan sware unto David, "by his love to him,—for as he loved his own soul so loved he him." Then said Jonathan unto him,—"To-morrow is the new moon, and thou wilt be missed, for thy seat will be empty; and when thou last tarried three days: thou shalt come down quickly and enter the place, where thou didst hide thyself on the day of the deed, and shalt remain by the side of this mound. And as for me—three arrows to the side: will I shoot, as though I shot at a mark. And lo! I will send the boy [saying],—Go, find the arrow!—If I [say] to the boy—Lo! the arrows are on this side of thee—take them> then come, for there is peace for thee, and no' cause [for fear] by the life of Yahweh.

But <if thus> I say to the youth, Lo! the arrows are beyond thee> depart, for Yahweh hath sent thee away.

So David hid himself in the field—and <when the new moon had come> the king sat down to eat food; yes the king sat down on his seat, as at other times, by the seat against the wall, and <when Jonathan arose> Abner seated himself by the side of Saul,—but David's place was empty. Saul, however, spake nothing that day,—for he said to himself—It is an accident he is not clean, because he hath not been cleansed.

And it came to pass on the morrow, the second of the month that David's place was empty,—and Saul said unto Jonathan his son,

"Wherefore hast not the son of Jesse come in either yesterday or to-day to eat?" And Jonathan answered Saul, "What David asked leave of me, [to go] as far as Bethlehem; and said,—Let me go, I pray thee, for  have we in the city, and my brethren have commanded me, [now], therefore, <if I have found favour in thine eyes> let me slip away, I pray thee that I may see my brethren.

"For this cause" hath he not come in unto the table of the king.

Then was Saul's anger kindled against Jonathan, and he said unto him,

"Thou son of rebellious perversity! do I not know that thou art [confederate] with the son of Jesse to thine own confusion, and to the confusion of the shame of thy mother?"

For <as long as> the son of Jesse liveth on the ground, thou wilt not be established, [thou nor thy kingdom], [Now] therefore, send and fetch him unto me, for <doomed to death> is he!

And Jonathan responded to Saul his father,—and said unto him—Wherefore must he be put to death What hath he done?

And Saul hurled his spear at him, to smite him. So Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father, to put David to death. Jonathan therefore rose up from the table, in a glow of anger, and did eat no food on the second day of the month, for he was grieved for David, because his father had reviled him.

And it came to pass in the morning, that Jonathan went forth into the field, to the place appointed with David,—[a little lad] being with him. And he said to his lad—Run, find, I pray thee, the arrows which I am about to shoot.

The boy ran, but he shot the arrow beyond him. And <when the lad came as far as the place of the arrow> which Jonathan had shot> Jonathan cried after the lad, and said, Is not the arrow [beyond] thee? And Jonathan cried after the lad. Haste thee—be quick, do not stay! So Jonathan's lad picked up the arrows and brought [them] unto his master. But the lad knew [nothing] only Jonathan and David knew the matter. So Jonathan gave his weapons unto his lad, and said to him, Go, carry them into the city.

As soon as the lad was gone, David arose from beside the South, and fell on his face to the earth, and bowed himself down three times, and they kissed each other, and wept over each other, until David exceeded.

Then said Jonathan unto David: Go in peace, remembering that both we have sworn in the name of Yahweh, saying, Yahweh shall be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed, for ever. And he arose and departed, and Jonathan entered the city.

Then came David to Nob, unto Ahimelech, the priest, and Ahimelech trembled when he met David, and said unto him: Why art thou alone, and no man with thee?

And David said unto Ahimelech, The king hath charged me with a matter, and hath said unto me—Let no man know aught of the business on which I am sending thee, and with which I have charged thee,—But unto the young men have I appointed such and such a place.

Now therefore, what is there under thy hand? Five loaves give thou into my hand,—or whatsoever can be found.

And the priest answered David, and said, There is no common bread under my hand,—but hallowed bread there is, if the young men have kept themselves at least from women.

And David answered the priest and said to him—Of a truth I women have been withheld from us, of late, through my coming out, and the wallets of the young men have become hallowed,—while the bread itself is in a manner 'common,' and the more so since, there are other loaves to be hallowed, in the vessel.

So the priest gave him hallowed bread,—because there was there no bread, save the Presence-Bread, which had to be removed from before Yahweh, to put hot bread, on the day when it should be taken away.

Now in that very place was a man of the servants of Saul, on that day, detained before Yahweh,—whose name was Doeg the Edomite,—chief of the shepherds that belonged unto Saul.

Then said David to Ahimelech, See whether there is here under thy hand—a spear or a sword? for neither my sword, nor my other weapons did I take in my hand, for the king's business was urgent.

And the priest said:
The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou didst smite in the vale of Elah, is wrapped up in a cloth, behind the ephod; take it, for there is no other, save that, here.

And David said—There is none like it, give it me.

Then arose David, and fled that day from the face of Saul,—and came in unto Achish, king of Gath. And the servants of Achish said unto him, Is not this David, king of the land? Was it not of this man that they kept responding in the dances, saying, Saul hath smitten his thousands, but David his tens of thousands?

And David laid up these words in his heart, and feared greatly, because of Achish king of Gath. So he feigned himself mad, in their sight, and raged in their band,—and struck against the doors of the gate, and let his spittle run down upon his beard.

Then said Achish unto his servants,—Lo! ye can see, a madman playing his pranks, wherefore should ye bring him in unto me?—Lacking of madmen am I that ye should bring in this one to play his mad pranks unto me? Shall this one enter my household?

David therefore departed thence, and escaped, into the cave of Adullam,—and when his brethren and all the household of his father heard it they went down unto him, thither.

And there gathered themselves unto him—every one that was in distress, and every one that had a creditor, and every one embittered in soul,—and he came to be over them as a prince,—and there were with him, about four hundred men. And David departed thence, to Mizpah of Moab,—and said unto the king of Moab, I pray thee, let my father and my mother dwell with you, until that I know what God will do for me.

So he set them before the king of Moab,
Then enquired he of Yahweh, saying, shall I go and smite these Philistines? And Yahweh said unto David—

Shall I go and smite these Philistines, and save Keilah? Lo! the Philistines are righting against Keilah, and they are plundering the threshing-floors.

So David enquired of Yahweh, saying, Shall I go and smite these Philistines? And Yahweh said unto David—

Go, and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah.

But the men of David said unto him,

Lo! we, here, in Judah, are afraid,—how much more, then, if we go to Keilah, against the ranks of the Philistines?

So David yet again enquired of Yahweh, and Yahweh answered him,—and said—

Arise, go down to Keilah, for I am about to deliver the Philistines into thy hand.

And Saul said unto him, Wherefore have ye conspired against me, thou, and the son of Jesse,—in that thou gavest him bread and a sword, and didst enquire of him for God, that he might rise up against me, that he might lie in wait, as at this day?

Then Ahimelech answered the king, and said,—But who, among all thy servants, like David, is faithful, being son-in-law to the king, and cometh near to have audience with thee; and is honoured in thy household?

Did I that day begin to enquire for him of God? Far from me! Let not the king impute to his servant such a thing, nor to any of the household of my father, for thy servant knoweth nothing of all this, [as or more].

And the king said:

Thou shalt die, Ahimelech,—thou and all the household of thy father.

And the king said unto the runners that were stationed by him—

Turn ye round and put to death the priests of Yahweh, because [their hand also] is with David, and because they knew that he' was [in flight], and unveiled not mine ear.

But the servants of the king were not willing to thrust forth their hand, to fall upon the priests of Yahweh.

Then said the king to Doeg,

Turn thou, and fall upon the priests.

So Doeg the Edomite turned, and [himself] fell upon the priests, and put to death, that day, four score and five men bearing an ephod of linen; N6b also, the city of the priests; smote he with the edge of the sword, both men and women, children and sucklings,—and oxen and asses and sheep, with the edge of the sword.

But there escaped one son of Ahimelech, son of Ahitub, whose name was Abiathar,—and he fled after David. So Abiathar told David,—that Saul had slain the priests of Yahweh.

Then said David to Abiathar—

I knew, that day, when Doeg the Edomite was [there], that he would [surely tell] Saul. I am chargeable with all the lives of the house of thy father.

Abide with me! do not fear, for [whose seeketh my life] seeketh thy life,—for <in safeguard> shalt thou be [with me].

Then told they David, saying,—

Lo! the Philistines are fighting against Keilah, and they are plundering the threshing-floors.

So David enquired of Yahweh, saying,

Shall I go and smite these Philistines? And Yahweh said unto David—

Go, and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah.

But the men of David said unto him,

Lo! we, here, in Judah, are afraid,—how much more, then, if we go to Keilah, against the ranks of the Philistines?

So David yet again enquired of Yahweh, and Yahweh answered him,—and said—

Arise, go down to Keilah, for I am about to deliver the Philistines into thy hand.

David therefore went with his men to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, and drove forth God: But Fa. (reading sar for sar): "prince of thy body-guard service."
their cattle, and smote them, with a great smiting;—so David saved the inhabitants of Keilah.

Now it came to pass <when Abiathar, son of Ahimelech, fled unto David to Keilah> that he came down with [an ephod] in his hand. 11 And <when it was told Saul that David had entered Keilah> Saul said—

God hath given him over into my hand, for he hath shut himself in by entering into a city with folding doors and bars. So Saul summoned all the people to war,—to go down to Keilah, to besiege David, and his men. 9 And David ascertained that Saul had come out to seek his lifed—and when Saul had <heard it> he pursued David, and he had gone down the cliff, and taken up his abode in the wilderness of Maon, the Arabah, to the right of Jeshimon. 8 And Saul went on this side of the mountain, and David and his men on that side of the mountain,—wherefore David became hurried, to get away from the presence of Saul, but Saul and his men were surrounding David and his men, to capture them. 17 when [a messenger] came unto Saul, saying,—

Haste thee and come! for the Philistines have spread over the land.

Then returned Saul from pursuing David, and departed to meet the Philistines,—for which cause they called that place Sela-hammahlekoth ["the Cliff of Separation"] And David went up from thence,—and abode in the strongholds of En-gedi.

And it came to pass <when Saul had returned from following the Philistines> that it was told him, saying:

Lo! David is in the wilderness of Engedi. 1 Then Saul took three thousand chosen men, out of all Israel,—and went to seek David and his men, over the face of the rocks of the mountain-goats. 2 And he came into the sheep-folds by the way, [there] being a cave, which Saul entered, to cover his feet,—David and his men, in the hinder part of the cave, Hachilah, which is on the right of Jeshimon?

If Saul is seeking to come unto Keilah,—to destroy the city [for my sake]: Will the owners of Keilah surrender me into his hand? Will Saul come down, as thy servant hast heard? O Yahweh, God of Israel, I pray thee, tell me the word. And Yahweh said—

And Jonathan, Saul’s son, arose and went unto David in the thicket,—wherefore David became hurried, to get away from the presence of Saul, but Saul and his men were surrounding David and his men, to capture them:

When [a messenger] came unto Saul, saying,—

Haste thee and come! for the Philistines have spread over the land.

Then returned Saul from pursuing David, and departed to meet the Philistines,—for which cause they called that place Sela-hammahlekoth ["the Cliff of Separation"] And David went up from thence,—and abode in the strongholds of En-gedi.
having taken up their abode, 14. So David's men said unto him—

Lo! the day of which Yahweh said unto thee—

Lo! I am about to deliver up thine enemy, into thy hand:

therefore shalt thou do unto him, as shall be good in thine eyes.

And David arose, and cut off the corner of the robe which belonged to Saul, by stealth. 15. And it came to pass afterwards that David's heart smote him,—because he had cut off the corner of the robe of Saul. 16. And he said unto his men—

Far be it from me, of Yahweh, that I should do this thing unto my lord, unto the Anointed of Yahweh, to thrust forth my hand against him,—for the Anointed of Yahweh is he!

17. So David did chide his men with the words, and did not suffer them to rise up against Saul. And Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way. 18. Then David rose up afterwards, and went forth out of the cave, and cried out after Saul, saying—

My lord, O king! And when Saul looked about behind him, David inclined his face to the earth, and bowed himself down. 19. Then said David to Saul, Wherefore shouldst thou hearken unto the words of the sons of earth, saying,—Lo! David is seeking thy hurt—

20. Lo! the day of which Yahweh said unto thee—

21. Lo! I am about to deliver up thine enemy,* into thy hand:

22. Therefore shall Yahweh become judge, and do justice betwixt me and thee,—that he may see, and plead my cause, and justly deliver me out of thy hand.

23. And it came to pass <when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul> that Saul said,

24. <Thy voice> is this, my son David? And Saul lifted up his voice, and wept. 25. And he said unto David,

26. <More righteous> art thou than I, for thou hast required me [good], but I have required thee [evil].

27. <Thou> hast told to-day, how thou hast dealt with me [for good],—how <when Yahweh had surrendered me into thy hand> thou didst not slay me. 28. Yet <when a man findeth his enemy> will he let him get easily away?

29. Yahweh then, give thee [good] reward for what [this day] thou hast done unto me.

30. ||Now therefore, lo! I know that thou shalt indeed become king,—and that the kingdom of Israel shall be established in thy hand.||

31. ||Now therefore, swear unto me by Yahweh, that thou wilt not cut off my seed, after me,—and wilt not destroy my name out of the house of my father. 32 So David swore unto Saul,—and Saul departed unto his own house, but ||David and his men|| went up on the stronghold.

1. And Samuel died, and all Israel were gathered together, and made lamentation for him, and buried him within his own house, in Ramah,—and David arose and went down into the wilderness of Maon. 2. Now there was a man in Maon, whose cattle were in Carmel, and ||the man|| was exceeding great, and ||he|| had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats,—and so it was, that he was shearing his sheep in Carmel. 3. Now ||the name of the man|| was Nabal, and ||the name of his wife|| Abigail,—and ||the woman|| was of good understanding, and of beautiful figure,—but ||the man|| was unfeeling and of evil practices, and he was a Calebite.

4. So then David heard in the wilderness,—that Nabal was shearing his sheep. 5. David therefore, sent ten young men,—and David said unto the young men,—

Go up to Carmel, and enter in unto Nabal, and ye shall ask him, in my name, of his welfare; — and say thus—

1 Samuel 25:7-28

Long life to thee! *
Mayest thou prosper,
And thy household prosper,
And all that thou hast prosper!

Now therefore, have I heard that thou hast shepherds—
Well, the shepherds that thou hast have been with us,
We reproached them not,
Neither missed they anything,
All the days they were in Carmel.

Ask, ye young men, that they may tell thee.
That so my young men may find favour in thine eyes.
For on a good day do we come!
Give, I pray thee, what thy hand findeth.

So David's young men came, and spake unto Nabal, according to all these words, in the name of David, and waited. Then Nabal answered the servants of David, and said,

Who is David?
And who is the son of Jesse?
Nowadays many are the servants that have broken away, every one from the presence of his lord:
Shall I, then, take my bread, and my wine, and my slain beasts, that I have slaughtered for my shepherds,—and give unto men of whom I know not whence they are?

So the young men of David turned away for their journey, and came back, and drew near, and told him, according to all these words. Then said David unto his men—
Gird on every man his sword.
And they girded on every man his sword, and David also girded on his sword, and they went up after David—about four hundred men, and two hundred abode by the stores.

But a certain one of his young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, saying,— Lo! David sent messengers out of the wilderness to bless our lord, and he treated them with contempt.

But the men were exceeding good to us,—and we were not harmed, neither missed we anything, all the days we went to and fro with them, while we were in the fields:
[A wall] became they unto us, [both by night and by day], all the days we were with them, tending the flock.

Now therefore, know thou, and see, what thou canst do, for mischief is determined against our lord, and against all his household,—but he is such an abandoned man, that one cannot speak unto him.

Then Abigail hastened—and took two hundred loaves, and two skins of wine, and five sheep made ready, and five measures of parched corn, and a hundred cakes of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs,—and put them on the asses. And she said to her young men,—Pass on before me, behold me coming after you; but to her husband, Nabal> told she nothing. And so it was, as she was riding on her ass, and descending within the covert of the hill> to David and his men, descending over against her,—so she met them.

Now David had said—
Surely in vain did I guard all that pertaining to this man in the wilderness, so that there was nothing missed of all that he had,—seeing he hath returned to me evil for good.

<So may God do to David> and so may he add> if I leave remaining, of all that he hath, until the morning,—so much as a little boy.

And when Abigail saw David she hastened, and alighted from off her ass,—and fell down before David upon her face, and prostrated herself on the ground; yea she fell at his feet, and said—
On me, even me> my lord, be the transgression,—
But, I pray thee, let thy handmaid speak in thine ears.
And hear thou the words of thy handmaid.
Let it not be, I pray thee, that my lord regard this abandoned man—Nabal;
For as his name is, so is he', Nabal [= Base] is his name, and base-necessity is with him,—
But I, thy handmaid, saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send.

Now therefore, my lord—
By the life of Yahweh, and By the life of thine own soul,— Seeing Yahweh hath withhelden thee from coming in with bloodshed, and from saving thyself with thine own hand>,
Now therefore, like Nabal be thine enemies, and they who are making search for my lord wrongfully.

Now therefore, therefore, <this blessing which thy maid-servant hath brought to my lord> let it even be given unto the young men who are going to and fro at the feet of my lord.

Forgive, I pray thee, the trespass of thy handmaid,—for Yahweh will certainly make for my lord an assured house, for Nevertheless by the life of Yahweh, God and my lord, 29 and it shall be when Yahweh shall do for me, as he hath spoken concerning me, 30 then shall this not become to thee a staggerings and stumbling of heart unto my lord—that thou didst either shed blood without need, or that the hand of my lord saved himself. 31 And when Yahweh hath dealt well with my lord, then remember thou thy handmaid. 32 Then said David unto Abigail, 33 Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who hath restrained me from shedding blood, and from saving myself with mine own hand. 34 Nevertheless by the life of Yahweh, God of Israel, who hath restrained me from harming thee, surely except thou hadst hasted and come to meet me, there had not been left unto Nabal, by the light of the morning, so much as a little boy. 35 So David received at her hand, that which she had brought him, and unto herself he said— Go up, in peace, unto thy house, see! I have hearkened unto thy voice, and accepted thy person. 36 And when Abigail came unto Nabal, lo! he had a banquet in his house, like the banquet of a king, and the heart of Nabal was glad accordingly, he having drunk deeply, so she told him nothing—less or more, until the light of the morning. And it came to pass, in the morning when the wine had gone out of Nabal, and his wife told him these things, that his heart died within him, and he became like a stone. And it came to pass in about ten days that Yahweh smote Nabal, and he died. 39 And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said— Blessed be Yahweh, who hath maintained the plea of my reproach, at the hand of Nabal, and hath restrained his servant from wrong. 40 And the servants of David came unto Abigail the Carmelitess, and spake unto her, saying, 41 And she arose, and bowed herself down with her face to the earth, and said—Lo! thy handmaid, as serving-woman to bathe the feet of the servants of my lord. 42 And Abigail hastened, and mounted, and rode upon her ass, with her five damsels that used to journey at her feet, and she went her way after the messengers of David, and became his wife. 43 David took Ahinoam also out of Jezreel, and they two became his wives. 44 So Saul indeed, had given his daughter Michal, David's wife, to Palti, son of Laish, who was of Gallim.

§ 15. David a Second Time saithk Saul Life.
1 And the Ziphites came unto Saul in Gibeah, saying,—Is not David' hiding himself in the hill of Hachilah* overlooking Jeshimon? 2 Then Saul arose, and went down into the wilderness of Ziph, and with him three thousand chosen men of Israel,—to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph. 3 And Saul encamped in the hill of Hachilah, which overlooketh Jeshimon, by the way, but David was staying in the wilderness, so he saw that Saul was coming after him into the wilderness. 4 David therefore sent runners, and took knowledge that Saul had come, for a certainty. 5 So then David arose, and came to the place where Saul had encamped, and David saw the place where Saul was lying, with Abner, son of Ner, prince of his host,—and Saul was lying within the circular trench, with the people encamped round about him. 6 And David responded, and said unto Ahimelech the Hittite, and unto Abishai son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, saying, Who will go down with me unto Saul, within the camp? 7 And Abishai said, I will go down with thee. 8 So David came, with Abishai, unto the people by night, and lo! Saul' lying asleep within the trench, and his spear' stuck in the ground, at his head,—and Abner' and the people' lying round about him. 9 Then said Abishai unto David, God hath surrendered, to-day, thine enemy, into thy hand: 10 Now therefore, let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear to the earth, at one stroke; I will not do it twice. 11 But David said unto Abishai, Do not destroy him,—for who that hath thrust forth his hand against the Anointed of Yahweh, shall he be guiltless?

10 And David said—

<By the life of Yahweh> surely ||Yahweh himself|| must smite him,—or ||this day:|| must come that he die, or <into battle> must he go down, and be swept away.

11 Far be it from me, of Yahweh. that I should thrust forth my hand against the Anointed of Yahweh!

12 And he cried aloud unto them, and unto Abner son of Ner, saying, — Wherefore is it that my lord is in pursuit of me?—Art not thou ||a man||? Who indeed is like thee, in Israel? Wherefore, then, hast thou not kept watch over thy lord, the king?

13 And David cried aloud unto the people, and unto Abner son of Ner, saying, — Wherefore is it that my lord is in pursuit of me?—Art not thou ||a man||? Who indeed is like thee, in Israel? Wherefore, then, hast thou not kept watch over thy lord, the king?

14 And David cried aloud unto the people, and unto Abner son of Ner, saying— Wherefore is it that my lord is in pursuit of me?—Art not thou ||a man||? Who indeed is like thee, in Israel? Wherefore, then, hast thou not kept watch over thy lord, the king?

22 And David responded, and said,—

Lo! the spear of the king! Let, therefore, one of the young men come over, and fetch it.

23 And let ||Yahweh|| give back to each man, his righteousness, and his faithfulness,—in that Yahweh delivered these, to-day, into my hand, but I would not thrust forth my hand against the Anointed of Yahweh.

24 Lo! then <as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes> ||so|| let my life be much set by in the eyes of Yahweh, and let him rescue me out of all tribulation.

25 Then said Saul unto David—

||Blessed|| be thou, my son David, thou shalt both ||do||, and shalt ||prevail:|| And David went on his way, but ||Saul|| returned unto his own place.

§ 16. David obtains Ziklag of Achish and dwells there.

1 And David said, unto his own heart, — Now! shall I be swept off, in a single day, by the hand of Saul,—there is nothing for me better than that I ||escape|| into the land of the Philistines, so shall Saul give up seeking for me any more, in any of the bounds of Israel, so shall I escape out of his hand.

2 And David arose, and he and the six hundred men that were with him passed over, unto Achish son of Maoch, king of Gath. 3 And David abode with Achish in Gath, |he and his men,| each man with his household,—David' with his two wives, Abinom the Jezreelitess, and Abigail wife of Nabal, the Carmelite. 4 And <when it was told Saul, that David had fled to Gath> he added no more, to seek him. 5 Then said David unto Achish—

<If, I pray thee, I have found favour in thine eyes> let them give me a place in one of the cities in the country, that I may dwell there,—for why’ should thy servant dwell in the royal city ||with thee||?

6 So Achish gave him, on that day, Ziklag,—wherefore’ Ziklag hath pertained unto the kings of Judah, unto this day. 7 And the number of the days that David dwelt in the country’ of the Philistines became’ a year and four months.* 8 And David and his men went up, and made a railed against the Geshurites and the Gizrites and the Amalekites—for these were the inhabitants of the land who had been from ages past, as thou enterest Shur, even as far as the land of Egypt. Now, when David would smite a land, he used to save alive neither man nor woman, but took sheep and oxen, and asses and camels, and apparel, and returned, and came in unto Achish. Then said Achish, Whither have ye made a raid, today? And David said—

Against the South of Judah, or against the South of the Jershonites, or as far as the South of the Kenites.

But neither man nor woman used David to save alive, to bring into Gath, for he said, Lest they tell of us, saying—[So] hath David done, and [such] is his manner, all the days that he hath dwelt in the country of the Philistines.

And Achish believed in David, saying,—He hath made himself odious unto his own people, unto Israel, therefore shall he be my servant all his life long.

§ 17. Saul and the Witch of En-dor.

1 And it came to pass, in those days, when the Philistines gathered together their hosts for war, to fight with Israel, that Achish said unto David,

Thou must know that with me shalt thou go forth in the host, [thou and thy men].

And David said unto Achish, [Therefore] now shalt thou know what thy servant can do.

And Achish said unto David, Therefore, [keeper of my head] will I appoint thee, all the days.

3 Now Saul was dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city, —[Saul] moreover had put away them who had familiar spirits and them who were oracles out of the land. So then the Philistines gathered themselves together, and came in, and encamped in Shunem, —and Saul gathered together all Israel, and they encamped in Gilboa. And when Saul saw the host of the Philistines he was afraid, and his heart trembled exceedingly. Then Saul enquired of Yahweh, but Yahweh answered him not,—neither by Dreams, nor by the Lights, nor by prophets. Then said Saul unto his servants—Seek me out a woman that owneth a familiar spirit, that I may even go unto her, and enquire of her. And his servants said unto him, Lo! there is a woman that owneth a familiar spirit in En-dor.

Saul therefore disguised himself, and put on other raiment, and departed—[he and two men with him], and they came to the woman by night,—and he said—Divine for me, I pray thee, by the familiar spirit, and bring up for me—whomsoever I shall name unto thee. And the woman said unto him—Lo! [thou] knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off them who have familiar spirits and him who is an oracle out of the land,—wherefore, then, art thou striking at my life, to put me to death? So then Saul sware unto her by Yahweh, saying,—<By the life of Yahweh> there shall no punishment befall thee for this thing. Then said the woman, Whom shall I bring up for thee? And he said, <Samuel> bring thou up for me. And when the woman saw Samuel, she made an outcry with a loud voice,—and the woman spake unto Saul, saying—Wherefore hast thou deceived me, [thou thyself] being Saul? And the king said unto her—Be not afraid, but what sawest thou? And the woman said unto Saul, <A god> saw I, coming up out of the earth. And he said to her—What was his form? And she said—An old man, coming up, he being wrapped about with a robe. Then Saul knew, that it was [Samuel], so he inclined his face to the earth, and bowed himself down. And Samuel said unto Saul, Wherefore hast thou disquieted me, coming up to me? And Saul said—

I am in sore distress, for [the Philistines] are making war against me, and [God] hath turned away from me, and answered me no more—either by means of the prophets, or by dreams, therefore have I even called for thee, to let me know, what I am to do. Then said Saul, Wherefore, then, shouldst thou ask me,—when [Yahweh] hath turned away from me, and hath come to be with thy neighbour?
28 Now the Philistines gathered together all their hosts, towards Aphek, and the Israelites were encamping by the fountain, that is in Jezreel. And the lords of the Philistines were passing on by hundreds, and by thousands, but David and his men were passing on in the rear, with Achish. Then Saul hastened, and fell prostrate—the whole length of him—to the earth, and was sore afraid, at the words of Samuel—and indeed, no strength was left in him, for he had not eaten food all the day and all the night. And the woman came unto Saul, and when she saw that he was greatly terrified, she said unto him—Lo! thy handmaid hearkened unto thy voice, and I put my life into my hand, and heard thy words which thou didst speak unto me. Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken unto the voice of thy handmaid, and let me set before thee a morsel of food, and eat thou,—that there may be in thee strength, when thou goest on thy journey. But he refused, and said—I will not eat. But when his servants, and the woman also, strongly urged him, then hearkened he unto their voices, and rose up from the earth, and sat on the bed. Now the woman had a calf fattening, in the shed. So she hastened, and sacrificed it, and took meal, and kneaded, and baked thereof, unleavened cakes; and sacrificed it, and took meal, and kneaded, and baked thereof, unleavened cakes; and brought near before Saul and before his servants, and before the men of Israel. Then rose they up and departed, the same night.

§ 18. David starts with the Philistines to invade Israel, but is sent back.

29 Now the Philistines gathered together all their hosts, towards Aphek, and the Israelites were encamping by the fountain, that is in Jezreel. And the lords of the Philistines were passing on by hundreds, and by thousands, but David and his men were passing on in the rear, with Achish. Then said the princes of the Philistines, What are these Hebrews (doing)? And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines—Is not this David, servant of Saul king of Israel, who hath been with me this year, or two, and I have found in him nothing, from the day of his coming over unto me, unto this day?

1 And it came to pass, when David and his men came to Ziklag on the third day, that the Amalekites had made a raid into the South, and into Ziklag, and had smitten Ziklag, and burned it with fire; and had taken captive...
So it slidbe (w. Sep.)—
and David said unto him,
A young man of Egypt: am I, servant to an Amalekite, and my lord left me behind, because I fell sick, three days ago.
And Lo! for you a blessing, out of the spoil of the enemies of Yahweh:
And he said—
Whose' art thou? and whence' art thou? And he said,
Swear unto me by God, that thou wilt not put me to death, neither wilt thou surrender me into the band of my lord, and I will bring thee down unto this troop.
18 So he brought him down, and lo! they were left to themselves over the face of all the land,—eating, and drinking, and dancing around, for all the great spoil which they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah. 17 And David smote them, from the closing twilight even unto the evening of the next day,—and there escaped not of them a man, save four hundred young men who rode upon camels, and fled. 18 And David rescued all whom the Amalekites had taken,—<his two wives also> did David rescue;
and there was nothing missing to them—whether small or great, whether spoil, or sons or daughters, or any thing which they had taken unto themselves,—<the whole> did David recover. 19 And David took all the flocks and the herds,—they drove them before those other cattle, and they said,
"This is David's spoil.
21 And David came unto the two hundred men, who had been too wearied to follow David, and whom they had suffered to remain at the ravine of Besor,—and they came forth to meet David, and to meet the people who were with him, and when David came near unto the people, they enquired of his success. 22 Then responded every man who was bad and abandoned, from among the men who had been with David, and said—
"Because they went not with me there shall not be given them of the spoil that we have rescued,—save unto every man his wife and his children, let them put them forth, then, and go."
23 Then said David,
Ye shall not do so, my brethren,—with that which Yahweh hath given to us, who hath preserved us, and delivered the troop that came against us into our hand.
24 Who' indeed, could hearken unto you, in this matter? Surely <like the share of him that went down into the battle> even so shall be the share of him that remained by the stores—<alike> shall they share.
25 And so it came to pass [from that day forward] that he appointed it, for a statute and for a custom unto Israel, until this day.
26 And <when David came to Ziklag> he sent forth the spoil, unto the elders of Judah, unto his friends, saying,— Lo! [for you] a blessing, out of the spoil of the enemies of Yahweh:
27 to them who were in Bethel, and to them who were in Ramoth of the South,
28 and to them who were in Jattir, and to them who were in Aroer,
29 and to them who were in Siphmoth, and to them who were in Eshtemoa, 30 and to them who were in Racah, and to them who were in the cities of the Jerameelites, and to them who were in the cities of the Kenites, and to them who were in Hormah,
and to them who were in Cor-ashan, and to them who were in Hebron,— and to all the places where David had been to and fro, [he and his men].

§ 20. Saul's Sons slain in Battle, and Saul destroys himself.

31 Now [as lit the Philistines] were fighting against Israel] the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell slain, in Mount Gilboa. And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons,— and the Philistines smote Jonathan and Abinadab and Maltishua, sons of Saul. And the battle went sore against Saul, and the archers discovered him,— and he was terrified at the archers. Then said Saul to his armourbearer—

Draw thy sword and pierce me through there with, lest these uncircumcised come, and pierce me through, and abuse me. But his armourbearer was not willing, for he was sore afraid. So Saul took his sword and fell thereon. When his armourbearers saw [that Saul was dead] he also fell upon his sword, and died with him. Thus died Saul, and his three sons, and his armourbearer, yea all his men, on that day, [together].

And [when the men of Israel who were across the vale, and who were across the Jordan] saw that the men of Israel had fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead> they forsook the cities, and fled, and the Philistines' entered, and took up their abodes therein.

And it came to pass on the morrow, <when the Philistines came to strip the slain> that they found Saul, and his three sons, lying prostrate in Mount Gilboa. So they cut off his head, and stripped off his armour,— and sent throughout the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it in the house of their idols, and unto the people. And they put his armour in a house of Ashtoreths,—and <his dead body> fastened they on the wall of Bethshan.

And [when the inhabitants of Jabeshgilead] heard concerning him, what the Philistines had done unto Saul> then arose all the men of valour, and journeyed all the night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, from the wall of Beth-shan,— and came to Jabesh, and burned them there; and took their bones, and buried them under the tamarisk-tree in Jabesh,— and fasted seven days.

§ 1. David gets Tidings of Saul's Death, and slays the Messenger.

And so it was <after the death of Saul, when David' had returned from the smiting of the Amalekites, and David had abode in Ziklag two days> <on the third day> that lo! a man came out of the camp, from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head,— and so it was <when he came in unto David> that he fell to the earth, and did homage.

And David said unto him,

From whence comest thou? And he said unto him,

<Out of the camp of Israel> am I escaped.

And David said unto him—

THE SECOND BOOK OF SAMUEL.
pursued him; so he turned behind him, and saw me, and cried out unto me, and I said, Behold me! And he said unto me, Who art thou? And I said unto him, <An Amalekite> am I. And he said unto me, I pray thee, take thy stand by me, and put me to death, for the cramp hath seized me, even for as long as my life shall be in me. So I took my stand by him, and put him to death, for I perceived that he could not survive his fall,—so I took the crown that was on his head, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them in unto my lord.

11 Then David took hold of his clothes, and rent them,—yea moreover, [so did] all the men who were with him. And they lamented aloud, and wept, and fasted until the evening,—For Saul, and for Jonathan his son, And for the people of Yahweh, And for the house of Israel, Because they had fallen by the sword.

12 And David said unto the young man who was telling him, Whence art thou? And he said, <Son of a sojourner—an Amalekite> am I. And David said unto him, How wast thou not afraid to thrust forth thy hand, to destroy the Anointed of Yahweh? So David called one of the young men, and said,—Go near—fall upon him. And he smote him, that he died. And David said unto him, Thy blood, I be upon thine own head,—for it is written in the Book of the Upright:

§ 2. David's Dirge over Saul and Jonathan.

17 Then chanted David this dirge,—over Saul and over Jonathan his son; and he thought to teach the sons of Judah [the song of] the Bow,—lo! it is written in the Book of the Upright:

18 The beauty of Israel! on thy high places slain!
How have fallen—the mighty!

19 Do not tell it in Gath,
Do not publish it in the streets of Ashkelon,— Lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice,
Lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph.

20 Ye mountains in Gilboa!
Be there neither dew nor rain upon you,
Nor fields of offerings,—
For there were cast away, the shields of the mighty,
The shield of Saul, unanointed with oil.

21 From the blood of the slain,
From the fat of the mighty>
| The bow of Jonathan | ne'er drew back,—
And the sword of Saul | ne'er returned [empty].

Saul and Jonathan:
Delightfully loving in their lives,
Even <in their death> were not divided,— Beyond eagles were they swift,
Beyond lions were they strong!

24 Ye daughters of Israel!
<For Saul> weep ye,—Who clothed you in crimson, [decked] with lovely things, Who hung ornaments of gold on your apparel!

25 How have fallen the mighty, in the midst of the battle!
| Jonathan | [on thy high places] slain:
I am distressed for thee, my brother, [Jonathan]! Delightful to me, exceedingly,—Wonderful was thy love to me, [passing the love of women].

26 How have fallen the mighty, and perished the weapons of war!

§ 3. David, under Divine Guidance, removes to Hebron, is anointed King by Judah, and rewards the Men of Jabesh-Gilead.

1 And it came to pass <after this> that David enquired of Yahweh, saying—Shall I go up into one of the cities of Judah? And Yahweh said unto him, Go up. And David said—Whither shall I go up? And he said—Unto Hebron.

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives also,—Ahinoam, the Jezreelitess, and Abigail, wife of Nabal the Carmelite. <His men all who were with him> did David bring up, [every man with his household],—and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

3 Then came the men of Judah, and anointed David there, to be king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying,—Men of Jabesh-Gilead were they who buried Saul.

4 So David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-Gilead, and said unto them—Blessed be ye of Yahweh, that ye did this lovingkindness unto your lord, unto Saul, and buried him.

5 Now therefore, Yahweh require you with
And he said—
"I am,"
21 Then Abner said to him—
Turn thee aside, to thy right hand, or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his armour. But Asahel would not turn aside from pursuing him. 22 And Abner said, "Yet again" unto Asahel, Turn thee aside from pursuing me,—wherefore should I smite thee to the earth? how then should I lift up my face unto Joab, thy brother?

23 Howbeit he refused to turn aside, wherefore Abner smote him with the hinder end of the spear, in the belly, that the spear came out behind him, and he fell there, and died on the spot,—and so it was, that as many as came up to the place where Asahel fell and died stood still. 24 Then Joab and Abishai pursued Abner,—but the sun had gone in by the time they had come as far as the hill of Ammah, that overlooketh Giah, by way of the wilderness of Gibeon.

And when the sons of Benjamin had gathered themselves together after Abner, and become one band,—and had taken their stand on the top of a certain hill—then Abner cried aloud unto Joab, and said—

"To the uttermost must the sword devour? Dost thou not well know that bitter shall it be, in the latter end? How long, then, wilt thou not bid the people turn back from pursuing their own brethren?

27 Then said Joab—

"As God liveth, surely if thou hast not spoken, then in the morning the people would of themselves have gone up, every man from pursuing his brother.

28 So Joab blew with the horn, and all the people stood still, and they neither pursued Israel further,—nor fought any more. 29 And Joab and his men journeyed through the waste plain all that night, and crossed the Jordan, and went through all the Bithron, and entered Mahanaim. 30 And Joab returned from pursuing Abner, and when he had gathered together all the people there were missing of the servants of David—nineteen men, and Asahel; but the servants of David had smitten of Benjamin, of the men of Abner,—so that three hundred and sixty men had died. 31 And they carried Asahel, and buried him in the grave of his father, which they had gathered together after Abner, and turned not in going, to the right hand or to the left, from pursuing Abner. 32 Then Abner looked behind him, and said—

"Art thou Asahel!"

And he said—

"I am,"
§ 5. The Sons born to David in Hebron.

3 And there were born unto David, sons, in Hebron,—and it came to pass that—

His firstborn was Amnon, by Ahinoam, the Jezreelitess;

And his second, Chileab, by Abigail, wife of Nabal the Carmelite,

And the third, Absalom, son of Maachah, daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur;

And the fourth, Adonijah, son of Higgith,

And the fifth, Shephatiah, son of Abital;

And the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah wife of David.

These were born unto David, in Hebron.

§ 6. Abner, provoked by Ish-bosheth, return round to David, whom he visits in Hebron.

6 And it came to pass <while the war continued between the house of Saul and the house of David> that Abner shewed himself courageous for the house of Saul. 7 Now Saul had a concubine whose name was Rizpah daughter of Aiah, — and Ish-bosheth said unto Abner,

Why wentest thou in unto my father's concubine?

8 And it provoked Abner greatly, on account of the words of Ish-bosheth. and he said—

I would I had dealings of lovingkindness with the house of Saul thy father, towards his brethren, and towards his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David,—and yet thou hast charged upon me the transgression of the woman today.

9 So may God do unto Abner, and his soul add to him, — if as Yahweh hath sworn unto David he even so I deal not with him; I0 by turning over the kingdom from the house of Saul,— and establishing the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba.

11 And he could no further answer Abner a word, — because he feared him.

12 So Abner sent messengers unto David, on the spot, saying—

Whose is the land?

Saying [also]—

Solemnise thy covenant with me; and lo! my hand shall be with thee, to bring round unto thee, all Israel.

13 And he said—

Good! I will solemnise with thee a covenant, — but one thing must I ask of thee, saying—

Thou shalt not see my face, except thou have brought in Michal, Saul's daughter, when thou comest to see my face.

14 And David sent messengers unto Ish-bosheth son of Saul, saying,—

Give up my wife, Michal, whom I espoused to myself, for a hundred foreskins of Phillistines.

15 So Ish-bosheth sent and took her from her husband,—from Paltiel, son of Laish. 16 And her husband went along with her, weeping as he went behind her, as far as Behurim, — when Abner said unto him—

Go, return.

And he returned.

17 Then had Abner [speech] with the elders of Israel, saying,—

In times past ye were seeking David, to be king over you.

18 Therefore, act,—for Yahweh spake unto David, saying, — By the hand of David my servant will I save my people Israel, out of the hand of all the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

19 And Abner also spake in the ears of Benjamin, — and Abner also went to speak, in the ears of David, in Hebron, all that was pleasing in the eyes of Israel, and in the eyes of all the house of Benjamin.

20 So when Abner came in unto David, in Hebron, and with him twenty men, David made, for Abner, and for the men who were with him, a banquet.

Then said Abner unto David—

I will verily arise and go, and gather together unto my lord the king, all Israel— that they may solemnise with thee a covenant, so shalt thou reign over all that thy soul desireth.

And David let Abner go, and he departed in peace.

§ 7. Joab slays Abner, over whom David pronounces a Dirge.

23 And lo! the servants of David, and Joab came in from a raid, and great spoil brought they in with them; but Abner was not with David in Hebron, for he had sent him away, and he had departed in peace. 24 <When Joab, and all the host that was with him, had come in> then told they Joab, saying,

Abner son of Ner hath been in unto the king, — and he hath let him go, and he hath departed in peace.

24 Then Joab came in unto the king, and said—

What hast thou done? Lo! Abner came in unto thee. Wherefore is it that thou didst let him go, so that he is clean departed?
Thou knowest, Abner son of Ner, that <to deceive thee> he came, and to take knowledge of thy going out, and thy coming in, and to take knowledge of all that thou art doing.

And <when Joab had come out from David> he sent messengers after Abner, and brought him back from the well of Sirah, but David knew it not. So Abner returned to Hebron, and Joab took him aside into the midst of the gate, to speak with him quietly, and then smote him there, in the belly, that he died, for the blood of Asahel the brother of Joab.

And <whenJoab and Abishai his brother> slew Abner, and the people took note of it, and the king said unto his servants,—And the people took note of it, and the king said unto his servants,—

Thou knowest, Abner son of Ner, that <to deceive thee> he came, and to take knowledge of thy going out, and thy coming in, and to take knowledge of all that thou art doing.

And <when David heard of it, after that, he said—>

And <when David heard of it, after that, he said—>

As a base man dieth should Abner have died?

And <thy feet> were not bound, and <thy hands> were not brought, as one falleth before assassins so didst thou fall!

And again, all the people wept over him.

And <when all the people came near to get David to eat bread, while yet it was day> David averse saying—

Like God do to me, and [so] let him add, if <before the sun go in> I taste bread, for anything else?

And <when all the people> took note of it, and it was noble in their eyes, as [all] that the king did was in the eyes of all the people, was noble.

So when all the people, and all Israel, took note of that day, that it was not of the king to cause the death of Abner son of Ner.

And the king said unto his servants,—Will ye not take note that [a prince and a great man] hath fallen this day, in Israel?

And <I myself> this day am weak, though anointed king,

But these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are more severe than I:

Yahweh repay [the doer of wickedness], [according to his wickedness].

§ 8. Ish-bosheth slain: his Death avenged by David.

Now <when Ish-bosheth* son of Saul heard> that Abner had died in Hebron, his hands became feeble, and [all Israel] were dismayed.

And <two men> captains of bands pertained to Ish-bosheth son of Saul— the name of the one was Baanah, and the name of the other Rechab—sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, of the sons of Benjamin, for even Beeroth used to be reckoned unto Benjamin; and the Beerothites fled to Gittaim, and have been sojourners there, until this day. And [Jonathan, son of Saul] had a son, lame of his feet; [five years old] was he; when tidings came in of Saul and Jonathan from Jezreel, so his nurse took him up, and fled, and it came to pass, <when she started up to flee> that he fell and was lamed, and [his name] was [Mephibosheth].

So then the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, took their journey and came in, about the heat of the day, unto the house of Ish-bosheth, when he was lying on his noonday couch;

And [thither] entered they as far as the middle of the house, to fetch wheat, and they smote him in the belly,—and [Rechab and Baanah his brother] escaped. Thus they entered the house when he was lying on his bed, in his sleeping-chamber, and smote him, and beheaded him,—and took his head, and journeyed by way of the waste plain all the night; and brought in the head of Ish-bosheth unto David, at Hebron, and said unto the king, Lo! the head of Ish-bosheth son of Saul, thine enemy, who sought thy life; so hath Yahweh given to my lord the king, avengement this day, on Saul and on his seed.

Then David responded to Rechab and Baanah his brother, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said unto them,—

By the life of Yahweh, who hath redeemed my soul out of all distress, when he that brought tidings to me, saying Lo! Saul is dead, though he was as one that bringeth good tidings, in his own eyes> yet I seized him, and slew him in Ziklag,—which was how I gave him reward for his tidings; how much more? <when lawless men> have slain a righteous person, in his own house, upon his bed? . . .
David therefore commanded the young men, and they slew them, and cut off their hands, and their feet, and hanged them up over the pool in Hebron; but (the head of Absalom) took they, and buried in the grave of Abner in Hebron.

9. David, becoming King over all Israel, takes Jerusalem, and his Fame and Family are increased.

Then came all the tribes of Israel unto David, in Hebron, and called him to be king over all Israel; and they anointed David to be king over Israel.

2 SAMUEL IV. 12; V. 1—25; VI. 1, 2.

1 Then came all the elders of Israel unto David, and called him to be king over Israel, — and Yahweh said to thee—

2 Thou shalt be shepherd unto my people, Israel, and (thou) shalt become leader over Israel.

2 Then went the king and his men, to Jerusalem, and David entered Baal-perazim, and David built round the City of David, — and David built round the City of David.

8 And David took him yet more concubines and wives, out of Jerusalem, after he had come from Hebron, and there were yet further born unto David, sons and daughters. Now [these] are the names of the sons who were born unto him in Jerusalem,—Shammua and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon; and Ibar and Elishua and Nepheg and Yaphia; and Elishama and Eliada, and Eliphelet.

§ 10. David, twice assailed by the Philistines, twice defeats them.

1 And when the Philistines heard that they had anointed David to be king over Israel> then came up all the Philistines to seek to secure David, and David heard of it, and went down into the citadel. Now [the Philistines] had come,— and had spread themselves out in the vale of Rephaim. So then David enquired of Yahweh, saying,— Shall I go up against the Philistines? Wilt thou deliver them into my hand?

And Yahweh said unto David—

Go up; for I will surely deliver; the Philistines into thy hand.

20 And David entered Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and said—

Yahweh hath broken forth upon mine enemies, before me, like a breaking forth of waters.

32 And [yet again] did the Philistines come up,— and they spread themselves out in the vale of Rephaim. So David enquired of Yahweh, saying,—

Thou shalt not go up,— Get round behind them, and come in upon them, over against the mulberry-trees. And it shall be when thou shalt hear a sound of marching in the tops of the mulberry-trees, [then] shalt thou act with decision,— for [then] will Yahweh have gone forth before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines.

23 And David did so, as Yahweh had commanded him,— and smote the Philistines, from Gibeon until thou enterest Gezer.

§ 11. David brings up the Ark to Jerusalem.

1 And David once more gathered together all the choice young men in Israel, thirty thousand.

2 Then David, and all the people that were with him, brought up the Ark of God, out of the city of David, — and David built round the City of David.

him, arose and went beyond Baale Judah,—to bring up from thence, the ark of God, the name whereof is called by the name of Yahweh of hosts, who inhabiteth the cherubim thereupon. So they carried the ark of God in a new wagggon, and brought it out of the house of Abinadab, who was in Gibeah,—and ||Uzza and Ahio, sons of Abinadab|| were driving the new wagnon.

So they brought it out of the house of Abinadab, which was in Gibeah, with the ark of God,—and ||Ahio|| was going before the ark. And ||David and all the house of Israel|| were dancing for joy before Yahweh, with all boldness and with songs,—and with lyres, and with harps, and with timbrels, and with sistrams, and with cymbals. And when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Nachon > Uzzah thrust forth his hand unto the ark of God, and took hold of it, for the oxen were restless. Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh, against Uzzah, and God smote him there, for the error,—so that he died there, by the ark of God. And it was a sadness unto David, for that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzzah, — therefore called he that place, Perez-uzzah [as it is called] until this day.

And David was afraid of Yahweh, on that day,—and said, How can the ark of Yahweh come unto me?

So David would not remove unto him the ark of God, because of the anger of Yahweh.—Some cod. (w. Aram., Sep., Syr., Vul.)—G.n.

And the ark of Yahweh abode in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite, three months,—and Yahweh blessed Obed-edom and all his household. And it was told King David, saying, Yahweh hath blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he hath, because of the ark of God.

David therefore went and brought up the ark of God, out of the house of Obed-edom, unto the city of David, with rejoicing. So it was that when they who bare the ark of God, were driving the new wagnon, and saw King David, leaping and dancing before Yahweh, and she despised him, in her heart.

So they brought in the ark of Yahweh, and set it in its place, in the midst of the tent' which David had stretched out for it,—and David caused to go up ascending-sacrifices before Yahweh, and peace-offerings. And when David had finished offering up the ascending-sacrifices and the peace-offerings> he blessed the people' in the name of Yahweh of hosts.

And he apportioned to all the people, to all the multitude of Israel, both to men and to women,—to every one a loaf of bread, and a sweet drink,—and a raisin-cake,—and all the people went their way, every one unto his own house; and David' returned, to bless his household.

Then came forth Michal Saul's daughter to meet David, and said—

How' can the ark of Yahweh come unto me?

And David said unto Michal, "Before Yahweh > I will dance,— ||blessed|| be Yahweh, who made choice of me above thy father, and above all his house, putting me in charge as leader over the people of Yahweh, over Israel,—therefore will I dance before Yahweh; and will make myself yet more lightly esteemed than this, and become lowly in mine own eyes,—neverthe-less <with the handmaids of whom thou hast spoken> ||with them|| shall I be honoured.

Therefore ||Michal Saul's daughter|| had no child,—unto the day of her death.

§ 12. David, proposing to build a Temple, is forbidden; but receives large Promises for Himself and his Posterity.

And it came to pass <when the king had 7 taken up his abode in his house,—and Yahweh had given him rest round about, from all his enemies> 2 that the king said unto Nathan the prophet,

See, I pray thee—

[1] I have my abode in a house |of cedar|,

But ||the ark of God|| abideth in the midst |of curtains|.

And Nathan said unto the king,

<All that is in thy heart> go — do,—for Yahweh' is with thee.

So Fu. after Sep. (reading "zechtor for 'zechtor, " Obscure. . . (prob.) a certain measure or cup (of wine or drink);"—T.G. "Actual etym. and range. unknown."—G.n."

The Masseorah makes a break here. Disregarding it, we might render: "And when David, etc., Michal came forth."

So it shd be (w. Sep.)—G.n.
But so it was (in that night) that the word of Yahweh came unto Nathan, saying:

Go and say unto my servant—unto David:

Thus saith Yahweh,— Shalt thou build me a house, for me to dwell in; seeing that I have not dwelt in a house, since the day that I brought up the sons of Israel out of Egypt, even unto this day,—but have been wandering in a tent as my habitation?

Wherefore have ye not built me a house of cedar?

Now therefore, [thus] shalt thou say unto my servant, unto David:

Thus saith Yahweh of hosts, I myself: took thee away from the pasture, from after the flock,—to become leader [over] my people, over Israel; and was with thee, whithersoever thou didst go, and have cut off all thine enemies, from before thee,—and will make thee a name, [like] the name of the great ones who are in the earth; and will appoint a place for my people, for Israel, and will plant them, and they shall inhabit their place, and be unsettled no more,—neither shall the sons of perversion again' humiliate them, as at first; even from the day when I put judges in charge over my people Israel, thus will I give thee rest from all thine enemies.

And Yahweh must tell thee that [a house] will Yahweh make for thee.

And it shall be that, when thy days shall be fulfilled, and thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, then will I raise up thy seed after thee, which shall proceed from thine own body, — and I will establish his kingdom. ||He|| shall build a house for my name,—and I will establish his kingly throne unto times age-abiding:

I will become his father, And [he] shall become my son:

<If he commit iniquity> then will I correct him With the rod of men, And with the stripes of the sons of men;

<According to all these words, and according to all this vision> so spake Nathan unto David.

Then entered King David, and tarried before Yahweh,—and said—

Who' am I, My Lord Yahweh, and what is my house, that thou hast brought me [hitherto]; and hast yet further made this seem little in thine eyes, My Lord, Yahweh, in that thou hast spoken [even of the house] of thy servant, [if] for a great while to come?

This then is the law of manhood.— O My Lord, Yahweh!

What more, then, can David yet' further speak unto thee,—seeing that [thou] thyself knowest thy servant, O My Lord, Yahweh?

<For the sake of thine own word, and according to thine own heart> hast thou done all this great thing,—making it known unto thy servant.

||For this cause|| hast thou magnified thyself, O Yahweh Elohim,—for there is none' like unto thee, yea there is no' God besides thee,—according to all' that we have heard with our ears.

||Who, then|| is like thy people, like Israel, a nation alone' in the earth? whom God went to redeem for himself as a people, so to make himself a name, and to do for you the great deed, fearful things also for thy land, to make way for thy people, whom thou hadst redeemed for thyself, out of Egypt, [dealing with] nations and their gods; and hast established for thyself out of Egypt, with our ears; and for thyself as a people, unto times age-abiding, — [thou] thyself also, O Yahweh, becoming their God.

||Now|| therefore, O Yahweh Elohim, <the word which thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house> confirm thou, unto times age-abiding,—and do ||as thou hast spoken||: that thy name may be age-abidingly magnified, saying, ||Yahweh of hosts|| is God' over Israel, and so ||the house of thy servant David|| be established before thee.

For ||thou', O Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel hath unveiled the ear of thy servant, saying—

A house; I will build for thee. For this cause hast thou spoken unto thy servant this goodness.

Now therefore, O My Lord Yahweh, thou art God, and thy words shall prove true,—therefore hast thou spoken unto thy servant this goodness.

Now therefore, be pleased to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue age-abidingly before thee,—for thou, O My Lord Yahweh, hast spoken, therefore with thine own blessing shall the house of thy servant be age-abidingly blessed.

And it came to pass after this that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them,—and David took the bridle of the metropolis,* out of the hand of the Philistines. And he smote Moab, and measured them with the line, casting them down to the ground, and he measured with two lines to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive,—so the Moabites became David's, as servants, bringing gifts. And David smote Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah,—when he went to lay his hand* on the River Euphrates. And he measured from him, a thousand and seven hundred horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen,—and David destroyed all the chariots, but reserved of them, a hundred chariots.

And <when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadadezer, king of Zobah,> David smote of the Syrians, twenty-two thousand men. Then David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus, and the Syrians became David's, as servants bringing gifts,—and so Yahweh gave victory unto David, whithersoever he went.

And David took the shields of gold which had come to the servants of Hadadezer,—and brought them to Jerusalem;* also <from Betah and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer> did King David take bronze, exceeding much.

And <when Tou, king of Hamath heard> that David had smitten all the forces of Hadadezer,> then Tou sent Hadoram his son unto King David, to ask after his welfare, and to bless him, because he had fought against Hadadezer and had smitten him, for Hadadezer had had wars with Tou,—and in <his hand> were vessels of gold, and vessels of bronze. <Thom also> did King David hallow unto Yahweh,—with the silver and the gold which he had hallowed from all the nations which he had subdued: from Syria,* and from Moab, and from the sons of Ammon, and from the Philistines, and from Amalek,—and from the spoil of Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

And David made a name, when he returned from his smiting of the Syrians in the valley of salt,—eighteen thousand. And he put in Edom garrisons, <throughout all Edom> put he garrisons, and so it was that all Edom became servants unto David,—and Yahweh gave victory unto David, whithersoever he went.

And David reigned over all Israel,—and so it was that David used to execute justice and righteousness for all his people;* and Joab, son of Zeruiah was over the army,—and Jehoshaphat,* son of Ahilud was remembrancer. And Zadok, son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech, son of Abiathar* were priests,—and Seraiah was scribe;* and Benaias, son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites,—and the sons of David became chief rulers.*

§15. Mephibosheth, Jonathan's Son, sought out and highly favoured.

And David said, Is there yet one left unto the house of Saul,—that I may show him lovingkindness, for the sake of Jonathan?

Now unto the house of Saul belonged a servant, whose name was Ziba, and when they had called him unto David, the king said unto him—Art thou Ziba?

And he said—Thy servant!

Then said the king—Is there never a man remaining unto the house of Saul, that I may show him the lovingkindness of God?

And Ziba said unto the king, There remaineth a son unto Jonathan, lame in his feet.
And it came to pass after this that the king said to him, Where is he? And Ziba said unto the king, Lo! he is in the house of Machir son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.

Then sent King David, and fetched him out of the house of Machir son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar. Now when Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, son of Saul, came in unto David, he fell on his face and did homage. And David said, Mephibosheth?

And he said, Lo! thy servant.

And David said to him— Do not fear, for I will indeed shew thee lovingkindness, for the sake of Jonathan thy father, and will restore unto thee all the land of Saul thy father,—but thou thyself shalt eat bread at my table continually.

And he did homage, and said— What is thy servant, that thou hast turned to me in such a dead dog as I?

Then the king called for Ziba, Saul's servant, and said unto him,—All that pertained unto Saul and unto all his house> have I given unto the son of thy lord. Therefore shalt thou till for him the ground, thou and thy sons, and thy servants, and shalt bring in, so that thy lord's servant, [his table] shall continually eat bread at my table.

Now Ziba had fifteen sons, and twenty servants. Then said Ziba unto the king,

According to all that my lord the king shall command his servant, so will thy servant do,—but Mephibosheth shall be at the table of David, as one of the sons of the king.

Now Mephibosheth had a little son, whose name was Micha. And all that dwell in the house of Ziba were servants unto Mephibosheth.

So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem, for at the table of the king, continually, had he to eat,—[he being lame, in both his feet].

§ 16. David makes War upon the Sons of Ammon and upon the Syrians.

And it came to pass after this that the sons of Ammon died,—and that Hanun his son reigned in his stead.

Then said David— I will shew lovingkindness unto Hanun son of Nshaah, as his father shewed unto me lovingkindness.

So David sent to comfort him, by the hand of his servants, as to his father,—and the servants of David came into the land of the sons of Ammon.

Then said the rulers of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun their lord—Is David honouring thy father, in thine eyes, that he hath sent unto thee comforters? Is it not for the sake of exploring the city, and spying it out, and overthrowing it, that David hath sent his servants unto thee?

Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved off half their beards, and cut off their upper garments in the middle, as far as their buttocks,—and let them go. And when they told David, he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed,—and the king said—Tarry at Jericho, until your beards be grown, then shall ye return.

And when the sons of Ammon saw that they had made themselves odious with David> the sons of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba,—twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah,—a thousand men, and men of T6b,—twelve thousand men.

And when David heard of it, he sent Joab and all the army of heroes.

And the sons of Ammon came out, and set in array for battle, at the entrance of the gate,—whereas the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rehob, and the men of T6b and of Maacah, were by themselves, in the field.

And when Joab saw that the front of the battle was towards him [before and behind] he chose out of all the chosen men of Israel, and set them in array against the Syrians; while the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother,—and set [them] in array against the sons of Ammon.

And he said—If the Syrians be too strong for me then shalt thou become my deliverance,—but if the sons of Ammon be too strong for thee then will I come with deliverance to thee.

Be strong, and let us put forth our strength, for the sake of our people, and for the sake of the cities of our God,—and Yahweh do what is good in his own eyes.

And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, to fight against the Syrians,—and they fled before him. And when the sons of Ammon saw that they were defeated before Israel, then fled they before Abishai, and entered the city,—so Joab returned from the sons of Ammon, and entered Jerusalem.

And when the Syrians saw that they were defeated before Israel> they gathered themselves together; and Hadadezer sent and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the River, and they entered Helam,—Shobach the prince of the host of Hadadezer being before them.
And it came to pass at the return of the horse and men that Joab sent David a letter, saying:

"When thou hast ended all the news of the battle, and retired from him, that he be smitten and die."

So it came to pass when Joab was laying siege to the city> that he put Uriah in the place where he knew that the men of valour [were]. And forth sallied the men of the city, and fought with Joab, and there fell some of the people, of the servants of David,—then died also Uriah the Hittite. So Joab sent and told David all the news of the battle; and he charged the messenger saying,—

"When thou hast ended all the news of the battle, in speaking unto the king> then shall it be if the king's anger arise, and he say unto thee, Why' came ye near unto the city, to fight? Knew ye not, that they would shoot from off the wall? Who smote Abimelech son of Jerubbaal? Did not a woman cast on him an upper millstone from off the wall, that he died, in Thebez? Wherefore' came ye near unto the wall? Then shalt thou say— [Moreover] thy servant, Uriah the Hittite] died."

And the messenger went his way,—and came to David, and told David all the news of the battle, and Joab sent Uriah to David. And he charged the messenger saying,—

"When thou hast ended all the news of the battle, in speaking unto the king> then shall it be if the king's anger arise, and he say unto thee, Why' came ye near unto the city, to fight? Knew ye not, that they would shoot from off the wall? Who smote Abimelech son of Jerubbaal? Did not a woman cast on him an upper millstone from off the wall, that he died, in Thebez? Wherefore' came ye near unto the wall? Then shalt thou say— [Moreover] thy servant, Uriah the Hittite] died."

And the messenger went his way,—and came in, and told David, all that Joab had sent him [to tell]. And the messenger said unto David, "The men were too strong' for us, and sallied forth against us, in the field,—so we were drawn against them as far as the opening of the gate. Then did the archers shoot upon thy servants, from off the wall, and there died' some of the servants of the king,—[moreover also] thy servant, Uriah the Hittite] died."
Then said David unto the messenger—

| Thus shalt thou say unto Joab,— | So then Yahweh spake unto Nathan the prophet—

| And when Uriah’s wife heard that Uriah her husband was dead— she made loud lamentation over her lord. | And when the time of mourning had passed— David sent and received her into his house, and she became his wife, and bare him a son. But the thing which David had done was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh.

| Then said Nathan unto David: | So then Yahweh sent Nathan the prophet unto David,—who therefore came unto him and said to him—

| Two men there were in a certain city, | Two men there were in a certain city,

| the one rich, and the other poor. | the one rich, and the other poor. 2 The rich man had flocks and herds exceeding many; whereas the poor man had nothing,—save one little lamb, which he had made his own, and sustained, and it had grown up with him, and with his children, all together;—of his own morsel> used it to eat, and out of his own cup> used it to drink, and in his own bosom> used it to lie, and it was to him [as a daughter].

| Thus saith Yahweh,— | Thus saith Yahweh,—

| Behold me raising up over thee calamity out of thine own household, and I will take thy wives, before thine eyes, and give unto thy neighbour, and he will lie with thy wives, in the eyes of this sun. | Behold me raising up over thee calamity out of thine own household, and I will take thy wives, before thine eyes, and give unto thy neighbour, and he will lie with thy wives, in the eyes of this sun.

And the elders of his house stood up over him, to raise him from the ground,—but he would not, neither would he eat food with them. And it came to pass one day that the child died,—but the servants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead, for said they—Lo! while the child was living we spake unto him, and he hearkened not unto our voice, how then can we say unto him, The child is dead, and so he do [himself] harm?

and anointed, and changed his apparel, and entering into the house of Yahweh bowed himself down, then came he into his own house, and asked, and they set before him food, and he did eat. Then said his servants unto him, What is this thing that thou hast done? For the child's sake, while living thou didst fast and weep, but as soon as the child was dead thou didst arise and eat food.

And he said—While yet the child lived I fasted, and went, for I said—Who knoweth whether Yahweh may not grant me favour, and the child live? But if he be dead, wherefore should I go on fasting? can I bring him back again? I am going unto him; but he will not come back unto me.

And David consoled Bath-sheba his wife, and Joab fought against Kabbah, of the house of Ammon; and captured it. Then took he the crown of Milcom from off his head, and Milcom being a talent of gold, with the precious stones, F brought he forth in spoil of the city also, brought he forth, and put them to the head of David, and asked, and they set before him food, and he did eat. Then said his servants unto him, —<the child was dead> thou didst fast and weep, but <as soon as the child was dead> thou didst arise and eat food.

But <now> that he is dead wherefore should I go on fasting? can I bring him back again? I am going unto him; but he will not come back unto me.

And Joab fought against Rabbah, of the sons of Ammon, — and captured the royal city. Then sent he messengers unto David, — and he said—

So David gathered together all the people, and he said—

I have fought against Rabbah, I have also captured the city of the waters. —<the spoil of the city also> brought he forth in great abundance; —<the people also that were therein> brought he forth, and put them to the saw, and to threshing sledges of iron, and to axes of iron, and made them pass through the brick-kiln, and brought he to do unto all the cities of the sons of Ammon. — And David and all the people returned unto Jerusalem.

§ 19. Absalom's sister Tamar forced by her brother Amnon: Absalom slays him and flees.

And it came to pass <after this> that "Absalom, son of David" —<having a beautiful sister, whose name was Tamar> Amnon son of David loved her. — And it so troubled Amnon, that he made himself ill on account of Tamar his sister, for  was she', and it was monstrous in Amnon's own eyes, to do <anything> unto her. — But <Amnon> had a friend, whose name was Jonadab, son of Shimeah, David's brother, — and <Jonadab> was a very cunning man. —<For the child's sake, while living> thou mayest not speak unto him. Henceforth thou shalt not tell me?

And Amnon said unto him,

<With Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister> am I in love.

And Jonadab * said unto him:

Take to thy bed, and feign thyself ill,— and <when thy father cometh in to see thee> then shalt thou say unto him—

I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, that she may give me food, and let her prepare before mine eyes, some delicacy, to the end that I may see [it made], and so eat at her hand.

So Amnon took to his bed, and feigned himself ill,— and <when the king came in to see him> Amnon said unto the king—

I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make ready before mine eyes a couple of cakes, that I may eat at her hand.

So David sent unto Tamar, in the house—

Say, Come, I pray thee, to the house of Amnon thy brother, and prepare him enticing food.

And Tamar went to the house of Amnon her brother, and prepared a couple of cakes, that I may eat at her hand. —

So she went and said unto her brother Amnon,—Bring the food into the chamber, that I may eat out of thine own hand. —

And they went out every one from him. —

And Amnon took to his bed, and feigned himself ill,— and <when the king came in to see him> Amnon said unto the king—

I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make ready before mine eyes a couple of cakes, that I may eat at her hand.

Come, I pray thee, to the house of Amnon thy brother, and prepare him enticing food.

And Tamar went to the house of Amnon her brother, —<he being taken to his bed>— and took dough and kneaded it, and folded it before his eyes, and baked the cakes. — Then took she the pan and put them out before him, but he refused to eat. —

And Amnon said—

Have forth every one from me. —

And they went out every one from him. —

Then said Amnon unto Tamar—

Bring the food into the chamber, that I may eat out of thine own hand. —

And Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought unto Amnon her brother in the chamber. —

And <when she brought them unto him to eat> he took hold of her, and said to her—

Come lie with me, my sister! —

But she said to him—

Nay! my brother, do not force me, for it should not be done so in Israel,— do not commit this wileness. — And [I]—whether could I take my reproach? — Thou too, wouldest be as one of the vile fellows, in Israel. —<Now> therefore, speak, I pray thee,

Come lie with me, my sister! —

But she said to him—

Nay! my brother, do not force me, for it should not be done so in Israel,— do not commit this wileness. — And [I]— whether could I take my reproach? — Thou too, wouldest be as one of the vile fellows, in Israel. —<Now> therefore, speak, I pray thee.
2 Samuel XIII. 14–38.

Absalom had commanded his young men, saying—

Mark, I pray you, <when the heart of Amnon is merry with wine, and I say unto you—then shall ye put him to death, do not fear,—have not [I myself] commanded you? Be bold, and show yourselves to be sons of valour.

Smite ye Amnon>

29 So Absalom’s young men did to Amnon as Absalom had commanded. Then arose all the king’s sons, and rode away—each man on his mule, and fled.

30 And it came to pass <while they> were yet on the road > that [the report] reached David, saying,— Absalom had smitten all the king’s sons, and there is not left of them [none].

31 And the king arose, and rent his garments, and lay on the ground,—and all his servants who stood by rent* their garments. 32 Then responded Jonadab son of Shimeah David’s brother, and said—

Let not my lord say that they have put [all the young men—the king’s sons] to death; for [Ammon alone] is dead; for [by the bidding of Absolom] was it appointed, from the day that he forced Tamar his sister.

33 'Now therefore, let not my lord the king lay to his heart such a thing—to say: All the king’s sons are dead,—but [Ammon alone] is dead.

34 Now Absalom had fled. And the young man that was watching lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! much people coming on the road behind him, on the mountain-side. 35 So Jonadab said unto the king, Lo! [the king’s sons] are come,—<according to the word of thy servant> so hath it come to pass.

36 And so it was <as he made an end of speaking> that lo! [the king’s sons] came, and lifted up their voice and wept,—<the king also, and all his servants> wept with an exceeding great weeping.

37 But [Absalom had fled], and had taken his journey unto Talmai son of Ammihud,* king of Geshur. And David the king mourned for his son continually.* 38 But [Absalom had fled], and had taken his journey to Geshur,—and it came to pass that he was there three

But he would not hearken unto her voice,—and <being stronger than she> forced her, and lay with her.

Then did Amnon hate her with a very great hatred, for [greater] was the hatred wherewith he hated her, than the love wherewith he had loved her,—so Amnon said to her—

And the spirit of the king pined to go forth unto Absolom,—for he had consolled himself over Amnon, in that he was dead.

20. Joab employs a Wise Woman of Tekoa to induce David to recall Absolom: A Tardy Reconciliation.

And Joab, son of Zeruiah, perceived that the heart of the king was towards Absolom. So Joab sent to Tekoa, and fetched from thence, a wise woman,—and said unto her—

I pray thee, feign thyself a mourner, and put on mourning apparel, and do not anoint thyself with oil, but be as a woman that hath these many days been mourning for the dead; so shalt thou come in unto the king, and speak unto him, [after this manner].

And Joab put the words in her mouth.

And when the woman of Tekoa came in unto the king, she fell on her face to the ground, and did homage,—and said—

Save, O king!

And the king said to her—

What aileth thee?

And she said—

Of a truth, a widow woman am I, for my husband is dead. Now my maidservant had two sons, and they two strove together in the field, with none to tear them apart,—so the one smote the other, and slew him. Lo! therefore, all the family hath risen up against my maidservant, and have said:

Give up him that hath smitten his brother, that we may put him to death, for the life of his brother, whom he hath slain, that we may destroy the heir also.

So will they quench my ember that is left, and make my husband without name or remainder, on the face of the ground.

And the king said unto the woman—

Go to thy house, and I will give command concerning thee.

Then said the woman of Tekoa unto the king, Upon me, my lord, O king, be the iniquity, and upon the house of my father,—but the king and his throne be guiltless.

And the king said,—

<By the life of Yahweh> not one hair of thy son shall fall to the earth.

Then said the woman,

Pray let thy maidservant speak unto my lord the king, a word.

And he said—

Speak.

And the woman said,

Wherefore, then, hast thou devised the like of this for the people of God; and yet the king, in speaking this word, is verily guilty, unless the king bring back his fugitive? For when we die we become as water poured on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again,—therefore doth God not take away the life, but deviseth plans so as not to thrust out from him, a fugitive.

Now therefore, [is it] that I have come to speak unto the king my lord this word, because the people kept putting me in fear,—so thy maidservant said—

Do let me, I pray you, speak unto the king! peradventure the king will fulfil the request of his handmaid.

For the king can hearken, to rescue his handmaid out of the power of the man who would seek to destroy both me and my son together, out of the inheritance of God.

So thy maidservant said,

Pray let the word of my lord the king be comforting,—for as the messenger of God so is my lord the king, in hearing the good and the bad, Yahweh thy God then, be with thee.

Then responded the king, and said unto the woman,

Nay, now! do not hide from me the thing which I am about to ask thee.

And the woman answered and said—

<By the life of thy soul> my lord, O king, there is no way to the right or to the left, of anything that my lord the king hath spoken, for thy servant Joab himself charged me, and himself put in the mouth of thy maidservant, all these words:

for the purpose of turning round the face of the matter hath thy servant Joab done this thing,—my lord being wise, as with the wisdom of a messenger of God, in knowing all that is done in the land. Then said the king unto Joab, See, I pray thee, I have done this thing,—go then—bring back the young man, Absolom.

So Joab fell with his face to the earth, and did homage, and blessed the king, — and Joab said—

||To-day|| doth thy servant know, that I have found favour in thine eyes, my lord 0 king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of thy * servant.

And Joab arose, and went to Geshur, — and brought Absalom to Jerusalem. And the king said—

Let him go round to his own house, and let him not see.

So Absalom went round, unto his own house, and the face of the king saw he not.

Now like unto Absalom was there no man handsome in all Israel, to be greatly praised,— from the sole of his foot, even unto the crown of his head there was not, in him, a blemish ||. * And when he polled his head— he would weigh the hair of his head, two hundred shekels, by the royal standard. " And there were born to Absalom three sons, and one daughter, || whose name Tamar, — HshelI was a woman beautiful to look upon.

So Absalom dwelt in Jerusalem two years of days,— and the face of the king had he not seen. Then sent Absalom unto Joab, to send him unto the king, but he would not come — so he sent yet a second time, but he would not come. Then said he unto his servants—

See || the allotted portion of Joab || adjoineth me, and he hath barley there, go, and set' it on fire.

So the servants of Absalom set the portion on fire. Then rose Joab, and went unto Absalom, in his house,— and said unto him, |Wherefore| have thy servants set the portion that pertaineth to me, on fire?

And Absalom said unto Joab—

Lo ! I sent unto thee, saying — Come hither, that I may send thee unto the king, saying— |Wherefore| am I come from Geshur? ||I might as well have yet' been there. ||Now| therefore, let me see the face of the king, and || if there is' in me iniquity || then let him put me to death.

So Joab came unto the king, and told him, and the king called for Absalom, and he came in unto the king, and bowed himself down* with his face to the ground, before the king,— and the king kissed Absalom.

1 And it came to pass <after this> that Absolom prepared him chariots and horses,— and fifty men, to run before him. 2 And Absalom used to rise up early, and take his stand beside the way of the gate,— and so it was— <when any man who had a controversy would come unto the king for judgment> then Absalom called unto him, and said:

||Of what city|| art [thou]?

And he said,

|<Of one of the tribes of Israel> is thy servant. And Absalom said unto him, |

§ 22. David in alarm takes flight from Jerusalem: Pathetic Incidents.

13 Then came one bearing tidings unto David, saying,—

It hath come about, that the heart of the men of Israel goeth after Absalom.
Then said David, to all his servants who were with him in Jerusalem—

Arise and let us flee, or we shall have no way of escape from the face of Absalom,—make speed to depart, lest he make speed, and so overtake us, and bring down misfortune upon us, and smite the city with the edge of the sword.

And the king's servants said unto the king,—

<According to all* that my lord the king shall choose> here are thy servants.

So the king went forth, with all his household, attending him,—but the king left ten women who were concubines, to keep the house.

Thus then the king went forth, with all the people attending him,—and they came to a stand at a place that was far off.

And all his servants were passing on beside him, and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites,—and all the Gittites—six hundred men, who had accompanied him from Gath,—were passing on before the king.

Then said the king, unto Ittai the Gittite,

Wherefore shouldest thou also go with us? return and abide with the king, for  art thou, moreover also <an exile> art thou from thine own country.

<Only yesterday> camest thou, and <to-day> shall I let thee wander with us, on our journey, seeing that ||I am going whithersoever I may!* Return and take back thy brethren with thee, and may Yahweh deal with thee in lovingkindness and faithfulness.

But Ittai answered the king, and said,—

<By the life of Yahweh, and by the life of my lord the king> surely <in whatsoever place> my lord the king ||may be, whether for death or for life> there will ||thy servant> be.

Then said David unto Ittai—

Go, and pass on.

So Ittai the Gittite passed on, with all his men, and all the little ones that were with him.

And ||all the land was weeping, with a loud voice, and ||all the people were passing on,—||the king also was passing on, through the torrent-bed of Kidron, and all the people were passing on over the face of the way leading to the wilderness.

And lo! ||Zadok also, and all the Levites with him: were bearing the ark of the covenant of God, and they set down the ark of God, and Abiathar went up,—until all the people had made an end of passing over out of the city.

Then said the king unto Zadok,

Take back the ark of God into the city,—<if I find favour in the eyes of Yahweh> then will he bring me back, and let me see both him and his habitation,* but <if> thus> he say,

I have no delight in thee> here I am, let him do unto me as may be good in his eyes.

And the king said, unto Zadok the priest,

Art thou not a seer? return into the city, in peace,—and Ahimaz thine own son, and Jonathan son of Abiathar—your two sons, with you.

See! ||I am tarrying in the waste plains* of the wilderness,—until there come word from you, to tell me.

So Zadok and Abiathar took back the ark of God to Jerusalem,—and abode there.

Now ||David was going up by the ascent of Olivet, weeping as he went up, with his head covered, ||himself passing on barefoot,—and all the people who were with him covered every man his head, and went up, weeping as they went.

And ||unto David it was told, saying,

||Ahithophel|| is among the conspirators' with Absalom.

And David said,

Turn to foolishness, I pray thee, the counsel of Ahithophel, O Yahweh.

And it came to pass <when David reached the summit, where he bowed himself down unto God> that lo! there met him, Hushai the Archite, his tunic rent, and earth upon his head.

And David said unto him,—

<If thou pass over with me> then shalt thou become unto me, a burden; ||but <if> to the city thou return> then canst thou say unto Absalom—

<Thy servant> ||O king, will be, <as the servant of thy father> I was formerly> so will I ||now> be thy servant:

thus shalt thou frustrate for me' the counsel of Ahithophel.

And hast thou not, with thee, there' Zadok and Abiathar the priests? so then it shall be, that <what thing soever thou shalt hear out of the house of the king> thou shalt tell to Zadok and to Abiathar, the priests.

Lo!* they have there with them, their two sons, Ahimaz for Zadok, and Jonathán for Abiathar,—so shall ye send, by their hand, unto me, everything which ye shall hear.

So Hushai, David's friend, went into the city,—when ||Absalom> was about to enter Jerusalem.

1 Now ||David had passed on but a little from 16 the summit, when lo! ||Ziba, servant of Mephibosheth, met him,—with a couple of asses saddled, and ||upon them two hundred cakes of bread, and one hundred cakes of raisins, and one hundred summer fruits, and a skin of wine. 3 And the king said unto Ziba, What meanest thou [by these]? And Ziba said—

"The asses[1] are for the king's household, to ride on, and [the bread and the summer fruits] are for the young men to eat, and [the wine] is for drink to such as are faint in the wilderness.

3 Then said the king, And where is thy lord's son? And Ziba said unto the king—

"Lo! abiding in Jerusalem, for he said, 'Shall I go down of thine house?' And he pelted, with stones, David and all the servants of King David,—[all the people, and all the mighty men, being on his right hand and on his left]."

4 Then said the king unto Ziba, "Lo! <thine> is all that pertained to Mephibosheth. And Ziba said—

"I have done homage, that I might find favour in thine eyes, my lord O king."

5 And <when King David had come as far as Bahurim>, lo! from thence a man coming out, of the family of the house of Saul, [whose name] was Shimei son of Gera, coming out and cursing as he came. 6 And he pelted, with stones, David and all the servants of King David,—[all the people, and all the mighty men, being on his right hand and on his left]. 7 And [thus] said Shimei, when he cursed,— "Out! Out! thou man of bloodshed, and man of the Abandoned One!"

8 Yahweh [hath brought back upon thee] all the shed-blood of the house of Saul, in whose stead thou hast reigned, and Yahweh hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son,—[and here thou art] in thy ruin, for that [a man of bloodshed] thou art'.

9 Then said Abishai, son of Zeruiah, unto the king—

"Wherefore should this dead dog curse my lord the king? I pray thee, let me cross over and take off his head.

10 But the king said, What have I in common with you, ye sons of Zeruiah? [thus] he cursed, because [Yahweh] hath said unto him—

"Curse David'.

Who then can say, Why hast thou done thus?"

11 Then said David unto Abishai, and unto all his servants, "Lo! [my own son who sprung from my body] is seeking my life,—then how much more [now] a Benjamite? Let him alone, and let him curse, for [Yahweh] hath permitted him.

12 [It may be] that Yahweh will behold with his eye,—and that Yahweh will return me good, for his cursing this day.

13 And <when David and his men went along in the way>, [Shimei] was going along on the side of the hill over against him, cursing as he went, pelt ing him with stones, and throwing dust. 14 And the king and all the people that were with him arrived, weary,—and they refreshed themselves there.

§ 23. Absalom enters Jerusalem, where he confer with his Counsellors, follows odious Advice, and resolves on the Pursuit of his Father.

16 And it came to pass <when Hushai the Archite, the friend of David, came into Absalom> that Hushai said unto Absalom:—

"Long live the king! Long live the king!'

17 Then said Absalom unto Hushai, Is [this] thy lovingkindness unto thy friend? Wherefore wentest thou not with thy friend? 18 And Hushai said unto Absalom, Nay! but [whom Yahweh, and all this people, and the men of Israel have chosen] will I be, and [with him] will I dwell. 19 And [again] whom [shall] I serve? Should it not be in presence of his son? <as I served in presence of thy father> [so] will I continue in thy presence.

20 Then said Absalom unto Ahithophel,—

"Give ye your counsel, what we shall do."

21 And Ahithophel said unto Absalom, Go in unto thy father's concubines, whom he hath left to keep the house,—so shall all Israel hear that thou hast made thyself odious unto thy father, and the hands of all that are with thee shall be strengthened.

22 And they stretched out for Absalom a tent, upon the house-top,—and Absalom went in unto his father's concubines, in the sight of all Israel. 23 Now [the counsel of Ahithophel which he counselled in those days] was as if a man [had] enquired at the oracle of God,—[so] was all the counsel of Ahithophel, [both to David, and also to Absalom].

1 Then said Ahithophel unto Absalom:—

"I pray thee, let me choose for myself twelve thousand men, and arise, and pursue David to-night; and let me come upon him, when [he] is weary, and weak-handed, so shall I strike him with terror, and all the people who are with him shall flee,—then will I smite the king alone: [that I may bring back all the people unto thee,—<when all return—save> the man whom thou art seeking>] all the people] will be at peace.

24. David, receiving private Information from Jerusalem, crosses the Jordan and enters Mahanaim, where he is succoured with Provisions.

So Hushai said unto Zadok and unto Abiathar the priests,

Thus and thus did Ahithophel counsel Absalom and the elders of Israel,—and thus and thus have [I] counselled.

Now [Jonathan and Abiamaaz] were staying by En-rogel, and a maid servant was to go and tell them, and [they] were to go and tell King David,—for they might not be seen to enter the city. And <though a young man did see them, and told Absalom> yet they both departed quickly, and entered the house of a man in Baheerim, and [he] had a well in his court, into which they went down; and the woman took and spread the cover over the face of the well, and spread thereon her pounded corn,—so nothing was known. Then came the servants of Absalom unto the woman in the house, and said—

Where are Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman said to them—

They have passed over the stream of water. And <when they had searched and not found> they returned to Jerusalem. And <though a young man did see them, and told Absalom> yet they both departed quickly, and entered the house of a man in Baheerim, and [he] had a well in his court, into which they went down; and the woman took and spread the cover over the face of the well, and spread thereon her pounded corn,—so nothing was known.

Then came the servants of Absalom unto the woman in the house, and said—

Arise ye and pass quickly over the water, for <thus and thus> hath Ahithophel counselled against you.

So David arose, and all the people who were with him, and passed over the Jordan,— <by the morning light> [so much as one] was not lacking, who had not passed over the Jordan.

Now <when Ahithophel> saw that his counsel was not followed> he saddled his ass, and arose and went unto his own house, unto his own city, and gave charge unto his household, and changed himself,—and died, and was buried in the grave of his father.

When [David] had come to Mahanaim, [Absalom] had passed over the Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him. Now Absalom had appointed [Ahimaaz] instead of Joab, over the army,—[Ahimaaz] being the son... of a man whose name was Ithra the Ishmaelite, who went in unto Abigail, daughter of Nahash, sister of Zeruiah, mother of Joab. 39 And Israel and Absalom encamped in the land of Gilead.

27 And it came to pass when David entered Mahanaim, that Shobi son of Nahash of Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and Machir son of Ammiel of Lo-debar, and Barzillai the Gileadite, of Rogelim, brought sleeping rugs, and basins, and earthen vessels, and wheat and barley, and meal and roasted corn, and beans and lentils, and parched pulse; and honey and cream, and sheep and cheese of kine, for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat, for they said, The people are hungry and weary and thirsty in the wilderness.

§ 25. David's Army gives battle to Absalom's and defeats it: Absalom's Death and David's Lament: The King is roused from his Grief by Joab.

18 Then David mustered the people that were with him, and set over them captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds. And David sent forth the people—a third part under the hand of Joab, and a third part under the hand of Abishai son of Zeruiah, brother of Joab, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite. Then said the king unto the people, I will surely go forth with you. But the people said—Thou must not go forth, for if we flee thou wilt not regard us, neither if half of us die will they regard us, neither if thou art compared with us art thou better than thou comest out of the city with succour. And the king said unto them—Whatever is best in your eyes I will do. And the king stood beside the gate, while all the people came out by hundreds and by thousands. And the king charged Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even Absalom. And all the people heard when the king charged all the captains, for the sake of Absalom.

So the people went forth into the field against Israel, and the battle took place in the forest of Ephraim. Then were the people of Israel defeated there, before the servants of David, and the slaughter there was great, on that day, twenty thousand. And the battle there was spread out over the face of all the land, and the forest devoured more of the people than the sword devoured on that day.

9 Now when Absalom met the servants of David, Absalom was riding upon a mule, and the mule came under the thick branches of a large oak, and his head caught hold of the oak, and he was suspended between heaven and earth, the mule that was under him passing on. And a certain man saw it, and told Joab, and said—Lo! I saw Absalom suspended in an oak.

Then said Joab to the man that was telling him, Lo! since thou sawest him why didst thou not smite him there, to the ground? then should I have been bound to give thee ten pieces of silver, and a girdle. And the man said unto Joab, Though I were weighing upon my palm ten thousand, yet would I not put forth my hand against the son of the king; for in our hearing the king charged thee and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Watch any man who would touch the young man Absalom.

12 Otherwise had I dealt with my life falsely (and nothing can be hid from the king) then wouldst thou have stood aloof.

14 And Joab said, Not thus may I tarry before thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thrust them into the heart of Absalom, while he was yet alive in the midst of the oak. Then came round ten young men who bare Joab's armour, and smote Absalom, and slew him.

16 Then Joab blew with a horn, and the people returned from pursuing Israel, for Joab had restrained the people. And they took Absalom, and cast him in the forest, into a large pit, and raised up over him a very great heap of stones, and all Israel fled, every man to his home.

18 But Absalom had taken, and raised up for himself, in his lifetime, the pillar that is in the king's vale, for he said, I have no son, to keep in remembrance my name, so he called the pillar after his own name, and it is called Absalom's monument unto this day.

19 Then Ahimaaz, son of Zadok said, Let me run, I pray thee, and carry tidings unto the king, how that Yahweh hath vindicated him at the hand of his enemies.

20 And Joab said to him—Not a man to bear tidings art thou this day, but thou shalt bear tidings another day, but this day shalt thou not bear tidings, for this cause that the king's son is dead.
Then said Joab to a Cushite,
Go tell the king, what thou hast seen.
And the Cushite bowed himself down to Joab, and ran. 2 Then yet again said Ahimaaz son of Zadok unto Joab.
But be what may do, I pray thee, let me also run, after the Cushite.
And Joab said—
Wherefore is it that thou wouldst run, my son, when thou hast no tidings of any profit?
0 But be what may I will run.
So he said to him—
Run.
Then ran Ahimaaz by the way of the plain,* and got beyond the Cushite.
Now David was sitting between the two gates,— and the watchman went on to the top of the gate-house, upon the wall, and lifted up his eyes, and looked, and lo! a man, running alone. So the watchman called out, and told the king. And the king said,
If he is ill, there are tidings in his mouth.
And he came on nearer and nearer. Then saw the watchman another man, running, so he called out unto the porter,
Lo! a man, running alone. And the king said,
This one also beareth tidings.
Then said the watchman,
It seemeth to me, that the running of the foremost is like the running of Ahimaaz son of Zadok.
And the king said,
A good man is he, and with good tidings he cometh.

Then called out Ahimaaz, and said unto the king, Peace!
And he bowed himself down to the king, with his face to the earth,— and said—
Blessed be Yahweh thy God, who hath surrendered the men who were lifting up their hand, against my lord the king.
And the king said,
Is it well with the young man—Absolom?
Then said Ahimaaz—
I saw a great crowd, when Joab sent the king's servant and [me] thy servant, but I knew not what it meant.
And the king said,
Aside! stand here.
So he turned aside, and stood.
Then lo! the Cushite coming in,— and the Cushite said—<Tidings> gettesth my lord the king, how that Yahweh hath vindicated thee to-day, at the hand of all them who had risen up against thee.

And the king said unto the Cushite—
Is it well with the young man—Absolom?
Then said the Cushite—
Be <like the young man> the enemies of my lord the king, and all who have risen up against thee, for harm.

Then was the king deeply moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept,— and thus he said as he went—
O my son Absolom, my son—my son—Absolom! could I but have died in thy stead, O Absolom, my son—my son!

And it was told Joab,—
Lo! the king is weeping and mourning over Absolom.
So the victory, on that day, was turned into mourning, with all the people,— for the people heard, on that day, saying,
The king is distressed for his son.
And the people stole away, on that day, to go into the city,— as people steal away who are put to shame, when they flee in battle.
But the king muffled his face, and the king made outcry, with a loud voice,— O my son Absolom, O Absolom, my son, my son!

Then came Joab unto the king, in the house,— and said—
Thou hast, to-day, covered with shame the faces of all thy servants, who have rescued thy life to-day, and the lives of thy sons and thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines; by loving them who hated thee, and hating them who loved thee,—for thou hast declared, to-day, that nothing to thee are princes or servants, for I perceive, to-day, that if Absolom had lived, and all well to-day had died> that then it had been right in thine eyes.

Now therefore, rise— go forth, and speak unto the heart* of thy servants,— for by Yahweh have I sworn, that if thou do not go forth not a man shall tarry with thee to-night, and this will be to thee a greater misfortune than all the misfortune that hath come upon thee from thy youth until now.

So the king arose, and took his seat in the gate, — and <to all the people> was it told, saying—Lo! the king is sitting in the gate.
Then came all the people before the king, but Israel had fled every man to his home.

§ 26. The Bringing Back of the King.

And it came to pass that all the people were reproaching one another, throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying,—
The king delivered us out of the hand of our enemies, and [he] rescued us out of the hand of the Philistines, but [now] he hath fled out of the land, away from Absalom; and [Absalom, whom we anointed over us] hath died' in the battle.

Now therefore, why are ye silent as to bringing back the king?

And [King David] sent unto Zadok and unto Abiathar the priests, saying,

Speak ye unto the elders of Judah, saying, Wherefore should ye be behindhand, in bringing back the king unto his home,—seeing that [the speech of all Israel] hath come unto the king, regarding his home?

< Mine own brethren > are ye', < my bone and my flesh > are ye',—wherefore then should ye be behindhand in bringing back the king?

And < unto Amasa > shall ye say, Art not thou my bone, and my flesh? Let God do to me, and so let him add, if thou become not [prince of the army] before me continually, instead of Joab.

Thus bowed he the heart of all the men of Judah, as one man,—and they sent unto the king, Return, [thou, and all thy servants].

Then the king returned, and came as far as the Jordan,—and [Judah] came to Gilgal, to go* and meet the king, to escort the king over the Jordan.

Then hastened Shimei, son of Gera, the Benjamite, who was of Bahurim,—and came down, with the men of Judah, to meet King David. And [a thousand men] were with him, out of Benjamin, Ziba also, servant of the house of Saul, and his fifteen sons and twenty servants, with him,—and they went through the Jordan, before the king. But the ferry-boat kept crossing, to bring over the household of the king, and to do what was good in his eyes. And [Shimei, son of Gera] fell down before the king, when he had passed over the Jordan; and he said unto the king—Let not my lord impute to me iniquity, neither do thou remember the perverseness of thy servant, on the day that thou wentest out, my lord O king.b from Jerusalem, that the king should lay it upon his heart.

For thy servant doth know, that I have sinned.

Then responded Abishai, son of Zeruiah, and said,<For this> shall not Shimei be put to death, for that he cursed the Anointed of Yahweh?

But David said, What have I in common with you, ye sons of Zeruiah, for ye would become to me, to-day, a very traitor!

[The king] said unto Shimei—Shall there [to-day] be put to death a man in Israel? for do I not know, that [to-day] I am king over Israel?

Then said the king unto Shimei—Thou shalt not die.

And the king told him, that he should return to his house, and take of his own household, five loaves of bread, and ten cheeses, and five fat oxen, and ten choice cars of corn, and send them to the king's house.

And Shimei said unto the king, That am I, who am able to go to the king—unto this day?—and that shall be given unto me, that I may go to the king? and what shall I do, as this man has done?—for he cursed the Anointed of Yahweh.

To-day shall not peace be between me and thee, my lord O king?

Therefore the king said unto Shimei—Thou shouldst not speak any further of thine affairs. I have said—[Thou and Ziba] shall share the land.

And Mephibosheth said unto the king,<Even the whole> let him take,—now that my lord the king hath entered, in peace, into his own house.

And [Barzillai the Gileadite] came down from Rogelim,—and passed, with the king, over the Jordan, to escort him over the Jordan. Now [Barzillai] was very aged, eighty years old,—and [he himself] had sustained the king, throughout his sojourn in Mahanaim, for he was [an exceeding great man].

So then the king said unto Barzillai,—[Thou] come over with me, and I will sustain thee with me, in Jerusalem.

But Barzillai said unto the king,—

Like unto what> are the days of the years of my life, that I should come up with the king, to Jerusalem? <Eighty years old> am I—could I discern between good and bad? or could thy servant taste what I might eat, and what I might drink? or could I hearken any more> to the voice of singing men and singing women? Where d}
fore, then, should thy servant yet' be a burden' unto my lord the king?

> Just a little way > will thy servant pass over the Jordan with the king,—but wherefore should the king recompense me with this reward? 27 Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, by the grave of my father, and my mother. But here' is thy servant—Chimham;—let him pass over with my lord the king, and do unto him, that which may be good in thine eyes.

> Then said the king,

< With me > shall Chimham pass over, and I will do unto him that which shall be good in thine eyes,—and < whatsoever thou shalt choose to lay upon me > I will do for thee.

> And when all the people had passed over the Jordan > then the king > passed over, and < the king > kissed Barzillai, and blessed him, and he returned unto his own place.

And the king passed over to Gilgal, and Chimham passed over with him,—and all the people of Judah, escorted the king, yea moreover | half the people of Israel. 41 Then lo! (all the men of Israel) were coming unto the king,—and they said unto the king—

Why did our brethren the men of Judah steal thee away, and escort the king and his household over the Jordan, and all the men of David with him?

> And all the men of Judah made answer unto the men of Israel—

Because the king is near of kin unto us, wherefore, then, is it, that ye are angry over this matter? Have we not eaten at the king's cost? or hath he bestowed any gifts upon us?

> And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said—

<Ten parts> have we in the king, therefore < even in David > have we more right than ye.... Why, then, made ye light of us, so that our word was not heard first as to bringing back our king?

And [the words of the men of Judah] were fierce ' than [the words of the men of Israel].

§ 27. An incipient Rebellion under Bichri crushed by Joab, who assassinates his rival Amasa.

New List of David's Ministers.

20 1 Now in that place there happened to be an abandoned man, | whose name | was Sheba son of Bichri, a man of Benjamin,—so he blew a horn, and said—

We have no share in David,
Nor inheritance have we | in the son of Jesse,
Every man to his home,—O Israel!

> [in that place] there happened to be an abandoned man, | whose name | was Sheba son of Bichri, a man of Benjamin,—so he blow a horn, and said—

We have no share in David,
Nor inheritance have we | in the son of Jesse,
Every man to his home,—O Israel!

Ml. 4: "man of Belial" ("the Lost One"). Cp. Hastings' D.B., s. v.
* "Translate rather 'the Bichrite,' i.e., a member of the clan which traced its descent to Becher, the son of Benjamin: (Gen. xlvii. 21) — "Hastings' D.B. p. 290.

2 Then went up all the men of Israel from following David, to follow Sheba son of Bichri,—but (the men of Judah) clave unto their king, from the Jordan, even as far as Jerusalem.

3 And David entered into his own house, in Jerusalem, and the king took the ten women, the concubines whom he had left to keep the house, and put them in ward, and sustained them, but unto them, went he not in,—so they were shut up until the day of their death, in lifelong widowhood.

4 Then said the king unto Amasa,

Assemble me the men of Judah, within three days,—and < thou || here > take thy stand!

So Amasa went, to assemble Judah,—but he tarried beyond the fixed time, which he had appointed him. 4 Then said David unto Abishai, | Now || shall Sheba son of Bichri, do us more harm than Abdolom,—< thou || here > take the servants of thy lord, and pursue him, lest he have got him into fortified cities, and so have escaped our eye.

7 Then went out after him—the men of Joab, and the Cherethites and the Pelathites, and all the mighty men,—and they went out from Jerusalem, to pursue Sheba son of Bichri.

8 When < they > were by the great stone which is in Gibeon || Amasa had arrived before them. Now || Joab || was girded about with his war-coat as his upper garment, and (over it) a girdle with a sword, fastened upon his loins, in the sheath thereof, and it came out and fell. 9 Then said Joab unto Amasa,

Art thou well, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard with his right hand, to kiss him. 10 Amasa not heeding the sword that was in the hand of Joab> he smote him therewith in the belly, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and struck him not again, and he died. So || Joab and Abishai his brother || pursued Sheba son of Bichri.

11 Now || there stood over him, of the young men of Joab,—and said—

<Whosoever is well pleased with Joab, and whosoever pertaineth to David > let him follow Joab.

12 But || Amasa || was wallowing in blood, in the midst of the highway,—and < when the man saw that all the people stood still > he moved Amasa, out of the highway into the field, and...
cast over him a garment, [as soon as he saw'] that every man that came up to him stood still. 13 <When he had removed him out of the highway> every man passed on, after Joab, to pursue Sheba son of Bichri.

14 And he passed on throughout all the tribes of Israel, unto Abel and unto Beth-maachah, and all the Berites,—and they were called together, and came in, yea and followed him. 15 So they came, and laid siege against him, in Abel, Beth-maachah, and they cast up a mound against the city, so that it stood within a rampart,—and [all the people who were with Joab] were battering the wall to throw it down. 16 Then cried a wise woman out of the city,—

Hear ye! hear ye! I pray you, say unto Joab,
Come near hither, and let me speak unto thee.

17 So he came near unto her, and the woman said—
Art thou Joab?
And he said—
I am.
And she said unto him—
Hear thou the words of thy handmaid.
And he said,
I do hear.

18 Then spake she, saying,—
They [used to speak] in former times, saying, [Enquire] in Abel! And [so] they ended it.

19 ||I|| am of the peaceable among the faithful in Israel,—[thou] art seeking to put to death a city, and a mother in Israel, wherefore wouldest thou swallow up the inheritance of Yahweh?

20 Then answered Joab and said,—
Far be it! far be it from me! I will neither swallow up nor lay waste. 21 <Not so> is the matter! but [a man of the hill country of Ephraim], [Sheba son of Bichri] his name], hath lifted up his hand against the king, even against David, give up him alone, and I will depart from the city.

And the woman said unto Joab,
Lo! [his head] shall be cast unto thee through the wall.

22 So the woman came unto all the people in her wisdom, and they cut off the head of Sheba son of Bichri, and cast it out unto Joab. And he blew with a horn, and they dispersed themselves from the city, every man to his home; but [Joab] returned to Jerusalem unto the king.

23 And [Joab] was [restored] unto all the army of Israel,—
And [Benaiah, son of Jehoida] was over the Cherethites and over the Pelethites, 24 And [Adoniram] was over the tribute,—

And [Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud] was the remembrancer;

25 And [Sheva] was scribe,—
And [Zadok and Abiathar] were priests;
[Moreover also] [Ira the Jairite] was chief ruler unto David.

§ 28. A Famine sent in Vindication of the Gibeonites' right to a place in Israel: They avenge themselves on Saul's House: The Story of Rizpak.

1 And there came to be a famine, in the days of David [for three years] [year after year], so then David sought the face of Yahweh,—and Yahweh said—
It respecteth Saul and his house, as to bloodshed, in that he put to death the Gibeonites.

2 The king therefore called the Gibeonites, and said unto them (now [the Gibeonites] were [not of the sons of Israel] but of the remnant of the Amorites, with whom [the sons of Israel] had entered into an oath, and Saul had sought to smite them, in his jealousy for the sons of Israel and Judah)—wherefore David said unto the Gibeonites—
What shall I do for you,—and wherewith shall I make propitiation, so that ye may bless the inheritance of Yahweh?

3 And the Gibeonites said unto him—
It is not a matter with us of silver or gold, with Saul or with his house, neither would we have a man put to death in Israel.

And he said—
What do ye say I should do for you?

4 Then said they unto the king,
<The man who consumed us, and who thought to have destroyed us from taking a place within any of the bounds of Israel> let there be delivered up to us—seven men of his sons, and we will crucify* them unto Yahweh in Gibeah of Saul, the chosen of Yahweh.*

And the king said,
[I will deliver them up.]

But the king had pity upon Mephibosheth, son of Jonathan, Saul's son,—because of the oath of Yahweh that was between them, |between David and Jonathan, Saul's son.|

So the king took the two sons of Rizpak daughter of Aiah, whom she had borne to Saul, even Armoni and Mephibosheth,—and the five sons of Michaal daughter of Saul, whom she had...
born to Adriel son of Barzillai, the Meholathite; and delivered them up into the hand of the Gibeonites, and they crucified them in the mountain before Yahweh, so they seven fell together,—they being put to death in the first days of harvest, in the beginning of the barley harvest. Then Rizpah daughter of Aiah, took sackcloth, and spread it out for herself, on the rock, from the beginning of harvest, until water poured out upon them from the heavens,—and suffered neither the birds of the heavens to rest on them by day, nor the wild beasts of the field, [to devour them] by night. And it was told David,—what Rizpah daughter of Aiah, Saul's concubine, had done. So David went and fetched the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, from the owners of Jaba'eh-gilead,—who stole them from the breadth of Beth-shan, where the Philistines had hanged them, on the day when the Philistines had smitten Saul in Gilboa; and he brought up from thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son,—and they gathered together the bones of them who had been crucified; 14 so they buried the bones of Saul and Jonathan his son in the land of Benjamin, in Zelah, in the grave of Kish his father, thus did they all that the king commanded,—and God suffered himself to be entreated for the land |after this|.

§ 30. David’s Song of Triumph over all his Enemies.

(Cp. Psalm xviii.)

1 And David spake unto Yahweh, the words 22 of this song,—in the day when Yahweh had rescued him, out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul; and he said,—

||Yahweh|| was my mountain crag and my stronghold, and my deliverer—||mine||;

||My God|| was my rock,

I sought refuge in him,— My shield, and my horn of salvation, my high tower, and my refuge,

My Saviour! <from violence> thou didst save me.

||As one worthy to be praised> called I on Yahweh,—

And <from my foes> was I saved.

5 When the breakers of death had encompassed me,—

||the torrents of perdition|| made me afraid,—

||the meshes of hades|| had surrounded me,— the snares of death had confronted me>

7 ||In my distress|| called I on Yahweh, Yea <unto my God> did I call,—

And he hearkened, out of his temple, unto my voice,

And ||my cry for help|| was in his ears!

7 Then did the earth shake and quake,

||The foundations of the heavens|| were deeply moved,—

Yea they did shake, because he was angry,

9 There went up a smoke in his nostrils,

And ||a fire out of his mouth|| devoured,—

||Live coals|| were kindled from it:

10 Then he stretched out the heavens, and came down,—

||The Highest|| uttered his voice;

11 Then he rode on a cherub, and flew,—

And was seen a on the wings of the wind;

13 And made of the darkness around him, pavilions,—

Gathering of waters, clouds of vapours.

14 ||Out of the brightness before him|| were kindled live coals of fire;

14 ||Thunder from the heavens|| did Yahweh give forth,—

Yea ||the Highest|| uttered his voice;

§ 29. Various Encounters with the Philistines.

15 And the Philistines had yet again a war with Israel,—so David went down, and his servants with him, and fought the Philistines, and David became faint. So <Ishbi-benob, who was of the descendants of the giant,> thought to smite ||David; 17 but Ahishai son of Zeruiah came to his help!, and smote the Philistine, and slew him. ||Then|| swore the men of David unto him, saying—

Thou must not go forth any more with us, to battle, that thou quench not the lamp of Israel.

18 And it came to pass ||after this|| that there was yet again a battle in Gob, with the Philistines,—||then|| Sibbe'kai the Hushathite smote Saph, who was of the descendants of the giant. And there was yet again a battle in Gob* with the Philistines,—when Elhanan son of Jaare-oregim of Bethlehem, smote Goliath the Gittite, the shaft of whose spear was like a weaver's beam.

And there was yet again a battle in Gath; there was a man of stature, with six fingers on each hand, and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in number; [he also] having been born to the giant; 21 but <when he reproached Israel> Jonathan son of Shimeah David's brother ||smote|| him. ||These four|| had been born to the giant in Gath,—but they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

15 Some cod. (w. 2 ear.pr. edn.): "Speaking of the giant; 21 but <when he reproached Israel> Jonathan son of Shimeah David's brother ||smote|| him. ||These four|| had been born to the giant in Gath,—but they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.
And he sent forth arrows, and scattered them,— Lightning, and confused them;
Then appeared the channels of the sea,
Were uncovered the foundations of the world,—
At the rebuke of Yahweh,
The blast of the breath of his nostrils;
He sent from on high, he took me,—
He drew me out of many waters;
He rescued me from my foe, in his might,—
From them who hated me, because they were too strong for me:
They confronted me in the day of my necessity,—
Then became Yahweh my stay:
And brought out into a large place even me,—
He delivered me, because he delighted in me:
For I had kept the ways of Yahweh,—
And not broken away from my God;
For all his regulations were before me,—
And as for his statutes I turned not from them.
So became I blameless towards him,—
And kept myself from mine iniquity:
Yahweh therefore repaid me, according to my righteousness,
According to my pureness before his eyes.
With the loving thou didst shew thyself loving,
With the blameless hero thou didst shew thyself blameless;
With the pure thou didst shew thyself pure,
But with the perverse thou didst shew thyself ready to contend:
And a patient people thou didst save,—
But thine eyes were on the lofty—thou layedst them low;
For thou wast my lamp, O Yahweh,—
And Yahweh enlightened my darkness;
For by thee I ran through a troop,—
By my God I leapt over a wall.
As for God, blameless is his way,—
The speech of Yahweh hath been proved,
And I pursued my foes, and destroyed them,—
And returned not till they were consumed;
So I consumed them, and crushed them, and they rose not again,—
Thus fell they under my feet:
Thus didst thou gird me with strength, for the battle,
Thou subduedst mine asshailants under me :
And them who hated me that I might destroy them:
They cried out, but there was none to save,— Unto Yahweh, but he answered them not.
Then did I beat them in pieces, like the dust of the earth,—
Like the clay of the lanes did I crush them, stamp them down.
Thus didst thou rescue me from the contentions of my people,
Didst keep me to be the head of nations:—
A people whom I had not known served me:
The sons of the foreigner came cringing unto me,—
At the hearing of the ear they submitted to me,—
The sons of the foreigner were disheartened, and came quaking out of their fortresses.
Yahweh liveth, and blessed be my rock,—
And exalted be the God (of the rock) of my salvation:—
The God who hath avenged me, and brought down peoples under me;
And brought me forth from among my foes,—
From the man of violence hast thou set me on high,
For this cause will I praise thee, O Yahweh, among the nations,—
And to thy name will I touch the strings:
§ 31. The Last Words of David: His Ideal of Kingship and Assurance of its Realisation in his House.

1 Now these are the last words of David,—
The oracle of David, son of Jesse, Yes the oracle of The man raised up on high, The Anointed of the God of Jacob, The Delight of the Songs of Israel:

1 The Spirit of Yahweh spake in me,—
Said the God of Israel, (The Spirit of Yahweh spake in me,— 4 Is even as the light of the morning when ariseth the sun,
A morning [without clouds],
As [from brightness, [and] from rain, the fresh shootes out of the earth.

5 <When not so> was my house with God;—
Then  he appointed me.
Ordered in all things and guarded,
0 Now that it is all my salvation and all my desire
Will he not make it shoot forth?

6 But <as for the abandoned> like thorns to be tossed away are they all,—
For <not with the hand> can they be taken;—
But <the man that would touch them>,
Must fence himself with iron, and the shaft of a spear,—
Then <with fire> shall they be consumed on the spot !

§ 32. David’s Mighty Men.

These are the names of the mighty men, who belonged to David,—
The president* a Tachmonite head of the charioteers, the same! was Adino the Ekrite, for eight hundred, slain at one time.

§ 33. David angers God by numbering the People: Choose three Days' Pestilence: The Plague stayed at Jerusalem, where the King buys the Threshing-floor of Araunah, builds an Altar, and offers Sacrifice.

And again was the anger of Yahweh kindled against Israel, so that he caused David to be moved against them saying, Go, count Israel and Judah.

The king, therefore, said unto Joab, captain of the force, who was with him,—

Go to and fro, I pray thee, throughout all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even unto Beersheba, and number ye the people, so shall I know the sum of the people.

Then said Joab unto the king,—

Yea, Yahweh thy God add unto the people, how many soever they be a hundredfold, and suffer the eyes of my lord the king to see it, but my lord the king wherefore doth he find pleasure in this thing?

Notwithstanding the word of the king prevailed against Joab, and over the captains of the force, so Joab went forth, with the captains of the force, before the king, to number the people—Israel. And they passed over the Jordan, and encamped in Arcor, on the right side of the city, that is in the midst of the ravine of Gad, even towards Jazer. Thus came they to Gilead, and unto the land of Tahtim-hodai, and came to Danjaan, and round about Zidon; and entered the fortress of Tyre, and all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites, and they went out to the South of Judah, even to Beersheba. So when they had gone to and fro throughout all the land, they came at the end of nine months and twenty days unto Jerusalem. And Joab delivered up the sum of the number of the people, unto the king, and there were found to be in Israel eight hundred thousand men of valor, drawing the sword, and in Judah five hundred thousand men.

And the heart of David smote him, after he had reckoned up the people; and David said unto Yahweh—

I have sinned greatly, in what I have done, Now therefore, O Yahweh, take away, I beseech thee, the iniquity of thy servant, for I have done very foolishly.

And when David arose in the morning, he sent for Gad the prophet, the seer of David, saying:

I will go forth before thee, the iniquity of thy servant, for I have done very foolishly.

And David sent Gad the seer, and he told him—

Threeseesickness in thy land? Or three months wilt thou flee before thine enemies, while they pursue thee? Or shall there be for thee? if threesickness in thy land? Shall I return to him that sent me.

See O.G. 193 a.
And David said unto Gad—
I am in a great strait,—let us fall, I pray thee, into the hand of Yahweh, for manifold are his compassions, but into the hand of man let me not fall.

So Yahweh sent forth a pestilence throughout Israel, from the morning even unto the time appointed,—and there died of the people, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba, seventy thousand men. But when the messenger stretched out his hand towards Jerusalem, to destroy it—then relented Yahweh as to the evil, and he said to the messenger who was destroying the people—
Enough! now stay thy hand.

And Gad came unto David, on that day, and said unto him—
Go up, rear thou unto Yahweh an altar, in the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

Then said David unto Araunah, let my lord the king accept it and cause to ascend what is good in his own eyes,—see! the oxen for the ascending-sacrifice, and the threshing-sledges and ox-yokes for wood.

The whole did Araunah give, liasa king to a king. And Araunah said unto the king, Yahweh thy God accept thee!

But the king said unto Araunah—Nay! but I will buy it of thee, for a price, and will not cause to ascend unto Yahweh my God, offerings that have cost me nothing.

So David bought the threshing-floor, and the oxen, for fiftyshekels of silver; and David built there an altar unto Yahweh, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings,—then was Yahweh entreated for the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

Now King David was old, advanced in days,—and they covered him with clothes, but he got no heat. Wherefore his servants said unto him—
Let there be sought for my lord the king, a young woman—a virgin, so shall she stand before the king, that she may become his companion, and ministered unto him, but the king knew her not.

And Adonijah aspiring to the Throne, Solomon is made King.

And Adonijah son of Haggith exalted himself, saying—
I will be king.

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE KINGS.
Therefore prepared he for himself chariots and horsemen, and fifty men to run before him. 6 Now his father had not displeased him all his days, by saying—

Why then hast thou done? Moreover also was of exceeding handsome appearance, and did his mother bear [after Absalom]. 7 So then he had speech with Joab, son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest,—and they gave help, following Adonijah. 8 But [Zadok the priest, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimee, and Rei, and the mighty men who belonged to David] were not with Adonijah.

And Adonijah sacrificed sheep and oxen and heifers, near the stone of Zoheleth, which is beside En-rogel,—and invited all his brethren, sons of the king, and all the men of Judah, servants of the king; 10 but <Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother> he invited not. 11 Then spake Nathan unto Bath-sheba mother of Solomon, saying—

Hast thou not heard that Adonijah son of Haggith hath become king, and your lord David knoweth it not? 12 Therefore come, let me give thee counsel, I pray thee,—so shalt thou rescue thine own life, and the life of thy son Solomon. 13 Go, and get thee in unto King David, and thou shalt say unto him—

Didst not [thou thyself] my lord O king, swear unto thy handmaid, saying—

[So] shall become king after me, yea [he] shall sit upon my throne? Why then hast [Adonijah] become king? 14 Lo! <while thou art yet speaking there with the king> I also will come in after thee, and confirm thy words.

So Bath-sheba went in unto the king, into the chamber, now [the king] was very old,—and [Abishag the Shunammite] was ministering unto the king. 15 And Bath-sheba bowed, and did homage unto the king,—and the king said—

What aileth thee? 16 And she said unto him—

My lord, O king, hast thou thyself said, <If of my lord the king> this thing had been brought to pass> then wouldest thou not have made known unto thy servant, who [should sit upon the throne of my lord the king, after him]? 17 But <me, even me thy servant, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and Solomon thy servant> hath he not invited. 18 If [of my lord the king] this thing had been brought to pass then wouldest thou not have made known unto thy servant, who should sit upon the throne of my lord the king, after him? 19 Then responded King David, and said, Call me Bath-sheba.

So she came in before the king, and stood before the king. 20 And the king said, —By the life of Yahweh, who hath redeemed my life out of every strait <even as I [thou] came king after me, yea ||he|| shall sit upon my throne, in my stead>—

Assuredly [Solomon thy son] shall become king after me, yea [he] shall sit upon my throne; [even so] will I do this day. 22 Then Bath-sheba bowed with her face to the ground, and did homage unto the king,—and said—

Let my lord, King David, live to times age-abiding! 23 Then said King David—and heifers and sheep, in abundance, and hath invited all the sons of the king, and Ahithophel the priest, and Joab general of the army,—but <Solomon thy servant> hath he not invited. 25 <Thou therefore, my lord, O king> [the eyes of all Israel] are upon thee,—to tell them, who shall sit upon the throne of my lord the king, after him.

Call me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada.

Otherwise it shall come to pass <when my lord the king shall sleep with his fathers> then shall I and my son Solomon be counted [offenders].

And lo! <while yet she was speaking with the king> [Nathan the prophet] came in.

So they told the king, saying, Lo! Nathan the prophet! And <when he had come in before the king> he bowed himself down to the king with his face to the ground.

Then said Nathan—

My lord, O king, hast thou thyself said, [Adonijah] shall become king after me,—yes, [he] shall sit upon my throne? For he hath gone down to-day, and hath sacrificed oxen and heifers and sheep, in abundance, and hath invited all the sons of the king, and the generals of the army, and Abiathar the priest, and |there they are|—eating and drinking before him,—and they have said—

Long live King Adonijah! 26 But <me, even me thy servant, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and Solomon thy servant> hath he not invited. 27 If [of my lord the king] this thing had been brought to pass then wouldest thou not have made known unto thy servant, who should sit upon the throne of my lord the king, after him? 28 Then said King David, and said, Call me Bath-sheba.

So she came in before the king, and stood before the king. 29 And the king said,—By the life of Yahweh, who hath redeemed my life out of every strait <even as I [thou] came king after me, yea ||he|| shall sit upon my throne, in my stead>—

Assuredly [Solomon thy son] shall become king after me, yea [he] shall sit upon my throne; [even so] will I do this day. 31 Then Bath-sheba bowed with her face to the ground, and did homage unto the king,—and said—

Let my lord, King David, live to times age-abiding! 32 Then said King David—

Call me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada.

And they came in before the king. Then said the king unto them—

Take ye with you the servants of your lord, and cause Solomon my son to ride upon the mule which pertaineth unto me, and bring him down unto Gihon; then shall Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anoint him there as king over Israel, and ye shall blow with the horn, and say—

Long live King Solomon!

Then shall ye come up after him, and he shall enter, and sit upon my throne, yea the throne of the kingdom.

Then did Benaiah son of Jehoiada make response unto the king, and he said—

Let King Solomon swear unto me at once that he will not put his servant to death with the sword.

Then said Solomon,

If he will be a man of worth, there shall not one hair of him fall to the earth; but if mischief be found in him, then shall he die.

So King Solomon sent, and brought him down from the altar, and he came in, and bowed himself down to King Solomon, and Solomon said unto him—

Go to thine own house.

§3. Nearing his End, David gives precautionary Charges to Solomon: The Father's Death; The Son's Prosperity.

And <when the days of David drew near> that he must die> he charged Solomon his son, saying:—

If thou wilt be a man of worth, thou must be strong, therefore, and shew thyself a man; and keep the observances of Yahweh thy God, by walking in his ways, by keeping his statutes, his commandments, and his regulations and his testimonies, as written in the law of Moses, to the end thou mayest prosper in all that thou dost, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself; to the end that Yahweh may establish his word which he spake concerning me, saying,

If thy sons will take heed to their way, by walking before me, in truth, with all their heart, and with all their soul (then, said he) there shall not be cut off been in, to bless our lord King David, saying—

Thy God, make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne,—

And the king bowed himself upon his bed.

[Moreover also] <thus and thus> hath said the king,—

Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who hath given, to-day, one to sit upon my throne, mine own eyes also beholding it.

Then trembled and rose up, all Adonijah's guests, and departed, [every man his own way].

And it was told Solomon, saying,

Lo! Adonijah feareth King Solomon, lo! therefore, he hath laid hold of the horns of the altar, saying,

Let King Solomon swear unto me at once that he will not put his servant to death with the sword.

Then said Solomon,

If he will be a man of worth there shall not one hair of him fall to the earth; but if mischief be found in him then shall he die.

So King Solomon sent, and brought him down from the altar, and he came in, and bowed himself down to King Solomon, and Solomon said unto him—to thee a man, from off the throne of Israel.

Go to thine own house.

5 Moreover also, thou knowest what Joab son of Zeruiah did to me, how he dealt with two generals of the armies of Israel—with Abner son of Ner, and with Amasa son of Jether—both of whom he slew, shedding the blood of war in peace, and putting the blood of war upon his girdle that was on his loins, and upon his sandals, that were on his feet. Thou, therefore, must do according to thy wisdom, but will not let his grey hair go down in peace, to hades.

6 But, with the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite— thou wilt deal in lovingkindness, and they will be among them who eat at thy table, for drew they near unto me, when I fled from Absalom thy brother.

7 Lo! also, there is with thee— Shimei son of Gera a Benjamite, of Behurim, well it was who cursed me with a grievous curse, on the day I journeyed to Mahanaim, but came down to meet me, at the Jordan, and so I sware to him by Yahweh, saying— I will not put thee to death, with the sword.

8 Now therefore, do not hold him guiltless, for wilt know how thou oughtest to deal with him, and wilt suffer his grey hairs to go down with blood, to hades.

9 So then David slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David. Now the days that David reigned over Israel were forty years, in Hebron reigned he seven years, and in Jerusalem reigned he thirty and three years.

10 But when Solomon took his seat upon the throne of David his father then was the kingdom firmly established.

§ 4. Adonijah seeks Abishag to wife. How Solomon deals with him; also with Abiathar, Joab, and Shimei.

11 And Adonijah son of Haggith came in unto Bath-sheba, mother of Solomon: And she said—

12 Then said he— I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said—

13 Then said he— Peaceably, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said—

14 Then said he— Peaceably. And he said— Peaceably.

15 Then said he— I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said—

16 Then said he— Peaceably.

17 And he said—

18 And these knewest that was the kingdom, and had all Israel set their faces, that I should become king, howbeit the kingdom hath turned 'about.

19 And become my brother's, for and became it his.

20 And Bath-sheba said:

21 And the king said to her— Ask on, my mother, for I will not turn away thy face.

22 Then answered King Solomon, and said to his mother— Wherefore, then, art thou asking Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? ask then, for him the kingdom, because he is mine elder brother,— even for him, and for Abiathar the priest, and for Joab, son of Zeruiah.

23 Then sware King Solomon by Yahweh, saying,—

24 But when Solomon took his seat upon the throne of David his father, then was the kingdom firmly established.

25 So Solomon sent by the hand of Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and he fell upon him, that he died. Also unto Abiathar the priest said the king—

26 Also unto Abiathar the priest said the king—

27 So Solomon thrust out Abiathar from being priest unto Yahweh, to fulfil the word of

1 KINGS II. 28—46; III. 1—6.

Yahweh which he spake concerning the household of Eli, in Shiloh.*

32 And it was told King Solomon—

Joab hath fled into the Tent of Yahweh, and [there he is] beside the altar.

So Solomon sent Benaiah son of Jehoiada, saying—

Go fall upon him!

And Benaiah came into the Tent of Yahweh, and said unto him—

Thus saith the king Come forth!

And he said—

Nay! but [here] will I die!

So Benaiah brought the king word again, saying,

Thus spake Joab, and [thus] he answered me.

And the king said to him—

Do as he hath spoken, fall, then, upon him, and bury him,— and so put away the innocent blood, which Joab shed, [from off the house of my father];

thus will Yahweh bring back his blood upon his own head, in that he fell upon two men more righteous and better than he, and slew them with the sword, [my father David'] not knowing it,—even Abner son of Ner, general of the army of Israel, and Amasa son of Jether, general of the army of Judah; thus shall their blood come back upon the head of Joab, and upon the head of his seed unto times age-abiding.—but [David, and his seed, and his house, and his throne] shall have peace, unto times age-abiding, from Yahweh.

So Benaiah son of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and put him to death,— and he was buried in his own house, in the wilderness.

And the king sent, and called for Shimei, and said to him—

Build thee a house, in Jerusalem, so shalt thou dwell there,— and shalt not go forth from thence, hither or thither; but it shall be that <on the day thou goest forth, and passest over the Kidron ravine> [know] that thou shalt [die],— [thy blood] shall be [upon thine own head].

And Shimei said to the king—

[Good] is the word, [as my lord the king hath spoken] [so will thy servant] do.

And Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem many days.

But it came to pass <at the end of three years> that two of the servants of Shimei fled unto Achish son of Maachah king of Gath,— and they told Shimei, saying—

Lo! thy servants' are in Gath.

So Shimei arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath, unto Achish, to seek his servants,— and Shimei went and brought in his servants, from Gath. And it was told Solomon—

Shimei hath been out of Jerusalem to Gath, and returned.

Then sent the king and called for Shimei, and said unto him—

Did I not put thee on oath by Yahweh, and adjure thee, saying—

<On the day thou goest forth and takest thy journey hither or thither> [know] that thou shalt [die].

Then saidst thou unto me—

[Good] is the word I have heard.

Why, then, hast thou not kept the oath of Yahweh,— and the charge which I laid upon thee?

Then said the king unto Shimei—

[Thou] knowest all the wickedness which thy heart is privy to, which thou didst unto David my father,—therefore shall Yahweh bring back thy wickedness, upon thine own head.

But [King Solomon] shall be blessed,— and [the throne of David] shall be established before Yahweh, unto times age-abiding.

So the king charged Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and he went out and fell upon him, that he died,— and [the kingdom] was established in the hand of Solomon.

§5. Solomon marries Pharaoh's Daughter; but at yet retaining the Divine favour, Yahweh appears to him at Gil'eon and promises him Wisdom.

1 And Solomon contracted an alliance with 3 Pharaoh king of Egypt,— and took the daughter of Pharaoh, and brought her into the city of David, until he had made an end of building his own house, and the house of Yahweh, and the wall of Jerusalem, round about. *<Save only] that the people were sacrificing in the high places,— because there had not been built a house unto the Name of Yahweh, until those days> 3 Solomon loved Yahweh, by walking in the statutes of David his father,—[save only] that [in the high places] he himself was sacrificing and offering incense. * So then the king went to Gibeon, to sacrifice there, for [that] was the great high place,—  did Solomon offer up on that altar. * In Gibeon Yahweh appeared unto Solomon, in a dream by night,— and God said,

Ask, what I shall give thee.

6 Then said Solomon—

[Thou] didst deal, with thy servant David my father, in great lovingkindness, according Solomon shows his Wisdom in the case of two Unchaste Women.

Then came there in two unchaste women, unto the king,—for they saw, that it was wise in the eyes of the Lord, that Solomon had asked this thing; and God said unto him—

Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked for thyself many days, nor for thyself riches, nor asked the lives of thine enemies,—but hast asked for thyself discernment, in hearing a cause—lo! I have done according to thy word, and hast not asked for thyself riches, nor asked for thyself discernment, in hearing a cause.

Moreover also, what thou hast not asked for thyself, I have given unto thee, both riches and honour, so that there hath been none like thee among the kings, all thy days.

And if thou wilt walk in my ways, by doing that which I command thee, I will lengthen out thy days. And this woman's son died in the night,—because she overlaid it.

And this woman's son died in the night,— because she overlaid it.

Then arose she in the middle of the night, and took my son from beside me, while I was sleeping; and laid it in my bosom. And when I looked at it narrowly in the morning, lo! it was dead! But the other kept on saying—Nay! but my son is the living; and thy son is the dead. But neither mine, nor thine shall it be. Divide the living child, in twain, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

And Solomon awoke, and lo! it was a dream. So he entered into Jerusalem, and stood before the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices and offered peace-offerings, and made a banquet for all his servants.

Then came there in two unchaste women, unto the king,—and stood before him. And the woman said—Pardon, my lord! I and this woman! dwell in one house,—and I gave birth to a child near her, in the house. And it came to pass after the third day after I bare that this woman also gave birth to a child,—we two being together, there was no stranger with us in the house, none but we two in the house.

And this woman's son died in the night,—because she overlaid it.

Then arose she in the middle of the night, and took my son from beside me, while I was sleeping, and laid it in my bosom. And when I looked at it narrowly in the morning, lo! it was dead! But the other kept on saying—Nay! but my son is the living; and thy son is the dead. But neither mine, nor thine shall it be. Divide the living child, in twain, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

And Solomon awoke, and lo! it was a dream. So he entered into Jerusalem, and stood before the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices and offered peace-offerings, and made a banquet for all his servants.

§ 7. Solomon's Chief Officers of State, and his Provincial Governors.

And so it came to pass, that King Solomon was king, over all Israel. Now these were his chief officers of state,—Aazariah son of Zadok, the priest; Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; Azariah son of Zadok, the priest;
1 Kings IV. 3—34; V. 1—4. 3,35

3 Ehohreph and Ahijah, sons of Shisha, scribes,—

And Benaijah of Jehoiada, over the army,—

And Zadok and Abiathar, priests;

And Azariah son of Nathan, over the governors,—

And Zabud son of Nathan, minister, king's friend;

And Ahishar, over the household,—

And Adoniram son of Abda, over the tribute.

And it came to pass, that Solomon's provision for one day was,—thirty measures of fine flour, and sixty measures of meal, and ten fat oxen, and twenty oxen out of the pastures, and a hundred sheep,—besides harts, gazelles, and roebucks, and fatted fowl. 24 For he had dominion over all on this side the River, from Tiphsah even as far as Gaza, over all the kings on this side the River,—and he had peace on all sides of him, round about.

And Judah and Israel dwelt securely, every man under his own vine, and under his own fig-tree, from Dan even unto Beer-sheba,—all the days of Solomon. 26 And it came to pass that Solomon had forty thousand stalls of horses, for his chariots,—and twelve thousand horsemen.

And these governors provided sustenance for King Solomon, and for all that drew near unto the table of King Solomon, every man in his month,—they let [nought] be lacking. 28 Barley also and crushed straw, for the horses and for the swift beasts brought they in unto the place where it should be,—every man according to his charge. 29 And God gave wisdom unto Solomon, and discernment, and very great largeness of heart,—like the sand that is on the shore of the sea: 30 so that the wisdom of Solomon excelled the wisdom of all the sons of the East,—and all the wisdom of the Egyptians. 31 so that he was wiser than any man,—than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman and Calcol and Darda, sons of Mahol,—and it came to pass that his name was throughout all the nations round about. 32 And he spake three thousand proverbs,—and it came to pass that his songs were a thousand and five. 33 And he discoursed of trees,—from the cedar that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyssop, that springeth out in the wall,—and he discoursed of beasts and of birds, and of creeping things, and of fishes. 34 And there came in of all the peoples, to hear the wisdom of Solomon—of all the kings of the earth, who heard his wisdom.

§ 9. Solomon treats with Hiram King of Tyre for Materials to build a Temple.

1 And Hiram King of Tyre sent his servants unto Solomon, for he had heard that he had anointed king, in the room of his father,—for Hiram was a lover of David continually.

2 So Solomon sent unto Hiram, saying:—

3 Thou knewest David my father, how that he could not build a house unto the Name of Yahweh his God, because of the wars that were abouthim on every side,—until Yahweh should put them under the soles of his feet; 4 but now, Yahweh my God hath given me rest on every side,—there is neither adversary* nor incident of evil.

Behold me! then, purpossing to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God,—even as Yahweh spake unto David my father, saying—

"Thy son, whom I will set in thy stead, upon thy throne, he shall build the house for my Name."

Now therefore, command thou that they fell me cedars, out of Lebanon, and my servants shall be with thy servants, and the hire of thy servants will I give thee, according to all that thou shalt say,—for thou knowest, that none amongst us hath skill to fell timber, like the Zidonians.

And it came to pass when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoiced greatly,—and said:

"Blessed be Yahweh, to-day, who hath given unto David a wise son, over this great people, as he promised him,—and it came to pass that he went to David, and confirmed him to be Israel's king."

And Hiram sent unto Solomon, saying,

"I have heard that which thou hast sent unto me,—I will do all thy desire, as to timber of cedar, and timber of fir."

"My servants shall bring them down out of Lebanon unto the sea, and I will put them in rafts on the sea, unto the place of which thou shalt send me word, and will cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receive them, and thou shalt do my desire, by giving food for my household."

So then Hiram began giving unto Solomon timber of cedar, and timber of fir, even all his desire, and Solomon gave unto Hiram twenty thousand measures of wheat, as food for his household, and twenty measures of beaten oil,—thus used Solomon to give unto Hiram year by year.

And Yahweh gave wisdom unto Solomon, as he promised him,—and it came to pass that there was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and they two solemnised a covenant.

And King Solomon raised a labour-band, out of all Israel,—and it came to pass that the labour-band was thirty thousand men. And he sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month, by courses, a month were they in Lebanon, two months at home,—and Adoniram was over the levy. And it came to pass that Solomon had seventy thousand bearers of burdens,—and eighty thousand hewers in the mountain; besides the chiefs of Solomon's officers, who were over the work, three thousand and three hundred,—who ruled over the people that wrought in the work. And the king commanded, and they quarried great stones, to found the house with hewn stones. And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders with the Gebalites* wrought them,—thus made they ready the timber and the stones, for building the house.

§ 10. The Temple described and built; also a House for the King. Hiram, a Tyrian Artificer, executes the Work.

And so it came to pass in the four hundred and eightieth year, by the coming forth of the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year (in the month of Zif, the same being the second month) of the reign of Solomon over Israel that he began to build the house unto Yahweh. Now the house which King Solomon built unto Yahweh was sixty cubits in length, and twenty in breadth,—and thirty cubits in height. And the porch in front of the temple of the house was twenty cubits in length, according to the breadth of the house,—seven cubits in breadth, in front of the house. And he made to the house windows, with closed bars. And he built,—by the wall of the house,—a gallery, round about, against the walls of the house, round about, both to the temple, and to the shrine,—and he made side chambers round about.

The lowest gallery was five cubits broad, and the middle six cubits broad, and the third seven cubits broad,—for he put [ledges] against the house round about, on the outer side, so as not to make fastenings in the walls of the house. Now the house, when it was in building, [with white quarry-stones] was built,—neither hammer, nor axe, nor any tool of iron was heard in the house, when it was in building. The entrance of the lowest story was on the right side of the house,—and by winding stairs went they up unto the middle story, and <out of the middle> into the third. So he built the house, and finished it,—and ceiled the house with planks and beams of cedar; and built the gallery against the house, five cubits in height,—and so fastened the house, with timber of cedar.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto Solomon, saying:

"Concerning this house, which thou art building—"

"If thou wilt walk in my statutes, and my regulations wilt practise, and so observe all my commandments by walking in them—"

1 KINGS VI. 13–38; VII. 1–12. 357

Then will I establish my word with thee, which I spake unto David thy father; and will make my habitation in the midst of the sons of Israel, and will not forsake my people Israel.

Thus Solomon built the house, and finished it; and he built the walls of the house on the inside, with boards of cedar, from the floor of the house, unto the cross-beams of the ceiling; he overlaid it with wood, on the inside, and he overlaid the floor of the house with boards of fir. And he built twenty cubits, at the hinder part of the house, with boards of cedar, from the floor as far as the cross-beams, and he built it within, for a shrine, even for the holy of holies; but forty cubits was the house itself, of equal measure, was the temple, before the oracle. And the cedar for the house within was carved with cedars and with festoons of flowers; (the whole) was cedar, there was no stone to be seen. And the shrine in the midst of the house within made he ready, for placing there the ark of the covenant of Yahweh.

And the interior of the shrine was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in height, and he overlaid it with pure gold, and he overlaid the altar with gold. Then did Solomon overlay the house within, with pure gold, and he drew chains of gold across the front of the shrine, and overlaid it with gold; yea all the house overlaid he with gold, until he had made all the house into one whole, even all the altar that was by the shrine overlaid he with gold.

And he made, within the shrine, two cherubim of wild olive wood, ten cubits in height; and five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the second wing of the cherub; ten cubits, from the one end of his wings unto the other end of his wings. Ten cubits also was the second cherub, of one size and one shape were the two cherubim. The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and so of the second cherub. And he placed the cherubim in the midst of the inner house, and the cherubim stretched forth their wings—so that the wing of the one touched the [one] wall, and the wing of the other cherub, was touching the other wall, and their wings in the midst of the house were touching, wing to wing. And he overlaid the cherubim with gold.

And all the walls of the house round about were of olive wood, and he carved upon them carvings of cherubim, and palm-trees, and festoons of flowers, and overlaid them with gold,—yes he spread out over the cherubim and over the palm-trees the gold. Also made he for the entrance of the temple, with posts of wild olive wood,—a fourth part.

And the two doors were of fir wood, and the two leaves of the one door were folding, and the two leaves of the other door were folding. And he carved cherubim, and palm-trees, and festoons of flowers, and overlaid them with gold, smoothed out on the carved work.

And he built the inner court, with three rows of hewn stone, and a row of beams of cedar.

In the fourth year was laid the foundation of the house of Yahweh,—in the month Zif; and in the eleventh year, in the month Bul, the house was finished, as to all the particulars thereof, and as to all the appointments thereof,—so then he built it in seven years.

But his own house was Solomon thirteen years in building,—so he finished all his house. Yea he built the house of the forest of Lebanon, a hundred cubits was the length thereof, and fifty cubits the breadth thereof, and thirty cubits the height thereof,—upon four rows of pillars of cedar, with beams of cedar upon the pillars; and it was covered with cedar above upon the joints, that were on forty-five pillars,—fifteen in a row. And there were window spaces in three rows,—and light over against light, three times. And all the openings and the posts were square in their frame,—and light was over against light, three times. And a porch of pillars made he, fifty cubits in length, and thirty cubits in breadth,—and a porch was on the one front of them, and pillars and threshold were on the other front of them. And a porch for the throne, where he should judge, even the porch of judgment made he, and it was wainscotted with cedar, from floor to ceiling. And his own house where he should dwell, in the other court within the porch was of like workmanship unto this,—a house also made he, for the daughter of Pharaoh, whom Solomon had taken to wife, in a similar porch. All these were of costly stones, after the dimensions of hewn stones, sawn with saws, within and without, even from the foundation unto the coping, and without as far as the great court. And the foundation was of costly stones, large stones, stones of ten cubits, and stones of eight cubits. And above were costly stones, after the dimensions of hewn stone, and cedar. And the great court round about was of three rows of hewn stone, and a row of beams of cedar,—both to the inner court of the house of Yahweh, and to the porch of the house.

13 And King Solomon sent and fetched Hiram out of Tyre: 14 son of a widow woman] was he of the tribe of Naphtali, but [his father] was a man of Tyre, a worker in bronze, and he was filled with wisdom, and discernment, and knowledge, for executing all manner of work in bronze;—so he came unto King Solomon, and executed all his work.

15 And he cast two pillars of bronze,— [eighteen cubits] the height of each' pillar, and [a line of twelve cubits] would surround the second pillar. 16 And [two capitals] made he, to set upon the tops of the pillars, of molten bronze,— [five cubits] was the height of the one' capital, and [five cubits] the height of the other' capital; with a frame of checker work, wreaths of chain work, for the capitals which were upon the top with pomegranates, but he made the pillars,—and [two rows round about] upon the one frame of checker work, covering the capitals which were upon the top with pomegranates,

17 with a frame of checker work, wreaths of chain work, for the capitals which were upon the top with pomegranates, b thus also did he for the other' capital. 19 And [the capitals which were upon the top of the pillars] were of lily work, [in span] four cubits. 20 And there were capitals upon the two pillars, close by the belly, which was beside the checker work,—and there were two hundred pomegranates, in rows round about, upon either' capital. 21 So he reared the pillars for the porch of the temple,—yes he reared the right' pillar, and called the name thereof Jachin, and reared the left' pillar, and called the name thereof Boaz. 22 And [upon the top of the pillars] was lily work,—which gave finish to the work of the pillars.

23 And he made a molten sea,—ten cubits from the brim to the other, it was round all about, and [five cubits] was the height thereof, and [a line of thirty cubits] would encompass it round about. 24 And [colocynths] were under the brim thereof round about, encompassing it, ten in a cubit, encircling the sea, round about,—two rows of colocynths, made in the casting thereof: 25 standing upon twelve oxen, three looking northward, and three looking southward, and three looking eastward, [the sea] being upon them above,—[all their hinder parts] being [linen]. 26 And [the thickness thereof] was a handbreadth, and [the brim thereof] was like the brim-work of a cup, of lily-blossoms,—<two thousand baths> did it contain.

27 And he made ten stands of bronze,— [four cubits] the length of each' stand, and [four cubits] the breadth thereof, and [three cubits] the height thereof. 28 And [this] was the work of the stand, there were [side walls] to them,—and [the side walls] were between joining ledges; and [upon the side walls which were between the ledges] were lions, oxen, and cherubim, and [upon the ledges] was a pedestal] above, and [between the lions and oxen] a wreath of hanging work. And [four wheels of bronze] had each stand, with axles of bronze, and [the four steps thereof] had shoulder pieces,—[under the lavers] were the molten shoulder-pieces, over against each wreath.

29 And [the mouth thereof, within the capital and upwards] was a cubit, and [the mouth thereof] was round, of pedestal work, a cubit and a half, [moreover also] upon the mouth thereof were gravings, with their side-walls four-square, not round. 30 And [four wheels] were beneath the side-walls, [the axletrees of the wheels] being in the stands,—and [the height of each wheel] was a cubit and a half: 31 and [the work of the wheels] was like the work of a chariot-wheel; and [their axletrees, and their felloes, and their spokes, and their nave[s]] the whole] were molten. 32 And there were [four shoulder-pieces] at the four corners of each stand, <of the stand itself> were the shoulder-pieces thereof. 33 And [in the top of the stand, half a cubit in height] was a circular piece round about,—and [in the top of the stand] the tenons thereof, and [the side-walls thereof] were of the same. 34 Then carried he [upon the plates of the tenons thereof, and upon the side-walls thereof] cherubim, lions, and palm-trees,—according to the open space of each with a wreath round about. [Thus] made he the ten stands,—<one mould, one measure, one shape> had they [all].

35 Then made he ten lavers of bronze,— [forty baths] would each laver contain, [four cubits] was each laver, [one laver] was on each' of [the ten stands]. 36 And he set the stands, five on the right' side of the house,—but [the sea] he set on the right' side of the house eastward, over against the south.

37 And Hiram made lavers, and shovels, and bowls,—and Hiram ended the doing of all the work which he wrought for King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh: 38 two pillars,—and the bowls of the capitals which were upon the top of the two pillars,—and the two frames of checker-work, covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were upon the top of the pillars: 39 and the four hundred pomegranates, for the two frames of checker-work,—two rows of pomegranates to each frame, for covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the face' of the pillars; 40 and the ten stands,—with the ten lavers upon the stands; 41 and the one sea,—with the twelve oxen under the sea; 42 and the pans and the shovels, and the towing
The Dedication of the Temple: Solomon's Prayer and the Divine Answer.

Then did Solomon call together the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, chief of the fathers of the sons of Israel, unto King Solomon in Jerusalem, that they might bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh out of the city of David, that is Zion. So all the men of Israel came together unto King Solomon in the month of steady flowings, at the festival, the same is the seventh month. And all the elders of Israel came in, and the priests took up the ark, and they brought up the ark of Yahweh, and the Tent of Meeting, and all the hallowed vessels that were in the tent, yea, the priests and the Levites did bring them up. And King Solomon, and all the assembly of Israel who had assembled themselves unto him, were with him, before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen, which could neither be recorded nor counted, for multitude.

So the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of Yahweh into its place, into the shrine of the house, into the holy of holies, under the wings of the cherubim. For the cherubim were spreading forth their two wings, over the place of the ark, and the cherubim made a covering over the ark and over the staves thereof above. And they drew out the staves, and the heads of the staves were seen from the holy place, in front of the shrine, although they were not seen on the outside,—and they have remained there until this day. There was nothing in the ark, save the two tables of stone, which Moses deposited there in Horeb,—the tables of the covenant which Yahweh solemnised with the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of the land of Egypt.

And so it was when the priests came forth out of the holy place that a cloud filled the house of Yahweh; so that the priests could not stand to minister, because of the cloud,—for the glory of Yahweh filled the house of Yahweh. Then said Solomon, Yahweh did he make his habitation in thick gloom:

I have built a house as a high abode for thee,—
A settled place for thee to abide in, for ages.
And the king turned about his face, and blessed the assembly of Israel,—while all the convocation of Israel was standing; and he said—
Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who spake with his mouth, unto David my father,—that which with his hand he hath fulfilled, saying:

Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt I had chosen no city, out of all the tribes of Israel, for building a house, where my Name might be,—but I have chosen Jerusalem, that my Name should be there, and I have chosen David, to be over my people Israel:
And so it came to pass, that it was near the heart of David my father, to build a house for the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel. Then said Yahweh unto David my father,
Because it was near thy heart to build a house for my Name thou didst well that it was near thy heart;

Only thou thyself must not build the house,—but thine own son who hath proceeded out of thy loins shall build the house, for my Name.

So then Yahweh hath established his word which he spake,—and I have been raised up in the room of David my father, and have taken my seat upon the throne of Israel, as spake Yahweh, and have built the house for the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel; and have appointed there a place for the ark, wherein is the covenant of Yahweh, which he solemnised with our fathers, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt.
And Solomon stood before the altar of Yahweh, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel,—

O Yahweh, God of Israel!

<Not like thee> is there a God, in the heavens above, or upon the earth beneath,—keeping Covenant and Lovingkindness for thy servants who are walking before thee, with all their heart; 34 who hast kept for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him,—in that thou didst promise with thy mouth, and <with thy hand> hast fulfilled, |as it is this day|.

||Now|| therefore, O Yahweh, God of Israel, keep thou for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him, saying,

There shall not be cut off to thee a man from before me, to sit upon the throne of Israel,—if only thy sons take heed' to their way, by walking before me, |as thou hast walked before me|.

<When the heavens are shut up, and there is no rain, because they have been sinning against thee,—and they shall pray toward this place, and confess thy Name, and <from their sin> shall return, because thou hast been afflicting them> 39 then wilt thou thyself hear in the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, that thou mayest teach them the good* way, wherein they should walk,—and give rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people, for an inheritance?

We have sinned and done perversely, we have been lawless; 47 and so they turn unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies, who have carried them away captive,—and pray unto thee in the direction of their own land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name, 48 then wilt thou hearken in the heavens, their prayer and their supplication,—and maintain their cause; 49 and grant forgiveness to thy people, who have sinned against thee, even as to all their transgressions wherein they have transgressed against thee,—and grant them compassion before their captors, so that they may have compassion upon them; 50 because <thy people and thine inheritance> they are,—whom thou didst bring forth out of Egypt, out of the midst of the smelting-pot of iron; 51 that thine eyes may be open unto the supplication of thy servant, and unto their supplication,—and maintain their cause; 52 and grant forgiveness to the people, who have sinned against thee, even as to all their transgressions wherein they have transgressed against thee,—and grant them compassion before their captors, so that they may have compassion upon them; 53 because thou thyself didst separate them unto thee, for an inheritance, out of all the peoples of the earth,—as thou spakest by the hand of Moses thy servant, when thou broughtest forth our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord Yahweh. 54 And it came to pass <when Solomon had made an end of praying unto Yahweh all this prayer and supplication> that he arose from the altar of Yahweh, from kneeling on his knees, with his hands outspread to the heavens; 55 and stood and blessed all the congregation of Israel,—[with a loud voice] saying: 56 |Blessed| be Yahweh, who hath given rest unto his people Israel, according to all that he promised,—there hath not failed one word of all his good promise, which he promised by the hand of Moses his servant. 57 Yahweh our God be with us, as he was with our fathers,—let him not leave us, nor forsake us; 58 but bow our heart unto himself, —to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his regulations, which he commanded our fathers. 59 And let those my words, wherewith I have made supplication before Yahweh, be near unto Yahweh our God, day and night,—that he may maintain the cause of his servant, and the cause of his people Israel, 60 as any need ariseth: 61 To the end that all the peoples of the earth may know, that Yahweh is God,—[there is none else]. 62 So shall your heart be sound with Yahweh our God,—to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day. 63 And [the king, and all Israel with him] were offering sacrifice before Yahweh. 64 So Solomon offered as a sacrifice of peace-offerings, which he offered unto Yahweh— 65 Oxen, two and twenty thousand, and Sheep, a hundred and twenty thousand,— Thus did I the king and all the sons of Israel] dedicate the house of Yahweh. 66 <On that day> did the king hallow the middle of the court, that was before the house of Yahweh,—for he offered there the ascending-sacrifice, and the meal-offering, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings, because [the altar of bronze that was before Yahweh] was too small to receive the ascending-sacrifice and the meal-offering, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings. 67 And Solomon made, at that time, a festival—and all Israel with him—a great convocation, from the entering in of Hamath unto the ravine of Egypt, before Yahweh our God, [seven days, and seven days],—[fourteen days]. 68 <And on the eighth day> he sent the people away, and they blessed the king,—and departed to their homes, rejoicing and glad of heart, over all the goodness which Yahweh had done for David his servant, and for Israel his people. 69 And it came to pass <when Solomon had made an end of building the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king, and everything that Solomon desired, which he was pleased to make> 70 then appeared Yahweh unto Solomon, [a second time],
—as he appeared unto him, in Gibeon. And Yahweh said unto him—
I have heard thy prayer and thy supplication, wherewith thou hast made supplication before me, I have hallowed this house, which thou hast built, to put my Name there unto times age-abiding,—and mine eyes and my heart shall be there, continually:

As for thee, therefore, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, with a whole heart and with uprightnesst, to do according to all that I have commanded thee,—and wilt keep my statutes and my regulations, I will establish the throne of thy kingdom over Israel, unto times age-abiding,—as I promised unto David thy father, saying,
There shall not be cut off to thee a man from off the throne of Israel.

If ye turn back, ye or your sons, from following me, and keep not my commandments, my statutes, which I have set before you, but depart and serve other gods, and bow yourselves down to them; then will I cut off Israel, from the face of the soil, which I have given unto them, and the house which I have hallowed for my Name, will I suffer to be carried away from before me,—and Israel shall become a byword and a mockery, among all the peoples; and this house which had been renowned shall be desolate, and every one that passeth by it shall be astonished and shall whistle,—and men shall say—
For what cause hath Yahweh done this, unto this land, and unto this house?

And men will answer—
Because they forsook Yahweh their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold of other gods, and bowed themselves down to them, and served them; for this cause hath Yahweh brought in upon them all this ruin.

§ 12. King Hiram dissatisfied with his Cities.

And it came to pass at the end of twenty years, when Solomon had built the two houses,—the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king; Hiram king of Tyre having supplied Solomon with timber of cedar, and with timber of fir, and with gold, according to all his desire; that then Solomon gave unto Hiram twenty cities, in the land of Galilee.

And Hiram came out from Tyre to view the cities which Solomon had given him,—and they were not pleasing in his eyes.

Now the following is an account of the tax which King Solomon raised, for building the house of Yahweh and his own house, and Millo, and the wall of Jerusalem,—and Hazor and Megiddo, and Gezer. Hiram king of Egypt had gone up and captured Gezer, and burned it with fire. The Canaanites also who were dwelling in the city had slain all, and had given it as a dowry, to his daughter, wife of Solomon. So then Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon, the nether, and Baalath and Tadmor in the wilderness; and all the store cities, which Solomon had, and the cities for chariots, and the cities for horsemen,—and the desire of Solomon that he was pleased to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land that he ruled over. All the people that were left of the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Hivites and the Jebusites, who were not of the sons of Israel; their sons, who were left after them in the land, whom the sons of Israel were not able to devote to destruction, Solomon leaved them for a toiling labour-band, which remained, unto this day. But of the sons of Israel—Solomon devoted none to bondservice,—but they were men of war, and his servants, and his generals, and his heroes, and captains of his chariots, and his horsemen. These were the chiefs of the officers, who were over the work, for Solomon, five hundred and fifty, who ruled over the people that wrought in the work. Scarcely had Pharaoh's daughter come up out of the city of David, into her own house, which he had built for her, when he built Millo.

And Solomon used to offer, three times a year, ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings, upon the altar which he had built unto Yahweh, and to offer incense at the altar which was before Yahweh,—thus Solomon gave completeness unto the house. A fleet also did King Solomon build in Ezion-geber, which is beside Ethlon, on the shore of the Red Sea, in the land of Edom. And Hiram sent in the fleet his servants, seamen, having knowledge of the sea, with the servants of Solomon; and they came to Ophir, and § 14. Visit of the Queen of Sheba.

10 1 And <when the queen of Sheba heard the report of Solomon, as pertaining to the Name of Yahweh> she came to prove him, with altruse questions. 2 Yea she came to Jerusalem with a very heavily-laden train, of camels bearing spices, gold in great abundance, and precious stones,—and <when she was come to Solomon> she spoke unto him all that was near her heart; 3 and Solomon answered her all her questions,—there was nothing hidden from the king, which he told her not. 4 And <when the queen of Sheba had seen all the wisdom of Solomon,—and the house which he had built;> and the food of his table, and the seated assembly of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers with their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his ascent by which he ascended unto the house of Yahweh> there was in her no more spirit. 5 And she said unto the king, "True was the word which I heard in mine own land,—concerning thine affairs, and concerning thy wisdom."

7 Howbeit I believed not the words, until that I had come and mine own eyes had seen, and lo! there had not been told me [the half],—thou dost exceed in wisdom and prosperity, even the report which I heard!

8 "How happy are thy wives, how happy thy servants,—who do stand before thee continually, who hear thy wisdom!"

9 Yahweh thy God be blessed, who delighted in thee, to set thee upon the throne of Israel,—<because Yahweh loveth Israel unto times age-abiding> therefore hath he appointed thee to be king, to execute justice and righteousness.

10 And she gave unto the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance, and precious stones,—there came in no more such spice for abundance, as that which the queen of Sheba gave unto King Solomon.

11 [Moreover also] the fleet of Hiram, which brought gold from Ophir, brought in, from Ophir sandal-wood in great abundance, and precious stones. 12 So the king made of the sandal-wood a footpath to the house of Yahweh, and to the house of the king, lyres also and harps, for the singers,—there hath neither come in such sandal-wood, nor been seen, unto this day.

12 And <when King Solomon> had given unto the queen of Sheba, all her desire, which she asked, besides that which he gave her as the bounty of King Solomon> she turned, and went to her own land, [she and her servants].

§ 15. Various material Tokens of Solomon's Greatness.

14 And it came to pass that the weight of the gold which came in unto Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold; besides the tribute of the subjugated, and of the travelling merchants,—and of all the kings of Arabia, and the praesae of the land.

16 And King Solomon made two hundred shields, of beaten gold, six hundred [shekels] of gold laid he upon one shield; 17 and three hundred bucklers, of beaten gold one hundred and fifty shekels of gold laid he upon one buckler,—and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

18 And the king made a great throne of ivory,—and overlaid it with gold from Uphaz. 19 There were six steps to the throne, and there was a circular top to the throne, behind it, and there were supports on this side and on that, unto the place of the seat,—with two lions standing beside the supports; 20 and twelve lions were standing there, upon the six steps, on this side and on that,—that there had never been made the like, for any of the kingdoms.

21 And all the drinking vessels of King Solomon were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of pure gold,—none was of silver, it was accounted in the days of Solomon [as nothing]. 22 For a fleet of Tarshish had the king, at sea, with the fleet of Hiram,—once in three years came in the fleet of Tarshish, bringing gold and silver, ivory and apes, and peacocks.

23 So King Solomon became greater than any of the kings of the earth,—for riches and for wisdom. 24 And all the earth did seek the face of Solomon,—to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart. 25 And [they] did bring every man his present—vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armour, and spices, horses and mules,—a rate of a year in a year.

26 And Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen, and so it was that he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen,—for whom he found place in the chariot cities, and near the king, in Jerusalem.

27 And the king caused silver in Jerusalem to be as stones, —cedars also caused he to be as the sycamores that are in the lowlands, for abundance. 28 And the horses that Solomon had were an export out of Egypt,—and a company of the merchants of the king used to fetch a drove at a price. 29 And a chariot came up and forth out of Egypt, for six hundred shekels of silver and a horse for a hundred and fifty,—and if so] for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, <by their means> came they a forth.

§ 16. Solomon's Foreign Wives seduce him into Idolatry; for which cause Yahweh declares his anger and raises up enemies; one of whom, Jeroboam, is commissioned to reign over Ten Tribes. Solomon's Death.

1 But ||King Solomon || loved many foreign women, together with the daughter of Pharaoh,—women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, Hittites: 2 out of the nations concerning whom Yahweh had said unto the sons of Israel—

Ye shall not go in unto them, and [they] shall not come in unto you; surely they will turn aside your heart after their gods.

<Unto these> did Solomon cleave in love. 2 So it came to pass that he had seven hundred wives who were princesses, and three hundred concubines,—and [his wives] turned aside 'his heart'. 4 Yea it came to pass <in the old age of Solomon> that [his wives] turned aside his heart after other gods,—his heart therefore was not sound b with Yahweh his God, lwas the heart of David his father. 5 And Solomon went after Astarte, goddess of the Zidonians, and after Molech the abomination of the Ammonites. 6 Thus Solomon did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and went not fully after Yahweh, as did David his father.

7 ||Then|| did Solomon build a high place for Chemosh, the abomination of Moab, in the hill that is before Jerusalem,—and for Molech, the abomination of the sons of Ammon; 8 and [thus] did he for all his foreign wives,—who burned incense and offered sacrifices unto their gods.

Therefore did Yahweh shew himself angry with Solomon,—because his heart had turned aside from Yahweh God of Israel who had appeared unto him twice; 10 and had been giving command to him concerning this thing, that he should not go away after other gods,—but he had not taken heed unto that which Yahweh had commanded.a 11 Wherefore Yahweh said unto Solomon —<Forasmuch as this hath come to pass with thee, and thou hast not heeded my covenant and my statutes, which I charged upon thee> I will render the kingdom away from thee, and will give it unto a servant of thine.

[Notwithstanding] <in thine own days> will I not do it, for the sake of David my servant, —<out of the hand of thy son> will I rend it.

14 [Howbeit] <all the kingdom> will I not rend away, <one tribe> will I give unto thy son,—<for the sake of David my servant, and for the sake of Jerusalem, which I have chosen>. 14 And Yahweh raised up an adversary against Solomon, Hadad the Edomite,—<of the seed of the king> was he, in Edom. 15 And it came to pass <when David was dealing with Edom, and Joash general of the army went up to buy the slain,—and had smitten every male in Edom, —for six months> did Joash remain there, with all Israel,—until he had cut off every male in Edom> 17 that Hadad fled,—[he and certain men of Edom of the servants of his father, with him] to go into Egypt,—<Hadad being a little boy>. 18 So they arose out of Midian, and came into Paran,—and took certain men with them out of Paran, and came into Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, who gave him a house, and <food> appointed him, and <land> did give unto him. 19 And Hadad found great favour in the eyes of Pharaoh, —so that he gave him to wife, the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the queen. 20 And the sister of Tahpenes bare to him Genubath his son, and Tahpenes' weaned him, in the house of Pharaoh,—and so it came about, that Genubath was of the household of Pharaoh, among the sons of Pharaoh. 21 And <when ||Hadad> heard in Egypt, that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab general of the army dead> Hadad said unto Pharaoh,

Let me go, that I may take my journey unto mine own land.

22 Then said Pharaoh unto him—

But what hast thou' been lacking with me, that lo ! thou art seeking to take thy journey unto thine own land?

And he said—

Nothing, howbeit llet me go>.b

23 And God raised up against him an adversary, Rezon son of Eliada,—who had fled from Hadadezer c king of Zobah, his lord; 24 and he gathered unto him men, and became captain of a band when David slew them [of Zobah],—then went they to Damascus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damascus. 25 Thus became he an adversary unto Israel, all the days of Solomon. 26 <Jeroboam also, son of Nebat, an Ephraimite from Zeredah, whose mother's name was Zeruah, a widow woman, he being servant to Solomon> lifted up a hand against the king. 27 And this was the cause that he lifted up a hand against the king,—||Solomon built Millo, he closed up the breach of the city of David his father. 28 Now ||the man Jeroboam|| <being an able man>, Solomon observed his servant, that he was one to execute a work, so he gave him oversight of all the charge of the house of Joseph. 29 And it came to pass at that time, when Jeroboam went forth out of Jerusalem> that there met him Ahijah the Shilonite, the prophet, in the way, 30 he having wrapped himself about with a new mantle; and they two> were by themselves, in the field. 31 Then Ahijah laid hold of the new mantle, that was upon him,— and rent it into twelve pieces; 32 and said to Jeroboam, 33 Take thee ten pieces,— for 34 Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel— Behold me about to rend the kingdom, out of the hand of Solomon, and I will give unto thee ten tribes: 35 Howbeit one tribe> shall he retain,— for the sake of my servant David, and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city that I have chosen, out of all the tribes of Israel: 36 Because they have forsaken me, and bowed themselves down to Aa’thoreth, goddess of the Zidonians, to Chemosh, god of the Moabites, and to Milcom, 4 god of the sons of Ammon,— and have not walked in my ways, by doing what is right in mine eyes, even my statutes and my regulations, like David his father. 37 Yet will I not take all the kingdom out of his hand,— but will suffer him to be leader all the days of his life, for the sake of David my servant, whom I chose,— who kept my commandments and my statutes. 38 But I will take the kingdom out of the hand of his son,— and will give it to thee, 39 even the ten tribes. 40 Nevertheless to his son> will I give one tribe,— to the end there may remain a lamp unto David my servant always before me, in Jerusalem, the city that I have chosen for myself, to put my Name there. 41 But thee> will I take, and thou shalt reign over all that thy soul could desire,— and thou shalt be king over Israel. 42 So shall it be <if thou wilt hearken unto all that I shall command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that which is right in mine eyes, by keeping my statutes and my commandments, as did David my servant> then will I be with thee, and will build thee an assured house, as I have built for David, and will give unto thee Israel. 43 Thus will I humble the seed of David, because of this; yet not for ever. 44 «When therefore Solomon sought to put Jeroboam to death> Jeroboam arose and fled into Egypt, unto Shishak king of Egypt,— and remained in Egypt, until the death of Solomon. 45 Now <the rest of the story of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom> are they not written in the book of the records of Solomon? 46 Now the days which Solomon reigned in Jerusalem, over all Israel> were forty years. 47 So then Solomon slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father,— and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

§ 17. Rehoboam reigns instead of Solomon, and loses the Ten Tribes.

1 And Rehoboam went to Shechem,— for to 12 Shechem> had all Israel come to make him king. 2 And it came to pass <when Jeroboam son of Nebat heard of it,— 4b he being yet in Egypt, whither he had fled from the face of Solomon the king> that Jeroboam returned from Egypt; 3 yea they sent, and called him, and Jeroboam and all the convocation of Israel came,— and spake unto Rehoboam, saying: 4 Thy father> made our yoke grievous,— 5 now therefore, do thou lighten the grievous service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, that we may serve thee. 6 And he said unto them— Depart ye for yet three days, and then come again unto me. 7 And the people departed. 8 Then King Rehoboam consulted the elders who used to stand before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying,— How do ye advise, that I answer this people? 9 And they spake unto him, saying— If to-day thou wilt be servant unto this people, and wilt serve them,— and answer them kindly, and speak unto them good words> then will they be thy servants, always. 10 But he declined the counsel of the elders which they gave him, and consulted with the young men, who had grown up with him, who were standing before himself; 11 and said unto them— What counsel do ye give as to how we shall answer this people who have spoken unto me, saying— Make a lightening of the yoke which thy father put upon us? 12 Then spake unto him the young men who had grown up with him, saying, 13 Thus shalt thou say to this people that have spoken unto thee, saying— Thy father made our yoke heavy, thou therefore, lighten it upon us, 14 Thus shalt thou speak unto them, 15 My little finger is thicker than my father’s loins; 16 Now therefore, whereas my father 17 laid upon you a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke,— 366 1 KINGS XII. 12—33; XIII. 1, 2.

My father|| did chastise you with whips,
But ||I|| will chastise you with scorpions.*

So Jeroboam and all the people came in unto Rehoboam, on the third day,—as the king had bidden, saying—

Come again unto me, on the third day.

And the king answered the people, harshly,— and declined the counsel of the elders wherewith they had counselled him; 14 and spake unto them after the counsel of the young men, saying—

My father|| made your yoke heavy,
But ||I|| will add unto your yoke,—

My father|| chastised you | with whips|
But ||I|| will chastise you | with scorpions|.*

Thus the king hearkened not unto the people,— for there had come about a turn* from Yahweh, that he might establish his word, which Yahweh had spoken by Ahijah the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam, son of Nebat. 18 So Israel rebelled against the house of David, unto this day.

But in all Israel saw that the king hearkened not to them the people answered the king, saying—

What portion have ||we| in |David|,
Or inheritance in the son of Jesse?

To your homes, O Israel! ||Now|| see to thine own house, O David!

And Israel departed to their homes.* 17 But <as for the sons of Israel who were dwelling in the cities of Judah> Rehoboam reigned over them. 18 Then King Rehoboam sent Adoniram who was over the tribute, but all Israel stoned him with stones, that he died,—||King Rehoboam|| therefore, hastily mounted his chariot, to flee unto Jerusalem.

19 So Israel rebelled against the house of David,—unto this day.

And it came to pass <when all Israel heard that Jeroboam had returned> that they sent and called him into the assembly, and made him king over all Israel,—there were none that followed the house of David, [saving the tribe of Judah only].

And <when Rehoboam entered Jerusalem> he called together all the house of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin—a hundred and eighty thousand chosen men, able to make war,—to fight against the house of Israel, to bring back the kingdom* to Rehoboam, son of Solomon.

21 Then came the word of God* unto Shemaiah* the man of God, saying:

Speak unto Rehoboam, son of Solomon, king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah, and Benjamin,—and the remnant of the people, saying:

Thus|| saith Yahweh—
Ye shall not go up, neither shall ye fight with your brethren the sons of Israel,—return ye every man to his own house, for <from me> hath this thing been brought about.

So they hearkened unto the word of Yahweh, and turned back to depart, according to the word of Yahweh.

§ 18. Jeroboam, partly from Motives of Policy, leads Israel into Idolatry, which a Prophet out of Judah rebukes, and then comes to a tragic End.

Then Jeroboam built Shechem, in the hill country of Ephraim, and dwelt therein,— and went forth from thence, and built Penuel.

22 And Jeroboam said in his heart,—

||Now|| shall the kingdom return to the house of David:

<If this people go up to offer sacrifices in the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem> then will the heart of this people return unto their lord, unto Rehoboam, king of Judah,—and they will slay me, and return unto Rehoboam, king of Judah.

Whereupon the king took counsel, and made two calves of gold,—and said unto them—

It is ||too much for you|| to go up to Jerusalem.

Lo! thy gods, O Israel, that brought thee up out of the land of Egypt;

And he set the one in Bethel,—and <the other> put he in Dan. 20 And this thing became a sin,—and the people went before the one, as far as Dan. 21 And he made a house of high-places,—and made priests from the whole compass of the people, who were not of the sons of Levi. 22 And Jeroboam made a festival in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like the festival which [was held] in Judah, and offered up on the altar, <likewise> did he in Bethel, sacrificing to the calves which he had made,—and he kept in attendance* in Bethel, the priests of the high-places which he had made. 23 And he offered up on the altar which he had made in Bethel, on the fifteenth day in the eighth month, in the month which he had devised out of his own heart,—thus made he a festival for the sons of Israel, and offered up on the altar, to make a perfume.

1 And lo! ||a man of God|| came in out of 13 Judah, by the word of Yahweh, unto Bethel,—||as Jeroboam was standing by the altar, to make a perfume.|| 2 And he made proclamation against the altar, by the word of Yahweh, and said,

O altar! altar! ||Thus|| saith Yahweh,—

Lo! a son to be born unto the house of David, ||Josiah|| his name||, who shall sacrifice upon thee the priests of the high-places, who are making a perfume upon thee, and human bones shall be burned upon thee; and he shall give, on that day, a sign, saying, "This is the sign of which Yahweh hath spoken.—

Lo! the altar is to be rent, and the ashes that are upon thee shall be poured out!"

And it came to pass when the king heard the word of the man of God which he proclaimed against the altar in Bethel, Jeroboam thrust forth his hand, from off the altar, saying—

Lay hold of him! and his hand which he had thrust forth against him was dried up, that he could not draw it back to him. Moreover the altar was rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar, according to the sign which the man of God had given, by the word of Yahweh. Then the king said and said unto the man of God—

Appease, I pray thee, the face of Yahweh thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored unto me. Then the king said unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refresh thyself, and let me give thee a present. But the man of God said unto the king—

"If thou wouldest give me the half of thy house I would not go in with thee, neither would I eat bread or drink water, in this place; for he charged me by the word of Yahweh, saying, Thou shalt neither eat bread, nor drink water, neither shalt thou turn back to come by the way by which thou wentest."

And he said to him—

"I also am a prophet, like unto thee, and a messenger hath spoken unto me, by the word of Yahweh, saying—Bring him back with thee, into thy house, that he may eat bread, and drink water."

So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water. And so it was as they were sitting at the table, yea! that the word of Yahweh came unto the prophet who had brought him back; and he cried out unto the man of God who had come in out of Judah, saying, "Thus saith Yahweh,—Forasmuch as thou hast rebelled against the bidding of Yahweh, and hast not kept the commandment which Yahweh thy God commanded thee; but hast returned, and eaten bread and drunk water, in the place of which he said unto thee, thy dead body shall not enter the burying-place of thy fathers."

Thou mayest neither eat bread nor drink water:

And it came to pass after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass, for the prophet whom he had brought back. So he departed another way, and went not back by the way by which he came unto Bethel. But a certain aged prophet was dwelling in Bethel, whose sons came in and related to him the doings which the man of God had done that day in Bethel—and the words which he had spoken unto the king, and they related them to their father. And he said unto them—

Which way then went he?

Now his sons had seen the way which the man of God went, who had come in out of Judah. So he said unto his sons, Saddle for me, the ass. And they saddled for him the ass, and he rode thereon; and went after the man of God, and found him, sitting under an oak. And he said unto him—

Art thou the man of God who came in out of Judah?"
found his dead body, cast out in the way, with [the ass and the lion] standing near the dead body,—the lion had neither eaten the dead body, nor had it torn the ass. 39 And the prophet took up the dead body of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back,—and the aged prophet came into the city, to make lamentation, and to bury him. 39 And he laid his dead body in his own grave,—and they lamented over him [saying]—

Alas, my brother!

And it came to pass [after he had buried him] that he spake unto his sons, saying, <When I die> then shall ye bury me in the grave wherein the man of God is buried; [beside his bones] lay my bones; 29 For the message which he proclaimed, by the word of Yahweh, against the altar which is in Bethel,—and against all the houses of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria, shall surely come to pass. 30 After this thing Jeroboam turned not from the wicked way,—but again made [from the whole compass of the people] priests of high places, [whomsoever he would] he installed, and he became priest b of high places. 34 And so this thing became the sin of the house of Jeroboam,—that it should be both taken away and destroyed, from off the face of the ground.

§ 19. Jeroboam, sending his Wife to the Prophet Ahijah, at Shiloh, in behalf of their Sick Son, is severely rebuked; dies, and is succeeded by Nadab his Son.

14 1 At that time fell sick, Abijah son of Jeroboam. 2 Then said Jeroboam to his wife— Arise, I pray thee, and feign thyself another, that it be not known, that thou art the wife of Jeroboam,—and thou shalt go thy way to Shiloh, lo! 3 There is Ahijah the prophet, who promised I should be king over Israel. 4 And him that dieth of Jeroboam in the field shall dogs eat, 5 For ||Yahweh II hath spoken.

And the wife of Jeroboam [did so], and arose, and went to Shiloh, and entered the house of Ahijah,—now ||Ahijah|| could not see, for his eyes were fixed by reason of his old age. 6 But ||Yahweh|| had said unto Ahijah—

Lo! ||the wife of Jeroboam|| coming to enquire something of thee, concerning her son, for he is [sick] ||thus and so|| shalt thou speak unto her,—though <when she cometh in> she feign to be a stranger-woman.

6 So it came to pass <when Ahijah heard the sound of her feet, as she entered the doorway> that he said—

Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam,—wherefore is it that thou art feigning to be a stranger-woman, seeing that I am sent unto thee, with something hard to hear? 7 Go, say to Jeroboam—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of Israel, <Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the midst of the people,—and gave thee to be leader over my people Israel; and rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it to thee,—and yet thou hast not been like my servant David, who kept my commandments, and who followed me, with all his heart, to do only that which was right in mine eyes; but hast made wicked thy doings beyond any who were before thee,—and hast gone and made thee other gods, even molten images, to provoke me to anger, and hast cast [me] behind thy back> 10 ||therefore|| behold me! bringing misfortune against the house of Jeroboam, and I will cut off the meanest pertaining to Jeroboam, whether shut up or left at large, in Israel,—and will consume after the house of Jeroboam, as one consumeth dung, till it be all gone:

11 <Him that dieth of Jeroboam in the city> shall [the dogs] eat, 12 And <him that dieth in the field> shall [the birds of heaven] eat,—

For ||Yahweh|| hath spoken.

13 Thou therefore, arise, go to thine own house,—<as thy feet are entering the city> the young man shall die.

14 Then shall all Israel lament for him, and bury him, for [this one, pertaining to Jeroboam] shall reach a burying-place,—because there hath been found in him something good toward Yahweh, God of Israel, in the house of Jeroboam.

15 Therefore will Yahweh raise up for himself a king over Israel, who will cut off the house of Jeroboam, this day, but why, <even now>?

15 Therefore will Yahweh smite Israel, as a reed shaken in water, and will root out Israel, from off this goodly soil, which he gave unto their fathers, and will scatter them beyond the River (Euphrates),—because they have made their Sacred Stems, provoking Yahweh to anger:

16 That he may deliver up Israel,—on account of the sin of Jeroboam, which he committed, and which he caused [Israel] to commit.

17 Then arose the wife of Jeroboam, and went her way and entered Tirzah,—<as [she] was coming into the entrance hall> the young man died. 18 And <when they buried him> all Israel lamented him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake through his servant Abijah the prophet.

19 Now <in the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned> behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. 20 And <the days which Jeroboam reigned> were twenty-two years,—and he slept with his fathers, and [Nadab his son] reigned [in his stead].

§ 20. The Story of Rehoboam’s Reign resumed.

21 And <Rehoboam, son of Solomon> reigned in Judah,—<forty-one years old> was Rehoboam when he began to reign, and <seventeen years> reigned he in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh had chosen to put his Name there, out of all the tribes of Israel, and [his mother’s name] was Naamah, the Ammonitess.

22 And Judah did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and provoked him to jealousy, above all that their fathers had done, with their sins which they committed. 23 And [they also] built for themselves high places and pillars, and Sacred Stems,—upon every high hill, and under every green tree. 24 [Moreover also] there were male devotees in the land,—they did according to all the abominable practices of the nations, which Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel.

25 And it came to pass <in the fifth year of King Rehoboam> that Shishak king of Egypt, came up against Jerusalem; 26 and took away the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king, yes [the whole] took he away,—and took away all the bucklers of gold, which [Solomon] had made.

So King Rehoboam made in their stead, bucklers of bronze,—and committed them unto the hand of the captains of the runners, who kept guard at the entrance of the house of the king. 28 And so it was <whenever the king went into the house of Yahweh> the runners bare them, and then brought them back into the chamber of the runners.

29 Now <the rest of the story of Rehoboam, and all that he did> are <they> not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 30 And there was <war> between Rehoboam and Jeroboam, continually.

31 So then Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, —and [Abijah his son] reigned [in his stead].

§ 21. Abijah (a bad King) reigns over Judah.

1 Now <in the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam son of Nebat> began Abijah to reign over Judah. 2 <Three years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and [the name of his mother] was Maachah, daughter of Abishalom. 3 And he walked in all the sins of his father which he had done before him,—and his heart was not blameless with Yahweh his God, like the heart of David his father. 4 But <for the sake of David> did Yahweh his God give him a lamp, in Jerusalem,—by raising up a son of his after him, and by suffering Jerusalem to stand; 5 because David did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—and turned not aside from anything that he commanded him, all the days of his life, <save only> in the matter of Uriah the Hittite. 6 And there was <war> between Rehoboam and Jeroboam, all the days of his life.

7 Now <the rest of the story of Abijah> and all that he did> are <they> not written in the book of Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. 8 And there was <war> between Abijah and Jeroboam. 9 So then Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David,—and [Asa his son] reigned [in his stead].

§ 22. Asa (a good King) reigns over Judah.

9 Now <in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel> began Asa to reign as king of Judah; 10 and <forty-one years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and [the name of his mother] was Maachah, daughter of Abishalom. 11 And Asa did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—like David his father; 12 and he put away the male devotees out of the land,—and removed all the idols that his fathers had made. 13 [Moreover also] <even Maachah his mother> he removed from being queen, because she had made a monstrous thing to the Sacred Stem,—and Asa cut down her monstrous thing and burned it in the Kidron ravine. 14 But <the high places> removed he not,—nevertheless [the heart of Asa] was blameless with Yahweh, all his days.

15 And he brought in the hallowed things of his father, and his own hallowed things, into the house of Yahweh,—silver and gold, and vessels. 16 And there was <war> between Asa and Baasha king of Israel, all their days. 17 And Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah,—so as not to suffer any one to come out or go in unto Asa king of Judah. 18 So Asa took all the silver and the gold, that were left in the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king, and delivered them into the hand of his servants,—and King Asa sent them unto Ben-hadad, son of Tabrimmon, son of Nebat, king of Syria; and he gave them twenty talents of silver. 19 But <not all the gold and silver> did Asa take. 20 And he removed the high places, and cut down the male devotees, and cut down the Sacred Stem,—upon every high hill, and under every green tree.
Hezion, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying:

[Let there be a] covenant between me and thee, [as] between my father and thy father:

Lo! I have sent thee a gift, silver and gold, Come break thy covenant with Baasha, king of Israel,

That he may go up from against me.

So Ben-hadad hearkened unto King Asa, and sent the generals of the forces which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote Iyyohn [Ijon], and Dan, and Abel-beth-maccah,—and all Chinneroth, against all the land of Naphtali.

And it came to pass, when Baasha heard thereof, he left off building Ramah,—and returned to Tirzah.

And [[King Asa]] published it unto all Judah, none was exempted, so they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the beams thereof, wherewith Baasha had built,—and King Asa built therewith Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpah.

Now <the rest of the story of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did and the cities which he built> are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? Howbeit <in the time of his old age> he was diseased in his feet.

So then Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father,—and |Jehoashaphat his son| reigned |in his stead|.

§ 23. Nadab (a bad King) reigns over Israel: Slain by Baasha (another bad King), who succeeds him.

Now <Nadab son of Jeroboam> began to reign over Israel, in the second year of Asa king of Judah,—and he reigned over Israel, two years. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in the way of his father, and in his sin, wherewith he caused |Israel| to sin. And Baasha son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, conspired against him, and Baasha smote him in Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines,—Nadab and all Israel being in siege against Gibbethon. And Baasha slew him, in the third year of Asa king of Judah,—and reigned in his stead. And it came to pass <when he became king> that he smote all the house of Jeroboam, he left not remaining any breathing thing pertaining to Jeroboam, until he had destroyed him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahijah the Shilonite: for the sins of Jeroboam which he committed, and which he caused |Israel| to commit,—by his provocation wherewith he provoked to anger Yahweh God of Israel.

Now <the rest of the story of Nadab, and all that he did> are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? And there was [war] between Asa and Baasha king of Israel, all their days.

<In the third year of Asa king of Judah> began Baasha, son of Ahijah, to reign over all Israel, in Tirzah, [and he reigned] twenty-four years. And he did that which was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he caused |Israel| to sin.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jehu son of Hanani, against Baasha, saying:

<Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust, and gave thee to be leader over my people Israel,—and yet thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and caused [my people Israel] to sin, provoking me to anger with their sins>

Behold me! consuming after Baasha, and after his house,—and I will deliver up thy house, like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat:

<Him that dieth of Baasha in the city shall the dogs eat, And <him that dieth of his in the field> shall the birds of heaven eat.>

Now <the rest of the story of Baasha, and what he did, and his might> are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

So Baasha slept with his fathers, and was buried in Tirzah,—and |Elah his son| reigned |in his stead|.

Moreover also, <through Jehu son of Hanani the prophet> |the word of Yahweh came against Baasha and against his house, even because of all the wickedness that he had done in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking him to anger with the work of his hands, becoming like the house of Jeroboam,—|notwithstanding that he smote him|.

§ 24. Elah succeeds his father Baasha, is slain by Zimri his servant, who is speedily besieged and destroys himself by fire.

<In the twenty-sixth year of Asa king of Judah> began Elah son of Baasha to reign over Israel, in Tirzah, [and he reigned] two years. Then conspired against him his servant Zimri, captain of half the chariots,—as he was in Tirzah drinking himself drunk, in the house of Arza, who was over the household in Tirzah. And Zimri went in, and smote him and slew him, in the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah,—and reigned in his stead.

And it came to pass <when he began to reign, as soon as he sat on his throne, that he smote all the house of Baasha, he left him not even the meanest,—neither of his kinsfolk, nor of his friends. Thus did Zimri destroy all the house of Baasha,—according to the word of...>
Yahweh which he spake unto Baasha, through Jehu the prophet; 12 as to all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son,—wherewith they sinned, and wherewith they caused [Israel] to sin, provoking to anger Yahweh God of Israel, with their vanities.

11 Now <the rest of the story of Elah, and all that he did> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

12 <In the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah> did Zimri reign, seven days in Tirzah, —but [the people] were encamped against Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines.

13 <When therefore the people who were encamped, heard say, Zimri hath conspired, [moreover also] he hath smitten the king— all Israel made Omri, general of the army, king over Israel, on that day, in the camp.

14 So Omri, and all Israel with him, went up from Gibbethon,—and laid siege against Tirzah.

15 And it came to pass, <when Zimri saw that the city was captured,—that he entered into the citadel of the house of the king, and burned over him the house of the king, with fire, and died: 19 because of his sins which he committed by doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—by walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin which he committed, by causing [Israel] to sin.>

16 <Now the rest of the story of Zimr, and his conspiracy wherein he conspired> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel!

17 <Then> were the people of Israel divided,—[half the people] were following Tibni son of Ginath, to make him king, and [half] following Omri. 18 But [the people that followed Omri] prevailed against [the people that followed Tibni son of Ginath]; so that [Tibni] died, and [Omri] reigned.

§ 25. The Reign of Omri, a very wicked King.

18 <In the thirty-first year of Asa king of Judah> began Omri to reign over Israel [and he reigned] twelve years: <in Tirzah> reigned he six years. 19 And he bought the hill Samaria, of Shemer, for two talents of silver,—and built of it the city, after the name of Shemer lord of the hill— [Samaria].

20 And Omri did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and did more wickedly than all who were before him; 20 yea he walked in all the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and in his sin whereWITH he caused [Israel] to sin,—provoking to anger Yahweh, God of Israel, with their vanities.

21 Now <the rest of the story of Omri, what he did, and his might that he showed> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

22 So Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria,— and [Ahab his son] reigned in his stead.

§ 26. Ahab succeeds his father Omri, marries the Zidonian Jezebel, and worships Baal—to whom he erects an Altar in Samaria.

23 <Now Ahab son of Omri began to reign over Israel, in the thirty-eighth year of Asa king of Judah,—and Ahab son of Omri reigned over Israel, in Samaria, twenty-two years. 24 And Ahab son of Omri did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and did more wickedly than all that were before him.>

25 And it come to pass <as though it had been too light a thing> that he should walk in the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat; that he took to wife Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Zidonians, and went and served Baal, and bowed down to him.

26 And he reared an altar unto Baal,—in the house of Baal, which he built in Samaria. 27 And Ahab made the Sacred Stem,—and Ahab did yet more to provoke to anger Yahweh God of Israel than all the kings of Israel who were before him.

27 <In his days> did Hiel the Bethelite build Jericho,—

At the price of Abiram his firstborn> he laid its foundation,
And <at the price of Segub his youngest> he set up its doors,
[according to the word of Yahweh which he spake through Joshua son of Nun].

§ 27. Elijah appears upon the Scene, threatening a long Drought. The Prophet dwells by the Ravine of Cherith; then lodges with a Widow at Zarephath in Zidon, whose Son he restores to Life.

1 Then said Elijah * the Tishbite, of Tishbe in 17 Gilead, unto Ahab,

By the life of Yahweh, God of Israel, before whom I stand>
There shall not, these two years, be either dew or rain,—save at the bidding of my word.

3 Then came the word of Yahweh unto him saying:

Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward,—and hide thyself in the ravine of Cherith, which faceth the Jordan; 4 and it shall be that <of the torrent> shalt thou drink,—and <of the ravens> have I commanded to sustain thee, there.

5 So he went and did, according to the word of Yahweh,—yea he went and dwelt in the ravine of Cherith, which faceth the Jordan. And the ravens used to bring him bread and flesh, in the morning, and bread and flesh, in the evening, and of the torrent he used to drink. But it came to pass <at the end of [certain] days> that the torrent dried up, because there had been no rain in the land. Then came the word of Yahweh unto him, saying—

9 Ari Be get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there,—Lo! I have commanded, there, a widow woman, to sustain thee.

10 So he arose and went to Zarephath, and when he came to the entrance of the city lo! there, a widow woman gathering sticks,—and he called to her, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.

11 And as she went to fetch it he called to her and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread, in thy hand.

12 And she said—By the life of Yahweh, thy God verily I have not' a cake, only a handful of meal in the jar, and a little oil in the cruse,—and lo! I have been gathering a couple of sticks, so I shall go in and make it ready for me and for my son, that we may eat it—and die!

13 And Elijah said unto her—Do not fear, go in—make ready according to thy word,—howbeit. make me thereof a little cake first I, and bring it out to me, and for thyself and thy son make ready afterwards. For thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel, The jar of meal shall not waste, and the cruse of oil shall not fail,—Until the day that Yahweh giveth rain upon the face of the ground.

15 So she went and made ready, according to the word of Elijah,—and did eat, and he, and her house certain days:

16 The jar of meal did not waste, and the cruse of oil did not fail,—According to the word of Yahweh, which spake through Elijah.

17 And it came to pass <after these things> that the son of the woman, owner of the house, fell sick,—yea it came to pass that his sickness was very severe, until no breath was left in him. Then said she unto Elijah, What have I in common with thee, O man of God? Hast thou come unto me, to call to remembrance mine iniquity, and to cause the death of my son?

18 And he said unto her—Give me thy son.

And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him unto the upper room, where he was staying, and laid him upon his own bed. Then cried he unto Yahweh, and said,—O Yahweh, my God! Even upon the widow with whom I am sojourning hast thou brought misfortune by causing the death of her son?

21 And he stretched himself out upon the boy, three times, and cried unto Yahweh, and said,—O Yahweh, my God! Let the life of this boy, I pray thee, come again within him.

22 And Yahweh hearkened unto the voice of Elijah,—and the life of the boy came again within him, and he lived. Then Elijah took the boy, and carried him down out of the upper room, into the house, and gave him to his mother,—and Elijah said, See! thy son liveth.

24 And the woman said unto Elijah, Now then I know, that a man of God thou art',—and that the word of Yahweh is in thy mouth, of a truth.

§28. Elijah, as a Herald of Rain, meets Obadiah; shows himself to Ahab; encounters the Prophets of Baal on Mount Carmel.

1 And it came to pass <after many days> that the word of Yahweh came unto Elijah, in the third year, saying,—Go, shew thyself unto Ahab, that I may send rain upon the face of the ground.

2 And Elijah went to show himself unto Ahab. Now the famine was severe in Samaria.

3 And Ahab had called for Obadiah, who was over his house. Now Obadiah was one who revered Yahweh, exceedingly. And so it came to pass <when Jezebel was cutting off the prophets of Yahweh> that Obadiah took a hundred prophets, and hid them by fifties in caves, and sustained them, with bread and water.

4 So then Ahab said unto Obadiah, Go, and let us pass throughout the land, unto all the fountains of water, and unto all the ravines,—peradventure we may find grass, and save alive horse and mule, and not have more of the beasts cut off.

5 So they divided to them the land, to pass through it,—Ahab went one way, by himself, and Obadiah went another way, by himself. And so it was <as Obadiah was on the road> that lo! Elijah met him,—and he recognised him, and fell upon his face, and said—Now art thou my lord Elijah?
And he said to him—

I am!» Go, say to thy lord: "Here!" is [Elijah]!

And he said—

How have I sinned,— that IIthou IIart delivering thy servant into the hand of Ahab, to put me to death?

By the life of Yahweh thy God there is no nation or kingdom, whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee, and when they have said— Nay! he hath taken an oath of the kingdom or the nation, that no one could find thee; and now I am left, Yahweh's only prophet,— but the prophets of Baal are four hundred and fifty men.

22 Let there be given us, therefore, two bullocks, and let them choose for themselves one bullock, and cut it in pieces, and lay it upon the wood, but <fire> shall they not put,— then I will make ready the other bullock, and place upon the wood, but <fire> will I not put.

24 Then shall ye call on the name of your god, and I will call on the name of Yahweh, and it shall be <the God that respondeth by fire> [Elijah] is GOD.

And all the people responded—

Well spoken!*

25 Then said Elijah to the prophets of Baal—

Choose for yourselves one bullock, and make ye ready [first], for ye are many,— and call ye on the name of your god, but <fire> shall ye not put.

26 So they took the bullock which was given them, and made ready, and called on the name of Baal—from the morning even until the noon, saying— O Baal! answer us.

But there was no voice, nor any' that answered. And they leaped about by the altar which had been made, and made ready, and called on the name of Baal—from the morning even until the noon, saying— O Baal! answer us.

But there was no' voice, nor any' that answered. And they leaped about by the altar which had been made. And it came to pass <at noon> that although they prophesied until the offering up of the evening gift> yet was there no' voice, nor any' that answered, nor any' that hearkened.

27 Then said Elijah unto all the people:

Draw near unto me.

And all the people drew near unto him. Then repaired he the broken-down altar of Yahweh; and Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, unto whom the word of Yahweh came, saying—Israel shall lie thy name; and built, with the stones, an altar, in the name of Yahweh,— and he made a trench, as large as would contain two measures* of seed, round about the altar; and he put in order the wood, and cut in pieces the bullock, and laid upon the wood. Then said he—

Fill four pitchers with water, and pour out upon the ascending-sacrifice, and upon the wood.

* Lit.: emphasis "I' only.

Ml.: "lords" — intensive plural, as frequently. Cp. chap. xvi. 2.

Or: "the basiliss": Heb: "the baalim." Lit.: "the Elohim." Some cod.: "unto all the people"—G.n.
And they did so. And he said—
Do it the second time.
And they did it the second time. And he said—
Do it the third time.
And they did it the third time. And the water ran round about the altar,— moreover also] (the trench) filled he with water.
And it came to pass] (at the time of the offering of the gift)— that Elijah the prophet drew near, and said,
O Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel!
||To-day|| let it be known—
That ||thou|| art God in Israel,||
And that ||I|| am thy servant,—
And that <by thy word> have I done all these things.

Answer me, O Yahweh! answer me,
That this people may know, that ||thou—
Yahweh ||art GOD,—
So shalt ||thou thyself|| have turned their heart back again.
Then fell fire from* Yahweh, and consumed the ascending-sacrifice, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust,—<even the water that was in the trench> it licked up.
And <when all the people saw it> they fell upon their faces,—and said,
[Yahweh] [he] is GOD,
[Yahweh] [he] is GOD.
And Elijah said unto them—
Seize ye the prophets of Baal—let not I slay man] of them escape.
So they seized them. And Elijah took them down unto the ravine of Kishon, and slaughtered them there.
Then said Elijah unto Ahab,
Go up. eat and drink,—for there is a sound of a downpour of rain.
So Ahab went up, to eat and drink,—but ||Elijah ||went up to the top of Carmel, and bowed himself to the earth, and put his face between his knees.*
Then said he unto his young man—
Go up, I pray thee, and look about in the direction of the sea.
So he went up, and looked about, and said—
There is ||nothing whatever||. Then said he—
Go again, seven times. 4
And it came to pass <at the seventh time> that he said—
Lo ! a little cloud, like a man's hand coming up from the sea.
Then he said—
Go up,* say unto Ahab—
Harness, and get thee down, lest the rain shut thee in.
And it came to pass <meanwhile> that ||the heavens|| had enshrouded themselves with clouds and wind, and there came a great rain, and Ahab rode, and went to Jezreel; 4 but ||the hand of Yahweh|| came upon Elijah, so he girded his loins, and ran before Ahab, until thou enterest Jezreel.

§ 29. Elijah flees from Jezebel, first to Beer-sheba, then to Horeb, where he is commissioned anew, and, returning, summons Elisha to become his Successor.

1 And Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done,—[and withal] how* he had slain all the prophets with the sword. 4 Then sent Jezebel a messenger unto Elijah, saying,—
||So|| let the gods do,* and ||so|| let them add, if <by this time to-morrow> I make not thy life as the life of one of them. 3 And <when he saw [that]> he arose, and went for his life, and came to Beer-sheba, which belongeth to Judah,—and left his servant there. 4 But ||he himself|| went into the wilderness* a day's journey, and came and sat down under a certain shrub,—and asked for his life, that he might die, and said—
||Enough, now|| O Yahweh! take away my life, for |no better| am ||I|| than |my fathers||.
5 And <as he lay, and slept, under a certain shrub> lo ! a messenger, touching him, who said to him—
Rise, eat.
So he looked about, and lo ! <at his head> a cake baked on hot stones, and a cruse of water,—and he did eat and drink, and then went back and lay down. 7 And the messenger of Yahweh came again a second time, and touched him, and said—
Rise, eat,—because |too much for thee| is the journey. 6
So he arose, and did eat and drink,—and journeyed, <in the strength of that eating> forty days and forty nights, as far as the mountain of God—||Horeb||. 9 And he entered, there, into a cave, and lodged there,—and lo ! the word of Yahweh [came] unto him, and said to him,
What doest thou here, Elijah ?

10 And he said—
||Very jealous|| have I been, for Yahweh, God of hosts,
Because the sons of Israel have forsaken thy covenant,
<Thine altars> have they thrown down,
|Thy prophets| also have they slain with the sword,—

* Or: ||" desert."
And I alone am left, and they have sought my life, to take it.

11 And he said—

Go forth to-morrow, and stand in the mountain, before Yahweh.

And lo! [Yahweh, passing by], and a great and strong wind— rending the mountains and breaking in pieces the crags, before Yahweh,

Not in the wind was Yahweh,—

And after the wind an earthquake,—

Not in the earthquake was Yahweh;—

And after the earthquake a fire,—

Not in the fire was Yahweh,—

And after the fire the voice of a gentle whisper.

And it came to pass when Elijah heard it, he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went forth, and stood at the entrance of the cave,— and lo! [unto him] a voice; and it said—

What dost thou here, Elijah?

13 And Yahweh said unto him, Go, return to thy way, towards the wilderness of Damascus,

And when thou enterest,

Then shalt thou anoint Hazael to be king over Syria;

16 And Jehu son of Minshi shalt thou anoint to be king over Israel;

And Elisha son of Shaphat of Abel-meholah shalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy stead:

Then shall it come to pass, that—

Him that escapeth the sword of Hazael shall Jehu shall Elisha slay;

And him that escapeth the sword of Jehu shall Elisha slay;

Yet will I leave remaining in Israel, seven thousand, all knees which have not bowed to Baal, and all mouths which have not kissed to him.

So he departed from thence, and found Elisha son of Shaphat, as he was plowing, with twelve yoke of oxen before him, he being with the twelfth, so Elijah crossed over unto him, and cast his mantle towards him;

and he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and said—

Let me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, that I may follow thee.

And he said unto him,—

Go, turn back, for what have I done to thee?

21 So he turned back from following him, and took the yoke of oxen, and sacrificed them, and with the implements of the oxen boiled their flesh, and gave unto the people, and they did eat.— then he arose, and followed Elijah, and ministered unto him.

§ 30. Ben-hadad king of Syria, laying siege to Samaria, is twice defeated; Ahab is punished for suffering him to escape.

1 Now Ben-hadad, king of Syria, had gathered together all his forces, and thirty-two kings were with him, and horses and chariots,—then came he up, and laid siege to Samaria, and made war against it. And he sent messengers unto Ahab king of Israel, into the city, and said,—

Thus saith Ben-hadad,

Thy silver and thy gold are mine, and thy wives and thy sons the goodliest are mine.

4 Then responded the king of Israel, and said, According to thy word my lord O king! thy silver and thy gold and thy wives and thy sons I will give;—

5 And the messengers came back again, and said, Thus speaketh Ben-hadad, saying,—

Because I sent unto thee saying,

Thy silver and thy gold and thy wives and thy sons I shall thou give;

6 Therefore about this time to-morrow will I send my servants unto thee, and they shall search thy house, and the houses of thy servants,— and it shall be, that all the delight of thine eyes shall they put in their hand, and take away.

7 Then called the king of Israel, for all the elders of the land, and said—

Mark, I pray you, and see, how this man is seeking mischief,— for he had sent unto me, for my wives, and for my sons, and for my silver, and for my gold, and I refused him not.

8 And all the elders and all the people said unto him,—

Do not thou hearken, neither do thou consent.

9 So he said unto the messengers of Ben-hadad— Say ye to my lord the king—

All that thou didst send for, to thy servant at the first will I do, but this thing I cannot do.

And the messengers departed, and took him back word.

10 Then Ben-hadad sent unto him and said,—

So let the gods do to me, and let them add, if the dust of Samaria suffice by handfuls, for all the people who are at my feet.
And the king of Israel responded and said:

Tell him,—

Let not [him that girdeth] boast' himself like him [that looseth].

And it came to pass when he heard this message, as [he] was drinking, he' and the kings' in the pavilions that he said unto his servants—

Make ready!

So they made ready against the city.

And lo! a certain prophet drew near unto Ahab king of Israel, and said,—

[Thus] saith Yahweh,

Hast thou seen all this great multitude? Behold me! delivering it into thy hand, to-day, so shalt thou know that [I] am Yahweh.

And Ahab said—

By whom?

And he said—

[Thus] saith Yahweh,

By the young men of the princes of the provinces.

Then said he—

Who shall begin the war?

And he said—

Thou!

Then numbered he the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were found to be, two hundred and thirty-two, — and [after them] he numbered all the people, all the sons of Israel, seven thousand. 16 And they went forth at noon. Now [Ben-hadad] was drinking himself drunk, in the pavilions, [he'] and the thirty-two kings helping him. 17 Then went forth the young men of the princes of the provinces, [first], — and [when Ben-hadad sent] they told him, saying—

Men have come forth, out of Samaria.

And he said—

If [peaceably] they have come, take them alive,—or if [fighting] they have come, take ye them.

Now [when these] had come forth out of the city, even the young men of the princes of the provinces,—with the force which was following them> then anote they every one his man, and the Syrians fled, and Israel pursued them,—but Ben-hadad king of Syria escaped on a horse, with horsemen. 21 And the king of Israel went forth, and took* the horses and the chariots,—and he went on smiting the Syrians, with a great smiting.

Then drew near the prophet, unto the king of Israel, and said unto him—

Go strengthen thyself, and mark and see, what thou wilt do,—for [at the return of the year] is the king of Syria coming up against thee.

And [the servants of the king of Syria] said unto him—

[Gods of the mountains] are their gods, [for this cause] prevailed they against us,—but <only let us fight with them lees the plain> and verily we shall prevail against them.

But [this thing], —set aside the kings, every man out of his place, and put governors* in their stead; and [thou] must number thee a force, like the force which thou hast lost, [both horse for horse and chariot for chariot], and [if we fight with them lees the plain> verily we shall prevail against them.

And he hearkened unto their voice, [and did so]. 20 And so it came to pass at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbered the Syrians,—and came up to Aphek, to fight with Israel; 27 and [the sons of Israel were numbered, and provisioned, and went to meet them,—and the sons of Israel encamped before them like two little flocks of goats, whereas [the Syrians] filled the land.

Then approached the man of God, and spake unto the king of Israel, and said—

[Thus] saith Yahweh—

Because the Syrians have said—

[A god of the mountains] is Yahweh, but <not a god of the vales> is he'> Therefore will I deliver all this great multitude, into thy hand, so shalt thou know, that [I] am Yahweh.

So they encamped, [these] over against [those] seven days,—and it came to pass, <on the seventh day> that the battle was joined, and the sons of Israel smote the Syrians, [a hundred thousand footmen, in one' day]. 30 And they who were left fled to Aphek, into the city, and the wall fell upon twenty-seven thousand men who were left,—and [Ben-hadad] fled, and came into the city, [into a chamber within a chamber]. 31 And his servants said unto him,

Lo! we pray thee, we have heard <of the kings of the house of Israel> that <kings known for lovingkindness> they are'.

Let us, we pray thee, put sackcloth' upon our loins, and ropes' about our head. and let us go forth unto the king of Israel. [peradventure' he will save alive thy soul'.

So they girded sackcloth upon their loins, and [put] ropes about their heads, and came in unto the king of Israel, and said,—

[Thy servant, Ben-hadad] saith,—

Let my soul live, I pray thee. And he said,—

Is he yet' alive? <My brother> he is'.

Now [the men] could divine, so they hastened to let him confirm the word of his own accord' and they said,— [Thy brother] is Ben-hadad!

|thy people| instead of |his people|.

And the king of Israel departed unto his house, sullen and disturbed,— and entered Samaria.

§ 31. Naboth's Vineyard, coveted by Ahab, is recklessly procured by Jezebel: Ahab, rebuked by Elijah, humbles himself and is spared.

1 And it came to pass <after these things> 21 that Naboth the Jezreelite had [[a vineyard]], which was in Jezreel,—hard by the palace of Ahab, king of Samaria. 2 Ahab, therefore, spake unto Naboth, saying—Come! give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, for the same is near by my house, and let me give thee, instead thereof, a vineyard better than it.—<if it be good in thine eyes> I will give thee silver' to the value of this.

3 And Naboth said unto Ahab,— Far be it from me, of Yahweh! that I should give up the inheritance of my fathers unto thee!

4 So Ahab came into his house, sullen and disturbed, because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken unto him, that he should have said,
I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers.
So he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and did eat no food.

5 Then came unto him Jezebel his wife,— and said unto him—
Why is it, that thy spirit is sullen, that thou art |not eating food|?

6 And he said unto her—
Because I spake unto Naboth, the Jezreelite, and said unto him—
Come! give me thy vineyard for silver, or <if thou' wouldst prefer> I will give thee a vineyard, in its stead;
and he said—
I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 Then Jezebel his wife said unto him :—
Art thou still going to carry on the kingdom over Israel?
Rise! eat food, and let thy heart be merry,
I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth
the Jezreelite!

8 So she wrote letters, in the name of Ahab, and sealed them with his signet-ring,— and sent the letters unto the elders, and unto the nobles who were in his city, dwelling with Naboth. 9 Now she wrote in the letters, saying,— Proclaim ye a fast, and cause Naboth to sit at the head of the people ; 10 then let two reckless men* take their seats before him, that they may bear witness against him, then shall ye carry him forth and stone him, that he die.

who dwelt in his city, did' just as Jezebel had

I sent unto them,—as it was written in the letters' which she had sent unto them:—

Then came in the two reckless men,*° and sat before him, and the men bare witness against him, even against Naboth, before the people, saying.

Naboth hath reviled God and king!

So they carried him forth, outside the city, and stoned him with stones, that he died. u Then sent they unto Jezebel, saying,— Naboth is stoned and is dead.

And it came to pass <when Ahab heard that Naboth was stoned and was dead> that Jezebel said unto Ahab—

Rise! take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to give thee for silver, for Naboth is not alive, but dead!

And it came to pass <when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead> that Ahab arose, to go down unto the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession thereof. 17 Then came the word of Yahweh unto Elijah the Tishbite, saying:

Arise! go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, who is in Samaria,—lo! he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he hath gone down, to take possession thereof. 19 Then shalt thou speak unto him, saying—

Thus saith Yahweh, Hast thou committed murder, and also taken possession? Then shalt thou speak unto him, saying:

Thus saith Yahweh, In the place where the dogs have lapped up the blood of Naboth shall the dogs lap up thy blood. (11. thine)

Then said Ahab unto Elijah, Haast thou found me, O mine enemy? And he said:

I have found [thee]! Because thou hast sold thyself to do the thing that is wicked in the eyes of Yahweh>

Behold me! [saith he] bringing in upon thee, calamity, and I will consume after thee,—and cut off of Ahab, even the meanest, whether shut up or left at large in Israel; 22 and will deliver up thy house—Like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah,—for the provocation where with thou hast provoked, and caused [Israel] to sin.

Moreover also, [concerning Jezebel> hath Yahweh spoken, saying,—

The dogs shall eat Jezebel, in the townland of Jezreel:

§ 32. Ahab and Jehoshaphat in Samaria, and at Ramoth-gilead, where Ahab is slain. Ahab his Son reigns in his stead. Jehoshaphat's Reign over Judah: he is succeeded by Jehoram.

And there continued three years' without war between Syria and Israel. v But it came to pass <in the third year> that Jehoshaphat king of Judah went down unto the king of Israel. 3 And the king of Israel said unto his servants, Know ye that Ramoth-gilead is a city of Syria,—yet we are too idle to take it out of the hand of the king of Syria?

And he said unto Jehoshaphat,

Wilt thou go with me to make war upon Ramoth-gilead?

5 And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel,—Seek, I pray thee, at once, the word of Yahweh.

So the king of Israel gathered together the prophets, about four hundred men, and said unto them—

Shall I go against Ramoth-gilead, or shall I forbear?

And they said—

Go up, that the Lord may deliver it into the hand of the king.

Then said Jehoshaphat, Shall I go against Ramoth-gilead, to battle, or shall I forbear?

And they said—

Go up, that the Lord may deliver it into the hand of the king.

Then said Jehoshaphat, Is there not here a prophet of Yahweh, besides,—that we may seek [from him]?
And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat,

<Besides> is a certain man, by whom we might seek Yahweh, but |I||hate him, for he is never moved to prophesy concerning me anything good, |only evil|, Micaiah, son of Imlah.

And Jehoshaphat said,

Let not the king say so.

Then the king of Israel called a certain courtier, — and said,

Hasten Micaiah son of Imlah.

Now the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah,|| were sitting— each man upon his throne, having put on robes, in a level place, at the entrance of the gate of Samaria,— and ||all the prophets|| were being moved to prophesy before them; 11 when Zedekiah a son of Chenaanah made himself horns of iron,— and said—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh,—

IIWith the|eshalt thou push down the Syrians, until thou hast consumed them.

And all the prophets|| were being moved to prophesy|| in like manner,| saying,—

Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and thou shalt prosper, and Yahweh will deliver it into the hand of the king.

Now the messenger who went to call Micaiah, spake unto him, saying—

Behold, I pray thee, ||the words of the proton|| <with one mouth> are good, as touching the king,— let thy word, b I pray thee, be as the word of one of them, so wilt thou speak that which is good.

And Micaiah said,—

||By the life of Yahweh|| <what Yahweh saith unto me> ||that|| will I speak.

So he came unto the king, and the king said unto him—

Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall we forbear?

And he said unto him—

Go up and prosper, and Yahweh will deliver it into the hand of the king.

And the king said unto him, —

||How many times must ||I|| adjure thee,— that thou speak unto me nothing but truth, in the name of Yahweh?||

And he said—

I saw all Israel scattered among the mountains, like sheep that have no shepherd,— so Yahweh said,

These have ||no masters|| let them return every man unto his own house, in peace.

Then said the king of Israel, unto Jehoshaphat,—

Did I not say unto thee, He will not be moved to prophesy concerning me anything good, |only calamity|?

Then he said,

||Therefore|| hear thou the word of Yahweh,— I said Yahweh, sitting upon his throne, and all the host of the heavens, standing by him, on his right hand, and on his left.

And Yahweh said—

Who will persuade Ahab, that he may go up and fall, at Ramoth-gilead?

And ||one|| said in this manner, and ||another|| said in that manner. 21 Then came forth a spirit, and stood before Yahweh, and said—

||I|| will persuade him.

And Yahweh said unto him—

Wherewith?

And he said—

I will go forth, and become a spirit of falsehood in the mouth of all his prophets, —

So he said—

Thou mayest persuade, yes' and prevail, go forth, and do so.

||Now|| therefore, lo! Yahweh hath suffered a spirit of falsehood to be put into the mouth of all these thy prophets. But ||Yahweh himself|| hath spoken concerning thee, ||calamity||.

Then drew near Zedekiah b son of Cheenaanah, and smote Micaiah on the cheek,— and said—

Where then passed the Spirit of Yahweh, from me, to speak unto thee?

Then said Micaiah,

Lo! thou art about to see, on that day,— when thou enterest a chamber within a chamber, to hide thyself.

And the king of Israel said,

Take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon captain of the city,— and unto Joash son of the king; 27 and thou shalt say—

||Thus|| saith the king, Put this man into the prison, — and let him eat the bread of oppression, with the water of oppression, until I enter in peace.

Then said Micaiah,

<If thou return in peace> Yahweh hath not spoken by me.

And he said—

Hear, ye peoples, |all of you|!

So the king of Israel went up, with Jehoshaphat king of Judah, unto Ramoth-gilead.

And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat— I am about to disguise myself, and enter into the battle, ||thou therefore, put on thy robes.

So the king of Israel disguised himself, and entered into the battle.

Now ||the king of Syria|| had commanded the captains of chariots which he had, thirty and two, saying,

Ye shall not fight with small or great,—||save with the king of Israel alone||.

And it came to pass <when the chariot-captains saw Jehoshaphat> that ||they|| said:

Surely it is ||the king of Israel||!
But <when they turned aside against him to fight> Jehoshaphat cried out. And it came to pass <when the chariot-captains saw that it was not the king of Israel> that they turned back, from pursuing him. But  <drawing a bow in his innocence> smote the king of Israel, between the shoulder-joints and the coat of mail,—wherefore he said to his charioteer—

Turn thy hand,* and convey me out of the host, for I am sore wounded.

But the battle increased that day, and <the king> was propped up in the chariot, before the Syrians,—and died in the evening, and so the blood of the wound ran out into the hollow of the chariot. And a loud cry went through the host, at the going in of the sun, saying—

Every man to his own city! and every man to his own land! But the king died, and was brought into Samaria,—and they buried the king, in Samaria. And <when the chariot was washed out at the pool of Samaria> the dogs lapped up his blood, also the harlots bathed [there],—according to the word of Yahweh which he had spoken.

So the king died, and was brought into Samaria,—and they buried the king, in Samaria. And <when the chariot was washed out at the pool of Samaria> the dogs lapped up his blood, also <the harlots> bathed [there],—according to the word of Yahweh which he had spoken.

Now <the rest of the story of Ahab, and all that he did, and the house of ivory that he built, and all the cities that he built> are <they> not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel? So Ahab slept with his fathers,—and |Jehoram his son| reigned in his stead. So Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father,—and |Jehoram| his son| reigned| in his stead |.

Now ||Jehoshaphat son of Asa|| began to reign over Judah,—in the fourth' year of Ahab king of Israel. ||Jehoshaphat|| was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and <twenty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and <the name of his mother|| was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. And he walked in all the way of Asa, his father, he turned not* aside therefrom,—doing that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh : nevertheless ||the high places were not taken away,—still| were the people offering sacrifices and burning incense in the high places. And Jehoshaphat made peace with the king of Israel.

Now <the rest of the story of Jehoshaphat, and his might that he shewed, and how he warred> are <they> not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? Moreover <the rest of the male devotees who remained in the days of Ahab his father> he consumed out of the land. And <king> was there none* in Edom, |a prefect|| was king. ||Jehoshaphat|| made| ships of Tarshish,| to go to Ophir, for gold; but they went not,—for ships had been broken to pieces in Ezion-geber. ||Then|| said Ahaziah son of Ahab, unto Jehoshaphat,

Let |my servants| go with |thy servants| in the ships,—

but Jehoshaphat did not consent. So Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father,—and |Jehoram| his son| reigned| in his stead |.

||Ahaziah son of Ahab|| began to reign over Israel, in Samaria, in the seventeenth' year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah,—and reigned over Israel, two years. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—and went in the way of his father, and in the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused |Israel| to sin. Yea he served Baal, and bowed down to him,—and provoked to anger Yahweh, God of Israel, ||according to all that his father had done |.

§ 1. Ahaziah, King of Israel, warned by Elijah, sends Parties of Fifty Men to take him: Two Parties destroyed, the Third spared.

Then Moab revolted against Israel, after the death of Ahab. And Ahaziah fell through the lattice in his upper chamber, which was in Samaria, and became sick, so he sent messengers, and said unto them—
Go enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron, whether I shall recover from this sickness.

But the messenger of Yahweh spake unto Elijah, the Tishbite, rise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria, and say unto them—
Is it because there is no God in Israel that ye are going to enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron?

Thus saith Yahweh—From the bed whereunto thou hast gone up shalt thou not come down, for thou shalt surely die.

And Elijah departed. And when the messengers returned unto him he said unto them—
How is it that ye have returned?
And they said unto him—A hairy man, with a leathern girdle girt about his loins.
And he said—Elijah the Tishbite it was.

Then sent he unto him a captain of fifty, with his fifty; and he went up unto him, and lo! he abode on the top of the mountain, and he said unto him,
O man of God! the king hath said—Come down!

And Elijah responded and said unto the captain of fifty,
If a man of God I am, let fire come down out of the heavens, and devour thee and thy fifty.

And there came down a fire out of the heavens, and devoured him and his fifty.

Then he again sent unto him another captain of fifty, with his fifty. And he also spake and said unto him,
O man of God! thus saith the king—Haste thee, come down!

And Elijah responded and said unto them—
If a man of God I am, let fire come down out of the heavens, and devour thee and thy fifty.

And there came down a fire of God, out of the heavens, and devoured him and his fifty.

Then he again sent a third captain of fifty, with his fifty, and the third captain of fifty ascended and came near, and bowed down upon his knees before Elijah, and made supplication unto him, and said unto him,
O man of God! let my life, I pray thee, and the lives of these thy fifty servants, be precious in thine eyes.

Lo! there hath come down fire out of the heavens, and devoured the captains of the former fifties, with their fifties;—now therefore, let my life be precious in thine eyes.

And the messenger of Yahweh said unto Elijah,
Go down with him, do not fear because of him,
So he arose, and went down with him unto the king; and said unto him—
Thus saith Yahweh—
For that thou didst send messengers to enquire of Baalzebub, god of Ekron, was it because there was no God in Israel, for whose word thou couldst enquire?
Therefore, from the bed whereunto thou hast gone up, shalt thou not come down, for thou shalt surely die.

17 And he died, according to the word of Yahweh which Elijah had spoken, and Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, because he had no son.

18 Now the rest of the story of Ahaziah, the things that he did, are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

§ 2. Elijah taken to Heaven in a Storm: Elisha works various Wonders.

1 And it came to pass when Yahweh was about to take up Elijah in a storm into the heavens that Elijah departed, with Elisha, from Gilgal. Then said Elijah unto Elisha—

Tarry here, I pray thee, for ||Yahweh|| hath sent me as far as Bethel.

And Elisha said—

By the life of Yahweh and by the life of thine own soul I will not leave thee. So they went down to Bethel. And the sons of the prophets who were in Bethel came forth unto Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that, to-day, Yahweh is taking away thy lord, from thy head? And he said—

||I also|| know, be silent.

2 Then Elijah said to him—

Elisha, I pray thee, tarry here, for ||Yahweh|| hath sent me to Jericho.

And he said—

By the life of Yahweh and by the life of thine own soul I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho. Then drew near the sons of the prophets who were in Jericho, unto Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that, to-day, Yahweh is taking away thy lord from thy head? And he said—

||I also|| know; be silent.

3 And Elijah said to him—

Tarry here, I pray thee, for ||Yahweh|| hath sent me to the Jordan.

And he said—

By the life of Yahweh and by the life of thine own soul I will not leave thee. So they two went on. But ||fifty men of the sons of the prophets|| came, and stood over against them, afar off, and ||they two|| stood by the Jordan. Then Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided, hither and thither, so that they two passed over on dry ground. And it came to pass as they went over— that ||Elijah|| said unto Elisha—

Ask, what I shall do for thee, ere yet I be taken from thee.

And Elisha said,
from thence, no longer, |death or aptness to miscarry|.

So the waters were healed, [as they remain] unto this day,—|according to the word of
Elisha which he spake|.

And he went up from thence, to Bethel,— and <as he was going up on the way> |some lads| came forth, out of the city, and made mockery of him, and said to him,
Go up, bald head! Go up, bald head!

And <when he turned round and saw them> be cursed them, in the name of Yahweh,—and there came forth two she-bears out of the wood, and tare, of them, forty-two youths.

And he went from thence, unto Mount Carmel,—and
||from thence|| he returned |to Samaria|.

§ 3. The Kings of Israel, Judah and Edom subdue Moab.  Elisha on the Scene.

1 Now ||Jehoram, son of Ahab|| began to reign over Israel, in Samaria, in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah,—and he reigned twelve years.

And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, |only| not like his father, nor like his mother,—but he put away the pillars* of Baal which |his father| had made;

nevertheless <unto the sins of Jero-baum son of Nebat which he caused Israel'to commit> he did cleave,—he turned not away therefrom.

Now ||Mesha king of Moab|| was a sheep-master,—and used to render to the king of Israel, the wool of a hundred thousand fat sheep, and of a hundred thousand rams.

And it came to pass <when Ahab died> that the king of Moab revolted against the king of Israel.

So King Jehoram went forth, on that day, out of Samaria, and numbered all Israel.

And he departed, and sent unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, saying—
||The king of Moab|| hath revolted against me, wilt thou go with me against Moab to battle?

And he said—

I will go up, I am as thou' art, my' people are as thy' people, my' horses as thy' horses.

And he said—

Which way, then, shall we go up?

And he said—

The way of the wilderness of Edom.

Then departed the king of Israel, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom, and went round, a journey of seven days,—and there was no water for the host, nor for the cattle that went with them.

Then said the king of
Israel—

Alas! for Yahweh hath called these three kings, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

11 So Jehoshaphat said—

Is there not here, a prophet of Yahweh, that we may enquire of Yahweh |from him|?

Then answered one of the servants of the king of Israel, and said,
||Here|| is Elisha son of Shaphat, who poured water on the hands of Elijah.

12 Then said Jehoshaphat,
The word of Yahweh |is| with him.

So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat,* and the king of Edom, went down unto him.

13 And Elisha said unto the king of Israel—

What have I and thou in common? get thee unto the prophets of thy father, and unto the prophets of thy mother.

But the king of Israel said to him—

Nay! for Yahweh hath called together these three kings, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

14 Then said Elisha—

<By the life of Yahweh of hosts, before whom
I stand> <were it not that |the countenance of Jehoshaphat king of Judah|| I would lift up> I would neither look at thee, nor see thee.

15 But ||now|| bring me one that can touch the strings.

For it to be <when the player touched the strings> then would ||the hand b of Yahweh|| be upon him.

Then said he,

||Thus| saith Yahweh,—

Make, in this torrent-bed, ||pits, pits||!

For ||thus| saith Yahweh—

Ye shall not see wind,
And ye shall not see rain,
Yet ||that torrent-bed| shall be filled with water,—

And ye shall drink, ||ye, and your cattle, and your beasts||;

And <this being a small thing in the eyes of Yahweh>

He will deliver Moab into your hand ;

And ye shall smite every strong city, and every choice city,
And ||every goodly tree|| shall ye fell,
And ||all fountains of water|| shall ye close up,—

And ||every goodly heritage|| shall ye mar’d with stones.

And it came to pass <in the morning, when the offering ascended> that lo! |waters| were coming in from the way of Edom,—and the land was filled with the water.

Now ||all Moab|| had heard’ that the kings had come up to fight against them,—so they came together, from all who could gird on a girdle and upwards, and took their stand at the border.

And <when they rose early in the morning> ||the sun|| shone forth upon the waters,—and so the Moabites beheld’ over against them, the waters,
|red as| as blood||.

They said therefore—

||Blood!—this!
Destroyed! The kings have destroyed each other!
Yea they have smitten every man his neighbour,—
||Now|| then, to the spoil, O Moab!
24 And <when they came into the camp of Israel> Isreal arose and smote Moab, and they fled from before them,—so they entered thereinto, yea still farther entered Moab;*

And <the cities> they pulled down,
And <on every goodly heritage> they cast every man his stone, and filled it,
And <all fountains of waters> they closed up,
AND <every goodly tree> they felled,
And <though they left the stones thereof in Kir-haraseth> yet the slingers surrounded and smote it.

25 And <when the king of Moab saw that the battle prevailed against him> he took with him seven hundred men that drew swords, to break through against the king of Edom, but they could not. 26 So he took his firstborn son who was to have reigned in his stead, and offered him up as an ascending-sacrifice upon the wall. And so it came to pass that there was great indignation against Israel. And they brake up against him, and returned to their own land.b

§ 4. Elisha and the Widow's Cruse of Oil. The Son of a Shunammite given and restored to life. A Famine.

Now ||a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets|| made outcry unto Elisha, saying—

||Thy servant, my husband|| is dead, and ||thou|| knowest that ||thy servant|| was one who revered Yahweh,—now ||the creditor|| hath come to take my two boys to himself as bondmen.

And Elisha said unto her—

What shall I do for thee? tell me what thou hast in the house.

And she said—

Thy maid-servant hath ||nothing at all|| in the house, save a small cruse of oil.

And he said—

Go, ask thee vessels, from without, of all thy neighbours,— ||empty vessels|| let them not be few.;

And <when thou hast come in> then shalt thou shut the door behind thee and behind thy sons, and shalt pour out into all these vessels,—and <that which is full> shalt thou set aside.

5 So she went out from his presence, and shut the door behind her, and behind her sons,— [they' bringing near to her, and she' pouring out]]. 6 And it came to pass <when the vessels were full> that she said unto her son—

Bring me a vessel more'.

And he said unto her—

There is not' a vessel more'.

And the oil stayed.? Then came she in, and told the man of God, and he said—

Go, sell the oil, and pay thy creditor,—and |thou and thy sons|| shall live of the rest.

7 And so it was, <on a day> that Elisha passed over unto Shunem, where was a woman of position, and she constrained him to eat bread, —so and it came about <whenever he passed through that way> that he turned aside thither to eat bread. 8 Then said she unto her husband,

Lo! I pray thee—I perceive' that  he is,—passing our way continually. 9 I pray thee, let us make a little upper chamber on the wall and set for him there—a bed, and a table, and a seat, and a lampstand,—so shall it be <when he cometh to us> that he can turn in thither.

10 And it came to pass, on a day, that he came thither,—so he turned aside into the upper chamber, and slept there. 11 Then said he unto Gehazi, his young man,

Call this Shunammite.

And he called her, and she stood before him.

12 And he said to him—

I pray thee, say unto her—

Lo ! thou hast cared for us' with all this anxious care, what can be done for thee'? Is' it, that we should speak for thee [unto the king], or unto the general of the army?

But she said,

<In the midst of mine own people> do I dwell.

13 So he said,

What then can be done for thee?

And Gehazi said,

|Verily| shohathno' ||son||. and |her husband| is |old|.

14 And he said—

Call her.

So he called her, and she stood in the doorway.

15 Then said he—

<At this season, about the time of spring> [thou] shalt embrace a son.

And she said—

Nay! my lord, thou man of God, do not delude thy maid-servant.

16 And the woman conceived, and bare a son, at this season, about the time of spring, when b
...and laid the staff on the face of the boy, but there was neither voice nor attention, so he returned to meet him, and told him, saying—

"The boy hath not awaked." And when Elisha came into the house, lo! the boy was dead, laid upon his bed.

And so he went in and shut the door upon them two, and prayed unto Yahweh. Then got he up, and lay upon the child, and put his own mouth upon his mouth, and his own eyes upon his eyes, and his own hands upon his hands, and bowed himself upon him,—and the flesh of the child waxed warm. Then returned he, and walked in the house—once to and fro, and then went up and bowed himself upon him,—and the boy sneezed as many as seven times, and the boy opened his eyes. Then called he Gehazi, and said—

"Call this Shunammite.

So he called her, and when she was come in unto him he said—

"Take up thy son." And so she came in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground, and took up her son, and went forth.

But now Elisha returned to Gilgal, and there was a famine in the land, and the sons of the prophets being seated before him he said to his young man—

"Put on the large pot, and boil a mess of food for the sons of the prophets.

And one went out into the field, to gather herbs, and found a vine in the field, and gathered thereof wild gourds, his lap full, and came in and sliced them into the pot; for they knew them not. So they poured out for the men to eat, and it came to pass as they were eating of the mess that they made outcry and said—

"Death in the pot, O man of God! And they could not eat. And he said—

"Then fetch meal. And he cast it into the pot, and then said—

"Pour out for the people, that they may eat. And there was no harm in the pot.

And a man came in from Baal-shalishah, and brought for the man of God firstfruit bread twenty barley loaves, and garden grain in the husk thereof. And he said—

"Give to the people, that they may eat.

But his attendant said—

"How can I set this before a hundred men? And he said—

"Give to the people, that they may eat, for thus saith Yahweh,

"They are about to eat and to leave remaining.

So he set before them, and they did eat and left remaining, according to the word of Yahweh."
§ 5. Naaman, a Syrian General, healed of Leprosy:
Gehazi, Elisha’s Servant, smitten with that Plague.

1 Now Naaman, general of the army of the king of Syria, was a great man in presence of his lord, and held in honour, because had Yahweh given deliverance* to Syria,—and the man was a hero of valour—[but] a leper. Now the Syrians had gone out in companies, and had brought back out of the land of Israel, a little maiden,—who became an attendant on the wife of Naaman. And she said unto her mistress, Ah! would that my lord were before the prophet, who is in Samaria! then would he set him free from his leprosy.

2 And he went in and told his lord, saying,—Thus and thus hath spoken the maiden who is of the land of Israel!

3 And the king of Syria said—Go, get in, that I may send a letter unto the king of Israel.

4 So he went, and took in his hand ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment. And he brought in the letter unto the king of Israel, saying, Now therefore when this letter cometh in unto thee, lo! I have sent unto thee, Naaman my servant, and thou shalt set him free from his leprosy.

5 And it came to pass when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, Am I [I ||God||] to kill and to make alive, that this man is sending unto me, to set one free from his leprosy,—but, of a truth, just mark, I pray you, and see, that he is seeking an occasion against me.

6 And it was so when Elisha the man of God heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent unto the king, saying—Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come, I pray thee, unto me, that he may get to know that there is a prophet in Israel.

7 So Naaman came, with his horses and with his chariot, and stood at the entrance of the house of Elisha; and Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying,—Go and bathe seven times in the Jordan, so shall thy flesh come back to thee, and be thou clean.

8 But Naaman was wroth, and went away, and said—Lo! I thought Unto me will he come right out; and take his stand, and call on the name of Yahweh his God, and wave his hand towards the spot, and so set free the leper.

9 So Naaman came, with his horses and with his chariot, and stood at the entrance of the house of Elisha; and Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying,—Go and bathe seven times in the Jordan, so shall thy flesh come back to thee, and be thou clean.

10 But Naaman was wroth, and went away,—and said—Lo! I thought Unto me will he come right out; and take his stand, and call on the name of Yahweh his God, and wave his hand towards the spot, and so set free the leper.

11 Then Naaman, general of the army of the king of Syria, was a great man in presence of his lord, and held in honour, because had Yahweh given deliverance* to Syria,—and the man was a hero of valour—[but] a leper. Now the Syrians had gone out in companies, and had brought back out of the land of Israel, a little maiden,—who became an attendant on the wife of Naaman. And she said unto her mistress, Ah! would that my lord were before the prophet, who is in Samaria! then would he set him free from his leprosy.

12 And he went in and told his lord, saying,—Thus and thus hath spoken the maiden who is of the land of Israel!

13 And the king of Syria said—Go, get in, that I may send a letter unto the king of Israel.

14 So he went, and took in his hand ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment. And he brought in the letter unto the king of Israel, saying, Now therefore when this letter cometh in unto thee, lo! I have sent unto thee, Naaman my servant, and thou shalt set him free from his leprosy.

15 But he said—By the life of Yahweh, before whom I stand I will not accept one. And though he urged him to accept it yet did he refuse.

16 Then said Naaman, Shall there not, then, I pray thee, be given to thy servant, two mules’ burden of earth? For thy servant will henceforth offer neither ascending-offering nor sacrifices to other gods, save only to Yahweh.

17 In this thing Yahweh grant forgiveness to thy servant,—When my lord entereth the house of Rimmon, to bow down therein, he leaning upon my hand, and so I bow down in the house of Rimmon, when he boweth down in the house of Rimmon: Yahweh, I pray, grant forgiveness to thy servant, in this thing.

18 And he said unto him—Go and prosper!

19 But when he had gone from him some distance Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God said—Lo! my lord hath restrained this Naaman the Syrian, by not taking at his hand that which he brought!

20 Then said Naaman, By the life of Yahweh I will run after him, and accept of him some-thing.

21 So Gehazi hastened after Naaman. And when Naaman saw one running after him he alighted from his chariot to meet him, and said,—Is all well?

And he said, All is well. My lord hath sent me to say,
Lo! just now have come unto me, two young men out of the hill country of Ephraim, of the sons of the prophets, — give for them, I pray thee, a talent of silver, and two changes of raiment.

And Naaman said, Be content, accept two talents. So he urged him, and bound up two talents of silver in two bags, and two changes of raiment, and laid them upon two of his young men, and they bare them before him.

And when he came to the hill-tower he took them from their hand, and put them in charge within, and let the men go, and they departed.

Now when he came in and stood before his lord, Elisha said unto him, Whence comest thou Gehazi? And he said— Thy servant hath been neither hither nor thither.

Then he said unto him— My heart had not gone with thee, when someone turned again from off his chariot, to meet thee! Is it a time to accept silver, or to accept raiment, or oliveyards, or vineyards, or flocks or herds, or men-servants, or maid-servants?

The leprosy of Naaman therefore shall cleave unto thee, and unto thy seed, to times age-abiding.

And he went forth from before him. Alas! my lord, for it was borrowed!

And the man of God said— Where fell it?

And he shewed him the place. And he cut down a piece of wood and cast it in thither, and the iron did swim. And he said— Take it up to thee.

So he put forth his hand, and took it.

§ 7. For Revealing the Plots of the Syrian King, a Force is sent to take Elisha, but is smitten with Blindness and taken into Samaria.

Now the king of Syria was making war against Israel,— so he took counsel with his servants, saying— In such and such a place shall be my encampment.

The man of God, therefore, sent unto the king of Israel, saying— Beware of passing by this place, — for are the Syrians' coming down.

So the king of Israel sent unto the place wherof the man of God had spoken to him and warned him, and was on his guard there, — not once nor twice. Then was the heart of the king of Syria disquieted concerning this thing,— and he called his servants, and said unto them, Will ye not tell me, who of our men are for the king of Israel?

Then said one of his servants, None, my lord O king,— but Elisha, the prophet, who is in Israel telleth the king of Israel the words which thou speakest in thy bed-chamber.

And he said— Go, and see where he is', that I may send and take him.

And it was told him, saying— Lo! in Dothan.

Therefore sent he thither— horses and chariots and a strong force,— and they came in by night, and encompassed the city. When the attendant of the man of God arose early and went forth> lo! a force' surrounding the city, with horses and chariots. Then said his young man unto him— Alas! my lord, what' shall we do?

And he said— Do not fear,— for are more than they who are with them.

Then prayed Elisha, and said, 0 Yahweh! open, I beseech thee, his eyes, that he may see.

And Yahweh opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw, and lo! the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire, round about Elisha.

And when they came down to him> Elisha prayed unto Yahweh, and said— Smite, I beseech thee, this people, with sudden blindness.

§ 6. The Sons of the Prophets rebuild their Auditorium: Elisha causes Iron to swim.

And the sons of the prophets said unto Elisha,— See, we pray thee, the place wherein we sit before thee, is too strait for us.

Let us go, we pray thee, as far as the Jordan, and fetch from thence every man a single beam, and let us make us a place wherein we may sit.

And he said— Go ye.

Then said one— Be content, we pray thee, and go with thy servants.

And he said— I myself will go.

So he went with them,— and when they came to the Jordan, they cut down wood. And it came to pass as one was felling a branch> that the axe-head fell into the water, so he made outcry and said—

Alas! my lord, for it was borrowed!

And the man of God said— Where fell it?

And he shewed him the place. And he cut down a piece of wood and cast it in thither, and the iron did swim. And he said— Take it up to thee.

So also in Gen. xix. 11—O.G. 708.
And he smote them with sudden blindness. [according to the word of Elisha].

Then Elisha said unto them—

"This is not the way, neither is this the city, follow me, that I may lead you unto the man, whom ye would secure!

So he led them to Samaria. And it came to pass <when they had entered Samaria> that Elisha said, O Yahweh! open the eyes of these men, that they may see!

And Yahweh opened their eyes, and they saw, and lo! they were in the midst of Samaria!

Then said the king of Israel unto Elisha, when he saw them,—

Shall I smite—shall I smite* my father?

And he said—

Thou shalt not smite. <Them whom thou hadst taken captive with thy sword and with thy bow> wouldst thou have been smiting?

Set bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink, and go their way unto their lord. *(Cp. Intro. Chap. II., Synopsis, B. c.)

And he made for them a great feast, and <when they had eaten and drunk> he let them go, and they went their way unto their lord.

§8. Ben-hadad besieges Samaria, causing a severe Famine, the End of which Elisha foretells and Four Lepers announce.

But it came to pass <after this> that Ben-hadad king of Syria gathered together all his host,—and came up and laid siege against Samaria.

And there came to be ||a great famine|| in Samaria, and lo! they continued <the siege against it>—until an ass's head was sold for eighty pieces of silver, and one pint of dove's dung for five pieces of silver. * And so it was that <as the king of Israel was passing by on the wall> ||a woman|| made outcry unto the people, saying—

Save, my lord, O king!

And he said—

<If Yahweh do not save thee> whence should I save thee? out of the threshing-floor or out of the wine-press?

And the king said to her—

What aileth thee?

And she said—

"This woman" said unto me—

Give thy son, that we may eat him, to-day, and <my son> will we eat to-morrow.

So we cooked my son, and did eat him,— and I said unto her, on the next day,—

Give thy son, that we may eat him;

But she had hid her son.

And it came to pass <when the king heard the words of the woman> that he rent his clothes, while yet he was passing by upon the wall,—so the people looked, and lo! sackcloth upon his flesh, ||within||

And he said—

<So> let God do to me, and <so> let him add,—

—if the head of Elisha son of Shaphat remain on him: ||to-day||!

Now ||Elisha|| being seated in his house, and ||the elders|| seated with him,—<if he had sent a man from before him, ere yet the messenger could come in unto him> he himself ||said unto the elders>—

Do ye see how this son of a murderer hath sent to take away my head?

See! <when the messenger is coming in> close ye the door, and press him back with the door, is not the sound of his lord's feet behind him?

<While yet he was speaking with them> lo! ||the messenger|| coming down unto him,—and he said,—

Lo! ||this|| is a calamity from Yahweh, why should I wait for Yahweh any longer?!

Then said Elisha—

Hear ye the word of Yahweh,—

<Thus> saith Yahweh—

<About this time to-morrow> A measure of fine meal for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, in the gate of Samaria.

Then the officer on whose hand the king leaned* responded to the man of God, and said,—

<Even if Yahweh were making windows in the heavens> could' this thing ||come to pass||?

And he said—

Lo! ||thou|| art about to see it with thine own eyes, but <thereof> shalt thou not eat!

Now there were ||four men|| ||lepers||, at the entrance of the gate,—and they said one to another—

Why are we sitting here until we are dead?

If we say—

Let us enter into the city, Then ||the famine|| is in the city, and we shall die there, and <if we remain here> then shall we die.

<Now> therefore, let us fall away unto the camp of the Syrians, <if they save us alive> we shall live, and <if they put us to death> we shall die.

So they rose up in the twilight, to enter into the camp of the Syrians,—<and when they entered the outskirts of the camp of the Syrians> lo! there was not there a man. * Now ||the Lord|| had caused the camp of the Syrians to hear a noise of chariots, a noise* of horses, a noise* of a great host,—and they said one to another—

M.C.T. (as rendered by Loeser): "the lord of the king on whose hand he was used to lean"; but there is a reading, sustained by ||two|| ||edns.|| ||Syr.||, "and a noise"—G.n.

Some cod. (w. Sep. and Syr.): "and a noise"—G.n.

Heb.: addēdy.
Lo! the king of Israel hath hired against us—the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of the Egyptians, to come against us.

7 So they arose, and fled in the twilit, and left their tents, and their horses, and their asses,—as the camp, just as it was,—and fled for their lives. 8 When, therefore, these lepers came in as far as the outskirt of the camp, they entered into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried from thence silver, and gold, and raiment, and went away and hid them,—and came again, and entered into another ten, and carried from thence—and went and hid them. 9 Then said they one to another:

<Not a right thing> are we doing.

when we tarry until the light of the morning> there will come upon us [some misfortune].—

<Now therefore, come and let us go in, and tell the household of the king.> 10 So they came in and called unto the gate of the city, and told them. Saying,
We entered into the camp of the Syrians, and lo!
there was not there [a man] nor sound of human being,— only horsestied, and assestied, and their tents, as they were! 11 And the watchers of the gate called and told it to the household of the king [within]. 12Then arose the king by night, and said unto his servants,
Let me tell you, I pray you, what the Syrians have done to us,—they knew that we were [famished], so they have gone forth out of the camp, to hide in the field,
saying,
<When they come forth out of the city> then shall we take them alive, and <into the city> will we enter.

13 Then responded one of his servants,
and said—
Let there be taken, I pray thee, five of the horses that remain, which have been left therein, [there they are] according to all the multitude of Israel who have been left therein [there they are] according to all the multitude of Israel who have been consumed,—and let us send and see! 14 So they took two chariots and horses,—and the king sent after the host of the Syrians,
saying,
Go and see! 15 And they followed them as far as the Jordan, and lo! [all the way] was full of garments, and utensils, which the Syrians had cast away in their fright,—and the messengers returned, and told the king.

16 Then went the people forth and spoiled the camp of the Syrians,— and so there came to be—

A measure of fine meal for a shekel,
And two measures of barley for a shekel, according to the word of Yahweh. 17 Now [the king] had set the officer on whose hand he leaned, in charge over the gate, and the people trode upon him in the gate, that he died, —as spake the man of God, who said it when the messenger came down to him. 18 Yes it came to pass <as the man of God had spoken unto the messenger> saying,—

Two measures of barley for a shekel,
And a measure of fine meal for a shekel, shall there be about this time to-morrow, in the gate of Samaria:

19 And when the officer responded to the man of God, and said,
Lo! then [if Yahweh were making windows in the heavens], could it be according to this word? 20 And he said,— Lo! thou art about to see it with thine own eyes, but [thereof] shalt thou not eat.>

§9. The Return of the Shunammite at an Opportune Moment.

1 Now [Elisha] had spoken unto the woman [whose son he had restored to life],
saying—
Arise, and take thy journey. [thou and thy household], and sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn,—for Yahweh hath called for a famine, moreover also it is coming upon the land seven years. 2 So the woman arose, and did according to the word of the man of God,—and took her journey, [her and her household] and she sojourned in the land of the Philistines seven years. 3 And it came to pass <at the end of seven years> that the woman returned out of the land of the Philistines,—and she went forth to make out unto the king, concerning her house and concerning her field. 4 Now [the king] was speaking unto Gehazi, servant of the man of God, saying,—

Do recount unto me, I pray thee, all the great things that Elisha hath done.

5 And so it was <just as he was recounting to the king how he had restored the dead to life> lo! [the woman whose son he had restored to life] began making outcry unto the king, for her house and for her field. Then said Gehazi,
My lord, O king! [this] is the woman, and [this] her son, whom [Elisha] restored to life.

6 So the king asked the woman, and she recounted it to him,—the king, therefore, appointed her a certain officer, saying—

Restore all that was hers, and all the increase of the field, from the day she left the land, even until now.

§ 10. Elisha visits Damascus, where he foretells Benhadad's Death and Hazael's Succession to the Throne.

7 And Elisha came into Damascus, when Benhadad king of Syria was sick,—and it was told him, saying,

The man of God hath come' as far as this place.

8 So the king said unto Hazael—

Take in thy hand a present, and go to meet the man of God,—so shalt thou enquire of Yahweh, from him, saying,

Shall I recover from this sickness?

9 So Hazael went to meet him, and took a present in his hand, even every good thing of Damascus, forty camels' burden,—and came, and stood before him, and said—

Thy son, Ben-hadad king of Syria hath sent unto me, saying,

Shall I recover from this sickness?

10 And Elisha said unto him,

Go, say to him, Thou shalt ||recover||;* But what is thy servant— the dog— that he speak to the king?—for <son-in-law of the house of Ahab> was ||a daughter of Ahab,|| having been king of Judah.>|| He told me thou wouldst ||recover||, but I said—

Because I know what thou wilt do to the sons of Israel, by way of harm—

Their fortified cities thou wilt set on fire. So Hazael said,

But what is thy servant—the dog—that he should do this great thing?

12 And Elisha said to Hazael,

And he settled his countenance, and fixed it until he turned pale,—and the man of God wept. Then said Hazael,

Why is my lord weeping?

13 And he said—

Because I know what thou wilt do to the sons of Israel, by way of harm—

Their fortified cities thou wilt set on fire. So Hazael said,

But what is thy servant—the dog—that he should do this great thing?

And Elisha said,

Yahweh hath shown me, as king over Syria.

14 So he departed from Elisha, and came in unto his lord, who said to him, What said Elisha unto thee? And he said,

He told me thou wouldst ||recover||.

15 But it came to pass on the morrow, that he took the coverlet, and dipped it in water, and spread it over his face, that he died,—and |Hazael| reigned [in his stead].

§ 11. The Reign of Jehoram, Son of Jehoshaphat, over Judah.

16 Now <in the fifth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel>, [Jehoshaphat],* having been king of Judah,>|| Jehoram,|| son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, began to reign. ||Thirty-two years old> was he when he began to reign, and ||eight years> reigned, he in Jerusalem. And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, just as did the house of Ahab, for ||a daughter of Ahab, became his wife,—and he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh. Yet was not Yahweh willing to destroy Judah, for the sake of David his servant,—even as he promised him to give him a lamp for his sons* all the days. "<In his days> did Edom revolt from under the hand of Judah,—and they set over them a king. So Joram passed over to Zair, and all the chariots with him,—and it came to pass that [he] arising by night, smote the Edomites that were round about unto him, and the captains of the chariots, and the people fled to their homes.4 Yet did Edom revolt from under the hand of Judah, unto this day,—[then] revolted Libnah [at the same time].

23 Now <the rest of the story of Joram, and all that he did> are ||therein not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. And Joram slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and |Ahaziah his son| reigned [in his stead].

§ 12. The Reign of Ahaziah, Son of Jehoram, over Judah.

25 <In the twelfth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel> did Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah, begin to reign. ||Two and twenty years old> was Ahaziah when he began to reign,—and <one year> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and ||his mother's name|| was Athaliah,* daughter of Omri, king of Israel. And he walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, like the house of Ahab,—for <son-in-law of the house of Ahab> was [he].<And he went with Joram son of Ahab, to make war against Hazael king of Syria, in Ramoth-gilead,—and the Syrians wounded Joram. So Joram the king returned to get healed in Jezreel, from the wounds wherewith the Syrians had wounded him in Ramah, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria,—and |Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah|| went down to see Joram son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he ||was sick>.

§ 13. Elisha sends and anoints Jehu to destroy the House of Ahab and to reign over Israel; which Commission he executes, slaying also Ahaziah King of Judah; but fails in One Thing.

1 Now Elisha the prophet called one of the sons of the prophets, and said to him:

Gird up thy loins, and take this flask of oil in thy hand, and go to Ramoth-gilead; and when thou art come in thither, then look thee out there, Jehu son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi; and thou shalt enter and get him to rise up out of the midst of his brethren, and take him into an inner chamber; then shalt thou take the flask of oil, and pour out upon his head, and say—Thus saith Yahweh, I have anointed thee to be king unto Israel.

Then shalt thou open the door and flee, and not tarry.

4 So the young man went his way—the young man the prophet—unto Ramoth-gilead. And when he came up, lo! the captains of the host were sitting, and he said—A word! have I for thee, O captain! And Jehu said—For which of us all? And he said—For thee, O captain! Then rose he up and went inside, and poured out the oil upon his head, and said unto him—Thus saith Yahweh, God of Israel, I have anointed thee to be king unto the people of Yahweh, unto Israel; and thou shalt smite the house of Ahab thy lord, so will I avenge the blood of my servants the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of Yahweh at the hand of Jezebel; and I will cut off to Ahab the meanest, both him that is shut up and him that is left at large, in Israel.

9 Yea I will deliver up the house of Ahab, Like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat,—And like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah:

And <as for Jezebel> the dogs shall eat [her], in the town-land of Jezreel, [there being none to bury her].

And he opened the door, and fled.

11 Then Jehu came forth unto the servants of his lord, and one b said to him—Is all well? why came this madman unto thee?

And he said unto them,—Ye know, the man and his message.

12 And they said—False! pray tell us.

And he said—<Thus and thus> spake he unto me, saying, ||Thus|| saith Yahweh, I have anointed thee to be king unto Israel.

13 Then hasted they, and took, every man his garment, and put it under him, upon the very steps,—and blew with a horn, and said, Jehu is king!

14 Thus did Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi conspire against Joram,—when ||Joram|| was watching Ramoth-gilead, ||and all Israel|| because of Hazael king of Syria. But Jehoram the king had returned' to get himself healed in Jezreel, of the wounds wherewith the Syrians had wounded him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria. Then said Jehu—<If such is your mind> let no fugitive get forth out of the city, to go and tell it in Jezreel.

16 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went towards Jezreel, for ||Joram|| was lying there,—and ||Ahaziah king of Judah|| had come down to see Joram. 17 Now ||the watchman|| was standing upon the tower, in Jezreel, so he saw the great company of Jehu, when he came, and said—A great company can I see!

Then said Jehoram—Take a horseman and send to meet them, that he may say—Is it peace?

18 So the horseman went to meet him, and said—||Thus|| saith the king. Is it peace? And Jehu said—What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me. And the watchman told, saying, The messenger came up to them, but hath not turned back.

19 Then sent he a second horseman, and he came up to them and said, ||Thus|| saith the king. Is it peace? And Jehu said—What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me. And the watchman told, saying, He came up to them, but hath not turned back,—and ||the driving|| is like the driving of Jehu son of Nimshi; for <with mad haste> doth he drive.

21 Then said Jehoram, Harness! So one harnessed his chariot,—and Jehoram king of Israel and Ahaziah king of Judah went forth, each man in his chariot, yea they went forth to meet Jehu, and came upon him in the heritage of Naboth the

And it came to pass, when Jehoram saw Jehu, that he said—

Is it peace, Jehu? And he said—

What can be the peace, while thy mother Jehabeb's harlotries and her incantations do so abound?

Then Jehoram turned his hands, and fled,— and said unto Ahaziah—

Treachery! O Ahaziah!

And Jehu bent his bow, and smote Jehoram, between his arms,— and the arrow came out at his heart,— and he sank down in his chariot.

Then said he unto Bidkar his officer,

Take [him] up, [and] cast him forth, into the field-portion of Naboth the Jezeelite,— for remember <when I and thou were riding as a couple together after Ahab his father> that [Yahweh] laid upon him this doom:

Surely <the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons> have I lately seen,

Declareth Yahweh,

Therefore will I requite thee in this portion,

Declareth Yahweh.

[Now] therefore, take [him] up, [and] cast him forth into the portion, [according to the word of Yahweh].

And Ahaziah king of Judah saw it, and fled by the way of the garden house,— and Jehu pursued him, and said—<Thy servants> we are! <Whatsoever is good in thine own eyes> do!

We will make no man king.

[Now] then shall we stand?

We will make no man king.

Who is with me? Who? And there looked out unto him, two or three eunuchs. And he said—

Hurl her down.

And they hurled her down,— and there was sprinkled of her blood— upon the wall, and upon the horses, and they trode upon her.

And <when he had entered and eaten and drunk> he said—

Look, I pray you, after this accursed woman, and bury her, for <the daughter of a king> she is.'

So they went to bury her,— but found not of her—save the skull, and the feet, and the palms of the hands.

Then came they back, and told him, and he said—

The word of Yahweh it is, which he spake by the hand of his servant, Elijah the Tishbite, saying—

In the town-land of Jezreel

Shall dogs' eat the flesh of Jezebel?

So shall the carcasse of Jezebel become like heaps of dung on the face of the field, in the town-land of Jezreel:

So that they cannot say—

This is Jezebel!

Now Abab had seventy sons in Samaria,— 10 so Jehu wrote letters, and sent to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel—the elders, and unto them who had been foster-parents for Abab, saying:

Now therefore, <when this letter cometh in unto you, there being [with you] the sons of your lord,— and [with you] the chariotees and the horses, and a fortified city, and the armour> ye shall look out the goodliest and fittest of the sons of your lord, and set on the throne of his father, and ye shall do battle for the house of your lord.

Then feared they very greatly, and said,

Lo! [two kings] stood not before him; [how then] should [we] stand?

So he that was over the house, and he that was over the city, and the elders, and the foster-parents sent' unto Jehu, saying—<Thy servants> we are!

And <all that thou shalt say unto us> will we do,—

We will make no man king.

[Whatsoever is good in thine own eyes> do!

Then wrote he unto them a second' letter, saying—

<If ye are', and <unto my voice> ye' intend to hearken > take ye the heads of the men <who are sons of your lord> and come in unto me about this time to-morrow, in Jezreel.

Now the sons of the king, seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, who had been bringing them up. And it came to pass <when the letter reached them> that they took the sons of the king, and slew them,' seventy persons,— and put their heads in baskets, and sent unto him, to Jezreel. And there came in a messenger and told him, saying,

They have brought in the heads of the sons of the king.

And he said—

Lay ye them in two heaps, at the entrance of the gate, until the morning.
And it came to pass <in the morning> that he went out and took his stand, and said unto all the people,

"Righteous are you!"

Lo! I have conspired against my lord, and slew him, but who smote all these?"

Know ye, then, that there shall fall nought aroam."

Then departed he from thence, and lighted upon the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and said—

Who are you?"

Then said he—

<Brethren of Ahaziah> are we; so we came down to salute the sons of the king, and the sons of the queen.

Then said he—

Take them alive.

So they took them alive, and slew them into the pit of the shearing house,—forty-two men, neither left remaining a man of them.*

And Jehu said—

Then Jehu smote all that were left remaining unto the house of Ahab, in Jezreel, and all his great men, and his acquaintances and his priests,—until there was not left remaining to him a survivor. Then arose he, and came in, and departed for Samaria,—the sheep-shearing house itself being on the road; so Jehu lighted upon the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and said—

And they said—

"Know ye, then, that there shall fall nought aroam."

Then Jehu smote all that were left remaining unto the house of Ahab, in Jezreel, and all his great men, and his acquaintances and his priests,—until there was not left remaining to him a survivor. Then arose he, and came in, and departed for Samaria,—the sheep-shearing house itself being on the road; so Jehu lighted upon the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and said—

Who are you?"

And they said—

<Because thou hast done well, by doing that which was right in mine eyes—

And Jehu made him ride in his chariot. And when he came into Samaria,—he smote all that were left remaining unto Ahab, in Samaria, until he had destroyed him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he had spoken unto Elijah.

Then Jehu gathered together all the people, and said unto them,— Ahab served Baal a little,—Jehu will serve him much.

Now, therefore, <all the prophets of Baal, all his servants and all his priests> call ye unto me; do not let a man be missing; for a great sacrifice have I, to Baal, no one that is missing shall live.

But Jehu acted craftily to the end he might destroy the servants of Baal. And Jehu said—

Hallow ye a solemn festival unto Baal.

And they made proclamation. And Jehu sent throughout all Israel, and all the servants of Baal came in, so that there was not left remaining a man, who had not come in,—and they entered the house of Baal, and the house of Baal was filled, from door to door. Then said he to him who was over the wardrobe chamber,

Bring forth vestments for all the servants of Baal.

And he brought forth for them the vestments. Then entered Jehu, with Jehonadab son of Rechab, into the house of Baal,—and he said unto the servants of Baal—

Search ye and see, that there be not here, with you, any of the servants of Yahweh, none but the servants of Baal alone.

And <when they entered to offer sacrifices and ascending-offerings> Jehu set him outside eighty men, and said—

<The man who shall escape of the men whom I am bringing into your power—his own life> shall be for his life."

And it came to pass <as soon as he had made an end of offering the ascending-sacrifice> that Jehu said to the runners and to the officers—

Enter, smite them, let not a man get out. So they smote them, with the edge of the sword,—and the runners and the officers cast them out, and then went as far as the city of the house of Baal, and brought forth the idolatrous pillars that were in the house of Baal, and then burned it; and they brake down the pillars of Baal,—and brake down the house of Baal, and appointed it for a sewer-house—until this day.

Thus Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. Nevertheless <as for the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused Israel to commit—

Jehu turned not away from following them,—the calves of gold, one being in Bethel, and the other in Dan.

And Yahweh said unto Jehu—

<Because thou hast done well, by doing that which was right in mine eyes—

And Jehu made him ride in his chariot. And when he came into Samaria,—he smote all that were left remaining unto Ahab, in Samaria, until he had destroyed him,—according to the word of Yahweh, which he had spoken unto Elijah.

Now the rest of the story of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

And Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and [Jehoahaz his son] reigned in his stead. Now the days that Jehu reigned over Israel were twenty-eight years, in Samaria.

§14. The murder design of Athaliah frustrated; Joash (= Jehoash) preserved and made King over Judah. His Reign.

Now when Athaliah, mother of Ahaziah, saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the seed royal. But Jehosheba, daughter of King Joram, sister of Ahaziah, took Joash, son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the king's sons that were being slain—she hid him from the face of Athaliah, that he was not slain. And he was with her, in the house of Yahweh, hiding himself six years, while Athaliah was reigning over the land.

But in the seventh year Jehoiada sent and took the captains over hundreds, of the Carian body-guard, and of the runners, and brought them unto him, in the house of Yahweh, and when he had solemnised a covenant with them, and put them on oath, in the house of Yahweh, then shewed he them the king's son; and commanded them, saying—This is the thing which ye must do,—a third part of you will be coming in on the sabbath, and keeping the watch of the house of the king; and a third in the side-gate; and a third in the gate behind the runners, so shall ye keep the watch of the house by turns. And two parts of you are all that are going out on the sabbath, so shall ye keep the watch of the house of Yahweh, as touching the king. Thus shall ye encompass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand, and he that cometh within the ranks let him be slain, so be ye with the king, when he cometh out and when he goeth in.

And the captains of hundreds did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they took every man his men who were coming in on the sabbath, with them who were going out on the sabbath,—and came unto Jehoiada the priest. And the priest gave unto the captains of hundreds the spears and the shields which belonged to King David,—which were in the house of Yahweh. And the runners stood, every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right corner of the house, as far as the left corner of the house, by the altar and the house,—near the king, round about.

Then brought he forth the king's son, and set upon him the crown, and the testimony, and they made him king, and anointed him, and clapped their hands, and said—May the king live!

And when Athaliah heard the noise of the runners, the people, then came she in unto the people, in the house of Yahweh, and looked, and lo! the king standing by the pillar, as the custom was, and the captains and the trumpeters by the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets,—so Athaliah rent her garments, and cried out—Conspiracy! conspiracy!

And Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of hundreds—officers of the force, and said unto them—Take her forth into the inside of the ranks, and he that cometh in after her ye are to slay with the sword.

For the priest said, Let her not be slain, in the house of Yahweh.

So they made way for her, and she entered the road by which the horses approached the house of the king, and was slain there.

And Jehoiada solemnised a covenant between Yahweh, and the king, and the people, that they should become a people unto Yahweh,—also between the king and the people.

And all the people of the land entered the house of Baal, and brake it down, his altars and his images they brake in pieces utterly, and Mattan the priest of Baal they slew before the altars,—and the priest appointed officers over the house of Yahweh. And he took the captains of hundreds, and the Carian body-guard, and the runners, and all the people of the land, and they brought down the king out of the house of Yahweh, and they came, by way of the gate of the runners, into the house of the king,—and he took his seat on the throne of the kings; and all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city had rest,—when they had put Athaliah to death with the sword, in the house of the king. Seven years old was Jehoash, when he began to reign.

<In the seventh year of Jehu> began Jehoash to reign, and forty years reigned he in Jerusalem,—and the name of his mother was Zibiah of Beer-sheba. And Jehoash did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh.
all his days,—whereunto [Jehoiada the priest] instructed him: 9 leave only that [high places] took they not away,—still' were the people sacrificing and burning incense in the high places.

4 And Jehoash said unto the priests—
<All the silver of the hallowed things, that is brought into the house of Yahweh—the silver of one who transgresseth, the silver of [their] persons by the estimate of [each one],—all the silver which cometh into any man’s heart to bring into the house of Yahweh> 4 let the priests take to them, every one from his acquaintance,—and let [them] repair the breaches of the house, wheresoever there may be found a breach].

6 But it came to pass, that <in the twenty-third year of King Jehoash> the priests had not repaired the breaches of the house.
7 So King Jehoash called for Jehoiada the priest, and for the other priests, and said unto them—
Why are ye not repairing the breaches of the house?
Now therefore, do not take silver from your acquaintances, for <to [repair] the breaches of the house ought ye to have given it?>

9 The priests therefore consented, not to take silver from the people, and not to repair the breaches of the house. 9 Then took Jehoiada a certain chest, and bored a hole in the door thereof,—and set it beside the altar, on the right as one entereth into the house of Yahweh, and the priests that kept the entrance-hall, used to put therein—all the silver that was brought into the house of Yahweh. 10 And it came to pass <when they saw that there was much silver in the chest> that the king’s scribe and the high priest came up, and brought together and counted the silver that was found in the house of Yahweh; 11 then used they to give the silver that had been weighed out, into the hands* of the doers of the work, who had oversight of the house of Yahweh,—and they brought it forth, to the carpenters, and to the builders, who were working upon the house of Yahweh; 12 and to the masons, and to the hewers of stone, and to buy timber, and hewn stone, for repairing the breaches of the house of Yahweh,—and to every one that went out upon the house, to repair it. 13 Howbeit there were not made for the house of Yahweh, bowls of silver, snuffers, dashing basins, trumpets, any vessel of gold, or any vessel of silver,—out of the silver that was brought into the house of Yahweh; 14 for <to the doers of the work> used they to give it; and so they repaired, therewith, the house of Yahweh. 15 And they used not to reckon with the men into whose hands they gave the silver, to give it to the doers of the work,—because <with faithful—chariots, and ten thousand footmen,—for the king of Syria had destroyed them, and had made them like dust in threshing.

8 Now <the rest of the story of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might> are <they> not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

9 So then Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria,—and <Joash his son> reigned <in his stead>.

§ 16. Joash (= Jehoash) son of Jehoahaz reigns over Israel (wicked). The Death and Burial of Elisha.

10 <In the thirty-seventh year of Joash king of Judah> began Jehoash son of Jehoahaz to reign over Israel, in Samaria, [and he reigned] sixteen years. 11 And he did that which was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from all the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused [Israel] to commit, <therein> he walked.

12 Now <the rest of the story of Joash, and all that he did, and his might, wherewith he fought against Amaziah king of Judah> are <they> not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

13 So then Joash slept with his fathers, and [Jeroboam] took his seat on his throne, —and Joash was buried in Samaria, with the kings of Israel.

14 Now <Elisha> had fallen sick of his sickness whereof he was about to die,—so then Joash king of Israel came down unto him, and wept upon his face, and said,

My father! my father!

The chariots of Israel and the horsemen thereof!

15 And Elisha said unto him,

Take bow and arrows.

So he took unto him bow and arrows. 16 Then said he unto the king of Israel, Let thy hand rest upon the bow.

So he let his hand rest thereon. Then Elisha put his own hands upon the hands of the king; 17 and said—

Open the lattice eastward.

And he opened it. Then said Elisha—

Shoot!

And he shot. Then said he,—

The arrow of victory by Yahweh,

Yes the arrow of victory over Syria,

Therefore shalt thou smite Syria in Aphek, till it be consumed.

18 And he said—

Take the arrows.

So he took them. Then said he unto the king of Israel—

Smite unto the ground.

So he smote three times, and then stayed. 19 Then was the man of God wroth against him, and said—

Thou shouldst have smitten five or six times, <then> hadst thou smitten Syria, until it had been consumed;

But <now> <three times> shalt thou smite Syria.

20 And Elisha died, and they buried him,—now <troops of Moabites> used to enter the land, at the coming in of the year; 21 and it came to pass <as they were burying a man> that, lo! they saw a troop, so they cast the man into the sepulchre of Elisha,—and <as soon as the man touched the bones of Elisha> he came to life again, and rose up on his feet.

22 And <Hazael king of Syria> had oppressed Israel all the days of Jehoahaz. 23 Then was Yahweh gracious unto them, and had compassion upon them, and turned unto them, for the sake of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob,—and was not willing to destroy them, nor to cast them off from his presence <as yet>.

24 So then Hazael king of Syria died; and <Ben-hadad his son> reigned <in his stead>.

25 And Jehoash son of Jehoahaz again took the cities out of the hand of Ben-hadad son of Hazael, which he had taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father, in war,—<three times> did Joash smite him, and recover the cities of Israel.

§ 17. Amaziah son of Joash reigns over Judah: is defeated by Joash, whom, however, he survives, but is slain at Lachish, and succeeded by Azariah (= Uzziah).

1 <In the second year of Josiah son of Josiah, 14 king of Israel> began Amaziah, 2 son of Joash king of Judah to reign. 2 <Twenty-five years old> was he when he began to reign, and <twenty-nine years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and <his mother’s name> was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, <only> not like David his father: <according to all that Joash his father did> so he did; 4 <only> <the high places> took they not away,—still were the people sacrificing and burning incense in the high places. 5 And it came to pass that <as soon as the kingdom was confirmed in his hand> he smote his servants who smote the king his father; 6 but <the sons of them that smote him> slew he not,—as it is written 7 in the book of the law of Moses, which Yahweh commanded, saying—

[Fathers] shall not be put to death [for sons],

Nor shall [sons] be put to death [for fathers],

But every man <for his own sin> shall be put to death.

7 <He> smote Edom, in the valley of salt, ten

§§ 16-17. The latter part of this long section is a deliberate anachronism. It is to be read in the light of the only possible meaning of the story as told, viz., that Joash, son of Jehoahaz (13:8-12), is to be identified with the Josiah of the Reforms (2 Kgs. 15:28-22:20; 2 Chron. 22:9-23:30). Thus the death of Joash and the succession of Amaziah are naturally to be ascribed to the time of the Reforms. It is only in this way that the lawfulness of the later Joash (2 Chron. 23:1-24:27) is made consistent with the record of the Reforms.

Chapter XIV.

8 Then sent Amaziah messengers unto Jehoash son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying,— Come now, let us look one another in the face.

9 And Jehoash king of Israel sent unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying,—

A thistle that was in Lebanon sent unto a cedar that was in Lebanon, saying—

Give thy daughter to my son to wife,— and there passed by a beast of the field that was in Lebanon, and trampled down the thistle:

10 Thou hast smitten Edom, and thy heart would lift thee up,— glory, and stay at home! Wherefore, then, shouldest thou contend with misfortune, and fall, thou, and Judah with thee?

11 But Amaziah hearkened not. So then Jehoash king of Israel came up, and they looked one another in the face; he and Amaziah king of Judah,— in Beth-shemesh, which belongeth unto Judah.

12 Then was Judah defeated before Israel,— and they fled, every man to his own home; and upon Amaziah, king of Judah, son of Jehoash son of Ahaziah, did Jehoash king of Israel seize in Beth-shemesh, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem at the gate of Ephraim, as far as the corner gate, four hundred cubits;

14 and took all the gold and the silver and all the vessels that were found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king, and hostages,— and returned to Samaria.

15 Now the rest of the story of Jehoash, what he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah,— are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

16 And Jehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria, with the kings of Israel,— and Jeroboam his son reigned in his stead.

Chapter XV.

1 <In the fifteenth year of Amaziah, son of Joash, king of Judah> began Jeroboam, son of Joash, king of *Israel, to reign in Samaria, and he reigned forty-one years. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,— he turned not away from any of the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused Israel to commit. 3 He restored the boundary of Israel, from the entering in of Hamath unto the sea of the waste plain,—according to the word of Yahweh, God of Israel, which he spake by the hand of his servant Jonah, son of Amittai, the prophet, who was of Gath-hepher.

For Yahweh saw the humiliation of Israel, that it was bitter [indeed],— and that there was no one shut up, nor any one left at large, no one indeed to help Israel. 4 Neither had Yahweh spoken, to wipe out the name of Israel from under the heavens,— so he saved them, by the hand of Jeroboam son of Joash.

5 Now <the rest of the story of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might when he was warred, and how he restored Damascus and Hamath to Judah in Israel> are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. 6 And Jeroboam slept with his fathers, with the kings of Israel,— and Zechariah his son reigned [in his stead].

Chapter XVI.

1 <In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam* II*> began Azariah son of Amaziah king of Judah to reign. 2 Sixteen years old was he when he began to reign, and fifty-two years reigned he in Jerusalem,— and the name of his mother was Jecholiah, of Jerusalem. 3 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,— according to all that Amaziah his father had done. 4 Only the high places took they not away,—stil' were the people sacrificing and burning incense in the high places.

5 And Yahweh smote the king, so that he became a leper, until the day of his death, and dwelt in a lazaret-house,— and Jotham, son of the king, was over the house, judging the people of the land.

6 Now <the rest of the story of Azariah, and all that he did> are not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. 7 And Azariah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers, in the city of David,— and [Jotham his son] reigned [in his stead].

8 <In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah king of Judah> began Zechariah son of Jeroboam to reign over Israel, in Samaria, [and he reigned] six months. <And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, as did his fathers,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused |Israel| to commit. 10> Then conspired against him, Shallum son of Jabesh, and smote him before the people, <and slew him,—and reigned in his stead.

11 Now <the rest of the story of Zechariah> behold it! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

12 ||That|| was the word of Yahweh, which he spake unto Jehu, saying,

||Thy sons, to four generations ||shall sit on the throne of Israel.

||And it was so||!

13 ||Shallum the son of Jabesh|| began to reign, in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah, <king of Judah,—for the space of a month> in Samaria. 14 Then came up Menahem son of Gadi, from Tirzah, and entered Samaria, and smote Shallum son of Jabesh in Samaria,— and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

15 Now <the rest of the story of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he made> behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel! 16 ||Then|| Menahem smote Tipherah, and all that were therein, and the boundaries thereof, from Tirzah, <because they opened not> therefore he smote them,—<call> the women therein that were with child> he ripped up.

17 <In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah king of Judah> began Menahem son of Gadi to reign over Israel, ten years [reigned he], in Samaria. 18 <And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused |Israel| to commit, all his days. 19 Pul the king of Assyria came against the land, so Menahem gave unto Pul, a thousand talents of silver,—that his hands might be with him, to confirm the kingdom, in his hand. 20 And Menahem exacted the silver of Israel, of all the mighty men of wealth, to give to the king of Assyria, fifty shekels of silver, of each man,—so the king of Assyria turned back, and stayed not there, in the land.

21 Now <the rest of the story of Menahem, and all that he did> are <they> not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel! 22 <And Menahem slept with his fathers,—and |Pekahiah his son| reigned in his stead.>

22 <In the second year of Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel> began Jotham son of Uzziah king of Judah to reign. 23 <Twenty-five years old> was he, when he began to reign, and <sixteen years> reigned he, in Jerusalem,—<twenty-five years.> 24 And he did that which was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused |Israel| to commit. 25 <And he conspired against him,—Pekah son of Remaliah * a hero of his, and smote him in Samaria, in the citadel of the house of a king,> with Argob and with Arieh, and <with him> fifty men of the sons of the Gileadites,—and he slew him, and reigned in his stead.

26 Now <the rest of the story of Pekahiah, and all that he did> behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel:

27 <In the fifty-second year of Azariah king of Judah> began Pekah son of Remaliah to reign over Israel, in Samaria, [and he reigned] two years. 28 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—he turned not away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, which he caused |Israel| to commit. 29 In the days of Pekah king of Israel came Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, and took Ijon, and Abel-beth-maachah, and Janoah, and Kedesh, and Hazor, and Gilead, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali,—and carried them away captive to Assyria. 30 And Hoshea son of Elah made a conspiracy against Pekah, son of Remaliah, and smote him, and slew him, and reigned in his stead,—in the twentieth year of Jotham, son of Uzziah.

31 Now <the rest of the story of Pekah, and all that he did> behold them! written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel!

Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

27 In those days began Yahweh to send against Judah, Rezin, king of Syria,—and Pekah son of Remaliah. 28 And Jotham slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father,—and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

§22. Ahaz succeeds Jotham as king over Judah.

1 In the seventeenth year of Pekah son of Remaliah began Ahaz son of Jotham king of Judah to reign. 2 Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign, and sixteen years reigned he in Jerusalem. And he did not that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh his God, like David his father; 3 but walked in the way of the kings of Israel,—moreover also he made his son pass through the fire, according to the abominable practices of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel; 4 and he offered sacrifice and burned incense in the high places, and on the hills,—and under every green tree. 5 Then came up Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, unto Jerusalem, to make war,—and they laid siege against Ahaz, but could not overcome him. 6 At that time Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath, to Syria, and wholly cleared out the Jews from Edom,—and the Syrians entered Elath, and have dwelt there, unto this day. 7 So Ahaz sent messengers unto Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, saying, 8 'Thy servant and thy son I am,—Come up and save me, out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Israel, who are rising up against me. 9 And Ahaz took the silver and the gold that was found in the house of Yahweh, and in the treasuries of the house of the king,—and sent them to the king of Assyria, as a bribe. 10 So the king of Assyria hearkened unto him, and the king of Assyria came up unto Damascus, and seized it, and carried away the people thereof captive to Kir,—and put Rezin to death. 11 So then King Ahaz went to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, in Damascus, and saw the altar which was in Damascus,—and King Ahaz sent unto Urijah the priest, a likeness of the altar, and a model thereof, according to all the workmanship thereof; 12 and Urijah the priest built an altar,—according to all that King Ahaz sent from Damascus. 13 And Urijah the priest did according to all that King Ahaz commanded. 14 Then King Ahaz cut off the side walls of the stands, and took away from off them the laver, and the sea took he down from off the oxen of bronze, which were under it,—and set it on a pavement of stones. 15 Also the covered walk for the Sabbath, which they had built in the house, and the outer entrance for the king he changed in the house of Yahweh,—because of the king of Assyria. 16 Now the rest of the story of Ahaz, what he did is not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. 17 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

§23. Hoshea reigns over Israel, and becomes tributary to Shalmaneser king of Assyria, who besieges Samaria and carries Israel into Captivity.

1 In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah began Hoshea son of Elah to reign in Samaria, over Israel, and he reigned nine years. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—only not like the kings of Israel who were before him. 3 Against him came up Shalmaneser king of Assyria, and Hoshea became his servant, and rendered him a present. 4 Then found the king of Assyria, in Hoshea, a conspiracy, in that he had sent King Ahaz came from Damascus. 5 And when the king came from Damascus then the king saw the altar,—so the king drew near unto the altar, and caused [offerings] to ascend thereupon. 6 And he made perfume with his ascending-sacrifice, and with his meal-offering, and poured out his drink-offering,—and dashed the blood of the peace-offerings which he had, upon the altar. 7 And <the altar of bronze which was before Yahweh> he brought away from the forefront of the house, from between the altar, and the house of Yahweh,—and put it at the side of the altar northward. 8 So Urijah the priest did according to all that King Ahaz commanded. 9 And King Ahaz cut off the side walls of the stands, and took away from off them the laver, and the sea took he down from off the oxen of bronze, which were under it,—and set it on a pavement of stones. 10 Also <the covered walk> for the Sabbath, which they had built in the house, and the outer entrance for the king he changed in the house of Yahweh,—because of the king of Assyria. 11 Now <the rest of the story> of Ahaz, what he did is not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. 12 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David,—and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

§ 24. A Review of the Causes leading to Israel's Downfall.

7 And thus it came to pass that Israel sinned against Yahweh their God, who brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt,—yea they did reverence to other gods; and walked in the statutes of the nations, whom Yahweh had dispossessed from before the sons of Israel,—and in the statutes of the kings of Israel, which they had made. 8 And the sons of Israel did (secretly) things which were not right, against Yahweh their God,—and built for themselves high places in all their cities, from the watchmen's tower, to the fortified city. 9 And they set up for themselves pillars and Sacred Stems, upon every high hill, and under every green tree; and burned incense there, in all the high places, like the nations whom Yahweh drove out from before them,—and did things that were wicked, so as to provoke Yahweh to anger; and they served the manufactured gods, as to which Yahweh had said to them, Ye shall not do this thing.

10 And Yahweh testified against Israel and against Judah, through all his prophets,—every one who had a vision and saying—

And which I sent unto you through my servants the prophets.

11 Howbeit they hearkened not,—but stiffened their neck, like the neck of their fathers, who trusted not in Yahweh their God; but rejected his statutes, and his covenant, which he solemnized with their fathers, and his testimonies wherewith he testified against them,—and followed vanity, and became vain, and followed the nations that were round about them, as to whom Yahweh charged them, so that they should not do like them. But they forsook all the commandments of Yahweh their God, and made for themselves something molten—two calves, and made a Sacred Stem, and bowed themselves down to all the army of the heavens, and served Baal; and made their sons and their daughters pass through the fire, and used diversities of enchantments, and sold the medicinal to do the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking him to wrath. 13 So Yahweh shewed himself exceeding angry with Israel, and removed them from his presence,—there was none left, save the tribe of Judah [alone]. 14 Even Judah kept not the commandments of Yahweh their God,—but walked in the statutes of Israel, which they had made. 15 So Yahweh rejected all the seed of Israel, and humiliated them, and delivered them into the hand of spoilers,—until he had cast them out from his presence; 16 for he rent Israel away from the house of David, and they made Jeroboam son of Nebat king,—and Jeroboam thrust away Israel from following Yahweh, and caused them to commit a great sin. 17 And the sons of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he had committed,—they turned not away therefrom; 18 until that Yahweh removed Israel from his presence, according as he spake through all his servants the prophets,—and so Israel was driven away from off their own soil, to Assyria, until this day.

§ 25. The Mixed Worship resulting from the Assyrian Immigration into Samaria.

24 And the king of Assyria brought [men] from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Avvah, and from Hamath, and [from] Sepharvaim,—and caused them to dwell in the cities of Samaria, instead of the sons of Israel,—so they took possession of Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof. 25 And so it was, that <when> they first dwelt there,--they revered not Yahweh,—therefore Yahweh sent among them lions, which were slaying them; therefore spake they unto the king of Assyria, saying,—The nations whom thou hast removed and settled in the cities of Samaria know not the custom of the God of the land,—and he hath sent among them lions and leopards among them, because they know not the custom of the God of the land.

26 So the king of Assyria commanded, saying—Carry thither, one of the priests, whom ye brought away captive from thence, that they may go, and dwell there,—and teach them the custom of the God of the land.

27 Then came one of the priests whom they had carried away captive from Samaria, and dwelt in Bethel,—and he began teaching them how they should do reverence unto Yahweh. 28 Howbeit the nations severely were making their own gods,-and did put them in the houses of the high places, which the Samaritans had made, each several nation in their cities wherein they were dwelling.

So then the men of Babylon made Succothbenoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hanath made Ashima:

and [the Avvites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and [the Sepharvites did consume their sons in the fire, to Adrammelech and Anammelech gods of Sepharvaim.

Thus became they reverers of Yahweh,—and yet made for themselves from the whole compass of them, priests of high places, who became offerers for them in the house of the high places. <Yahweh> were they revering,—and yet <their own gods> were they serving, according to the custom of the nations from whence they had brought them away captive. Unto this day are they offering according to the former customs,—they are not revering Yahweh, neither are they offering after their own statutes, or their own custom, nor yet after the law and the commandment which Yahweh commanded the sons of Jacob,

Whose name he made to be Israel:

With whom Yahweh solemnised a covenant, and commanded them, saying—

Ye shall not revere other gods,—nor bow down to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them;

But <Yahweh>—

Who brought you up out of the land of Egypt, with great might, and with arm outstretched>

Shall ye revere,—and to him shall ye bow down, and to him shall ye sacrifice;

And <the statutes and the regulations, and the law and the commandment, which he wrote for you> shall ye surely observe to do [continually],

So shall ye not revere other gods;

But <the covenant which I have solemnised with you> shall ye not forget,—So shall ye not revere other gods;

But <Yahweh your God> shall ye revere,—Then will <he> deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.

Howbeit they hearkened not,—but <according to their own former custom> were they offering. Thus were these nations doing reverence unto Yahweh, and yet <unto their own carved images> were they rendering service,—yes <their sons and their son's sons> as the fathers offered; so are they offering until this day.

And it came to pass <in the third year of Hosea son of Elah king of Israel> that Hezekiah* son of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.

<Twenty-five years old> was he when he began to reign, and <twenty-nine years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and <his mother's name> was Abi,* daughter of Zachariah. And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that <David his father> did.

He removed the high places, and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut down the Sacred Stem,—and beat in pieces the serpent of bronze that [Moses] had made, because <until those days> had the sons of Israel been burning incense thereunto, so he called it Nehushtan.*

But in Yahweh, God of Israel, did he trust,—so that <after him> was none like him, among all the kings of Judah, nor that were before him; and he did cleave unto Yahweh, he turned not away from following him,—but kept his commandments, which [Yahweh] commanded [Moses].

So Yahweh was with him, <whithersoever he went forth> he prospered,—and he rebelled against the king of Assyria, and served him not.

The king of Assyria smote the Philistines, as far as Gazah, and her boundaries,—from the watchmen's tower even to the fortified city.

And it came to pass <in the fourth year of King Hezekiah>—<the same> was the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel> that Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against Samaria, and laid siege against it;

And he* captured it at the end of three years, <in the sixth year of Hezekiah>—<the same> is the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel> was Samaria captured. So the king of Assyria drove away Israel to Assyria,—and settled them in Halah, and in Habor, by the river of Gozan, and the mountains of Media: because they hearkened not unto the voice of Yahweh their God, but transgressed his covenant, all that Moses the servant of Yahweh commanded, —they neither hearkened nor performed.

And <in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah> came up Sennacherib king of Assyria, against all the fortified cities of Judah, and took them. Then sent Hezekiah king of Judah unto the king of Assyria, to Lachish, saying—

I have sinned.

Return from me,

<What thou shalt lay upon me> I will bear.

So the king of Assyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah, three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold. And Hezekiah delivered up all the silver that was
And the king of Assyria sent Tartan and Rab-saris and Rab-shakeh, from Lachish unto King Hezekiah, with a heavy force to Jerusalem, — so they came up and drew near to Jerusalem, and took their stand by the upper channel of the pool, which is in the highway of the fuller's field. Then called they for the king, and there went out unto them Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was over the household,— and Shebna, the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder. And Rab-shakeh said unto them—

Pray you, say unto Hezekiah, —

Thus saith the great king, the king of Assyria:

What trust is this' wherewith thou dost trust?

Thou hast said—they are only words of the lips!—

Counsel and might have I for the war.

Now in whom' dost thou trust, that thou hast rebelled against me'.

Now lo! thou dost trust thyself on the support of this bruised cane, Egypt, whereon it will enter his hand and lay it open,— so is Pharaoh king of Egypt, to all who trust upon him.

But if ye should say unto me, In Jehovah our God do we trust;

Then is that' not he' whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah hath removed, and said unto Judah, and unto Jerusalem —

Before this altar shall ye bow down, my lord, the king of Assyria,—

That I supply thee with two thousand horses, if thou, on thy part, be able to set riders upon them.

How then wilt thou turn back the face of one pasha of the least of my lord's servants?

Or hast thou, on thy part, trusted to Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

Is it not concerning the men who are tarrying upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung and drink their own water with you?

So then Rab-shakeh took his stand, and cried out with a loud voice, in the Jews' language, and spake, and said,

Hear ye the message of the great king, the king of Assyria:—

Let not Hezekiah deceive you, for he shall not be able to deliver you out of his hand;

Neither let Hezekiah cause you to trust in Jehovah, saying, Jehovah will deliver us,— this city, therefore, shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Do not hearken unto Hezekiah,—for thus saith the king of Assyria,

Deal with me thankfully, and come out unto me,

Then shall ye eat—

Every one of his own vine,

And every one of his own fig-tree,

And drink every one the waters of his own cistern;

Until I come and take you, into a land like your own land —

A land of corn and new wine,

A land of bread and vineyards,

A land of oil and olive and honey,

So shall ye live, and not die,—

But do not hearken unto Hezekiah, For he would persuade you, saying, Yahweh will deliver us!

Have the gods of the nations list all delivered any one of them, his country, out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

Where' are the gods of Hamath, and Arpad?

Where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivah?

Yea, did they deliver Samaria' out of my hand?

Who are they, among all the gods of the

And do not speak with us in the Jews' language, in the ears of the people who are upon the wall.

But Rab-shakeh said unto them—

Is it concerning thy lord, and concerning thee, that my lord hath sent me to speak these things?

Is it not concerning the men who are tarrying upon the wall, that they may eat their own dung and drink their own water with you?

countries, that have delivered their country, out of my hand,—
That Yahweh should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand!

But the people held their peace, and answered him not a word,—for <the command of the king> it was saying—
Ye must not answer him.

Then came in Eliakim son of Hilkiah who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Josh son of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah, with rent clothes,—and they told him the words of Rab-shakeh.

And it came to pass <when King Hezekiah heard> that he rent his clothes,— and covered himself with sackcloth, and entered the house of Yahweh ; 2 and sent Eliakim who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth,—unto Isaiah, the prophet, son of Amoz ; 3 and they said unto him—

Thus saith Hezekiah,

A day of trouble, and rebuke, and reviling is this day,—
For children are come to the birth, and llstrengthll is there none to bring forth!

But the people held their peace, and answered him not a word, —for <the command of the king> it was saying—
Ye must not answer him.

Then came in Eliakim son of Hilkiah who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah, with rent clothes,— and they told him the words of Rab-shakeh.

And it came to pass <when King Hezekiah heard> that he rent his clothes,— and covered himself with sackcloth, and entered the house of Yahweh ; 2 and sent Eliakim who was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth,—unto Isaiah, the prophet, son of Amoz ; 3 and they said unto him—

Thus saith Hezekiah,

A day of trouble, and rebuke, and reviling is this day,—
For children are come to the birth, and llstrengthll is there none to bring forth!

It may be that Yahweh thy God will hear' all the words of Rab-shakeh, whom the king of Assyria his lord hath sent, to reproach a Living God, and will rebuke the words, which Yahweh thy God hath heard,— Wherefore lift thou up a prayer, for the remnant that remaineth.

So the servants of King Hezekiah came unto Isaiah. And Isaiah said unto them,

Thus shall ye say unto your lord,—
Be not thou afraid, because of the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled me:

Behold me! about to let go against him a blast,' and <when he heareth the report> then will he return to his own country,— and I will cause him to fall by the sword, in his own land.

So Rab-shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah,—for he had heard that he had broken up from Lachish.

And when he heard say of Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, saying,

Lo! he hath come forth to fight with thee,—then he again sent messengers unto Hezekiah, saying—

Thus shall ye speak unto Hezekiah king of Judah, saying—
Let not thy God in whom thou art trusting begule thee, saying,— Jerusalem shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Lo! thou thyself hast heard, what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands, in devoting them to destruction,—and shalt thou be delivered?

Did the gods of the nations deliver them whom my fathers destroyed, Gozan, and Haran,—and Rezeph, and the sons of Eden, who were in Telassar?

Where are the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim,—of Hena, and Ivah?

And <when Hezekiah had received the letter at the hand of the messengers> then went he up to the house of Yahweh, and Hezekiah spread it out before Yahweh. 15 And Hezekiah prayed before Yahweh, and said,

O Yahweh, God of Israel, inhabiting the cherubim,

Thus saith Yahweh—

Be not thou afraid, because of the words which thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled me:

Behold me! about to let go against him a blast, and when he heareth the report> then will he return to his own country,— and I will cause him to fall by the sword, in his own land.

So Rab-shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah,—for he had heard that he had broken up from Lachish.

And when he heard say of Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, saying,

Lo! he hath come forth to fight with thee,—then he again sent messengers unto Hezekiah, saying—

Thus shall ye speak unto Hezekiah king of Judah, saying—
Let not thy God in whom thou art trusting begule thee, saying,— Jerusalem shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Therefore—

Thus saith Yahweh, concerning the king of Assyria,
He shall not enter this city,
Nor shoot there an arrow,—
Nor attack it with shield,
Nor cast up against it, a mound;

By the way that he cometh in>
By the same shall he return,—
And into this city shall he not enter.

Declareth Yahweh!

Thou shalt not hear—
That is what I appointed,
And from days of old devised it?
Now have I brought it to pass,
That thou mightest serve to lay waste, | in desolate ruins | fortified cities;:
And their inhabitants, being powerless were overthrown and put to shame,— They became Grass of the field, and Young herbage, Grass on housetops, and Seed withered before it came up.

Howbeit thine abode, and thy coming out and thy going in I know,—and thy raging against me.

Thereafter will I put
My ring in thy nose, and
My bit in thy lips,
And will turn thee back by the way by which thou camest.

And this is the sign—
Eating this year the growth of scattered seeds,
And in the second year which growtheth after,
Then in the third year
Sow ye and reap,
Plant ye vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof;

Then shall the escaped of the house of Judah that remain, again—
Take root downward,
And bear fruit upward;

For out of Jerusalem shall go forth a remnant,
And which hath escaped— out of Mount Zion,—

The jealousy of Yahweh of hosts will perform this.

<On the third day> shalt thou go up unto the house of Yahweh;
And I will add unto thy days, fifteen years,
And <out of the hand of the king of Assyria> will I deliver thee, and this city,—
And will throw a covering over this city, For my own sake,
And for the sake of David my servant.

7 And Isaiah said—
Take ye a cake of figs.
So they took and laid it upon the boil, and he recovered.
8 Now Hezekiah had said unto Isaiah,
What sign is there, that Yahweh will heal me,— and that I shall go up on the third day, to the house of Yahweh?
9 And Isaiah said—
[This' unto thee|| is the sign from Yahweh, that Yahweh will do the thing which he hath spoken,—
The shadow hath gone forward ten steps, shall it return ten steps?
10 And Hezekiah* said—
It is [a light thing] for the shadow, to decline ten steps,—
Nay, but let the shadow go back ten steps.
11 And Isaiah the prophet cried unto Yahweh,— and he caused the shadow on the steps by which it had gone down on the steps of Ahaz to go back ten steps.

12 <At that time> Berodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present, unto Hezekiah,—for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick.
13 And he said—
What have they seen in thy house?
Then said Hezekiah—
<A11 that is in my house> have they seen, there was |nothing| that I shewed them not, among my treasures.

16 Then said Isaiah unto Hezekiah,— Hear thou the word of Yahweh:
Lo! days' are coming, when all that is in thine house, and that thy fathers have treasured up, unto this day, shall be carried into Babylon,—nothing shall be left, saith Yahweh;
18 and <of thy sons who shall issue from thee, whom thou shalt beget> shall they * take away,— and they shall become eunuchs, in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah—
|Good| is the word of Yahweh, which thou hast spoken.
And he said—
Is it not, that <peace and stability> there shall be in my days?
Now <the rest of the story of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool and an aqueduct, and brought water into the city> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

§ 27. Manasseh's wicked Reign over Judah: Judgments threatened.
1 <Twelve years old> was Manasseh when he 21 began to reign, and <fifty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and the name of his mother was Hephzibah. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—after the abominable practices of the nations, whom Yahweh had dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 3 He again' built the high places, which Hezekiah his father had destroyed,— and reared altars to Baal, and made a Sacred Stem, 4 as did Ahab, king of Israel, and bowed down to all the army of the heavens, and served them. 5 And he used to build altars in the house of Yahweh,— concerning which Yahweh had said,—
In Jerusalem|| will I put my Name.
6 And he built altars to all the army of the heavens,—in the two courts of the house of Yahweh; 6 and caused his son to pass through the fire, and practised hidden arts and used divination, and dealt with a familiar spirit and wizards,— he exceeded in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking [him] to anger; 7 and he set the image 8 of the Sacred Stem which he had made,—in the house, of which Yahweh had said unto David, and unto Solomon his son,

In this house, and in Jerusalem which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel> will I put my Name, unto times age-abiding; and I will not again let the foot of Israel wander away from the soil which I gave unto their fathers. Only if they take heed to do according to all that I have commanded them, even to the extent of all the law which [my servant Moses] commanded them. But they hearkened not,—and Manasseh led them astray to do the thing that was wicked, more than the nations which Yahweh destroyed from before the sons of Israel. 16 Yahweh therefore spake through his servants the prophets, saying—

11 Because Manasseh king of Judah hath made these abominations—hath done that which is wicked, more than all which the Amorites did who were before him, and and hath caused [even Judah] to sin with his manufactured gods. 12 [therefore]—

[Thus] saith Yahweh, God of Israel, Behold me! bringing in calamity upon Jerusalem and Judah,—that [whosoever heareth thereof] ||both his ears will tingle;

And I will stretch over Jerusalem, the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahaz,—

And will wipe out Jerusalem, as one wipeth out a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down;

And will abandon the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies,—and they shall become a prey and a plunder, to all their enemies:

Because they have done the thing that is wicked in mine eyes, and have become such as to provoke me to anger,—from the day when their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even until this day.

Moreover also <innocent blood > did Manasseh shed in great abundance, till he had filled Jerusalem, from one end to the other, besides his committing the sins which he caused [Judah] to commit, in doing the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh.

Now <the rest of the story of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sin that he committed> are [they] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 18 And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house, in the garden of Uzza,—and [Amôn his son] reigned [in his stead].

§ 28. Amôn's short but wicked Reign.

19 <Twenty-two years old> was Amôn when he began to reign, and <two years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and [his name was] Meshullemeth daughter of Haruz, of Jotbah. 20 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—as did Manasseh his father; 21 yes he walked in all the way wherein [his father] had walked,—and served the manufactured gods that [his father] had served, and bowed down to them; 22 and forsook Yahweh the God of his fathers,—and walked not in the way of Yahweh. 23 And the servants of Amôn [conspired against him], — and slew the king in his own house. 24 Then the people of the land smote all who had conspired against King Amôn,—and the people of the land made [Josiahb his son] king [in his stead].

Now <the rest of the story of Amôn, what he did> is [it] not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 28 And he was buried in his grave, in the garden of Uzza,—and [Josiahb his son] reigned [in his stead].

§ 29. Josiah's good Reign, during which the Book of the Law is found. The King's reforming zeal postpones but cannot avert the Coming Visitation. Josiah is slain at Megiddo by Pharaoh-necho King of Egypt.

1 <Eight years old> was Josiahb when he began to reign, and <thirty - one years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and [his name was] Jedidah daughter of Adaiah, of Bozkath. 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aside, to the right hand or to the left.

3 And it came to pass <in the eighteenth year of King Josiah> that the king sent Shaphan son of Azaliahb son of Meshullam, the scribe, to the house of Yahweh, saying—

4 Go up unto Hilkiah, the high priest, that he pour out the silver that hath been brought into the house of Yahweh,—which the keepers of the entrance -hall have gathered from the people, 5 that they may give it into the hand of the doers of the work, who have oversight of the house of Yahweh, that they may give it to the doers of the work, who are in the house of Yahweh, to repair the breaches of the house:

6 to the carpenters, and to the builders, and to the masons,—and to buy timber, and hewn stones, for repairing the house. 7 Howbeit there used to be no reckoning made with them, as to the silver that was given into their hand,—because <with faithfulness> were they dealing.

8 Then said Hilkiah the high priest, unto Shaphan the scribe—

<The book of the law> have I found, in the house of Yahweh.

So Hilkiah delivered the book unto Shaphan, and he read it.

9 Then came Shaphan the scribe unto the king, and brought the king word again,—and said—

Thy servants have poured out the silver that was found in the house, and have delivered it unto the hand of the doers of the work, who have overshot of the house of Yahweh.

10 Then Shaphan the scribe told the king, saying—

<A book> hath Hilkiah the priest delivered unto me.

And Shaphan read it before the king.

11 And it came to pass when the king heard the words of the book of the law that he rent his clothes.

12 And the king commanded Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam son of Shaphan, and Achbor son of Micaiah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king's servant, saying:

13 Go ye— enquire of Yahweh, for me and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning the word of this book which hath been found,—for great is the wrath of Yahweh, in that it hath fired up against us, because our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according to all which is written concerning us.

14 So Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asaiah, went unto Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tikvah, son of Harhas, keeper of the vestments, she having her dwelling in Jerusalem, in the new city,—and they spake unto her.

And she said unto them,

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of Israel,

Say ye unto the man who hath sent you unto me:

15 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh, Behold me about to bring calamity upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof,—all the words of the book, which the king of Judah hath read:

17 Because they have forsaken me, and burned incense unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger, with all the workmanship of their hands; and so my wrath shall fire up against this place, and shall not be quenched:

18 But unto the king of Judah, who hath sent you to enquire of Yahweh ||thus|| shall ye say unto him,—

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of Israel,

||As touching the words which thou hast heard||:

19 Because |tender| was thy heart, and thou didst humble thyself before Yahweh when thou hearest what I had spoken against this place and against the inhabitants thereof—that they should become a desolation and a curse, and didst rend thy clothes, and weep before me;|therefore also|| have hearkened—

Declareth Yahweh.

20 ||For this cause|| behold me! about to gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy graves, in peace, and so thine eyes shall not look upon all the misfortune| which I am about to bring upon this place.

And they brought the king word again.

1 Then the king sent,—and there were gathered unto him, all the elders of Judah, and Jerusalem;

2 and the king went up to the house of Yahweh, and all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests, and the prophets, and all the people, both small and great,—and he read in their ears, all the words of the book of the covenant, which had been found in the house of Yahweh.

3 And the king took his stand by the pillar, and solemnised a covenant before Yahweh—to follow Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all [their] heart and with all [their] soul, to confirm the words of this covenant, written in this book. And all the people took their stand in the covenant.

4 Then the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, and the priests of the second order, and the keepers of the entrance-hall, to bring forth, out of the temple of Yahweh, all the vessels that had been made for Baal and for the Sacred Stem,* and for all the army of the heavens,—

5 and he burned them up outside Jerusalem, in the fields of Kidron, and carried the ashes of them to Bethel; and he put down the idol-priests, whom the kings of Judah had appointed, so that incense might be burned in the high places, in the cities of Judah, and round about Jerusalem,—them also that burned incense to Baal, to the sun, and to the moon, and to the constellations,* and to all the army of the heavens; and he brought forth the Sacred Stem out of the house of Yahweh outside Jerusalem, into the Kidron ravine, and burned it in the Kidron ravine, and crushed it to powder,—and cast the powder upon the graves of the sons of the people;*

6 and he brake down the houses of the male devotees, which were in the house of Yahweh,—where the women did weave* houses to the Sacred Stem;* and he brought in all the priests out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the priests had burned incense from Geba unto Beer-sheba,—and brake down

Moreover also <them who had familiar spirits, and the wizards, and the household gods, and the manufactured gods, and the abominations which were to be seen in the land of Judah, and in Jerusalem> did Josiah consume,—that he might confirm the words of the law which were written in the book that Hilkiah the priest had found in the house of Yahweh. And <like him> was no king before him, who turned unto Yahweh with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses, — neither <after him> arose one like him. And when Josiah turned, and saw the graves which were there, in the mount> he sent and took the bones out of the graves, and burned upon the altar, and defiled it,—according to the word of Yahweh, which the man of God proclaimed, who proclaimed these things. Then said he—

What is yonder erection, which I see? And the men of the city said unto him—

The grave of the man of God, who came in out of Samaria, whom thou hast done, concerning the altar of Bethel. And he said—

Let him rest, let no man disturb his bones.

So they let his bones rest,* with the bones of the prophet who came in out of Samaria.
2 KINGS XXIII. 31—37; XXIV. 1—18.

Josiah succeeded by Jehoahaz (son), Jehoiakim (son), Jehoiachin (grandson), and Zedekiah (son).

SECTION 30.

1. Twenty-three years old was Jehoahaz when he began to reign, and three months reigned he in Jerusalem,— and his mother’s name was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah, of Libnah. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that his fathers had done. And Pharaoh-necho put him in bonds at Riblah in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jerusalem,— and he laid a fine upon the land, a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold, and Pharaoh-necho made Eliakim son of Josiah king, instead of Josiah his father, and turned his name to Jehoiakim,— and Jehoahaz took he away, so he entered Egypt, and died there. And the silver and the gold did Jehoiakim give unto Pharaoh, howbeit he assessed the land, that he might give the silver at the bidding of Pharaoh, — every man, according to his assessment, exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, that he might give it to Pharaoh-necho.

2. Twenty-five years old was Jehoiakim when he began to reign, and eleven years reigned he in Jerusalem,— and his mother’s name was Zebudah, daughter of Pedaiah, of Rumah. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,— according to all that his fathers had done.

3. In his days came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon,— and Jehoiakim became his servant three years, then turned he and rebelled against him. And Yahweh sent again against him troops of Chaldeans, and troops of Syrians, and troops of Moabites, and troops of the sons of Ammon, yea he sent them against Judah, to destroy him,— according to the word of Yahweh, which he spake through his servants the prophets. Surely it was because of the anger of Yahweh, that this came upon Judah, to remove them from his presence,—for the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he had done: moreover also for the innocent blood that he had shed, so that he had filled Jerusalem with innocent blood,—which Yahweh was not willing to pardon.

4. Now <the rest of the story of Jehoiakim, and all that he did> are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

5. So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers, and [Jehoiachin his son] reigned in his stead.

6. And the kingdom of Egypt came no more again out of his land,—for the kingdom of Babylon had taken—from the ravine of Egypt, unto the river Euphrates, all that had belonged to the king of Egypt.

7. Eighteen years old was Jehoiachin when he began to reign, and three months reigned he in Jerusalem,— and his mother’s name was Nehuahta daughter of El Nathan, of Jerusalem. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,— according to all that his father had done.

8. At that time came up the servants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon unto Jerusalem,— and the city came into the siege.

9. And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against the city, and his servants were about to besiege it. Then came out Jehoiachin king of Judah, unto the king of Babylon, and he and his mother, and his servants, and his generals, and his courtiers,— and the king of Babylon took him, in the eighth year of his reign.

10. And he carried forth from thence, all the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king,— and he cut off all the fittings of gold, which Solomon king of Israel had made in the temple of Yahweh, according to all that [Yahweh] had spoken.

11. And he carried away all Jerusalem, and all the generals, and all the mighty men of valour, ten thousand becoming captives, and all the artificers and the smiths,—none remained save the poorest of the people of the land. And he carried away captive Jehoiachin, to Babylon,— and the king’s mother, and the king’s wives, and his courtiers, and the nobles of the land took he away captive, from Jerusalem to Babylon. And <all the men of might—seven thousand, and artificers and smiths—a thousand, all who were valiant and ready to make war> the king of Babylon brought them captive to Babylon. And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah, his relative, king in his stead,— and changed his name to Zedekiah.

12. Twenty-one years old was Zedekiah when he began to reign, and eleven years reigned he in Jerusalem,— and his mother’s name was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.
§ 31. The final Siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar: How the Temple was despoiled, the Nobles slain, and the common People driven into Egypt through fear of the Chaldeans. Jehoiachin in Babylon finds favour.

25 And it came to pass <in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month> that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came—<he and all his forces>—against Jerusalem, and encamped against it,—and they built against it a single wall round about. 8 And the city came into the siege,—until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. 8 <On the ninth of the month, when the famine had become severe in the city,—and there had come to be no bread for the people of the land> — then was the city broken up, and all the men of war [<fled] by night* by way of the gate between the two walls, which is by the garden of the king, the Chaldeans being near the city round about,— and he went the way of the Waste Plain; 8 and the force of the Chaldeans [<pursued] the king, and overtook him in the Waste Plains of Jericho,— and [<all his forces] was scattered from him. 8 So they seized the king, and brought him up unto the king of Babylon at Riblah,— and they b pronounced upon him sentence of judgment. 7 And <the sons of Zedekiah> they slew before his eyes,—and <the eyes of Zedekiah> put they out, and then bound him with fetters of bronze, and brought him into Babylon. 8 And <in the fifth month, on the seventh of the month> was the fourteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon— came Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, servant of the king of Babylon, to Jerusalem; 8 and burned the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—yes <all the houses of Jerusalem, even every great man's house> burned he with fire. 10 And <the walls of Jerusalem round about> did all the force of the Chaldeans who were with the chief of the royal executioners [<break down]. 11 And <the residue of the people who were left in the city, and the disheartened who fell away unto the king of Babylon, and the residue of the multitude> did Nebuzaradan, chief of the royal executioners, carry away captive. 12 But <of the poorest of the land> did the chief of the royal executioners [<leave] for vine-dressers and for husbandmen.*

21 And <as for the people who were left in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon left remaining> he set over them Gedaliah, 4 son of Ahikam son of Shaphan. 22 And <when all the generals of the forces, 'they and the men heard' that the king of Babylon had given oversight unto Gedaliah> then came they in unto Gedaliah, at Mizpah,— even Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and Johanan son of Kareah, and Seraiah son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah son of a Maacathite [they and their men]. 24 And Gedaliah swore unto them, and to their men, and said to them, Do not fear because of the servants of the Chaldeans—dwell in the land, and serve

And it came to pass in the seventh month, that Ishmael son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of the seed royal, came, and ten men with him, and smote Gedaliah, that he died, and the Jews and the Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpah. Then arose all the people, both small and great, and the generals of the forces, and came into Egypt, for they were afraid of the Chaldeans. And it came to pass in the thirty-seventh year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month,—that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, did lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, out of prison; and he spake with him kind words,—and set his throne above the throne of the kings who were with him in Babylon; and changed his prison garments, and he did eat bread continually before him, all the days of his life. And in the thirty-seventh year of the captivity of Jehoiachin, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month,— that Evil-merodach, king of Babylon, did lift up the head of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, out of prison; and spake with him kind words,— and changed his prison garments, and did eat bread continually before him, all the days of his life.

1 Adam, Seth, Enosh: 2 Kenan, Mahalalel, Jared: 3 Enoch, Methuselah, Lamech: 4 Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth. 5 The sons of Japheth: Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meshech, and Tiras. 6 And the sons of Gomer: Ashkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah. 7 And the sons of Javan: Elishah, and Tarshish, Kittim, and Rodanim. 8 The sons of Ham: Cush, and Mizraim, and Tubal, and Havilah, and Japheth. 9 Cush begat Nimrod,—the beginning of the mighty ones on the earth. 10 And Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim, and Pathrusim, and Casluhim—whence went forth the Philistines, and Caphtorim. 11 And Canaan begat Sidon his firstborn, and Heth; and the Jebusite, and the Amorite, and the Girgashite; and the Hivite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite; and the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite. 12 The sons of Shem: Elam, and Asshur, and Arpachshad, and Lud, and Aram,—and Uz, and Hul, and Gutheh, and Meshech. 13 And Arphaxad begat Shelah,— and Shelah begat Eber. 14 And unto Eber were born two sons,—the name of the one was Peleg, for in his days was the earth divided, and the name of his brother was Joktan. 15 And Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph,—and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah; and Hadoram, and Uzal, and Diklah; and Ebal, and Abimael, and Sheba; and Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab. All these were the sons of Joktan. 16 Shem, Arpachshad, Shelah; Eber, Peleg, Reu; Serug, Nahor, Terah; Abram — the same is Abraham.

§ 2. Abraham to Israel.

The sons of Abraham: Issac and Ishmael. These are their generations,—the first-born of Ishmael: Nebaioth, then Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibsam; Mishma, and Dummah, Massa, Hadad, and Tema; Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. These are the sons of Ishmael. And the sons of Keturah, the concubine of Abraham, she bare Zimran, and Jokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Ishbak, and Shuah,—and the sons of Jokshan: Sheba, and Dedan; and the sons of Midian: Ephah, and Epheber, and Hanoch, and Abida, and Eldad. All these were the sons of Keturah.
So then Abraham begat Isaac,— the sons of Isaac were Esau and Israel.

The sons of Esau: Eliphaz, Reuel, and Jeush, and Jalam, and Korah.

The sons of Eliphaz: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah.

And the sons of Reuel: Lotan, Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah,— and Dishon, and Ezer, and Dishan.

And Lotan's sister was Timna.

The sons of Eliphaz: Teman, and Omar, Zephi, and Gatam, Kenaz, and Timna, and Amalek.

The sons of Reuel: Hamran, and Eshban, and Ithran, and Cheran.

The sons of Zerah: Jokshan, and Shefed, and Zohar, and Ham, and Jethur, and Ebed, and Ezer.

The sons of Shobal: Allon, and Manahath, and Ebal, Shephi, and Onam.

And the sons of Zibeon: Aiah, and Anah.

The sons of Anah: Dishon,— and the sons of Dishon: Hamran, Jedan, and Eshban, and Ithran, and Cheran.

The sons of Ezer: Bilhan, and Zaavan, and Jaakan.

The sons of Dishan: Uz and Aran.

Now these were the kings, who reigned in the land of Edom, before there reigned a king of the sons of Israel,— Bela the son of Beor, and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

And Bela died,— and there reigned in his stead, Jobab the son of Zerah, of the land of Bozrah.

And Jobab died,— and there reigned in his stead, Husham, of the land of the Temanites.

And Husham died,— and there reigned in his stead, Hadad, son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moab, and the name of his city was Avith.

And Hadad died,— and there reigned in his stead, Samlah, of Masrekah.

And Samlah died,— and there reigned in his stead, Saul, of Rehoboth by the River.

And Saul died,— and there reigned in his stead, Baal-hanan, the son of Achbor.

And Baal-hanan died,— and there reigned in his stead, Hadad the son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moab, and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

The sons of Judah: Er, and Onan, and Shammai, and Zebulun; Dan, Joseph, and Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

The sons of Judah: Er and Onan, and Shammai, and Zebulun; Dan, Joseph, and Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

The sons of Judah: Er and Onan, and Shammai, and Zebulun; Dan, Joseph, and Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

§ 5. The Tribe of Reuben (III.).

1 (And the sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel> for [the] was the firstborn, but <because he defiled the couch of his father> his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph son of Israel,—and he is not to be enrolled in the place of firstborn, 2 for [Judah] prevailed over his brethren, so that [even the prince] is from him,—although [the birthright] pertaineth to Joseph

3 <the sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel> Hanoch and Pallu, Hezon and Carmi. 4 (The sons of Joel) Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimeel his son; 5 Micah his son, Reishai his son, Baal his son; 6 Beerah his son, whom Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria carried away captive,— [the] was a leader to the Reubenites; 7 and his brethren, by his families, in the genealogical registering, by their generations,—the chief Joel, and Zechariah; 8 and Bela, the son of Azaz, the son of Shema, the son of Joel,— [the] dwelt in Aror, even as far as Nebo, and Baal-meon; 9 and <eastward> dwelt he as far as the entering in of the desert, from the river Eufrates,—because [their cattle] were multiplied in the land of Gilead; 10 and <in the days of Saul> they made war with the Hagrites, who fell by their hand,—so they dwelt in their tents, over all the face of the land east of Gilead.

§ 6. The Tribe of Gad (IV.).

11 And [the sons of Gad] <over against them> dwelt, in the land of Bashan, as far as Salecach:

2 Joel the chief, and Shapham, the second,—and Janai and Shaphat, in Bashan; 12 and their brethren of their ancestral house, Michael and Meshullam and Sheba and Jorai and Jaakan and Zia and Eber; seven. 13 (These) were the sons of Abihail, son of Juri, son of Jararoh, son of Gilead, son of Michael, son of Jehishai, son of Jahdo, son of Buz, 14 Ahie son of Abdiel, son of Guni, chief of their ancestral house; 15 and they dwelt in Gilead— in Bashan, and in her villages,—and in all the pasture-lands of Sharon, up to their outgoings. 16 All of them were genealogically registered in the days of Jotham king of Judah,—and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel.

§ 7. Reuben, Gad, and Half Tribe of Manasseh (V.) make War; fall into Idolatry and are transported to Assyria.

The sons of Reuben and Gad, and half tribe of Manasseh, of the sons of valour, men bearing shield and sword and bending the bow, and instructed in war, were forty-four thousand and seven hundred and sixty, ready to go forth in the host. 19 So they made war with the Hagrites,—and Jetur and Naphish, and Nodab;

and were helped against them, and the Hagrites and all that were with them were delivered into their hand,—for <unto God> made them outcry, in the war, and he suffered himself to be entreated by them, because they put their trust in him; 21 and they captured their cattle— their camels fifty thousand, and <flocks> two hundred and fifty thousand, and <asses> two thousand,—and <persons> of men a hundred thousand; 22 for <many slain> fell, for <of God> was the war,—and they dwelt in their stead, until the captivity.

And [the sons of the half tribe of Manasseh] dwelt in the land,— <from Bashan, as far as to Baal-hermon and Semir and Mount Hermon> they were multiplied. 24 And [these] were the heads of their ancestral house,— Ephra and Iaah and Elieel and Azrieel and Jeremiah and Hodaviah and Jahdiah, men who were heroes of valour, men of renown, chiefs to their ancestral house.

But they dealt unfaithfully with the God of their fathers,—and went unchastely after the gods of the peoples of the land, whom God destroyed from before them; 26 so the God of Israel stirred up the spirit of Pul king of Assyria, and the spirit of Tilgath-pileser king of Assyria, and he took them away captive, even the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half tribe of Manasseh,—and brought them in unto Halah, and Habor, and Hara, and to the river of Gozan, unto this day.

§ 8. The Tribe of Levi (VI.).

1 (The sons of Levi) Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. 2 (And [the sons of Kohath] Amram, Izhar, and Hebron, and Uziel. 3 (And [the children of Amram] Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam,—and [the sons of Aaron] Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. 4 (Eleazar) begat Phinehas, Phinehas begat Abishua; 5 and Abishua begat Bukki, and Bukki begat Uzzi; 6 and Uzzi begat Meaiah, who was minister in Israel.

And [the sons of Kohath] Amram, and Idaiah, and Eleazar, and Ithamare, and Azariah, and Meraioth; they dwelt in Jerusalem; 12 and Azariah begat Johanan, and Johanan begat Azariah, and Johanan begat Azariah,— [the] was who ministered as priest, in the house which Solomon built in Jerusalem; 11 and Azariah begat Amariah,—and Amariah begat Ahitub; 12 and Ahitub.

1 U. : "souls." 2 The conjunction were before "Epher" shd be omitted (w.Sep., Vul.) G.n. 3 Some cod. (w. 4 ear. pr. edns., Sep.) : " Ebed." 4 Some cod. (w. Sep., and Vul.): " and Phinehas'

begat Zadok, and |Zadok| begat Shallum;
and |Shallum| begat Hilkiah, and |Hilkiah| begat Azariah;
and |Azariah| begat Zephaniah, and |Zephaniah| begat Jehozadak;
and |Jehozadak| departed, when Yahweh carried away Judah and Jerusalem into captivity,—by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.

91 Nahath his son, Uriel his son, Uzziah his son, and Shual his son.
by their families—out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun; by lot twelve cities.

So then the sons of Israel gave, to the Levites, the cities and the pasture lands thereof; yes they gave, by lot, out of the tribe of the sons of Judah, and out of the tribe of the sons of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin; these cities which are mentioned by name.

But as for some of the families of the sons of Kohath they had the cities of their lot, out of the tribe of Ephraim; and they gave unto them the cities of refuge— Shechem and her pasture lands, in the hill country of Ephraim—and Gezer, with her pasture lands; and Aijalon, with her pasture lands, and Gath-rimmon, with her pasture lands; and out of the half-tribe of Manasseh Aner, with her pasture lands, and Bileam, with her pasture lands,—for the rest of the family of the sons of Kohath.

And <out of the tribe of Asher> Maashal, with her pasture lands,—and Atdon, with her pasture lands; and Hukkok, with her pasture lands,— and Rehob, with her pasture lands. And <out of the tribe of Naphtali> Kedesh in Galilee, with her pasture lands, and Hammon, with her pasture lands,—and Kirjathaim, with her pasture lands.

Unto the rest of the sons of Menari—out of the tribe of Zebulun Rimmono, with her pasture lands,—Tabor, with her pasture lands. And <beyond the Jordan at Jericho, on the east of the Jordan—out of the tribe of Reuben> Bezer in the wilderness, with her pasture lands,—and Jahzah, with her pasture lands; and Kedemoth, with her pasture lands,—and Mephaath, with her pasture lands. And <out of the tribe of Gad> Ramoth in Gilead, with her pasture lands,—and Mahanaim, with her pasture lands; and Heshbon, with her pasture lands, and Jazer, with her pasture lands.

§ 9. The Tribe of Issachar (VII.).

And <to the sons of Issachar> belonged, Tola and Puah, Jashub and Shimron, four. And the sons of Tola were Uzzi and Rephaiah and Jeriel and Jahmai and Ibamin and Shimuel, chiefs of their ancestral house, pertaining to Tola, heroes of valour, in their generations,—their number, in the days of David, twenty-two thousand and six hundred.

And <the sons of Uzzai> Izrahiah, and the sons of Izrahiah Michael and Obadiah and Joel, Ishashah—five, chiefs all of them; and <with them by their generations, pertaining to their ancestral house> were bands of a host for war, thirty-six thousand,—for they had many wives and sons; and their brethren, of all the families of Issachar, heroes of great valour were eighty-seven thousand, when they had all registered themselves.

§ 10. The Tribe of Benjamin (VIII.).

Benjamin Bela and Becher and Jediael, three. And the sons of Bela were Ezbon and Uzi and Horshai and Jeremoth and Iri, five, chiefs of the ancestral house, heroes of great valour,—who when they had registered themselves were twenty-two thousand and thirty-four. And the sons of Becher Zemirah and Joel and Eliezer and Elkanah and Zopham, and Zillethai, and Shemen, and Izmah, and Epher, and Jnoah. All these were sons of Becher. And when they had registered themselves by their generations, the chiefs of their ancestral house the heroes of valour were twenty thousand and two hundred.

And the sons of Jediael Bilhan, and the sons of Bilhan Jeush and a name of Benjamin and Ebe and Chenaanah, and Zethan and Shobal and Jaddua. All these were sons of Jediael, by ancestral chiefs, heroes of great valour were seventeen thousand and two hundred, ready to go forth as a host to war:—Shuppim also and Huppim, sons of Ir, Hushim sons of Aher.

§ 11. The Tribe of Naphtali (IX.).

The sons of Naphtali Japhziel and Guni, and Jezer and Shillem, sons of Bilhah.

§ 12. The Tribe of Manasseh (X.).

The sons of Manasseh Asriel, whom his wife bare,—his concubine, the Syrian bare Machir the father of Gilead; and Machir took a wife pertaining to Huppim and Shuppim, and <the name of his sister> was Maacah, and <the name of the second> Zelophehad,—and Zelophehad had [daughters]. So then Maacah, wife of Machir, bare a son, and called his name Peresh, and <his sister> were Ulam and Rakem; and the sons of Ulam: Bedan. These were the sons of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh. And <his sister> Hammolecheth bare Ishod, and Abiezir,

And [the sons of Ephraim] Shuthelah, and Bocad his son, and Tahan his son, and Eledash his son, and Tahath his son; and Zabad his son and Shuthelah his son, and Ezer and Esob;—but the men of Gath who had been born in the land slew them, because they had come down to take away their cattle. And Ephraim their father mourned many days,—and his brethren came to comfort him. And he went in unto his wife, and she conceived, and bare a son,—and he called his name, Beriah, because <in misfortune> was she in his house. And |his daughter| [was] Sheerah, who built Beth-horon the nether and the upper,—and Uzzen-sheerah. And Rephaiah his son, and Resheph, and Telah his son, and Taham his son;—Ladan his son, Anamthud his son, Elishama his son;—Non his son, Joshua his son. And |their possessions, and their dwellings| were Bethel, and the villages thereof; and eastward Naaran, and westward Gezer, and the villages thereof, and Shechem, and the villages thereof,—as far as Aiyah; and the villages thereof;—<and on the sides of the sons of Manasseh> Beth-shean, and the villages thereof, Taansach and the villages thereof, Megiddo and the villages thereof, Dor and the villages thereof. <In these> dwelt the sons of Joseph, son of Israel.

14. The Tribe of Asher (XII).

And [the sons of Asher] Imnah, and Isphah, and and Lehvi and Beriah, and and Serah their sister. And |the sons of Beriah| Heber, and Malchiel,—<the same> was the father of Birzaith. And |Heber| begat Japhlet, and Shomer, and Hotham,—<and Shua> their sister. And |the sons of Japhlet||Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath. These were the sons of Japhlet. And |the sons of Helem, his brother| Zophah, and Suah and Harnepher, and Shual and Ahish. And |the sons of Heber, his brother|| Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath. These were his sons, ancestral chiefs.

§ 15. Another Genealogy of Benjamin, leading up to that of Saul, first King.

1 And [Benjamin] begat Bela his firstborn,—8 Ashbel, the second, and Aharah the third, 9 and Nahor, the fourth, and Rapha, the fifth. 2 And Bela had sons—Addar, and Gera, and Abihud,—4 and Abihus, and Naaman, and Ahosib, and Gera, and Shephuphan, and Huram. 6 And [these] are the sons of Ehud.—<these> are the ancestral chiefs to the inhabitants of Geba, but they were carried away captive, unto Manassath; 7 and <as for Naaman and Ahijah and Gera> <the same> carried them captive,—and he begat Uzza and Ahihud. 8 And [Shaharaim] begat children in the field of Moab, after he had sent away Hushim and Baara his wives. 9 Then begat he, of Hodesh his wife, Jobab, and Zibia, and Mesha, and Maacah; and [Jeuz, and Sachia, and Mirmah,—<these> were his sons, ancestral chiefs. 10 And <of Hushim> he begat Ahi, and Elpaal. 11 And |the sons of Elpaal|| Eber, and Misham, and Shemida,—<he> built Ono, and Lod, and the villages thereof. 12 And <as for Beriah and Shema> <they> were ancestral chiefs to the inhabitants of Aijalon,—they put to flight the inhabitants of Gath; 13 and Ahio, Shashak, and Jeremoth,—<and Zebadiah and Arad, and Eder,—<and Michael, and Ishpa, and Jobah, and Joha, sons of Beriah,—<and Zebadiah and Meshullam, and Hizki, and Heber,—<and Ishmerai, and Izliah, and Jobah, sons of Elpaal,—<and Jakim, and Zichri, and Zabdi,—<and Elieni, and Zillaheth, and Efeli,—<and Adaiah, and Beriah, and Shimmrah, sons of Shimeili,—<and Ishpan, and Eber,—<and Elie, and Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan,—<and Hananiah, and Elaan, and Anthothijah,—<and Penuei, sons of Shashak,—<and Shamsharai, and Sheahariah, and Athaliah,—<and Jaareeshiah, and Elijah, and Zichri, sons of Jeroham;—<these> were ancestral chiefs to their generations, chief men,—<these> dwelt in Jerusalem. 20 And <in Gibea> dwelt the father of Gibon [Jephia], the name of whose wife was Maacah,—<and his firstborn son, Abdon, and Zur and Kish, and Baal and Net, and Naad, —<and Gedor, and Ahio, and and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices. 30 And some from among the sons of the priests were compounders of perfumes, with the spices. 31 And [Mattithiah, from among the Levites] was the first-born of Shallum the Korahite;—was in trust over the making of the flat cakes. 32 And [some from among the Kohathites, of their brethren] were over the Bread that was set in Array,—to place it sabbath by sabbath. 33 [These] also were the singers, ancestral chiefs of the Levites, in the chambers, free,—for by day and by night—was there [a charge] upon them in the business. 34 [These] were the ancestral chiefs of the Levites, by their generations, chief men,—[these] dwelt in Jerusalem.

§ 17. Genealogy of Saul repeated: introductory to an Account of his Death, and David’s Succession to the Throne.

35 And [in Gibeon] dwelt the father of Gibeon, Jeiel,—[the name of whose wife] was Maacah: 36 and [his firstborn son] Abdon,—and Zur, and Kish, and Baal and Ner, and Nadab; 37 and Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth. 38 And [Mikloth] begat Shimeam,—and [and they also] over against their brethren. 39 And [Ner] begat Kish, and [Kish] begat Saul,—and [Saul] begat Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal; 40 and the son of Jonathan] was Merib-baal,—and [Merib-baal] begat Micah; 41 and [the sons of Micah] were Pithon, and Meolech, and Tahrea [and Ahaz]; 42 and [Ahaz] begat Jarah, and [Jarah] begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri,—and Zimri] begat Moza; 43 and [Mozza] begat Binea, — and Raphaiah his son, Eleassah his son, Azel his son; 44 and [Azel] had six sons, and these are their names—Azrikam, [his firstborn], b and Ishmael, and Sheariah and Obadiah, and Hanan, [and Asah]. 1 [These] were the sons of Azel.

10 1 Now [the Philistines] fought against Israel,—and the men of Israel fled before the Philistines, and the wounded fell in Mount Gilboa. 2 And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons,—and the Philistines smote Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua, sons of Saul. 3 And the battle went sore against Saul, and the archers dis-covered him with the bow,—and he was terrified because of the archers. 4 Therefore said Saul unto his armour-bearer.

Draw out thy sword and thrust me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come and abuse me.

But his armour-bearer would not, for he feared greatly,—so then Saul took the sword, and fell upon it. 5 And [when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead,] then he also fell upon the sword, and died. 6 So Saul died, and his three sons, and [all his house] together died.

7 And [when all the men of Israel that were in the vale saw, that they had fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead] then forsook they their cities, and fled, and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

8 And it came to pass, on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain,—that they found Saul, and his sons, lying prostrate in Mount Gilboa. 9 So they stripped him, and took his head, and his armour, —and sent throughout the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it to their idols, and to the people. 10 And they put his armour, in the house of their gods,—but [his skull] fastened they up, in the house of Dagon.

11 And [when all Jabesh-Gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul] then rose up all the men of Israel, and took, and carried away the corpse of Saul, and the corpses of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, —and buried their bodies under the terebinth, in Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

12 Thus died Saul, for his unfaithfulness where-with he dealt unfaithfully against Yahweh, over the word of Yahweh, which he kept not,—and [also] in asking by necromancy when he desired to enquire; 13 and enquired not of Yahweh, wherefore he slew him,—and turned round the kingdom unto David, son of Jesse.

§ 18. David anointed King in Hebron: Zion captured and called The City of David.

1 Then did all Israel gather themselves together to David, unto Hebron, saying,—Lo! [thy bone and thy flesh> are we'.

2 Moreover also <in time past' even when Saul was king> [thou] wast he that led out and brought in Israel,—and Yahweh thy God said unto thee, [Thou shalt shepherd my people Israel, Yea [thou] shalt be chief ruler, over my people Israel.

3 Thus came all the elders of Israel unto the king, to Hebron, and David solemnised to them a covenant in Hebron, before Yahweh,—and they anointed David to be king over Israel, according to the word of Yahweh, through Samuel.

4 Then went David and all Israel to Jerusalem.
And the inhabitants of Jebus, — where were the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land. 5 And David said,

Whosoever smiteth the Jebusites, first shall become a chief, and a ruler; —

So then Joab son of Zeruiah went up first, and became a chief. 6 And David dwelt in the citadel of Zion, — the same is the city of David. 7 And David said,

Whosoeversmiteth the Jebusites, first I shall become a chief, and a ruler; —

So then Joab son of Zeruiah went up first, and became a chief. 8 And he built the city roundabout, from Millo even as far as the circuit, — but Joab suffered the remainder of the city to live. 9 Thus did David wax greater and yet greater, — and Yahweh of hosts was with him.

§ 19. Warriors who helped David to establish his Kingdom, with some of their exploits.

Now these are the chiefs of the heroes, that pertained to David, who held strongly with him in his kingdom, with all Israel, to make him king, — according to the word of Yahweh, concerning Israel. 11 And these is the number of the heroes who pertained to David, — Jashobeam son of a Hachmonite, chief of the thirty, — the same brandished his spear against three hundred — slain at one time. 12 And after him was Eleazar son of Dodai the Ahohite, — the same was among the three heroes; — he was with David in Pas-dammim, — where the Philistines were gathered together to battle, and there was a field-plot full of barley, — and the people fled from before the Philistines; — so they took their stand in the midst of the plot and rescued it, and smote the Philistines, — and Yahweh wrought a great victory. 13 And three of the thirty chiefs went down upon the rock unto David, into the cave of Adullam, — a host of Philistines being encamped in the vale of Rephaim. 14 Now David then was in the stronghold, — and a garrison of Philistines then was in Bethlehem. 15 And David longed, and said —

Who will give me to drink of the water, out of the well of Bethlehem, that is within the gate?

And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was within the gate, and bare it, and brought it unto David, — yet would not David drink it, but poured it out unto Yahweh; — and said —

Far be it from me, of my God, that I should do this!

The blood of these men shall I drink, with their lives!
12 Now these are they who came unto David to Ziklag, he yet being shut up, because of Saul, son of Kish, and they were among the heroes, helpers in the war; armed with the bow, using right hand or left with arches, and with arrows in the bow,—of the brethren of Saul; out of Benjamin: 'The chief, Ahiezer, and Joash, sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite, and Jeriel, and Pelet, sons of Azmaveth,— and Beraachah, and Jehu the Anathothite; 'and Ishmaiah, the Gibeonite, a hero among the thirty, and over the thirty,—and Jeremiah and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Jozabad, the Gederathite; Eluzai and Jerimoth and Bealiah and Shemariah, the Haruphite; Elkanah and Ishshiah, and Azarel, and Jozer and Jashobeam, the Korahites; and Joelah and Zebadiah, sons of Jeroham, of Gedor.8

And of the Gadites there separated themselves unto David, to the stronghold towards the desert, heroes of valour, men of war, for battle, men that could handle shield and spear,— and faces of lions were their faces, and like gazelles upon the mountains were they, for swiftness: Ezer, the chief, Obadiah, the second,— Eliaib, the third; Maashiah, the fourth; Jeremiah, the fifth; Attai, the sixth, Eliel, the seventh; Johanan, the eighth, Elzabad, the ninth; and Jeremiah, the tenth, Machbannai, the eleventh. These were of the sons of God, chiefs of the host,—one to a hundred, the least, and the greatest to a thousand. These are they who passed over the Jordan, in the first month, when it was full, over all its banks,—and they put to flight all them of the vales, to the east and to the west. And there came, of the sons of Benjamin, and of Judah, as far as the stronghold unto David. And David went forth to meet them, and responded, and said to them, If peaceably ye are come unto me, to help me: I shall have towards you, a heart for unity,—but if to betray me to mine adversaries, there being no violence in my hands: may the God of our fathers see' and rebuke! Then the spirit, clothed Amasai, chief of the thirty, Thine, O David, Yea, with thee, O son of Jesse!
1 CHRONICLES XII. 36-40; XIII. 1-11; XIV. 1-15.

<of the Danites, expert for war> twenty-eight thousand, and six hundred. 36 And <of Asher, such as were ready to go forth in host to set in array for battle> forty thousand.

37 And <from over the Jordan, of the Reubenites and Gadites and half tribe of Manasseh, with all manner of weapons of war for battle> a hundred and twenty thousand.

38 All these, being men of war, expert in setting in battle-array, with a perfect heart came to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel,— moreover also all the rest of Israel were of one heart to make David king.* So they were there, with David, three days, eating and drinking,— for their brethren had made preparation for them. 40 Moreover also they who were near of kin unto them, as far as Issachar and Zebulun and Naphtali were bringing bread, on asses and on camels and on mules and on oxen, meal-food, cakes of figs and cakes of raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep—in abundance,— for there was joy in Israel.

§ 21. Removal of the Ark from Kiriat-jearim, as far as the house of Obed-edom.

1 And David consulted with the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even with every chief ruler.

2 And David said to all the convocation of Israel, If unto you it seemeth to be good, and from Yahweh our God we will urgently send unto our brethren who remain in all the lands of Israel, and with them the priests and the Levites in their pasture-land cities,— that they may gather together unto us; 3 and let us bring round the ark of our God unto us,— For they sought it not, in the days of Saul. 10 Then said all the convocation, that it should be done thus,— for right was the thing, in the eyes of all the people.

5 So David convoked all Israel, from Shihor of Egypt, even unto the entering in of Hamath,— to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim. 6 And David went up and all Israel to Baalah, unto Kiriath-jearim which pertaineth to Judah,— to bring up from thence, the ark of God— Yahweh who inhabiteth the cherubim, on which is called the Name.* 7 And they carried the ark of God, upon a new waggon, out of the house of Aminadab, — and [Uzza and Ahio] were driving the waggon.

8 And [David and all Israel] were dancing for joy before God, with all boldness, and with songs and with lyres, and with harps and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

9 And <when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Chidon> Uzza thrust forth his hand, to seize the ark, for the oxen were restive. 10 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Uzza, and he smote him, because he thrust forth his hand unto the ark,— and he died there, before God.

11 And it was a sadness unto David, that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzza,— and he called that place Perez-uzza,* as it is called] unto this day. 12 And David was afraid of God, on that day, saying,— How can I bring unto me, the ark of God?

13 So David removed not the ark unto him, into the city of David,— but took it aside into the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite. 14 And the ark of God remained with the household of Obed-edom, in his house, three months,— and Yahweh blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

§ 22. Removal of the Ark from Kiriat-jearim, as far as the house of Obed-edom.

1 And David consulted with the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even with every chief ruler.

1 And David said to all the convocation of Israel, If unto you it seemeth to be good, and from Yahweh our God we will urgently send unto our brethren who remain in all the lands of Israel, and with them the priests and the Levites in their pasture-land cities,— that they may gather together unto us; 3 and let us bring round the ark of our God unto us,— For they sought it not, in the days of Saul. 10 Then said all the convocation, that it should be done thus,— for right was the thing, in the eyes of all the people.

5 So David convoked all Israel, from Shihor of Egypt, even unto the entering in of Hamath,— to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim. 6 And David went up and all Israel to Baalah, unto Kiriath-jearim which pertaineth to Judah,— to bring up from thence, the ark of God— Yahweh who inhabiteth the cherubim, on which is called the Name.* 7 And they carried the ark of God, upon a new waggon, out of the house of Aminadab,— and (Uzza and Ahio) were driving the waggon.

8 And [David and all Israel] were dancing for joy before God, with all boldness, and with songs and with lyres, and with harps and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

9 And <when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Chidon> Uzza thrust forth his hand, to seize the ark, for the oxen were restive. 10 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Uzza,— and he smote him, because he thrust forth his hand unto the ark,— and he died there, before God.

11 And it was a sadness unto David, that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzza,— and he called that place Perez-uzza,* as it is called] unto this day. 12 And David was afraid of God, on that day, saying,— How can I bring unto me, the ark of God?

13 So David removed not the ark unto him, into the city of David,— but took it aside into the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite. 14 And the ark of God remained with the household of Obed-edom, in his house, three months,— and Yahweh blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

§ 23. David's Palace, Family, and Victories over the Philistines.

1 And Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers unto David, and timber of cedars, with masons and artificers, to build for him a house. 2 So David perceived, that Yahweh had confirmed him as king over Israel,— that his kingdom was exalted,* for the sake of his people Israel.

3 And David took more wives, in Jerusalem,— and David begat more sons and daughters. 4 Now [these] are the names of them who were born, whom he had in Jerusalem,— Shammua and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon; 5 and Ibhar and Elisahua, and Elpelet; 6 and Negah and Nepheg, and Japhia; 7 and Elisahama and Boeliada,* and Eliphebeet.

8 And <when the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel> all the Philistines came up to seek to secure David, — and David, hearing, went out against them. 9 Now [the Philistines] had come and spread themselves out, in the vale of Rephaim. 10 Then David asked of God, saying,

Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into my hand?

And Yahweh said to him,

Go up, and I will deliver them into thy hand.

11 So they came up in it* Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and David said,

God hath broken forth against mine enemies by my hand, like the breaking forth of waters,—

<For this cause> called they the name of that place, Baal-perazim. 12 And they left their gods there,— and David gave the word, and they were burned up in fire. 13 And the Philistines yet again spread themselves out in the vale. 14 So David asked again of God, and God said to him,

Thou shalt not go up after them,— get thee round, away from them, so shalt thou come in upon them, over against the mulberry-trees; 15 and it shall be, <when thou hearest a sound of marching in the...
15 • And lie made him houses, in the city of Gibeon even unto Gezer.

16 So David did as God commanded him, and the name of David went forth through all the lands, and Yahweh put the dread of him upon all the nations.

§ 24. The Ark brought to Jerusalem.

1 And he made him houses, in the city of David,—and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent. 2 Then said David, None must carry the ark of God, save the Levites,—for of them did Yahweh make choice, to bear the ark of Yahweh, and to attend it, unto times age-abiding.

3 So David convoked all Israel, unto Jerusalem,—to bring up the ark of Yahweh, unto the place thereof, which he had prepared for it. 4 And David gathered together the sons of Aaron, and the Levites:

§ 25. The Priests and Levites to be Hallowed.

24. The Ark brought into Jerusalem.

1 Behold yourselves, ye and your brethren, so shall ye bring up the ark of Yahweh—God of Israel, into [the place] I have prepared for it.

2 By the first of ye did not [bring it] Yahweh our God brake forth against us, because we sought him not in the appointed way. 3 So the priests and the Levites hallowed themselves,—to bring up the ark of Yahweh, God of Israel. 4 And the sons of the Levites bare the ark of God, just as Moses commanded, according to the word of Yahweh,—on their shoulder, with the staves upon them. 5 And David spake to the chiefs of the Levites, to station their brethren the singers, with instruments of song, harps, and lyres, and cymbals,—sounding aloud at the lifting up of the voice, for joy.

6 So the Levites caused to stand, Heman son of Joel, and Asaph, son of Berechiah,—and the sons of Merari their brethren, Ethan, son of Kushaiah; and with them their brethren of the second degree,—Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Mattithiah, and Eliphelehu, and Miekneiah, and Obad-edom and Jeiel, the door-keepers. 8 And the singers, Heman, Asaph and Ethan, <with cymbals of bronze> were to sound aloud; and Zechariah, and Azriel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Mattithiah, and Obad-edom, and Jeiel and Aazaziah,—with lyres over the bass, to take the lead. 9 And the door-keepers to the ark. 10 And David and the elders of Israel, and the rulers of thousands, who were going, to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, out of the house of Obad-edom, with joy.

11 And so it was that when God helped the Levites, who were bearing the ark of the covenant of Yahweh,—they sacrificed seven bullocks and seven rams. 12 Now David was wrapped about with a robe of byssus, and with all the Levites who were bearing the ark, and the singers, and the priests,—on the ark, and the Levites, for Uriel, Assiah and Joel, Shemiramoth and Eliel, and Amminadab; and said unto them: Ye are the chiefs of the fathers of the Levites,—Hallow yourselves, ye and your brethren, so shall ye bring up the ark of Yahweh—God of Israel, into [the place] I have prepared for it.

13 But because, at the first, ye did not [bring it] Yahweh brake forth against us, because we sought him not in the appointed way. 14 So the priests and the Levites hallowed themselves,—to bring up the ark of Yahweh, God of Israel. 15 And the sons of the Levites bare the ark of God, just as Moses commanded, according to the word of Yahweh,—on their shoulder, with the staves upon them. 16 And David spake to the chiefs of the Levites, to station their brethren the singers, with instruments of song, harps and lyres, and cymbals,—sounding aloud at the lifting up of the voice, for joy.
1 CHRONICLES XVI. 1—37. 4^5

16 1 So they brought in the ark of God, and placed it in the midst of the tent, which David had pitched for it,—and they brought near ascending-sacrifices and peace-offerings, before God. 2 And when David had made an end of offering the ascending-sacrifices, and the peace-offerings> he blessed the people, in the name of Yahweh. 3 And he apportioned, to every one of Israel, both man and woman,—to every one, a loaf of bread, and a sweet drink,a and a raisin cake.

4 And he placed before the ark of Yahweh certain of the Levites, as attendants,—and to celebrate, and to give thanks and render praise, unto Yahweh, God of Israel: 5 Asaph the chief, and, second to him, Zechariah,—Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliahoth, and Beniamin, and Obed-edom, and Joeli, with instruments of harps,a and with lyres, and Asaph with cymbals, sounding aloud: 6 and Benaiah, and Jahaziel, the priests,—with trumpets continually, before the ark of the covenant of God.

A very few, and sojourners therein:
And they wandered from nation to nation,
And from one kingdom, to another people:
He suffered no man to oppress them,
And reproved—for their sakes—kings!
Ye may not touch mine Anointed ones,
And <to my Prophets> may ye do no wrong.

23 Sing to Yahweh, all the earth, b Tell the tidings, from day to day, of his salvation:
Recount, Among the nations, his glory,
Among all the peoples, his wonders.

For [all the gods of the peoples] are things

Give to Yahweh, glory and strength:
Give to Yahweh, the glory of his name,—

Let the field leap for joy, and all that is therein:
Then shall shout in triumph, the trees of the forest,—
Before Yahweh, for he is coming, to judge the earth.

duty of a day on its day; and Obed-edom with his brethren, sixty-eight,— and Obed-edom son of Jedithun and Hosah to be doorkeepers; and Zadok the priest, and his brethren the priests, before the habitation of Yahweh,— in the high place that was in Gibeon: to offer ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, upon the altar of ascending-sacrifice,— continually, morning and evening,— even according to all that is written in the law of Yahweh, which he commanded concerning Israel; and Heman and Jeduthun, and the rest of the chosen ones, who were distinguished by name,— to give thanks unto Yahweh, for is his lovingkindness!

And all the people departed, every man to his house,— and David went round, to bless his own household.

17 1 And it came to pass <when David had taken up his abode in his house> that David said unto Nathan the prophet, Lo! I am dwelling in a house of cedars, But the ark of the covenant of Yahweh is under curtains.

2 Then said Nathan unto David, <All that is in thy heart> do,— for God is with thee.

3 But so it was that <in that night> the word of God came unto Nathan, saying:

4 Go and say unto David my servant, ||Thus|| saith Yahweh,— (Thus) shalt not build me a house, to dwell in; seeing that I have not dwelt in a house, since the day that I brought up Israel, until this day,— but have been from tent to tent, and without a habitation.

5 Wherever I have wandered with all Israel> spake I ever [a word] with one of the judges of Israel, whom I charged to shepherd my people, saying,— Wherefore' have ye not built me a house of cedars?

6 * So it shd be (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.)— G.n.

7 ||Now|| therefore, ||thus|| shalt thou say unto my servant David, ||Thus|| saith Yahweh of hosts, ||I myself|| took thee from the pasture, from after the flock,— to become leader over my people Israel; and was with thee whithersoever thou didst go, and have cut off all thine enemies, from before thee,— and will make thee a name, like the name of the great one, who are in the earth; and will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, and they shall inhabit their place, and be unsettled no more,— neither shall the sons of perseverance again wear them out, as at the first; even from the days when I put judges in charge over my people Israel, and have subdued all thine enemies,— that I might make thee great; yes  will Yahweh' build for thee.

And it shall be that <when thy days are fulfilled, to sleep,> with thy fathers> then will I raise up thy seed after thee, who shall be of thy sons,— and I will establish his kingdom. ||He|| shall build me a house,— and I will establish his throne unto times age-abiding.

11 ||I|| will become his father, And ||he|| shall become my son,— And <my lovingkindness> will I not cause to depart from him, as I caused it to depart from him who was before thee; but I will cause him to remain over my house and over my kingdom, unto times age-abiding,— and his throne shall be established, unto times age-abiding.

<According to all these words, and according to all this vision> ||so|| spake Nathan unto David.

16 Then entered King David, and tarried before Yahweh,— and said:

Who am ||I||, O Yahweh God, and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherunto, and hast made this seem little in thine eyes, O God, in that thou hast spoken concerning the house of thy servant, for a great while to come? Thus wilt thou provide for me, according to the rank of manhood, and hast exalted me, 0 Yahweh God!

Then did Joab, and all the people who were behind him, draw near before the Syrian army, and they fled before them. 5 And people went and told David, concerning the men, so he sent messengers to console him concerning his father.— and the servants of David came into the land of the sons of Ammon unto Hanun, to console him. 6 And when the servants of Hadarezer* saw that they had made themselves odious with David, and the sons of Ammon sent a thousand talents of silver, to hire for themselves— out of Mesopotamia, and out of Aram-maacah, and out of Zobah— chariots, and horsemen. 7 So they hired for themselves thirty-two thousand chariots, and the king of Maacah, and his people, who came and pitched before Medeba,— and the sons of Ammon gathered themselves together out of their cities, and entered into the war. 8 Now <when David heard> he sent <Joab and all the army of heroes.> And the sons of Ammon came out, and set in array for the battle, at the opening of the city,— whereas the kings who had come were by themselves, in the field. 9 So <when Joab saw that the battle confronted him,> before and behind,— he chose out of all the choice in Israel, and set in array against them,— and <the rest of the people> delivered he into the hand of Abishai his brother,— and they set in array, to meet the sons of Ammon. 10 And he said—

"If too strong for me be the Syrians> then shalt thou come to my help,— but <if the sons of Ammon> be too strong for thee> then will I help thee. 11 Be strong, and let us put forth our strength, for the sake of our people, and for the sake of the cities of our God,— and let Yahweh do what is good in his own eyes."

12 Then did Joab, and all the people who were with him, draw near before the Syrians unto the battle,— and they fled from before him. 13 And <when the sons of Ammon saw> that the Syrians had fled> then fled they also: from before Abishai his brother, and entered the city,— and Joab came to Jerusalem. 14 And when the Syrians saw that they had been defeated before Israel, then sent they messengers, and brought out the Syrians who were 21 Then the accuser* stood up, against Israel,— and moved David, to number Israel. And David said unto Joab, and unto the rulers of the people, Go, number Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan,—and bring [the report] unto me, that I may know the number of them. Then said Joab, May Yahweh add unto his people, as many as they are, a hundred times, but are they not, my lord O king, all of them my lord's, as servants? wherefore should my lord seek this? wherefore should it become guilt to Israel? But the word of the king prevailed against Joab,—and Joab departed, and went to and fro throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem. And Joab delivered the sum of the number of the people, unto David,—and all Israel was found to be a thousand thousand and a hundred thousand men, who drew sword, and Judah, four hundred and seventy thousand men, who drew sword. But <Levi and Benjamin> counted he not among them,—for detestable' was the word of the king unto Joab.

And it was displeasing in the eyes of God, concerning this thing,—therefore smote he Israel. But the word of the king prevailed against Joab,—and Joab departed, and went to and fro throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem. And Joab delivered the sum of the number of the people, unto David,—and all Israel was found to be a thousand thousand and a hundred thousand men, who drew sword, and Judah, four hundred and seventy thousand men, who drew sword. But <Levi and Benjamin> counted he not among them,—for detestable' was the word of the king unto Joab.

And David said unto God, I have sinned greatly, in that I have done this thing,—but I now ||I|| beseech thee, take away the iniquity of thy servant, for I have shown myself very foolish.

Then spake Yahweh unto Gad, the seer of the people, and unto David, saying:

Go—And thou shalt speak unto David, saying, ||Thus|| saith Yahweh, <Three things> do I offer thee,—choose thee one from among them, that I may do it unto thee.

So Gad came unto David,—and said to him, ||Thus|| saith Yahweh.

Choose thee:—
Whether <for three years> [there be] famine,
Or <for three months> that thou flee before thine adversaries, while the sword of thine enemies overtakest thee.
Or <for three days> the sword of Yahweh, and pestilence be in the land, with ||the messenger of Yahweh|| laying waste throughout all the boundary of Israel,—
Now therefore, see, what [answer] I shall return unto him that sent me.

And David said unto Gad, I am in a great strait,—Oh let me fall, I pray thee, into the hand of man!

And David prepared abundantly, before his death. 6 Then he called for Solomon his son,—and charged him, to build a house, for Yahweh, God of Israel. 7 And David said to Solomon his son, “<As for me> it was near my heart; to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God; but the word of Yahweh came unto me, saying,

<Blood in abundance> hast thou shed,
And <great wars> hast thou made,—Thou shalt not build a house for my Name, Because <much blood> hast thou shed upon the earth, before me.

And ||the|| shall be my son.
And ||I|| will be his’ father;—Therefore will I establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel, unto times age-abiding.

9 ||Now|| my son, Yahweh be with thee,—so shalt thou be prosperous, and shalt build the house of Yahweh thy God, according as he hath spoken concerning thee.

10 Only Yahweh give thee discretion and understanding, and give thee charge over Israel,—so that thou take heed unto the law of Yahweh thy God.
11 Then ||shalt thou| prosper, if thou take heed to do the statutes and the regulations, which Yahweh commanded Moses, concerning Israel,—be strong and bold, thou mayst not be in fear, nor be dismayed.

old and upwards,—and their number by their polls, of mature men, was thirty-eight thousand.

<Of these—to preside over the work of the house of Yahweh> were twenty-four thousand, and officers and judges, six thousand; and four thousand] were doorkeepers. And <four thousand] were offerers of praise unto Yahweh, with instruments.

Which [said David] I made for offering praise. And David divided them into courses,—pertaining to the sons of Levi, to Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

<Of the Gershonites> Ladan and Shimei. The sons of Ladan are the chief Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three. The sons of Shimei are Shelomoth, and Haziel and Haran, three. These were the ancestral chiefs of Ladan. And the sons of Shimei are Jahath, Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah, four. And Jahath was chief, and Zizah the second, but Jeush and Beriah had not many sons, so they became an ancestral house, by one reckoning.

The sons of Kohath were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four. The sons of Amram were Aaron and Moses, and Aaron was separated, to hallow the holy of holies, unto times age-abiding; and <for Moses, the man of God> his sons were called unto the tribe of Levi. The sons of Moses were Gershon, and Eliasar. The sons of Gershom were Sheubel the chief; and the sons of Eliasar were Rehabiah the chief,—and Eliasar had no other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah were very many.

The sons of Hebron were Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jehaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth. The sons of Uziel were Micah the chief, and Ishiah the second.

The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli were Eleazar and Kish. But Eleazar died, and had no sons, but daughters only,—and so the sons of Kish their brethren took them. The sons of Mushi were Mahli and Eder and Jeremoth, three.

These were the sons of Levi by their ancestral house, the ancestral chiefs of them who were counted in the number of their names, by their polls, doing the work, for the service of the house of Yahweh,—from twenty years old, and upwards.

For, said David, Yahweh the God of Israel hath given rest... and divided them into courses,—pertaining to the sons of Levi, to Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

§ 34. Priests divided into Twenty-four Courses. Their Duties and those of their Helpers, the Levites, settled by Lot.

Now the sons of Aaron had their courses,—24 [the sons of the sons of Aaron], Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar; but Nadab and Abihu died before their father, and <sons> had they none,—but Eleazar and Ithamar became priests, and David apportioned to them courses, both to Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and to Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar,—by their appointed place, in their service. But the sons of Eleazar were found to be more numerous, by the chiefs of their able men, than were the sons of Ithamar, so they divided them,—the sons of Eleazar had chiefs, of the ancestral house of six, whereas the sons of Ithamar had of their ancestral house eight. They divided them, therefore, by casting lots these with those,—for there were princes of the sanctuary, and princes of God, from among the sons of Eleazar, and among the sons of Ithamar.

And Shemaiah son of Nethanel the scribe from among the Levites, wrote them down before the king and the rulers and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech son of Abiathar, and the ancestral chiefs, pertaining to the priests and to the Levites,—<one ancestral house> was taken for Eleazar, and <was equally taken> for Ithamar. So then the first lot came forth for Jehoiarib, <for Jediasiah> the second; <for Harim> the...
third, <for Zorim> the fourth; 9 <for Mal-<for Mijamin> the sixth; 10 <for Hakkoz> the seventh, <for Abijah> the eighth; 11 <for Jeshua> the ninth, <for Shecaniah> the tenth; 12 <for Eliahib> the eleventh, <for Jakim> the twelfth; 13 <for Huppah> the thirteenth, <for Jeshebeah> the fourteenth; 14 <for Bilgash> the fifteenth, <for Immer> the sixteenth; 15 <for Hezir> the seventeenth, <for Happizzez> the eighteenth; 13 <for Jeiel> the twelfth; 15 <for Jeshua> the ninth, <for Makki> the sixth; 17 <for Zerahiah> the twentieth; 18 <for Pethahiah> the nineteenth, <for Jehozked> the twentieth; 17 <for Jachin> the twenty-first, <for De-<for Gamul> the twenty-second; 18 <for Del-<for Zerahiah> the twenty-third, <for Mazziah> the twenty-fourth. 10 |These|| were their appointed places for their service, for entering the house of Yahweh, according to the regulation of them, by the hand of Aaron their father,—just as Yahweh God of Israel commanded him.| 20 Now as for the sons of Levi who remained || <of the sons of Amram> Shubael, <of the sons of Shubael> Jehdeiah. 21 ||Of Reha-<of the sons of Reha-<of the sons of Izhar> Shelomo, — <of the sons of Shelomo> Jahath; 22 and <of the sons of Hebron> Jeriah,— |Amariah| the second, |Jehaziel| the third, |Jekameam| the fourth; 23 <of the sons of Ozziel> Micah, <of the sons of Micah> Shamir; 24 <of the brother of Micah> I<of the sons of Ishhiah> Zeca-<of the sons of I<of the sons of I<of the sons of Ishhiah>; 25 <of the sons of Merar> Mahli and Mushi,— <of the sons of Jaaziah> Beno; 26 <of the sons of Merar, of Jaaziah> Beno, and Sho-<of the sons of Asaph> Zaccur and Iri; 25 <of Mahli> Eleazar, who had no sons; 26 <of Kish—the sons of Kish> Jerameel; 20 and <of the sons of Musi> Mahli and Eder and Jerimoth. 27 <of the Levites, belonging to their ancestral house. Moreover ||they also cast lots along with their brethren the sons of Aaron, before David the king and Zadok and Ahimelech, and the ancestral chiefs, pertaining to the priests and to the Levites,—the ancestral chief along with his younger brethren. § 35. David and his Captains appoint Twenty-four Courses of Singers and Musicians, under Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman. 25 1 And David and the captains of the host set apart for service, unto the sons of Asaph and Heman and Jeduthun, such as should prophesy, with lyres, with harps, and with cymbals.— and the number of the workers for their service was: 2 <Of the sons of Asaph> Zecur and Joseph and Nathaniah and Assarelah, the sons of Asaph,—under the direction of Asaph,* who prophesied under the direction of the king. 3 <Of Jeduthun> ||the sons of Jeduthun||—Gedaliah, and Zeri, and Jeshiah, Hashabiah,* and Mattithiah—six, under the direction of their father Jeduthun, with the lyres, as he prophesied, in giving thanks and offering praise unto Yahweh. 4 <Of Heman> the sons of Heman — Bukkiah,* Mattaniah |Uziel, Shubael, and Jeremoth, Hanaiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Maltihi, Hothir, Mahazioth. 5 ||All these|| were sons of Heman, the seer of the king in the things of God, at the lifting of the horn. 13 Yeaa they cast lots, as the small so the great, by their ancestral house, for every several gate. 14 And the lot eastward fell to Shelomith. And ||to Shelomith, his sons a discreet counsel they cast lots, and his lot came out, northward. 15 ||To Obed-edom southward, and to his sons the storehouse. 16 ||To Shuppim and to Hosah westward, near the refuse-gate, in the causeway that goeth up,— one ward as well as another.

29 ||Of the Izharites: Chenaniah and his sons were for the outward business over Israel, — as officers, and as judges.

30 ||Of the Hebronites: Hashabiah and his brethren, sons of valour, <one thousand seven hundred> had the oversight of Israel, across the Jordan westward,— for all the business of Yahweh, and for the service of the king.

31 ||Of the Hebronites: Jeriah was chief, [he was] of the Hebronites by his generations, by his fathers,— <in the fortieth year of the reign of David> were they sought out, and there were found among them heroes of valour, in Jazer of Gilead; 32 and ||his brethren that were heroes of valour were two thousand and seven hundred, ancestral chiefs, — so David the king gave them oversight, over the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half tribe of Manassites, in all the affairs of God, and the affairs of the king.

1 Chronicles XXVII. 2—34; XXVIII. 1.

Moreover the chief ruler of the Reubenites was Eliezer, son of Michael. Of Zebulun was Ishmaiah, son of Obadiah. Of Naphtali was Jeremoth, son of Azriel. Of the sons of Zadok was Elihu, one of the brethren of David. Of Issachar was Omri, son of Michael. Of Zebulun was Ishmaiah, son of Obadijah. Of Naphtali was Jeremoth, son of Azriel.

The same Benaiah was a hero of thirty, and over the thirty,—and over the thirty,—and over the thirty, was Ammizabad his son. The fourth, for the fourth month, was Asahel, brother of Joab, and Zebadiah his son, after him,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand. Of the fifth, for the fifth month, was Shamhu the Izrahite,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand. The sixth, for the sixth month, was Isra, son of Ikkeol, the Tekoite,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand. The seventh, for the seventh month, was Helez the Pelonite, of the sons of Ephraim,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand. The eighth, for the eighth month, was Shibbeai the Hushathite, of the Zerahites,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand. The ninth, for the ninth month, was Abiezer the Anathothite, of the Benjamites,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand. The tenth, for the tenth month, was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zerahites,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand. The eleventh, for the eleventh month, was Benaiah the Pirathonite, of the sons of Ephraim,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand. The twelfth, for the twelfth month, was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel,—and in his course were twenty-four thousand.

§ 39. Managers and Stewards of Royal Domains and Possessions.

And over the treasuries of the king was Azmaveth, son of Adiel. And over the treasuries in the fields, in the cities, in the villages and in the castles, was Jonathan, son of Uzziah. And over the workers of the field, for the tillage of the ground, was Ezri, son of Chelub. And over the vineyards was Shimei, the Ramathite. And over that which was in the vineyards for the treasuries of wine was Zabdi, the Shiphmite. And over the olive-trees and the sycamore-trees that were in the lowland was Baal-hanan the Gederite. And over the treasuries of oil was Joash. And over the herds that pastured in Sharon was Shitrai, the Sharonite. And over the herds in the vales was Shaphat, son of Adlai. And over the camels was Obil, the Ishmaitite. And over the asses was Jehdeyahu the Meronothite. And over the flocks was Jaziz, the Hagarite. All these were rulers over the possessions that belonged to King David.

§ 40. David’s nearest Advisers.

And Jonathan the relative of David was a counsellor, a man of understanding and a scribe was he. And Jehiel son of Zachmoni, was with the sons of the king. And Ahitophel was counsellor to the king. And Hushai the Archite was the companion of the king. And after Ahitophel was Jehoiada son of Benaiah,—and Abiathar. And the captain of the king’s army was Joab.

§ 41. David’s last Charge to his Chief Men and to Solomon: His Plans and Patterns for the Temple and its Furniture.

And David called together all the rulers of Israel, the rulers of tribes and the rulers of the courses who waited upon the king,— Then gave David unto Solomon his son, the plan of the porch, and the recesses thereof, and the treasuries thereof, and the upper rooms thereof, and the inner chambers thereof, and the recesses for the propitiatory; and the plan of all which had come by the spirit to be with him, for the courts of the house of Yahweh, and for all the rooms round about,—for the treasuries of the house of God, and for the treasuries of hallowed things; and for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh,—and for all the utensils of the service of the house of Yahweh: of gold, by weight> for the gold, for all manner of utensils for each several service,—for all manner of utensils of silver, by weight, for all manner of utensils for each several service; and a weight, for the lamp-stands of gold, and their lamps of gold, by the weight of each several lampstand, and the lamps thereof,—and for the lamp-stands of silver by weight, for each lamp-stand and the lamps thereof, according to the service of each several lampstand. And the gold [gave he] by weight for the tables setting in array, for each several table, and silver, for the tables of silver; and the fleshhooks and the bowls and the cups, pure gold,—and for the goblets of silver, by weight for each several goblet, and for the goblets of silver, by weight for each several goblet; and <for the altar of incense> refined gold, by weight,—and <for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubim> gold, for them that were spreading out, and covering the ark of the covenant of Yahweh:—the whole in writing.

From the hand of Yahweh upon me to give understanding,— all the works of the pattern.

Then said David, unto Solomon his son,

Be strong and bold, and act, thou mayest
not fear nor be dismayed,—for "Yahweh, my God!" will be with thee; he will not let thee go, neither will he forsake thee, util thou hast finished all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh.
And there are the courses of the priests and the Levites, for all the service of the house of God,—and <with thee, in all manner of work> is every willing, skilful man for any service, also the rulers and all the people,
for all thine affairs.

§ 42. Offerings for Building the Temple made by David and his People.

Then said David the king unto all the convocation,

Be strong and bold, and act, thou mayest
not fear nor be dismayed,—for "Yahweh,
my God!" will be with thee; he will not let thee go, neither will he forsake thee, util thou hast finished all the work of the service of the house of Yahweh.
And there are the courses of the priests and the Levites, for all the service of the house of God,—and <with thee, in all manner of work> is every willing, skilful man for any service, also the rulers and all the people,
for all thine affairs.
my God, the gold for the gold, and the silver for the silver, and the bronze for the bronze, the iron for the iron, and the wood for the wood,—and beryl stones and settings, stones coloured and particoloured, and all manner of precious stones and stones of very marble, in abundance. And yet further <because of my delighting in the house of my God, having a treasure of mine own in gold and silver> I have given for the house of my God, above and beyond all that I have prepared for the holy house: three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir,—and seven thousand talents of refined silver, for over-laying the walls of the recesses. Of gold for the gold, and of silver for the silver, and for all manner of work in the hand of artificers>,—Who then is ready to offer willingly, by filling his hand to-day, unto Yahweh?

Then offered they willingly— the ancestral rulers and the rulers of the tribes of Israel, and the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even to the rulers of the work of the king; and gave for the service of the house of God, of gold< five thousand talents and ten thousand drams>, and of silver< ten thousand talents>, and of bronze< eighteen thousand talents,—and of iron< one hundred thousand talents>. And every one with whom were found precious stones gave to the treasure of the house of Yahweh,—unto the hand< of Jehiel the Ger-shonite. So the people rejoiced because they willingly offered, for with a perfect heart offered they willingly unto Yahweh,— moreover also< David the king> rejoiced with great joy.

§ 43. David's Public Thanksgiving, and his People's Response, in Prayer, Sacrifice and Feasting.

Therefore did David bless Yahweh in the eyes of all Israel,—and David said, Blessed art thou, O Yahweh, the God of our fathers, from age even unto age.

O Yahweh, are Greatness, and Might, and Beauty, and Victory, and Majesty, nay! all in the heavens and in the earth]. O Yahweh is the kingdom, who art exalted' above all—as chief; and riches and honour are from before thee, and art ruling over all, and in thy hand are power and might,—and in thy hand it is, to give greatness and strength unto any.

Therefore, O our God, we are giving thanks unto thee,—and offering praise, unto thy beautiful Name.

And yet, who' am I, and who' are my people, that we should be able' to offer willingly like this? for <from thee> is the whole, and <of thine own hand> have we given unto thee; for <sojourners> are we before thee, and strangers, like all our fathers,—<like a shadow> are our days upon the earth, and there is no hope. O Yahweh our God, all this abundance which we have prepared, to build thee a house for thy holy' Name< of thine own hand> it is, and <thine> is the whole. But I know, O my God, that thou art proving the heart, and <with uprightness> wilt thou be pleased,—<thou> art willing offered all these things, <know> therefore, <thou> people who are found here have I seen with joy, offering willingly unto thee.

O Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, our fathers, oh guard this age-abidingly, as the devised' purpose of the heart of thy people,—and establish thou their heart, unto thyself. Also <unto Solomon my son> give thou an undivided heart, to keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy statutes,—to do the whole, and to build the palace for which I have prepared.

Then said David, unto all the convocation, Bless, I beseech you, Yahweh your God. So all the convocation blessed' Yahweh, the God of their fathers, and did bend their heads and bow themselves down unto Yahweh, and unto the king; and sacrificed unto Yahweh sacrifices, and caused to go up ascending-offerings unto Yahweh, on the morrow of that day, a thousand bullocks, a thousand rams, a thousand young sheep, and the drink-offerings thereof,—and sacrifices in abundance, for all Israel. And so they did eat and drink before Yahweh on that day, with great joy,—and they, the second time, made Solomon son of David king, and anointed him unto Yahweh to be chief ruler, and Zadok to be priest.

§ 44. Solomon's Accession to the Throne, and David's Death in Peace and Honour.

So Solomon took his seat upon the throne of Yahweh, as king, instead of David his father, and prospered,—and all Israel <hearkened unto him>. And <all the rulers, and the heroes, ye moreover all the sons of King David> gave a hand, under Solomon the king. And Yahweh magnified Solomon, exceedingly, before the eyes of all Israel,—and gave unto him a royal majesty, that had not been on any king before him, over Israel.

Thus <David son of Jesse> reigned over all Israel; and <the days that he reigned over Israel> were forty years,—<in Hebron reigned he seven years, and <in Jerusalem> reigned he thirty-three. And he died in a good old age, satisfied with days, riches and honour,—and Solomon his son reigned in his stead.

Now the acts of David the king, first and last I behold them written in the records of Samuel the seer, and in the records of Nathan the prophet, and in the records of God the seer: with all his reign, and of his might,—and the times which passed over him, and over Israel, and over all the kingdoms of the lands.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES.

§ 1. Solomon convokes an Assembly at Gibeon, where he sacrifices: and God promises him Wisdom, Wealth and Honour

1 And Solomon, son of David, strengthened himself over his kingdom,—and Yahweh his God was with him, and made him surpassingly great. 2 And Solomon gave word to all Israel,—to the rulers of thousands, and hundreds, and to the judges, and to all the leaders of all Israel, ancestral chiefs; and Solomon, and all the convocation with him, went to the high place that was in Gibeon,—for there was the tent of meeting of God, which Moses the servant of Yahweh made in the desert. 4 Howbeit the ark of God had David brought up from Kiriath-jearim, into the place that David had prepared for it,—for he had pitched for it a tent, in Jerusalem. 6 Also the altar of bronze that Bezalel son of Uri son of Hur had made was there before the habitation of Yahweh,—so Solomon and the convocation sought it. 6 And Solomon went up thither unto the altar of bronze before Yahweh, which belonged to the tent of meeting,—and caused to go up thereon a thousand ascending-sacrifices.

7 During that night God appeared unto Solomon, — and said unto him, 8 Ask what I shall give thee. 9 And Solomon said unto God, Thou thyself didst deal with David my father in great lovingkindness,—and hast made me king in his stead. 9 Now O Yahweh Elohim, let thy word with David my father be brought to pass,—for who can judge this thy people, that is so great?

10 And God said unto Solomon, Because this was near thy heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth, or honour, or the life of them that hate thee, nor even many days hast thou asked,—but hast asked for thyself, wisdom and knowledge, that thou mayest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king> 12 wisdom and knowledge> are granted unto thee,—moreover riches and wealth and honour> will I give thee, such as the kings who were before thee did not possess, neither shall they who come after thee possess the like.

13 And Solomon came from the high place that was in Gibeon unto Jerusalem, from before the tent of meeting,—and reigned over Israel.

14 And Solomon gathered chariots and horsemen, and came to have a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen,—and he settled them in chariot cities, and with the king, in Jerusalem. 16 And the horses which Solomon had were an export out of Egypt,—and a company of royal merchants used to fetch a drove, at a price; 17 and they built and brought forth out of Egypt a chariot, for six hundred [shekels] of silver, and a horse, for a hundred and fifty,—and for all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Syria> by their means brought they them forth.
§ 2. Solomon prepares to Build the Temple.

1 Then Solomon gave word to build a house for the Name of Yahweh, and a house for his kingdom.

2 And Solomon numbered seventy thousand men to bear burdens, and eighty thousand men to hew in the mountain, and three thousand six hundred.

3 And Solomon sent unto Huram king of Tyre, saying,—

4 As thou didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars to build him a house to dwell in: lo! I am about to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God, to hallow unto him—to burn before him sweet incense, and for a continual setting in array, and to offer ascending-sacrifices morning and evening, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the appointed feasts of Yahweh our God,— this is the law for Israel.

5 And the house which I am about to build must be great, for great is our God, above all gods.

6 But who is able to build unto him a house? for the heavens, even the heaven of heavens cannot contain him, who then shall build him a house, though only to burn incense before him?

7 Now therefore, send me a wise man, to work in gold and in silver and in bronze, and in iron, and in purple and crimson and blue, and skilful to execute gravings,— with the wise men who are with me, in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom my father David did provide.

8 And send me—timbers of cedar, cypress and sandal-wood, out of the Lebanon, for I know that thy servants are skilful, to cut the timbers of Lebanon,—and lo! my servants shall be with thy servants: yea to prepare me timbers in abundance,—for the house which I am about to build must be great and most wonderful.

9 And lo! for the hewers that cut the timbers have I given wheat as food for thy servants, twenty thousand measures, and barley, twenty thousand measures, and wine, twenty thousand baths, and oil, twenty thousand baths.

10 Then answered Huram king of Tyre, in writing, which he sent unto Solomon,— 11 Because Yahweh hath loved his people, he hath set thee over them as king.

12 And Huram said,

Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who made the heavens and the earth, who hath given unto David the king, a wise man, skilled in prudence and understanding, who will build a house for Yahweh, and a house for his kingdom.

13 Now therefore, have I sent a wise man, skilled in understanding, pertaining to Huram my father: son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, whose father was a man of Tyre, skilled to work in gold and in silver, in bronze, in stones and in timber, in purple, in blue and in fine white linen, and in crimson, and to grave any manner of gravings, and to devise any manner of device that may be given to him, with thy wise men, and the wise men of my lord David thy father.

14 And he made up from among them—seventy thousand to hew in the mountain, and three thousand six hundred, as overseers, to keep the people at work.

15 Now therefore, the wheat and the barley, the oil and the wine, whereof my lord hath spoken, let him send unto his servants; and we will cut down timbers out of the Lebanon, according to all thy need, and will bring them unto thee in floats, upon the sea to Joppa, and thou shalt fetch them up to Jerusalem.

16 So Solomon numbered all the men that were sojourners, who were in the land of Israel, after the numbering, wherewith David his father had numbered them, and they were found to be—a hundred and fifty-three thousand and six hundred. And he made up from among them—seventy thousand to hew in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred, as overseers, to keep the people at work.

§ 3. The Building and Furnishing of the Temple described.

1 Then began Solomon, to build the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem, in Mount Moriah, where he had appeared unto David his father, in the place which David had prepared, and he began to build, in the second month, in the fourth year of his reign.

2 And he made up from among them—seventy thousand to hew in the mountain, and eighty thousand to bear burdens, and three thousand six hundred, as overseers, to keep the people at work.

3 And these were the things wherein Solomon was grounded for the building of the house of God,—The length, by cubits, in the first measure was sixty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits. And the porch which was in front of the length was twenty cubits, and the height thereof was a hundred and twenty, and he overlaid it, within, with pure gold.

4 And the greater house he covered with cypress wood, and overlaid it with gold. And the two doors of the greater house were of olive wood.
And he made an altar of bronze, twenty cubits long, and twenty cubits broad, and ten cubits high.

And he made ten tables, and placed in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left. And he made the court of the priests, and the large enclosure, and doors to the enclosure, and the doors thereof overlaid he with bronze.

And he made the most holy house, the length thereof was twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and he covered it with fine gold, to the number of six hundred talents; and the weight of the nails amounted to fifty shekels of gold.

And he made in the most holy house two cherubim, of carved work, and covered them with gold. And as for the wings of the cherubim the length of them was twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof five cubits, and five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house, and five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub; and five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house, and five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub; and five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house, and five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub; and five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house.

And he made a vail, of blue and purple, and crimson and byssus cloth, and raised thereon cherubim.

And he made the most holy house, the length thereof was twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and he covered it with fine gold, to the height thereof, and ten cubits by the cubit, it was like the brim-work of a cup, with blossoms of lilies, it could hold [many] baths, three thousand would it contain.

And he made ten lampstands of gold according to the regulation thereof, and set in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

And he made ten tables, and placed in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left, and he made a hundred tossing bowls of gold.

And he made the court of the priests, and the large enclosure, and doors to the enclosure, and the doors thereof overlaid he with bronze.

And <the sea> he set on the right side of the house, eastward over against the south.

And Huram made the pans, and the shovels, and the tossing bowls, and Huram finished doing the work, which he did for King Solomon, in the house of God:— two pillars, and the bowls and the capitals on the top of the two pillars, and the two frames of checker work, to cover the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the top of the pillars, and four hundred pomegranates, for the two frames, for covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the top of the pillars; and two rows of pomegranates, for each frame, for two pillars, and the two frames of checker work, to cover the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the top of the pillars; and two rows of pomegranates, for each frame, for covering the two bowls of the capitals, which were on the top of the pillars; and the sea, which was standing on twelve oxen, and the twelve oxen under it; and the pans and the shovels and the flesh-hooks, and all the vessels made Huram his father for King Solomon, for the house of Yahweh, of burned bronze. <In the circuit of the Jordan> did the king cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zeredah.

So Solomon made all these utensils, in great abundance, for the weight of the bronze could not be searched out.

Yea Solomon made all the utensils which were for the house of God, and the altar of gold, and the tables, wherein was the Presence-bread; and the lamp-holders and their lamps, that they should burn according to the regulation before the shrine, of purified gold; and the blossom-work, and the lamps, and the tongs, of gold,—the same was the purest gold; and the snuffers and the bowls and the spoons and the censers, of purified gold, and the entrance of the house, the inner doors thereof for the holy of holies, and the doors of the house of the temple, were of gold.

Thus was perfected all the work, which Solomon made for the house of Yahweh: and Solomon brought in the hallowed things of David his father, the silver, and the gold, and all the utensils placed he, in the treasuries of the house of God.

Then Solomon called together the elders of Israel, and all the chiefs of the tribes, the ancestral leaders of the sons of Israel, unto Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh out of the city of David, the same is Zion. And all the men of Israel came together unto the king, in the festival, the same was the seventh month. And all the elders of Israel came in, and the Levites bare the ark; and they brought up the ark, and the tent of meeting, and all the holy utensils, that were in the tent, the priests the Levites did bring them up. And King Solomon, and all the assembly of Israel who assembled themselves unto him, before the ark, were sacrificing sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor could they be counted, for multitude. And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of Yahweh into the place thereof, into the shrine of the house, into the holy of holies, into [the place] beneath the wings of the cherubim; for the cherubim were spreading forth two wings, over the place of the ark, so that the cherubim formed a covering over the ark and over the staves thereof, from above. And those were drawn out the staves, and the heads of the staves could be seen out of the ark, in front of the shrine, although they could not be seen on the outside,—and it came to pass that they had remained there,—unto this day. There was nothing in the ark save only the two tables, which Moses placed therein in Horeb, when Yahweh made a covenant with the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of Egypt.

And it came to pass when the priests came forth; out of the holy place, for all the priests who were present had hallowed themselves, they had no need to observe the courses; and the Levites who were the singers, even all of them pertaining to Asaph, to Heman, to Jeduthun, and to their sons and to their brethren, arrayed in white linen, with cymbals and with harps and lyres stood eastward of the altar, and, with them priests to the number of a hundred and twenty, blowing with trumpets; then came it to pass when the trumpeters and the singers were as one to make one sound to be heard in offering praise and giving thanks unto Yahweh—yea when they did lift on high the voices, with the trumpets and with the cymbals and with the instruments of song, yea in offering praise unto Yahweh—

For he is good,
For age-abiding is his lovingkindness.

That the house was filled with the cloud of the glory of Yahweh; and the priests could not stand to minister, by reason of the cloud, for the glory of Yahweh filled the house of God.

§ 5. Solomon dedicates the Temple by an Introductory Speech, a Recitative Benediction, and an Intercessory Prayer.

Then said Solomon,—%

Yahweh said, that he would make his habitation in thick gloom; A settled place for thee to abide in, for ages.

And the king turned about his face, and blessed all the convocation of Israel,—while all the convocation of Israel was standing; and he said, Blessed be Yahweh, God of Israel, who spake with his mouth, unto David my father,—and with his hand hast fulfilled, saying:

<From the day I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt> I made choice of no city, out of all the tribes of Israel, for building a house; where my Name might be, neither made I choice of any man, to be chief ruler over my people Israel: nevertheless I have made choice of Jerusalem, that my Name might be there,—and I have made choice of David, that he might be over my people Israel.

And so it came to pass, that it was near the heart of David my father,—to build a house, to the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel.

Then said Yahweh unto David my father,

Because it was near thy heart to build a house for my Name thou didst well that it was near thy heart:

Only thou thyself must not build the house,—but thy own son, that proceedeth out of thy loins—he shall build the house for my Name.

So then Yahweh hath established his word, which he spake,—and I have been raised up instead of David my father, and have taken my seat upon the throne of Israel, as spake Yahweh this place, and have built the house to the Name of Yahweh, God of Israel; and have put there, the ark,— wherein is the covenant of Yahweh,— which he solemnised with the sons of Israel.

Then stood he before the altar of Yahweh, in the presence of all the congregation of Israel,— and spread forth his hands; for Solomon had made a platform of bronze, and had set it in the front of the enclosure, five cubits the length thereof, and five cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height thereof,— and he stood thereon, and knelt upon his knees, in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands, heavenward; and said.

O Yahweh! God of Israel,

<Not like unto thee> is there a god, in the heavens, or throughout the earth,— who keepeth Covenant and Lovingkindness for thy servants who are walking before thee with all their heart: who hast kept, for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him,— in that thou didst promise with thy mouth, and with thy hand hast fulfilled as it is this day.

Now therefore, O Yahweh— God of Israel, keep thou, for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him, saying,

There shall not be cut off to thee a man, from before me, to sit upon the throne of Israel,— if only thy sons take heed to their way, to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

Now therefore, O Yahweh— God of Israel, verified be thy promise, which thou didst make unto thy servant David. But <in very deed> will God dwell with man on the earth? Lo! the heavens, even the heavens of heavens I cannot contain thee, how much less this house which I have built! Wilt thou then turn unto the prayer of thy servant and unto his supplication, O Yahweh my God,— to hearken unto the cry and unto the prayer, wherewith thy servant is praying before thee: that thine eyes may be open toward this house, day and night, toward the place of which thou hast said thou wouldst set thy Name there,— to hearken unto the prayer which thy servant may pray towards this place: wilt thou therefore hearken unto the supplications of thy servant, and thy people Israel, when they shall pray toward this place,— yea wilt thou thyself hear, out of thine own dwelling-place, out of the heavens, and <when thou hearest> then wilt thou forgive?

If a man shall sin against his neighbour, and there shall be laid upon him an oath, to put him on oath,— and an oath shall come before thine altar in this house> then wilt thou thyself hear out of the heavens, and act, and judge thy servants, bringing back unto the lawless, to set his way upon his own head,— and justifying the righteous, by giving to him, according to his righteousness?

Or <if thy people Israel be smitten before an enemy, because they have been sinning against thee,— and they turn, and confess thy Name, and pray and make supplication before thee, in this house> then wilt thou thyself hear out of the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel,— and bring them back unto the soil, which thou didst give to them and to their fathers?

When the heavens are shut up and there is no rain, because they have been sinning against thee,— and they shall pray towards this place, and shall confess thy Name, [from their sin] shall return, because thou hast been afflicting them; then wilt thou thyself hear out of the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and thy people Israel, that thou mayest direct them into the good way, wherein they should walk,— and give rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people, for an inheritance?

When there shall be [a famine] in the land, when there shall be [a pestilence]— when there shall be [blasting or mildew, locust or caterpillar]— when their enemy shall besiege them in the land at their own gates— whatsoever plague or whatsoever sickness;— whatsoever prayer, whatsoever supplication, which any son of earth may have, or any of thy people Israel,— when any man shall come to know his plague, or his pain, and so he shall spread abroad his hands towards this house>— then wilt thou thyself hear out of the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them back unto the soil, which thou didst give to them and to their fathers?

Moreover also <unto the stranger who is not of thy people Israel, but he shall come in out of a far country— for the sake of thy great Name, and of thy strong hand, and of thine outstretched arm, and so they shall come in and pray towards this house, then will I hear [thereby] hear thine supplication, and answer thine prayer. And when they sin against thee—there is no* of thine abode, and do all for which the stranger* shall cry unto thee, to the and that all the peoples of the earth may know thy Name, so as to revere thee like thy people Israel, and know that [thy Name]* hath been given unto this house, which I have built?

<When they shall go forth to war against their enemies, whithersoever thou mayest send them,—and shall pray unto thee in the direction of this city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name> 30 then wilt thou hear, out of the heavens, their prayer and their supplication,—and maintain their right. b

<When they sin against thee—for there is no* son of earth who sinneth not—and thou shalt be angry with them, and deliver them up before an enemy,—who shall carry them away as their captives into a land—far away or near; 32 and they come back to their right mind,* in the land whither they have been taken captive,—and so turn and make supplication unto thee in the land of their captivity, saying, We have sinned, we have done perversely, and been lawless;— and so turn unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captive,—and shall pray in the direction of this city which thou hast chosen, and unto the house which I have built for thy Name> 30 then wilt thou hear, out of the heavens—out of the settled place of thine abode,—their prayer and their supplications,—and maintain their right. b

§ 7. Divine Answer to Solomon's Dedicatory Prayer, closed with Solemn Warnings.

8 Then appeared Yahweh unto Solomon by night,—and said to him, I have heard thy prayer, and have made sacrifices,—and [the glory of Yahweh] filled the house; * so that the priests could not enter into the house of Yahweh,—because the glory of Yahweh filled the house of Yahweh; 3 and all the sons of Israel< seeing the descending of the fire and the glory of Yahweh upon the house> then knelt they down with their faces toward the ground, upon the pavement, and bowed themselves in prostration, and gave thanks unto Yahweh.

For he is good,
For <<age-abiding<> is his lovingkindness.

4 And [the king and all the people] were offering sacrifice before Yahweh.
5 And King Solomon offered a sacrifice—of oxen twenty-two thousand, and of sheep a hundred and twenty thousand, and so the king and all the people dedicated the house of God; 6 while [the priests] over their charges were standing, [the Levites also] with the instruments for the songs of Yahweh,* which David the king had made, for giving thanks unto Yahweh.

For <<age-abiding<> is his lovingkindness, when David offered praise by their means,—and [the priests] kept on blowing trumpets over against them, while [all Israel] were standing.

7 And Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of Yahweh, for he offered there the ascending-sacrifices, and the fat portions of the peace-offerings,—because [the altar of bronze which Solomon* had made] was not able to receive the ascending-sacrifice and the meal-offering and the fat portions.

8 And Solomon made a festival—at that time—for seven days, and all Israel with him, an exceeding great convocation,—from the entering in of Hamath, unto the ravine of Egypt. 9 And they made, on the eighth day, a closing feast,—because <the dedication of the altar> they had kept seven days and a festival seven days.

10 And <on the twenty-third of the seventh month> he sent the people away to their own homes, rejoicing and glad in heart, over the goodness which Yahweh had performed unto David and unto Solomon, and unto Israel his people.

11 Thus Solomon finished the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—and <<all that had come in upon the heart of Solomon, to do in the house of Yahweh and in his own house> be prosperously executed.
And it came to pass <at the end of twenty years, wherein Solomon had built the house of Yahweh, and his own house> 2 that the cities which Huram had given to Solomon Solomon built them,—and caused [the sons of Israel] to dwell there.

And Solomon went to Hamath-zobah,—and prevailed against it; 4 and he built Tadmor, in the wilderness,—and all the store cities, which he built in Hamath; 5 and he built Beth-horon, the upper, and Beth-horon, the nether,—forti fied cities, with walls, and doors and bars; 6 and Baalath, and all the store cities which pertained to Solomon, and all the chariot cities, and the cities of the horsemen,—and every delight of Solomon which he delighted to build in Jerus alem, and in the Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.

As for all the people that were left, of the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perinazites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, who were not of Israel; 7 of their sons who were left after them in the land, whom the sons of Israel had not utterly destroyed> Solomon enrolled them as tributary—unto this day. 8 But <of the sons of Israel> were there none whom he delivered up as bondmen* unto his work,—for they were men of war, and his captains and his heroes, and captains over his chariots, and his horsemen. 9 ||These|| moreover, were the chiefs of his officers whom King Solomon had, two hundred and fifty,—who wielded dominion over the people.

And <the daughter of Pharaoh> Solomon brought up, out of the city of David, unto the house which he had built for her,—for he said.

A wife of mine must not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, for holy' are those places whereinto the ark of Yahweh hath come.

||Then|| Solomon offered up ascending-sacri cifices, unto Yahweh,—upon the altar of Yahweh, which he had built before the porch: 10 even according to the duty of each a day upon [its own] day, offering up according to the com mandment of Moses, for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the appointed feasts, three times in the year,—in the festival of un leavened cakes and in the festival of weeks, and in the festival of booths; 11 and he caused to stand according to the regulation of David his father, the courses of the priests over their service and of the Levites over their charges, to offer praise and to minister before the priests, for the duty of each day upon its own day, and the gate-keepers in their courses, at every several gate,—for <such> was the command ment of David the man of God; 12 neither departed they from the commandment* of the king, concerning the priests and the Levites as to any duty, or as to the treasuries. 13 So all the work of Solomon was prepared, from the day of founding the house of Yahweh, even as far as the finishing thereof,—complete' was the house of Yahweh.

||Then|| went Solomon to Ezion-geber, and unto Eloth on the seashore in the land of 10 Moreover also the servants of Huram;

12 And King Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, besides [a return for] that which she had brought unto the king,—so she turned, and went away to her own land, [she, and her servants].

§ 9. Visit of the Queen of Sheba. (Cp. I K. x.)

9 And [the queen of Sheba] heard the report of Solomon, so she came to prove Solomon with abstruse questions, in Jerusalem, with a very great train, and camels bearing spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones,—and when she was come to Solomon> she spake with him, as to all that was near her heart. 2 And Solomon answered her all her questions,—and there was nothing hidden from Solomon, which he told her not. 3 And <when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon,—and the house which he had built; * and the food of his table, and the seats of his servants, and the standing of his attendants, with their apparel, and his cupbearers, and their apparel, and his ascent whereby he used to ascend the house of Yahweh> then was there in her no more spirit.

5 And she said unto the king.

True was the word, which I heard in my own land,—concerning thine affairs, and concerning thine wisdom.

6 Howbeit I believed not their words, until I had come and mine own eyes' had seen, when lo! there had not been told me, the half of the fulness of thy wisdom,—thou dost exceed the report which I heard. 7 How happy! are thy men, and how happy! are these thy servants,—who are standing before thee continually, and hearing thy wisdom.

8 Yahweh thy God be blessed, who hath delighted in thee, to set thee upon his throne as king' unto Yahweh thy God. *Because of the love of thy God unto Israel, to establish them unto times age-abiding> therefore hath he set thee over them, as king, to execute justice and righteousness.

9 And she gave unto the king, a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance, and precious stones,—and there was none, like that spice, which the queen of Sheba gave unto King Solomon.

10 Moreover also the servants of Huram, and the servants of Solomon, who brought gold from Ophir, brought sandal-wood and precious stones.

11 And the king made of the sandal-wood, stairs unto the house of Yahweh, and unto the house of the king, also lyres and harps, for the singers,—and there were none seen like them before, in the land of Judah.

13 Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year, was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold; 14 besides what came in from the subjugated, and what the travelling merchants were bringing in,—and all the kings of Arabia and the princes of the land, were bringing gold and silver, unto Solomon.

15 And King Solomon made two hundred shields of beaten gold,—six hundred [shekels] of beaten gold, one shield; 16 also three hundred bucklers of beaten gold,—three hundred [shekels] of gold, one buckler,—and the king placed them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

17 And the king made a great throne of ivory,—and overlaid it with pure gold; 18 and there were six steps to the throne, and a footstool in gold, <unto the throne> made fast, and supports, on this side and on that, unto the seat,—and two lions standing by the supports; 19 and twelve lions standing there upon the six steps, on this side and on that,—there was never made the like for any kingdom. 20 And all the drinking vessels of King Solomon were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of purified gold,—there was no silver, it was esteemed, in the days of Solomon, [as nothing]. 21 For the ships of the king used to go to Tarshish, with the servants of Huram,—once in three years—came in the ships of Tarshish, bearing gold and silver, ivory and apes, and peacocks.

22 And so King Solomon became greater than all the kings of the earth,—as to riches, and wisdom.

23 And all the kings of the earth were seeking the face of Solomon,—to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart; 24 and they were bringing in every man his present—utensils of silver, and utensils of gold, and mantles, armour, and spices; horses and mules,—the need of a year in a year.

25 And Solomon had four thousand stalls of horses, and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen,—and he settled them in the chariot cities, and with the king in Jerusalem. And he ruled over all the kings, —from the river [Euphrates], even up to the land of the Philistines, yea up to the bounds of Egypt.

26 And the king made the silver in Jerusalem like the stones,—and <the Cedar trees> made he like the sycomores which are in the lowland, for abundance. 27 And they used to bring horses... out of Egypt unto Solomon, and out of all lands.

* Now the rest of the acts of Solomon, first and last, are not written in the records of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer, concerning Jeroboam son of Nebat. 10 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David his father; and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

§ 11. Rehoboam succeeds Solomon; loses Ten Tribes; is punished by an Egyptian Invasion under Shishak.

10 Then spake with him the young men who had grown up with him, saying, Thy father made our yoke oppressive,— and they spake unto him saying. If thou wilt be kind to this people, and please them, and speak unto them kind words, then will they be thy servants, all the days.

5 And he said unto them, Yet three days — and then return unto me,— and the people departed. 6 Then King Rehoboam took counsel with the old men, who had been standing before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying,— How do ye counsel that we should return unto this people? 7 And they spake unto him saying, If thou wilt be kind to this people, and please them, and speak unto them kind words — then will they be thy servants, all the days.

8 But he declined the counsel of the old men, which they gave him,— and took counsel with the young men who had grown up with him, who were standing before him. 9 And he said unto them, What do ye counsel that we should return as answer unto this people,—who have spoken unto me saying, Lighten thou somewhat the yoke, which thy father put upon us? 10 Then spake with him the young men who had grown up with him, saying, *Thus shalt thou speak unto the people who have spoken unto thee saying, *Thy father made our yoke heavy, Thou therefore, lighten somewhat our yoke.

11 Thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger is thicker than my father's loins; So Jeroboam, on the third day,—as the king spake, said, Return unto me on the third day.

12 And the king answered them harshly,—and King Rehoboam declined the counsel of the old men; 13 and spake unto them according to the counsel of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, 14 But I will add to your yoke,— My father chastised you with whips, 15 But I will chastise you with scorpions. 16 And <when all Israel> saw that the king hearkened not unto them> the people answered the king, saying— What portion have we in David, Or inheritance in the son of Jesse? Every man to your homes, O Israel! [Now] see to thine own house, O David! And all Israel departed to their homes. 17 But <as for the sons of Israel who were dwelling in the cities of Judah> Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then King Rehoboam sent Hadoram, who was over the tribute, and the sons of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died. So <King Rehoboam> hasted to mount his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 Thus Israel rebelled against the house of David—unto this day. 1 And when Rehoboam had entered Jerusalem, he called together the house of Judah and Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand chosen men, warriors,—to fight against Israel, to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam. 2 Then came the word of Yahweh, unto Shemaiah the man of God, saying: 3 Speak unto Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah,—and unto all Israel in Judah and in Benjamin, saying: 4 Thus saith Yahweh, Ye shall not go up neither shall ye fight against your brethren, return every man to his own house, for <from me> hath this thing been brought about. So they hearkened unto the words of Yahweh, and turned back from going against Jeroboam.

5 And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem,—and built cities for defence, in Judah; 6 yea he built Bethlehem and Etam, and Tekoa; 7 and Beth-zur and Soco, and Adullam; 8 and Gath

* Or: *"brining about." *Bo some cod. (w. 1 K. xii. 14, 6 ear. pr. ends., Sep., Syr., Vul.) have: "saw" — G.n. [M. C. T.: "I will make" (b)]. and Mareshah, and Ziph; 9 and Adoraim and Lachish, and Azekah; 10 and Zorah, and Aijalon and Hebron, which are in Judah and Benjamin, as fortified cities. 11 And he strengthened the fortified places, and put therein captains, and stores of food, and oil and wine; 12 and in every several city shields and spears, and made them exceedingly strong, thus Judah and Benjamin remained his.

13 And the priests and Levites that were in all Israel took their stand with him, out of all their boundaries. 14 For the Levites left their pasture lands, and their possessions, and came to Judah, and to Jerusalem, for Jeroboam and his sons cast them off, from ministering as priests unto Yahweh; 15 and appointed for himself priests for the high places, and for the demons, and for the calves which he had made. 16 And after them out of all the tribes of Israel such as were setting their heart to seek Yahweh God of Israel came to Jerusalem, to sacrifice unto Yahweh, God of their fathers.

17 So they strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and emboldened Rehoboam son of Solomon, for three years, for they walked in the way of David and Solomon, for three years.

18 And Rehoboam took him to wife, Mahalath, daughter of Jerimoth, son of David, and Abihail, daughter of Eliab, son of Jesse; and she bare him sons, Jeush and Shemariah and Zaham. 20 And after her he took Maacah, daughter of Absalom, and she bare him Abijah and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

19 And Rehoboam loved Maacah daughter of Absalom, above all his wives and his concubines, for eighteen wives took he, and sixty concubines, and begat twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters. 20 So then Rehoboam appointed Abijah son of Maacah as head, to be chief ruler among his brethren, that he might make him king. 21 So he took heed, and dispersed all his sons throughout all the lands of Judah and Benjamin, unto all the fortified cities, and gave them food in abundance, and asked a multitude of wives.

21 And it came to pass when Rehoboam had established the kingdom, and had strengthened himself he forsook the law of Yahweh, and all Israel with him. 2 And so it came to pass in the fifth year of King Rehoboam that Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, because they had dealt treacherously against Yahweh; 3 with twelve hundred chariots, and with sixty thousand horsemen, and without number the people who came with him out of Egypt—Lybians, Sukkim, and Ethiopians. 4 And he captured the cities of defence which belonged to Judah, and came as far as Jerusalem.

5 And Shemaiah the prophet came unto Rehoboam, and the rulers of Judah, who had gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said unto them, 6 Therefore have left [me], and said, 7 And [Shemaiah the prophet] came unto Rehoboam, and the rulers of Judah, and said unto them, 8 And he strengthened the fortified places, and put therein captains, and stores of food, and oil and wine; 9 and <in every several city> shields and spears, and made them exceedingly strong, thus Judah and Benjamin remained his.

10 And when Yahweh saw that they humbled themselves, the word of Yahweh came unto Shemaiah, saying— They have humbled themselves, I will not destroy them, but will grant them, in a little while, to escape, and my wrath shall not be poured out upon Jerusalem, by the hand of Shishak.

11 Nevertheless they shall become his servants, that they may know my service, and the service of the kingdoms of the countries.

12 So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the house of the king the whole he took, and he took the bucklers of gold, which Solomon had made. 13 And King Rehoboam made, instead of them, bucklers of bronze, and committed them unto the hand of the captains of the runners, who kept guard at the entrance of the house of the king. 14 And so it was whensoever the king came into the house of Yahweh the runners came and bare them, and then returned them into the chamber of the runners. 15 But when he humbled himself, then turned from him the anger of Yahweh, that he would not destroy, to make an end, moreover also in Judah there were some good things.

16 So King Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem, and reigned, because forty-one years old was Rehoboam when he began to reign, and seventeen years reigned he in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh had chosen, to set his Name there, from among all the tribes of Israel, and the name of his mother was Naamah, the Ammonitess. 17 But he did evil, in that he did not fix his heart to seek Yahweh.

18 Now the story of Rehoboam, first and last, is it not written in the story of Shemaiah the prophet and Iddo the seer, for enrolling,—also the wars of Rehoboam and Jeroboam, all the days?

19 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David, and Abijah his son reigned in his stead.
In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, as for us, Yahweh!! is our God.

Abijah and Jeroboam set in array against him to battle, with eight hundred thousand chosen men, heroes of valour. Abijah stood up upon Mount Zemaraim, which is in the hill country of Ephraim, and said:

Hear me, O Jeroboam and all Israel!

Is it not yours to know, that Yahweh God of Israel: gave the kingdom to David, over unto times age-abiding; to his sons, by a covenant of salt? Yet hath Jeroboam son of Nebat, servant of Solomon son of David, risen up, — and rebelled against his lord.

And there are gathered unto him vain men, sons of the Abandoned One, who emboldened themselves against Rehoboam son of Solomon, — when Rehoboam was young and tender of heart, and had not strengthened himself to meet them.

Now therefore, ye are thinking to strengthen yourselves against the kingdom of Yahweh, in the hand of the sons of David, — and ye are a great multitude, and with you are calves of gold, which Jeroboam hath made you for gods.

Have ye not driven out the priests of Yahweh, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, — and made for yourselves priests like the peoples of the countries? Whosoever cometh to install himself with a young bullock, and seven rams, then becometh he a priest unto the no-gods.

But as for us, Yahweh is our God, and we have not forsaken him, — and the priests who are waiting upon Yahweh are sons of Aaron, with Levites in the work; and they are making a perfume unto Yahweh, with ascending-sacrifices morning by morning, and evening by evening and an incense of sweet spices, and are putting in order the lamps thereof, for lighting up evening by evening, for observant are we of the charge of Yahweh our God, — whereas ye have forsaken him.

And lo! with us as Head is God himself, and his priests, and the trumpets of alarm.

“Ephron,” written:

Ephraim, read. In some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): “Ephron” is both written and read — (t. n.) pl. — G. N.

§ 12. Abijah suceeds Rehoboam; enters into a successful Conflict with Jeroboam, and dies.

13 But Jeroboam sent round an ambush, to come up from behind them, — so they were before Judah and the ambush did come up from behind them. And when Judah turned and lo! the battle was before and behind then made they outcry unto Yahweh, — and the priests kept on blowing with the trumpets.

Then the men of Judah gave a shout, — and it came to pass when the men of Judah shouted then God himself smote Jeroboam and all Israel, before Abijah and Judah.

And the sons of Israel fled from before Judah, — and God delivered them into their hand. And Abijah and his people smote among them with a great smiting, — and there fell down slain, of Israel, five hundred thousand chosen men.

Thus were the sons of Israel subdued at that time, — and the sons of Judah prevailed, because they leaused upon Yahweh the God of their fathers.

And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and captured from him, cities, even Bethel, with the villages thereof, and Jeshanah, with the villages thereof, — and Ephron, with the villages thereof; neither was Jeroboam strong any more, in the days of Abijah, — and Yahweh smote him that he died.

And Abijah strengthened himself, and took him, fourteen wives, — and begat twenty-two sons, and sixteen daughters.

And <the rest of the story of Abijah, both his ways and his words>, — are written, in the commentary of the prophet Iddo.

§ 13. The Reign of Asa, a good and victorious King, who, however, sins, and is punished before he dies.

So Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Asa his son reigned in his stead, — in his days the land rested ten years.

And Asa did that which was good and that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh his God; and took away the foreign altars, and the high places, — and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut in twain the Sacred Steins; and bade Judah seek Yahweh, God of their fathers, — and execute the law and the commandment; and removed from all the cities of Judah, the high places, — and the sun-images, — the kingdom became quiet before him. And he built cities of defence, in Judah, — for the land had quiet, nor was there near him any war.

in these years, because Yahweh had given him rest.

5 Therefore said he to Judah,

Let us build these cities, and let us surround them with walls and towers, doors and bars, while the land is yet before us, for we have sought Yahweh our God, we have sought him, and he hath given us rest on every side.

So they built, and prospered.

8 And it came to pass that Asa had a force bearing shield and spear, out of Judah three hundred thousand, and out of Benjamin such as bare a buckler and trode a bow, two hundred and eighty thousand,—all these were heroes of valour.

9 Then came out against them Zerah the Ethiopian, with a force of a thousand thousand, and three hundred chariots,—and he came as far as Mareshah. 10 And Asa went out to meet him,—and they set in array for battle, in the valley of Zaphonah, at Mareshah. 11 Then Asa cried out unto Yahweh his God, and said, O Yahweh, it is nothing with thee to help whether with many or with such as have no strength.

Help us, O Yahweh our God, for do we lean, and in thy name have we come against this multitude,—O Yahweh! our God thou art, let not weak man have power against thee.

12 So Yahweh smote the Ethiopians, before Asa, and before Judah. — and the Ethiopians fled. 13 And Asa and the people that were with him pursued as far as Gerar, and the Ethiopians fell, so that there was no way for them to recover, for they were routed before Yahweh, and before his host,—and they carried away exceeding much spoil.

14 And they smote all the cities round about Gerar, for the dread of Yahweh was upon them,—and they plundered all the cities, for great plunder was there in them. 15 Moreover also the tents of the cattle they smote,—and carried off sheep in abundance, and camels, and returned to Jerusalem.

15 Now <as for Azariah son of Oded> there came upon him, the spirit of God. 2 So he went forth to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear me, O Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin,—Yahweh is with you, so long as ye are with him, and if ye seek him he will be found of you, but if ye forsake him he will forsake you.

3 Now many days had Israel been, without the faithful God, and without a teaching priest, and without the law; 4 But they turned, in their distress, unto Yahweh God of Israel,—and sought him, and he was found of them.

5 And <in those times> there had been no prosperity, to him that went out nor to him that came in,—for great consternations were upon all the inhabitants of the lands; and they were beaten in pieces—nation against nation, and city against city.—for God discomfited them with all manner of distress.

6 Ye therefore, be strong, and let not your hands be slack,—for there is a reward for your work!

8 And <when Asa heard these words and the prophecy of Oded the prophet> he strengthened himself, and put away the abominations out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had captured out of the hill country of Ephraim,—and renewed the altar of Yahweh, that was before the porch of Yahweh.

9 And he gathered together all Judah and Benjamin, and the sojourners with them, out of Ephraim and out of Manasseh, and out of Simeon,—for they fell unto him out of Israel, in great numbers, because they saw that Yahweh his God was with him. 10 So they gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem, in the third month of the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa. 11 And they sacrificed unto Yahweh, on that day, of the spoil they had brought in,—seven hundred, and sheep seven thousand.

12 And they entered into a covenant, to seek Yahweh, God of their fathers,—with all their heart, and with all their soul; and whosoever would not seek unto Yahweh God of Israel should be put to death,—whether small or great, whether man or woman. 13 So they bound themselves by oath unto Yahweh, with a loud voice, and with shouting,—and with trumpets and with horns. 14 And all Judah rejoiced over the oath, for with all their heart had they sworn, and with all their good will had they sought him, and he was found of them,—and Yahweh gave them rest round about. 15 Moreover also <as touching Maacah mother of Asa the king> he removed her from being queen, because she had made, unto the Sacred Stem, a monstrous thing,—so Asa cut down her monstrous thing, and reduced it to dust, and burnt it up, in the Kidron ravine. 16 But <the high places were not taken away out of Israel,—only the heart of Asa was perfect, all his days.> 17 And he brought the hallowed things of his father and his own hallowed things, into the house of God,—silver and gold, and utensils.

18 And war was there none,—until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.

19 And war was there none,—until the thirty-sixth year of the reign of Asa. 2 Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah,—that he might let none come out or go in, unto Asa king of Judah.

2 So Asa brought forth silver and gold, out of the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and of the king's treasure house.
of the treasuries of the house of Yahweh, and the house of the king,—and sent unto Benbadad, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying:
3 [Let there be] a covenant, between me and thee, between my father and thy father.
4 Lo! I have sent thee silver and gold, go break this covenant with Baasha, king of Israel, that he may go up from me.
5 And Ben-badad hearkened unto King Asa, and sent the chieftains of the forces which he had, against the cities of Israel, and smote Ijon and Dan, and Abel-maim,—and all the storehouses of the cities of Naphtali.
6 And it came to pass <when Baasha heard it> he left off building Ramah,—and let his work cease. 6 And ||Asa the king|| took all Judah, and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timbers thereof, which Baasha had used in building,—and he built therewith, Geba and Mizpah.
7 And <at that time> came Hanani the seer, unto Asa the king of Judah,—and said unto him,
8 <Because thou hast leaned upon the king of Syria, and hast not leaned upon Yahweh thy God> ||for this cause|| hast the force of the king of Syria escaped out of thy hand.
9 Were not ||the Ethiopians and the Lybians|| a huge host, with chariots and horsemen exceeding many? yet <because thou didst lean upon Yahweh> be delivered them into thy hand.
10 For <as touching Yahweh> <[seeing that] [his eyes] are ever running to and fro throughout all the earth, to shew himself strong with them who are perfect toward himself> thou hast made thyself foolish over this,—for <from henceforth> there shall be with thee—wars.
11 Then was Asa angry with the seer, and put him in the house of the stocks, for he was in a rage with him, over this,—and Asa oppressed some of the people, at that time.
12 But lo! <the story of Asa, first and last> there it is written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.
13 And Asa became diseased—in the thirty-ninth year of his reign—in his feet, <exceedingly severe> was his disease,—yet <even in his disease> he sought not Yahweh, but unto physicians.
14 And Asa slept with his fathers,—yes he died in the forty-first year of his reign; 14 and they buried him in his own stately sepulchre, which he had hewn for himself in the city of David, and laid him on a couch which was full of sweet spices—yes of various kinds, made by the perfumer's art,—and they burned for him with an exceeding great burning.

§ 14. The Reign of Jehoshaphat: his reforming Zeal and Prosperity; his entangling Alliances with Ahab and Israel; the Invasion of his Land and his signal Deliverance.
1 And Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, 17 —and strengthened himself against Israel;
2 and put forces in all the fortified cities of Judah,—and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had captured.
3 And it came to pass, that ||Yahweh|| was with Jehoshaphat,—because he walked in the first ways of David his father, and sought not unto the Baalim; 4 for <unto the God of his father> he sought, and <in his commandments> he walked,—and not according to the doing of Israel. 5 Therefore did Yahweh establish the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah gave a present unto Jehoshaphat,—and he came to have riches and honour, in abundance.
6 And his heart was encouraged, in the ways of Yahweh,—and he ||yet further|| took away the high places and the Sacred Stems, out of Judah.
7 And <in the third year of his reign> he sent to his rulers, even to Ben-hail and to Obadiah and to Zechariah, and to Nethanel, and to Micaiah,—that they were to teach throughout the cities of Judah; 8 and <with them> Levites, Shemaiah and Nethaniah and Zebadiah and Asahel and Shamiramoth b and Jehonathan, and Adonijah and Tobijah c and Tob-adenijah, Levites,— and <with them> Elishama and Jehoram, priests; 9 and they taught throughout Judah, and <with them> was the book of the law of Yahweh,—so they went round throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.
10 And it came to pass, that ||the dread of Yahweh|| was upon all the kingdoms of the countries, that were round about Judah,—and they warred not against Jehoshaphat.
11 And <from among the Philistines> were they bringing in unto Jehoshaphat a present, and silver as tribute,—even the Arabians: were bringing in unto him flocks, seven thousand seven hundred rams, and seven thousand seven hundred he-goats. 12 And so it came to pass that ||Jehoshaphat|| went on waxing surpassingly great, —and he built, throughout Judah, fortresses and cities for store; 13 and <much business> had he, throughout the cities of Judah,—but ||the men of war, the heroes of valour|| were in Jerusalem.
14 And <these> are the numbers of them, by their ancestral house, —<To Judah> pertained rulers of thousands, Adnah the chief, and <with him> mighty men of valour, three hundred thousand; 15 and <under his direc-
18 And it came to pass, when Jehoshaphat had riches and honour, in abundance, that he contracted, by marriage, affinity with Ahab. So he went down, at the end of some years, unto Ahab, to Samaria, Ahab therefore sacrificed for him, sheep and oxen, in abundance, also for the people whom he had with him, and then persuaded him to go up against Ramoth-gilead. For Ahab king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go up with me to Ramoth-gilead? And he said unto him—

So am I even as thou, and like thy people are my people, and with thee in the war.

4 Then said Jehoshaphat, unto the king of Israel,— Seek, I pray thee, some time today, the word of Yahweh.

5 So the king of Israel gathered together the prophets, four hundred men, and said unto them: Shall we go up against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said—

Go up, and may God deliver it into the hand of the king!

6 Then said Jehoshaphat, Is there not here a prophet of Yahweh besides,—that we may seek [from him]? Then said the king of Israel unto Jehoshaphat— There is yet one man, by whom to seek Yahweh, but [I] hate him, for he is never prophesying concerning me, anything good— but—all his days—evil, [the same] is Micaiah, son of Imla.

Then said Jehoshaphat, Let not the king say [so]!

8 And the king of Israel called for a certain officer,—and said: Haste, Micaiah son of Imla!

9 Now the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, were sitting, each upon his throne, clothed in robes, and they were sitting in an open space, at the entrance of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets were prophesying before them. Then did Zedekiah son of Chenaanah make him horns of iron,—and said—

Thus saith Yahweh,

With these shalt thou push Syria, until they are consumed.

11 And all the prophets were prophesying so, saying—

Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper, and Yahweh will deliver [it] into the hand of the king.

12 And the messenger who went to call Micaiah spake unto him, saying, Lo! [the words of the prophets] with one mouth are good for the king,—be thy word then, I pray thee, like one of theirs, so wilt thou speak good.

13 Then said Micaiah,— By the life of Yahweh, whatsoever my God shall say that must I speak.

14 Now, when he came unto the king, the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And he said, Go ye up and prosper, and may they be delivered into your hand.

15 Then the king said unto him, How many times must [I] be putting thee on oath,—that thou speak unto me nothing but the truth in the name of Yahweh?

16 So he said, I saw all Israel, scattered upon the mountains, like sheep that have no shepherd,—and Yahweh said,—No masters have these! let them return every man unto his own house in peace.

17 Then said the king of Israel unto Jehoshaphat,— Said I not unto thee, He will not prophesy concerning me anything good, but evil?

18 Then said he, Therefore bear ye the word of Yahweh,—I saw Yahweh, sitting upon his throne, and all the host of the heavens standing, on his right hand and his left.

19 Then said Yahweh, Who will persuade Ahab king of Israel, that he may go up and fall in Ramoth-gilead?

And one spake, saying after this manner, and another, saying after that manner.

20 Then came there forth a spirit and stood before Yahweh, and said, [I] will persuade him.

And Yahweh said unto him, Wherewith?

21 And he said, I will go forth and become a spirit of falsehood, in the mouth of all his prophets.
And he said—

Thou mayest persuade, moreover also* thou shalt prevail, go forth, and do *so.

Now therefore, lo! Yahweh hath suffered a spirit of falsehood to be put into the mouth of these thy prophets,—but Yahweh hath spoken concerning thee—[evil].

Then drew near Zedekiah son of Chenaanah, and smote Micaiah upon the cheek,—and said, Which then is the way the spirit of Yahweh passed from me, to speak with thee?

Then said Micaiah,

Lo! thou shalt see, on that day when thou shalt enter into a chamber within a chamber, to hide thyself.

Then said the king of Israel,

Take ye Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon ruler of the city, and unto Joash, son of the king; and ye shall say, Thus saith the king, Put ye this one into the prison,—and feed him with the bread of oppression, and with the water of oppression, until I return in peace.

Then said Micaiah,

If thou do not return in peace, Yahweh hath not spoken by me. And he said, Hear, ye peoples, all!

Then went up the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, against Ramoth-gilead.

And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat,

[I am about] to disguise myself, and enter into the battle, but I will put on thy robes.

So the king of Israel disguised himself, and entered* into the battle. Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of chariots which he had, saying,—Ye shall not fight, with small [or] with great,—save with the king of Israel [alone].

So it came to pass when the chariot-captains saw Jehoshaphat that [they] said, The king of Israel it is.

And they compassed him about, to tight,—but Jehoshaphat made outcry, and Yahweh helped him, yea God allured them away from him.

And so it came to pass when the chariot-captains saw that it was not the king of Israel that they turned back from pursuing him;

but a certain man drawing a bow in his innocence, smote the king of Israel between the shoulder-joints and the coat of mail,—wherefore he said to the charioteer,

Turn thy hand, and convey me out of the host, for I am sore wounded.

But the battle increased on that day, and [the king of Israel] was propping himself up* in the chariot before the Syrians, until evening,—and died at the time of the going in of the sun.

And Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned unto his own house in peace, to Jerusalem.

And there came out to meet him, Jehu son of Hanani, the seer, who said unto King Jehoshaphat, Unto the lawless was it [right] to give help? and on them who hate Yahweh to bestow thy love?

For this cause therefore, there is wrath against thee, from before Yahweh; howbeit [good things] are found with thee,—for that thou hast consumed the Sacred Stems out of the land, and hast fixed thy heart to seek God.

So Jehoshaphat dwelt in Jerusalem,—and he again went forth among the people, from Beer-sheba as far as the hill country of Ephraim, and brought them back unto Yahweh, the God of their fathers.

And he stationed judges in the land, throughout all the fortified cities of Judah, city by city; and said unto the judges, See what ye are doing, inasmuch as not for man must ye judge, but for Yahweh,—who will be with you, in the word of justice.

[Now] therefore, let the dread of Yahweh be upon you,—observe and do, for there is, with Yahweh our God, neither perversity nor respect of persons nor the taking of bribes.

And even in Jerusalem did Jehoshaphat station some of the Levites and the priests, and of the ancestral chiefs of Israel, to pronounce the just sentence of Yahweh, and to settle disputes,—when they returned to Jerusalem.

And they laid charge upon them, saying,—Thus shall ye act, in the fear of Yahweh, faithfully and with an undivided heart.

Any dispute that shall come in unto you from among your brethren who are dwelling in their cities, between blood and blood, between law and commandment and statutes and regulations then shall ye warn them, that they may not become guilty against Yahweh, and so wrath come upon you and upon your brethren,—Thus shall ye act, and not incur guilt.

And lo! Amariah the chief priest is over you as to every matter of Yahweh, and Zebadiah son of Ishmael the chief ruler
And it came to pass after this that the sons of Moab and the sons of Ammon, and some of the Meunim, came against Jehoshaphat, to battle. And there came [some] and told Jehoshaphat, saying,

There is coming against thee, a great multitude, that is coming against us,—well therefore, know not what we shall do, but unto thee are our eyes.

And all Judah were standing before Yahweh,—also their little ones, their wives and their children.

Now, as for Jahaziel son of Zechariah son of Benaiah son of Jeiel son of Mattaniah a Levite, of the sons of Asaph, there came upon him the spirit of Yahweh, in the midst of the congregation: and he said, Give ye heed, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and King Jehoshaphat!

Thus shall ye say unto the princes of Judah, and unto all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and unto all the people that are in it:

As for you, do not fear nor be dismayed, by reason of this great multitude, for not yours is the battle, but [God's].

To-morrow go ye down against them, for lo! there they are coming up by the ascent of Ziz,—and ye shall find them at the end of the ravine, facing the wilderness of Jeruel.

It is not for you to fight in this matter,—take your station, stand still, and see the salvation of Yahweh with you. O Judah and Jerusalem, do not fear, nor be dismayed, to-morrow go ye out to meet them, and Yahweh will be with you.

And Jehoshaphat bowed his head, with his face to the ground,—and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell down before Yahweh, prostrating themselves unto Yahweh. And Levites,—of the sons of the Kohathites and of the sons of the Korahites, stood up to offer praise unto Yahweh, God of Israel, with an exceedingly loud voice.

And when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Mount Seir, to devote and to destroy,—and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, they heliied to cut off every man his* from his brother.

So they rose early in the morning, and went out to the wilderness of Tekoa,—and as they went out> Jehoshaphat stood and said,

Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem,

Trust ye in Yahweh your God, and ye shall be trusted,

Trust ye in his prophets, and ye shall prosper.

And when he had given counsel unto the people, he appointed such as should sing unto Yahweh, and offer praise with holy adorning,—<as they should be going forth before the armed men> that they should be saying,

O give thanks unto Yahweh, For age-abiding is his lovingkindness.

And when they began to sing and to praise, Yahweh had set liers-in-wait against the sons of Ammon, Moab and Mount Seir, who were coming against Judah, and they were smitten. Then rose up the sons of Ammon and Moab against the inhabitants of Mount Seir, to devote and to destroy,—<and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, they helped to cut off every man his neighbour>.

So when Judah came near the watch-tower of the wilderness,—they turned towards the multitude, and lo! there they were, dead bodies fallen to the earth, with none to escape.

And <when Jehoshaphat and his people came near to plunder the spoil of them> they found among them, in abundance, both riches and dead bodies and precious jewels, and they stripped off for themselves, beyond what they could carry away, and they were three days plundering the spoil, for great it was. And on the fourth day they assembled themselves in the vale of Beraun, for there they blessed Yaweh, on this account was the name of that place called The Vale of Beraun — unto this day.

Then turned every man of Judah and Jerusalem, with Jehoshaphat at their head, to go again to Jerusalem with joy; for there they had caused them to rejoice over their enemies. So they came to Jerusalem, with harps and with lutes, and with trumpets, unto the house of Yaweh.

And it came to pass that the dread of God was upon all the kingdoms of the countries, when they heard, that Yaweh had fought against the enemies of Israel. So the kingdom of Jehoshaphat was quiet; for his God gave him rest round about.

Then turned every man of Judah and Jerusalem, with Jehoshaphat at their head, to go against their enemies; and they were three days plundering the spoil, for great it was. And on the fourth day they assembled themselves in the vale of Beraun, for there they blessed Yaweh, on this account was the name of that place called The Vale of Beraun — unto this day.

And it came to pass that the dread of God was upon all the kingdoms of the countries, when they heard, that Yaweh had fought against the enemies of Israel. So the kingdom of Jehoshaphat was quiet, for his God gave him rest round about.

Thus Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah, thirty-five years old was he when he began to reign, and twenty-five years reigned he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. And he walked in the way of his father Asa, and turned not from it, doing that which was right, in the eyes of Yaweh. Howbeit the high places were not taken away, for as yet had the people not fixed their heart unto the God of their fathers.

But the rest of the story of Jehoshaphat, first and last, is there it is written in the book of the Kings of Israel.

Yet after this did Jehoshaphat king of Judah join himself with Ahaziah king of Israel, — he was lawless in his doings; and he joined with him, to make ships to go unto Tarshish, and they made ships in Ezion-geber.

Then prophesied Eliezer son of Dodavahu of Mareshah, against Jehoshaphat, saying,— Because thou hast joined thyself with Ahaziah Yaweh hath broken in pieces thy works. So the ships were wrecked, and were not able to go unto Tarshish.

15. The Wicked Reign of Jehoram (Jehoshaphat’s Son) calls forth a Warning Letter from the Prophet Elijah, which is fearfully fulfilled.

1 And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David, and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead. Now the king of Moab had gone up against Israel, and had taken over all the cities on the side of Gilead.

21 1 And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David, and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead. Now the king of Moab had gone up against Israel, and had taken over all the cities on the side of Gilead.
And Yahweh stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and the Arabians, who were under the direction of the Ethiopians; and they came up against Judah, and forced their way into it, and carried off all the possessions that were found belonging to the house of the king, moreover also his sons and his wives,—so that there was left him never a son, save only Jehoshahaz the youngest of his sons. And after all this Yahweh plighted him in his bowels with an incurable disease. And it came to pass, in a year beyond a year, even when the end of the days of two years had passed—so that his bowels fell out by reason of his disease, that he died, of malignant disease,—and his people made him no burning, like the burning of his fathers.

Thirty-two years old was he when he began to reign, and eight years reigned he in Jerusalem,—and went his way—unregretted, and <though they buried him in the city of David> yet [not in the sepulchres of the kings].

And the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Ahaziah his youngest son king, in his stead, for all the elder sons had the hand of men slain who came in with the Arabians into the camp,—so Ahaziah son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned. Forty-two years old was Jehoram son of Ahab king of Israel, to war against Hazael king of Syria,—and the Syrians smote Joram. And he put him to death, and they buried him, because, said they, he is like the son of Jehoshaphat, whom sought Yahweh with all his heart,—and [not one of the house of Ahab] had ability for the kingdom. But when Athaliah mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she rose up and destroyed all the seed royal of the house of Judah. But Jehoshabeath, daughter of the king, took Joash son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the sons of the king who were being slain, and put him and his nurse in a bedchamber,—so Jehoshabeath daughter of King Jehoram—wife of Jehoiada the priest, for she was the sister of Ahaziah—hid him from the face of Athaliah so that she slew him not. And it came to pass that he was with them, in the house of God, hidden six years,—while Athaliah was reigning over the land.

16. Jehoram's Son and Successor, Ahaziah, counselled by his own wicked mother Athaliah and by the house of Ahab, works wickedness, and is slain in Samaria by Jehu. His Mother usurps the Throne after (as she supposes) having slain all the Seed Royal; from whom, however, the boy Joash is secretly rescued.

§ 17. Jehoiada the Priest secures the Royal Succession to Joash, who reigns well during Jehoiada's life, but then becomes corrupt, slays Jehoiada's faithful son Zechariah, and himself comes to an untimely end.

And in the seventh year Jehoiada strengthened himself, and took the rulers of hundreds—Azariah son of Jeroham, and Ishmael son of Jehohanan, and Azariah son of Obad, and Maaseiah son of Adanah* and Elissaphat son of Zichri—unto himself, in covenant. And they went round throughout Judah, and gathered together the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the ancestral chiefs of Israel,—and they came into Jerusalem. And all the convocation solemnised a covenant in the house of God, with the king,—and he said to them, Lo! the king's son must reign, as spake Yahweh concerning the sons of David.

This is the thing that ye shall do,—<A third of you on the sabbath, both of the priests and of the Levites, as doorkeepers of the porch; a third, being in the house of the king, and a third, at the foundation gate,—and all the

Then brought they forth the king's son, and set him upon the crown and the testimony, and made him king, and Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and said, May the king live!

Then brought they forth the king's son, and set him upon the crown and the testimony, and made him king, and Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and said, May the king live!

So the Levites and all Judah did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they took every man his men, who were coming in on the sabbath, with them who were going out on the sabbath, for Jehoiada the priest dismissed not the courses. And Jehoiada the priest gave unto the captains of hundreds the spears and the bucklers and the shields, which belonged to King David, which were in the house of God. And he caused all the people to stand, even every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right corner of the house as far as the left corner of the house, by the altar and the house, near the king round about.

Then brought they forth the king's son, and set him upon the crown and the testimony, and made him king, and Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and said, May the king live!

Now when Athaliah heard the noise of the people who were running, and those who were praising the king, then she came unto the people in the house of Yahweh; and looked, and lo! the king, standing by his pillar at the entrance, and the captains and the trumpets by the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets, and the singers, with instruments of song, and such as led the offering of praise, then Athaliah rent her garments, and said, Conspiracy! Conspiracy!

Then Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains of hundreds, officers of the force, and said unto them, Take her forth within the ranks, and he that cometh in after her let him be slain with the sword, for said the priest, Ye must not slay her in the house of Yahweh.

So they made way for her, and she came into the entrance of the horse-gate of the house of the king, and they sware her there.

And Jehoiada solemnised a covenant, between himself and all the people, and the king, that they should become a people unto Yahweh.

Then all the people entered into the house of Baal and brake it down, and his altars and his images brake they in pieces, and Mattan the priest of Baal they slew before the altars. And Jehoiada put the oversight of the house of Yahweh into the hand of the priests and the Levites, whom David set by courses over the house of Yahweh, that they might offer up the ascending sacrifices of Yahweh, as it is written in the law of Moses, with rejoicing and with song, under the direction of David.

And he caused gatekeepers to stand, at the gates of the house of Yahweh, that no one who was unclean should, on any account, enter.

Then took he the captains of hundreds and the nobles and the rulers over the people, and all the people of the land, and brought down the king out of the house of Yahweh, and they entered, through the midst of the upper gate, into the house of the king, and they seated the king, upon the throne of the kingdom.

And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet. — when Athaliah they had slain with the sword.

<Seven years old> was Josiah when he began to reign, and <forty years> reigned he, in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Zibiah, of Beersheba. And Josiah did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh, all the days of Jehoiada the priest.

And it came to pass after this, that it was near the heart of Josiah to renew the house of Yahweh. So he gathered together the priests and the Levites, and said unto them—

Go ye out unto the cities of Judah, and gather out of all Israel silver to repair the house of your God, year by year, and ye shall hasten the matter, but the Levites hastened it not.

Then the king called for Jehoiada the chief, and said unto him, Wherefore hast thou not required of the Levites, to bring in out of Judah and out of Jerusalem the tribute of Moses the servant of Yahweh, and of the convocation of Israel, for the tent of testimony?

For as for Athaliah the Lawless her sons brake up the House of God, moreover all the hallowed things of the house of Yahweh offered they unto the Baalim. So the king bade them, and they made a certain chest, and set it in the gate of the house of Yahweh, outside. And they made a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in unto Yahweh the tribute of Moses the servant of God, laid upon Israel in the desert.

And all the rulers and all the people rejoiced, and brought in and cast into the chest, until they had finished.

And it came to pass <what time the chest was brought into the office of the king by the hand of the Levites, and when they had seen that abundant was the silver— that the scribe of the king came in, and the officer of the chief priest, and they emptied the chest, and bare it, and put it back in its place,— thus they did, day by day, and collected silver, in abundance; and the king and Jehoiada gave it unto such as were doing* the work of labouring upon the house of Yahweh, and they were hiring masons and carpenters, to renew the house of Yahweh,— moreover also, such as were fashioners of iron and bronze, to repair the house of Yahweh. So the doers of the work wrought, and the work of restoration went forward, in their hand,— and they caused the house of God to stand forth according to its due proportions, and made it strong. And when they had finished* they brought in before the king and Jehoiada the rest of the silver, and he made it into utensils for the house of Yahweh, utensils of attendance, and bows and spoons, even utensils of gold and silver. Then were they offering ascension-sacrifices in the house of Yahweh, continually, all the days of Jehoiada.

But Jehoiada waxed old and became satisfied with days, and died,— a hundred and thirty years old, when he died. And they buried him in the city of David, with the kings,— because he had done good in Israel, both toward God and his house. Now after the death of Jehoiada came the rulers of Judah, and bowed themselves down unto the king,— then hearkened the king unto them. And he forsook the house of Yahweh, God of his fathers, and served the Sacred Stems, and the images,— so there was wrath against Judah and Jerusalem, for this their guilt. And he sent among them prophets, to bring them back unto Yahweh,— and they testified against them, but they did not give ear. And the spirit of God clothed Zechariah— son of Jehoiada the priest, and he took his stand above the people,— and said unto them,

Thus saith God, Wherefore are ye transgressing the commandments of Yahweh, so that ye cannot prosper, because ye have forsaken Yahweh? therefore hath he forsaken you.

So they conspired against him, and stoned him with stones, by the commandment of the king,— in the court of the house of Yahweh. Thus Joash the king [remembered not] the lovingkindness which Jehoiada his father had done for him, but slew his son,— and as he died* he said, Yahweh see and require!

And it came to pass when the year had gone round* that the force of Syria came up against him, and they entered Judah, and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the rulers of the people, from among the people,— and all the spoil of them sent they unto the king of Damascus. Although with a comparatively few men* came the force of Syria yet delivered into their hand an exceeding large force,— because they had forsaken Yahweh, the God of their fathers,— and (upon Joash) executed they judgments. And when they departed from him, for they left him with some diseases* his own servants conspired against him, for the blood of the son* of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him upon his bed, and he died,— and though they buried him in the city of David,— yet did they not bury him in the sepulchres of the kings. Now these are they that conspired against him,— Zabad son of Shimshith the Ammonites, and Jehozabad son of Shimrith the Moabites.

But as for his sons, and the greatness of the oracle on him, and the foundation of the house of God> lo! there they are written, in the commentary* of the Book of Kings,— and Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

§ 18. The Reign of Amaziah, not wholly good; a victorious War with Edom, a disastrous one with Israel; Amaziah dies in Lachish by conspiracy.

When he began to reign, and twenty-nine years reigned he in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Jehoaddan, of Jerusalem. And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh,— only not with a whole heart.

And it came to pass when the kingdom was confirmed unto him* that he slew his servants who had smitten the king his father: but his sons he put not to death,— but as it is written in the law—in the book of Moses— how that Yahweh commanded, saying— [Fathers] shall not die for [sons], and [Sons] shall not die for [fathers], but each man* for his own sin* shall die.

And Amaziah gathered Judah together, and appointed them by their ancestral houses, as rulers of thousands and as rulers of hundreds, for all Judah and Benjamin,— and he numbered them, from twenty years old and upwards, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, who could grasp spear and shield. And he hired out of Israel, a hundred thousand heroes of valour, for a hundred talents of silver.

7 But ||a man of God|| came unto him, saying, 0 king! let not the host of Israel come with thee,—for Yahweh is not with Israel, [with] any of the sons of Ephraim. 8 But ||if thou art going> do, be strong for the battle,—God will cause thee to fall before the enemy, for there is' strength in God, to help or to cause to fall.

9 And Amaziah said unto the man of God, What then shall be done as to the hundred talents, which I have given to the company of Israel? Then said the man of God, Yahweh is able to give thee much more than this. 10 So Amaziah separated them, [appointing] unto the company which had come unto him out of Ephraim, to depart unto their own place,—wherefore their anger was greatly kindled against Judah, so they returned to their own place, in a heat of anger. 11 And ||Amaziah|| took courage, and led forth his people, and went to the valley of salt,—and smote of the sons of Seir, ten thousand; 12 and the sons of Judah took captive [ten thousand alive], and brought to the top of the crag, and cast them down from the top of the crag, and [all of them] were torn asunder. 13 But ||as for the sons of the company which Amaziah sent back from going with him to the war> they spread themselves out against the cities of Judah, from Samaria, even unto Beth-horon,—and smote of them three thousand, and took great plunder. 14 And so it was <after Amaziah came in from smiting the Edomites> that he brought in the gods of the sons of Seir, and set them up for gods of the sons of Seir, and set them up for gods,—and before them he used to bow himself down, and unto them he used to burn a perfume. 15 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Amaziah,—and he to burn a perfume. 16 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Amaziah,—and he to burn a perfume. 17 Wherefore' hast thou sought the gods of the people, which delivered not their own people out of thy hand? 18 And it came to pass <as he spake unto him> that he said to him, To be <counsellor to the king> have we appointed thee? forbear thou, wherefore' should they smite thee? So the prophet forbade, and said— I know that God hath determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkened unto my counsel. 19 Then Amaziah king of Judah took counsel, and sent unto Joash, son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu king of Israel, saying,— Come, let us look one another in the face! 20 And Joash king of Israel sent unto Amaziah king of Judah, saying, 21 A thistle that was in Lebanon|| sent unto a cedar that was in Lebanon,saying, Come! give thy daughter unto my son to wife,— but there passed by a beast of the field that was in Lebanon, and trampled down the thistle. 22 Thou hast said— Lo! thou hast smitten the Edomites, and thy heart hath lifted thee up to display honour,— [Now|| abide in thine own house, wherefore' shouldst thou engage in strife with Mis-fortune, and fall, ||thou and Judah with thee!]] 23 But Amaziah hearkened not, because <from God> it was', to the end he might deliver them up into [their enemies'] hand,—because they had sought the gods of Edom. 24 So Joash king of Israel came up, and they looked one another in the face, 25, and Amaziah king of Judah,—in Beth-shemesh, which belongeth unto Judah. 26 Then was Judah defeated, before Israel,—and they fled every man to his own home; 27 and ||Amaziah king of Judah, son of Joash son of Jehoahaz|| was taken by Joash king of Israel, in Beth-shemesh,—and he brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim as far as the corner-gate, four hundred cubits; 28 and <all the gold and the silver and all the utensils that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom, and the treasures of the house of the king, and hostages> b [he took],— and returned to Samaria. 29 And Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah lived, after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel,—fifteen years. 30 Now <the rest of the story of Amaziah, first and last> lo! it is written in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. 31 And <after the time that Amaziah turned away from following Yahweh> they made against him a conspiracy in Jerusalem, and he died to Lachish,—but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him there. 32 And they brought him on horses,—and buried him with his fathers in the city of Judah. 33 § 19. The Reign of Uzziah: a Good and Prosperous King, who, however, presumptuously thrusting himself into the Priest's Office, is smitten with Leprony; and his son Jotham acts as Regent. 1 Then all the people of Judah took Uzziah, when [he] was sixteen years old,— and made him king, instead of his father Amaziah. 2 [He] built Eloth, and restored it to Judah,—after that the king slept with his fathers. 3 <Sixteen years old> was Uzziah, when he began to reign, and <fifty-two years> reigned he in Jerusalem,— and [the name of his mother] was Jochilah, of Jerusalem. 4 And he did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to all that Amaziah his father had done.

5 And it came to pass that he set himself to seek God, in the days of Zechariah, who gave understanding in the seeing* of God,—and throughout the days of his seeking Yahweh > God’ [prospered him]. So he went forth and made war against the Philistines, and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod,—and built cities in Ashdod, and among the Philistines. 7 And God helped him against the Philistines and against the Arabians who dwelt in Gur-baal, and the Meunim. 8 And the Ammonites gave a present to Uzziah,—and his name went forth as far as the entering in of Egypt, for he shewed exceeding great strength.

9 And Uzziah built towers, in Jerusalem, over the corner-gate, and over the valley-gate, and over the angle,—and he made them strong. 10 And he built towers in the desert, and dug many wells, for much cattle had he, both in the lowland, and in the plain,—husbandmen and vinedressers, in the mountains and in the fruitful field, for a lover of the soil was he. 11 And it came to pass that Uzziah had a force ready to make war, to go forth as a host in company, by the number of their reckoning, under the direction of Jeiel the scribe, and Maaseiah the officer,—under the direction of Hananiah, from among the captains of the king. 12 The whole number of the ancestral chiefs pertaining to the heroes of valour: was two thousand and six hundred ; and under their direction was the force of a host, three hundred and seven thousand five hundred, ready to make war, with the strength of a force,—for helping the king against an enemy. 14 And Uzziah prepared for them, for all the host, bucklers and spears and helmets, and coats of mail, and bows,—yea even sling-stones. 15 And he made in Jerusalem, inventions invented of the inventor, to be upon the towers and upon the turrets, for throwing with arrows, and with great stones,—so that his name went forth afar, for he was marvellously helped, until that he was strong.

16 But when he became strong > uplifted' was his heart, unto ruin, for he acted unfaithfully against Yahweh his God,—and entered into the temple of Yahweh, to burn incense upon the altar of incense. Then entered after him, Azariah the priest,—and with him eighty priests of Yahweh, sons of valour:* and they took their stand against Uzziah the king, and said unto him—

It is not <for thee> O Uzziah, to burn incense unto Yahweh, but <for the priests, the sons of Aaron, who are hallowed> to burn incense.

Go forth out of the sanctuary, for thou hast acted unfaithfully, and <not to thee, for an honour> shall it be] from Yahweh Elohim.

19 Then was Uzziah wroth, and in his hand was a censer, to burn incense,—and <when he was wroth with the priests> a leprosy, shot forth in his forehead, before the priests, in the house of Yahweh, from off the altar of incense. 20 When Azariah the chief priest and all the priests turned towards him > lo ! [he] was leprous, in his forehead, so they hastened him from thence,—yes even he himself hurried to go out, because Yahweh had smitten him. 21 And it came to pass that Uzziah the king > was a leper until the day of his death, and dwelt in a house apart—a leper, for he was cut off from the house of Yahweh,—and Jotham his son was <over the house of the king, judging the people of the land>

22 Now <the rest of the story of Uzziah, first and last> hath Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, written.

And Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of burial that pertained unto the kings, for they said,— A leper he is'. And Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

§ 20. Jotham’s excellent and prosperous Reign.

1 <Twenty-five years old> was Jotham when he began to reign, and <sixteen years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—and the name of his mother was Jerushah daughter of Zadok. 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that Uzziah his father had done, only’ he entered not into the temple of Yahweh,—though still’ were the people’ acting corruptly. 3 ||He|| built the upper gate of the house of Yahweh,—and <on the wall of Ophel> built he extensively. 4 ||Cities also|| built he, in the hill country of Judah,—and <in the thick woods;’ built he fortresses and towers. ||He|| also made war against the king of the sons of Amnon, and prevailed against them, and the sons of Amnon gave him, during that year, a hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand measures of wheat, and <of barley> ten thousand,— <this> did the sons of Ammon render him, both in the second year, and the third. 6 So Jotham strengthened himself,—for he fixed his ways before Yahweh his God.

7 But <the rest of the story of Jotham, and all his wars, and his ways> lo ! there they are written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

8 <Twenty-five years old> was he when he began to reign,—and <sixteen years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 9 And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him, in the city of David,—and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

28 'Twenty years old' was Ahaz when he began to reign, and <sixteen years> reigned he in Jerusalem, —but he did not that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, like David his father; 2 but walked in the ways of the kings of Israel,—yea, even molten images—made he to the Baalim: 3 and he burned incense in the valley of the son of Hinnom, —and burnt his sons in the fire, according to the abominable ways of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 4 And he sacrificed and burned incense in the high places, and upon the hills,—and under every green tree. 5 Wherefore Yahweh his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria, who smote him, and carried away captive from him a large body of captives, and brought them into Damascus. —yea, even into the hand of the king of Israel; was he delivered, who smote him with a great smiting. 6 And Pekah son of Remaliah slew in Judah, a hundred and twenty thousand in one day, [all] sons of valour,—because they had forsaken Yahweh, God of their fathers. 7 And Zichri a hero of Ephraim, slew Maaseiah son of the king, and Azrikam, chief ruler of the house, —and Elkanah, that was next unto the king. 8 And the sons of Israel [carried away captive] from among their brethren two hundred thousand, wives, sons and daughters, moreover also <of much spoil> did they plunder them,—and brought the spoil to Samaria. 9 But <in that place> was a prophet unto Yahweh, Oded' his name, so he went out to meet the host that was coming unto Samaria, and said unto them, Lo! <in the wrath of Yahweh, God of your fathers, against Judah> hath he delivered them into your hand,—and ye have slain them in a rage, until <to the heavens> it hath reached. 10 [Now] therefore, [ye] are thinking to tread down [the children of Judah and Jerusalem] as servants and as handmaidens for yourselves. But is it not so—that [ye yourselves] are altogether guilty against Yahweh your God? 11 [Now] therefore, hearken unto me, and restore the captives whom ye have taken captive from among your brethren,—for [the glow of the anger of Yahweh] is over you. 12 Then rose up certain of the chiefs of the sons of Ephraim — Azariah son of Jehohanan, a So it abd be; wrong in A.V. and in R.V.

Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah son of Shallum, and Amasa son of Hadlai,—against them who were coming in from the army; 13 and said unto them, Ye shall not bring in the captives hither, for <with guilt against Yahweh already upon us> [ye] are thinking to add unto our sins, and unto our guilt,—for great is the guilt we have, and fierce is the anger over Israel.

14 So the armed men left' the captives, and the plunder, before the rulers, and all the convocation. 15 Then rose up the men who have been expressed by name—and took the captives, and <all who were naked among them> clothed they out of the spoil, and arrayed them and saddled them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and conducted them with asses for every one that was exhausted, a and brought them to Jericho the city of palm-trees, near unto their brethren,—and then returned to Samaria. 16 <At that time> sent King Ahaz unto the kings of Assyria to help him. 17 For again' had [the Edomites] come and smitten Judah, and carried away captives; and the Philistines had spread themselves out against the cities of the lowland and of the south, pertaining to Judah, and had captured Beth-shemesh and Aijalon and Gederoth, and Soco with its villages, and Timnah with its villages, and Gimzo, with its villages,—and dwelt there. 18 For Yahweh had brought Judah low, because of Ahaz king of Israel, a—for he had given the rein in Judah, and [been grievously unfaithful] with Yahweh. 19 And Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria I came against him,—and distressed him, but strengthened him not. 20 For Ahaz took away a portion out of the house of Yahweh, and made for himself altars at every corner in Jerusalem; 21 and made up the doors of the house of Yahweh, —and shut up the doors of the house of Yahweh,—and made for himself altars at every corner in Jerusalem; 23 and <in every several city of Judah> made he high places, for burning incense unto other gods,—and provoked Yahweh, God of his fathers. 26 But <the rest of his story, and all his ways, >

29 And Hezekiah began to reign when he was twenty-five years old, and twenty-nine years reigned he in Jerusalem,—and the name of his mother was Abijah, daughter of Zechariah. 2 And he did that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh, according to all that David his father had done.

3 In the first year of his reign, in the first month, he opened the doors of the house of Yahweh, and repaired them. 4 And he brought in the priests, and the Levites,—and they gathered together in the broadway on the east; 5 and said unto them, Hear me, O Levites!

Now hallow yourselves, and hallow the house of Yahweh, God of your fathers, and take forth the impure thing out of the holy place.

For our fathers have acted unfaithfully and done the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh our God, and have forsaken him, and have turned round their faces from the habitation of Yahweh, and have offered their backs.

Moreover they have shut up the doors of the porch, and have quenched the lamps, and incense have they not burned,—and ascending-sacrifice have they not caused to go up in the holy place, unto the God of Israel.

Thus hath it come to pass, that the wrath of Yahweh hath been upon Judah and Jerusalem,—and he hath delivered them up as a terror and as an astonishment and as a hissing, even as ye can see with your own eyes.

And lo! our fathers have fallen by the sword, and sin-cleansed, with their blood, the altar, to ascend upon the altar of Yahweh. 10 And they slaughtered the rams, and dashed the blood against the altar, and slaughtered the he-goats for bearing sin, before the king, and the priests, and the Levites, and they gathered them together in the broadway on the east; 11 and said unto them, Hear me, O Levites!

Now hallow yourselves, and hallow the house of Yahweh, God of your fathers, and take forth the impure thing out of the holy place.

For our fathers have acted unfaithfully and done the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh our God, and have forsaken him, and have turned round their faces from the habitation of Yahweh, and have offered their backs.

Moreover they have shut up the doors of the porch, and have quenched the lamps, and incense have they not burned,—and ascending-sacrifice have they not caused to go up in the holy place, unto the God of Israel.

house of Yahweh, with cymbals and with harps and with lyres, by the commandment of David, and of Gad the seer of the king, and of Nathan the prophet,— for <by the hand of Yahweh> came the commandment by the hand of his prophets. 26 So the Levites took their stand, with the instruments of David, and the priests, with the trumpets.

27 And Hezekiah gave word, to cause the ascending-sacrifice to go up on the altar,— and <when the ascending-sacrifice began> the singing unto Yahweh began, and the trumpets, even under the direction of the instruments of David, king of Israel. And all the convocation|| were bowing themselves in prostration, and the song was resounding and the trumpets were blowing,— till the completing of the ascending-sacrifice. And <when the offering was complete> the king knelt down and all who were present with him, and bowed themselves in prostration.

28 And Hezekiah the king and the rulers gave word to the Levites, to offer praise unto Yahweh, in the words of David, and of Asaph the seer,— so they offered praise right joyfully, and bent their heads and bowed themselves in prostration. 29 Then responded Hezekiah and said—

1 | Now have ye consecrated yourselves unto Yahweh. Draw near, and bring in sacrifices and thank-offerings unto the house of Yahweh,— so the convocation brought sacrifices and thank-offerings, and everyone of a willing heart brought ascending-sacrifices. 30 And <by your returning unto Yahweh> ye likeyour fathers, or like your brethren, who acted unfaithfully with Yahweh, God of your fathers,— who therefore delivered them up for an astonishment, as ye yourselves can see.

31 For ye do not stiffen your neck, likeyour fathers,— stretch forth the hand unto Yahweh, and enter into his sanctuary which he hath hallowed unto times age-abiding, and serve Yahweh your God, that he may turn from you the glow of his anger. 32 For by your return unto Yahweh ||your brethren and your children ||shall find compassion before their captors, so as to return unto this land. For gracious and compassionate is Yahweh your God, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye will return unto him.

33 Then sent Hezekiah unto all Israel and Judah. Moreover also <letters> wrote he unto Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come unto the house of Yahweh, in Jerusalem,— to keep a passover unto Yahweh, God of Israel.

34 Yes the king and his rulers and all the convocation in Jerusalem, had taken counsel,— to keep the passover in the second month. 35 For they were unable to keep it at that time,— because ||the priests|| had not hallowed themselves in sufficient numbers, and ||the people|| had not gathered themselves unto Jerusalem. 36 And the thing was right, in the eyes of the king,— and in the eyes of all the convocation. 37 So they established a decree, to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan, that they should come in to keep a passover unto Yahweh the God of Israel, in Jerusalem,— for <not for a long time> had they kept it as written.

38 The runners, therefore, went with letters from the hand of the king and his rulers, throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying,—

39 Ye sons of Israel, return ye unto Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, and he will return unto the remnant, that which is left to you, out of the hand of the kings of Assyria. 40 And be not ye like your fathers, or like your brethren, who acted unfaithfully with Yahweh, God of your fathers,— who therefore delivered them up for an astonishment, as ye yourselves can see.

41 Now do not stiffen your neck, likeyour fathers,— stretch forth the hand unto Yahweh, and enter into his sanctuary which he hath hallowed unto times age-abiding, and serve Yahweh your God, that he may turn from you the glow of his anger.

42 For by your return unto Yahweh ||your brethren and your children ||shall find compassion before their captors, so as to return unto this land. For gracious and compassionate is Yahweh your God, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye will return unto him.

43 So the runners were passing from city to city throughout the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun,— but they were laughing them to scorn, and mocking them. 44 Howbeit ||some out of Asher and Manasseh and out of Zebulun|| humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem. 45 Also <upon Judah> came the hand of God, to give them one heart,— to keep the commandment of the king and the rulers, as the word of Yahweh. 46 And there gathered themselves unto Jerusalem much people, to keep the festival of unleavened bread in the second month, even unto Zebulun,— but they were laughing them to scorn, and mocking them.
Then rose they up, and removed the altars, which were in Jerusalem; and all the censors removed they, and cast them into the Kidron ravine. Then slaughtered they the passover, on the fourteenth of the second month, and the priests and the Levites were put to shame, and hallowed themselves, and brought in the ascending-sacrifices of the house of Yahweh. And they stood in their place, according to their regulation, according to the law of Moses, the man of God, — the priests, dashing the blood, which they received, at the hand of the Levites. For there were many in the convocation, who had not hallowed themselves. — but the Levites were over the slaughtering of the passover-lambs, for every one who was not pure, to hallow him unto Yahweh. And the multitude of the people, many out of Ephraim and Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulen, had not purified themselves, for they did eat the passover, otherwise than as was written,—for Hezekiah prayed for them, saying: May Yahweh the Good, put a propitiatory-covering about every one who hath prepared his heart to seek God, even Yahweh, God of his fathers, though not according to the purification of the sanctuary!

And Yahweh hearkened unto Hezekiah, and healed the people.

And so the sons of Israel who were found in Jerusalem kept the festival of unleavened cakes seven days, with rejoicing. For Hezekiah king of Judah presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep,—and the Levites and the priests were offering praise unto Yahweh day by day, with loud instruments unto Yahweh.

And Hezekiah spake unto the hearts of all the Levites who were giving good instruction respecting Yahweh, — and they did eat the appointed feast seven days, sacrificing the peace-offerings, and offering praise unto Yahweh, God of their fathers.

Then all the convocation took counsel, to keep seven days more, — and they kept seven days with rejoicing. For Hezekiah king of Judah presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep, and the rulers presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep, — and the priests in great numbers hallowed themselves. So all the convocation of Judah, and the priests and the Levites, and all the convocation that came in out of Israel rejoiced, — also the sojourners who were coming in out of the land of Israel, and the dwellers in Jerusalem kept the festival of unleavened cakes in the second month, — an exceeding large convocation.

Then rose up the priests the Levites, and blessed the people, and there was a heartening unto their voice, — and their prayer entered into his holy dwelling-place, even into the heavens.

Now when all this was finished all Israel who were present went forth unto the cities of Judah, and brake in pieces the pillars, and cut down the Sacred Stems — and threw down the high places and the altars, out of all Judah and Benjamin— and throughout Ephraim and Manasseh, until they had made an end, — then all the sons of Israel returned every man to his own possession, unto their own cities.

And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the priests and the Levites, over their courses, every man according to the requirements of his service, both priests and Levites, for ascending-sacrifice and peace-offerings, — to be in attendance and to give thanks and to offer praise, in the gates of the camps of Yahweh; also the portion of the king out of his own substance, for the ascending-sacrifices, — even for the ascending-sacrifices, of the morning and of the evening, and the ascending-sacrifices for the sabbaths, and for the new moons and for the appointed feasts, — as written in the law of Yahweh. And he bade the people who were dwelling in Jerusalem give the portion of the priests and the Levites, — to the end they might persevere in the law of Yahweh.

And as soon as the thing spread abroad the sons of Israel caused to abound the firstfruit of corn, new wine, and oil, and honey, and all the increase of the field, — yea, the tithe of all — in abundance brought they in. And as for the sons of Israel and Judah who were dwelling in the cities of Judah, seven, they took a tithe of oxen, and sheep, and a tithe of hallowed things, which had been hallowed unto Yahweh their God, did bring in and pile up — heaps, heaps. In the third month began they the heapes, at the foundation, — and in the seventh they finished.

And Hezekiah and the rulers came, and saw the heaps, — and blessed Yahweh, and his people Israel.

Then all the convocation took counsel, to keep seven days more, — and they kept seven days with rejoicing. For Hezekiah king of Judah presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep, and the rulers presented to the convocation, a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep, — and the priests in great numbers hallowed themselves. So all the convocation of Judah, and the priests and the Levites, and all the convocation that came in out of Israel rejoiced, — also the sojourners who were coming in out of the land of Israel, and the dwellers in Jerusalem. Thus was there great rejoicing, in Jerusalem, — for since the days of Solomon son of David king of Israel there had not been the like of this, in Jerusalem.

Then Hezekiah gave word to prepare chambers, in the house of Yahweh, and they prepared them; and brought in the heavy-offering and the tithe and the hallowed things, faithfully—and under them, as chief ruler, was Cononiah the Levite, and Shimei his brother, next; and Jehiel and Azariah and Nahath and Asahel and Jeremoth and Joazabad, and Eliel and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah,—oversaw under the direction of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, by the appointment of Hezekiah the king, and Azariah the chief ruler of the house of God. And under his direction were Eden and Miniamin and Jeshua and Shemaiah, Amariah and Shecaniah, in the cities of the priests, in trust to give unto their brethren by courses, as the great so the small; besides registering them by males, from three years old and upward, unto every one that entered into the house of Yahweh, in the need of a day upon its day,—by their service, in their watches, according to their courses: both the registering of the priests, by their ancestral houses, and the Levites, from twenty years old and upward,—in their watches, in their courses; even to the registering of all their little ones, their wives and their sons and their daughters, unto all the convocation,—for under their trust they hallowed themselves in holiness; also unto the sons of Aaron the priests in the fields of the pasture land of their cities, in every several city, men who were expressed by name,—to give portions to every male among the priests, and to all registered among the Levites. And Hezekiah did thus, throughout all Judah,—and he did that which was good and right and faithful, before Yahweh his God. And he took courage, and built all the wall outside the city,—and they helped him. And he took courage, and built all the wall and the drawing of the city, and all the field for fortifying cities, and thought to break into the wall of Jerusalem. And he strengthened Millo, the city of David,—and made weapons in abundance, and bucklers, and set captains of war over the people,—and gathered them together unto him in the broadway of the gate of the city, and spake unto their heart, saying,—

Be strong and bold, do not fear neither be dismayed, because of the king of Assyria, nor because of all the multitude that is with him,—for with us is One greater with than with him: an arm of flesh, but with us is Yahweh our God, to help us, and to fight our battles. And the people leaned upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

After this Sennacherib king of Assyria sent his servants towards Jerusalem, himself being near Lachish, and all his imperial might with him,—unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that was in Jerusalem, saying:

Thus saith Sennacherib, king of Assyria,—Upon what are ye trusting, that ye are awaiting the siege in Jerusalem? Is not Hezekiah persuading you, so as to deliver you up to die with hunger and with thirst, saying,—Yahweh our God will deliver us out of the hand of the king of Assyria? Is it not the same Hezekiah who hath removed his high places, and his altars,—and hath given word to Judah and Jerusalem, saying,—Before one altar shall ye bow yourselves down, and thereupon shall ye burn incense?

Will ye not take note, what I have done, I and my fathers, to all the peoples of the countries? Have the gods of the nations of the countries been [at all able] to deliver their country, out of my hand? Who among all the gods of these nations whom my fathers devoted to destruction hath ever been able to deliver his people out of my hand,—that your god should be able to deliver you out of my hand?

Now therefore, do not let Hezekiah beguile you nor persuade you thus, neither do ye believe him. For no god of any nation or kingdom hath ever been able to deliver his people out of my hand, or out of the hand of my fathers,—how much less shall they deliver you out of my hand?

And [yet more] spake his servants, against Yahweh, God,—and against Hezekiah his servant. 17 <Letters> also wrote he, to scoff at Yahweh God of Israel, and to speak against him, saying,

<Like the gods of the nations of the countries, who delivered not their people out of my hand neither shall the god of Hezekiah not deliver his people out of my hand.>

Then cried they out, with a loud voice, in the Jews' language, unto the people of Jerusalem who were upon the wall, to affright them, and to terrify them,—to the end they might capture the city. 19 And they spake against the God b of Jerusalem,—as against the gods of the peoples of the earth, the work a of the hands of men.

And Hezekiah the king and Isaiah c son of Amoz, the prophet, prayed' concerning this,—and made outcry unto the heavens. 21 So Yahweh sent a messenger, who cut off every hero of valour, and chief ruler and captain, in the camp of the king of Assyria,—and he returned with shame of face to his own land, and <when he entered the house of his god> then [the issue of his own body—there] caused him to fall by the sword.

Thus did Yahweh save Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of the hand of Sennacherib king of Assyria, and out of the hand of every one,—and gave them rest on every side.

And [many] were bringing in a present unto Yahweh, to Jerusalem, and precious things unto Hezekiah king of Judah,—so that he was exalted in the eyes of all the nations, from the northforth.

<In those days> was Hezekiah sick unto death,—and <when he prayed unto Yahweh> he was entreated of him a and  he gave him. 8 But <not according to the benefit done unto him> did Hezekiah make return, for uplifted was his heart,—and so there came upon him wrath and upon Judah and Jerusalem. 9 Then Hezekiah humbled himself for the uplifting of his heart, [he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem],—so that the wrath of Yahweh came not upon them, in the days of Hezekiah.

And it came to pass that Hezekiah had riches and honour in great abundance,—and to terrify them,—to the end they might capture the city. 19 And they spake against the God b of Jerusalem,—as against the gods of the peoples of the earth, the work a of the hands of men.

But <the rest of the story of Hezekiah, and his lovingkindnesses>—there they are—written in the visions of Isaiah e son of Amoz, the prophet, in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the sepulchres of the sons of David, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour in his death,—and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

§ 23. Manasseh's wicked and debasing Reign: the King, degraded and carried to Babylon, humbles himself, and is pardoned: being brought back, he fortifies Jerusalem, and restores the Worship of Israel's God.

<Twelve years old> was Manasseh when he began to reign,—and <fifty-five years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 2 And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh,—according to the abominable ways of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 3 And he again built the high places, which Hezekiah his father had thrown down,—and set up altars to the Baalim, and made Sacred Stems, and bowed in procession unto all the army of the heavens, and served them; and built altars in the house of Yahweh,—as to which Yahweh had said,

<In Jerusalem> shall be my Name, unto times age-abiding.

Yea he built altars unto all the army of the heavens,—in the two courts of the house of Yahweh. 6 And he built altars of every kind of beast, and cribs * for the flocks; by and for gold and for costly stones, and for spices and for precious things, and for all utensils to be coveted; 8 storehouses also, for the increase of corn, and new wine and oil,—and cribs for every kind of beast, and cribs a for the flocks; b and <cities> made he for himself, and possessions of flocks and herds, in abundance,—for God had given him exceeding great wealth. 20 And the same Hezekiah stopped up the upper spring of the waters of Gihon, and brought them straight down the west side of the city of David,—and Hezekiah prospered in all his work. 21 <Yet verily>—with regard to the ambassadors of the rulers of Babylon, who were upon the wall, to affright them, and to terrify them,—to the end they might capture the city. 22 And they spake against the God b of Jerusalem,—as against the gods of the peoples of the earth, the work a of the hands of men.

And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the sepulchres of the sons of David, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour in his death,—and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

So will I not again remove the foot of Israel away from the soil which I appointed for their fathers. Only they must observe to do all, that I have commanded them, even all the law and the statutes and the regulations, by the hand of Moses.

And so Manasseh led astray Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem,—to commit wickedness beyond the nations which Yahweh had destroyed from before the sons of Israel.

And Yahweh spake unto Manasseh and unto his people, but they did not give ear. So Yahweh brought in upon them, the captains of the army that belonged to the king of Assyria, and they captured Manasseh with hooks,—and bound him captive with a pair of bronze fetters, and took him away to Babylon. But in his distress he appeased the face of Yahweh his God,—and humbled himself greatly, before the God of his fathers; and when he prayed unto him then was he entreated of him, and hearkened unto his supplication, and brought him back to Jerusalem, unto his own kingdom, and so Manasseh came to know, that Yahweh is God. And after this he built an outer wall to the city of David on the west of the Gihon in the ravine, evento the entering in through the fish-gate, and went round to Ophel, and carried it up very high,—and put captains of valour in all the fortified cities, throughout Judah. And he removed the gods of the foreigner and the image, out of the house of Yahweh, and all the altars that he had built in the mountain of the house of Yahweh, and in Jerusalem,—and he cast them forth outside the city. And he built the altar of Yahweh, and sacrificed thereon peace-offerings and thanksgiving sacrifices,—and gave word to Judah to serve Yahweh, God of Israel.

Howbeit'still were the people sacrificing in the high places,—only unto Yahweh their God.

But the rest of the story of Manasseh, and his prayer unto his God, and the story of the seers who spake unto him in the name of Yahweh God of Israel: there they are, in the story of the kings of Israel: both his prayer and how [God] was entreated of him—and all his sin and his treacherous act, and the sites wherein he built high places, and set up the Sacred Stems and the images, before he humbled himself: there they are, written in the story of the seers.

And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the garden of his own house,—and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

Amon's brief but wicked Reign: ended by the Assassination of the King by his own Servants in his own House.

Twenty-two years old was Amon when he began to reign,—and two years reigned he in Jerusalem. And he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh, as Manasseh his father had done,—and unto all the images which Manasseh his father had made Amon offered sacrifice, and did serve them. But he did not humble himself before Yahweh as Manasseh his father humbled himself,—for the Amon made guilt abroad. And his servants conspired against him, and put him to death, in his own house. But the people of the land smote all the conspirators against King Amon,—and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

Josiah's good Reign, during which the Book of the Law is found. The King's reforming Zeal postpones but cannot avert the Coming Visitation. Josiah is slain at Megiddo by Pharaoh-necho king of Egypt.

Eight years old was Josiah when he began to reign,—and thirty-one years reigned he in Jerusalem. And he did that which was right, in the eyes of Yahweh,—and walked in the ways of David his father, and turned not aside, to the right hand or to the left. And in the eighth year of his reign, being yet a boy he began to seek unto the God of David his father,—and in the twelfth year he began to purify Judah and Jerusalem, from the high places and the Sacred Stems, and the carved images and the molten images. And they threw down before him, the altars of the Baalim, and the sun-pillars which were on high above them he hewed down,—and the Sacred Stems and the carved images and the molten images brake he in pieces and ground to dust, and tossed over the face of the graves, of them who had been sacrificing unto them. And the bones of the priests burned he upon their altars, and so purified Judah and Jerusalem: also throughout the cities of Manasseh and Ephraim and Simeon, even as far as Naphtali,—searched he their houses, round about. And when he had thrown down the altars and the Sacred Stems, and the images he had beaten to powder, and the sun-pillars he had hewn down throughout all the land of Israel then returned he to Jerusalem.
And in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purified the land and the house, he sent Shaphan son of Azaliah and Maaseiah the ruler of the city and Josiah son of Joshua the recorder, to repair the house of Yahweh his God. So they went in unto Hilkiah the high priest, and delivered the silver that had been brought into the house of God, which the Levites who kept the entrance-hall had collected from the hand of Manasseh and Ephraim and from all the remnant of Israel, and from all Judah and Benjamin, and returned to Jerusalem. And the overseers in the house of Yahweh delivered it into the hand of the doer of the work, yea they delivered it to the doers of the work, because they were working in the house of Yahweh, in searching and repairing the house: yea they delivered it to the artificers and to the builders, to buy carved stones and timbers for the joinings, and to build up the houses which the kings of Judah had destroyed. Now the men were working faithfully in the work, and over them as overseers, were Jahahath and Obadiah, Levites of the house of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to preside, and Levites, all who had understanding in instruments of song; also over the burden-bearers, and such as took the lead, for everyone who was working in any manner of service, and of the Levites were scribes and officers and doorkeepers. Now as they were taking out the silver which had been brought into the house of Yahweh Hilkiah the priest found the Book of the Law of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses. Then spake up Hilkiah, and said unto Shaphan the scribe, The Book of the Law have I found, in the house of Yahweh, and Hilkiah gave the book unto Shaphan. Then Shaphan took in the book unto the king, and returned yet further unto the king a message, saying, All that was delivered into the hand of the servants they are doing; and they have poured out the silver, that was found in the house of Yahweh, and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers, and into the hand of the doers of the work. Then Shaphan the scribe told the king saying, A book hath Hilkiah the priest given to me. And Shaphan read therein before the king. And it came to pass when the king heard the words of the book that he rent his clothes. Then did the king command Hilkiah and Ahikam son of Shaphan and Abdon son of Mikash, and Shaphan the scribe, and Azariah servant of the king saying: Go, enquire of 'ahweh for me and for the remnant in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book which hath been found, for great is the wrath of Yahweh, which hath been poured out upon us, because our fathers kept not the word of Yahweh, to do according to all that is written in this book. So Hilkiah and they whom the king had named went into Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tokhath son of Haarah keeper of the wardrobe, (she having her dwelling in Jerusalem, in the new city,) and they spake unto her accordingly. And she said unto them, Thus saith Yahweh God of Israel, Say ye unto the man who hath sent you unto me: Behold me bringing in calamity upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah; because they have forsaken me, and burned incense unto other gods, so as to provoke me to anger, with all the works of their hands therefore hath my wrath been poured out upon this place, and shall not be quenched. But unto the king of Judah, who hath sent you to enquire of Yahweh, thus shall ye say unto him: Thus saith Yahweh God of Israel, As touching the words which thou hast heard: Because tender was thy heart, and thou didst humble thyself before God when thou hearest his words against this place and against the inhabitants thereof, and didst humble thyself before me, and didst rend thy clothes and weep before me therefore I also have heard. Is the declaration of Yahweh. Behold me gathering thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy sepulchres in peace, and thine eyes shall not look upon all the calamity which I am bringing in upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof. And they returned, unto the king the message.
2 Then the king sent, and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem.

30 And the king went up to the house of Yahweh—and all the men ofJudah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem—and the priests and the Levites, and all the people, from the great even unto the small,—and he read in their ears, all the words of the book of the covenant, which had been found in the house of Yahweh.

31 And the king stood in his place,* and solemnised the covenant before Yahweh, to walk after Yahweh, and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all his heart and with all his soul,— to perform the words of the covenant that are written in this book.

32 And he caused to take a stand, all that were present in Jerusalem, and Benjamin,— and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers.

And Josiah removed all the abominations, out of all the lands which belonged to the sons of Israel, and caused all that were present in Jerusalem to serve, yea to serve Yahweh their God,—<all his days> turned they not aside from following Yahweh, God of their fathers.

35 And Josiah kept in Jerusalem, a passover unto Yahweh, — and they slaughtered the passover, on the fourteenth of the first month.

And he set the priests over their charges,— and encouraged them unto the service of the house of Yahweh;* and said to the Levites who gave instruction to all Israel as to the things which were hallowed unto Yahweh.

Put the holy ark in the house which Solomon son of David king of Israel did build, it is not yours as a burden on the shoulder.—

<Now> serve ye Yahweh your God, and his people Israel;* and prepare yourselves by your ancestral houses, according to your courses,— by the writing of David king of Israel, and by what hath been written by Solomon his son;* and stand ye in the holy place, by the divisions* of the ancestral house, for your brethren, the sons of the people,* and the partitioning of an ancestral house, for the Levites.

So slaughter ye the passover,—and hallow yourselves, and prepare for your brethren, that they may do according to the word of Yahweh, by the hand of Moses.

And Josiah presented to the sons of the people—<of flocks> young sheep and the young of the goats, the whole for the passover offerings, for all present, to the number of thirty thousand, and <of bullocks> three thousand,— <these> out of the substance of the king.

* And <his rulers> willingly <to the people and to the priests and to the Levites> presented,—<Hilkiah and Zechariah and Jehiel, chief rulers of the house of God, <unto the priests> did give [for passover offerings] two thousand and six hundred, and <of bullocks> three hundred;* and <Conaniah, and Shemaiah and Nethanel his brethren, and Hashabiah and Jeiel and Jozabad, rulers of the Levites] presented to the Levites [for passover offerings] five thousand, and <of bullocks> five hundred.

Thus was the service prepared,—and the priests stood in their place, and the Levites in their courses, according to the commandment of the king. So they slaughtered the passover, and the priests dashed [the blood received] at their hand, and the Levites were flaying [the offerings].

Then they removed the ascending-sacrifice, that they might give them—by the divisions of each ancestral house—unto the sons of the people, to offer unto Yahweh, as it is written in the Book of Moses,—and <in like manner> with the bullocks. And they cooked the passover with fire, according to the regulation,—but <the hallowed things> cooked they in cauldrons and in pots and in bowls, and then took quickly unto all the sons of the people.

And <afterwards> prepared they for themselves and for the priests, because <the priests, the sons of Aaron> had been engaged in offering up the ascending-sacrifice and the fat pieces, until night,—<the Levites> therefore prepared for themselves, and for the priests, the sons of Aaron.

<The singers also, the sons of Asaph> were in their place, according to the commandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the seer of the king, and <the doorkeepers> were at the several doors,—there was no need for them to remove from their service, for <their brethren the Levites> prepared for them.

Thus was all the service of Yahweh prepared on that day; to keep the passover, and to offer up the ascending-sacrifice, upon the altar of Yahweh,—according to the commandment of King Josiah.*

So the sons of Israel who were present kept the passover at that time,—and the festival of unleavened cakes, seven days.

And there had not been kept, a passover like it, in Israel, since the days of Samuel the prophet,—yea <none of the kings of Israel> had kept such a passover as was kept by Josiah and the priests and the Levites and all Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

<In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah> was kept this passover.*

2 CHRONICLES XXXIV. 29—33; XXXV. 1—19.
And the people of the land took Jehoahaz son of Josiah, who had begun to reign in Jerusalem, and carried him to Egypt—where he died.

Howbeit Josiah turned not his face from him, for <to fight against him> he had disguised himself, and he hearkened not unto the words of Neco, from the mouth of God, —so he came to fight in the valley of Megiddo. And the archers shot at King Josiah, and the king died. And the people of the land took Jehoahaz, and carried him to Egypt —where he died.

And <the rest of the story of Josiah, and his lovingkindness,> according to that which is written in the law of Yahweh: even his story, first and last —there it is —written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

1 And the people of the land took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah, —and made him king instead of his father, in Jerusalem. 2 <Twenty-three years old> was Josiah when he began to reign, and <three months> reigned he in Jerusalem. 3 And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim, —but Neco took [Johahaz his brother], and carried him to Egypt.

4 And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim, —but Neco took [Josiah his brother], and carried him to Egypt. 5 <Twenty-five years old> was Jehoiakim when he began to reign, and <eleven years> reigned he in Jerusalem, —and he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh his God.

6 <Against him> came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, —and bound him in fetters of bronze, to carry him to Babylon. 7 And <some of the utensils of the house of Yahweh> did Nebuchadnezzar carry to Babylon, —and put them in his own temple in Babylon.

8 But <the rest of the story of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he made, and that which was found upon him> [there they are] written in the book of the Kings of Israel and Judah,— and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

9 <Eight years old> was Jehoiachin when he began to reign, and <three months and ten days> reigned he in Jerusalem, —and he did the thing that was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh; 10 and <when the year came round> King Nebuchadnezzar sent, and carried him to Babylon, with the precious utensils of the house of Yahweh,—and made Zedekiah his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem.

11 <Twenty-one years old> was Zedekiah when he began to reign, —and <eleven years> reigned he in Jerusalem. 12 And he did the thing that he had not done, nor his fathers had done. 13 In his days <took Zedekiah> the son of Josiah "the king," who had begun to reign, and put him in prison in the house of the prison, in the house of the prison which was under the prison. Then he put in his own house, in the second prison, all the vessels that were in the house of the temple, which kings of Judah had made: and these <Jehoiachin, etc., as above. Gaul.> For he thought that there was violence in Judah. 14 Then Nebuchadnezzar put in his brother, a king over Judah, his servant Zedekiah. 15 Ammon, and Moab, before him, and put them in bonds, as he had put all the kings whom he had taken out of the land of Israel: and <Pharaoh-sha-leach> put them in bonds. 16 And <when he had removed Jerusalem> it became a desolation, according to all that he had done. 17 And he took away all the vessels of the temple of Yahweh, and the vessels of the king's house, and cut in pieces the Altar which Nebuchadnezzar had set. 18 Then Nebuchadnezzar put in his own palace, in the second house, even all the vessels that Belshazzar the king of Babylon had made, —and what pertained to the house of God. 19 And Nebuchadnezzar carried away captive to Babylon Zedekiah with the eunuchs, the princes, and the mighty men of Judah. 20 And all the strong men of war, even seven thousand, and a hundred and twenty officers. 21 And Nebuchadnezzar made Mattaniah, his cousin of the house of David, king in his room: —and changed his name to Zedekiah. 22 Now Zedekiah was six and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. And the name of his mother Jehebusah. 23 And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim, —but Neco took [Johahaz his brother], and carried him to Egypt.
was wicked in the eyes of Yahweh his God,— he humbled not himself before Jeremiah the prophet, from the mouth of Yahweh. Moreover also, against King Nebuchadnezzar he rebelled, who had made him swear by God,— and he stiffened his neck, and emboldened his heart, from turning unto Yahweh, God of Israel. Also all the rulers of the priests and of the people, abounded in committing treachery, according to all the abominable ways of the nations, and polluted the house of Yahweh, which he had hallowed in Jerusalem. And though Yahweh God of their fathers sent unto them through his messengers, zealously sending them,—because he had compassion upon his people and upon his habitation,—yet became they mockers of the messengers of God, and despisers of his words, and mimics of his prophets,— until the mounting up of the wrath of Yahweh against his people, until there was no healing. So he brought up against them the king of the Chaldeans, who slew their young men with the sword, in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion upon young man or virgin, elder or ancient,— all delivered he into his hand. All the utensils of the house of God, both great and small, and the treasures of the house of Yahweh, and the treasures of the king and of the rulers, carried he to Babylon; and they burned the house of God, and threw down the wall of Jerusalem,— and all the palaces thereof burned they with fire, and all the precious vessels thereof he destroyed; and he exiled the remnant left from the sword, into Babylon,— where they became his and his sons, as servants, until the reign of the kingdom of Persia: to fulfill the word of God, by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had paid off her sabbaths,— all the days of her lying desolate she kept sabbath, to fulfill seventy years. But in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to accomplish the word of God by the mouth of Jeremiah, Yahweh aroused the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made proclamation throughout all his kingdom, moreover also in writing, saying:

11 Thus saith Cyrus king of Persia, All the kingdoms of the earth hath Yahweh God of the heavens given unto me, and he himself hath laid charge upon me, to build for him a house, in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. Who is there among you of all his people with whom is Yahweh his God? Then let him go up.

4 And whosoever is left, of all the places where he doth sojourn, let the men of his place uphold him, with silver and with gold, and with goods and with beasts,— along with a voluntary offering for the house of God, which is in Jerusalem; and all they who were round about them strengthened their hands, with utensils of silver, with gold, with goods and with beasts, and with precious things, besides any thing he had volunteered. And King Cyrus brought forth the utensils of the house of Yahweh, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth from Jerusalem, and put in the house of his god:—

§ 1. Edict of Cyrus encouraging Jews to return and build their Temple in Jerusalem.

1 In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, to fulfill the word of Yahweh from the mouth of Jeremiah, Yahweh aroused the spirit of Cyrus, king of Persia, and he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, moreover also in writing, saying:

||Thus saith Cyrus, king of Persia, All the kingdoms of the earth hath Yahweh God of the heavens given unto me, and he himself hath laid charge upon me, to build for him a house, in Jerusalem, which is in Judah.||

Who is there among you of all his people? His God be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah, and build the house of Yahweh God of Israel, (he is God) which is in Jerusalem; and let him go up.

4 And whosoever is left, of all the places where he doth sojourn, let the men of his place uphold him, with silver and with gold, and with goods and with beasts,— along with a voluntary offering for the house of God, which is in Jerusalem.

5 Then arose the ancestral chiefs of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests, and the Levites,— even every one whose spirit God had aroused, to go up to build the house of Yahweh, which was in Jerusalem; and all they who were round about them strengthened their hands, with utensils of silver, with gold, with goods and with beasts, and with precious things, besides any thing he had volunteered. And King Cyrus brought forth the utensils of the house of Yahweh, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth from Jerusalem, and put in the house of his gods:—

by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and numbered them unto Sheshbazzar, a leader of Judah. And these were the numbers of them,—basins of gold thirty, basins of silver a thousand, knives twenty-nine; bowls of gold thirty, bowls of silver of a secondary sort four hundred and ten,—other utensils a thousand. All the utensils in gold and silver were five thousand and four hundred,—the whole did Sheshbazzar bring up with the upbringing of the exile, out of Babylon unto Jerusalem.

§2. A Register of Exiles who responded to the Edict of Cyrus.

Now these are the sons of the province, who came up from among the captives of the exile, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon exiled to Babylon,—who came back unto Jerusalem and Judah, every one unto his own city; who came in with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Helium, Baanah,—the number of the men of the people of Israel:

3 The sons of Parosh two thousand one hundred and seventy-two; sons of Uzza, the sons of Pasah, the sons of Besai; 20 the sons of Asnah, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephihaim; 21 the sons of Bakub, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harbur; 22 the sons of Bazluth, the sons of Mehida, 23 the sons of Harsha; 24 the sons of Barkoe, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah; 25 the sons of Neziah, the sons of Hatipha.

The sons of the Servants of Solomon 26 The sons of Sotai, the sons of Hassophereth, the sons of Peruda; 27 the sons of Jaalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel; 28 the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the sons of Ami.

All the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon were three hundred and ninety-two.

And these were they who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, Immer; but they could not tell their ancestral house, nor their seed, whether of Israel they were: 30 the sons of Delaiah, 31 the sons of Tobiah, 32 the sons of Nekoda,—six hundred and fifty-two.

And of the sons of the priests the sons of Habaiah, 33 the sons of Hakkoz, — the sons of Barzillai. who took of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name. 34 These sought their writing wherein they were registered, but they were not found, — so they were desecrated out of the priesthood; 35 and the governor told them, that they must not eat of the most holy things,—until there should stand up a priest, with Lights and Perfections.

All the gathered host together was forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty; besides, their men-servants and their maidservants who were these, seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven,—and there pertained to them singing men and singing women, two hundred: 40 [their horses] were seven hundred and thirty-six; 41 [their mules] two hundred and forty-five; 42 [their camels] four hundred and thirty-five; 43 [asses] six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

And a portion of the ancestral chiefs when they came to the house of Yahweh which was in Jerusalem offered voluntarily for the house of God, to set it up on its basis. 44 According to their ability gave they unto the treasury of the work, (of gold) sixty-one thousand drams, and (of silver) five thousand manehs,— and (tunics for priests) one hundred.

So the priests and the Levites, and some of the people, and the singers and the doorkeepers and the Nethinim, took up their abode in their cities,—and all Israel in their cities.

§ 3. The Altar restored and Foundation of Temple laid.

But when the seventh month was come, and the sons of Israel were in cities, then did the people gather themselves together as one man, unto Jerusalem.

And arose—Jeshua son of Jozadak and his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and his brethren, and built the altar of the God of Israel,—to offer thereon ascending-sacrifices, as it was written in the law of Moses, the man of God. 2 So they settled the altar upon its stands, for (of dread) was upon them, because of the peoples of the countries,—therefore caused they to go up thereon ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh, ascending-sacrifices for the morning and for the evening. 3 And they kept the festival of booths, as it was written,—and the ascending-offering of each day upon its own day, by number, according to regulation, the matter of a day upon its day; 4 and (of the new moons, and on all the appointed seasons of Yahweh) the hallowed things,—also for every one that volunteered a voluntary offering unto Yahweh. 5 From the first day of the seventh month began they to offer up ascending-sacrifices unto Yahweh,—but the temple of Yahweh had not had its foundation laid. 6 And they gave silver, unto the masons and carpenters,—and food and drink and oil, unto them of Zidon and unto them of Tyre, to bring in cedar-trees out of the Lebanon, unto the sons of Joppa, according to the grant of Cyrus king of Persia unto them.

Now in the second year of their coming in unto the house of God, to Jerusalem, in the second month began Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak and the rest of their brethren—the priests and the Levites, and all that were come out of the captivity to Jerusalem, and stationed the Levites, of twenty years old and upwards, to preside over the work of the house of Yahweh. 8 So they took their station—even Jeshua, his sons and his brethren, Kadnel and his sons, sons of Judah, as one man to preside over the doers of the work in the house of God, the sons of Hennadad, their sons and their brethren, the Levites.

9 According to their ability gave they unto the treasury of the work, (of gold) sixty-one thousand drams, and (of silver) five thousand manehs,— and (tunics for priests) one hundred.
And when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of Yahweh then the priests, enrobed, took their stand with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph with cymbals, to offer praise unto Yahweh, after the instructions of David king of Israel.

And when they made responses in offering praise and in giving thanks unto Yahweh—

For he is good,
For his lovingkindness, upon Israel

then all the people shouted with a great shout, in offering praise unto Yahweh, over the laying of the foundation of the house of Yahweh.

But many of the priests and the Levites and the ancestral chiefs, who were old men that had seen the first house when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes were weeping with a loud voice, however, shouting and rejoicing, with voice raised on high; so that the people could not distinguish the noise of the shout of joy, from the noise of the weeping of the people, for the people did shout with a great shout, and the noise was heard afar off.

§ 4. Judah's Adversaries, requesting to join and being refused, weaken the People's Hands; and, later on, write to Artaxerxes, who returns a Prohibitive Edict.

1 Now when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard—that the Sons of the Exile were building the temple, unto Yahweh, God of Israel—then drew they near unto Zerubbabel, and unto the ancestral chiefs, and said unto them,

Let us build with you, for like you we seek your God,—and unto him have we been sacrificing since the days of Esar-haddon, king of Assyria, who brought us up hither.

But Zerubbabel and Joshua and the rest of the ancestral chiefs of Israel, said unto them,

It pertaineth not to you and to us in common to build a house unto our God,—but we ourselves together will build unto Yahweh, God of Israel, even as King Cyrus, king of Persia, hath commanded us.

Then came it to pass, that the people of the land were weakening the hands of the people of Judah,—and troubling them in building; and hiring against them counsellors, to overturn their purpose, all the days of Cyrus, king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius, king of Persia.

And in the reign of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his reign wrote they an accusation, against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem. And in the days of Artaxerxes wrote Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of his associates, unto Artaxerxes king of Persia,—and the writing of the letter was written in Aramean, and was to be interpreted as Aramean.

Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe wrote a certain letter against Jerusalem,—to Artaxerxes the king, thus:

Then Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their associates, the Dinaites and the Apharsathchites, the Targarites, the Epharsites, the Archavites, the Babylonians, the Shushanites, the Dehaites, the Elamites; and the rest of the peoples, whom the great and noble Osnapar hath exiled, and set in the city of Samaria,—and the rest Beyond the River, and so forth: This is a copy of the letter which they sent unto him—unto Artaxerxes the king,—

Thy servants, the men Beyond the River and so forth:

Be it known unto the king,—that the Jews who came up from thee unto us are come to Jerusalem,—the rebellious and wicked city are they building, and the walls have they finished, and the foundations will they repair.

Now be it known to the king, that if this city be built, and the walls thereof be finished neither tribute, excise, nor toll will they render, and so the revenue of the kings shalt thou damage.

Now because the salt of the palace we have eaten the impovishment of the king it is not meet for us to see, therefore have we sent, and certified the king; so that search may be made in the book of the records of thy fathers, so shalt thou find out in the book of records—and shalt ascertain, that this city is a rebellious city, and one that causeth damage unto kings and provinces, and that rebellion have they been wont to cause in the midst thereof since the days of age-past time,—for this cause was this city laid waste.

We do certify the king that if this city be built, and the walls thereof finished it for that very reason portion Beyond the River shalt thou have none.

The king sent a message unto Rehum holder of judicial authority, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their associates, who Heb: sineth, Mark the word. The work of a sotan, "accuser." were dwelling in Samaria, and the rest Beyond the River.

Peace, and so forth.

18 The letter which ye sent unto us was distinctly read before me;
19 And from me went for than edict, and they have made search and found, that this city since the days of age-past time against kings hath lifted herself up, and sedition and rebellion have been made therein; and mighty kings have there been over Jerusalem, and bearing rule everywhere Beyond the River, and tribute, excise, and toll have been given to them.
21 Now issue ye an edict, to forbid these men, that this city be not built, until from me the edict be issued.
22 Beware, then, of failure to do thus,—wherefore should the damage increase, to inflict loss on the kings?

Then the copy of the letter of Artaxerxes the king had been read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their associates. Then they journeyed in haste to Jerusalem, unto the Jews, and forbade them, with arm and force.

When the copy of the letter of Artaxerxes the king had been read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their associates, they journeyed in haste to Jerusalem, unto the Jews, and forbade them, with arm and force. Then ceased the work of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem, yea it did cease, until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

§5. Prophets encourage the Builders; and Pasha Tattenai writes to King Darius, who confirms the Edict of Cyrus. The Temple finished.

1 Then were moved to prophesy, Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo, the prophets, unto the Jews who were in Judaea and in Jerusalem,—in the name of the God of Israel, unto them. Then arose—Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua son of Jozadak, and began to build the house of God, which was in Jerusalem, and with them were the prophets of God, strengthening them.
2 At that time came unto them Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, and Sheb-thar-bozenai, and their associates,—and thus spoke they unto them:

What are the names of these men, who <this building> do rear?

3 Nevertheless the eye of their God was upon the elders of Judah, and they did not forbid them, until the matter should come, and then answer be returned by letter, concerning this.
4 A copy of the letter which Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, and Sheb-thar-bozenai, and his associates, the Apharsachites, who were Beyond the River, sent unto Darius the king: 7  sent they unto him, and thus it was written therein, Unto Darius the king all prosperity!

8 Be it known unto the king, that we journeyed into the province of Judah, unto the house of the Great God, and the same is being built with large stones, and timber is being laid in the walls,—and this work is being done, and is prospering in their hands.
9 Then' asked we of these elders, <thus> we said to them,—

Who hath issued to you an edict <this house> to build, and <this wall> to complete?

10 Yea <their names also> asked we of them, to certify thee,—that we might write the name of the men who are at their head.
11 And <thus> returned they [answer] to us, saying,—

We are servants of the God of the heavens and the earth, and are building the house which was built these many years ago, which [a great king of Israel] built and completed.

12 But after that our fathers had provoked the God of the heavens to wrath, he delivered them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, the Chaldean,—and <this house> he destroyed, and <the people> he exiled to Babylon.

13 Howbeit in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, Cyrus the king issued an edict <this house of God> to build.

14 Moreover also <the utensils of the house of God>, of gold and silver, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of the temple which was in Jerusalem, and had brought into the temple of Babylon, Cyrus the king [brought them forth] out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered to one Sheshbazzar by name, whom he made [pasha]; and said to him—

These utensils take, go carry them into the temple that is in Jerusalem,—and let [the house of God] be built in its place.

15 Then this Sheshbazzar came, he laid the foundations of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem,—and since then, even until now, it hath been in building, and is not finished.

16 Now therefore, if unto the king it seem good, let search be made in the treasure-house of the king which is there, in Babylon, whether it be so, that <from Cyrus the king> issued an edict, to build this house of God, in Jerusalem,—and the pleasure of the king concerning this let him send unto us.

6 Then [Darius the king] issued an edict,—and they made search in the house of the books, where the treasures were laid up in Babylon.

And there was found in Ashmetha, in the fortress which is in the province of Media, a roll,—and [thus] was it written therein, as a record:

2 In the first year of Cyrus the king [Cyrus the king] issued an edict, as to the house of God in Jerusalem.

Let the house be built, the place where they used to offer sacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be reared,—[the height thereof] sixty cubits, [the breadth thereof] sixty cubits; 4 layers of large stones, three, and one* layer of new timber,—and <as for the expenses> <out of the house of the king> let them be given.

8 Moreover also <the utensils of the house of God> of gold and silver, which [Nebuchadnezzar] took forth out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and brought unto Babylon> let them again be taken to the temple which is in Jerusalem, every one to its place, and lay them up in the house of God.

6 [Now] therefore, Tattenai pasha Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates, the Apharsachites, who are Beyond the River,—be ye far from thence: 7 let alone the work of this house of God,—[the pasha of Judah, and the elders of Judah] <this house of God> shall build upon its place;

8 And <from me> is issued an edict, as to that which ye shall do, with these elders of Judah, for the building of this house of God,—That <of the resources of the king, even the tribute Beyond the River> <forthwith> the expenses be given unto these men, for they must not be hindered.

9 And <whatever may be the need—whether young bullocks or rams or lambs for ascending-sacrifices unto the God of the heavens, wheat, salt, wine or oil, according to the command of the priests who are in Jerusalem,—that it be given to them, day by day, without fail; 10 that they may be offering sweet-smelling sacrifices unto the God of the heavens,—and be praying for the life of the king, and his sons.

And <from me> is issued an edict, that <any man who shall alter this message> let timber be torn out of his house, and being lifted up let him be fastened thereunto,—and his house  be made for this; 12 and the God who hath caused his Name to dwell there destroy any king or people, who shall put forth their hand to alter this house of God, which is in Jerusalem.

[Darius] have issued an edict, <forthwith> let it be done.

Then [Tattenai the pasha Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates,—<according as Darius the king had sent>, <so forthwith> they did.

And [the elders of the Jews] went on building and prospering, through the prophesying of Haggaï the prophet, and Zechariah son of Iddo,—they both built and finished, owing to the edict of the God of Israel, and owing to the edict of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Persia. 13 And this house was finished, by the third day of the month Adar,—the which was the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

Then did the sons of Israel, the priests and the Levites, and the rest of the Sons of the Exile, keep' the dedication of this house of God, with joy; 17 and offered, for the dedication of this house of God, [bullocks] one hundred, [rams] two hundred, [lambbs] four hundred,—and [he-goats, as a sin-offering for all Israel] twelve, according to the number of the tribes of Israel. 18 And they set up the priests in their divisions, and the Levites in their courses, over the servicia of God, which was in Jerusalem,—as it is written, in the Book of Moses.

And the Sons of the Exile kept’ the passover,—on the fourteenth of the first month; 21 for the priests and the Levites [had purified themselves] as one man, [all of them] were pure,—so they slaughtered the passover for all the Sons of the Exile, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves. 21 Therefore the sons of Israel who had returned from the Exile and all who had separated themselves from the impurity of the nations of the land* unto them, [did eat],—to seek Yahweh, God of Israel; 22 and kept the festival of unleavened cakes seven days, with joy,—for Yahweh had made them joyful, and had turned the heart of the king of Assyria towards them, to strengthen their hands, in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

Azariah, son of Meraioth; 4 son of Zerahiah; 4 son of Uzzi, son of Bukki; 4 son of Abihua, son of Phinehas, son of Eliazer, son of Aaron* the first priest; —

6 [this Ezra] came up out of Babylon, and being a ready a scribe in the law of Moses, which Yahweh God of Israel had given,—and the king gave him, according to the hand of Yahweh his God upon him, all his request.

7 So then there came up some of the sons of Israel, and some of the priests and the Levites and the singers and the doorkeepers and the Nethinim, unto Jerusalem,—in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king. 8 And he entered Jerusalem, in the fifth month,—the same was the seventh year of the king. 9 For on the first of the first month > was a beginning made of coming up from Babylon,—and on the first of the fifth month > entered he into Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him. 10 For || Ezra > had settled his heart, to study the law of Yahweh, and to do [it],—and to teach in Israel, statute and regulation.

11 Now || this > is a copy of the letter which King Artaxerxes gave, to Ezra the priest the scribe,—the scribe of the words of the commandments of Yahweh, and of his statutes, for Israel:—

12 || Artaxerxes, king of kings! || Unto Ezra the priest, scribe of the law of the God of the heavens,—To despatch * and so forth.

13 <From me> is issued an edict, that <every one in my kingdom, of the people of Israel, and of their priests and the Levites, who is minded of his own freewill to go to Jerusalem > with thee || let him go.

14 <Forasmuch as > from before the king and his seven counsellors thou art sent, to enquire concerning Judah and as to Jerusalem,—by the law of thy God which is in thy hand; 15 and to carry the silver and gold which the king and his counsellors have freely offered unto the God of Israel, who [in Jerusalem] hath his habitation; 16 and all the silver, and the gold, which thou shalt find, in all the province of Babylon,—with the freewill-offering of the people and of the priests offered willingly for the service of the house of their God which is in Jerusalem > [with thee] || let him go.

17 Therefore || with all diligence shalt thou buy—with this silver—bullocks, rams, lambs, with their meal-offerings, and their drink-offerings,—and shalt offer them upon the altar of the house of your God which is in Jerusalem; 18 and whatsoever unto thee and unto thy brethren shall seem good || with the rest of the silver and the gold || to do > [according to the pleasure of your God] shall ye do.

19 And <the utensils which are freely given to thee for the service of the house of thy God> put thou back, before the God of Jerusalem.

20 And <the rest of the need of the house of thy God, which it shall fall to thee to give> thou shalt give, out of the treasure-house of the king.

21 And || from me myself, Artaxerxes the king || issueth an edict, to all the treasurers who are Beyond the River,—that < whatsoever Ezra the priest || the scribe of the law of the God of the heavens shall ask > [with diligence] shall it be done: 22 unto a hundred talents of silver, and unto a hundred measures of wheat, and unto a hundred baths of wine, and unto a hundred baths of oil,—and salt without limit.

24 <Whatsoever is due to an edict of the God of the heavens> let it be done diligently, for the house of the God of the heavens,—for wherefore should there be wrath against the realm of the king and his sons?

25 And <you> we do certify, that <as touching any of the priests or the Levites, the singers, the doorkeepers, the Nethinim, or the servitors of this house of God > || tribute, excise or toll || shall it not be competent to impose upon them.

26 But <whosoever shall not do the law of thy God and the law of the king > || speedily let || penalty || be exacted from him,—whether to death, or to banishment, 8 or to confiscation of goods, or to imprisonment.

27 Blessed be Yahweh, God of our fathers,—who hath put the like of this into the heart of the king, to beautify the house of Yahweh, which is in Jerusalem; 28 and <unto me> hath extended lovingkindness before the king and his counsellors, yea all the valiant captains of the king, — I therefore have emboldened myself, according to the hand of Yahweh my God upon me, and gathered out of Israel, chief men, to go up with me.

And I gathered them together unto the river that cometh into Ahava, and we encamped there three days, and I informed myself among the people and the priests, and of the sons of Levi I found I none there. So I sent for Eliezer, for Ariel, for Shemaiah, and for Elathan, and for Jarib, and for Elathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for Meshullam, chief men, also for Joiarib and for Elanath, teachers. And I sent them forth unto Iddo, and they delivered me a message of discretion, of the sons of Mahli son of Levi, son of Israel, and of Sherebiah, and his sons and his brethren, eighteen; and Hashabiah, and with them Jeshaiah, of the sons of Merari, his brethren and their sons, twenty; and of the Nethinim whom David and the rulers had given for the service of the Levites Nethinim two hundred and twenty,—all of them expressed by name. So it should be (w. Sep.)—

21 Then proclaimed I there a fast, by the river Ahava, that we might humble ourselves before our God, to seek of him a smooth way, for us and for our little ones, and for all our substance. 22 For I was ashamed to ask of the king, a band of soldiers and horsemen, to help us against the enemy in the way, because we had spoken unto the king, saying, The hand of our God is upon all who seek him for good, But his power and his anger are against all who forsake him. 23 So we fasted and sought of our God, concerning this, and he suffered himself to be entreated by us. 24 Then I separated, from among the rulers of the priests, twelve, even Shebuel, Hashabiah, Hashubiah, and with them, from among their brethren ten; and weighed unto them, the silver and the gold, and the utensils, the heave-offering for the house of our God, which the king and his counsellors and his rulers and all Israel who were present, had offered: I even weighed unto their hand, of silver six hundred and fifty talents, and of utensils of silver a hundred talents, of gold twenty talents, of bowls of gold twenty, of a thousand drams, and of utensils of fine bright bronze two, precious as gold. Then said I unto them, Ye are hallowed unto Yahweh, and the utensils are hallowed, and the silver and the gold are a freewill offering, unto Yahweh, God of your fathers:

29 Watch and guard, until ye weigh [them] before the rulers of the priests and the Levites and the ancestral rulers of Israel in Jerusalem,—in the chambers of the house of Yahweh.

So the priests and the Levites accepted the weight of the silver and the gold, and the utensils,—to bring to Jerusalem, unto the house of our God. 31 Then brake we up from the river of Ahava, on the twelfth of the first month, to journey unto Jerusalem,—and the hand of our God was upon us, and he delivered us from the grasp of the enemy and of the lier in wait, by the way. So we came to Jerusalem, and we rested there, the third day. And on the fourth day, the silver and the gold and the utensils, in the house of our God, unto the hand of Meremoth son of Urijah, the priest, and with him war Eleazar son of Phinhas, and with them were Jozaab son of Jeshaiah and Noadiah son of Binnui, Levites:

Then delivered they the decrees of the king, and now, for a very little moment, hath this people a reviving, to set up on high the house of our God, to raise up the desolations there of, and to give us a wall in Judah and in Jerusalem.

But now what can we say, O our God, after this? for we have forsaken thy commandments, which thou didst command by the hand of thy servants the prophets, saying,

As for the land which ye are entering, unto possess, |an impure land| is it, with the impurity of the peoples of the lands, with their abominations, which have filled it from one end to the other, with their uncleanness.

Now therefore, <your daughters> do not ye give to their sons, and <their daughters> do not ye take for your sons, neither shall ye seek their prosperity nor their pleasure, unto times age-abiding,—to the end ye may become strong, and may eat the good of the land, and may suffer your children to possess it, unto times age-abiding.

And after all that hath come upon us, for our wicked doings, and for our great guilt—

For |O our God, hast spared us, punishing us less than our iniquities deserved, and hast given us a deliverance such as this|>

<should we again break thy commandments and join ourselves by affinity of marriage with the peoples of these abominations>—wouldst thou not be angry with us, unto a full end, that there should be neither remainder nor deliverance?

O Yahweh, God of Israel, righteous thou art, for we have had left us a deliverance as at this day,—|here we are| before thee, because of this thing!

Now when Ezra had prayed and when he had made confession, weeping and casting himself down, before the house of God, there gathered unto him out of Israel, an exceeding large congregation—men and women and children, for the people wept with a very bitter weeping.

And now for a very little moment hath come favour from Yahweh our God, in leaving to us a remnant to escape, and in giving to us a nail in his holy place,—that our God may enlighten our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our bondage.

For <bondmen> we are, but <in our bondage> hath our God not forsaken us, but extended unto us lovingkindness before the kings of Persia, to give us a reviving, to set up on high the house of our God, to raise up the desolations there of, and to give us a wall in Judah and in Jerusalem.

For |O our God, hast spared us, punishing us less than our iniquities deserved, and hast given us a deliverance such as this|>

The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not kept themselves separate from the peoples of the land,—in view of their abominations,— even of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites; for they have taken of their daughters, for themselves and for their sons, so that the holy seed have intermingled themselves among the peoples of the lands,—and the hand of the rulers and the deputies hath, in this unfaithfulness, been rememoriated.

When I heard this thing I rent my garment and my robe,—and I bowed upon my knees, and spread my hands unto Yahweh my God; and said

O my God. I turn pale and am ashamed, to lift up. O my God, my face unto thee,—for our iniquities] have multiplied above the head, and our guilt hath magnified itself unto the heavens.

Since the days of our fathers we have been in great guilt, until this day,—and for our iniquities have we been given up—we, our kings, our priests,—into the hand of the kings of the lands, by sword and by captivity and by spoiling and by a turning pale of face, as at this day.

And now for a very little moment hath come favour from Yahweh our God, in leaving to us a remnant to escape, and in giving to us a nail in his holy place,—that our God may enlighten our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our bondage.

*Or: "palms."  Or: "tent-pin."
Now, therefore, let us solemnise a covenant unto our God—to put away all the women and such as have been born of them, in the counsel of my lord, and them who tremble at the commandment of our God, and according to the law—let it be done.

Arise, for upon thee resteth the thing, but we are with thee, be strong, and act.

Then arose Ezra and made the rulers of the priests, the Levites, and all Israel, swear to do according to this word, and they are aware.

Then arose Ezra from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Jehohanan son of Eliashib, and when he came thither did he not eat, and did he not drink, for he was mourning over the unfaithfulness of them of the Exile.

Then made they a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem, unto all the Sons of the Exile, to gather themselves together unto Jerusalem; and whoever should not come within three days according to the counsel of the rulers and the elders all his goods should be devoted, and himself be separated from the convocation of them of the Exile.

Then were gathered together all the men of Judah and Benjamin unto Jerusalem, within three days, [the same] was the ninth month, on the twentieth of the month,—and all the people remained in the broadway of the house of God, trembling concerning the thing, and because of the heavy rains.

Then arose Ezra the priest, and said unto them, Ye have acted unfaithfully, and have married foreign women,—to add unto the guilt of Israel.

Now, therefore, make confession unto Yahweh God of your fathers, and do his pleasure, and separate yourselves from the peoples of the land, and from the foreign women.

Then responded all the convocation and said, with a loud voice,—Thus, according to thy word concerning us, must it be done.

Nevertheless the people are many, and the season is that of the heavy rains, and we are not able to stand outside,—and the business is not one for a single day, nor yet for two, for we have abundantly transgressed in this thing.

Let, we beseech thee, our rulers take up their station for all the convocation, and all who, throughout our cities, have married foreign women let them come in at times appointed, and with them the elders of every city, and the judges thereof, until the glow of the anger of our God be turned from us, concerning this matter.

Only Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahaziah son of Tivkah made a stand against this, and Moshullam and Shabbethai the Levite helped them.

But the Sons of the Exile did thus, and Ezra the priest separated to himself certain men—ancestral heads by their ancestral houses, and all of them by name,—and they took their seats on the first day of the tenth month to search into the matter; and they made an end with all the men who had married foreign women,—by the first day of the first month.

Now there were found of the sons of the priests who had married foreign women,—of the sons of Joshua son of Jozadak, and his brethren Maseeiah, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah; and they gave their hand, that they would put away their wives, and being guilty they offered a ram of the flock for their guilt.

And of the sons of Parosh; Eliezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah:

And of the Levites; Zochariah, and Jehiel and Abii, and Jeremoth, and Elijah.

And of the sons of Zattu; Elioenai, Eliaiah, Maccathiah, and Jeremoth, and Zabad, and Aziza.

And of the sons of Beshai; Jehohanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, Athlai.

And of the sons of Bani; Meshullam, Malluch, Adai, and Jashub, and Sheal, Jeremoth.

And of the sons of Pahath-moab; Adna and Chelah, —Benaiah, Maccathiah, Mattaniah, Bazel, and Binui, and Manasseh.

And of the sons of Harim; Eliezer, Ishjiah, Malchijah, Shemariah, Shimeon; — Benjamin, Malchuch, Shemariah.

Of the sons of Hashum; Mattaniah, Hattattah, Zabad, Eliephlet.

THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH.

§ 1. Nehemiah's Permit to visit Jerusalem.

1 The story* of Nehemiah, son of Hacaliah,—and it came to pass <in the month Chislev, in the twentieth year, when || was in Shusan the fortress> 2 that Hanani one of my brethren came ||the and certain men out of Judah||,—so I asked them concerning the Jews who had escaped, who were left of the captivity, and concerning Jerusalem. 3 And they said unto me,

||The remnant who are left of the captivity, there in the province|| are in great misfortune and reproach, ||the wall of Jerusalem|| is broken down, and ||the gates thereof|| are burned with fire.

4 And it came to pass <when I heard these words> that I sat down and wept, and I mourned certain days,—and continued fasting and praying, before the God of the heavens; 5 and said, 6

I beseech thee, O Yahweh God of the heavens, the great and fearful God,—keeping the covenant and lovingkindness for them who love him and keep his commandments:

Let, I pray thee, thine ears be attentive and thine eyes open—to hearken unto the prayer of thy servant—which ||I am praying before thee now, day and night, for the sons of Israel, thy servants, and making confession concerning the sins of the sons of Israel, which we have committed against thee; ||both § II. Artaxerxes' Favor to Nehemiah.

7 I and the house of my father|| have sinned. We have dealt <very corruptly> against thee, —and have not kept the commandments, nor the statutes nor the regulations, which thou didst command Moses thy servant.

8 Remember, I pray thee, the word, which thou didst command Moses thy servant, saying,—

<If> ye are unfaithful ||I will scatter you among the peoples: • <When ye return unto me and keep my commandments and do them> <though it should be that ye have been driven out unto the uttermost part of the heavens> ||from thence|| will I gather them, and bring them into the place that I have chosen to make a habitation for my Name there.

9 They therefore, are thy servants and thy people,—whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy firm hand.

10 I beseech thee, O My Lord, let— I pray thee—thine ears be attentive unto the prayer of thy servant, and unto the prayer of thy servants who delight to reverence thy Name, and oh prosperous, I pray thee, thy servant to-day, and grant him compassion before this man. Now || I was cup-bearer unto the king.

1 And it came to pass <in the month Nisan, 2 in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king> that ||wine|| was before him,—so I took up the wine, and gave unto the king, and I had never been sad before him. 2 Then said the king unto me,

Wherefore is thy countenance sad, seeing that ||thou|| art not sick? this is nothing else, but sadness of heart. Then feared I exceedingly, 3 and said unto the king—

"If" not expressed in Heb. 44 it shd have been — G.n.
Then the king said to me, "Concerning what do you request? If it seems right to you, and to the king, if it is possible for me, I will go to Judah, to the city of the sepulchres of my fathers, to rebuild it.

Then I prayed to the God of heaven, and said to the king, "If it seems right to you, and if your servant finds favor in your eyes, then let me go, I pray you, to Judah, to the city of my fathers’ sepulchres, that I may build it.

And the king said to me, "For how long will your journey be? and when will you return? It seemed good to the king to send me, and I set him a time.

Then I said to the king, "If it seems right to you, you can give me letters to the king’s officials beyond the River, that they may carry me over, and also letters to Asaph, the keeper of the king’s forest, that he may give me timber to build the gates of the fortress which pertains to the house, and for the wall of the city, and for the houses that I shall enter.

And the king gave me, according to the good hand of my God upon me.

§ 2. Nehemiah’s Arrival. He surveys Jerusalem’s Ruins, and—despite Sanballat—is determined to rebuild.

Then came I unto the pashas beyond the River, and gave them the letters of the king, now the king had sent with me captains of the army, and horsemen.

And when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant of the Ammonite, heard it, it vexed them, with a great vexation—what is this thing which ye would do? against the king would ye rebel?

Then answered I them, and said to them—The God of heaven will prosper us, therefore we his servants will arise and build—But to you pertaineth no portion, nor right, nor memorial, in Jerusalem.

§ 3. Jerusalem’s Wall repaired, in Sections, by Groups of Workers.

Then arose Eliashib the high priest and his brethren the priests, and built the sheep-gate, hallowed it, and set up the doors thereof, even unto the tower of Hammeah hallowed they it, unto the tower of Hananel; and at his hand built, the men of Jericho, and at his hand built Zaccur, son of Imri. And the fish-gate did the sons of Hassenaah build, the beams thereof, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof; and at their hand repaired, Meremoth son of Uriah son of Hakkoz, and at their hand repaired, Meshullum son of Berechiah son of Meshezabel, and at their hand repaired, Zadok son of Baana; and at their hand repaired, the Tekoites, but their chiefs put not their neck into the service of their lords. And the old gate did Joiada son of Paseah, and Meshullam, son of Besodeiah, repair, they laid the beams consumed with fire.

Then passed I over unto the fountain-gate, and unto the pool of the king, but there was no place for the beast that was under me to pass.

Then went I up in the torrent-bed, by night, and viewed the wall, and turned back, and entered by the valley-gate, and so returned.

Now the deputies knew not whether I had gone, nor what I was doing, but not even to the Jews, nor to the priests, nor to the nobles, nor to the deputies, nor to the rest who were doing the work had I as yet told it. So I said unto them, "Ye can see the misfortune that are in, how that Jerusalem lieth waste, and the gates thereof are burned with fire:

Come, and let us build the wall of Jerusalem, that we may remain, no longer, a reproach.

thereof, and set up the doors thereof, and the locks thereof, and the bars thereof; 7 and <at their hand> repaired, Melatiah the Gibeonite and Jadon the Meronothite, men of Gibeon and of Mizpah,—who pertained to the throne of the pasha Beyond the River; 8 <at his hand> repaired, Uzziel son of Harhaiah, goldsmiths, and <at his hand> repaired, Hananiah son of the perfumers,—and they fortified Jerusalem, as far as the broad wall; 9 and <at their hand> repaired, Hashabiah son of Hur, ruler of a half-circuit b of Jerusalem; 10 and <at their hand> repaired, Jedaiah son of Harumaph, even over against his own house,—and <at his hand> repaired, Hattush, son of Hashanahiah; 11  did Malchijah son of Harim and Hasshub son of Pahath-moab, repair,—also the tower of the ovens; 12 and <at his hand> repaired, Shallum son of Hallo-hez, ruler of a half-circuit b of Jerusalem,—the he and his daughters. 13 The valley-gate did Hanan and the inhabitants of Zanoah, repair,—also a thousand cubits in the wall, as far as the dung-gate. 14 And <at the dung-gate> did Malchijah son of Rechab, ruler of the circuit b of Beth-haccherem, repair,—he built it, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof. 15 And <at the fountain-gate> did Shallun son of Col-hozeh, ruler of the circuit b of Mizpah, repair,—he built it, and covered it, and set up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof, —also the wall of the pool of Shelah, by the garden of the king, even as far as the stairs that go down from the city of David; 16 <after him> repaired, Nehemiah son of Azluk, ruler of the half-circuit b of Beth-zur,—as far as over against the sepulchres of David, even unto the pool which had been made, and unto the house b of heroes; 17 <after him> repaired, the Levites, Rehum son of Bani,—<at his hand> repaired, Hashabiah, ruler of the half-circuit b of Keilah, for his circuit; 18 <after him> repaired, their brethren, Bavvai son of Henadad, ruler of the other half-circuit of Keilah; 19 and there repaired at his hand, Ezer son of Joshua, ruler of Mizpah, a second length,—over against the ascent of the armoury, at the corner; 20 <after him> zealously repaired Baruch son of Zabbai, a second length,—from the corner unto the opening of the house of Elishabib, the high priest; 21 <after him> repaired, Meremoth son of Uriah son of Hakkiz, a second length,—from the opening of the house of Elishabib, even unto the end of the house of Elishabib; 22 and <after him> repaired, the priests, the men of the Circuit; 23 <after him> repaired, Benjamin and Hasshub, over against their own house,—<after him> repaired, Azariah son of Maseiah son of Ananiah, beside his own house; 24 <after him> repaired, Binnui son of Henadad, a second length,—from the house of Azariah, unto the corner, even unto the pinnacle; 25 Palal son of Uzai, from over against the corner, and the tower that projecteth from the upper house of the king, which belongeth to the court of custody,—<after him> Pedaiah son of Parosh. 26 Now ||the Nethinim|| were dwelling in Ophel,—as far as over against the water-gate, on the east, and the tower that projecteth, even unto the wall of Ophel: 27 <after him> repaired, the Tekoites, a second length,—from over against the great tower that projecteth, even unto the wall of Ophel: 28 <after him> repaired, Sheeriah son of Shirat, keeper of the east-gate; 29 <after him> repaired, Hananiah son of Shelemiah, and Hanun sixth son of Zalaph, a second length,—<after him> repaired, Meshullam son of Berechiah, over against his chamber; 30 <after him> repaired, Malchijah son of Zorphi, as far as the house of the Nethinim, and the traders,—over against the manger-gate, even unto the ascent of the pinnacle; 31 and <between the ascent of the pinnacle and the sheep-gate> repaired, the goldsmiths, and the traders.

§ 4. The Sarcasms of Sanballat and Tobiah opposed by Prayer.

1 But it came to pass <when Sanballat heard> that we were building the wall, it angered him, and he was greatly displeased,—and mocked the Jews; 2 and spake before his brethren, and the army of Samaria, and said. 3 Now ||Tobiah the Ammonite|| was beside him,—so he said. 4 Hear, O our God, for we have become a contempt, and turn thou back their reproach upon their own head,—and give them up as a prey, in the land of captivity; 5 and do not allow them. 6 Some cod. § 5. Sanballat and his Neighbours conspire to Fight. Their Plot discovered and thwarted. Armed Watchers and Workers.

7 But it came to pass <when Sanballat and Tobiah and the Arabians and the Ammonites and the Ashdodites heard> that the repair of the walls of Jerusalem had gone up, that the breaches began to be stopped> that it angered them exceedingly; 9 and they conspired, all of them together, to come, to fight against Jerusalem,—and to cause it harm; 9 howbeit we prayed unto our God, —and set a watch against them, day and night, because of them. 10 Then said Judah, The strength of the burden-bearer faileth, and the rubbish aboundeth,—and [we] are not able to build at the wall; 11 and our adversaries have said, They shall not know, neither shall they see, until we come into their midst, and slay them,—so shall we cause the work’ to cease.

12 But it came to pass <when the Jews dwelling near them came in> then said they unto us, ten times, <From all places whither ye shall turn> [they will be] upon us!

13 So I set—on the lower slopes of the place behind the wall in the waste grounds,—yes I set the people, by their families, with their swords, their spears and their bows. 14 Then I looked and rose up, and said—unto the nobles and unto the deputies, and unto the rest of the people, Do not ye fear because of them,—<the great and fearful Lord> remember ye, so shall ye fight for your brethren, your sons and your daughters, your wives, and your houses.

15 And it came to pass <when our enemies heard that it was known to us, and that God had overthrown their counsel> then returned we, all of us, unto the wall, every man unto his work. 16 And it came to pass <from that day> [the half of my young men] were working in the work, and [the half of them] were grasping the spears, the bucklers, and the bows, and the coats of mail,—but [the rulers] were behind all the house of Judah. 17 <They who were building at the wall and they who were carrying burdens, they who were lifting> [each man] <with his one hand> was working at the work, and <with the other> was grasping the weapon. 18 <Even they who were building>

§ 6. The People’s Complaints that they are oppressed by their Brethren call forth stern Remonstrance, immediate Reform, and Nehemiah’s Record of his Own Course.

1 Then came there to be a great outcry of the 5 people and their wives,—against their brethren the Jews. 2 And there were some’ who were saying, <Our sons and our daughters> are we’ pledging,—that we may obtain corn, and eat, and keep ourselves alive.

3 And there were some’ who were saying, <Our fields and our vineyards and our houses> are we’ pledging,—that we may obtain corn in the dearth.

4 And there were others’ who were saying, We have borrowed silver, for the king’s tribute,—[upon] our lands and our vineyards. 9 [Now] therefore, <as is the flesh of our brethren> so is our flesh, <as are our children> so are our children. Yet lo! we’re are putting in subjection our sons and our daughters, for bondservants yes there are some’ of our daughters already trodden down, and we are powerless, and our fields and our vineyards, belong to others.

6 And it angered me greatly,—when I heard their outcry, and these words.

7 So my heart took counsel unto me’ and I contended with the nobles and with the deputies, and said to them, <A loan on interest — every man to his brother> are ye’ making,—So I appointed over them a great assembly; 8 and I said unto them,
NEHEMIAH V. 9—19; VI. 1—10.

19 "Remember unto me, O my God, for good,—all that I have done for this people.

§ 7. Sanballat and other Enemies, seeking a Conference, and hiring a False Prophet, to intimidate Nehemiah, are yet further baffled.

1 And it came to pass <when it was reported> to Sanballat and Tobiah and to Geshem the Arabian and to the rest of our enemies, that I had built the wall, and there was left therein no breach,—though <up to that time, the doors> had I not set up in the gates> 2 that Sanballat and Geshem sent unto me, saying, Come! and let us meet together in the villages, in the valley of Ono,—

But ||they|| were plotting 'to do me harm. 3 So I sent unto them messengers, saying, <A great work> am ||I:| doing, and cannot come down,—wherefore 'should the work cease whilst I leave it, and come down unto you?

Yet they sent unto me, according to this message, four times,—and I replied to them according to this answer.

5 Then Sanballat sent unto me, according to this message, a fifth time,—by his young man,—with an open letter, in his hand: 6 wherein was written—

Among the nations> it is reported, and Gashmu saith it, that thou and the Jews are plotting to rebel, <for which cause> thou art building the wall,—and thou art to become their king, according to these words,

Moreover also <prophets> hast thou set up to make proclamation concerning thee in Jerusalem, saying, He hath become king* in Judah! 7 Now therefore, will it be reported to the king, according to these words.

Moreover also <in this work> of the wall> I repaired, and <no field> did we* buy,—though ||all my young men|| were gathered thereto unto the work. And ||Jews and deputies, a hundred and fifty men, and they who were coming in unto us from among the nations which were round about us|| [depended] upon my table. 15 Now ||that which was prepared for a single day} was—one ox, six choice sheep, also five fowls} were prepared for me, and <apportioned unto ten days> of every sort of wine, in abundance,*—yet ||in spite of this}< the bread of the pasha> demanded I not, because heavy was the bondage upon this people.

9 Then said I,* <Not good> is the thing which ye are doing,—ought ye not <in the fear of God> to walk, because of the reproach of the nations, our enemies? 10 Then, my brethren and my youngmen, let us lend unto them on interest silver and corn! I pray you.let us leaveoff this lending on interest! 11 Restore, I pray you. unto them this very day. their fields, their vineyards, their oliveyards, and their houses,—both the hundredth of silver and corn, new wine and oil, for which ye have been lending to them.

And they said. We will restore them, and <from them> will we require nothing, ||so|| will we do, as thou art saying.

Then called I the priests, and put them on oath, to do according to this promise. 12 Also ||my lap|| shook I out, and said—

<Thus and thus> may God shake out every man who shall not confirm this promise, out of his house and out of his labour, yea <thus and thus> let him be shaken out and empty,—

And all the convocation said, Amen!' and praised Yahweh, and the people did according to this promise.

Moreover <from the day I was commanded to become their pasha in the land of Judah>, from the twentieth year, even unto the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes the king, twelve years> ||I and my brethren|| have not eaten; 18 whereas ||the former pashas, who were before me|| suffered themselves to be a burden upon the people, and took from them in bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver, even ||their young men|| bare rule over the people,—but ||I|| did not so, because of the fear of God. 16 Moreover also <in this work> of the wall> I repaired, and <no field> did we* buy,—though ||all my young men|| were gathered thereto unto the work. 17 And ||Jews and deputies, a hundred and fifty men, and they who were coming in unto us from among the nations which were round about us|| [depended] upon my table. 15 Now ||that which was prepared for a single day} was—one ox, six choice sheep, also five fowls} were prepared for me, and <apportioned unto ten days> of every sort of wine, in abundance,*—yet ||in spite of this}< the bread of the pasha> demanded I not, because heavy was the bondage upon this people.

19 Remember unto me, O my God, for good,—all that I have done for this people.

§ 7. Sanballat and other Enemies, seeking a Conference, and hiring a False Prophet, to intimidate Nehemiah, are yet further baffled.

1 And it came to pass <when it was reported> to Sanballat and Tobiah and to Geshem the Arabian and to the rest of our enemies, that I had built the wall, and there was left therein no breach,—though <up to that time, the doors> had I not set up in the gates> 2 that Sanballat and Geshem sent unto me, saying, Come! and let us meet together in the villages, in the valley of Ono,—

But ||they|| were plotting 'to do me harm. 3 So I sent unto them messengers, saying, <A great work> am ||I:| doing, and cannot come down,—wherefore 'should the work cease whilst I leave it, and come down unto you?

Yet they sent unto me, according to this message, four times,—and I replied to them according to this answer.

5 Then Sanballat sent unto me, according to this message, a fifth time,—by his young man,—with an open letter, in his hand: 6 wherein was written—

Moreover also <prophets> hast thou set up to make proclamation concerning thee in Jerusalem, saying, He hath become king* in Judah!

Now therefore, will it be reported to the king, according to these words.

Now||, therefore, come, and let us take counsel together.

8 Then sent I unto him, saying, Nothing hath been done, according to these words, which thou art saying,—but <out of thine own heart> art thou feigning them.

9 For ||they all|| were seeking to put us in fear, saying,

Their hands will slacken from the work, and it will not be accomplished.

||Now||, therefore, strengthen thou my hands! 10

When ||I|| came into the house of Shemaiah,
4*4 NEHEMIAH VI. 11—19; VII. 1—26.

son of Deliah, son of Mehetabel. || he || being shut in> he said.

Let us meet together in the house of God, in the midst of the temple, and let us close the doors of the temple, for they are coming to slay thee, yea <by night> are they coming to slay thee.

Then said I.

Should such a man as I flee? Who then <being such as I> would enter the temple to save his life? I will not enter.

Then perceived I, that lo! it was I who had sent him,— though  he had spoken concerning me, but ||Tobiah and Sanballat|| had hired him: 13 <to this end> a ||hired|| he was, to the end that I might be afraid and do so, and might sin,—and it might serve them for an evil report, to the end they might bring reproach upon me.

Have remembrance, O my God, of Tobiah and of Sanballat, according to these their doings, moreover also of Noadiah the prophetess, and of the rest of the prophets, who would have put me in fear.

So the wall was finished, on the twenty-fifth of Elul,— in fifty-two days. 16 And it came to pass when all our enemies heard, and all the nations that were round about us saw> that they fell greatly in their own eyes, and took knowledge that from God had this work been wrought.

Moreover <in those days> were the nobles of Judah busy with their letters which were going unto Tobiah,— and those of Tobiah were coming unto them; 16 for ||many in Judah|| had taken an oath to him, because he was in marriage affinity with Shecaniah son of Arab,— and ||Jehohanan his son|| had taken the daughter of Meshullam, son of Berechiah. 19 Moreover <his good deeds> were they telling before me, and <my affairs> were they carrying out to him, —<letters> did Tobiah send to put me in fear.

§ 9. Intending to Enrol the People, Nehemiah finds a Register of the First Return.

(Cp. Ezr. ii.)

4 Now the city was broad on both hands, and large, but the people were few in the midst thereof,— and the houses had not been built.

So then my God put it into my heart, and I gathered together the nobles and the deputies and the people, to register their genealogy,— then found I a register roll, of them who came up at the first, and found written therein:—

||These|| are the sons of the province, who came up from among the Captives of the Exile, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did exile,— but they came back to Jerusalem and to Judah, every one to his own city; 7 who came in with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshana, Mispar, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah,— the number of the men of the people of Israel.

§ 8. Nehemiah appoints Governors of the City and Watches for the Gates.

And it came to pass when the wall was built, and I had set up the doors,— and the doorkeepers and the singers and the Levites had been appointed 2 that I gave Hananiah my brother, and Hananiah captain of the castle, charge over Jerusalem, for ||he|| was a truly faithful man, and revered God above many. 3 And I said unto them.

Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until <hot> be the sun, and <while they are standing> by let them close the doors, and make them fast,— setting watches, of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every one in his watch, and every one over against his own house.
NEHEMIAH VII. 27—73.

27 The men of Anathoth a hundred, and twenty-eight; 28 The men of Beth-azmaveth forty-two; 29 The men of Kiriath-jearim, Chephirah and Beeroth seven hundred, and forty-three; 30 The men of Ramah and Geba six hundred, and twenty-one; 31 The men of Michmas a hundred and twenty-two; 32 The men of Bethel and Ai a hundred and twenty-three; 33 The sons of the other Nebo fifty-two; 34 The sons of the other Elam a thousand, two hundred, and fifty-four; 35 The sons of Harim three hundred, and twenty; 36 The sons of Jericho three hundred, and forty-five; 37 The sons of Lod, Hadid, and Ono seven hundred, and twenty-one; 38 The sons of Seraah three thousand, nine hundred, and thirty; 39 The priests; 40 The sons of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, nine hundred, and seventy-three; 41 The sons of Immer a thousand, and fifty-two; 42 The sons of Pashhur a thousand, and seventeen; 43 The Levites; 44 The sons of Jeshua, of Kadmiel, of the sons of Hodevah seventy-four; 45 The singers; 46 The sons of Asaph a hundred, and forty-eight; 47 The doorkeepers; 48 The sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of the high priest’s house, the sons of Shobai a hundred, and thirty-eight; 49 The Nethinim; 50 The sons of Zeri, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbooth; 51 The sons of the other Chalcol, the sons of Dara; 52 The sons of the other Kagan, the sons of Hagioth; 53 The sons of Harshemesh; 54 The sons of Bazlith, the sons of Harsha; 55 The sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah; 56 The sons of Neziah, the sons of Hatiph.

57 The Sons of the Servants of Solomon

The sons of Sotai, the sons of Sophereth, the sons of Perizzi; 58 the sons of Jaala, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel; 59 the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the sons of Ammon. 60 All the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon were three hundred, and ninety-two.

And these are they who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer,—but they could not tell their ancestral house, nor their seed, whether of Israel they were: 61 the sons of Deliah, the sons of Tobiah, the sons of Nekoda, six hundred and forty-two. And [of the priests] the sons of Hobahiah, the sons of Hakkoz, the sons of Barzillai, who had taken of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name. 62 These sought their writing wherein they were registered, but it was not found, —so they were desacrated out of the priesthood; 63 and the governor told them, they must not eat of the most holy things, —until there should stand up a priest, with Lights and Perfections.

64 All the gathered host together was forty-two thousand, three hundred, and sixty; besides their men-servants and maidservants were these, seven thousand, three hundred, and thirty-seven, —and to them pertained, singing-men and singing-women, two hundred, and forty-five; 65 their horses were seven hundred, and thirty-six, —their mules two hundred, and forty-five; 66 camels four hundred, and thirty-five, —ass six thousand, seven hundred, and twenty.

And a portion of the ancestral chiefs gave unto the work, —the governor gave unto the treasury, of gold a thousand darics, of silver bowls fifty, of tunics for priests five hundred, and thirty; besides their men-servants and maidservants were these, seven thousand, three hundred, and thirty-seven, —and some of the ancestral chiefs gave unto the treasury of the work, of gold twenty thousand darics, —and of silver two thousand and two hundred manehs; 67 and that which the rest of the people gave was of gold twenty thousand darics, and of silver two thousand manehs, —and of tunics for priests sixty-seven.

So the priests and the Levites and the doorkeepers and the singers and some of the people, and the Nethinim and all Israel, took up their abode in their cities.

§ 10. In the Seventh Month, at the People's Request, Ezra reads publicly out of the Law; the People weep, but are counselled to rejoice.

And <when the seventh month arrived> the sons of Israel were in their cities.*

8 § Then all the people gathered themselves together, as one man, into the broad way that was before the water-gate,—and they spake unto Ezra the scribe, to bring the book of the law of Moses, which Yahweh had commanded Israel.
